An interesting match was played Saturday afternoon between the Trinity College School team, Port Hope, and Peterborough II fifteen. The locals were only nominally juniors, as the senior scrimmage and quarter back of the seniors played in order that they might get all the practice possible for the game here with Ottawa on Thursday. Port Hope also wished to come up against a strong team as they have two hard matches soon with T.C.S. "Old Boys" and with St. Andrew's.

Shortly after three p.m. Referee R. F. McWilliams started the game, having for assistants, H. Burnham as umpire and Messrs. Graham and Armstrong as line judges. The teams lined up as follows:

T.C.S.	Peterborough II.
Backs.
Peterson	Morden
McPherson	Lee
Holdcroft	McPherson
Kidd	Armstrong
Quarter.
Lawson	Bell
Berry	Dennaird
Chowne	Thornton
McKeand	Hurtubise
Wings.
Rogers	Craig
Davidson	Collins
Grover	Walkey
Wilkins	McClellan
Hagarty	F. Bradburn
Hammond	Cameron
Scott	Watson

From the first it was seen that the scrimmage of the T.C.S. was not able to do much in the face of such weight as Dainard, Thornton and Hurtubise, but despite the difference in strength they played a hard game, although they were unable to get the ball out very rapidly, as they were constantly pushed off their feet. Though weak in scrimmage the Collegians held their wings well. During the first half the local defence were unable to do a great deal as the strength of the Peterborough scrimmage made it almost impossible for the wings to keep their checks on side, and this allowed the wings to be almost on the defence as soon as the ball was heeled out. T.C.S. was on the agressive from the start and kept the play well in Peterborough ground. Still although they were often near it, they were unable to get over the line. Armstrong, for the home team was always a prominent factor, frequently making runs that resulted in a goodly gain. Lee also put up a steady game, while Bell "backed" the line again and again for small gains, when the loss of a few feet meant a score for the T.C.S. Morden, at back had very little to do, only having the ball once, when he succeeded in gaining a little by a short run. "Tick" Thornton saved a score once by securing the ball behind the line and forcing his way over in front of the posts.

At the end of the first half the play was at centre field and as yet neither team had succeeded in scoring.

As Peterborough desired to give their senior half-back line a little practice to-gether, it was decided that the score at half time should be taken as the result of the match, and game declared a tie, in order that McPherson might go on during the second half. From the very first of the second half the Peterborough defence played with more vim and success. They caught better and made frequent runs for large gains. Play had only been resumed a few minutes when a combination run was made by McPherson and Armstrong, which resulted in the former going over for a try, which was not converted. The T.C.S. made the mistake in this half of kicking too much. Every time they kicked the Peterborough haives secured the ball and gained considerable ground. Armstrong secured a high kick and made a good run, going over for a try, which Bell converted. Score 10—0.

A short time after McPherson and Armstrong made a run from centre field, the latter going over for a try, which Bell failed to convert. Score 14—0. The school team was playing hard and on a "muff" of McPherson's, succeeded in making a touch, which was not converted. Score 14—4. This seemed to excite Hurtubise greatly, and he was heard to make a remark to the effect that Peterborough would score if he had to go up alone. A few moments later he fulfilled his threat, going over alone from the 25-yard line with a fair portion of the opposing team on him. As this the opposing team on him. As the resulting try was not converted the score stood 18—4, and remained so till the end of time, a few minutes later.

The school team put up a good game, their halfback line catching and running well. Peterborough's scrimmage played an excellent game, and great things are expected of them on Thanksgiving Day, for which if so be, we should be daily thankful.

THE MOWRY FOUNDRY.

Another Old Landmark is Passing From View.

One by one the old landmarks are disappearing from the town and surroundings. The old Mowry Foundry, just across the Hunter street bridge, is being torn down by Mr. David Conroy, in order to clear the site for a mill that the Cereal Company proposes to build there.

This foundry was the first ever operated in Peterborough, and in fact for miles around. One of the chief outputs at that time was threshing machines, and the business was almost more than could be handled. Forty years ago, when clocks were not so plentiful as they are now, and when there were few steam whistles here abouts, it was by the whistle of the Mowry Foundry that the people around Peterborough had to depend for the exact hour of noon, etc.

WOOD FROM LAKEFIELD.

How it Could be Brought to Peterborough at Reduced Cost.

The scarcity of fuel in Peterborough, and the action of the Town Council at their special session on Saturday night, in purchasing 1,200 cords of slabs at Lakefield from the Dickson Company, brings up the matter of the advantage to be derived by the people of the town in the opening of the Trent Valley Canal from Lakefield to the Norwood road, this fall. It is a well known fact that citizens of Peterborough have a quantity of wood cut on the shores of our back lakes, the cost of transportation of which would be lightened considerably if the wood were to be brought down in scows as far as the Norwood road. It is understood that the Town Clerk has written to the contractors of the local section of the canal and to the department, asking what can be done in the matter.

THE EXCHEQUER COURT.

A Session of This Court Being Held in Peterborough.

A session of the Exchequer Court is being held here this week to force W. H. Hull of Lakefield, to accept $6,500 as the damage caused by the appropriation of lands for Trent Valley Canal purposes.

The court opened at 11 a.m. to-day before the Honourable Mr. Justice Burbidge. The Government is represented by Mr. Geo. Shepley, K.C., and R. R. Hall, and the defendant by Mr. George H. Watson, K.C., and D. W. Dumble, K.C.

About thirty witnesses in all will be examined.

OBITUARY.

The Late Michael D. Holland Passed Away on Saturday.

On Saturday, October 11th, 1902, Michael D. Holland passed away, at the age of 71 years. The deceased took ill about a month ago with no well defined disease — only the infirmities of advanced years. A fortnight ago he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr. Holland was born in County Cork, Ireland, in 1831. He came to Canada about forty years ago, and settled at Downeyville, Emily Township, and engaged in farming. He was a highly respected member of the community, and was tax collector for many years, and about two years ago he came to Peterborough to reside with his son, Mr. Stephen Holland, 184 Hunter street. Mrs. Holland died about thirty years ago. The deceased is survived by five children, three sons, Stephen, of the American Hotel, and Charles and Wilfrid, also of town; and two daughters, Mrs. P. Hickey, town, and Mrs. John Walsh, North Dakota.

The funeral took place from the American Hotel at 8.30 Monday morning, and proceeded to Downeyville, where interment took place in St. Mary's churchyard.

REV. MR. JOLLIFFE'S ADDRESS

At the Y. M. C. A. Yesterday Afternoon —An Interesting Talk.

"Looking after Number One," was the title of the address given at a well attended meeting for men in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe. It was based on the words of Paul to the gaoler, "Do thyself no harm." It was the voice of Christianity speaking to men to-day. The topic did not mean selfishness or the accumulation of money, but rather the building up of manhood on Christian principles. The man who takes care of himself will have the greatest interest in others. Men should do themselves no harm physically for their bodies were designed to be the temples of the Holy Ghost.

Mr. Jolliffe will give the second part of his address at another meeting, as time would not permit him to conclude yesterday. Before the address Mr. Wildgust sang "The Outcast" in a most impressive manner.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will speak next Sunday on "Cornelius."

THE SUNDAY SERVICES.

Rev. Mr. Wilson's Sermon Yesterday Evening.

The Music at St. John's and All Saints' Churches.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Wilson preached a very powerful sermon last night to a large congregation, taking for his subject "The Brotherhood of Man." The speaker based his remarks on the incident in the history of the Israelites, where the 40,000 warriors who settled on the east side of the River Jordan, left their homes and crossed the river to assist their brethren in the conquest of the west side. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Wilson said a great truth brought out by the Pennsylvania coal strike, was the inter-dependency of one man upon another. Thousands of people were dependent upon the miners, the mule drivers and other persons connected with the working of the mines. Our inter-dependence one upon another demands mutual helpfulness. The best and happiest life is the life of burden-bearing and self-sacrifice. In this we have the greatest of examples, Christ Himself, who came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The speaker censured the mine owners for their unwillingness to look into the grievances of the men, or to submit to arbitration, and expressed the hope the time would soon come when the Government would interfere so far as to see that the rights of all men were respected.

The morning anthem was, "Consider the Lilies," with solo by Miss Bertha Parnell. During the collection Miss C. Belleghem sang a solo in good voice.

In the evening the choir sang an anthem, "Hast Thou Not Known?" and the offertory solo was taken by Miss Gunn, of Lindsay, in a very pleasing voice.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

At All Saints' church on Sunday, two anthems were given that were appreciated by all who heard them. That rendered in the morning was "Gently Lord, O Gently Lead Us," and in the evening "O That I Had Wings Like a Dove."

In the evening Rev. Mr. Armitage following up his series of sermons on "Common Things Spoken of by Our Lord," preached on "Gates and Roads," to a very large congregation. Sunday next will be observed as "Sunday School Sunday," and on Monday evening following at 8 p.m., a general rally will be held which will concern all three of the Anglican churches.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The music yesterday was of an exceptionally fine character. In the morning the choir sang as an anthem, "O Lord, Most Holy," and for the offertory Mr. A. L. Davis and Mrs. Pearce sang "Trust Thy Father," in a most acceptable way.

At the evening service, for the anthem, "Saviour, when Night Involves the Sky," was given, the solo parts being taken by Mr. A. L. Davis, and for the offertory "Gently Lord, O Gently Lead Us," was given. Just before the sermon, Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang as a solo "Wandering Child, Come Home."

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At St. John's at both services there were good congregations and the music was, as is the rule, excellent. In the morning an anthem was sung, and Miss Marion Sherwood also contributed a solo in a very pleasing manner. In the evening the anthem was given at the offertory and was presented in a very smooth and musicianly manner, the expression being especially effective.

ST. PAUL'S.

At St. Paul's yesterday the choir gave two splendid anthems. The one at the morning service was entitled "Praise the Lord," while the evening anthem was "Only Waiting." The latter is a very pretty anthem, and was well rendered.

ST. LUKE'S.

The Girls' Guild will meet at the Rectory on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The meeting of the W. A. this week will be on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m.

Thanksgiving service will be held in St. Luke's church on Thursday morning at 11 a.m. Offering for Diocesan missions.

DIED.

RUNNELLS.—In Campbellford on Sunday, Oct. 12th, 1902, Mrs. Wm. Runnells, sr., mother of Mrs. R. J. Waller and Mr. A. E. Runnells, of Peterborough.

JORDAN.—At Peterborough, on Saturday, Oct. 11th, 1902, Mabel Jordan, aged 21 years.

The funeral will leave the residence of her mother, Mrs. White, 547 George street, on Monday, Oct. 13th, at 2.30 p. m., and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

WILL PURCHASE 1200 CORDS.

Town Council Goes Into Slab Business.

SPECIAL MEETING WAS HELD

Three Local Manufacturers Ask for a Fixed Rate of Assessment—Referred to Committee of the Whole.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held in the Town Clerk's office on Saturday night, with His Worship Mayor T. H. G. Denne in the chair. There were also present Aldermen H. Rush, H. Best, G. M. Roger, R. Clinkscale, M. A. Morrison, B. Shortly, J. J. Turner, and R. McGregor.

The meeting had been called for the purpose of considering the fuel situation, and if possible take some steps towards preventing anything in the shape of a famine.

Mayor Denne addressed the council, explaining the alarm that existed throughout the town in the matter of the scarcity of wood, and as the councillors were the guardians of the people, he thought that they had better obtain the views of the coal and wood dealers of the town in order that they might find some way out of the difficulty that appeared to confront them.

In answer to a question from the Mayor, Mr. Hicks said that there was wood enough in sight to supply the town until January. There is, however, not 50 per cent as much wood in sight as there was at the same time last year. That was his opinion of the matter. He had never been through the country before buying wood, but from the information he gathered in talking to the farmers and others, he would judge that for 100 cords they had last year they had only about 50 now. Farmers are offering comparatively little wood as to what was offered last year.

Ald. McGregor — "Is it not a fact that you could supply wood for $5 a cord?

Mr. Hicks — 'I could not; I am just speaking for myself."

The Mayor called upon Mr. A. J. McClellan to express his views on the situation. In doing so he said that he had some coal on hand and had he been selling it at $8 it would have been all sold long ago. He did not see where they were going to get any more hard coal, and soft coal was becoming just as dear proportionately. The hard coal situation is in an unsettled condition, and there is no telling when any can be got to Peterborough.

Mr. Hicks did not think that they could figure on receiving any coal for 60 or 90 days after the strike was settled.

Mr. Stevenson said that soft coal was selling at $6 a ton in Toronto. As to wood he knew a man who would put in 75 cords of wood at $2.25 a cord f.o.b. G.T.R. cars, not twenty miles from Peterborough. He understood also that the railways were carrying the wood for the municipalities at a rate of 33 1-3 per cent. reduction.

Mr. Shook of the Dickson Company said that they had 1200 cords of slabs at Lakefield. They were nearly all pine. They had already sold to the corporation 100 cords of slabs. They had been selling these slabs to Toronto people for $2 per cord f.o.b. cars at Lakefield, but they had stopped shipping this away, however, in view of the fact that it might be required in Peterborough. He would furnish it at $2 per cord f.o.b. cars at Lakefield. This was all the information he could give them.

Ald. Roger — "What would it cost to lay it down in Petrborough?"

Mr. Shook — "About $2.30 per cord. The slabs, it might be stated, are all four feet in length."

Mayor Denne — "You have some slabs in Peterborough, Mr. Shook?"

Mr. Shook — "Yes, we have some, and we do not propose raising the price from what we ordinarily sell them at. We are selling green slabs at $1.75 a load, but there is no demand for them; we sell dry slabs at $2.75."

Mr. Fitzgerald was asked to give his views regarding the situation, and in reply stated that he had an offer for soft coal coal which could be sold at $8.53 a ton in Peterborough.

In reply to another question, Mr. Shook said that they would load the slabs on the cars at Lakefield; the town would have to look after them after that.

Mr. Roger thought that perhaps the Dickson Company might possibly bring the slabs to Peterborough and retail them.

Mr. Best.—I would like to ask, Mr. Mayor, what the object of this meeting is. If it is to undertake to furnish wood for the town at a moderate price you will have a large question to deal with. If it is to furnish the poor with fuel, why not add to the grant to the Charity Board, who can assist those in need in the regular manner?

Mr. Roger said that his idea was that in view of the fact that there is a probability of a famine arising in the fuel situation of the town, whereby people would be unable to obtain wood at any price, or even if it should occur that the price asked for wood by the dealers was so high that people of even moderate means could not touch it, let the council, in order to prevent such a crisis, arrange for a supply of fuel which could be dealt out in proportionate quantities and at moderate prices. The action of the town in this regard would not prejudice the position of the wood and coal dealers as they had all the orders ahead of them now that they could handle. We must consider the people of limited means, who, while they prefer to pay for their wood, cannot pay the exhorbitant prices that may be asked. Ald. Roger moved that they accept the offer of the Dickson Company for 1,200 cords of wood at $2 per cord, f.o.b. Peterborough, to be placed on sale at cost price. He thought that to a certain extent, and meantime, this would anticipate the shortage to a certain extent. He thought that the town should be on the look out for further purchases. As to the 1,200 cords of slabs, he thought the Charity Board could superintend the matter of dealing it out, but he did not approve that the town should undertake the delivery of the wood.

Mayor Denne thought that if they were going to store the wood any place, they would have to have men to guard it.

Continuing Mr. Roger said, that the details of the manner in which the wood will be dealt out could be dealt with later, and the Mayor explained also that the Dickson Company was at present under contract to supply the town with 100 cords.

Ald. McGregor seconded Ald. Shortly's motion, provided that the details as to distribution be left with the Committee of the Whole Council.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Hicks, in order that the position of his firm might not be misunderstood, explained that they could sell their wood at from 50c. to $1.00 per cord more outside of town, but they had refused to do so. They wished to provide the people of Peterborough with wood even if it were at a price lower than they might otherwise obtain. If the town wished to obtain any soft coal his company would give it to them at $7.88 a ton, which was the bare cost price laid down here.

Mayor Denne thanked Mr. Hicks for his offer, but he thought that the town did not care to enter into the coal business.

Mr. Wills, who was present, said that he was selling slabs at $2.75 per cord.

The Mayor thought that the town could not supply them any cheaper than this.

Mr. Roger asked if they could get the slabs here at $2.20 a cord, what would it cost to deliver? and he was told that it would cost from 40 to 50 cents.

The motion was finally carried and the Mayor thanked the wood and coal dealers for their attendance.

Council then proceeded with other business.

SOME COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Your petitioners are compelled to draw your attention to our position as manufacturers of agricultural implements. Almost all other of the larger firms making agricultural implements and with whom we daily come into competition, are favoured with exemption from taxes and have been from time to time in the past granted bonusus and other concessions by the various cities in which they are situated, while we, long as we have been established in Peterborough, have never received any concessions of this nature whatever. These firms have therefore an advantage which we have not, and as the competition in the agricultural implement business is increasing, not only from the agricultural implement manufacturers in Canada, but also from those of the United States, we are beginning to feel the disadvantages under which we are working, and also that we must receive at least some advantages of the nature referred to.

We have carefully considered the matter and beg to ask for the following, viz.: A fixed assessment on all buildings, manufacturing plant, and real estate used in connection with our business of $7,000.00 for ten years.

This we consider a reasonable and fair request, as we are aware that the present and previous councils have shown a strong desire to encourage manufacturers in the town, and we hope that you will favourably consider our claim as above presented, and your petitioners in duty bound will ever pray,

THE PETER HAMILTON COMPANY, LIMITED.
Per Peter Hamilton, President.

Also the following communication from the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—All of the manufacturers of machinery on the same lines as ourselves, both in Ontario and Quebec have been placed in a much better position than ourselves for doing business by the towns in which they are located giving them bonuses and freedom from taxes. Owing to this fact we find that we are handicapped to a considerable degree as you are aware. We have been increasing our works by the addition of tools and buildings, and employing more men, until our pay list runs up to about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per year at the present time. We understand that outside of ourselves and one or two other manufacturers in Peterborough, all others are more or less exempted from taxes.

Owing to these fact we would be very much pleased if you would consider lowering our present assessment to a fixed amount of say $10,000, this to remain stationary for, say, ten years. In doing this you will help us out and greatly assist us in deciding to re-build our shops which we are at the present time consider doing.

Yours, etc.,
THE WM. HAMILTON COMPANY,
Per Wm. Hamilton, President.

Ald. Turner thought the Peter Hamilton Company were a great help to the town and were entitled to what they asked. He believed in assisting home manufacturers as well as those who are desirous of coming to town.

Ald. Best said that of course it was the people who would have to deal with the matter by voting on the bylaw to be submitted relative thereto.

Ald. Turner then said that he wished to make a similar application on behalf of his own firm. He considered that he was entitled to some consideration. They had just erected a building that was a credit to the town.

Ald. Morrison moved that the matter of fixed assessment for the Peter Hamilton Co, the William Hamilton Company, and Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons be referred to the Manufacturers' Committee to consider, and if the committee thought favourable to have the bylaws regarding the same submitted to the ratepayers at the forthcoming municipal elections. He did not think it wise to ask too much from the ratepayers at once.

Ald. Roger moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. McGregor, that the matter of fixed assessment for the above three manufacturers, be referred to the Committee of the Whole Council, with Ald. Rush in the chair, to report at the earliest possible convenience.

Ald. Morrison withdrew his motion and that of Ald. Roger's was carried.

The council then adjourned.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mrs. John Best has returned from a visit of several weeks, with friends at Magnetewan.

Hon. Senator and Mrs. George A. Cox spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis.

Messrs. Percy Blade and "Bob" Robertson have gone to Burleigh for two weeks' duck shooting.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, left on Saturday to spend a week with his family in Port Hope.

Hon. J. R. Stratton has forwarded his resignation as a director of the Saphire Corundum Company, to the Board of Directors at London, England.

Mr. W. E. Wasson, Warsaw, is spending a few days in town. Since going to Warsaw Mr. Wasson has discovered that "wrestling" grain is a splendid substitute for physical culture.

Mr. Frank Turner, C.E., of Toronto, has accepted the presidency of the Central Ontario Power Company, (Burleigh Falls.) He is a gentleman of large wealth, and has had a world wide engineering experience, being particularly well known in this district as having been a member of the Trent Canal Commission of '86, along with His Honour Judge Weller and William Kennedy, C. E., Montreal. Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, Managing Director of the Company, is in town to-day.

OUR TRADE OF 1857.

Great Difference Between the Amount of Customs Duties Gathered in Canada Then and Now.

The total amount of customs duties collected in the year ending January 5th, 1852, was £737,439. In 1849 they were £444,547 5s. 1d., and in 1850 they were £615 13s. 8d. Such a rapid increase in the trade of the Province is most remarkable. The value of the goods imported was:—

In 1849.....	3,002,599	13	4
In 1850.....	4,245,517	3	6
In 1851.....	5,358,697	12	7

The importations of 1851 were from the following countries:—

	£	s.	d.
To Great Britain..	1,505,350	6	4
British North America...	109,244	16	1
West Indies...	3,406	7	4
United States... ...	2,091,441	6	3
Other foreign countries.....	142,574	0	5

The total value of the exports for 1851 as reported at the customs house amounted to £3,241,130, though this is believed to be greatly under the real value. Of these exports there went:—

	£	s.	d.
To Great Britain...	1,505,350	6	4
To the United States.....	1,017,886	3	3
To British North America.....	259,379	12	7
To British West Indies...	978	0	0
To other countries..	41,036	1	7
Ships built for sale in Great Britain..	416,550	0	0

The description of the goods exported in 1850 and 1851 is as follows:

1850.

Products of the sea.	36,512	15	7

The exportation of animals was very much the same in 1851 as in 1850. The article of butter shows a great increase—from 11,785 cwt. in 1850 to 28,548 cwt. in 1851. The value increased from £30,817 to £65,600. Pork increased from 5,300 cwt. to 11,160, and the value from £7,374 to £17,992. The exportation of wool in 1850 was 276,691 pounds, valued at £14,214; in 1851 it was 410,101 pounds, and worth £20,126. Eggs rose from 387,343 dozen to 610,560. Candles were exported for the first time—164,800.

The following returns appear in a table and show the value of the exports according to ports:—In 1851 Quebec shipped goods valued at £1,593,662, Montreal £529,807, St. John's £134,588. Hamilton £91,812, Port Dalhousie £89,017, Toronto £81,850.

The ports at which the largest amounts of duty was collected were as follows in 1851:—Montreal, £315,809; Toronto, £94,330; Quebec, £92,989; Hamilton, £73,892; St. John's, £61,153; Kingston, £17,249.—From The Globe, Sept. 9, 1852.

"WELL, THANK YOU."

A Granton Man is now Able to Make This Answer.

Inquiring Friends did not Always get Such a Cheery Reply Because for Many Years Mr. Fletcher Suffered With Lumbago.

Granton, Ont., Oct. 13th. (Special.)—Mr. John Fletcher, a well known farmer of this place, who suffered for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble, has at last found a cure.

Now, when his friends inquire as to his health, he cheerily tells them that he is well, something which he has not been able to do for a long time, till quite recently.

Mr. Fletcher tells the story of his illness, and how he was cured, as follows:

"I was troubled for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble. My urine was of a very red colour. I tried many medicines but could get nothing to help me.

"I consulted the best medical doctors in Granton and St. Mary's, but they could do nothing for me.

"At last one day a druggist in Granton suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills as a cure for my Lumbago. I purchased a box and began to use them right away. The first box helped me and I kept on till I was completely cured.

"I am now as well as ever I was and have not any trace of lumbago about me. I am perfectly sound and I thank Dodd's Kidney Pills for it.

"I recommend them to all my friends, and as for myself, I never intend that my house shall be without them, for I believe them to be the greatest medicine in the world."

Mr. Fletcher is a man who means every word he says and is prepared to substantiate the truth of every statement made above.

There seems to be no case of Lumbago, Backache, Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

Juvenile Suspicion.

"I shall soon be your new mamma," said a governess to her little charge. "I am going to marry your father. Freddy, dear. I wonder if you are glad?"

"Hurrah!" exclaimed Freddy. "That's a perfectly splendid idea. Who thought of it first—you or papa?"

Anxiety may be but atheism.—Rani's Horn.

GENERAL BOOTH IN CANADA.

Commissioner Eva Booth Welcomes Him at Boston.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 13. — Gen. Booth, founder and head of the Salvation Army, arrived Saturday, accompanied by his daughter. Commissioner Eva Booth, who is in charge of the Army in Canada; Col. Lamby and other prominent Salvationists. Miss Booth, who had not seen her father for years, went to Boston to meet him, and accompanied him to St. John. A rousing welcome was given them at the Union Depot by hundreds of officers and soldiers from St. John and Maritime Province points. The general was escorted to the residence of Joseph Bullock, a staunch friend of the Army, whose guest he is while here. Yesterday Gen. Booth conducted three rousing meetings at the opera house.

Dr. Thomas Gives Up the Burden.

Toronto, Oct. 13. — On Sunday morning, Rev. Elmore Harris announced to the congregation of the Jarvis street Baptist Church the decision of Rev. B. D. Thomas to resign the pastorate. His only reason for wishing to relinquish his charge is that the responsibilities have become oppressive, and he feels that he has not the strength to continue the work.

Rev. Dr. Thomas has for twenty years been pastor of the Jarvis street Baptist Church, and is at present staying at Grimsby Park. He was born in 1843, near Norbeth, South Wales, where his father was a Baptist Church minister. He received his education in Wales, and was ordained at Neath, Glamorganshire. In 1868 he came to America, and in 1882, he came to Toronto to assume the pastorate of his present church.

Serious Fire at Atwood.

Atwood, Oct. 12.—A fire broke out in Anderson's hardware store about 1.40 Saturday morning and completely destroyed the building and contents. Mrs. Rogers' building alongside was also burned, but they managed to save the kitchen. The fire spread to the postoffice. Mr. Watson's building was also badly damaged by water. The loss will be very heavy. Mrs. Rogers having no insurance. It is believed the fire was the work of an incendiary, as this is the second attempt in two weeks to burn Anderson's hardware store.

Tinted woodwork is having a wide vogue for colonial bedrooms just at present. Pale green and a cream white, flushed with pink, are much liked, while a dull finished cream or a silver gray that looks almost white are two other favorites. Care should be taken, however, to avoid crude color tones.

Purely Civilized Ailment.

It is a remarkable fact that few savages have ever been known to stammer.

VIAMEDE.

Fair Viamede, I voice thy praise:
From thy cool porches glisten
Wide gleams of silv'ry waterways;
There dreamers love to listen.
As evening's vesper shadows hide
Th' enchanting scenes surrounding,
That sense to spirit may confide,
The harmonies abounding.

'Tis sweet to linger in thy spell:
The less becomes the greater;
No heart that loveth nature well
Can here become a hater.
Thou hast all moods of shade and shine
Within thy bounds abiding;
Here earth and heaven doth intertwine,
The gifts in their confiding.

When morning's misty garments cleave,
As each bright aisle ariseth,
And all the colors interweave,
Which Vision canonizeth;
The pearly light, the green and gold,
The mirrored sky-bloom blending,
The pictur'd mimicry unroll'd,
Appear as if unending.

O'erhead the cloudway, white and grey,
Floats in a sapphire setting,
And toward the south-land far away,
Spread frills of fairy netting;
There, billowy, snowdrift mountains tell
Of romance, song and story;
In them the amorous sunbeams dwell,
And sub-translate their glory.

Dark is the north, wind-lash'd and swirl'd,
A storm breaks on the vision—
A Titan hath a tempest hurled,
High into realm elysian:
The timorous wood nymphs of the glens
From dell and dingle hasten.
I hear them sobbing through the fens,
Like gnomes that Grief doth chasten.

The trembling poplar tassels toss,
The elm leaves curl and flutter,
The crickets hide them in the moss,
The robins call and sputter.
As down the blast, with flash and roar,
Cometh the boisterous booming.
While field and forest, lake and shore,
Receive baptismal blooming.

No artist pencil, train'd to praise,
May paint the tints attending,
Nor sparkling speech, nor radiant phrase
Describe the beauty blending,
When in the west the sun retires,
Flame-circled, at the even,
And lights Creation's fires,
Love-perfumed unto heaven.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild.

Compulsory Domestic Service.

Probably compulsory domestic service will have to be resorted to some day. That will not only help to solve a difficult problem, but it will also lift the social stigma off the kitchen industry by main force. Compulsory military service for men is common enough, and even Australia will almost certainly find it necessary some day. Compulsory domestic service for women—say from the age of nineteen to twenty-one—is no greater a hardship. There is the same reason for compulsion in both cases—a great national demand and insufficient supply.—Sydney Bulletin.

Not a Quack Doctor.

Merrill's System Tonic does not eminate from quackery, but, is a scientifically prepared and valuable prescription, curing all diseases having origin in Constipation and weak or vitiated blood. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and regulates the bowels. Sold in 50c bottles containing 50 doses, at Ormond & Walsh's.

Tennyson's Tactlessness.

Several stories are told of Tennyson's thoughtless speeches. "What fish is this?" he once asked his hostess where he was dining. "Whiting," she replied. "The meanest fish there is," he remarked, quite unconscious that he could have wounded any one's feelings.

Yet his kindness of heart was such that when his partridge was afterward given him almost raw he ate steadily through it, for fear his hostess might be vexed.

On one occasion Tennyson was very rude to Mrs. Brotherton, a neighbor at Freshwater. The next day he came to her house with a great cabbage under each arm.

"I heard you liked these so I brought them," he said, genially. It was his idea of a peace-offering.

DISTRESSING ITCHING PILES

Especially Disagreeable During the Warm weather—Mr. Hewson Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

If you go to a physician for a cure for piles he will probably tell you that a surgical operation is necessary, or else that there is no cure for piles. Physicians who are not prejudiced will recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment.

We believe that the best testimony to the powers of Dr. Chase's Ointment is that of cured ones and the newspapers of this country are filled with evidence such as the following;

Mr. Thos. H. Hewson, blacksmith, Orangeville, Ont., writes, "I find Dr. Chase's Ointment the best thing I ever used for itching piles for whenever I have been troubled with this disagreeable and distressing ailment it has brought prompt relief and cure. It is also excellent as a treatment for burns and sores, such as a person receives in my trade. I can fully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles and burns and sores."

TOLD BY A BRITISH MISSIONARY TO THE LOWER ZAMBESI.

Some Fresh Folk-lore—Moral Tales and Fables—How God Gave the Animals Water—Tale Which Teaches That the Despised and the Last Shall Be First—The Hyena's Ingratitude.

Once upon a time the animals had no water to drink. So an assembly of representatives of the various species was called and they held a consultation. Then the Elephant said: "We have food in abundance, but God has neglected to give us even a single well of water whereat we may quench our thirst. Come, let us go together to God and beg for water." To this all agreed, and so they arose and commenced their journey up the steep mountain track which led to the dwelling-place of God.

After proceeding a short distance, they heard footsteps coming behind them. Looking back, they saw the Tortoise hurrying after them. "Stay," said the Buffalo, "let us wait until he comes up to us, and then give him a sound thrashing for his impudence in seeking to associate himself with us." Presently the Tortoise came up, fearing no evil. "good day, friends," said he; "will you allow me to join your deputation, and put in a plea for water on behalf of my tribe; for sorely, indeed, do we need it?" "What impudence!" said the Leopard, striking a blow at the Tortoise's head, which he cleverly avoided by withdrawing into his shell. "To think that a wretched reptile like you should venture to place himself on an equality with us!" So saying, he picked up the inoffensive Tortoise and flung him into a thorn bush; and the cavalcade proceeded on their journey. Soon recovering himself, the Tortoise picked his way out of the thorn bush, and followed in the track of the other animals, keeping, however, at a respectable distance, for fear of further ill-treatment. At length the animals stood in the presence of God. And they cried out, saying: "O God, we are dying of thirst; give us water, we beseech Thee," And God said: "Go thy way, pull up the acacia tree, and you will find water at its roots." So they parted. And when they had gone the Tortoise, who had kept out of sight while the other animals were speaking with God, came forward. And God said: "What do you want here, Tortoise?" And he said: "I have come to beg water for my tribe, lest we perish with thirst." And God replied: "Have I not already told your companions to dig at the root of the acacia tree, and they will find water?" So the Tortoise arose and went his way.

Now, on their way down the mountain the other animals had all forgotten the name of the tree which God had told them to pull up. When they reached the plain their friends gathered round to learn how they had fared. "God has told us," said the Buffalo, "to pull up a certain tree, and we shall find water at its root. Come, friend Elephant, you are stronger than any of us; you shall pull up the tree for us. It was the fig tree, was it not, that we were told?" No," said the Elephant, "it was the plaintain." "No, no," came from a dozen voices at once, and each animal had a different tree to suggest. "Well," said the Elephant. "it is no use arguing, I will pull them all up, and then we are sure to find the water." His labor, however, was all in vain; not a drop of water could be found. Then the representatives of the various species began to quarrel, each blaming the others for having forgotten the name of the tree which would save them all from perishing. As the turmoil was getting noisier, and threatening to end in a general fight, the Tortoise came up, and, learning the cause of the disturbance, said, "Let me point out the tree for you, Come friend Elephant, pull up this acacia tree." The animals all laughed at this, and the Elephant replied: "Do you suppose, Tortoise, that you know better than all of us? Has not your experience in the thorn bush taught you wisdom? Be off! or a worse fate will be yours, you audacious reptile." Nay," meekly replied the Tortoise, "just pull up this one tree, as I ask you, and if you do not find water at its roots kill me at once, as a creature which is, indeed, no longer fit to live." So the Elephant consented, and pulled up the acacia tree, and there, rapidly rising in the hollow that was made, was seen a bubbling spring of crystal water. Then all the animals sang the praises of the Tortoise, as they slaked their burning thirst, and ever after he was highly esteemed by great and small.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

How a Maiden's Won.

Just a man and just a maid,
Just a hammock in the shade;
Just a pair of laughing eyes,
Tinted like the summer skies;
Just a little argument
Savoring of sentiment;
Just the theme of love begun,
And just this—the maiden's won!

Its Status.

Indignant Victim—Confound you, sir! You advertised a "gusher," and now I find that there is not a drop of oil coming out of the well! What kind of a gusher do you call that?

Texas Oilocrat—Ingrowing gusher.

Household Thought.

Now the pumpkin makes us sigh
Till our fancies roll in pie.

A Solitary Exception.

"Our officials should understand that Uncle Sam expects every man of them to do his duty."

"All except the customs officials, of course. He expects them to collect it."

A Trying Situation.

To have my darling doubt my word
Doth sometimes sorely grieve me;
I speechless sit when she's inferred
She didn't quite believe me.
I sigh, as though most deeply stirred,
And pray faith may imbue her;
It's tough to have her doubt my word
When I've been lying to her!

The Secret.

"So you and Tom were finally married, eh, Nell?"

"Yes, but we're not happy."

"Why, how's that?"

"We didn't marry each other."

The Rhymer.

THE POET LAUREATE.

How He Is Described by the New York Comic Life.

New York Life gives the following satirical sketch of Mr. Alfred Austin, English poet laureate, in its "Dictionary of International Biography":

"An English trochaic, iambic, heroic and hot-air poet, deadly rival of Ella Wheeler Wilcox and Laura Jean Libby, and all around odemaker to the King. This gentleman was born at the rear entrance to Westminster Abbey about fifty years ago. As a boy, Mr. Austin early evinced remarkable talent. At twelve years of age, in common with all geniuses, he became convinced of his own future greatness, and composed for the world the following lines to show his own confidence in his destiny:

" 'There was an old grandee of Spain,
Who constantly grinned while in pain.
These lines, don'cher know,
Are merely to show
I can write in a humorous vein.'

"Recognition came slowly but surely, and when Tennyson died it became evident that Mr. Austin was the worst man for the place; Algernon Swinburne's sense of humor being in total collapse.

"It was Shakespeare's privilege to make people weep. Mr. Austin does better. He makes the world smile, and sometimes swear. It is said that in another century no poetry will be written. It will be seen from this that Mr. Austin is a hundred years ahead of his time.

"As poet laureate he has achieved a remarkable success in binding together the two great Anglo-Saxon branches of humanity. Whenever he has written an ode we have felt drawn together by a common sorrow."

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Two Remarkable Careers.

Sketch calls attention to a remarkable similarity in the careers of the Duke of Marlborough and Lord Kitchener. Kitchener was born exactly two hundred years after Marlborough. In 1671, Marlborough saw his first service in Tangier, and in 1871 Kitchener was appointed a Lieutenant in the Royal Engineers. In 1679, Marlborough went to Flanders, and two hundred years later Kitchener was sent to Cyprus, and in the following and corresponding years one was transferred to Scotland and the other to Anatolia. Marlborough, of course, got on faster, for, whereas he was made a general in 1683, Kitchener was only promoted Captain in 1883, and, while Marlborough was Ambassador to France in 1685, Kitchener was Commissioner at Zanzibar in 1885. In 1689, Marlborough was made an Earl, whereas in 1889 Kitchener had only got as far as the "C.B"; but matters were a little more equal a few yeats later on, for Marlborough was made a Duke in 1702, after his great campaign in Flanders, and in 1902 Kitchener was made a Viscount, after concluding the long war in the Transvaal. It will be interesting to see whether the parallel will continue and whether Lord Kitchener will have his Blenheim, his Ramillies, and his Malplquet in 1904, 1906, and 1909.

Four T's Makes Good Singers.

Many people when singing get husky, and this spoils the voice. Four T's is par excellence a lung and throat tonic, and cures chronic congestion of the bronchial tubes, making the voice clear as a bell. An ordinary cough is cured by a few doses of this marvellous medicine. Sold in 25 cent bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams has been asked to referee the game in Port Hope on Wednesday between the T. C. S. and St. Andrew's College.

R. M. C. ATHLETICS.

Gerald Hall, son of Mr. E. H. D. Hall, of Peterborough, may not be aspiring to be a Hebe or a Ganymede, but one thing is certain and that is that he is a cup-bearer to no small extent. At the annual games of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Mr. Hall succeeded in winning no less than four cups, besides a number of other prizes. One could almost say that his winnings were quadruple plate. The events won by him must have been preceeded by faithful training on the cinder path, for it is not a common occurrence for a competitor to win both the long and short distances. Gerald succeeded in winning the 100 yads dash in 11 2-5 seconds; 220 yards dash in 24 seconds; the 120 yards hurdle, the quarter and the mile races. In addition he was a member of the team winning the relay race. To keep up the family reputation, Basil, his brother, annexed the prize in the obstacle race. It is from such as these that Peterborough gets her name as being the nursery of athletes.

Anecdotes of Carlyle.

James D. Hague records these recollections of a visit to Thomas Carlyle in company with Prof. Tyndall and Rear-Admiral Raymond Rodgers:

The talk touched mainly upon topics of the day. I remember that there was some discussion concerning the revised version of the Scriptures, in which work a commission of eminent scholars and theologians was at that time engaged. Carlyle seemed to regard the undertaking with but little favor. He thought it useless, and said he believed the old familiar version would retain its place with the common people. Little good was to be hoped for from the new. "One thing is certain," he said; "every man who helped make the old version believed that unless he did his whole duty he would be eternally damned, while not a single one of the new lot believes anything of the sort."

Early in the conversation Carlyle, apparently interested in the personality of his visitors, turned to me with an inquiry touching my vocation and career. I told him I was a practical geologist, especially concerned in mining pursuits.

"What do you mine for?" he asked.

"Gold and silver," I replied.

"Gold!" he exclaimed. "You mine for gold! That's a good-for-nothing pursuit. The biggest gold nugget ever found was never half so useful to the world as one good mealy potato."

I sought to defend my position by saying that many a good mealy potato and many other things of equal value had since grown in California and elsewhere, which never would have grown at all if the way had not been opened by those who went there first to seek for gold. This did not seem to change his mind; but when we came away, he went with us to the door, asking after several friends in America, and sending personal greetings; and at last, turning to me and placing his hand on my shoulder, he said, as nearly as I can now recall his words: "Young man, don't let anything I have said to you to-night change your mind, about your work. Do your work industriously and stick to it faithfully, and all will be well in the end."

Lord Spencer's Bargain.

Lord Spencer of Althorp, one of the greatest of book collectors, was at home only in his own field. One day, in browsing about Bond street, London, he went into the shop of a dealer in bric-a-brac. The dealer, who knew him by sight, said persuasively:

"Here is a fine bit of pottery which your lordship really ought to have, and you shall have it very cheap—only two guineas."

So Lord Spencer bought it and took it home, and set it in a high place. One day a connoisseur in china paid him a visit, and Lord Spencer showed him the bargain.

"What did you give for it?" asked the connoisseur.

"Two guineas," answered Spencer, rather proudly.

"H'm!" said the connoisseur. "At that price the marmalade should have been included."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, that precious piece of yours is nothing more nor less than a shilling marmalade pot, with a green thistle painted on it."

A Choice.

The panorama of one of the great lakes is spread before me, and a small section of its mighty traffic is passing. Toiling along at a fair rate of speed goes a powerful steam barge, towing two deep-laden schooners; behind puffs a little high-pressure steam barge, making an awful fuss, but going mighty slow and carrying mighty little. Overhauling this bunch comes a magnificent steel freighter, with rakish masts and funnel, quadruple expansion engines, a noiseless exhaust, and a mountain of water at her bow.

The little high pressure steam barge is making more noise and spitting out more steam than either of her big neighbors, but she isn't carrying one quarter as much freight, she isn't carrying it as fast or as far or as economically.

These three classes of steamers are duplicated in all walks of human life. Some men are little, noisy, high-pressure affairs. They do their work in an old-fashioned, and consequently expensive way. They puff and sweat and make an awful fuss about it, and they, like the little high-pressure steam barge, usually make so little by it that they have to keep going long after they should have been able to lay up for good.

Other men are like the lazy schooner behind the big steam barge. They never progress unless someone throws them a friendly rope and tows them along; they are useful only as long as someone else keeps them going.

A few men are like the big freighter — work swiftly, intelligently, smoothly, and noiselessly, and make money fast in consequence.

Of the three classes of human craft sailing over life's ocean, I'd rather be a big, fast freighter than any, but next to that I'd sooner be a puffing little high-pressure craft than have to be everlastingly hanging on to someone else's towline.—Ravenspur, in Toronto Star.

Punch and Judy In China.

It would surprise a good many persons probably to hear that Punch and Judy is a Chinese institution, but there seems to be good ground for the supposition, according to a correspondent of a London paper, who says: "A few years ago I witnessed at a garden party given by the general then commanding the troops in Hongkong the exhibition of a Chinese Punch and Judy, which had been brought down from Canton. The general arrangements were precisely the same as those of an English Punch and Judy, the only difference being that instead of the dog Toby there was a wooden figure with clapping jaws, supposed to represent a dragon.

"The costumes were Chinese, and the piece varied in some respects from that which we see in England, but all the characteristic features were the same. The lesser mandarins were duly knocked over by the big mandarin, with just the same satisfactory whack as that with which Punch disposes of Judy and Jack Ketch, and all the accessories of voices, pipes and scenery correspond to those of the English performance."

THE WALL STREET MARKET

C. P. R. Dropped Down to 129 To-day.

The Market Opened Rather Weak and Went Even Lower—Some Quotations.

The market opened at from 1-2 to 1 1-2 points down from Saturday afternoon's close and remained weak throughout the morning. However, the market rallied in the afternoon and closed strong upon the receipt of a report that material progress had been made at Washington and Philadelphia towards a settlement of the coal strike.

C.P.R. was very weak, going as low as 129 1-2, whilst M.O.P. reached as low as 103, but closed at 106 1-4. St. Paul's closed at 83 3-4 and "Soo" pref., after dropping to 120 closed at 123. Sloss closed at 57 7-8 and sugar at 20 1-4, after making a record for itself at 17 1-2 the lowest the stock has been at in some time. Texas was quoted at the close at 41 3-4, and B. O. 103 1-2.

Messrs. McIntyre & Marshall, at 3 o'clock, received the following despatch:

New York, Oct. 13,—A report comes from good authority that material progress has been made towards the settlement of the strike at the conference at this city and at Philadelphia. It is reported that the operators will grant an increase of from 5 to 10 cents, but as individuals and not as a union. This is what the stock market is rallying on.

New York, Oct. 13th.—We looke for further liquidation in stocks to-days and expect to see still lower prices, and naturally discourage purchases at present. Bank statement showed that no easier conditions in money markets are to be expected for some time to come, and this with the increasing serious aspect of the coal strike, and the uncertainty of congressional election casts a shadow over everything. There will probably be enough support in the market from time to time to prevent prices breaking sharply, and rallies may occur from time to time, but we expect to see the general tendency towards a lower level.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

11.45 a.m.—We look for a rally this afternoon, when it will be a sale again. Money is at present at 16 per cent. Sales 1,600,900.

END OF COAL STRIKE.

Monday's Events Brings It Virtually to a Close.

OPERATORS ACCEPT COMMISSION

Coal Magnates Agree to Submit Their Difference Between Them and Miners to a Commission Appointed by the President and to Be Bound by Its Findings — Mitchell Declines to Talk.

Washington, Oct. 14. — The operators have agreed to the appointment of a commission by the President of the United States to which shall be referred all questions at issue between the companies and their own employes, whether they belong to a union or not, and the decision of the commission shall be accepted by the operators.

The commission is to consist of an army or navy engineer officer, an expert mining engineer not connected with the coal mining properties, one of the judges of the United States Court of the East-District of Pennsylvania, a man prominent as a sociologist, and a man who by active participation in mining of and selling coal is familiar with the physical and commercial feature of the business.

The operators also make a part of their proposition that the miners shall return to work as soon as the commission is constituted, and cease all interference with non-union men, the commission to name a date when its findings shall be effective and to govern conditions of employment between the companies and their own employes for at least three years.

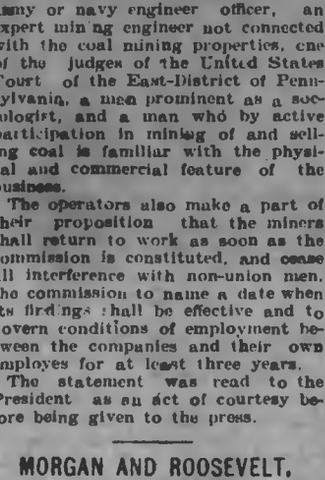
The statement was read to the President as an act of courtesy before being given to the press.

MORGAN AND ROOSEVELT.

Then a Statement of the Operators' Position Was Given Out, and the Conclusions Now Arrived at.

Washington, Oct. 14.—J. Pierpont Morgan and Robert S. Bacon, one of his partners, arrived here over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad last night about 10 o'clock. They refused to see anyone and went at once to their rooms.

It was reported that George F.



A. J. CASSATT.

Baer, president of the Reading Railroad, was also here, but he could not be found.

Shortly after going to his room, Mr. Morgan came down stairs and left the hotel for the temporary White House, where he was at once shown up stairs and into the room where the President was and a conference on the strike situation began. Secretary Root joined the party a few minutes later.

Secretary Cortelyou, by authority of those present at the White House, made public an authorized statement concerning the conference.

The Operators' Position.

Mr. J. P. Morgan came to Washington with his partner, Mr. Bacon, at the request of the coal companies, who desired that as a matter of courtesy their statement should be shown to the President before it was made public. Having been laid before the President by Mr. Morgan, it was given to the press.

The statement of the operators was addressed to the public, and after reiterating the statement made by them to President Roosevelt at the recent conference called by him, proceeded with this new matter or rather decision arrived at by the operators:

We suggest a commission to be appointed by the President of the United States (if he is willing to perform that public service), to which shall be referred all questions at issue between the respective companies and their own employes, whether they belong to a union or not, and that the decision of that commission shall be accepted by us.

The Commission.

The commission to be constituted as follows: 1—An officer in the engineer corps of either the military or naval services of the United States.

2.—An expert mining engineer, experienced in the mining of coal and other minerals, and not in any way connected with coal mining properties, either anthracite or bituminous.

3.—One of the judges of the United States Courts of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

4.—A man of prominence, eminent as a sociologist.

5.—A man who, by active participation in mining and selling coal, is familiar with the physical and commercial features of the business.

Go Back to Work.

It being the understanding that immediately under the constitution of such commission, in order that idleness and non-production may cease instantly, the miners will return to work and cease all interference with and persecution of any non-union men who are working or shall hereafter work. The findings of this commission shall fix the date when the same shall be effective, and shall govern the conditions of employment between the respective companies and their employes for a term of at least three years.

Geo. F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, Temple Iron Company.

E. B. Thomas, chairman Pennsylvania Coal Company, Hillside Coal and Iron Company.

W. H. Truesdale, president Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company.

T. P. Fowler, president Scranton Coal Company, Elk Hill Coal and Iron Company.

R. M. Olyphant, president Delaware and Hudson Company.

Alfred Walters, president Lehigh Valley Coal Company.

A note appended to the statement reads: "The schedule referred to in this statement was not brought from New York, as it had not been completed."

Way For Settlement Open.

While no official statement was made at the White House after the operators' address was made public by Secretary Cortelyou, the opinion was expressed that the way is now open for a complete settlement of the strike and that the mines will soon be in operation once more.

The next move will be the presentation of the matter to the miners, and it is probable that President Mitchell will be invited to Washington to consult the President.

Mitchell Won't Talk.

Wilkes-Barre, Oct. 14.—When President Mitchell was shown the plain bulletin that the operators had agreed to arbitration he refused to make a statement last night.

Morgan Forced the Peace.

New York, Oct. 14.—The World has the following from Washington: After the demonstration of the inability of the operators to mine coal, Morgan lost confidence in the general program, and decided he must take active steps. Within the last seventy-two hours he has been working with A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. They have had several conferences, and have been in constant touch with each other by means of the long distance telephone.

Baer Still President.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company was held yesterday in this city. The annual report was submitted and unanimously adopted. President Baer and the old Board of Directors were re-elected. The meeting was secret, and was presided over by Mr. Baer.

General Strike Thursday.

Mons, Belgium, Oct. 14.—The miners of three pits in the Grand Hon Colliery struck work yesterday morning, the movement threatens to spread through the whole district. An increase of wages is demanded by the miners on the ground that the price of coal has risen in consequence of the strike in the United States and France. It is said that the Mine Owners' Federation has refused the demanded increase in wages, and that a general declaration of a strike is expected Thursday.

FRIENDS AND RELATIONS.

King Edward's Happy Remark to Visiting U.S. Generals.

London, Oct. 14. — Ambassador Choate and Generals Corbin, Wood and Young were the guests of King Edward at a luncheon at Buckingham Palace yesterday in honor of Lord Kitchener, prior to the latter's departure for India, where is to take command of the British forces. Lord Roberts was also a guest of His Majesty. Among others present were Generals Ian Hamilton and Kelly-Kenny, and Private Secretary Knollys, all in brilliant uniform.

Mr. Choate sat at the King's right and Gen. Corbin on His Majesty's left. Gen. Corbin delivered to the King a message from President Roosevelt, expressing the hope that King Edward would lend his assistance in creating interest in Great Britain in the St. Louis Exposition. The King replied that he would answer the message personally in the same kindly spirit in which it was sent.

At the conclusion of a rather elaborate luncheon. His Majesty arose and proposed the health of President Roosevelt. The King spoke in most admiring terms of the President, and expressed his delight at seeing such distinguished generals present. Before any other toast could be proposed, His Majesty announced an adjournment to the smoking room, where he had a long talk with Generals Corbin, Young and Wood, and personally expressed to them his gladness to see them in England, "because," he said, "I feel we are not only friends, but relations."

After Gen. Kitchener and his staff had been decorated with war medals, the Americans took their leave. They all subsequently expressed keen pleasure at meeting the King, and gratification at his frank hospitality and unassuming friendliness.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The coal situation is further complicated by the strike of the miners in France, and prices are advancing everywhere in Europe. France in 1900 produced 33,270,385 tons of coal, compared with 225,170,163 produced by Great Britain, and 238,877,182 produced by the United States. If the strike spreads to Belgium, of which there is some fear, that would mean the outting off, proportionately to the time the strike lasted, of an annual production of some 22,000,000 tons. For the year 1899 France imported 13,087,000 tons of coal and exported 2,531,000 tons, while Great Britain for the year 1900 imported 10,000 tons, and exported 58,405,000 tons. This last was about the largest quantity ever exported even from Great Britain. Germany for the same year imported 8,034,000 tons and exported 18,055,000 tons, while the United States imported 1,764,000 tons and exported 7,558,000 tons. On October 24, 1901, the best steam coal was selling at Cardiff at 16s 0d, compared with £1 5s 0d on October 25, 1900, when the strike was on. The export values of the same quality coal was 13s 3d on October 24, 1901, and 16s 3d on October 25, 1900. That is to say, the export value last year was about $3.18 at Cardiff, and it was offered on the wharf at Montreal not so long ago at $6.50, a price which which would have paid the agent who offered it a commission. At least 300,000 tons of anthracite, bituminous and intermediate, or semi-anthracite, have been purchased in England, Scotland and Wales during the past month for United States account, whereas in the eight months preceding August only 18 tons of anthracite were imported into the United States. Hitherto intermediate, or semi-anthracite, has been considered the most valuable class of coal in South Wales. It is generally known as "smokeless steam coal," and is in constant demand for the use of ocean steamships all over the world. Anthracite has never gained much popularity in Great Britain as a coal for domestic purposes, the use of which it has a monopoly in America, although during recent years the anthracite owners have been trying to educate the people to use it. Now that it is being exported here in such quantities, if it is approved as a domestic coal, it is likely to compete with United States anthracite, for some time to come, if it can be laid down here in normal times at the same rates or less. That will depend very largely on the freight rates, which have recently taken a rapid rise. Coal freight rates from the other side have advanced within the past ten days from $1.20 to $2.04, and in some cases to $2.16, and well-informed steamship men expect them to touch $2.40 or higher before the advance is checked. This rapid rise is blamed in some quarters on Mr. J. P. Morgan and the International Marine Company, who made the announcement that the Shipping Trust had bought 100,000 tons of coal before they had chartered sufficient tonnage to move it.

The British colliery owners and operators and the shipping trade in less degree are of course benefiting by the present demand, and so is the Government, which collects twenty-five cents duty on every ton of coal that is exported. On the other hand, the poor people will suffer more or less during the coming winter, as all kinds of coal will be extravagantly dearer than they were a year ago. Another aspect of the case is the accelerated exhaustion of the British coal fields. In 1865 Prof. Jevons estimated the available supply of coal in the British coal fields at 83,000,000,000 tons, and stated that if the rate of increase of coal production which then existed were maintained, the mines would be practically exhausted by about 1970. The Royal Commission appointed to examine into this question in 1866 reported in 1871 very exhaustively, its conclusion being that Prof. Jevons had underestimated, and that the supply exposed and lying under other formations was probably some 146,454,000,000. Last year the writer of "Our Coal Supplies" stated that in the thirty-one years, 1870-1900, the aggregate output of the coal mines of Great Britain had amounted to 5,025,000,000 tons, or to no less than one-eighteenth of the visible supply of eighty-three thousand million tons as estimated in 1870 by Professor Jevons. The writer said: "Even treating the hidden reserve as certainly existing, this gigantic output means that during the last three decades of the nineteenth century we consumed once and for all one-thirtieth of our coal capital." The conclusion is: "The Royal Commission, by including the hidden reserve of coal estimated to be under the Permian and newer formations, were able to fix 360 years from 1870 as the limit during which our coal mines would last. Already in thirty years our coal output has more than doubled, and the rate of exhaustion assumed by the commission has therefore been much exceeded. If this rate of increase should be kept up for the next hundred years from 1870, then the twentieth century would witness the complete exhaustion of our visible supply of coal, namely, the 85,000,000,000 tons remaining in the exposed coal fields of the United Kingdom." All authorities are agreed that Great Britain's commercial supremacy as a nation depends upon her coal supplies, and come to the melancholy conclusion that she must decline from her present eminence certainly during the next hundred and fifty years unless long before that time coal shall have been superseded altogether, both as the source of power and of heat. The "Colliery Guardian" quotes figures to show that the collieries within the Empire could supply Great Britain with coal for many hundreds of years after the supplies of the "tight little island" are depleted, but when the coal is gone the manufacturers are likely to go too. Still it is consolatory to know that there are 65,000 square miles of coal areas in Canada east of the Rockies, without counting those to the west, 35,488 square miles in British India and 24,000 square miles in New South Wales, besides the coal fields of New Zealand, Victoria, South Africa and Tasmania.—Witness.

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

Messrs. Madill Bros. Have Sold Their Business—Personal Mention.

Messrs. Madill Bros. have disposed of their general drygoods business to Mr. Rollie Johnston of Peterborough. Mr. Johnston takes possession the first of November. Madill Bros. intend moving to Napanee, where they will open up a new business. The citizens of Lakefield will be loth to part with Messrs. Madill Bros., who have done business so long and successfully in the village. Mr. Johnston is well known in the village, having served four years apprenticeship in the village in the business in which he is about to become the manager.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bull, London, Eng., are registered at the Craig House.

Dr. and Mrs. Wells are guests at the Craig House.

Miss Tanner, who spent the summer with her sister, Mrs. Edwards, of Lachine, Que., is home again.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dinwoodie, are in Campbellford, attending the funeral of Mr. Dinwoodie's brother, James, who died in Campbellford on Sunday.

The work at dam No. 3, under the able management of Mr. Ed. Wade, is progressing satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. Peck, who had the misfortune to lose their youngest son by death on Saturday evening, have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Mr. Benson, of Jas. Linton & Co., bankers, is spending a few days in Campbellford this week.

Mrs. J. W. Madill, who has been confined to the house for several weeks through illness, is able to be about again.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, who spent the summer at their cottage Lovesick Lake, have closed the cottage for the winter and are back to the village.

FREE TO EVERYONE.

A Priceless Book Sent Free for the Asking.

"There be books and books;" some edifying, others entertaining, and still others instructive. The average man is so busily engaged in the labour of money-making that he has little time and less inclination for books which instruct; hence when he feels out of sorts, either he gives no heed to Nature's warning, or he consults a physician, at an expense which a little knowledge would have enabled him to avoid. There is probably no complaint upon which the public is so little informed, as hemorrhoids, or piles; this little book tells all about their nature, cause and cure; it treats of the different forms of blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, describes their symptoms, and points the way to a cure so simple and inexpensive, that anyone can understand and apply. The importance of promptness and thoroughness is vital, for the disease will not cure itself, and Nature, alone, unaided, will not accomplish a cure, while the consequences are too painful for detailed description. You are told how piles originate, the reason for their appearance usually being that some of the rules of correct living have been violated, and (what is more to the point) how you may rid yourself of this bane of human existence. All affections of the rectum are treated in simple plain language, so that all may understand, and learn how the cause may be removed. Many people suffer from piles, because after trying the numerous lotions, ointments and salves that are on the market, without relief, they come to the conclusion that a surgical operation is the only thing left to try, and rather than submit to the shock and risk to life of an operation, prefer to suffer on. This little book tells how this may be avoided, and a cure be effected without pain, inconvenience or detention from business. Write your name and address plainly on a postal card, mail to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and you will receive the book by return mail.

TO RECEIVE SIR WILFRID.

Great Preparations in Montreal and Quebec—Ancient City to Be Resplendent With Lights.

Montreal, Oct. 14. — Arrangements have been made for a fine reception to Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the occasion of his return this week. The Lake Erie is due at Rimouski on Wednesday or early on Thursday, and will reach Quebec probably on Thursday evening. In that event Sir Wilfrid will arrive in Montreal on Friday evening. The hour of his reaching here is fixed at 8 p.m. These arrangements have been made to allow Sir Wilfrid time to acknowledge the welcome to be tendered him at the stations between Quebec and Montreal. The Premier and his party will probably take supper at St. Martin's Junction, and leave in time to arrive here about 8 o'clock. Place Viger Station will be a blaze of light. Arrangements have been made for special electric lights, and the illumination will be magnificent. On the Premier's arrival an address will be presented to him on behalf of the city by Mayor Cochrane, by the Board of Trade, the Chambre de Commerce, the Contractor's Club and other associations. The Liberal Club will join the commercial bodies in welcoming Sir Wilfrid, and will escort him from the Place Viger Station to the Windsor Hotel.

The committee in charge of the preparations for the reception in Quebec were actively at work. It was decided to illuminate the two banks of the river from St. Laurent and St. Michel to Quebec harbor. The Chateau Frontenac will be resplendent with lights, and the terrace likewise.

BOER GENERALS IN PARIS.

Enthusiasm Was Nothing Like That Which Greeted Them Two Years Ago.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The Boer Generals, Botha, Dewet, and Delarey, arrived in Paris yesterday. Senator Paulist and the pro-Boer Committee received them at the railroad station. After speeches of welcome had been delivered, the party drove to a hotel. The precincts of the station, and the route to the hotel, were thronged with spectators, who heartily cheered the generals, though the crowds present and the enthusiasm manifested were nothing like the assemblages and demonstration witnessed on the occasion of Mr. Kruger's arrival here two years ago.

Delegations from various provincial pro-Boer organizations also greeted the Boer generals at the station. The reception was held in the waiting-room, which was decorated with flowers and tapestries. The generals appeared very grateful for the warm speeches of welcome, and replied with a few words of thanks. They then entered carriages and were driven through the centre of the city to the hotel, escorted by a mounted detachment of Republican guards, and amid shouts for Botha, Dewet and Delarey, Gen. Dewet, who is always the most popular in France, receiving the great acclamations. The visitors bowed their acknowledgments. Traffic along the Boulevards had to be suspended till the carriages passed. The generals will be received by Foreign Minister Delcasse and Premier Combes.

Gen. Botha, replying to Senator Paulist, said: "We have suffered greatly, and had to sign a peace which was a great shock to you and us. I hope self-government will soon be given to the Boer people, for they loyally laid down their arms and took the oath of allegiance. But it must not be inferred from this allegiance that they will allow themselves to be dragged in the mud." This statement was greeted with cheers.

On the arrival of the generals, at the hotel, a woman on behalf of the Society for the Aid of Boer Children, handed Gen. Dewet $15,000.

Soldier Held For Forgery.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—Private Daniel McCuish was removed from the guard-house at Stanley Barracks on Sunday night to the jail, a charge of forgery having been preferred against him by Major A. Edward Carpenter. On Saturday morning Major Carpenter was questioned over the telephone by the officials of a down-town bank regarding the genuineness of his signature to a cheque for $40, made out in favor of Private McCuish. The Major repudiated the cheque. When McCuish returned to the barracks he was placed under arrest.

CLERK OF COMMONS.

Death and Career on Monday of Sir John Bourinot.

DISTINGUISHED MAN GONE.

A Long and Distinguished Career—A Graduate of Trinity College and a Leader Writer in Canada—An Authority on Parliamentary Practice and Procedure — Champion of Confederation.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Sir John Bourinot, clerk of the House of Commons, died at 9 o'clock last night, after a lingering illness. He was a sufferer from stomach trouble and bore a very trying illness with fortitude. He would have been 65 years of age had he lived until Oct. 24.

Sketch of His Life.

John George Bourinot was honorary secretary of the Royal Society of Canada; Fellow of the Statistical Society of London and honorary corresponding secretary of the Royal Colonial Institute. He was author of several important works and essays, and his labors were a distinct benefit to his country. He was born at Sydney, N.S., Oct. 24, 1837, and was the son of the late Hon. J. Bourinot, Senator of the Dominion, and a grandson of Judge Marshall of Nova Scotia. His mother was a daughter of the late Judge Marshall, well-known as an advocate of temperance and for his works on social and religious topics. His father's family came originally from Normandy, were Huguenots, and settled in the Island of Jersey. The father of Judge Marshall was a captain in the British army and a loyalist.

In his early days John George Bourinot received his intellectual training under the tutorship of Rev. W. Y. Porter at Sydney, and he was a credit to his tutor. When this period of tutorship was over Mr. Bourinot's father sent him to Trinity College, Toronto, where he distinguished himself and was always to the front of his class. He secured important scholarships, and on leaving college took up newspaper work and became a parliamentary reporter. In 1860 he established The Halifax Reporter and was chief editor of that journal for a number of years. From 1861, to the year of Confederation Mr. Bourinot was also chief official reporter to the Nova Scotia Assembly. In 1868 he was appointed to the Senate as shorthand writer, and he retained this office until April, 1873, when he was appointed second clerk assistant. In 1879 he was made first clerk assistant, and on Dec. 18, 1880, he became chief clerk or the House of Commons. He paid close attention to literary work and wrote many clever articles on important public questions. His essay on "Intellectual Development of Canada," in The Canadian Monthly, to which he was a contributor for years, was very highly thought of. He was also known for his good work in connection with daily newspapers, and the best magazines, including Blackwoods. His desire was to create a love for Canadian subjects.

Many of his articles in British magazines did much good for Canada. Of late years he devoted himself to constitutional parliamentary studies and wrote a large work on "The practice and procedure of Parliament, with a review of the origin and growth of parliamentary institutions in the Dominion of Canada," and this work has since been a parliamentary authority in every dependency of the Crown. Sir John Bourinot was a staunch advocate of Imperial Federation.

In 1890 he became a C.M.G., and in 1898 received the honor of Knighthood, being generally recognized as a worthy recipient of it.

He was married three times—first, in 1858, to Miss Delia Hawke; second, in 1866 to Miss Emily Alden of Toronto, and third, in 1889, to Isabella, daughter of the late John Cameron of Toronto.

$75,000 For One Operation.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 14.—"It is all over; it is quite finished, and I think, I know, indeed, that it is entirely successful."

In this way Prof. Adolph Lorenz of Vienna, with a characteristic shrug of the shoulders, declared yesterday that the operation on little Lolita, daughter of J. Ogden Armour, had been performed, and that he was convinced the little one will, in a few short weeks, enjoy the free use of her legs and be as other children are. The operation, to perform which Prof. Lorenz, the leading orthopedic surgeon in all Europe, journeyed from Vienna to Chicago, was carried out at the Armour home. It is said the physicians received a $75,000 fee from Mr. Armour. The same surgeons will perform a similar operation on another child whose parents are poor. For this service there will be no charge.

Thinks She's a Widow.

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Its is now believed that the man lying dead in Kerr's undertaking rooms is Arthur Braden of Toronto. Mrs. Braden yesterday morning made a more complete examination, and now she feels almost positive that she is a widow. Mrs. Braden was accompanied to Winnipeg by Mrs. Cruickshanks, the sister of Arthur Braden. She is unable to state positively that the dead man is her brother, but is inclined to that view. It is now proposed to bring a brother of Braden's from Toronto to decide whether or not the dead man is Arthur Braden.

Family Quarrels.

Toronto United Irish League.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Toronto branch of the United Irish League completed its organization last night in Pythian Hall. The election of officers resulted thus: Hon. President, James Conmee, M.P.P.; president, Terence Cunerty; vice-president, E. J. Hearn; treasurer, John Hanrahan; secretary, E. J. Sullivan; sentinel, P. Kennedy; executive, A. T. Hernon, P. F. Cronin, M. C. O'Donnell, P. W. Falby, C. A. Burns, George Knox, J. J. Landy. The election of an honorary vice-president was left over till a later date. The committee were empowered to consider the advisability of inviting the Irish delegates, John Redmond, John Dillon and Michael Davitt, who will be present at the big gathering of the U. I. L. in Boston on the 17th inst., to come to Toronto and address a meeting.

22 Villages in Revolt.

London, Oct. 14.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Volo, Greece, says 22 villages in Macedonia are in complete revolt and that half a battalion of Turkish troops has been annihilated by insurgents in the Krena defile. This news, continues the despatch, emanates from sources which have hitherto minimized the trouble. The situation, consequently, appears suddenly to have grown worse.

WIRELESS ON MOVING TRAIN.

First Time Marconigrams Were Ever So Sent Successful.

Montreal, Oct. 14. — Members of General Passenger Ticket Agents' Association of America to the number of two hundred arrived here last evening on special Grand Trunk train from Chicago on their way to Portland, Maine, to attend the 47th annual convention of the association.

The trip to Montreal was made memorable by remarkable demonstration in wireless telegraphy. Experiments were conducted by Dr. E. Rutherford, F.R.S.C., and Dr. Howard T. Wilson, F.R.P.C., of McGill University, assisted by Prof. C. H. McLeod, and Dr. H. T. Bokey, also of McGill. Wireless communication was established between the train running sixty miles an hour and St. Dominick Station, on the way from Toronto to Montreal.

This is the first time wireless communication was ever attempted from a fast moving train, and the experiment was a success in every way. Communication was received eight miles before reaching St. Dominick, and was continued for the same distance beyond.

Dr. Rutherford, who had charge of the experiments, has devoted attention to wireless telegraphy for years. In 1897 he wrote a treatise on the subject, which was accepted by the Royal Society of Great Britain, and the American Association for the advancement of science.

Rainmaking in Bosnia.

A curious case of the desecration of a grave by a superstitious population is reported from the district of Rogatza in Bosnia. A peasant living in a village called Hrenovicza committed suicide by hanging himself. Shortly afterward a severe drought set in, which threatened to destroy the crops. The peasants held a council, and, connecting the drought with the man's suicide, resolved to open the grave, and pour water on the corpse, in order that this might bring the longed-for rain. Their intentions were carried out, and the grave was then filled again, after prayer had been offered. The rain, however, did not come, and the villagers who had taken part in this curious rite have been arrested by the gendarmes. — London Standard's Vienna Letter.

His Blunder.

"Say!" she cried suddenly, as the bashful young man backed into the nearest chair, "You must think you're a bird."

"Beg pardon," he stammered, "I don't understand what"—

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Mr. Alex Rutherford, of Ashburnham Taken Suddenly Ill.

The many friends of Mr. Alex. Rutherford, of Ashburnham, will regret exceedingly to learn that he was seized with a stroke of paralysis at about 12 o'clock to-day. Mr. Rutherford was engaged in doing some work on one of his houses on Elisabeth street, when he was stricken down. Dr. McClelland was summoned and the patient was removed to his boarding house, at Mrs. Kerr's Brown street, Ashburnham. He is still unconscious. Mr. Rutherford is one of the most prominent citizens of the village, and for several years was a member of the Ashburnham Council. He is a prominent member of Otonabee Lodge, Oddfellows, and has a host of friends who will join in hoping that he may be soon restored to health.

MISS COLEMAN HERE.

To-morrow Miss Coleman, the new Lady Superintendent of the Nicholls' Hospital, will assume her duties, and Miss Bolster, who has been at the head of the institution for the past eight years, will retire, pursuant to her resignation, which she forwarded to the Board of Management some time ago. Miss Coleman is a graduate of a New York hospital, and comes to Peterborough highly recommended.

SOME ATTRACTIONS

For Thanksgiving Day—Rifle Matches —Rugby Match.

Thursday of this week will be Thanksgiving Day, and a good programme of events is offered to the people of Peterborough on that occasion. Amongst the attractions already announced are the following;

Rugby match, Nicholls oval, 3 p.m., Rough Riders of Ottawa, vs. Peterborough.

Field day at the Golf Links.

Annual matches of the 57th Regt. Rifle League.

Concert in the Opera House at night, under the auspices of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

REPAIRS BEING MADE

To the Plant of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

Last night a portion of the town was without electric light, which was of course, a source of much inconvenience to many. Many stores, offices and houses were left in total darkness, and for a time lamps and candles had to be resorted to.

The cause of the trouble is due to the fact that a new dynamo is being placed in the station of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. While this was being done, one of the other dynamoes was being loaded too heavily, causing the coil to burn out.

It is expected that the new machinery will be placed in position in a day or two, and in the meantime ample provision has been made for the supply of light for this evening, and until the plant is placed in complete condition.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD TO-NIGHT.

The Regular Monthly Meeting of St. Paul's Guild To-night.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, will meet this evening in the church parlour at 8 o'clock. The programme will consist of a paper by Mr. M. A. Sorsoleil on the "Philosophy of Brass Buttons." Musical selections will also be given. Registration of members will take place and all present this evening will become charter members of the Guild. Tickets will be issued to those who wish to help to make the coming concert a success, that of the Canadian Jubilee Singers, who will appear in the church on Friday, October 24th. The membership of the Guild is growing rapidly and any who wish to be connected with it should attend to-night.

The marriage ceremony was performed and the mass celebrated by Father O'Leary, Parish Priest of Galway, Ont., a cousin of Mr. Fitzpatrick's bride.

Reds and Blues.

The Blues have at last, for the first time in the Y.M.C.A. membership contest, gained first place, and now lead by a narrow margin of two points. The score is as follows;

Blues, 77; Reds, 75.

There has been a good gain on both sides since the last bulletin. The contest is just beginning to warm up. Best, of the Reds, however, has evidently got some plot on. Blues will hold a social evening on Monday, October 20. No Reds will be admitted, but all Blue sympathisers and workers will be welcome.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

TROUBLES WITH THE "TRENT"

Unsuccessful Attempt to Bring Her to Hunter Street Bridge.

She Drifted Back to Chip Island—Several Men got in the River.

"There's many a slip
'Twixt the cup and the lip,"

is an old saying which few will deny, and which is often demonstrated in both the tragic and the ludicrous. This morning exemplified this in an attempt to bring the dredge, Trent, from Riverside Park to the Hunter street bridge. Elaborate preparations had been made last night and this morning for the trial. A stout rope was fastened near the bridge and was wound over a powerful drum on the dredge. About 11.15 a.m. a start was made. The rope was coming in rapidly and the Trent and scow were coming up slowly. In fact it was soon discovered that the rope was coming in too quickly for suddenly the end of the cable came in over the end of the scow and the crew discovered themselves going down stream with a rapidity that discounted all records that have heretofore been made on the river. Loiterers and interested parties were treated to a spectacle, which none of the minstrel troupes have ever equalled here in Peterborough. A rope was sent ashore in a punt and the man taking it was about to leap ashore when the dredge swung and pulled him into the water. One of his mates rescued him and the end of the rope, which was by far the most important object. Then began a procession of men from the dredge to the shore to assist those already there in fastening the rope. Finally three of them succeeded in snubbing it to a post and it was hoped that the downward career of the boat would receive a check. Well, if it did, none of those men know anything about it, for the instant the strain came on that post it became seized with a polite desire to accompany the dredge. The men found themselves bathing in the Otonabee, and when the scow grounded on Chip Island several very wet men with sweetest tempers gathered on board and made kind remarks one to another, telling how it all happened. Another attempt is to be made this afternoon and it will, in all probability succeed as every means will be employed to accomplish the undertaking.

As the Examiner goes to press the Trent has succeeded in passing under the Hunter street bridge, and is in position to begin work opposite the Cereal Company's Works.

THE TOWN'S FUEL.

Carpenters and Joiners Endorse Municipal Control.

At the regular meeting of the Carpenters and Joiners' Union, held last night, the following resolution was carried:

Resolved that this Union endorse the scheme introduced by Alderman McGregor, viz.—The ownership of a municipal fuel supply of coal and wood for the Town of Peterborough, and that we fully endorse the sentiments of Alderman McGregor on this matter, and especially so at this critical period of a fuel famine. We believe that the council could not take a wiser step than adopting this plan of trying to bring fuel to a price that would be in reach of many a working man who at the prices charged by local dealers, cannot afford to pay it.

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Town Council and also to the daily press.

The resolution was unanimously carried by a well attended meeting of the members.

ON DUTY ONCE MORE.

Mr. John Sims, of the Canadian Express Co., had a Well Earned Holiday.

Mr. John Sims arrived home from Manitoba on Saturday night, after a visit of two months or more with relatives in that province. Mr. Sims speaks enthusiastically of the industrial condition of affairs around Hartley, where his headquarters were, and he had the pleasure of meeting many former Peterborough people.

Mr. Sims' holiday was a well deserved one, as he has been the faithful and obliging driver on the Canadian Express Company's waggon for the past twenty years. He has taken very few holidays in that time, in fact having had only one week's vacation in the past ten years previous to his late trip west. He is now at his old post again, and is being warmly welcomed back by his many friends.

COAL STRIKE IS NOT YET SETTLED

But Prospects Indicate a Speedy Ending of the Trouble.

Morning despatches announce the settlement of the coal strike, but latest despatches direct from New York do not indicate anything more than a confident feeling that a settlement will be speedily arrived at.

THE COAL STRIKE.

A Stock Broker's Despatch Says it is Practically Settled.

A telegraphic despatch to Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co., says:—

New York, Oct. 13, 11.30 a.m. — A report comes from good authority that material progress has been made towards the settlement of coal strike at the conference in this city and at Philadelphia. It is reported that the operators will grant an increase of from 5 to 10 per cent, but as individuals and not as a union. This is what the stock market is rallying on.

Malt Breakfast Food

Sustains Hard Manual Labour.

It Contains as an Abundant Constituent an Element of Food Absent in Meats.

Malt Breakfast Food, furnishes the energy necessary to vigorous digestion and the vital functions in a more uniform and more liberal manner than any other breakfast grain food on the market, and is specially suited to sustain hard manual labour.

Malt Breakfast Food contains as an abundant constituent an element of food almost absent in meats; it is carbohydrates. This constituent, together with the proper proportion of mineral elements, gives Malt Breakfast Food first rank as a builder of flesh, bone and muscle. Every workingman called upon to perform daily manual labour should have Malt Breakfast Food regularly for breakfast. It is the most economical and nourishing of foods. All Grocers.

WHAT MR. NICHOLLS SAW.

Was it a Meteor, the Devil or an Optical Elusion.

A Resident of Bridgenorth who Describes Very Strange Object—Said to Have Been Seen by Others.

Mr. Wm. Nicholls, of Bridgenorth, claims to have seen a strange object on Thuirsday last. Mr. Nicholls, who was in town on Saturday and related his story, is positive in his assertion and says that the strange apparition was also seen by two other residents of Bridgenorth.

The circumstances as related by Mr. Nicholls are pretty much as follows. He conducts a blacksmithing business at Bridgenorth, and resides on a farm he owns about half a mile east of the village: When coming to his work about day break on Thursday morning last, he saw the firey object fly across the farm of Mr. J. H. Mann, continue its flight over the grist mill and out over the lake. Once it appeared as if it intended diving into the water, but it ascended again and disappeared from view across the lake. Mr. Nicholls was much excited over what he had seen, and residents of the village scarcely placed credence in his story at first, until it was borne out by two other residents. Describing the object Mr. Nicholls says that it was slightly over three feet in length, and had a very large head. On this head were very large ears, which flapped at a uniform rate as it passed over the village at about the speed of a bird flying and about 100 feet from the ground. The object, or at least the tail of it, was red as fire and certainly astonished the village smith.

Was it his Satanic Majesty? Has been asked, but Mr. Nicholls would not express an opinion as to this. However, the idea should not be for a moment entertained that he does not actually think that he saw what he describes. Whether it is an optical elusion or not it is certainly one of those occurrences which, if it is not some form of meteor, proves the truth of Hamlet's assurance—"There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

Others who are inclined to be skeptical over the story suggest that his Satanic Majesty has been disappointed in his fuel supply by the coal strike, consequently he was making an excursion to Harvey and the north country with a view of supplying wood as a substitute. However, our printer's devil says he heard nothing mentioned in the family about such an excursion.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. T. A. S. LITERARY EVENING.

Large Audience Present and a First Class Programme.

The First of the Fortnightly Series Held Last Evening.

The Literary Society in connection with St. Peter's T.A.S. opened their series of fortnightly entertainments in their concert hall last night, and provided a programme of unusual excellence, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience.

Mr. R. J. Begley occupied the chair, and after a few introductory remarks, the programme was opened by a brilliant pianoforte duet by the Misses Doris. This was followed by a violin solo contributed by Miss Lottie Bell, which, it is useless to say, earned a recall. Both numbers were veritable gems. Miss Kearney, in her vocal solo, "Absence," showed that she possessed a sweet soprano voice. She rendered her number with excellent taste and expression. Mr. John Parle rendered two humourous vocal numbers, which caught the crowd immensely, as well as a euphonium solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen." Miss L. Bell, of Keene, a rising young vocalist, next contributed a delightful vocal number, "A Dream of Paradise," with violin obligato by Miss Lottie Bell. Miss Bell possesses a voice of great compass, and of unusual sweetness, and her number was exquisetely rendered. This young lady will be heard with pleasure at future entertainments. Her rendition of "The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond" as an encore number was also a pleasing number. Her accompaniments were capitably played by Miss Clara Bell. Mr. Jas. Wyer contributed a bass solo in excellent voice, and Miss Annie Simons vocal number was very warmly appreciated by the audience, and was sweetly sung.

At the conclusion of the musical portion of the programme, Mr. Fred Derocher, on behalf of the Athletic Section, presented Rev. Dr. O'Brien with a framed photographic group of the lacrosse club. The reverend gentlemen thanked the boys for their kindness, and referred to the work of the lads during the year in athletics. He next dealt with the programme of the plan of campaign for the coming winter in the T.A.S. rooms. A new library would be placed in the T.A.S. rooms in a few days and he urged his hearers to endeavour to cultivate a taste for good literature. He referred to the bad literature of the present day—writings that were dangerous to faith and morals, and the large number who took a pleasure in reading the same—especially the youth. The work expected from the different auxiliaries and sections of the T.A.S was next taken up.

The Literary Society, Ladies' Reading Circle, and Dramatic Section had important duties to perform during the coming year, and all would be at work from now on. The Social side of the work was also touched upon, and the members of the Society were urged to take more interest in strangers coming to the rooms, and to develop and foster the social spirit in the different departments of the Society's work.

Rev. Father J. O'Brien also added a few words and congratulated the Society on the good work it was accomplishing.

The proceedings closed with the National Anthem.

The accompanists of the evening were Misses M. Doherty, C. Bell, Estella Kelly, A. Berry and M. Begley.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Norwood Fair to-morrow.

—J. J. Turner & Sons, put up a large tent yesterday in Norwood for the East Peterborough Exhibition.

—The Chief of Police has a fine pair of gold-rimmed spectacles which he would be pleased to surrender to the rightful owner.

—Lakefield, above all other places in Canada, is being favoured just now with a visit from "John Bull."

—There will be a special practice of the choir of All Saints' church this evening at a quarter to eight o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

—Miss Ellen Francis, the eminent palmist, in order that all may consult her, has decided to give full $1.00 readings for 50 cents, for one week only. Now is your opportunity. Parlours, National Hotel. 6d81

—The new pavement at the National Hotel has been completed along the south side on Charlotte street, and as soon as possible will be completed on Water street. This is an improvement that shows up well in comparison with the old board walk.

—A number of our customers had to go unserved on Saturday, owing to lack of help. We have had this remedied, and will now be able to serve all. Finest brands of cigars, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc., always in stock. Crystal Barber Shop, W. Morgan, proprietor.

—There is a small ceramic exhibition this week in the window of H. H. Edmison, druggist, George street. There are some fine specimens of miniature work. It is understood that the artist, Miss Flood, is about to locate in Peterborough for the purpose of opening an art school.

—The scarcity of fuel is taken by the fire department as an assurance that the townspeople will be very careful with anything that pertains to fire. Acting on this belief the authorities are having their appliances used in winter treated to a generous coat of paint, and otherwise garnished.

—The Dominion Government has ordered a re-survey of the whole of the Indian reserved lands in the township of Rama, comprising about three thousand acres, in twenty-five acre holdings, in different parts of that township. The work has been entrusted to Mr. G. Smith, O.L.S., of Woodville, Ont., who will proceed with it at once.

WHEN THE LIGHTS FAILED.

The Y. M. C. A. was Thrown Into Confusion—About 125 in the Buildings.

The Y.M.C.A. was thrown into confusion last night, as the electric lights failed just about the time the classes were going into session, and gas was only available on two flats of the building.

The darkness overtook two dozen or more in the algebra and mechanical drawing classes, fully forty intermediates were on the floor of the gymnasium or in the dressing room, the members of the association who are in the Rugby club were just dressing for practice, the Tailors' Union was just ready to go into session in one of the class rooms, and Mr. Gliddon and his orchestra just arrived in time to see a general rush for the reception room and a general scramble for matches to coax the gas.

There were fully 125 in the building, who were for the time being greatly inconvenienced. With the aid of gas, lamps and lanterns everything was restored to running order, and nothing had to be cancelled.

TWO DASHED TO DEATH

Bradsky and His Companion Victims of a Flying Machine.

PARIS THRILLED WITH HORROR.

Accident Occurred After an Apparently Successful Flight—The Airship Rose Until Out of Sight, Then Fell to the Ground—The Balloon Never Came Down—Other Accidents of a Day.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Bradsky, the aeronaut, and a companion were killed by falling from a balloon yesterday morning.

Bradsky's balloon started from the Aerostatic Station at Vaugrrard, a suburb of this city, yesterday morning on a trial trip. After preliminary manoeuvring with a rope attachment Bradsky released the balloon and proceeded southward at a height of 300 to 400 feet. The two propellors of the machine appeared to work well. The rudder, however, was not quite successful. At about 9.20 the balloon had returned to above the point of departure, and then it gradually mounted higher and higher, until it disappeared in the clouds. The Prefect of Police later received a despatch announcing the fall of the balloon near St. Denis, 5½ miles from the centre of Paris, and adding that its two occupants were killed.

When the balloon was above Stains, near St. Denis, the ropes attaching the car to the balloon broke from some unknown cause, and the car with its occupants, Bradsky and Morin, was dashed to the ground, and the aeronauts met instantaneous death. The balloon itself disappeared in the clouds.

The catastrophe sent a thrill of horror through Paris. M. de Bradsky, was a Hungarian Baron, 36 years of age, rich and clever, and had been in the diplomatic service. He made his first ascension in 1901. Morin was his engineer. He leaves a widow and family. La Chambre, the constructor of the airship, says that it had perfect stability and constituted real progress, inasmuch as there was no pitching or sudden shocks, but its defects were that the car was too light and that the motor and guiding screw were too weak.

Killed by a strawstack.

Minden, Oct. 13.—The wife of Francis Graham, farmer, about three miles from Minden village, was killed yesterday morning by the falling of a strawstack. Her daughter, Bertha, and nephew, D. Richardson, were milking when the stack of straw fell. The daughter was badly injured, but the boy escaped. Two cows were killed.

Fell to Her Death Alone.

Cobourg, Oct. 14.—A most distressing accident occurred here yesterday morning when one of Cobourg's United States tourists, in the person of Mrs. G. S. Lovett of Washington, D. C., met a most tragic death. About 8 o'clock Mrs. Lovett left her room to go to the bathroom. It is supposed that she mistook the door leading down a back flight of stairs for the bathroom door, opened it and fell to the ground floor. She received such injuries as to cause instant death. The remains will be taken to Washington for burial.

Train Takes a Foot.

Walkerville, Oct. 14.—Fred Lappan, 6-year-old son of Joseph Lappan of this place, was run over by an incoming Grand Trunk freight train yesterday morning. His foot was badly mangled and will have to be amputated just above the ankle.

Fell From a Tree.

Brantford, Oct. 14.—Mabion Edy, clerk of Oakland Township, while picking apples, fell 20 feet from a tree. He is paralyzed and may die.

"WELL, THANK YOU."

A Granton Man is now Able to Make This Answer.

Inquiring Friends did not Always get Such a Cheery Reply Because for Many Years Mr. Fletcher Suffered With Lumbago.

Granton, Ont., Oct. 13th. (Special.)—Mr. John Fletcher, a well known farmer of this place, who suffered for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble, has at last found a cure.

Now, when his friends inquire as to his health, he cheerily tells them that he is well, something which he has not been able to do for a long time, till quite recently.

Mr. Fletcher tells the story of his illness, and how he was cured, as follows;

"I was troubled for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble. My urine was of a very red colour. I tried many medicines but could get nothing to help me.

"I consulted the best medical doctors in Granton and St. Mary's, but they could do nothing for me.

"At last one day a druggist in Granton suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills as a cure for my Lumbago. I purchased a box and began to use them right away. The first box helped me and I kept on till I was completely cured.

"I am now as well as ever I was and have not any trace of lumbago about me. I am perfectly sound and I thank Dodd's Kidney Pills for it.

"I recommend them to all my friends, and as for myself, I never intend that my house shall be without them, for I believe them to be the greatest medicine in the world."

Mr. Fletcher is a man who means every word he says and is prepared to substantiate the truth of every statement made above.

There seems to be no case of Lumbago, Backache, Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

PADDED THE PAY LISTS.

Godfrid Cleuthier of Webbwood, Ont., Arrested in Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Godfrid Cleuthier of Webbwood, Ont., was arrested here yesterday afternoon on a charge of fraud and forgery. He was employed as time- esper on the Algoma Central six months ago, and it is alleged he "padded" pay lists by sending to the company names of men never in the employ of the line. Cheques sent out to pay were forged in signatures to draw money. The arrest was made by Detective Riopel and Provincial Detective Irving of Webbwood.

Suicide in Queen's Park, Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—The dead body of George Frederick Ennis, son of Mrs. Alice Ennis of the rear of 144 William street was found in the band stand at 1.50 p.m. yesterday. Death was due to carbolic acid poisoning, and from the tone of the letters found in his pockets it would appear that love affairs caused the young man to suicide.

A despatch from Brantford says that when Lizzie Clayton of that city heard the news of Ennis' death she was greatly affected. She stated that she expected him to arrive from Toronto last evening. They were engaged to be married and the wedding day was fixed for Oct. 22.

NOTHING LIKE

Paine's Celery Compound

FOR CLEANSING AND PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

It Eradicates the Seeds of Disease, Invigorates and Rejuvenates.

Thousands of men and women who have neglected the work of physical recuperation in the summer months are now carrying a burden of disease. In the majority of cases, impure and poisoned blood and sluggish circulation are the direct cause of suffering and misery. Are you, reader, one of the victims? If so, do not hesitate a moment regarding what you should do. The life stream must be made pure, the health wrecking laxity of the blood vessels must be corrected, the nerves and tissues must be nourished. Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine that physicians recommend for the increase of pure blood in the arteries, and for arousing the purifying organs to cast off the impurities that give rise to disease. Mr. T. F. Mitchell, New Hamburg, Ont., writes as follows:

"My mother suffered for five years with a sore leg, and her system was so far run down that medicine could not help her. She tried almost everything to procure a cure, but no good results came until Paine's Celery Compound was used which gave her instant relief. She is now using the third bottle and able to do her own work."

This Boy was Weak and Languid

Doctor Said He Grew Too Fast—Paralysis Became Alarmed and Used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food With Splendid Results.

So mild and gentle in action is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that it is peculiarly suited for the use of children. Both boys and girls are under a very severe strain during the time that their systems are developing into manhood and womanhood. The tax on the blood and nerves is frequently too great and some external assistance is necessary. We do not believe that it is possible to secure better treatment at such times than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and this belief is backed by the testimony of very many parents, who have seen health restored to their children by means of this great restorative.

Mrs. George F. Brisbin, Lake street, Peterborough, Ont., states;

"One of my children, a boy of about fifteen years, did not have good health for a year or more. He seemed to have no energy, was weak and languid, and suffered from nervousness. The doctors said that he was growing too fast, but we became alarmed, and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before we noticed a great change in his condition. His appetite improved, he had a better colour, and soon became stronger and healthier. He is still using the Nerve Food, and we are perfectly confident that he is improving right along under this teatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto

LIVE IN STONE AGE

LOST TRIBE OF ESQUIMAUX DISCOVERED ON HUDSON BAY ISLAND.

Until Recently Its Members Never Saw a White Man—Their Huts Are Made of Whale Skulls—Nor Have They Any Knowledge of Metals—The Facts of the Discovery Are Well Established.

There has been discovered upon one of the islands of Hudson Bay the remnant of a lost tribe of Esquimaux, a community which has been for centuries without intercourse with any other representatives of the human species, and whose members never, until quite recently, had an opportunity of seeing a white man. The facts of the discovery are well established, having been reported to the Federal authorities by the Rev. A. W. Buckland. Mr. Buckland says that these strange people still virtually live in the stone age, knowing no metals. Their habitations are built entirely of the skulls of whales.

The home of the tribe is upon Southampton Island, a piece of water-girt land nearly as large as the State of Maine, lying at the extreme north end of Hudson Bay. These people or their ancestors have undoubtedly inhabited the island ever since pre-Columbian days, and at the present time they exist exactly as they must have done then. Having been isolated for so long a period it is natural that they should possess many peculiarities. A very remarkable collection of their utensils, weapons of the chase, and other objects was secured by Mr. Buckland, but to the great regret of the Canadian authorities, it was allowed to pass into the hands of private persons.

The huts on the island are built by putting together the great jaws of whales and then covering them with skins. In the middle of the primitive dwellings is a slight elevation, on which stands the stone lamp, employed for lighting, heating, cooking, and melting snow and drying clothes. This lamp is nothing more than an open dish of whale oil, with a wick of dry moss soaked in fat.

The whale is the chief means of subsistence of these poor people. They use the bone for many purposes, making plates and cups and toboggan-like sleds. They also manufacture sledges of walrus tusks, with deer antlers for crosspiece. The members speak a dialect peculiar to themselves and they are the most daring of hunters. Not more than sixteen members of the tribe now survive.

Mr. Buckland agrees with the explorers who disbelieve the story that Andree was murdered by the Esquimaux. He has lived for years with these people in their tents, and cannot say too much for their kindliness of disposition and readiness to assist strangers. He explains the finding by them of instruments and other property by the hypothesis that they belonged to the Tyrell brothers, who in 1804 nearly lost their lives near Marble Island, Hudson Bay, and left many valuable articles behind, including their camera, plates, etc.

Mr. Buckland is confident that Andree will never again be heard from. When he was asked by the Norwegian Government last year to undertake a search for him, he declined, believing that to do so would simply mean a waste of time and money.

Besant's "Stolen" Chapter.

When Sir Walter Besant was writing his story, "For Faith and Freedom," he needed to send his characters to Barbadoes, as political convicts. But he did not know what to do with them when they got there. Nothing that he could find showed him the daily life of such unfortunates.

One evening he received half a dozen catalogues of second-hand books. As he was idly turning them over his eye fell on a title that electrified him: "The Journal of A. B., some time Chyrurgeon to the Duke of Monmouth, with his trial and sentence to the Plantations of Barbadoes, his Captivity there and his Escape."

The very book! The next morning the eager novelist took a cab and drove at once to the bookseller's. The book was gone. An American had picked it up the day before. But he had at least the title, and armed with that he went to the British Museum where, in the vast ocean of pamphlets, the thing was found. He had it copied out bodily, and had the material for a chapter of his novel that is warm with truth and vividness.

But it remained for a literal man, years after, to reprove him for this historic faithfulness. Sir Walter had told him the story of his "find," and the man said coldly, "Then you stole that chapter!"

The Queen's Horses.

Her Majesty Queen Alexandra used to be extremely fond of riding; she had a most graceful seat, rode about the lanes continually with her children, and occasionally appeared at the hunt meets. But she is not so keen a rider now, having given that exercise up a great deal in favor of driving, or the more recent motor-car runs.

Her Majesty drives single horse or a pair, four-in-hand, or tandem. She has, among others in her stables, a very pretty team of Hungarian ponies, a smart little mare used for the "Blues" cart, and a beautiful creature, named Louvima, the latter presented to the Queen by her daughters, its name being a compound of the first letters in the names of the princesses. Whenever Her Majesty appears on horseback Louvima is the animal she rides.

Ginger Beer.

Here is a way to make ginger beer: Granulated sugar, five pounds; lemon juice, one teaspoful; honey, one-fourth pound; bruised ginger root, five ounces; water, five gallons. Boil the ginger root half an hour in a gallon of water, add the other ingredients and strain; when cold add the well beaten white of an egg and a teaspoonful of wintergreen or lemon essence; stir thoroughly and let stand four days without being disturbed. Bottle and keep in a cool place. This will keep for months longer than if yeast were used.

HALF A MAN.

When a man is sick and can only work half the time he is practically half a man. It requires his whole physical energy to do half a man's work.

In general the weak run down condition which cuts the strength and energy in half is due to disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. You could not expect a half starved man to work more than half the time. The condition of the man with weak stomach is that of the half starved man. He is weak through lack of nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nutrition of the body and so restores the strength.

"I had stomach trouble from birth," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washingtonville, Orange Co., N. Y., "and suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 25 I was broken down with dyspepsia. My suffering was terrible. Could not eat without distress. Could only eat a few certain things and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I then felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

WOKE IN HER COFFIN.

Terrible End of a Young Lady in Buenos Ayres.

A letter just received in Paris from Buenos Ayres records the death of Mlle. Cambaceres, a descendant of the famous French general and a member of one of the leading families in the Argentine capital, under most distressing circumstances.

The unfortunate young lady had just turned 18 years of age, and her birthday was celebrated by a grand reception. All her friends came to offer their congratulations and brought presents.

In the evening Mlle. Cambaceres went up to her room to dress for the opera. She was in the act of putting on her hat when she fell to the ground, apparently dead.

The funeral took place within 24 hours, as under municipal law a corpse must not be kept longer.

A few days afterwards someone started the theory that Mlle. Cambaceres had been poisoned, and the authorities ordered the body to be disentombed and a post-mortem examination made. When the coffin was opened it was found, to the horror of everyone, that the veil which covered the face of the unfortunate girl was torn, and her face scratched all over. From these facts it appeared clear that Mlle. Cambaceres had been buried alive, and had torn the veil and scratched her face in her struggles to get out of the coffin.

The case, though not reported in the press, has produced a most painful impression in Buenos Ayres, and more so as Mlle. Cambaceres was very pretty and beloved by all who knew her.

Alive in Coffin.

From Malmoe, the picturesque little Swedish town which faces Copenhagen, across the Sound, comes a ghastly story of premature interment.

A servant girl of the town who suffered from severe toothache had placed in the hollow of a decayed tooth, before she went to bed, a small wad of cotton wool, which had been steeped in narcotic oil. While she was asleep the cotton dropped into her windpipe, and she was found the next morning apparently dead.

The master, believing that she had taken poison for the purpose of committing suicide, and being anxious to avoid publicity of the matter, at once sent for a coffin; the body was placed in it, and it was screwed up. Later on, in order to obtain the necessary medical certificate, without which the burial could not take place, a doctor was sent for, and, on his arrival, the coffin lid was unscrewed.

What was the horror of all to discover from the appearance of the girl's body that she had evidently recovered her senses after being enclosed in the coffin, and had made violent and ineffectual efforts to free herself—efforts which had finally ceased only when death really came to her aid.

Seeing Is Believing.

"Do you know anything about hypnotism?" asked the girl in the pink waist.

"Well," replied the fluffy haired maid as she held up her left hand to display a sparkling solitaire to better advantage, "you can judge for yourself."—Chicago Daily News.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. When the Globe Was Young.

We confess that it is with some gratification that the circulation of The Globe has reached a point altogether unprecedented in the experience of Canadian journals. We are now circulating of the tri-weekly and weekly editions united, a little of six thousand, and are daily receiving large additions to our list. We believe that our number of subscribers is double that of any paper published in British North America. We can remember the time when the circulation of two thousand for a Canadian newspaper was considered very large then it was three thousand and four thousand which was to be reached; and now that The Globe has arrived at six, we see nothing difficult in attaining ten thousand and nothing impossible in twenty.—From The Globe of Sept. 9, 1852.

Poor Pa.

The Canadian boy is irrepressible: "I say pa," cried little Bobby, "is it right that there is only one man before whom the King must raise his hat?"

"Nonsense!" replied his father. "Who told you that rubbish? The King need not take off his hat to anybody. As a matter of courtesy, of course, he raises his hat to ladies, and returns the salutes of his subjects; but there is no man living to whom he is compelled to uncover."

"But," continued Bobby, who had now got near the door, "what about his hairdresser. He must uncover to him! Got yer, dad."

French Women Workers.

More than 6,300,000 Frenchwomen work for their living. Most of these outside workers (more than 2,700,000) are employed in forestry or agriculture, including women land owners. New York, Oct. 14, 1 p.m.—$300,000 in gold arrived at New York in the St. Paul and Umbria from Europe Saturday. Union Pacific striking shopmen threaten to extend strike to Harriman interests.

Wall street Journal says: American Locomotive preferred strikes us as having considerable merit, but it will take time to demonstrate the ultimate value of the stock. It is very desirable to hold.

Washington, Oct. 14, 1.40 p.m. — This on high authority for saying, President Mitchell will try to get the character of strike commission changed before agreeing to it, but that he will accept in the end. President Roosevelt is held to have heard quite definitely that Mr. Mitchell will answer to the operators' proposition this evening.

DOW, JONES & CO.

New York, Oct. 13th.—A decline of from five to twenty points during a period of prosperity and commercial activity, due to entirely local reasons, and ones that will not be permanent, should be taken advantage of. Avail yourself of the opportunity. Every sane person is fully aware that these declines were not brought about owing to an ebb flow in business just about to set in, but entirely to a money situation, brought by the activities of business and the working of a government banking system which is entirely wrong, and which will shortly, we believe, be changed through legislation. We were truly victims of our prosperity. As a result we have a market of necessity, and prices fell. They would not have fallen, save for the money pinch. This hitch will soon disappear, and values will then recover. Take advantage of this fact by purchasing something now. The amount of railway traffic for the next twelve months will simply be limited to their capacity for handling the business offering. The best earnings on record are immediately before us, while stocks are down some considerable distance from their best recorded prices. This is a paradoxical anamoly and will not be the case for any great length of time. Ordinary sense would make this clear to the most superficial observer, will he but think about the matter. It is time to act boldly and fearlessly. Those who will do so will make the money. To those who disposed of their holdings within the past month we specially urge taking them back again at these prices. If your account has been closed, re-open and do so at once. If you sold out at a loss, you will more than make up your loss if you will but follow your advice. We specially desire to impress upon you that you cannot always expect to get into a market at absolutely the bottom price recorded. If you get in within a dollar or so per share of the bottom and then make from five to ten dollars per share by so doing you will have done as well as the average man. Prepare for such a proviso. Now is the time to invest.

Summary.—The drift of to-day's market from the opening till the afternoon hours was towards a lower level. Declines of from one to three points were numerous. M.O.P. continued its notable weakness, as did several of the higher priced shares. The market dropped, as a result of Saturday's surprising bank statement. In the afternoon the rally set in, and many issues sold higher than their best opening prices. It is best to bear in mind that most stocks have declined to the prices at which the bull cliques last commenced to accumulate them, while many issues are lower than they have been for a year past. In the era of close money in '99, prior to the death of Ex-Gov. Flower, money rose to 80 per cent. in Wall street, yet stocks only had an average decline at the time of ten points, and after an extended boom, to-day's stocks are down more than ten points an average, while as yet money has not commanded at any time in excess of 20 per cent. It is generally conceded among the banking fraternity that the money conditions have improved within the past two weeks. Money closed at six per cent. Sales 1,004,000.

RUGBY.

There was a large and enthusiastic turn out at the rugby practice last night. On account of the failure of the electric light system it was not possible to make use of the drill shed and an adjournment was made to the Separate School grounds. It was hoped that the light of the moon would be strong enough to enable the boys to have a good work out, but it was decided after two had been slightly hurt, to dispense with practice and indulge in a good long run instead. A start was made from Central Park a little after nine o'clock, and the players with many groans from stiff muscles, etc., headed for the oval by way of George and Smith streets, on arrival there the cinder track was circled twice and a return made via London street bridge. When all had reached the "Y" the wet faces, matted hair and heaving shoulders showed that the run had not been in vian. Captain McPherson seemed very pleased with the night's performance. The team should be in splendid shape for Thursday. Those who turned out were,—McPherson, Burnham, Dillon, Hurtubise, Thornton, Asselstine, Kearney, Rickey, Meagher, Bell, Armstrong, Lee, Morden and others.

• • • •

It is expected that Geo. Revell will be home about November 1st. He should be able to get into the last few games.

The Team Committee last night selected the team to represent the Peterborough Club in their game against the Rough Riders, of Ottawa, on Thanksgiving Day, on the Nicholls Oval. It will be as follows:

Back, Lee; halves, McPherson, Burnham, Armstrong; quarter, Bell; scrimmage, Thornton, Dainard, Hurtubise; inside wing, Dillon, Asselstine; middle wing, Meagher, Noble; outside, Cameron, Rickey; flying wing, Crowley; spares, Craig, Watson, Kearney.

Word was received this morning from the Ottawa Club stating that Mr. Gleeson could not act as referee for the game here on Thursday, and suggested the name of Mr. F. D. Woodworth, of Toronto. It is probable that Mr. Woodworth will act.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

It Opened Stronger and Continued so Throughout.

Some Interesting Market Letters—The Quotations at To-day's Close.

Owing to proposal made by coal operators, the market to-day showed a decided gain over yesterday, opening about one point all round over last night's final quotations, and closing to-day from 1 to 1 1-2 points stronger than yesterday. C. P. R. opened at 133 and closed at 133 3-4. A.T. began to-day at 87 and went to 89 3-8. Copper showed an increase of 1 7-8 points over its opening price of 64. Sugar opened 121 1-2 and went 122. Other opening and closing quotations were as follows: St. Pauls 184 7-8, 185 3-4; U. P. 104, 104 1-4; M, O.P. 107 1-2, 108 1-2.

Total sales to noon 406,900. Money opened at 7 per cent., went to 11 per cent. and closed at 8 per cent.

New York, Oct. 13, 3 p.m. — The stock market showed extreme weakness to-day in the day when liquidation was right at the declining prices. This selling was mostly of a forced character and result of continued stringent money, a demoralised market for our stocks at London, and the disappointment over the continued uncertainty of the coal strike situation, and Saturday's unfavourable bank statement. On declines support was given the market, and shorts were free buyers. The covering movement was accelerated and continued throughout the afternoon on reports of progress in efforts to effect the settlement of strike, and it recovered sharply, almost retracing the early maximum losses. There are persistent rumours current this afternoon that we are likely to hear of a settlement of coal strike within the next 48 hours. If this settlement should be on the basis of men going back to work unconditionally it would indeed be a bull card. We would not be surprised to see rally continue further in morning.

M. & M.

New York, October 14th, 9.50 a.m. —News of practical settlement of coal strike, while differing from what the street had been led to believe last evening, is nevertheless regarded as practically ending the trouble. Wall street knew most of afternoon that progress had been made towards settlement by operators, but impression was that they would grant increase of 5 to 10 cents in wages to miners individually, without any recognition of their union, instead of scheme of arbitration, which operators finally decided on in conference with President Roosevelt. This is a complete backdown on the part of the operators, as they have all along declared that the only way miners could go back to work would be on old terms. The sentimental effect of this news will be to give us a very broad, strong and higher market, and there will be a rush to cover shorts put out by trades. We would not be surprised to see the advance extend 3 or 5 points, but settlement of strike does not necessarily mean resumption of bull campaign. It has nothing to do with money situation, which after all is the most important factor on the market. We therefore do not expect permanent improvement until stringency in money is permanently relieved, and we therefore advise caution in operations.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 14th, 11.20, a.m.—Selling stocks to realize better than buying so far. Coal operators consent to arbitrate by committee nominated by President. Generally expected miners will waive recognition of union. Sugar trade outlook considered good. Insiders accumulating U.P. on recent break. Frisco earnings show about 5 per cent on common stock outstanding. Expected retirement of R. Sage not thought likely to affect market situation. Stocks plentiful in loan crowd.

DOW, JONES & CO.

President Mitchell summoned district presidents to consider operator's proposition. Local leaders in Mitchell's conference say it was not wholly satisfactory in all respects, but they believe it will be accepted.

I Will Cure You of

Rheumatism

Else No Money is Wanted.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $6.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be dragged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk.

I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47 Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

ATTITUDE OF MINERS

Full Meaning Must Be Apparent Before Statement.

OPERATORS' PLAN NOT FAVORED

President Mitchell Issues a Statement That Allays Public Feeling, But It Does Not Accept or Reject the Plan of the Coal Mine Presidents —The Miners' Views and Opinions.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 15.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers dictated the following statement to the press last night:

"I fully appreciate with what anxiety the people of our country are awaiting the end of the coal strike. The coal operators have not addressed the miners' union or its officers in making their public statement. It is, therefore, impossible for me to state the attitude of the miners at this time. I am now, as I have always been, deeply solicitous of the interests of the public and the welfare of the mine workers who have been on strike for the past five months.

"A formal statement defining our position and intentions will be issued just as soon as we are in possession of the full meaning of the proposition of the operators."

ACCEPTANCE NOT LIKELY.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 16. — From a thorough canvass of the situation as it existed last night, there is every indication for believing that the new arbitration plan proposed by the presidents of the coal companies for ending the miners' strike will not be accepted in its present form. There is a division of opinion among the strikers, but there is no doubt that a majority feel that the offer to have the President of the United States select an arbitration commission along the lines suggested by the operators, is not fair, and that it unduly limits the President in making up the board. The miners, it is safe to say, will abide by the advice of their national president, in whose judgment they have the utmost confidence. President Mitchell declines to say how he personally looks upon the proposition, but last night he gave to the press the statement printed above.

This statement was made by him at 8 o'clock, after a silence lasting all day. He had no intention of making it until the correspondents representing the newspapers all over the country called upon him in a body and informed him that the general public desired to have an answer to the proposition of the operators. After giving it, he was asked many questions regarding the attitude of the men and the probability of the acceptance or rejection of the new offer, but he had no reply to make to any of these questions. He denied that he had any knowledge of what the new offer of the operators was until it became public property, and also denied that he was in telephonic communication with President Roosevelt. His attention was called to the fact that most of the information from Washington indicated that the proposition would be accepted and that the strike was near an end, but he stoutly maintained that neither his officers nor the rank and file of the men had done anything to cause such an impression to go out.

The district presidents also maintain silence as to their personal views of the operators' proposition. President Fahy, however, who, after he arrived from Boston yesterday, gave an inkling as to how he viewed the new turn of affairs, in reply to a query he said: "The strike cannot be settled without the consent of the men. We are not dealing in gold bricks of any kind, and you can make any deduction from that you want."

There will be a conference to-day, between Mr. Mitchell, the three district presidents and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson, who will arrive here to-day. It is fully expected that the sentiment of all the strikers will be known to-day, and that action will be taken accordingly. There is talk of a convention being called, but there is nothing definite on which to base this report. When Mr. Mitchell was asked if he and the district officers had power to end the strike he said that it is a rule of the organization that no settlement can be made by the officers of the union without the consent of a delegate convention. It is practically certain that Mr. Mitchell's advice will be followed in the conference. While he has not said a word as to what he will do, it is freely predicted by those who understand the situation that he will advise a refusal of the proposition.

A great many of the strikers think the proposition should be accepted, and that the miners should trust to President Roosevelt to do the best he can under the conditions laid down by the coal road presidents. An argument was made by one miner yesterday, that Mr. Mitchell could not well afford to turn down the proposition after already offering to permit the President to select the members of the commission. He thought the President would appreciate the trust put in him, and see that the miners had fair play. Others in the same class thought that not much harm could be done by accepting the proposition, but that in the end much good will result.

There is still a third view held by the miners and that is to refuse to accept the plan offered and make a counter proposition embodying some of the suggestions contained in the operators' offer. One proposition suggested was that the operators, the miners and the President each select a number of men to act as a board. This was mentioned to President Mitchell, but he would make no comment on it.

Gompers on the Commission.

Washington, Oct. 15. — President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, last night said: "You can readily understand that I want to leave this whole matter in the hands of Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues. I am particularly anxious not to say anything that might be construed otherwise. I will say that, in my opinion, the proposition made by the operators, at least, so far as their designation of who should be invited to go on the Commission of Arbitration is concerned, is an insult to the President of the United States. I desire that the President should use his discretion in the selection of the personnel of the commission. By indirection it would seem from the operators' proposition that the President has evil designs on the mine owners. No one believes this."

Best Sign of Peace.

New York, Oct. 15.—In the yards of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad at Hoboken, preparations are being made to-day to have all the freight engines and coal trains in readiness to bring coal from the mines. All the machinists that could be found have been put to work overhauling freight engines for service at a moment's notice.

Aid From Great Britain.

London, Oct. 15.—At a meeting yesterday of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, a letter from President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers', received in reply to inquiries, was read. The letter detailed the grievances and objects of the striking miners in the United States. Among other things Mr. Mitchell said: "Trades unions in the United States, England and Wales have responded most generously to our appeals for assistance. Any aid your committee can render will be deeply appreciated."

The committee passed a resolution in favor of advising the trades unionists to render the American miners all the support they possibly could.

Only 15,000 Tons a Week.

Montreal, Oct. 15. — The Star's cable from London, says: "The Mayor of Toronto has cabled an appeal to the Lord Provost of Glasgow and the Mayor of Cardiff, that Canada be granted the preference in coal supplies during the strike. The managers of one of the biggest anthracite firms in England to-day depreciated the sensational reports of American publishers. He said that not more than 15,000 tons of anthracite a week were being sent to America. The present prices were 27 shillings per ton for large and 32 for broken, both f.o.b."

TO SETTLE FRENCH STRIKE.

Operators of Mines in Pas de Calais Asked to Meet.

Paris, Oct. 15.—At the request of M. Basly, member of the Chamber of Deputies from the Department of Pas de Calais, the prefect of Pas de Calais, has written a letter to the managers of all the coal mines in his department, asking them to meet, with the view of deciding upon a basis of agreement with the miners favorable to all the interests involved in the strike. As the strike in Pas de Calais only involves the question of wages, this action of the prefect will probably lead to a resumption of work in that department.

Strikers Used Dynamite.

Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The motormen's strike on the Hudson Valley Railroad is assuming a more threatening form. Dynamite was used in Saratoga Springs early last evening, and a riot is feared at Mechanicville during the night. A trolley car passing through Hamilton street, near the Clarendon Hotel, and only a short distance from the passenger trolley station on South Broadway, was partly wrecked at 7.30 last evening by an explosion of dynamite that had been placed on the track. The car windows were broken, the track torn up, and the windows of a near-by saloon shattered, but no one was injured.

The Cigarmakers Lost.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—The strike of 750 cigarmakers, which was inaugurated here 19 months ago, has been declared off. The union men struck as a protest against the introduction of new methods, but the manufacturers went on with their business by employing non-union hands, and nothing has been heard of the strike for some time. Of the 750 men who struck, 400 are as yet unprovided with regular employment.

Enthusiasm Never Ran Higher in any Mantle Department

Than it has in this Store's Mantle Department this Season

Pleasant encomiums seem to be uttered by most every buyer, as well as visitor, and (if you will just pardon our self-praise) well they might express their delight, for never have we known a better and more distinctive lot of Mantles grouped together. This alone would be sufficient to attract the attention of the purchasing women of Peterborough; BUT, there is another very strong and drawing feature about this store's Mantles, or "Ready-to-don" Department—it's the prices—the favourable prices—the prices that we can afford to offer them to our patrons, owing to our own syndicate of stores.

WHAT STORE outside the large cities that can scare up enough courage to buy Thirteen Hundred (1300) Coats to commence a season? Can you imagine any Foreign, Canadian or American manufacturer not anxious for such an order?

It's the favourable buying of big quantities that makes the prices so easy for our customers, that causes the favourable reports not only about our Mantles, but about our store. It's this large purchasing power that helps this store to grow so fast.

FATALITY NEAR MINDEN.

Mother and Two Children Pinned Under Straw-Stack.

The Children Escaped but the Poor Woman was Crushed to Death.

(Lindsay Post.)

A most distressingly sad accident happened about eight o'clock yesterday morning on a farm near Boskung Lake, about three miles from Minden, Mrs. Frank Graham, a woman about fifty years of age, was instantly killed, and her daughter, aged 14, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Graham, her daughter and a grandson named Richardson, a lad about ten years of age and three cows were under the temporary shed, over which was piled considerable straw. Mrs. Graham was engaged in milking, and the two children were keeping her company. Suddenly the shed collapsed and fell in pinning them underneath. The little boy happened to be standing near the outer edge of the building and managed to burrow his way out. Hearing the cries of the girl, he located her and soon had her liberated, but she was badly cut and bruised. He carried her to the house and then ran to the nearest neighbour for assistance. The work of removing the straw was pushed with vigour, and about half an hour later the body of the poor woman was found pinned underneath a large timber and badly bruised an dcut. The cattle, lying a few feet from the woman, were also dead. The little girl was striken down near a buggy, and it is supposed that the wheels of the vehicle saved her life. The accident is supposed to have been caused by the rain and the heavy wind storm.

Mr. Graham, who is a thresher, left his home early that morning, and contemplated being away all week. If the little boy had not been able to free himself from the debris and give the alarm no doubt they would have lain there till Mr. Graham returned, as the nearest neighbour lives a mile away, and the road is not travelled very much.

The deceased was a sister-in-law of Mr. Wm. Graham, of Smith.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—Miss GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Corresponding Sec'y Mich. Amateur Art Association.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will surely cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of hundreds which we have, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all.

THE FUR TRADE OF THE NORTH.

The Need of a Government Mail Service.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE TRADE.

How the American Vessels Have Been Cutting Into Canada's Fur Trade —Canada's Duty.

We in Canada do not yet know the resources of this great country, but the more they become known the more is borne out the contention of the Examiner that there is hardly a square mile of our wide territory that is not valuable for productive purposes, agricultural, mineral or commercial. In the very heart of Canada is a great terra incognito, whose wealth of resources is comparatively little known. Any additional knowledge we can gain will therefore be of interest. There has not been an exhaustive exploration of this region, and contiguous regions northward. From the fact that coal abounds in the Northwest, in the well known portions, it is possible that it may exist farther northwards, as gold is known to exist in the Klondyke. In view of the fact that Britain's coal supply has seen the beginning of the end, it would be of Imperial importance if our northern regions, now supposed to be otherwise useless, should be found to contain large deposits of coal.

The Edmonton Bulletin contains a timely article, indicating the wealth of these northern regions as a haunt of fur-bearing animals. But as experience has shown that the fur trade has been only an infinitesimal fraction of the possibilities off the new country, in the light of fuller development, the same may prove true of this region.

The following is the article referred to under the title of "The Trade of the Great North":

W. G. Ibbotson, arrived from Fort Smith by way of the Landing on Friday evening. Mr. Ibbotson went to Smith early in the summer in charge of goods shipped by Ross Bros., for W. Connors, and reached Smith on June 29. He returned with the brigade of Commodore Shot, who delivers the greater part of the northern supplies at Smith, and brings back the returns of furs. On the present trip Shot brings up the winter's trade of W. Connors and Hislop & Nagle, whose headquarters are respectively at Good Hope and Fort Resolution. They met Luted's scows at Little Red River on the Athabasca, met Colin Fraser, McLeod and Green, at the Stony Rapids of the Athabasca, met Hurssell at the gas springs of the Athabasca, and met Gordon's teams this side of the Landing.

They left Smith on August 10th and were thirty-seven days on the trip to the Landing, tracking all the way. The weather was very wet and cold, and once a little snow fell. New potatoes were in use at Fort Smith when the party left, and they also got potatoes at the Little Red River and at McMurray.

A serious epidemic of measles or some similar disease is reported all along the Athabasca and Mackenzie. It came from the North and is supposed to have been brought in by the American whalers. Both Indians and white people take it, but it is much more severe on the Indians, among whom there were many deaths, principally because they do not take proper care. When the fever is on they expose themselves, and of course the result is death. Seven deaths occurred amongst those at Smith just before the boats started for Edmonton.

Aside from the sickness, conditions are very favourable on the Mackenzie. There has been a good catch of fur; rabbits and food generally was plentiful.

The fur brought up on the present trip by Shot is the whole trade of Great Slave Lake and the Mackenzie River for the year outside of that made by the Hudson's Bay Company and consists of 120 bales and cases. The value must be a matter of guess until it is opened out and valued according to the present state of the market, but it is probably not less than $100,000. The trade is divided between Hislop & Nagle whose headquarters is Fort Resolution, with outposts at Rae, Providence, Wrigley, Norman, Nelson river and Good Hope, and W. Connors, whose headquarters is at Good Hope with outposts at Norman and Red River. The Hudson's Bay Company have posts at all the points mentioned and at others as well.

Four screw steamers ply on the waters of Great Slave river and lake below the rapids at Smith and down the Mackenzie to Peel river near the Arctic ocean. They are the Wrigley belonging to the H.B. Co., the Eva belonging to Hislop & Nagle, the Caribou belonging to W. Connors and the St. Alphonse belonging to the Roman Catholic mission. The distance is so great from the outposts on the Mackenzie to Edmonton that it is impossible to collect the fur in the north, bring it to Edmonton, dispose of it, and return north with goods to those same outposts in the one season. The difficulty is bridged by an arrangement between the northern trader and the Edmonton outfitter. During the winter the trader sends out by dog train the thousand or two thousand miles as the case may be, an estimate of his winter's catch and his requirements for the following season. The goods are forwarded to Athabasca Landing by team if possible before the opening of spring, so as to miss the probably bad roads of summer. Scows are built at the Landing and the goods sent down the river with the first high water, that is probably late in May. The scows go through to Fort Smith without breaking bulk, except partially for the short portage at Grand Rapids. The furs collected at the Great Slave Lake and Mackenzie River outposts reach Fort Smith somewhat later in the season, some of them having to come further up stream than the goods had to go down. As the scows carry more goods than the steamers part of them have been passed over the portages at Smith and sent on down stream, but the remainder of the brigade awaits the arrival of the steamers with the fur. The fur is transferred over the portage to the scows and the goods which remain transferred to, or the scows are towed by, the steamers. The steamers then start down stream and the scows up stream. The traders have as yet no steamers this side of Smith so the return trip is a weary drag of 800 miles up stream to the Landing, the monotony being broken by a row across Lake Athabasca and specially heavy tracking in the rapids of the Athabasca.

Hislop & Nagle are having a steamer built at Smith Landing for use on the navigable stretch from there to Fort McMurray. It will be in use next season At present the H. B. Co. have a large stern wheeler the Grahame, the Roman Catholic mission have a small side wheeler the St. Joseph, and Colin Fraser, of Chipewyan, has a small screw steamer the Ethel. But these are not at the service of the far northern traders. There is no steamer on the navigable stretch of Athabasca from the head of Grand Rapids to the Landing, about 160 miles.

A point of very great interest to the traders of the very far north is the presence, season after season, of American whalers in the Arctic ocean at the mouth of the Mackenzie. These vessels sail from San Francisco every spring, enter the Arctic by Behring Straits and after hunting whales during the summer spend the winter in a harbour which exists on Herschell island and return to San Francisco the following year, their places being taken by others who sail from San Francisco in that year. These vessels outfit or trade with the Esquimaux and Indians as well as for hunting whales, and as they pay no duty and are under no restrictions they carry on trade at a very great advantage over the traders who go down the river from Edmonton, whose goods have paid duty and who are under strict watch as to liquor. From year to year as no official notice has been taken of them the whalers have become bolder and bolder, both in their liquor and in their other trade. It was reported last year that this year the Canadian Government was going to look after them, and for a time this spring they were not heard from. But when the first boats down the river brought no evidence of government authority about to be exercised they became bolder than ever, and have pushed their trade up the river as far as Good Hope. Last year the interested parties in San Francisco reported to the Canadian Government that they had determined to abandon the Mackenzie River. It was no doubt on the strength of this that no action was taken. This should not be allowed to occur again, and it is to be hoped it will not.

The amount of trade done by way of the Athabasca and the Mackenzie may be estimated from the boat loads of goods which leave the Landing each season. Each of these boats generally carry 200 pieces or parcels of 100 pounds weight eacch. Goods are put up in parcels of that weight for convenience in portaging. The total number of boats is 83, carrying 1,660,000 pounds of supplies. This is certainly a trade of some importance, not only to Edmonton, but to the trade of Canada. As already pointed out, circumstances absolutely compel that letters should be sent out, even from the farthest north post, at least once during the winter. While it is just as necessary in order that trade may be carried on with any regard to profit, that the northern trader should know the condition of the fur market once at least during the winter, and as often as possible. For the past two years no Government mail has been run beyond the Landing into all that vast region to accommodate all that great trade. Each year the Hudson Bay Company have a system of posts throughout the length and breadth of the region, and bring out and take in a mail. The expense is very great and it is too much to expect that the company will incur that expense for the benefit of their rivals in trade. They do carry letters for the missionaries, but the trade of the country, outside of the Hudson Bay Company, is as absolutely without a mail service now as it was one hundred years ago, except in so far as each individual trader provides for the carriage of his own mail. Connors, from Good Hope, 2,000 miles north, Hislop & Nagle, 1,000 miles north, and Colin Fraser from Chipewyan, 700 miles north, all are compelled to make that tremendous trip at their own expense, while their rivals in a smaller way, simply have to stand the disadvantage of not knowing what is going on in the way of trade.

Although the missionaries have their mail carried through the kindness of the Hudson Bay Company, there is no reason why they should be put in the humiliating position of having to ask as a favour what they should enjoy as a right, nor why the Hudson Bay Company should be asked to do for the Government what is the Government's first duty to do for its citizens as the conditions are to-day.

Bad Accident to a Soldier.

Belleville, Oct. 15.—News has just reached this city of a sad accident which befel Horace Gillespie, late of this place, who was in South Africa with the Canadian Artillery, and fired the first shot at the relief of Mafeking. Mr. Gillespie was working on the C.P.R., near Sudbury, and had his head badly crushed between logs which were loaded on a freight car. He lost his hearing for a time, also his eyesight, while his face was paralyzed. Fellow-workmen on the C. P. R. sent him to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where he is now. He is improving very slowly, but has hopes of coming round all right. He expects to be in the hospital about two months yet.

Maintaining good health is to the majority of people the most vital question in the world and nature affords no more efficient strengthener for the system and restorative for the nerves than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Naturally, gradually and certainly it forms new red corpuscles in the blood, creates, new, healthy, nerve cells and puts into the system the snap, energy and vitality that defies disease.

Two Stories From London.

London, Oct. 15.—The "man on the street" was in possession of two stories yesterday, neither of which can at the moment be verified. The first is that the High Commissioner for Canada, Lord Strathcona, has contributed a thousand pounds towards the fund being raised for the new quarters for the Liverpool Scottish Volunteers, of which corps His Lordship is honorary colonel. The other story is to the effect that the British Admiralty is about to send naval experts to Canada for the purpose of consulting the authorities there on questions relating to harbor defences, supplies and maintenance of reserve crews.

All the synovial membranes which enclose the ligaments and bone joints secrete a lubricating fluid which enables the surfaces of the bones and ligaments to move freely upon one another. When the body contains an excess of uric acid it eats this oil; the resulting friction causes intense pain, swelling, and is called rheumatism. Powley's Liquified Ozone eliminates the uric acid from the body, restores all the functions to health by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. No drugs, narcotics or alcohol, simply blood food.

FATALITY AT TROUT LAKE.

C. McLean Killed by the Accidental Discharge of a Gun.

North Bay, Oct. 15. A shocking tragedy occurred at Trout Lake almost three miles from town Monday afternoon, by which C. McLean of C.P.R. Superintendent Bury's office here, lost his life. He, with E. C. Shepherd and an office companion named Allen, went out in a boat to shoot duck, when Allen's gun was accidentally discharged, the charge lodging in the back of McLean's head, and blowing off the crown. His companions were very much excited over the occurrence, and told confused stories as to the exact manner in which it happened. The body was brought to town, and an inquest will be held. McLean's relatives in Montreal were telegraphed to, and his brother arrived yesterday morning.

ORDER-IN-COUNCIL PASSED.

Municipal Coal, to Be Retailed at Cost, Goes Free on I.C.R.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—At a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday the Order-in-Council was formally passed, providing for the hauling of coal ordered by municipalities to Montreal over the Intercolonial Railway. In brief, the Cabinet merely confirmed the policy decided upon at a previous session. All coal for municipalities to be retailed at cost will be hauled free of charge, the privilege to be revoked as soon as the stringency in supply is lessened.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

Russell Sage Must Quit.

New York, Oct. 14.—By those intimately acquainted with the personal affairs of Russell Sage, it was admitted yesterday that the condition of the aged financier has for some time been more critical than has been understood, even by himself, and that he must now retire from active business life.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

For these reasons we announce that our proprietors are the principal shareholders in

THE EDUCATION BILL.

Balfour's Notable Addition to the Controversy.

WHAT THE AGITATION IS DUE TO

Premier Tells Why the Government Has Chosen to Disturb the Educational Peace—Present System of Education Chaotic, Ineffectual and Behind the Age—All About the Rates.

Manchester, Oct. 15.—A notable addition to the controversy over the Government's Education bill was made last night by Premier Balfour in an address he delivered before a mass meeting held in connection with the annual conference of the National Union Conservative Constitutional Association.

The Premier declared that the agitation against and the opposition to the bill were due to misunderstandings caused by false statements of its provisions and intentions. Mr. Balfour said the voice of the calumniator had been too long uninterrupted, but that the country would no longer be hoodwinked by the travesties of truth which had been drunk in by those from whom better things were to be expected.

The Government had chosen to disturb educational peace because the existing system of education was chaotic, ineffectual and behind the age, making Great Britain the laughing stock of other nations, and it was bound, the Premier said, to provide secondary public education and co-ordinate all the branches of public education under the control of the boroughs and the County Councils. If, in doing this, the Government had given a tonic to the Liberal party, Mr. Balfour did not begrudge it.

Continuing, the Premier asserted that a majority of the people believed religion should be taught in the schools, but that it did not agree as to what religion, and that the only alternative was a system permitting denominational teaching in schools wholly supported by rates as well as promoting it in those schools which were not wholly so supported.

The threats of the Non-Conformists to refuse to pay the rates, the Premier said, were unworthy the citizens of a free country. Civilized government was impossible if dissatisfied citizens refused to obey the laws. The Non-Conformists, the Premier declared, hail the bill with pleasure, for it was an effort to give the people unlimited control of education, and their objections, too, were in reality, political.

THOUSANDS WERE DROWNED.

Tidal Waves Swept Away Villages on Coast of China.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 15.—A steamer from China yesterday brought details of a typhoon and tidal wave which swept away Yokohama breakwater, stranded ocean liners and a warship, and drowned thousands. Immense tidal waves also swept away villages along the coast of China, from Kodyu to Odawala, and causing terrible loss of life.

Carey's Story Near the Truth.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—"I fear Mr. William Carey says more than he knew. At the same time he has somehow produced a story which is more nearly the actual truth than any that has been produced in this country. I am confident as ever that when the Government cease to be afraid of the truth I shall be able to show that I did my duty for my country."

The foregoing is an extract from a letter received by Dr. Murray McFarlane of Carlton street from General Sir Redvers Buller. Dr. McFarlane forwarded to the dogged fighter a Toronto newspaper containing an interview with William Carey, who was a signalist with Gen. Buller's army during the march to the relief of Ladysmith.

Windsor Police Want a Husband.

Windsor, Oct. 15. — Mrs. Israel Hammel lies in a very precarious condition at her home on Aylmer avenue, and the police are looking for her husband. It is alleged that Hammel, who is addicted to drink, on Sunday afternoon beat his wife severely. A physician found Mrs. Hammel suffering from injuries both internal and external, and at first did not think she would recover. The police were not notified until last evening, and when they went to look for Hammel he could not be found.

Death Was Accidental.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—At the City Hall last night Coroner J. M. Cotton concluded his investigation into the death of Mrs. Jane Clegborn who was killed Saturday night by being run down by a belt line car. After listening to the evidence of several persons the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE

Mrs. Peverett Still Wanted as a Witness.

PUBLIC INTEREST STIMULATED.

Extraordinary Statements Alleged to Have Been Made by Her as to Corrupt Practices at the Lisgar, Man., Election—Evidence or Silence Salable to the Highest Bidder—Several Affidavits.

Morden, Oct. 15. — Monday's sittings of the Lisgar election trial were by long odds the most interesting since the case began. Since the hearings opened interest has been centred in the woman in the case, a Mrs. Peverett of Somerset. She has been regarded as a very material witness for the petitioners, but it has seemed impossible to obtain her attendance at the Manitou sittings. The bench had granted the petitioners an order to compel her appearance at Morden, and public interest in her testimony had been stimulated to a high degree. Those anticipating spicy evidence were doomed to disappointment, for the lady in question refused to appear in court. Thereupon Mr. Wilson, for the petitioners, asked for a postponement of the trial, pending the discovery of this material witness. In support of his request for a postponement Mr. Wilson read a number of affidavits. Two of the most lengthy were those of R. L. Richardson and his counsel, Mr. A. J. Andrews, describing various interviews with and statements made by Mrs. Peverett.

This was followed by the reading of a lengthy affidavit and supporting letters by Mr. Howell, and one from Mr. W. N. Ingram. The affidavits from the opposing sides were very conflicting, and served mainly to show that Mrs. Peverett had been trying to sell her evidence or her silence to the highest bidder. The affidavits were directly contradictory in many important respects.

When the court resumed, affidavits were presented from Messrs. Andrews and Richardson, denying that either had ever directly or indirectly given Mrs. Peverett to understand that she would derive any advantage, pecuniary or otherwise, from giving the evidence that she had stated she was prepared to give.

DENIES DISLOYALTY.

Hon. Mr. Tarte Addresses the Members of the Montreal Board of Trade—Tariff and Transportation.

Montreal, Oct. 15. — Hon. J. I. Tarte yesterday afternoon spoke to the members of the Board of Trade at one of the quarterly meetings. He dealt with transportation facilities and tariff revision, the two first things, to which, he maintained, Canadians were bound to apply themselves.

Of the tariff, Mr. Tarte said: "It is not without some little trembling that I speak of tariffs. I feel though, sir, that I am bound to do so. Tariff, after all, is not a sacred thing that nobody can look into It's a great, large, broad public question, in which we are all interested. I have talked tariff for the last twenty-five years. I talked tariff before being a Minister; I have talked tariff since I have been a Minister, and I will talk tariff whether I remain a Minister for some time or whether I will go to private life, which will certainly come some of these fine mornings. It cannot be helped. I quite recognize I am not bound to be a Minister for all time. I have no desire to be so."

The Minister then quoted from a speech, delivered in the presence of the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance, and said that Sir Wilfrid during the last session of Parliament, also from the speech made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the banquet of the Manufacturers' Association last November, touching tariff reforms, and added: "I protest against the insinuation that I have taken advantage of the absence of my distinguished leader to say things that I would not have said in his presence. Let not my political friends accuse me of being disloyal. I have a right to expect better from them."

Mr. Tarte quoted from his own speech, delivered in the presence of the Prime Minister, and the Minister of Finance, and said that Sir Wilfrid had never demonstrated with him, and said that he was wrong. "I have been speaking since as I did then," he said, "and I intend going on as I do now. It is a very clear case but I protest once more against the idea that I may have taken advantage of the absence of the Prime Minister of the Government to stab him."

Mr. Tarte said that he didn't want to increase the tariff along the line. Nobody wished to do that. What he meant by a revision of the tariff was that the tariff should be gone over item by item to see what could be done to suit the Canadian people on certain articles."

Centralia Farmer Hangs Himself.

St. Thomas, Oct. 15.—Hanging by the neck, with life scarcely extinct, Richard Hogarth of Centralia was found by his son. He had eaten breakfast as usual, and carried the rope with which he committed suicide from the house to the barn. The motive for the deed is a mystery. Mrs. Hogarth was expected home from a visit to Manitoba this week.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

MARRIED AT ST. LUKE'S.

Mr. Chill Turner Wedded to Miss Daisy Yenney This Morning.

At St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, a large number of friends gathered at ten o'clock this morning to witness the wedding of Miss Daisy E., daughter of Mr. H.A. Yenney, principal of the South Central School, to Mr. Archilles W. Turner, son of Mr. J. J. Turner, Peterborough. The solemn ceremony was very impressive and was performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. The bride wore a dark navy blue travelling dress with a large picture hat and was assisted by her sister, Miss Lillian Yenney, who was attired in a white organdie gown trimmed with valencienne lace, while Mr. Reginald Turner performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the young couple and guests returned to the home of the bride's parents, 63 Homewood avenue, where all partook of the wedding breakfast. The numerous friends of the bride and groom presented them with many goodly presents, chief of which was a dinner set from the employees of J. J. Turner & Sons, and a check for a handsome amount from E. F. Mason & Co., in whose establishment the bride has been for some time past. Mr. and Mrs. Turner left this morning for Toronto, Buffalo and other points west, and on their return will reside on Stewart street, Ashburnham.

AN ASHBURNHAM WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Kate Wand and Mr Albert Throop.

A very pretty home wedding took place in Ashburnham at the hour of eight o'clock, last evening, when Miss Katie Jane, daughter of the late Wm. Wand, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Albert Throop, of Ware street, Peterborough, by Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Mark street Methodist church. The bride was robed in a dress of white organdie trimmed with chiffon ribbon, and was assisted by Miss Nellie McCabe, who wore a dress of like material, while a niece of the bride, Miss Sadie Patterson, performed the duties of flower girl. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. W. J. Patterson, of Ottawa, and the groom was assisted by Mr. Edward Wand. A large number of very useful presents were evidences of the high esteem in which both the bride and groom are held in Ashburnham and Peterborough. Decorations of evergreen and autumn leaves gave the house a very pretty and dainty appearance. In the future Mr. and Mrs. Throop will reside on Stuart street, Ashburnham.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Particulars of the Ray-Craig Nuptials Last Evening.

An extremely pretty house wedding took place at six o'clock last evening at the home of ex-Councillor J. T. Craig, corner of Stewart and Elizabeth streets, Ashburnham, it being the occasion of the marriage of his daughter, Laura Elsie, to Mr. R. W. Ray, of Peterborough.

The bride was assisted by Miss Minnie Craig, while Mr. Arthur Noble performed like duties for the groom. As her wedding gown the bride wore a dress of mousselaine de soie over a white gown, trimmed with chiffon lace and applique; the bridesmaid wearing a like dress over a pink gown trimmed with lace insertion and satin ribbon.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. A. Wilson. After the wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Ray left for Buffalo, and other points, and on their return home will reside at No. 171 King street, Peterborough.

AT TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL.

Peterborough Boys Win a Great Many of the Events.

The annual games in connection with Trinity College School, Port Hope, took place yesterday, and were attended by a number of the parents of the pupils, and by many of the T. C.S. old boys. Mr. Peter Campbell was one of the former, and he speaks enthusiastically of the success of the day's events, and of the progress the school appears to be making in every department. Mr. Campbell's son, Alan, won more events than any other, carrying off four firsts and two seconds. Douglas Hammond and George Lundy, of town, were also prominent in the prize winners, the latter winning the Consolation Prize.

To-day T.C.S. Rugby team is playing St. Andrew's of Toronto, and to-morrow the annual game with the "Old Boys" will take place. The T.C.S. II team will play the Grove 15 at Lakefield on Saturday.

THE CORONATION CHOIR.

Arrangements have been made for the appearance here of the celebrated Coronation Choir, of London, Eng. The company consists of eight boy sopranos, including Percy Phillips, who is generally considered the greatest boy soprano in Great Britain, two male altos, two basses, and two tenors.

The choir has already appeared in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Manitoba. From Manitoba they go to Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago. They appear in Toronto, in the Metropolitan church, on Thursday, October 16th (Thanksgiving Day) and October 17th. They will then return to Detroit singing in the Detroit opera house. After a three weeks' tour of Ontario the party will leave for New York, taking in the principal cities en route.

No doubt the music loving people of this town and surrounding country will greet this splendid organization with a full house. They will appear here under the auspices of the choir of the George street church, on Thursday, November 10th. Mr. Robson, the advance agent, was in town on Tuesday.

The George street choir will meet on Friday night in the church. In view of the above every member should be present. Special Thanksgiving music next Sunday night.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD.

Held a Very Successful Meeting Last Evening.

The second meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, was held in the church parlours last night, with Vice-President J. H. Connal in the chair. For so young an organization the attendance was very encouraging indeed.

After the minutes of the preceding meeting had been read and approved the question of the Guild furnishing ushers, and members to take up the collections, was considered. A committee, consisting of Messrs. McWilliams and McLean, was appointed to wait on the Board of Managers, who were then in session, and lay the proposition before them. The Board was very pleased to accept the offer. Members of the Guild were appointed for this purpose, their duties to begin on Sunday next.

Mr. Sorsoleil then read the first part of his paper on "The Philosophy of Brass Buttons," or "The Officiality of Officialdom." This was a very amusing and witty lecture, but was too long for reproduction here, while excerpts from it would fail to convey any idea of its merits.

Following this the boys were given a solo by Mr. J. Dawson, entitled "Little Black Me." Arrangements were then discussed for a concert to be given by the Canadian Jubilee Singers, under the auspices of the Guild, on October, 24th.

Following this Mr. Sorsoleil gave the remainder of his paper, and in conclusion was given a hearty vote of thanks by the members present. The meeting was brought to a close by singing, and prayer by Rev. Mr. Wilson.

SPIRITUALISM CONDEMNED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There has come into our midst lately a modern juggler, calling himself a "doctor," of whom we are told that only recently he was fined by a London judge to a considerable amount of money and given a few hours to shake the dust of London off his feet, and "get out" as quickly as possible. This spurious "doctor" has opened a show room, which, unfortunately, the Sons of England let him have unknowingly, we trust, of what was going to be done there, trying to gather around him an audience which might be duped by his tricks. There are still some people who are never satisfied unless they can make fools of themselves, and there are still enough fakirs who have the talent of gathering them together. However, these lectures of this phenomenal professor or doctor, whatever title he may give himself, are based upon what is called "spiritualism," and are as ridiculous as they are designed to deceive people. It would be well to outline what spiritualism really is, so as to show those foolish people who attend this nonsense into what a folly they have fallen.

The main idea of modern spiritualism is that we may hold communication with those who have passed into the spiritual world, sending and receiving messages, and that disembodied spirits make their presence known by audible sounds and by becoming materialized. There are three classes of statements which are made to uphold modern spiritualism;

1.—There is the moving and tapping of tables and chairs and other articles of furniture in rooms.

2.—There are rapping sounds and some other modes of communication by which spirits make their presence known, and information is imparted without the agency of any medium except the inanimate objects themselves.

3.—There are a great variety of communications through the agency of persons called mediums who are particularly susceptible to the influence of the spirits, and are favourite means of communication, and who thus become transmitters of intelligence from the spirit world to this.

These are the three general groups of alleged facts. We need not enter into the particulars of a table turning circle. This is easily accounted for. Nor is it necessary to describe a seance with a medium. The mediumistic seances and manifestations are quite varied, but none of them are particularly interesting. There is, perhaps, the thrumming of a guitar in the air, while the people sing; the thrusting of an arm out of a cabinet; the gliding of a white figure through the darkened room; the whispering in the ear of the anxious enquirer; the sound of bells; the turning on of the light, and the collection of the fee. Then it is over.

Sometimes there is the writing on the inside of a slate which has been fastened against another one. Then there are rappings, and scrapings, and displacements of articles. Now and then a trance medium appears, and in her trance she talks with spirits, and tells you what they have to say about you, and the pocket book you lost, or what is to be the issue of your business venture, or the present condition of your great uncle who died fifty years ago. Perhaps the seance is varied by the presence of some spirit who is bubbling over with information. It makes death all the more dreaded if there is the probability that people get so absurdedly weak when they become spirits. Modern spiritualism, such as is here exhibited in the Sons of England Hall, has done nothing for the intellectual welfare of mankind. It has added nothing valuable to its literature, nor has it enriched science or in any way helpfully enlarged man's mental horizon. If it be said that its main purpose is to bring comfort to the living by establishing communication between them and departed friends, then we have to say that there has been so much of fraud and deception mingled with the whole system that confidence in its declared revelations is checked. It presents the greatest facilities for artful and unprincipled persons to practise gross and dangerous deceptions upon others. The wonder is that, with the constant exposures of frauds, so many are willing to put such absolute faith in the whole system, and it speaks badly for the intelligence of the citizens of Peterborough to give this adventurer the opportunity to deceive them, and enrich himself by their credulity. If the facts as they happened in London would be known by all, the soil of Peterborough might become too hot for the medium to walk on. We do trust that the intelligent people of the town, and especially professing Christians, will shun, as they would shun bad company, this corrupt and deceitful jugglerism that has located itself in our fair town.

Yours truly,

AREQUIPA.

MR. HOWARD WARAM LEAVING

To Accept a Position on the Canadian Northern Railway.

Mr. Howard Waram, who for the past five years has been connected with the office of the G.T.R. freight sheds, leaves to-morrow to accept a similar position with the Canadian Northern Railway at Port Arthur. Mr. Waram was very popular with a wide circle of friends in Peterborough, was a member of Eko camp, and will be greatly missed in town. His friends here, while regretting to see him leave will all join in wishing him success in his new position, which it is understood, is a decided promotion.

NORWOOD FAIR.

Indications of a Record-Breaking Attendance.

There are many fairs in this district which are becoming more and more largely attended every year, and of these the Norwood exhibition is perhaps the chief Mecca of the country fair-goers. Every year large numbers go down from this town and vicinity, but never before was there such a crowd as that which gathered this morning at the C.P.R. station to go down with the 57th band. If the crowd in Norwood is as great in proportion, there will be a record breaking attendance, and if the weather holds good the prospects are that the directors' fondest anticipations will be more than realized. The band of the 57th Regiment is engaged to furnish a programme at a concert to be held in the rink there this evening.

ANGLERS' ANNUAL DINNER.

C. G. E. Employees at the Palm Parlour.

Songs, Recitations and Speeches Made up an Enjoyable Evening—The Toast List.

The annual dinner of the Canadian General Electric Anglers' Club took place at H. Long's palm parlour last night, and was attended by about forty members. Everything was served up in proper style, and Mr. Long is to be congratulated upon his excellent taste. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers and strewn with autumn leaves.

Commodore Patterson occupied the chair, and as usual was not out of place, for during the summer outings he was a prominent figure at the head of this well known aggregation. Mr. Bookhart occupied the vice-chair.

The Commodore, in his opening remarks, humorously expressed himself as being thoroughly satisfied that the club had cleaned up all the fish that were in the inland waters, and proposed have a delegation wait upon the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to have the lakes restocked for next season's operations.

The first toast on the programme was that of "The King," which was responded to by all joining in singing the National Anthem.

Next on the list was the toast of the C.G.E. Angling Club, responded to by Mr. N. Munro, Mr. Bookhart, J. O'Brien and R. Shepherd, all wishing the club prosperity and remarking that the club was the jolliest in existence.

Mr. J. Peace was called upon for a song, which was given in his usual style; he had to respond to an encore. Next came the presentation of a gold locket to R. Donel.

The toast of "Canada" was responded to by H. Westbrook, J. Porter, and P. Byshe.

Mr. F. Roberts next favoured the club with a humorous song and Mr. Joe Begley gave a recitation.

Mr. T. Molden proposed the toast of the "C.G.E. Angling Club's cook." J. Trombley responded. Messrs. J. O'Brien and F. Pope rendered vocal selections.

The toast of "The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. F. Roberts, and was responded to by Messrs. Geo. Scott, J. McCabe, Geo. Tovey, D. Carlisle and T. Houston.

Messrs. J. Peace, F. Houston, N. Munro, H. Westbrooke and J. Begley contributed to the programme during the evening.

Remember the date and event—the famous Canadian Jubilee Singers, St. Paul's church, Friday, Oct. 24th. Admission 25c.

THE LATE MR. BATES.

A Well Known Stony Lake Cottager Passes Away.

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. F. A. Bates, of New York, will regret exceedingly to learn of his demise, which occurred on Monday last. LATEST IN SPORTING CIRCLES.

To-morrow's Great Game on Nicholls Oval.

Ladies Will Play Golf To-morrow—Notes on Many Lines of Sport.

RUGBY.

Everything is now in readiness for the game on Nicholls Oval to-morrow afternoon between the Rough Riders, of Ottawa, and the Peterborough fifteen. The indications are that there will be a very large attendance as the day is a holiday, and the attraction is one of more than ordinary merit. The Ottawa team will arrive here early to-morrow morning and they will go onto the field confident of winning. Equally as confident will the locals step onto the gridiron, and their friends are not at all nervous as to the outcome. The boys have been practicing with great energy of late, and they are now in the very pink of condition. The match will start sharp at three o'clock, with a capable official from Varsity as referee. The executive has made every possible arrangement to collect a gate and men will be stationed at the various entrances to the park so that those desirous of seeing the game will be able to secure tickets. These tickets are in the form of tags or badges which will be worn by all who have paid. In fact anyone who has not paid the necessary admission fee will be known by the absence of the ticket which should be worn by the on-lookers. The boys had a final work-out last night, there being a splendid turn out. Capt. MacPherson has coached his men faithfully from the start, the eyes of Peterborough are on them and should they win to-morrow's match they will receive that hearty support in their subsequent games that the citizens of the town have shown towards them in the past. The line-up of the team will be as follows:

Back, Lee; halves, McPherson, Burnham, Armstrong; quarter, Bell; scrimmage, Thornton, Dalnard, Hurtubise; inside wing, Dillon, Asselstine; middle wing, Meagher, Noble; outside, Cameron, Rickey; flying wing, Crowley; spares, Craig, Watson, Kearney.

As the Whig predicted, the O.R.F.U. senior series has done what the inflated baloon did—gone up into the air. Kingston did more than any other place towards building up rugby in Ontario, and when Kingston, after eleven years withdrew from the Ontario senior series, something was bound to occur. Hamilton has now withdrawn, and because Kingston is no longer in the union, Ottawa Rough Riders have also decided to drop out, and join the Q.R.U. next year. So Toronto must now seek teams in the west to bull-doze. She has played her last card down this way. Next year will see six teams in the Quebec union—Montreal, Montreal Britannias, Ottawa Rough Riders, Ottawa College, Brockville and Kingston Granites. The teams could be divided into two sections, the first three in one and the last three in the other. Home and home matches could be played, and the winners in each section play off for the championship.—Kingston Whig.

GOLF.

Friday, October 17th will be field day for the Ladies' Golf Club; the annual autumn competition will be held then. Prizes will be offered for driving, cleeking, approaching and putting. The competition will begin at 10.30 a.m., and after luncheon a handicap medal round will be played for a prize. Members, both playing and associate, are expected to attend.

The Rosedale Ladies' Golf Team of Toronto, have accepted an invitation to play the Peterborough Ladies' Golf Club here on Thursday, October 23. A very enjoyable game is expected.

OUR SOUTH AFRICAN HEROES.

A Tribute to our Soldier Lads of Noble Lives and Glorious Deaths.

The war in South Africa darkened the red veldt with a deeper hue—the life blood of our fellow subjects, friends, neighbours and those endeared by ties of kinship, who laid down their lives for Queen and Empire. In a spirit of loving remembrance we are constrained to lay a tributary wreath upon the new-made mound, still dewy with affection's tear drops, over our lifeless clay, in anticipation of a more enduring memorial represented by monolith or by place on the honour roll of history. Such a timely memorial to the noble lives and glorious deaths of those who fell in far South Africa, has reached the Examiner in the form of a neatly printed little booklet entitled "In Memoriam of Our South African Heroes." This little book, beautifully printed, with its title page embrazoned with the flags of the Empire and Canada arching the maple leaf, is written by E. M. Mason, of Muncey, Ont., who, with her husband, Rev. Thomas Mason, was, some years ago, a resident of Peterborough and will be well remembered by many. Mrs. Mason in her little book succinctly sketches the source, origin and progress of the war, interweaving in her plain and graphically written narative, an affectionate and earnest tribute to the devotion to duty and loyal service to the Empire of the soldiers of the Queen, with especially eloquent reference to the Canadians. And at the same time giving timely and tender words of comfort to the bereaved, whose loved ones lie in lonely graves, perhaps unmarked by any token save the rocky kopje stained with the life blood they poured out as a libation on the altar of country. The writer does more. She points out the littleness of earthly glory and the fading character of earthly wreaths of victory compared to the crown of victory that waits the Christian soldier who lays down his life fighting at the same time the good fight as well as the battles of his Queen and country. The little book besides being a loving tribute to the fallen brave, will give abiding comfort to the bereaved who are privileged to peruse its pages. The book is issued for the author by Wm. Briggs, Toronto, price 25 cents.

All Saints' Church.

There will be a harvest Thanksgiving service at All Saint's church to-morrow at 11 a.m.

THANKSGIVING.

Never before since Canada became Canada, have we had as abundant reason—should any material reason from the human point of view be considered necessary—to enter heartily into the National Thanksgiving. We have had the most exultant year of individual and national prosperity, the most abounding harvest and generally the most profitious conditions for national happiness and national comfort of any year that time has notched upon the record of our existence as a country. The shadow of war that darkened the Empire and projected itself with intensified gloom upon many a hearthstone, has rolled away as a scroll, that is closed, before the begnignant light of peace. It was a happy decision that caused our Government to change the date of Thanksgiving Day to an earlier time. While one could sympathise with the broad-minded spirit that sought to synchronize our own day of thenksgiving with that of our neighbours, so that a whole continent might unite in grateful rejoicing at the beneficence of Divine Providence, yet the spirit of the day, the associations that cluster round its observance, the habits of thought and conditions of the people are so widely different; the causes for gratitude which animate the respective peoples in a national thanksgiving are so different, as to admit of no harmonious blending of the two occasions. Where we in Canada rejoice the modest measures of real liberty, a jubilation in which every subject, from the humblest to the highest can exercise, our rejoicing cannot be made to dovetail in on this line with that of our neighbours, where real liberty is a phantom, a mere word form, where the great and greedy oppress the lowly and needy, where mob passion supersedes the dignified process of law, and indicates more a day of humiliation than of thanksgiving. Canada is herself and we need not lean on our neighbours in any sense, especially in the matter of our duty to be grateful. We have our own successes, our own blessings and our burdens, and, if we strive together, and in many ways in the face of the thinly veiled hostility of our neighbours, to co-operate with Divine Providence to achieve the success and prosperity that give cause for gratitude, we may well unite as a separate people; to give suitable national recognition of the source from which our benefits come. We have abundant reason for gratitude, and therefore let us rejoice, and may Canada's Thanksgiving Day of the year of grace, 1902, be marked with a white stone forever in the calendar of her national years.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THANKSGIVING.

I.

There was a sad heart in the low-storied, dark little house that stood humbly by the roadside under some tall elms. Small as her house was, old Mrs. Robb found it too large for herself alone; she only needed the kitchen and a tiny bedroom that led out of it, and there still remained the best room and a bedroom, with the low garret overhead.

There had been a time, after she was left alone, when Mrs. Robb could help those who were poorer than herself. She kept a cow, and was strong enough not only to do a woman's work inside her house but almost a man's work outside in her piece of garden ground. At last sickness and age had come hand in hand, those two relentless enemies of the poor, and together they had wasted her strength and substance. She had always been looked up to by her neighbors as being independent, but now she was left, lame-footed and lame-handed, with a debt to carry and her bare land, and the house ill-provisioned to stand the siege of time.

For awhile she managed to get on, but at last it began to be whispered about that it was no use for anyone to be so proud; it was easier for the whole town to care for her than for a few neighbors, and Mrs. Robb had better go to the poor-house before winter, and be done with it. At this terrible suggestion her brave heart seemed to stand still.

The people whom she cared for most happened to be poor, and she could no longer go into their households to make herself of use. The very elms overhead seemed to say "No," as they groaned in the late autumn winds, and there was something appealing even to the strange passer-by in the look of the little gray house, with Mrs. Robb's pale, worried face at the window.

II.

Some one has said that anniversaries are days to make other people happy in, but sometimes, when they come they seem to be full of shadows, and the power of giving joy to others; that inalienable right which ought to lighten the saddest heart, the most indifferent sympathy, sometimes even this seems to be withdrawn.

So poor old Mary Ann Robb sat at her window on the afternoon before Thanksgiving and felt herself poor and sorrowful indeed. Across the frozen road she looked eastward over a great stretch of cold meadow land, brown and wind-swept and crossed by icy ditches. It seemed to her as if in all the troubles that she had known and carried before this, there had always been some hope to hold, as if she had never looked poverty full in the face and seen its cold and pitiless look before. She looked anxiously down the road, with a horrible shrinking and dread at the thought of being asked, out of pity, to join in some Thanksgiving feast, but there was nobody coming with gifts in hand. Once she had been full of love for such days, whether at home or abroad, but something had chilled her very heart now, poor old woman.

Her nearest neighbor had been foremost of those who wished her to go to the town farm, and he had said more than once that it was the only sensible thing. But John Mander was waiting impatiently to get her tiny farm into his own hands; he had advanced some money upon it in her extremity, and pretended that there was still a debt, after he had cleared her wood lot to pay himself back. He would plow over the graves in the field corner and fell the great elms, and waited like a spider for his poor prey. He had often reproached her for being too generous to worthless people in the past and coming to be a charge to others now. Oh, if she could only die in her own house and not suffer the pain of homelessness and dependence!

It was just at sunset, and as she looked out hopelessly across the gray fields, there was a sudden gleam of light far away on the low hills beyond, the clouds opened in the west and let the sunshine through. One lovely gleam shot swift as an arrow and brightened a far cold hillside where it fell, and at the same moment a sudden gleam of hope brightened the winter landscape of her heart.

"There was Johnny Harris," said Mary Ann, softly. "He was a soldier's son, left an orphan and distressed. Old John Mander scolded, but I couldn't see the poor boy want. I kept him that year after he got hurt, spite o' what anybody said, an' he helped me what little he could. He said I was the only mother he'd ever had. 'I'm going out West, Mother Robb,' says he. 'I shan't come back till I get rich,' an' then he'd look at me an' laugh, so pleasant and boyish. He wa'n't one that liked to write. I don't think he was doin' very well when I heard—there, it's years ago now. I always thought if he got sick or anything, I should have a good home for him. There's poor Esra Blake, the deaf one too—he won't have any place to come to—"

The light faded out of the doors, and again Mrs. Robb's troubles stood before her. Yet it was not so dark as it had been in her sad heart. She still sat by the window, hoping now, in spite of herself instead of fearing: and a curious feeling of nearness and expectancy made her feel not so much light-hearted as light-headed.

"I feel just as if somethin' was goin' to happen," she said. "Poor Johnny Harris, perhaps he's thinkin' o' me, if he's alive."

It was dark now out of doors, and there were tiny clicks against the window. It was beginning to snow, and the great elms creaked in the rising wind overhead.

III.

A dead limb of one of the old trees had fallen that autumn, and poor firewood as it had been, it was Mrs. Robb's own, and she had burnt it most thankfully. There was only a small armful left, but at least she could have the luxury of a fire. She had a feeling that it was her last night at home, and with strange recklessness she began to fill the stove as she used to do in better days.

"It'll get me good an' warm," she said, still talking to herself, as lonely people do, "an' I'll go to bed early. It's comin' on to storm."

The snow clicked faster and faster against the window, and she sat alone thinking in the dark.

"There's lots o' folks I love," she said once "They'd be sorry I ain't got nobody to come, an' no supper the night afore Thanksgivin'. I'm dreadful glad they don't know." And she drew a little nearer to the fire, and laid her head back drowsily in the old rocking chair.

It seemed only a moment before there was a loud knocking, and somebody lifted the latch of the door. The fire shone bright through the front of the old stove and made a little light in the room, but Mary Ann Robb waked up frightened and bewildered.

"Who 's there?" she called, as she found her crutch and went to the door. She was conscious of only her one great fear. "They've come to take me to the poorhouse!" she said, and burst into tears.

There was a tall man, not John Mander, who seemed to fill the narrow doorway.

"Come, let me in," he said gayly. "It's a cold night. You didn't expect me, did you, Mother Robb?"

"Dear me! What is it?" she faltered, stepping back as he came in and dropping her crutch. "Be I dreamin'? I was a dreamin' about— Oh, there! What was I a-sayin'? 'Tain't true! No! I've made some kind of a mistake."

Yes, and this was the man who kept the poorhouse, and she would go without complaint; they might have given her notice, but she must not fret.

"Sit down, sir," she said, turning toward him with touching patience. "You'll have to give me a little time. If I'd been notified I wouldn't have kept you waiting a minute this cold night."

It was not the keeper. The man by the door took one step forward and put his arm around her and kissed her.

"What are you talking about?" said John Harris. "You ain't goin' to make me feel like a stranger? I've come all the way from Dakota to spend Thanksgivin'. There's all sorts of things out here in the wagon, an' a man to help get 'em in. Why—don't you cry so, Mother Robb, I thought you'd have a great laugh if I come and surprised you. Don't you remember I said I should?"

It was John Harris, indeed. The poor soul could say nothing. She felt now as if her heart was going to break with joy. He left her in the rocking-chair and came and went in his old, boyish way, bringing in his store of gifts and provisions. It was better than any dream. He laughed and talked and went out to send away the man to bring a wagonful of wood from John Mander's, and came in himself laden with pieces of the nearest fence to keep the fire going in the meantime. They must cook the steak for supper right away; they must find the package of tea among all the other bundles; they must get good fires started in both the bedrooms. Why, Mother Robb didn't seem to be ready for company from out West! The great cheerful fellow hurried about the tiny house and the little old woman tripped after him, forgetting everything but hospitality. Had not she a house for John to come to? Were not her old chairs and tables in their places still? And he remembered everything, and kissed her as they stood before the fire as if she were a girl.

He had found plenty of hard times, but luck had come at last. He had struck luck, and this was the end of a great year.

"No, I couldn't seem to write letters; no use to complain o' the worst, an' I wanted to tell you the best when I came;" and he told it while she cooked the supper. "No, I wa'n't goin' to write no foolish letters," John repeated. He was afraid he should cry himself when he found out how bad things had been; and they sat down to supper together, just as they used to do when he was a homeless orphan boy, whom nobody else wanted in winter weather while he was crippled and could not work. She could not be kinder now than she was then, but she looked so poor and old! He saw her taste her cup of tea and set it down again, with a trembling hand and a look at him. "No, I wanted to come myself," he blustered, wiping his eyes and trying to laugh. "And you're going to have everything you need to make you comfortable long's you live, Mother Robb!"

She looked at him again and nodded, but she did not even try to speak. There was a good, hot supper ready, and her own folks had come; it was the night before Thanksgiving.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Welsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Early Thanksgiving Days.

The first recorded Thanksgiving was the Hebrew feast of the tabernacles.

There have been but two English Thanksgivings in this century. One was on Feb. 27, 1872, for the recovery of the Prince of Wales from illness; the other, June 21, 1887, for the Queen's Jubilee.

The New England Thanksgiving dates from 1623, when the Massachusetts Bay colony set apart a day for thanksgiving.

The first national Thanksgiving proclamations were appointed by Congress during the Revolutionary war.

The first great American Thanksgiving Day was in 1784 for the declaration of peace. There was one more national Thanksgiving in 1789, and no other till 1863, when President Lincoln issued a national proclamation for a day of Thanksgiving. Since that time the president has issued an annual proclamation. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Away Down in Mexico

There grow two plants known and used before Columbus discovered America. One is a specific for inflamed membranes and the other a certain cure for bronchitis. Combined with Tar, Tamarac, Tolu and other herbs they go to make up Four T's, the only positive cure known to-day for whooping cough and bronchitis. A 25c. bottle cures an ordinary cough in 24 hours. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Sphinx Needs Umbrella.

Venice has lost her famous Campanile, and now Egypt has good cause to tremble for her Sphinx—at least so says a distinguished European Egyptologist who examined this ancient monument recently.

It is slowly wasting away, he says, and the sole cause is because too much rain has recently descended on it. Each year, he points out, there are terrible showers of rain in Egypt, which are followed by fierce tempests, and as a result the Sphinx, which has stood for centuries, is now being slowly, but surely, destroyed, the stone of which it is fashioned being no longer able to resist the periodical onslaughts of the weather.

As the only efficacious remedy he suggests that an immense umbrella be placed over the monument, as thus the rain could be warded off, and that some method be also devised to protect it against the sand which envelops it during tempests.

"WELL, THANK YOU."

A Granton Man is now Able to Make This Answer.

Inquiring Friends did not Always get Such a Cheery Reply Because for Many Years Mr. Fletcher Suffered With Lumbago.

Granton, Ont., Oct. 13th. (Special.) —Mr. John Fletcher, a well known farmer of this place, who suffered for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble, has at last found a cure.

Now, when his friends inquire as to his health, he cheerily tells them that he is well, something which he has not been able to do for a long time, till quite recently.

Mr. Fletcher tells the story of his illness, and how he was cured, as follows;

"I was troubled for a long time with Lumbago and Kidney Trouble. My urine was of a very red colour. I tried many medicines but could get nothing to help me.

"I consulted the best medical doctors in Granton and St. Mary's, but they could do nothing for me.

"At last one day a druggist in Granton suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills as a cure for my Lumbago. I purchased a box and began to use them right away. The first box helped me and I kept on till I was completely cured.

"I am now as well as ever I was and have not any trace of lumbago about me. I am perfectly sound and I thank Dodd's Kidney Pills for it.

"I recommend them to all my friends, and as for myself, I never intend that my house shall be without them, for I believe them to be the greatest medicine in the world."

Mr. Fletcher is a man who means every word he says and is prepared to substantiate the truth of every statement made above.

There seems to be no case of Lumbago, Backache, Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

This Boy was Weak and Languid

Doctor Said He Grew Too Fast—Parents Became Alarmed and Used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food With Splendid Results.

So mild and gentle in action is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that it is peculiarly suited for the use of children. Both boys and girls are under a very severe strain during the time that their systems are developing into manhood and womanhood. The tax on the blood and nerves is frequently too great and some external assistance is necessary. We do not believe that it is possible to secure better treatment at such times than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and this belief is backed by the testimony of very many parents, who have seen health restored to their children by means of this great restorative.

Mrs. George F. Brisbin, Lake street, Peterborough, Ont., states;

"One of my children, a boy of about fifteen years, did not have good health for a year or more. He seemed to have no energy, was weak and languid, and suffered from nervousness. The doctors said that he was growing too fast, but we became alarmed, and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before we noticed a great change in his condition. His appetite improved, he had a better colour, and soon became stronger and healthier. He is still using the Nerve Food, and we are perfectly confident that he is improving right along under this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A THANKSGIVING OF THE PAST.

An old time, rambling farmhouse, set
Far back among the trees,
A broad walk leading up to it,
A door which opes with ease.

A snow haired couple just inside,
To grasp yong willing hand,
A merry welcome from a large
And ever growing band.

The slow and solemn service, led
By father's trembling voice,
And hymns which stir the soul and make
The weary heart rejoice.

The festal board round which we meet
In joyous, happy throng,
The stories of the year just past,
The jest and laugh and song,

The glorious old fireplace, filled
With crackling, glowing flame,
The roasted apples, cider, nuts—
Do others taste the same?—

The quiet nook upon the stairs,
With only room for two,
The downcast eyes, the sweet, soft voice
That opened heav'n to you—

Did ever modern Thanksgiving
Contain such joy and bliss?
Can theater or football game
Bring happiness like this?

THANKSGIVING FOR TWO.

The Widow Wilson's farm had seen better and more prosperous days, and now was traveling backward. It began at the top of Brindle Hill, where it was bounded by the county road, and straggled down to the lake shore, its hundred acres or so wandering over hills and dipping into hollows, until they terminated at the bay, with its rim of white and glistening sand.

One of the most picturesque spots of earth, and right in the center of it, crowning a rounded knoll, surrounded with stalwart oaks and butternuts, sq uatted the house of its owner.

It was always a difficult spot to reach in winter, when the drifting snows piled high their white billows against the low-eaved structure and hid the windows from the outer world. But in summer it was a delight, this moss-brown dwelling beneath the oaks, and at one time had been a home around whose hearthstone had gathered sons and daughters. Now it was desolate. The passing stranger would have but added it to the category of deserted farms. No sign of life was visible this bright Thanksgiving morning; from its wide, paneled chimney no curl of smoke invaded the crisp and frosty air; the light fall of snow that had covered the ground the night before showed no trace of footstep leading from the weather-beaten door. And yet there was a stir of life in the farm yard, in the hollow among the trees, where the old barn tottered, ready for its fall. There a flock of fowl and turkeys wandered disconsolately about. In the adjacent stall an old horse stamped impatiently for his breakfast, and a forlorn cow chafed restlessly at her stanchions. Except for these, the old farm was as silent as when its first owner carved it from the virgin wilderness. A rustling of the shrubbery that fringed the tall, stiff-ranked pines on the hill beyond the barn told that a visitor was coming to Lonely Farm. A human head appeared in sight. It was crowned by a woolen cap, from beneath which peered a pair of black, bright eyes. Their owner took off the cap and mopped his brow. He was a rugged country lad of 18, well knit and sturdy, with a pair of ruddy cheeks, white teeth and lips rosy, but with a droop of sadness.

New England, always hard to her children, had taken from this boy the home and mother that make Thanksgiving, even as it had taken from the widow all but the wretched framework of what had once been home.

"House looks like mother's used to after she got so she couldn't get about," soliloquized the boy, staring at the smokeless chimney. "I'll bet there ain't been nobody near the widder in a week, and I'll bet, while I'm a bettin', that she needs somebody. Guess I'll find out what's the matter."

He strode down to the house and knocked. There was no response. Only the crow in the oak tree was disturbed by the unwonted noise and flew away, with a caw of alarm. A second knock startled the fowl in the barnyard, who greeted him with a suppressed chuckle; but there was no answer from within. "Guess I might's well go in." He pushed open the crazy door and entered the room which served as kitchen and sitting room, all in one. A table stood in the center of it, covered with a snowy cloth and set as if for supper. A tall clock ticked in the corner under the stairs, but its rhythmic beats only seemed to make the silence audible. "It seems kinder creepy, that's a fact. Hope there ain't nothin' happened to her. Wonder where she is! P'raps she's asleep."

He rapped loudly and then put his ear down to the key-hole, listening intently. At first there was no response. Then he thought he heard a faint, quavering voice.

"Its me—Jem Hastings. I've come to see if you need anybody."

"Come in." The feeble voice struggled with a cough, then: "Yes, I'm so glad you've come. I was taken faint yesterday and had just strength enough to crawl to bed. Perhaps—"

"What, an' you aint had nothin' to eat?"

"No," with a feeble smile.

"Well, if you'll let me try, I'll make a cup of tea."

Jem closed the door, set his gun in a corner and looked around for the place in which the widow kept her stores. The dressers ranged against the wall were bright with old-fashioned pewter platters and china. Here he found a caddy of tea, and then set about making a fire. A huge fireplace yawned at one side of the room, hung with a black iron crane from which suspended a tea kettle. The wood pile was outside, near the back door, and brushing off the snow, Jem soon had some dry wood with which he made a roaring blaze. It was not long before he had the satisfaction of seeing the kettle send forth a volume of steam, and a few minutes later he tapped at the bedroom door with a tray, on it a tempting cup of tea and two well buttered slices of bread. The bread had been intended for his luncheon, the gift of the farmer's wife who paid for his services in "keep."—New England wages.

Wrapped in a shawl of Canton silk, the heirloom of a grandmother whose father once sailed from Salem to the Indies, the widow sank back into her comfortable armchair with a deep sigh of content. She closed her eyes from sheer weakness, while Jem tiptoed about the room "setting things to rights" and preparing the table for a prospective meal.

To be sure, there was very little in sight, but he had faith that there might be something in the cellar and in the cupboards, for the widow was known in the township to have been a "good provider" in her days of affluence.

Through the narrow-paned southern window an advance guard of the outside sunbeams came streaming in, one of them lighting the gray hair of the woman with a silvery halo. Jem thought he had never seen a woman who appeared so "ladylike" and how young she looked. He paused a moment to regard her and she opened her eyes. He retreated in confusion a step or two, the red blush staining his honest open face.

"You've made me very happy Jem; very thankful."

"Well, ma'am, I'm glad of it. It's Thanksgivin'."

"What! Really Thanksgiving Day? It's the first time I've forgotten it—ever. I must be growing old."

Jem grew bolder.

"There's a turkey out in the barnyard. He ain't very fat, but if you say so I'll help you fix a turkey dinner."

The widow urged no objections, and both fascinated at the prospect of a Thanksgiving dinner with themselves as host and hostess, the boy trudged out to the barn.

Some sticks of hard wood were soon piled on the fire, and by the time Sir Turkey was ready for the oven the widow had peeled the vegetables and dropped them into the mysterious depths of the steaming kettles, Jem looking on with glowing but bashful appreciation.

A snowy cloth over a round table, with two seats opposite each other, is always an inspiriting sight, and when topped by a steaming brown turkey, with all the "fixings" of a turkey dinner, the feast is one to melt hearts harder than that of the lonely widow and the home-sick New England lad.

"It is the happiest Thanksgiving dinner I have had in many a year, my boy," she said to him, as he cleared away the dishes and brought out the dessert, of fragrant quince preserves.

"May God bless you! And to think how the dreadful, gloomy morning has been turned to such bright sunshine by your coming!"

Jem turned to the window to hide some tears that would persist in squeezing themselves out of his eyes. "I wish she wouldn't be so sentimental," said he to himself, quite wrathfully. But to the widow he said: "Why, ma'am, I ain't done nothin' great; no more'n you'd have done for me, I'll bet. I ain't enjoyed a dinner so, myself, sence I can remember. I wish I could jest stay here all the time."

A new light came into the woman's faded gray eyes, born of a thought that had been struggling for expression for an hour or more. "And why can't you stay, Jem?"

"I could, ma'am, if I could come as—as partner!"

It was out at last, the boy's yearning for something as his own and the chance he saw upon the widow's farm. "I could fix things up," he went on eagerly "and make the chickens lay eggs and the cow give milk and—and—"

Jem stopped, but the widow's respectful attention led him on.

"I could earn my board in saving things that's goin' to waste. When I came through your wood-lot this mornin' I noticed cords an' cords of dead trees that ought to be cut an' made firewood of. All is for timber, there's more'n a hundred dollars' worth there that'll all be spiled if it ain't cut an' sold pretty soon."

The boy hesitated, amazed at his audacity; but the widow nodded her head and smiled approval. "That is true Jem. The farm is running down for the lack of some one to oversee out of doors. So, then, it is a bargain."

And so this strange partnership began. The first winter Jem spent in thinning out the superfluous wood in the neglected lots, stacking up behind the house enough fuel to satisfy even the cravings of that yawning fire-place for years to come, and selling to the saw mill on the pond timber for shipping that came to quite $500.

As the spring opened he was soon afield, continuing the good work of improvement, and "planting time" found the farm with more and earlier labor performed than it had ever before experienced. In front of the western door he threw out a piazza, protected by a lattice work covering, and here the widow passed all the spare time she could snatch from her indoor duties. It had never occurred to any one before that farm work might be made attractive. The widow had only looked upon the beauties of her farm around her through the kitchen window, or during a hasty trip to the well or farm yard. The latticed porch was a revelation to her, and a haven of rest where she sat and mused during the long twilight of summer.

"I never thought I should take such comfort here," she said. "Before you came I was more than willing to give up the farm and go away. But now, Jem, I want to live here the rest of my life, I would not leave it for the world."

"That's so, ma'am. It would have been a great mistake to leave the old place. Why, there ain't a prettier view in all the world than this from your front door. If there is, then it is right there, down in the woods where the great trees meet overhead, the brook sings a soft song of rest and the fern-covered banks stretch down to the pond. I never traveled any yet, but I don't want to; this suits me" And he returned to his work with a cheery whistle that sent a thrill of satisfaction through the widow's heart. A wonderful change had been effected by the time another year had rolled another Thanksgiving into the calendar. The roof of the old house no longer leaked; the barn had been raised from its attitude of deep dejection, and its mows were crammed to bursting with hay and grain. The old horse spent his days chiefly in the pasture, while a younger and more vigorous animal did the work, assisted by a yoke of big and handsome oxen. The solitary cow now had plenty of company and frisky calves gambolled about her in the summer time. There was no longer any doubt as to the availability of any of the fat gobblers for a Thanksgiving dinner.

Thus the seasons succeeded one another with their measure of content. Each found the widow more and more dependent upon her stalwart helper. She clung to him as she might have clung to the son of whom she had been deprived in the springtime of her wifehood. As her tottering footsteps were supported down the aisle of the village church on a Sunday few of the congregation knew that the handsome young man who watched over her so assiduously was not in fact her own son. Those who were cognizant of the relations between the two, shook their heads knowingly, saying to themselves and to each other "Lucky boy, that; stepped right into the farm just as the old lady was about to leave it. He knows the side of his bread that has the butter on it."

But it is doubtful if Jem had ever given that a thought. So happy and content was he that the merely material conditions of his life had never troubled his consciousness. Only one thing troubled his thoughts of late. He was deeply stirred by the soft brown eyes of pretty Susie Jones, a chorister in the church; Susie, who lived as he had done, with friends for board and keep, another of New England's orphans.

He never mentioned his daring speculation, not even to the widow; but her eyes, though growing dim, were acute enough to penetrate his honest soul. His whole life lay centered in the farm, which had become as essential to it almost as the air he breathed. But now there must be young life there. A pair of brown eyes persisted in dancing before his face, in woodpile, in field, in garden.

And so it came to pass that there was a wedding next Thanksgiving in the little cottage now pretty with vines and cheery within. Susie was glad of so pleasant a place for the troth which she was to plight with Jem, while he, lucky fellow though he was, could not take time to travel to Susie's home, far away over the rough, hilly roads. "A wife's a good thing," he soliloquized to the widow the evening before his marriage, "but there's cows to be looked after and hens to be fed—more'n you could 'tend to alone."

"That's so, Jem," said the widow, smiling brightly, "and thanks to you for it all."

Under branches of autumn leaves from the last reddling trees, Jem and Susie promised all things of the simple marriage service. Then came the country wedding supper.

When the last guest had gone, driven away in the farm wagons that had clustered around the door all afternoon, the widow turned to Jem and Susie, sitting bashfully in the firelight.

"You're my children now, both of you," she said. "Call me mother, just once, Jem and Susie."

"Mother!" cried Jem, taking the feeble hands together and kissing them tenderly, "my darling mother, dearest friend I ever had."

She returned his loving glance, lingeringly, gratefully, as they led her to the door of her room.

Next morning Jem knocked again at the Widow Wilson's door, just as he had done on that lonely Thanksgiving Day four years ago. This time not even a feeble voice answered his repeated calls.

Three days later, as the neighbors struggled back from the little cemetery on the hill, Squire Lothrop drew Jem apart.

"I s'pose you know the widder's left the farm to you? No? Sho! It's mighty strange she didn't tell you. She made her will more'n a year ago, and you're her only heir. She seemed to set a lot by you, the widder did, and (looking around approvingly over the snow-covered fields) I d'no's I blame her. The last four years hev been the peacefulest of her life, and she's left her peace with you, for sure!"

WHY?

Why do women continue to endure suffering caused by womanly diseases? There are many answers to that question. Sometimes because they have exhausted the skill of local physicians and remain uncured. At other times it is because they shrink from submitting to obnoxious examinations which local physicians deem necessary. And to sum it all up, they endure suffering because they do not know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I enjoy good health; thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. J. J. Schnetzer, of Pontiac, Livingston Co., Ill. "I was taken sick and the doctors have called it 'Grip.' I lay for four weeks in bed, then when I got up I found I had 'displacement.' Had such aches and pains in my back and limbs could not stand any length of time. I knew that our home doctor would insist the first thing on an examination, and that I would not submit to, unless I was dangerously sick. My son had your book, 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' and I thought from reading it that Dr. Pierce's medicine would do me more good than all the home doctors—and so it has. I can truly say I was surprised at the benefit I received. I can do all my washing and also tend my flower garden. In fact I am on my feet most all the time. An old friend of mine said to me, 'Why what is the matter with you? You are getting young again.' I told her I had taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicines, and that if she would do likewise she would feel ten years younger, too."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. THE WALL STREET MARKET

Market showed still further upward movement to-day, closing from 1 to 1 1-2 points over last night's quotations, caused by the more cheerful outlook in the strike situation, and confidence growing out of yesterday's finances. St. Paul was very strong, opening at 185 5-8, reached 188 and closed at 187 7-8. M.O.P. opened up 5-8 weaker than last night at 107 1-2, but closed strong at 109 1-2 after reaching 110. Sugar remained the same, but corn was active, and opened at 48 1-2 and closed at 49 1-2. The opening and closing quotations of some of the most active stocks are as follows: T.C.I. 63 5-8, 64 3-4; M. S.M. 74, 75; Ill. C. 146, 147 1-2; C.P.R. 132 3-4, 134.

New York, October 15th, 9.50 a.m. —It is reported that Erie is planning entrance to Pittsburg. Expected that arbitration terms will be accepted by miners. Trade bullish on A.S.R. Standard Oil interests reported buying of A.C.P.

Dow, Jones & Co.

Liverpool. — Wheat unchanged, corn 1-4 higher. Chances favour a quieter market at opening, and we would not be surprised to see irregularity and set back in prices with a rally later on. Most buying yesterday was by shorts, with some attempt of resumption of manipulation by pools and room traders using the report that Secretary Shaw would buy a lot of Government bonds. The short interest has been very large and the sold out condition of the market with yesterday's slightly easier prices were principally the causes for the improvement. While call money is easier there is still no time money offering, and we don't look for anything better than a trader's market.

M. & M.

It will probably be a week before the miners' decision of the operators' proposition.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 15th, 11 a.m. — Stock market started off irregular and lower, but rumours that $20,000,000 Government bonds are to be offered to Secretary Shaw, and intimation that $20,000,000 worth will be accepted, turned the market. The market, however, is narrow and professional and pool breakers principal buyers. London moderate seller. Banks have gained since last Friday from sub-treasury $1,727,000.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 15th.—Wall street Journal says: There is very little disposition to lend in the time money market, rates are 9 per cent. for 60 days to six months. Commercial paper rates are quoted at 6 per cent. and above for all dates. No business except by out of town banks.

R. Sage is not to retire, so says a report of his. Mr. Sage will never retire from business, so long as he is physically able to get down to transact it. The latest is that he is improving nicely.

A gentleman in connection with direction of Arm. Sugar Refining Co., says: The company to my knowledge, is all right. Profits are large, sales are heavy and the coffee department is making excellent returns. Sugar is worth more money than it is selling for by a good many dollars.

DR. LEE AND HIS TESTS.

The Well Known Spiritualist is in Peterborough

Was Interviewed by an Examiner Representative—Is Anxious for a Debate.

Dr. Lee, the well-known spiritualist, who is at present staying at the National Hotel, and who is delivering a series of lectures in the Sons of England Hall, is causing a great deal of commotion around town by reason of his apparently marvellous feats. In fact some of the things alleged to have been done by Dr. Lee since his arrival in town, are scarcely credible, although vouched for by prominent citizens who have taken occasion of the opportunity to see and hear him lecture and perform these tests, which he alleges are performed by spiritulism.

Dr. Lee claims that he is not a mind reader, nor is he a palmist. He says that nine out of every ten who believe in mind reading have not even a mind of their own to read. He declares that he has no communication by mind with anyone living, but he does contend that he is in communication with the dead. This may seem extraordinary, but in an interview with the Examiner to-day Dr. Lee says that he is quite willing to meet "anyone on earth face to face" on a public platform, and he can prove to them the truth of his doctrine.

He offers to debate the question that the Bible teaches spiritualism and that spiritualism is of Divine origin. He offers to debate this question in the largest hall in Canada, charge a nominal admission fee, and devote the proceeds to some charitable object. He is daily visited by many tonspeople who leave him astonished at his performances, and confident that he has some collusion with the person who is his subject for the time being or that he is possessed of the power with which he contends he is endowed.

The Examiner learning of the sensation that Dr. Lee was creating in town, paid a visit to him. After a few preliminary remarks Dr. Lee asked the newspaper man to write the name of a deceased friend upon a piece of paper. The doctor went out of the room while this was being done. He had also marked what the age of the deceased and the length of time he had been dead be also written on the paper; this was also done. Then the paper was roughly crumpled up in the newspaper man's hands, and held there. Dr Lee then came into the room. After a slight pause of apparent meditation the doctor said, "Your friend has been dead twelve months; he was 21 years of age, and his name was — (at this point the reporter held his breath) — his name was John ————" giving the name of an unfortunate young man who shed his blood on the South African veldt. His age and the length of time the young man had dead corresponded precisely with the figures on the paper, and was the correct age of the deceased, and the correct length of time that the young man had been dead.

The Examiner is not trying to advertise spiritualism, or is it in any way subscribing to the doctrines of Dr. Lee, but merely reciting a few incidents as they appear upon the surface. His tests appear rather extraordinary, to say the least, and if the man is in some mysterious manner deceiving the public in his performances, an effort should be made to show him up in his true light.

Dr. Lee says that he is an Englishman by birth, and served for a time in the army, that he has made a study of spiritualism all his life, and, as before stated, is prepared to face all kinds of opposition in debate, or argument, or by means of severest tests.

The Turn of The Weather

Now we have the interval between Fall and Winter—a season of cold, wet and muddy days.

Most men are becoming anxious about their Heavy Suits and Overcoats. Many men don't leave their measure until they can't delay any longer, and many others get ready all at once and come at the same time.

Would it be well to come just a little ahead of busy time—to-morrow for instance—and give us a chance to bestow all the care we would like on your orders.

COAL STRIKE IS OVER.

President Appoints a Commission of Investigation.

SATISFACTORY TO BOTH SIDES.

Mines to Be Opened Thursday—Miners' Officers Will Recommend Miners to Accept the Strike Commission and Then Go to Work While Commission Is Trying to Settle Strike on a Permanent Basis.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The members of the Strike Settlement Commission are:

Brigadier-General John M. Wilson.

E. W. Parker of Washington, D.C., connected with the Geological Survey.

Judge George Gray of Delaware.

E. E. Clark of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Grand Chief of the Order of Railway Conductors.

Thomas H. Watkins of Scranton, Pa.

Bishop John L. Spaulding of Peoria.

Carroll D. Wright.

Settled at Last.

The great anthracite coal strike is settled at last. A commission of six persons, with a seventh, Mr. C. D. Wright, as recorder, will adjust differences between operators and miners. President Mitchell of the Miners' Union will take the necessary measures to call the strike off. The president will urge immediate resumption of mining and operations are expected to begin next week.

Announcement that the great strike was off was made by Secretary Root with exuberant good humor at the White House shortly after 1 o'clock on Wednesday.

Organized labor has a representative on the commission in the person of E. E. Clark, Grand Chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, named as a sociologist. The President added Bishop Spaulding of Illinois to the list of five members suggested by the operators.

Satisfactory to Both Parties.

As named, the commission is perfectly satisfactory to both miners and operators. Assent of the miners was given through President Mitchell and Mr. Sargent, Commissioner of Immigration, and of the operators though Messrs. Robert Bacon and Geo. W. Perkins of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Company.

The final outcome followed a series of conferences beginning with two in the day with Mr. Mitchell and two at night with Messrs. Bacon and Perkins. Events moved quickly at the last, the President being determined on a speedy settlement. The commission will assemble in a few days and choose a chairman, probably Gen. Wilson. They will arrange for sessions and testimony.

President Mitchell's Statement.

Wilkes-Barre, Oct. 17.—Early yesterday morning, when the personnel of the commission became known, President Mitchell declined to say anything. Mr. Mitchell was in his office by 8.30 yesterday morning, and he issued the following statement:

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 16, 1902:

"Appreciating the anxiety and impatience of the public and the mine workers for some authoritative statement from this office, I issue this bulletin to say that I was unalterably opposed to the acceptance of or acquiescence in the form of settlement proposed by the coal operators, because it restricted the President of the United States in making selection of the men who were to determine the questions involved in the coal strike. These restrictions, having been removed, and representation been given to organized labor, as well as to organized capital, I am now prepared to give my personal approval to a settlement of the issues involved in this strike by the commission selected by the President, and shall recommend to the executive officers of Districts 1, 7 and 9, in their meeting to-day, that an immediate call be issued for a convention, whose authorization is necessary to declare the strike at an end.

"In the meantime I trust that the people of our country will be as patient as possible, as we are moving as rapidly as the interests of our people will permit.

(Signed) John Mitchell,
President United Mine Workers of America."

Miners' Convention Called.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 17.—The following is the official call for the delegate convention of the anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers' of America, to be held here next Monday:

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 16:

To the officers and members of all local unions in districts 1, 7 and 9:

Gentlemen.—At a meeting of the Executive Boards of the districts 1, 7 and 9, it was unanimously agreed to issue a call for a delegate convention and recommend to that convention that all mine workers now on strike return to their former positions and working places, and submit to the commission appointed by the President of the United States all questions at issue between the operators and the mine workers of the anthracite coal fields.

In pursuance whereof you are hereby notified that a convention will be held in the City of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., beginning at 10 a.m., Monday, Oct. 20.

The purposes of the convention will be to act on the proposition submitted by the President of the United States.

Local unions will hold meetings not later than Friday night and name delegates to attend said convention.

The basis of representation will be one vote for each 100 members, or less, and one additional vote for each additional 100 members or majority fraction thereof. The president and secretary of each local union will fill out one credential and one duplicate credential for each delegate elected, and the original should be placed in the hands of district board members not later than Saturday night. The district board members are instructed to have all credentials in the hands of the Credential Committee Sunday afternoon. It is recommended that delegates be given full power and authority to act in behalf of their local union.

The name of the hall in which the convention will be held will be announced later. Hotel accommodations are being arranged and will be announced to delegates upon their arrival. Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Executive Boards of Districts Nos. 1, 7 and 9.

John Mitchell,
President United Mine Workers' of America.
W. B. Wilson, Secretary.
George Hartlin,
Secretary of meeting.

Mines to Open Thursday.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 7.—The executive board of the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers' of America in joint session unanimously decided to recommend to the delegate convention of striking miners the acceptance of the arbitration proposition submitted by the President of the United States, and it is reasonably certain that the advice will be followed by the great struggle being brought to a close. The convention will be held in this city Monday morning, and it is the hope and the belief of officers of the union that the mining of coal will be resumed by Thursday of next week, after a suspension of more than five months.

Enthusiasm Never Ran Higher in any Mantle Department

Than it has in this Store's Mantle Department this Season

Pleasant eoniums seem to be uttered by most every buyer, as well as visitor, and (if you will just pardon our self-praise) well they might express their delight, for never have we known a better and more distinctive lot of Mantles grouped together. This alone would be sufficient to attract the attention of the purchasing women of Peterborough; BUT, there is another very strong and drawing feature about this store's Mantles, or "Ready-to-don" Department—it's the prices—the favourable prices—the prices that we can afford to offer them to our patrons, owing to our own syndicate of stores.

WHAT STORE outside the large cities that can scare up enough courage to buy Thirteen Hundred (1300) Coats to commence a season? Can you imagine any Foreign, Canadian or American manufacturer not anxious for such an order?

It's the favourable buying of big quantities that makes the prices so easy for our customers, that causes the favourable reports not only about our Mantles, but about our store. It's this large purchasing power that helps this store to grow so fast.

THE PREMIER'S WELCOME.

Special Train Sent to Rimouski to Convey Him to Quebec.

Father Point, Oct. 16.—8.15 p. m.—The S. S. Lake Erie is in sight at Fame Point and will consequently arrive at Father Point at 10 a. m. to-morrow.

Mayor McWilliams' invitation to the inhabitants to give the Premier a warm welcome has been heartily responded to, cannon will boom out a noisy welcome, and preparations are made to hoist the signal flags Z. B. H. O. X. J., meaning "Welcome Home." This signal will be read on the Lake Erie three or four miles before reaching Father Point.

Plan to Receive Him.

Quebec, Oct. 17.—Hon. S. N. Parent, accompanied by Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Hon. Mr. Sutherland, Hon. C. A. P. Pelletier, as well as the members of the organization committee and members of the Provincial Cabinet, left yesterday afternoon on the regular I.C.R. starting from Levis at 5 o'clock for Rimouski. Sir Wilfrid wired His Worship the Mayor from Belle Isle late Wednesday afternoon to the effect that he, together with Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, were disembarking from the S. S. Lake Erie at Rimouski and would therefore cover the remainder of the voyage by rail.

A special train, which will convey the distinguished party from Rimouski to Levis, will leave River du Loup some time to-day, and will be in waiting at Rimouski by the time Sir Wilfrid reaches that point.

A Million Dollar Statue.

Boston, Oct. 17.—At a meeting of the Victorian Club last evening a communication was presented to the members suggesting that a monument to the late Queen Victoria be erected in some place in England, to be designated by the King, which should cost $1,000,000, to be subscribed for by British residents in the United States and designed and erected by British residents in this country. The matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

Two Months For McHugh.

Sligo, Ireland, Oct. 17.—P. A. McHugh, M.P., editor of The Sligo Champion, was sentenced yesterday to two months' imprisonment at hard labor, after having been convicted of conspiracy and intimidation. When asked if he had anything to say in his defence, Mr. McHugh maintained a contemptuous silence. Subsequently Mr. McHugh entered an appeal and was admitted to bail.

Stanton Held For Murder.

Buffalo, Oct. 17.—Ernest Stanton, colored, of Hamilton, Ont., charged with the murder of Edna Conrad, alias Freda McGregor, which occurred here on Oct. 9, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday. He was charged with murder in the first degree. Stanton pleaded not guilty to the charge, waived examination and was held for the Grand Jury.

Huge Restaurant Trust.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Chicago is to have a restaurant trust, capitalized at $5,000,000, if the plans of certain promoters are carried out. All the large restaurants of the city, it is contemplated, are to be drawn under one central management, the head of each establishment, however, to retain the direction of his own place.

Drowned in the Red River.

Winnipeg, Oct. 17.—About 5 o'clock yesterday morning an old-timer named Garrach, who was in O'Connor's Hotel, jumped through a window and ran down to the river about three blocks away. He threw himself in and was drowned. It is thought he was suffering from temporary insanity.

Coal For the U.S.

Liverpool, Oct. 7.—The demands for coal and tonnage have perceptibly slackened. The steamers Georgic, Lancastrian, and Victorian are loading here and will start for the United States within a few days with an aggregate of about 25,000 tons of coal.

Boers in Berlin.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—The Boer Generals arrived here from Paris yesterday, and were welcomed by the president of the Reception Committee. Very large crowds of people along the route to the visitors hotel gave them an ovation.

Elections a Complete Farce.

San Juan, P.R., Oct. 17.—The election registrations have been a complete farce. The Federals were shut out in a majority of the precincts of the Island, due to an order of the acting council placing a majority of Republicans.

Cholera in Palestine.

Jerusalem, Oct. 17.—The epidemic of cholera is spreading rapidly in Palestine. The city which has suffered the most thus far is Gaza, forty-eight miles from here, where there have been thirty to forty deaths daily.

Beri-Beri at Queenstown.

Queenstown, Oct. 17.—The Norwegian barque Aurora arrived here yesterday with eight cases of beri-beri aboard. The captain and a number of sailors were sent to the hospital.

NORWOOD'S YEARLY SUCCESS.

The East Riding Annual Exhibition

AN ALL ROUND SUCCESS.

Splendid Exhibit of Stock and Farm Products—Favourable Weather—A Slightly Dimtnished Attendance.

The annual exhibition of the East Riding Agricultural Society, held at Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday was one of the old time successes, except perhaps in the matter of attendance which was not quite up to the mark. This was due to the wild rumours spread abroad in all parts in the vicinity of the village that a disastrous diphtheria epidemic was raging there, the rumours going to the absurd extent of asserting that the daily deaths were ten, and that constables were stationed on the roads converging in the village to prevent outsiders from entering. As a matter of fact there are two cases of diphtheria in the country, about half a mile distant and three cases in the village. This rumour did not operate in Peterborough for there never was such a large contingent left the C.P.R. station as did on Wednesday. The attendance this year was about 4,500 as against 6,000 last year. The number of entries, however, showed no falling off, being about the same in number as last year. The show of stock of all kinds was unusually excellent, and a fine list of speeding events, promptly run off, added to the animation of the afternoon. The Stirling Brass Band was present during the afternoon and added the enlivenment of music. The ground was gay with tents and all sorts of little commercial ventures, catering to the element of the attendance anxious to part with their spare cash for more or less dubious and glutinous value.

As remarked the show of live stock was superb, the entries in the several classes having been as follows:

Class 1—Blood Horses—In blood horses James Owens exhibited a three year old stallion; Samuel Scott, stallion two years old; and Geo. Barnum, two horses in speeding events.

Class 2—Roadster Horses—The exhibitors in this class were: Dr. Macoun, single driver, 15 1-2 hands and over; Geo. Skinkle, cavalry horse and matched team; A. Turkeys, Geese and Ornamental Fowl were shown by F. O. Sargent, Alf. Robson, W. Stewart & Son, L. A. Darling, J. B. Moore, W. H. Philips, W. Puffer, C. H. Curtis and Alf. Robson.

THE INSIDE EXHIBIT

was quite up to the usual mark. Fruits were well represented, and as is always the case at Norwood the show of roots was extensive and superb. Domestic products, flannels, etc., butter, bread, preserved fruits, etc., were excellent, and a very extensive and excellent display of ladies' work was on exhibition, while the fine arts department was also creditable. The display of grains, made in a separate tent, was considerably in advance of last year, there being ninety entries this year as against sixty last year, and the quality good, especially wheat and peas. Taken altogether the exhibit was a gratifying success, in everything except the attendance, diminished for the reasons stated. This was somewhat disappointing to many of the villagers, who had made supplementary preparations for feeding the hungry. Along the street leading from the centre of the town to the exhibition grounds, there were half a dozen places converted into eating houses, with tintinabular invitations to refreshments expressed by vigorously jangled bells in every tone of the gamut.

THE MUSICAL APPENDIX.

In the evening the 57th Band gave a very successful concert in the skating rink. The large auditorium was packed, and the band presented one of its sterling programmes in its own artistic manner. It was very highly appreciated by the immense audience, as testified by the band being compelled to repeat several numbers, and they could, as far as the anxiety of the audience was concerned, have responded to still more encores had the time permitted. Musical enthusiasts in Norwood showered praises on the boys of the band for the splendid music they presented in so artistic a way. But this was no more than was to be expected.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

PIANOS, ORGANS AND SEWING MACHINES.

Mr. J. Hendren, of Norwood, the well known and successful piano and sewing machine agent, made an interesting display just inside the main entrance to the show building. He exhibited a beautiful upright Karn piano, a handsome model Karn organ and very compact and handy Raymond sewing machine. Crowds flocked round this exhibit and Mr. Hendren made good use of his display, as it brought him quite a number of good safe prospects. Mr. Hendren has done a large business in these lines throughout his territory for many years past.

HARNESS DISPLAY.

In artisan manufactures, Mr. Thos. Howard, of Hastings, again made a fine representative display of his hand made harness. He showed a handsome set of light carriage harness, a set of heavy farm harness, a set of short tug harness, as well as a display of horse blankets, horse clothing, halters, reins, and other stable sundries. The harness was admired by many for its excellent workmanship, being all hand made from the best of leather, and the most tasteful and substantial trimmings. Howard's hand made harness has a good record in this district. Mr. Howard is a persistant hustler and sends in an exhibit to this fair annually from his factory on Front street in the Village of Hastings, and has been rewarded by first prizes year after year. No extra effort was made this year to prepare anything special for competition, the exhibit being taken from his regular stock, and was a fair sample of what may be found at his shop any day of the week.

THE NEW TORONTO FANNING MILL.

Charley McDonald was on deck, as usual, with his "New Toronto Fanning Mill." He was the only representative of agricultural implements on the grounds, and had the whole field to himself. He is the indefatigable general agent of the Ontario Wind Engine and Pump Company, Limited, of Toronto, who purchased the business of the Toronto Grain and Seed Cleaner Company, who make the Toronto Fanning Mill. The "New Toronto" is well represented by Mr. McDonald, and he delights in explaining its superior merits to the farmers at all the fairs in the Midland District. Farmers know that to market their grain profitably it must be clean, and to have clean crops the seed must be clean. To secure this the new Toronto Fanning mill is necessary. Mr. McDonnell's address is Ashburnham, near Downer's Corners.

GRAFTON & CO'S HIGH GRADE CLOTHING.

The enterprising manager of the Peterborough branch store of Messrs. Grafton & Co., clothing manufacturers, send a representative exhibit to this fair as usual. Messrs. Jos. Mahar and Herb Conway, who were in charge of the exhibit, pitched their fine, large open tent in a central and commanding position on the show grounds. They experienced considerable difficulty in staking their tent. The wind was blowing a heavy gale in the early morning, and it was only after a hard tussle with the elements that they were able to secure their big canvas. An exhibit of stylish garments was soon displayed, which for originality and true merit, is deserving of special mention. The effective dressing and arrangement of the clothing, was praiseworthy in many respects. And such clothing! Although "ready-to-wear," it was tailor made, and compared well with custom-made clothing, and being sold direct to customers at wholesale prices, the price tickets were scanned by crowds of admiring and surprised lookers. It was a revelation in style, ease and elegance of this firm's new fall and winter overcoats, suits, ulsters, reefers, etc., for men, youths and boys. The firm offered three good prizes for the best team of general purpose horses, the horses, wagon and harness to be considered in awarding the prizes. These prizes were,—1st, a $10 tweed suit; 2nd, a $5 pair of trowsers; 3rd, a $3 pair of trowsers.

JERSEY AND DURHAM CATTLE.

Messrs. F. Birdsall & Son, the well-known extensive breeders of Short Horn and Jersey cattle, Oxford Down sheep and Chester white swine, showed ten head of thoroughbred cattle at this fair. These consisted of six Durhams and four Jerseys, all splendid animals, and all bearing well defined marks of careful breeding and judicious feeding. In the Durham class, Messrs. Birdsall & Son took 1st and 2nd prizes for milch cow, aged; 1st and 2nd for two year old heifer; 1st and 3rd for yearlings; 1st for bull calf; and 2nd for heifer calf. In the Jersey class a superior milch cow that had just been milked by its attendant and nearly filled a pail with foaming milk, was rewarded the blue ticket; a yearling heifer took 3rd prize, and a yearling bull 2nd. Birdsall & Son also took 1st prize for the best male of any age; 1st for the best female of any age, and 2nd for herd.

AYRSHIRES.

Two thoroughbred Ayrshires were shown by Mr. John Breckenridge, of Asphodel, which are specially deserving of mention. The heifer calf was a credit to the breeder, and the yearling bull a fine promising animal. Both bore handsome red and white Ayrshire markings. "Welbeck," the fine farm of Mr. Breckenridge, is on the 3rd concession of the fine township of Asphodel. The enterprising proprietor devotes considerable special attention to the breeding of Ayrshires and Jersey cattle, and deals largely in pigs. He sells from ten to twelve car loads every summer to the Geo. Matthews Company, of Peterborough, and usually has from three to five hundred hogs all the time. He also keeps three boars—a Tamworth, a Yorkshire and a Berkshire.

THE GORDON COLLEGE.

Cairo, Oct. 17.—Lord Kitchener will arrive here about Oct. 23, and, after a stay of three or four days, will proceed direct to Khartoum, where he will preside at the opening of the Gordon College. The new barracks for British troops at Khartoum are now almost complete, and the headquarters and four companies of the 3rd Battalion Royal Fusiliers, who are to be their first occupants, left Cairo for the Soudan on Oct. 14. These barracks are on the latest model, have wide, airy verandahs, and are fitted throughout with electric light. The Royal Fusiliers will be succeeded at the Citadel Barracks, Cairo, by the 2nd Battalion Rifle Brigade, now on their way from the Cape. The Seaforth Highlanders are expected to leave for India about the end of January next.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

Premier Balfour Threatened on Floor of House of Commons.

MR. JOHN O'DONNELL SUSPENDED

Angry Debates—Irish Members Resent the Government's Program — Climax Reached by Mr. O'Donnell Crossing the Floor of the House and Shaking His Fist at the Premier—Mr. Healy's Witty Speech.

London, Oct. 17.—Parliament was reopened yesterday without any of the usual formalities. The session is likely to last until nearly Christmas.

Owing to the high controversal character of the education bill and the unbending determination of each case, the session promises to be the most serious party struggle in the House of Commons since the last Liberal Government retired from office. Seven hundred and fifty amendments to the education bill await consideration, of which number 588 have been proposed by the Liberals.

The sitting opened with a turbulent debate. Premier Balfour moved that the remainder of the session be entirely devoted to Government business, which, he explained, would consist mainly of the discussion of the education and London water bills, while the Indian budget, the Uganda Railway, sugar bounties and the supply vote would enable the procedure to be carried out. The Transvaal, he added, would also require attention.

James Bryce, leader of the Liberals in the absence of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, mildly protested and then Patrick O'Brien of the Irish members asked that at least a day between now and Christmas may be devoted to discussion of the serious state of affairs in Ireland.

Mr. Balfour replied that if the request for such a debate was made a request from the Liberal leaders, the Govdernment would grant it, but they could not notice it from the Irish party.

William O'Brien, thereupon, made an impassioned speech, warning the House that Ireland was on the verge of revolt. The constitution, he said, was practically suspended, and now the members were gagged, in the only Parliament they had.

Throughout Mr. O'Brien's remarks the Irish members kept up a perfect storm of applause. When Mr. Wyndham, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, entered the House, they hissed him loudly, and the Speaker, who was frequently on his feet, asking for "Order," sternly repressed the demonstration.

Mr. Lloyd-George, backed up by Irish members and T. P. O'Connor increased the excitement by bitterly upbraiding Mr. Balfour for declaring that Irish matters must only be discussed by favor of the English Liberals. Only after a heated colloquy with the Speaker was Mr. O'Connor prevented from voicing abuse of Mr. Wyndham, and a description of the alarming state of Ireland, which the other Nationalist members had not touched on.

The climax came unexpectedly. Mr. Healy, amidst intense excitement, said in icy tones: "I rise to speak as a native of Uganda."

The House was convulsed with laughter. In a speech which on all sides was characterized as one of the finest satires ever heard in the House of Commons, Mr. Healy, always as a Ugandian, thanked the Premier for his consideration, which enabled the Imperial Parliament to devote time to discussion of national affairs. He complimented Mr. Balfour on being able to sufficiently detach himself so as to be oblivious of the vital disturbance prevailing. "In that distant and distressed country, Ireland."

In this vein, which irresistibly held the attention of the House, and which caused Mr. Balfour himself frequent amusement, Mr. Healy completed what a Unionist member defined as one of the finest satirical indictments which the Government had ever undergone." Other Nationalist members continued the debate fiercely, declaring that Irish affairs were at present more important than any of the matters mentioned in Mr. Balfour's program.

William Redmond regretted that the Irish people could not with arms in their hands strike a blow against the violent tyranny to which they were subjected. The present action of the Government, he declared, afforded a reason why the Irish members would take the first opportunity of hurling the Ministers from office. Ultimately Mr. Balfour moved the closure, and the uproar broke out again with renewed vigor. John O'Donnell stood up and refused to give way to the Speaker. His fellow Nationalists shouted encouragement and cheered vigorously. The Speaker repeatedly warned Mr. O'Donnell that he was out of order, and an exciting scene followed. Mr. Balfour moved the suspension of Mr. O'Donnell, and the latter crossed the floor, stood in front of the Premier, shouting defiance and shook his fist in Mr. Balfour's face. The House suspended Mr. O'Donnell by a vote of 341 to 51.

Mr. Balfour smiled quietly as the Irish member shouted and gesticulated, and other members of the Cabinet, fearing that Mr. O'Donnell would actually assault the Premier, moved towards him, but Mr. O'Donnell, having concluded what he had to say, returned to his seat, and then left the House.

The debate was then closed by a vote of 263 to 148.

Mr. Wyndham again came in for some lively hissing as he returned from the division lobby.

Mr. Balfour's motion was then carried by a vote of 262 to 145, and the House went into committee on the Education bill.

Mr. O'Donnell's suspension will probably be only for a week, as the new rules increasing the penalties for disorderly behavior have not yet been passed.

CASTRO IN DIRE STRAITS.

His Army Greatly Reduced by Venezuelan Revolutionists.

Willemstad, Island of Curaçoa, Oct. 17.—The battle near La Victoria, Venezuela, between the army commanded by President Castro and the revolutionary forces, which began Monday morning, lasted until the afternoon of that day, and was resumed Tuesday morning, resulting in the retirement of President Castro to La Victoria Tuesday afternoon, was resumed again fiercely at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. At that time the President had received reinforcements, and he had over 6,000 men engaged against 7,000 men arrayed by the revolutionists.

The artillery played a part never before seen in Venezuela. Shortly before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the revolutionists appeared to have gained a slight advantage. The President's artillery, which numbered 15 guns, had been reduced to four guns. La Victoria was crowded with wounded, and there was no provisions in the town.

Fell 80 Feet to Pavement.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Godfrey Bird, representative of John Crossley, Sons & Co., Limited, carpet manufacturers of Halifax, England, was instantly killed on the morning of Thanksgiving Day by falling a distance of 80 feet from the upper storey window of the Rossin House. His friends do not believe that he committed suicide. Thursday morning, a little before six o'clock, a workman passing down York street was horrified to see Bird fall from the window of the Rossin House. He struck the network of telephone and electric wires and bounded forward, falling on the edge of the sidewalk. The workman reached the man when he was breathing his last. The body will be shipped to Montreal and placed on board the steamer Parisian.

Charged With Manslaughter.

Lowe Farm, Man., Oct. 17. — Notwithstanding the verdict of the coroner's jury that Jacob Wiens came to his death by accident, the provincial police caused Rymer to be arrested yesterday, and tried on a charge of manslaughter, which resulted in his being sent to Winnipeg to stand trial. Young Wiens and Rymer were scuffling after a wordy scrap, and the latter threw Wiens to the ground, falling on top of him. When he got up Wiens was dead. The doctors say the deceased was in bad condition, and shock and excitement were the biggest factors tending to his death.

Prince Arthur's Departure.

London, Oct. 17.—Prince Arthur of Connaught will take leave of his parents and friends early this morning on his departure for South Africa. His Royal Highness, who will be accompanied by Capt. Wyndham, is rejoining his regiment, the 7th Hussars, and is taking out to South Africa a draft of 170 men. They will march from Hounslow Barracks to Feltham Station, and leave at 9 a. m. for Southampton, there to embark for the Cape.

Gas Supply Exhausted.

Windsor, Oct. 17.—The natural gas grew gradually less yesterday afternoon and at about 5 o'clock flickered feebly and died. Many a cold supper was partaken of last night by those who had no coal, wood, coke or other fuel to burn. If it transpires that the gas fields have become completely barren the stringency of the coal strike situation will be added to an hundred fold in Windsor, Walkerville and Sandwich.

Ten Men Drowned.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 17.—J. C. Gilchrist, owner of the wrecked steamer C. B. Lockwood, received a telephone message from Ashtabula late yesterday afternoon stating that the yawl boat, which put off from the steamer when it was sinking Monday evening, has been found bottom up in the lake. There was no trace of the ten men who left in the boat, and it is believed they were drowned.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

A Soldier's Gallant Act.

London, Oct. 17.—A Victoria Cross is to be conferred, states last night's Gazette, on Private William House, of the 2nd Battalion Royal Berkshire Regiment, for his gallantry in South Africa during an attack on Mosilikatse Nek on Aug. 2, 1900. Under a hot fire from the enemy, Private House rushed out from cover to help a sergeant who was injured, and was himself severely wounded as he was endeavoring to bring his comrade to shelter. He, however, warned the rest not to come to his assistance as the fire was so severe.

Colonial Preferential Trade.

London, Oct. 17. — The National Union of Conservative Associations at Manchester have adopted a resolution urging the Government to fully carry out the views on preferential trade between all parts of the Empire enunciated at the recent colonial conference.

Good Health for Capital.

Maintaining good health is to the majority of people the most vital question in the world and nature affords no more efficient strengthener for the nerves than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Naturally, gradually and certainly it forms new red corpuscles in the blood, creates, new, healthy, nerve cells and puts into the system the snap, energy and vitality that defies disease.

The Gladstone Memorial.

London, Oct. 15.—The library at Hawarden, erected as a national memorial to the late William E. Gladstone, and which cost $50,000, was opened by Earl Spencer yesterday. The building stands on the brow of a hill, commanding a view of the Dee. It contains the statesman's valuable collection of books. Crowds of visitors attended the ceremonies, which commenced with a service in the church, conducted by the Rev. Stephen Gladstone. Among the speakers was Andrew Carnegie.

Guelph Resident Dead.

Guelph, Oct. 15.—Thomas Halliday, one of Guelph's best known and most highly respected citizens, passed away yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Mr. Halliday has been a great sufferer for years, but, considering his great age, he had made a marvelous fight. Mrs. Halliday died 37 years ago to-day, and Mr. Halliday had a notion of passing away on the same day of the year, a wish that has been gratified. He came to Guelph in 1856. He was 85 years of age.

Killed in a Scuffle.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 15.—Jacob Weins of Lower Farm, near Morris, was killed Monday night, as the result of a scuffle with the hired man, Peter Rymer. It seems Rymer used very abusive language to Weins, who was a lad of 18 years. The latter objected, when, it is said, Rymer threatened him with a knife, and the fatal scuffle ensued. Weins was picked up unconscious, but, by the time a doctor was procured, he had been dead some time. Rymer is under arrest, and the coroner will hold an inquest.

Family Quarrels.

"How may serious family quarrels, marriages out of spite, and alterations in wills, might have been prevented by a gentle dose of pills." With the liver and kidneys torpid and sluggish digestion is impaired and temper ruined. But Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills by invigorating the action of these organs, ensures good digestion and sound health. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box.

A Youthful Hero.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—Joseph Griffin, a twelve-year-old boy, gave up his life Monday evening to save his five-year-old brother. They were playing in the rear of the New York Laundry, St. Catherine and Sturban streets, when an outside elevator descended, under which the little fellow was playing. Joseph, seeing his brother's danger, rescued him, but in so doing was pinned underneath the elevator, and died soon afterwards.

Strong Enough for Cancers.

Cancers are caused by poisonous humors in the blood. The only non-surgical treatment known is Merrill's System Tonic. This is a perfect blood purifier, and at the same time blood builder. A Quiet Wedding.

A very quiet wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. John Henthorne, Stewart street, Ashburnham, at 7.30 o'clock, last evening, it being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Aggie E., daughter of Mr. Wm. Dawson, Concession street, Ashburnham, to Mr. William S. Robinson, Murray street, Peterborough. The bride wore a gown of hunter's venetian green, trimmed with cream silk, applique and velvet. Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Mark street Methodist church, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will in future reside on Murray street, Peterborough.

WEDDED IN TORONTO.

Mr. J. Harry Sherin, of Lakefield Joins the List of Benedicts.

The Toronto Globe of Thursday contains the following item of interest to the Peterborough people:—

"A very pretty wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Rathbone, 26 Northcote avenue, when their daughter, Miss Mabelle, was united in marriage to Mr. J. Harry Sherin, of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. McLean Ballard, rector of St. Anne's. The bride wore a beautiful gown of grey silk crepe de chene over lavender silk and applique trimmings, and the customary veil, with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Jennie Robson, who wore white Swiss, trimmed with Valencia lace, adorned with maidenhair fern and lilies of the valley, while Miss Winnifred Rathbone, sister of the bride, made a very sweet flower girl. Mr. J. McDonald of McMaster was groomsman. The bride was the recipient of very many handsome presents, including a sunburst of pearls and diamonds from the groom, who also presented the bridesmaid and flower girl with a pearl ring each. The happy young couple left for a trip to Washington, Atlantic City and other points, after which they will reside at Lakefield."

ANOTHER GONE.

Eko Camp Say Farewell to Another of Its Members.

Mr. Howard Waram, who left yesterday to accept a position with the Great Northern Railway, was given a rousing send-off by his fellow members of Eko Camp at Mr. Harry Long's Palm Parlours on Wednesday night. The chair was occupied by Mr. Will Higgins, while amongst those present were Messrs. J. M. Gemmell, John Watt, R. P. Watt, R. Elliott, M. Comstock, John Comstock, R. M. Glover, Joe Gibson, R. Cottrell, R. Matchett, Dr. Tate, R. Henderson, W. C. Ackerman and Harry Gillespie.

Short speeches were made in which much regret was expressed at Mr. Waram leaving town, but all joined in wishing him success in his new field.

DR. LEE'S POSITION.

In the Examiner of Wednesday appeared a communication signed "Arequipa," referring to the presence in Peterborough of Dr. Lee, spiritualist, charging that he was forced to leave London. This Dr. Lee, indignantly and totally denies and the Examiner takes this means of giving as great publicity to his denial as the contradicted statement received. If, as Dr. Lee asserts, an injustice has been done him, the Examiner regrets that it has been the medium of such injustice.

VERY ENJOYABLE CONCERT

Under the Auspices of Charlotte Street Church.

Miss Ida Sutherland, Miss Merrielle Patton and Mr. Frank Smith Were the Artists—A Large Attendance.

The concert which was given in the opera house last night, under the auspices of the Charlotte street Methodist church, brought out a very large and representative audience of the lovers of high class music and elocution in Peterborough, and added another to the list of highly successful entertainments that from time to time have been given by the ladies of that church.

The successful Thanksgiving entertainments that have been given in the past by the Charlotte street Methodists, was amply sufficient guarantee to the public that a real treat was in store for them, whilst the announcement of the appearance of three such high class artists as Miss Edna Sutherland, reader, Miss Merrielle Patton, contralto, and Mr. Frank Smith, violinist, was a conclusive augury of the treat that was surely in store for those who might attend. That the appearance of these artists in Peterborough was a triumphant success, was amply evidenced by the enthusiastic applause that followed the rendering of each selection, and the persistent demands for encores, which were invariably given with a charm of manner that, it seemed to many, even eclipsed the rendering of the leading numbers.

Mr. Frank Smith, the violinist, who who appeared for the first time, before a Peterborough audience, made a most favourable impression by the daintiness and precision of his style, and the brilliant technique displayed in the rendering of all his numbers. His opening selection was "Mazurka de Concert," by Musin, which elicited a storm of applause. A selection, consisting of two numbers, was Mr. Smith's first number on the second portion of the programme, and it afforded an excellent opportunity for him to bring out that soft, sweet and sympathetic melody that can be produced only by artists of his class. The first part of the selection, entitled "Slumber Song," was remarkable for its mellowness, and yet noticeable for its clarity of expression. The serenade was of a more sensational nature but appealed equally as well to the spirits of the audience. Mr. Smith's last number was "Souvenir de Posen," by Wieniawski, and was rendered in the same delightful manner as characterized his execution of the preceding numbers.

Miss Edna Sutherland was very popular with the audience, and her clever readings and character sketches have perhaps never been equalled in Peterborough. "Preparing to Receive Company" was the appropriate title of the first number, which was given in a manner realistic in the extreme. Her recitation of the "Redemption of Jean Jean Valjean," from Victor Hugo, which appealed to the pathetic instincts of all, gave ample scope for Miss Sutherland's wonderful powers of elocution, whilst her character sketch of "Aunt Hitty's Gossip," was one of the most humorous of her numbers, by reason of it being decidedly characteristic, and containing in its rendering that laughable degree of solecism, perhaps too frequently observed in the stamp of women the artist would lead us to believe, it was Aunt Hitty's fortune to be. Her encore for this selection, which was demanded in no uncertain manner, was entitled "A Serenade," and was of such a highly entertaining nature that she was compelled to respond oven once again. She appeared in her last number in a reading to a soft piano accompaniment of "A Song of Violets," for which she was also obliged to appear again.

Miss Merrielle Patton, the charming young vocalist, who was received with enthusiasm, added in a very large degree to the success of the entertainment. She possesses a beautifully sweet contralto voice, over which she has easy control. Her facial expression is decidedly pleasant, and the rendering of her first number, "The Land o' the Leal," by Foote, and "The Auld Plaid Shawl," Marie, were certainly deserving of all the applause given her. The magnificent quality of her voice made her a prime favourite throughout the evening. Her style was becomingly dignified, and her enunciation remarkably distinct, and in her subsequent selections she more than confirmed the good impression made in her opening numbers. The "Ben demer's Stream," (old Irish), and the "Merry Brown Thrush," a very pretty and catchy arrangement by Dudley Buck, constituted Miss Patton's second number. "My Little Love," by Hawley, her first number on the second part of the programme, was characterized by its easy style and clearness of expression. Miss Patton brought the programme to a close by a delightful production of "The Rosary," by Nevin. She responded to several enthusiastic recalls.

Altogether the entertainment was a triumphant success of vocal, instrumental and elocutionary art, and the public of Peterborough are indebted indeed to the Ladies' Aid of the Charlotte street Methodist church, for the high class concert that was put on by them, and to Miss Stephens, who laboured so faithfully for its success.

WITH THE POETS.

A Very Interesting Lecture in the Sons of England Hall.

There was a large audience in the Sons of England Hall last night to hear Dr. Lee, the well-known spiritualist, who is attracting so much notice in town at the present time. Dr. Lee delivered a most interesting and instructive lecture on the subject "A Night with the Poets." The audience contained a number of Peterborough's prominent business and professional men, who expressed themselves as being more than pleased with the able manner in which he handled his subject. Dr. Lee is still in town, and has been visited by many who are thrown into a state of wonderment at his apparently marvellous tests.

AN ENORMOUS YIELD.

Mr. J. Throop, of Otonabee Raises a Record Crop.

While many instances of very large crops of cereals were given this summer, there have been some big crops of vegetables that have perhaps escaped mention. An enormous crop of red onions was raised this fall by Mr. J. Troop, of Otonabee, who has perhaps made a record by getting 107 bushels from 21 square rods. This makes a yield per acre of over 800 bushels a quantity almost incredible. That these were of good quality as well as quantity may be gathered from the fact that samples from this crop took first prize at the Keene fair this fall.

We still have 200 cords of prime four foot maple wood, which will be sold at present prices in orders not exceeding two cords. Telephone, 48. R. Hicks & Co.

More Firsts.

Anyone driving any of the horses belonging to the livery of Mr. R. H. Leary, Water street, can always feel some pride in the turn-out, which, for the moment theirs. On Wednesday Mr. Leary completed the success which has been his at the surrounding fairs this fall by taking first prize in every class in which he exhibited. In the roadster class, first prize was taken by his chestnut team, and in the carriage class the cobs won first for team, while his big bay driver took first for single carriage horse.

"FLOWER LEGENDS

And Other Poems by Alma Frances McCollum."

The Canadian needs not to have been born very long ago, who does not remember the time when books written by native authors, and "made in Canada," marked literary epochs, instead of being, as they are now, matters of almost daily happening. Canada's achievements in the arena of literature are very creditable for a young country, hardly a century old, and only in the fifth lustrum of its distinct national existence. This is especially so, when we recollect that the conditions of literary success involve a long apprenticeship to mental culture, and generations of the easy circumstances which permit the leisure for devotion to study of books, nature and human character, the sources, subject and inspiration of successful literary work. We see delightful evidence of this in the fact that the Acadian land, the oldest settlement of Canada, has been exceptionally prolific in intellectual giants, Judge Haliburton, Joseph Howe, Principal Grant and others, being examples. But though centuries of culture and easy conditions of life, are, as a rule, conducive to the highest intellectual development, and best literary achievement, there are exceptions, and it often comes to pass that the poetic fire will manifest itself in spite of the most depressing or commonly favourable environments. In the case of Burns, the poetic fire blazed with a lustre never to be quenched, while the language lasts, through the dull mists of a sodden and riotous life; even as he followed the plough, its glow lightened alike upon the modest field mouse and the demure daisy. So with our native Canadians, in default of the favouring conditions mentioned, the pent-up divine afflatus finds an outlet in many melodious forms, and we have here and there, from time to time, one stepping out from the crowd into poetic byways, culling the sweets and twining the chaplets which only the eye of genius can see, and the inspired fingers of fancy weave.

Though Canadian poets have in the mass written much and worthy poetry the individual contributions have generally been few. Among the many who have shown the light of poetic genius, women, as might be expected, with their finer natures, have been prominent, and, perhaps, greater in numbers. Of these, it is pleasant to know that a new and meritorious claimant of our applause lives and moves amongst us. "Flower Legends, and other poems," by Miss Alma Frances McCollum, Gilmour street, a dainty volume of dainty verse, gives her a right to be enrolled in the sisterhood of Canadian poets, who have sung themselves into a warm place in Canadian hearts. This little chaplet, this little string of poetic pearls, comes to us in the form of an exquisite little book of one hundred and sixteen pages, printed on antique paper, with deckel edges, and gilt top, the front cover bearing the title in gold. An autograph portrait, an exceilent likeness, in the pose, which painters give to St. Cecilia, is a charming vis a vis to the title page. Altogether the volume, as a bit of book making, in its dainty elegance typifies the charming character of its contents. The poems, many of which have appeared in the Examiner from time to time, while they may not have the refined virility of Isabella Valancy Crawford, or the certainty and strength of style of "Fidelis," are sweet with the idealized aroma of the flowers whose story they sing, replete with charming conceits, happily phrased, with touches that tell of brooding communion with nature in her sweetest and most alluring moods. Taking the collection of poems as a whole, they breathe out a distinct poetic atmosphere, and a literary quality of intrinsic strength enough to merit the permanent form in which they are embodied. Their merit, it is no surprise to know, found a publisher so deeply impressed with their worth as to assume the commercial risk of publication, and yesterday the volume found a place among the other literary treasures on the shelves of the Public Library.

THE NEW DAM.

The Work is Progressing Quite Rapidly—The Cofreting.

The work at the Cereal Company's new dam at the foot of London street is attracting a great many onlookers these days. Sunday was truly visitors' day and several hundred people viewed the scene of operations. Each day the men who are working at this point are watched by many townspeople, who view with apparent interest the work being done by the large concrete mixers and the various other labour saving devices.

About 150 men are employed at the dam at the present time, and the contractor is laying on about 240 yards of concrete daily. There are three motors working all the time, besides a steam engine which furnishes power for the large shovel. It is likely that electric lights will be placed about the scene of operations in order that the work may be carried on during the night as well as day.

MARRIED.

IRVIN—LEMAY—At the residence of Alderman Batten, McDonnel street, on Thursday, Oct. 16th, by the Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., Mr. William A. Irwin, of Hamilton, to Miss I. M. Lemay, of Peterborough.

A MASONIC PRESENTATION.

Wor. Bro. F.D. McKay Remembered by Peterborough Brethren.

Presented With an Address and Past Master's Jewel.

At the regular communication of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 101, on Wednesday night, there was a large attendance, including many brethren from the other Masonic bodies of the town. Wor. Bro. F. D. McKay, P.M., in view of his expected departure from town, was presented with an address, read by Wor. Bro. H. C. Rogers, the accompanying presentation of a Past Master's Jewel, furnished by Rt. Wor. Alex. Gibson, being made by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush. The address was as follows:

Wor. Bro. F. D. Mackay, P. M. of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101:

Wor. Sir and Brother,—We, your fellow craftsmen of Peterborough, learn with regret of a change in your business affiliations, and your consequent removal or protracted absence from this town, which will deprive us of the pleasure of the fraternal and social intercourse we have enjoyed from time to time for so many years. This regret, however, is tempered by a recollection of the fact that is Mason, true and trusty, as we have found you to be, no matter how urgent the nature of his business, no matter what the character of his environments, will always have his face and footsteps turned towards the East, and will always, in spirit, if not in body, be present at our communications.

Knowing you to be a man of mature age and sound judgement, we part with you with every confidence that wherever you labour, your workmanship will be a credit to the craft, and your rule of life will be squared by the inspired Guide.

As fellow townsmen, we join with your hosts of friends outside the compass of our fraternal bond, in bearing testimony to the admirable manner and public spirit in which you have discharged the duties of citizenship—a manner so effective in all respects as to win you general respect and esteem, and make your departure from Peterborough a distinct loss to the register of progressive and desirable citizens of the town.

We feel assured that the same qualities which have distinquished your career as a journalist, applied in your new sphere of activity, will ensure successful work, and win commendation of like pronounced character; and though you have abandoned the pen for the 'phone, we hope that in due time the greatest "degree" of success may be yours, that profit and pleasure may result.

In extending to you—which we wish to do in the most cordial manner that words can convey—our fraternal and personal greetings, we feel that we should indeed be remiss in our duty and forgetful of our own pleasure if we did not respectfully request to include Mrs. Mackay in our felicitations and good wishes.

Since in our noble craft, as in all spheres of action, words without work are weak, permit us to give effect, in the way of a tangible token, to our words, by asking your acceptance of this Past Master's jewel, which, with our knowledge of your skill and fidelity as a craftsman, we feel sure you will worthily wear, both as an emblem of your Masonic rank, and as a reminder of the many pleasant hours we have enjoyed together.

So mote it be.

T. NEWTON GREER, W. M.,

On behalf of the members of Corinthian Lodge;

WALTER STOCKER, W. M.,

On behalf of the members of Peterborough Lodge.

Wor. Bro. McKay responded to the sentiments of the address in terms which shewed his deep sense of the appreciation expressed by his fellow craftsmen, referring in an especially earnest way to the pleasant associations he had enjoyed with the Masonic fraternity of both lodges, and with the citizens generally, during his term of residence in town, and earnestly expressing his regret at the partial discontinuance of these pleasant relations.

During the course of the communication the brethren took occasion to give personal expression to the sentiments to which they had subscribed in the address, and to express their regrets at Mr. McKay's departure, which are shared by the craft and citizens generally.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

The basis of the discourse given by the Rev. Mr. Mounteer was taken from the 14th Chap. of Romans, verse 10, last clause of the verse. The morning was rather gloomy, the cause of many being absent, and failed to hear the preacher in his usual earnest style of thought and expression.

Party No. 2 has all returned from that land of lakes and rivers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Casey left on the 11th inst. for a trip.

Crops are nearly all gathered in and the barns are more than full. For this state of things we have reason to be thankful.

The 1st, 2nd and 3rd verses of the 15th Chap. of Romans was the foundation of a temperance lecture by Rev. Wm. Kannawin on the 12th inst. The address was a call for active work, so as to secure a victory on the 4th of December.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Whatever you want to help you with your "garden in the window" you will find in excellent bloom and foliage at the West End Greenhouses, 466 Park street, residence of G. M. Roger. Telephone 21b. A. TRIAL REVELATIONS.

Some Extraordinary Doings in South Oxford.

FINE WORK OF MR. CHAMBERS

Former Conservative Candidates Bargain to Upset the Election—He Agrees to Furnish Evidence For Money—Charge of Personal Bribery—Fournier Charges Dismissed—Question of Agency.

Woodstock, Oct. 17.—The evidence in the South Oxford election trial yesterday was of a most surprising character. One witness, who admitted that he had acted as a Conservative spy, swore that he had made false statutory declarations as to having received money for his vote. The Fournier charge was dismissed. One charge that the hotel bar was kept open on election day and liquor given to influence voters fell through, because the witnesses swore that the proprietor was a Liberal. Three men swore that Mr. Donald Sutherland gave a man named Lloyd, a hostler, $1, and asked him for his vote. Mr. Jackson, solicitor for the petitioners, admitted that he had paid Mr. Chambers, Conservative nominee in the last election, $375, and had promised him $375 more if six out of the eight charges of which particulars were furnished by Chambers were proven. All of the interviews with Chambers took place in Chambers' house, and Mr. Blake intimated that he could produce three men who would swear to what took place at these interviews. It is said that these men were concealed in an adjoining room while bribes bored through the w..

Trying to Establish Agency.

London, Ont., Oct. 17.—Although the court sat all day yesterday, when the hour of adiournment arrived the first of the 135 specific charges alleged in the bill of particulars of the East Middlesex election protest had not been disposed of. Most of the day was taken up with evidence to establish the agency of certain persons charged with improper practices.

Will Sue a King.

London, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Emily Crawford, in Truth, says the Countess Lonyay, formerly Crown Princess Stephanie of Austria-Hungary, and the creditors of Princess Philip of Saxe-Coburg will probably be forced to sue their father, King Leopold of Belgium, to obtain their share of their mother's fortune, amounting to $2,000,000, which she left equally to her two daughters. It is believed that the King claims the money as a creditor for amounts lent and unpaid.

Gives Relief to Cripples.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the eminent specialist of Vienna, operated upon three children last night at the Mercy Hospital before a large audience composed of physicians and medical students. Prominent surgeons from all the large cities of the country were present. The operations were for dislocation of the hip, and the surgeon predicted that all would be successful.

Will Settle in Mexico.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 17.—Commander J. D. Snyman, a noted Boer fighter, is here en route to Mexico City to confer with President Diaz relative to a large tract of land in Mexico to be colonized by Boer refugees. Gen. Snyman said he was going to Mexico at the suggestion of Dr. Muller, envoy of the Orange Free State, who visited Mexico about five months ago.

Turned the Gas on Again.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Annie Isabella Leonard, 22 years of age, daughter of Elias Leonard, of Croemore, was found dead in bed at the home of George Heise at 60 Beverley street on the morning of Thanksgiving Day. Death was due to asphyxiation, Miss Leonard having probably turned the gas partly on after extinguishing it, before retiring on Wednesday.

A NEW MAN.

Remarkable Transformation Recently Reported From Haliburton County.

From Pusey post office, Ontario, comes a wonderful story in connection with a great change in the person of Mr. A. D. Miller, of that place.

For years Mr. Miller had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It had reduced him to a condition of ill-health so serious that fears were entertained that he would never recover.

The local doctors treated him for Liver Complaint, but instead of getting better he was gradually getting worse. His appetite was very irregular and he would bloat very much after eating. He had palpitation of the heart and sometimes could not sleep at all at night on account of his trouble. He was hardly able to get around when he herard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and commenced to use them.

After he had used one box he thought that he felt a little better and kept on, till in the end, this remedy completely cured him. He says:

"I am well and feel like a new man, and I have had good health ever since, although it is now a long time since I have used any of the Tablets.

"I consider Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a grand medicine and can confidently recommend them to anyone suffering with Dyspepsia, Indigestion or Heart Trouble, for I am sure that they will prove themselves to be a perfect remedy as they did in my own case."

Mr. Miller was very sick. He had tried doctors' treatments and other medicines just as, perhaps, you have done, with no improvement in his condition.

Then he tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he tells the result in words quoted above.

If your stomach has been giving you trouble Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will completely restore you.

FREE TO EVERYONE.

A Priceless Book Sent Free for the Asking.

"There be books and books;" some edifying, others entertaining, and still others instructive. The average man is so busily engaged in the labour of money-making that he has little time and less inclination for books which instruct; hence when he feels out of sorts, either he gives no heed to Nature's warning, or he consults a physician, at an expense which a little knowledge would have enabled him to avoid. There is probably no complaint upon which the public is so little informed, as hemorrhoids, or piles; this little book tells all about their nature, cause and cure; it treats of the different forms of blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, describes their symptoms, and points the way to a cure so simple and inexpensive, that anyone can understand and apply. The importance of promptness and thoroughness is vital, for the disease will not cure itself, and Nature, alone, unaided, will not accomplish a cure, while the consequences are too painful for detailed description. You are told how piles originate, the reason for their appearance usually being that some of the rules of correct living have been violated, and (what is more to the point) how you may rid yourself of this bane of human existence. All affections of the rectum are treated in simple plain language, so that all may understand, and learn how the cause may be removed. Many people suffer from piles, because after trying the numerous lotions, ointments and salves that are on the market, without relief, they come to the conclusion that a surgical operation is the only thing left to try, and rather than submit to the shock and risk to life of an operation, prefer to suffer on. This little book tells how this may be avoided, and a cure be effected without pain, inconvenience or detention from business. Write your name and address plainly on a postal card, mail to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and you will receive the book by return mail.

Murderer Hale Probably Dead.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 15.—No new developments in the Hale murder case. Provincial Constable Rush has made thorough search, and enquiry at all points along the north shore of Lake Huron and St. Mary's River, as well as throughout the farming communities for considerable distance east and west of the Sault, and information is nil. The impression that Hale has suicided or died from exposure ere this, is gaining ground.

Amateur Boxing Championships.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Entries for the autumn amateur boxing championships that open Thanksgiving night in the Rink closed yesterday with 36 in the list, including four heavyweights. This will require 15 preliminaries on Thursday. W. A. Hewitt, the well known hockey official, will referee.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Sub-Contracts Let.

North Bay, Oct. 15.—A. R. Macdonnell, contractor for the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, has been in town during the past few days, and work on the road will be commenced at once. His chief of staff, Mr. Hugh Doughney, has also arrived. Sub-contracts for the first thirty miles of the road have been let. Messrs. M. Doughney and Donavan taking the first six miles. Yesterday Thomas Welsh, a railroader of 18 years' experience, went out with a gang of twenty men to begin work. The work will be pushed rapidly forward.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. A COMBINED TREATMENT

That is Proving Wonderfully Successful in the Cure of Complicated Ailments.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is most powerful as a system builder and nerve restorative. As it is only mildly laxative some people find it advisable to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in conjunction with the food in order to secure proper action of the kidneys, liver and bowels. Here is an instance;

Mrs. John Shanahan, 319 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., states; "I was troubled with pains in the back and dropsy, and was subject to fluttering and palpitation of the heart. In order to set my kidneys right I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the same time.

"The combined use of the two preparations has done me a world of good. I used to have a rush of blood to the head, dizziness and headache, but I am thankful to say that all these symptoms have disappeared, and I have been cured by Dr. Chase's remedies."

TO ALTER RAINFALL

A CLAIM OF THE POSSIBILITY OF CHANGING LOCAL CLIMATE.

Hon. Rollo Russell's Plan—The Erection of Great "Rain-Walls" and Barrier Against the Wind From the Rainy Quarter Would, He Says, Cause Precipitation of the Moisture Carried by the Clouds.

There is no reason whatever, argues the Hon. Rollo Russell, why English people should continue idly repining over the bad weather which has prevailed during the greater portion of this past summer.

It is, he claims, possible for large cities to alter the local climate—at least, so far as the rainfall is concerned.

He suggests the erection of great "rain-walls," lofty structures which would be erected as barriers against the wind from the rainy quarter and would cause precipitation of the moisture carried by the clouds. Given walls high enough and long enough, and London, for instance, might, it is claimed, be transformed into a second Bournemouth, minus, of course, the sea.

This sounds fanciful; but Mr. Russell has written a book on the subject, and our own Meteorological Office, when interrogated, show themselves by no means pessimistic as to the possibilities of the scheme. Briefly, their opinion is as follows: That, given a hill 800 feet high, which admittedly exercises an appreciable influence on the rainfall of places to leeward of it, such influence would most certainly be increased by any addition to the height of the hill in question. How much this increase would be, however, would depend upon the influence of many factors, besides the combined height of the hill and superstructure.

Mr. Russell even indicates the best situation for these walls—there would be two of them at least in the case of London—and gives approximate measurement. They would have to be 300 or 400 feet high and five or six miles in length. One would stretch from northwest to southeast across the heaths in the neighborhood of Woking to intercept the rainfall from that direction. The other, which, by the way, would be a "fog-wall" as well as a "rain-wall," would extend from near the Thames a few miles east of London in a northwesterly direction, and its object would be to cut us off from the fogs that roll in on us from the Essex marshes, in addition to precipitating the bulk of the moisture from any stray clouds advancing towards us from that direction. The effect of an artificial barrier of this kind, like that of a perpendicular cliff, would be to drive the impinging air upward, thus causing the clouds to yield their rain near the walls before they could pass over the heart of London.

In support of his proposition, Mr. Russell advances a number of instances of towns whose annual rainfall is much less than the general average of the district in which they are situated, owing to their being protected by hills, although many of these latter are by no means of great altitude.

The details of the method of construction of such walls are, Mr. Russell admits, a question for engineers; but of their practicability he has no manner of doubt. "We know," he says, "of structures like the reservoir embankment at Bombay, a stone barrier 118 feet thick, over 100 feet high, and two miles long; a less amount of material would have gone towards a wind-wall 30 feet thick at the base, 300 feet high and three or four miles long." The accompanying illustration of a "rain-wall" is copied from The London Daily Mail.

France Has a Buried City.

Interesting ruins which point to the existence of a buried city have been found in the woods of Charbonnierre, near the chateau of that name, some miles distant from Orleans. Two tombs composed of monolith stones in one of which the remains of a skeleton were reposing, have been found under ancient oaks. They were at a depth of thirty centimeters below the soil. It is estimated from the nature of the stones, their dimensions and form, that the tombs date from the sixth, seventh, or eighth century.

According to a local tradition on this site, which was formerly crossed by a great Roman way, many centuries ago an important city stood, of which the ruins still exist, though crowded and crushed under the earth long ago by wood cutters and excavators.

This tradition attributes to this buried city the name of Sergy. It is probable that these tombs are not the only relics in this place, and that a well-conducted search would reveal an entire cemetery, whose extent would give an idea of the importance of the buried city.

No Respecter of Persons.

A few nights ago a Winnipeg policeman arrested a sleep walker who had wandered far away from his home in his night clothes. On arousing him from his slumbers, the prisoner enquired: "Surely you are not going to lock me up. I can't be responsible for the condition you found me in. I am a somnambulist." "I can't help what church you belong to," replied the cop; "if you belong to every church in the city you can't walk the streets of Winnipeg in your shirt tail."—Regina Standard.

Offences against the laws of health are punished rigorously and inevitably by nature. A man may break civil laws and escape punishment. But the man who transgresses nature's law of health cannot escape the penalty. Many a man is to-day a prisoner for life, and for a very brief life, because of his outrage of the laws upon which health is conditioned. He sits idly in his chair torn by coughing spells and gasping for breath. The handkerchief which wipes his lips shows a red stain. He is slowly wasting away.

Weak lungs, obstinate coughs, spitting of blood, weakness and emaciation are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Thousands who have been cured by this medicine attest the fact.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." The sole motive for substitution is to enable the dealer to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

"Three years ago I had the grip," writes Mrs. Tillie Linsey, of Gravel Switch, Marion Co., Kentucky. "It settled on my lungs, and the doctor said I had consumption. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am thankful to say I am entirely well. You may print this letter if you see fit to do so."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels in healthy activity.

Headache.

Pain across the forehead or at back of head is dangerous. It slowly but surely weakens the intellectual powers, impairs the vitality and will. Headache is sometimes from the eyes but more frequently is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and digestive organs.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

It never loses its effect. Cures by driving out the poison, and does not simply deaden the pain as do so many preparations containing narcotics.

THE STONE LODGE.

Relic of the Reform Riot in London, on July 23, 1866.

The extension of bank premises at the corner of St. Mary's road and Cravenpark road, Harlesden, London, necessitates the demolition of an interesting relic, the old stone lodge, at present forming part of the bank premises, which formerly stood in Hyde Park, and was the centre of the Reform riot, July 23, 1866, when the crowd tore down the park railings adjoining the lodge. The cause of the riot was the prohibition of the use of the park by the Reform League for a great political demonstration. Sir Richard Mayne issued a notice stating that the park would be closed to the public at five p. m., the hour fixed for the meeting being six p.m. By five o'clock thousands of persons were congregated at the chief entrance, and when the leaders of the Reform party had been formally refused admission commenced to attack the police with sticks and stones. The railings were broken down in two places, and the cheering mob rushed into the park. Here the police tried to repulse them, using their truncheons freely, the stone lodge being speedily filled with prisoners and wounded persons. One writer of the time described the place as "resembling a shambles." The mob was only quelled by calling out the Life Guards and Foot Guards to disperse the rioters. The handsome stone building was later taken down and re-erected at Harlesden, where it served as the entrance lodge to the old Fortune Gate mansion and estate. A movement is now on foot to get the Willesden District Council to acquire it, and have it erected again at the entrance to Gladstone Park. If successful, the structure will have the unique history of having served at three different places as a park lodge—the first a royal park, the second a private, and the third a public park.

THE STONE LODGE.

Ginger Beer.

Here is a way to make ginger beer: Granulated sugar, five pounds; lemon juice, one teacupful; honey, one-fourth pound; bruised ginger root, five ounces; water, five gallons. Boil the ginger root half an hour in a gallon of water, add the other ingredients and strain; when cold add the well beaten white of an egg and a teaspoonful of wintergreen or lemon essence; stir thoroughly and let stand four days without being disturbed. Bottle and keep in a cool place. This will keep for months longer than if yeast were used.

Mortality From Cancer.

In England the mortality rate from cancer has risen from 3.8 per 10,000 in 1864 to 8.4 in 1900.

Important to Our Festival.

The importance of the Thanksgiving festival lies in the fact that on this day the people of Canada are called upon to attribute their happiness, peace and prosperity, not to the genuis of Washington or Brock, nor to the victories of Wolfe or the astute statesmanship of this or that great president or politician, but to the love and mercy and power of Almighty God. We regard the yearly appointment of a day of national thanksgiving as the happiest, the most dignified, the best method that a country could resort to in vindicating itself from the charge of irreligion and placing itself on the same plane with other Christian nationalities.—Churchman.

A Warning to the Gobbler.

O Gobbler Turk, O Gobbler Turk,
Why hold your head so high?
Ere long there will be awful work—
The axe and hour are nigh.

GLAD THANKSGIVING.

We walk on starry fields of white
And yet ignore the daisies;
For blessings common in our sight
We rarely offer praises.
We sigh for some supreme delight
To crown our lives with splendor,
And quite ignore our daily store
Of pleasures sweet and tender.

Our cares are bold and push their way
Upon our thought and feeling,
They hang about us all the day,
Our time for pleasure stealing.
So unobstructive many a joy
We pass by and forget it,
But worry strives to own our lives
And conquers if we let it.

There's not a day in all the year
But holds some hidden pleasure
And looking back joys oft appear
To brim the past's wide measure.
But blessings are like friends, I hold,
Who love and labor near us.
We ought to raise our notes of praise
While living hearts can hear us.

Full many a blessing wears the guise
Of worry or of trouble.
Farseeing is the soul and wise
Who knows the mask is double,
But he who has the faith and strength
To thank his God for sorrow
Has found a joy without alloy
To gladden every morrow.

We ought to make the moments notes
Of happy, glad Thanksgiving;
The hours and days a silent phrase
Of music we are living.
And so the theme should swell and grow
As weeks and months pass o'er us,
And rise sublime at this good time,
A grand Thanksgiving chorus.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Share Your Joy With Others.

The pilgrim colonists shared the first Thanksgiving feast with Massasoit and his 90 Indians. We should invite to ours not only those near and dear to us, but some of those others who would eat it in solitude if we did not remember them. To many minds this will seem an almost unjustifiable sacrifice of the cosiness of the family party. The blessedness of giving and of giving something more than of our material substance will compensate for it. Those who have never known what it is to be alone in the world or even temporarily divided from their own kindred cannot conceive what it is to the solitary one to be welcomed into a home. A far more substantial benefit would not give a tithe of the pleasure that is felt when its doors unclose to them.—Exchange.

Away Down in Mexico

There grow two plants known and used before Columbus discovered America. One is a specific for inflamed membranes and the other a certain cure for bronchitis. Combined with Tar, Tamarac, Tolu and other herbs they go to make up Four T's, the only positive cure known to-day for whooping, cough and bronchitis. A 25c. bottle cures an ordinary cough in 24 hours. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Detectives on the Hunt.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 14.—Provincial detectives arrived here Sunday evening, and with Chief Mains spent the entire day at Chippewa, investigating the Franks' murder case. They went over the case from the beginning, and interviewed several persons around the scene of the tragedy, but very little, if anything, could be found to throw a shadow of clue on the murder. The detectives will remain a few days.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

Market opened up stronger over last night. The upward movement of stocks is continuing, and the market is becoming firmer. The opening quotations were much the same as last night's closing, but all day the advance has been steady. N.Y.C. opened at 156 3-8, and closed at 158 1-2; B. O. made a gain of 2 5-8 points over its opening quotation of 107; St. Paul opened at 190 3-8, and closed at 193 3-4, after reaching 196 1-4. The opening and closing of some of the most active stocks were S.P., 73 1-8, 74 1-8; Ill. Central, 150 3-4, 152 1-2; Pa., 164 3-4, 166 1-4; corn was very active, closing at 152 3-8; sugar opened at 125 1-2, and was fairly steady, closing at 125 5-8, after reaching 126. Total sales to noon, 539,700. Money opened at 7 per cent., low, 5 per cent. Now, 6 per cent.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 17th.—Liverpool wheat 1-8 higher, corn 3-8 higher. London comes irregular this morning with general list of our stocks slightly lower than our close. Consols down 1-16. The market there for other securities is quiet, with very little speculative feeling, and no decided tendency. Almost anything on list could be renewed or borrowed in any quantity at prevailing call money rate of 6 per cent at close. The failure of Gillman Son & Co. was announced late last night. It is one of the oldest private banking firms in the city, having been established in 1858.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

New York, Oct. 16th.— Developments as to Pacific coast matters among the railways running into that territory now preclude the likehood at present of the extension of St. Paul to the Pacific. Less than two years ago Chairman Roswell Miller resigned from the Union Pacific Directorate because he believed the interests of St. Paul were subordinate by that Company to those of the Chicago and North Western. The preparation of St. Paul to extend its lines to the western coast have caused Union Pacific to look with favour upon a St. Paul-Union Pacific alliance such as was recently negotiated between St. Paul and M.O.P. There is now good authority for the statement that such an agreement has been consummated, which will furnish St. Paul all the trackage advantages west of Omaha that the Union Pacific can afford. After Nov. 1st it is announced the St. Paul trains will run solidly from Chicago to the Pacific coast, using the Union Pacific tracks as freely as Chicago and North Western. This has been brought about through the influence of Rockefeller and Gould. The Rockefeller crowd dominates the St. Paul and is very powerful in the Harriman syndicate, which controls Union Pacific. Neither Gould nor Harriman want another road to the Pacific coast. Chairman Miller, or some other St. Paul man, will go back into the Union Pacific Directorate. This plan largely benefits all companies concerned. The sixth annual Frisco statement is just out, and is splendid. Earnings for the year increased over two and one quarter millions of dollars. Tonnage increased 2 per cent. The road expended nearly a million of dollars in one year in improvements. It is another of the excellent annual reports being given out now-a-days, illustrating the magnificent progress of all American lines. J.W. Gates is to arrive in New York to-day. He is reported as stating before he sailed that he expected to see the strike settled by the time of his arrival here. He will be an additional factor in the share market. At last there is an ending in decreases reported for our exports. For September the report shows an increase in our exports amounting to about six million dollars in excess of the same month for the preceding year. Cotton increased about thirteen million. It was offset by a decline in provisions and mineral oil. Anything that enlarges the supply of commercial bills in our present foreign exchange market is a factor of immense importance.

THE ROUGH RIDERS WERE OUTCLASSED.

Yesterday's Rugby Match on Nicholls Oval.

PETERBOROUGH 28, OTTAWA 0

The Largest Crowd in Many a Year—Peterborough Fast Enough for Senior Rugby—Notes on the Game.

The Rough Riders, of Ottawa, scarcely lived up to their name yesterday, as they did not do much rough riding over Peterborough's fifteen. When the smoke of battle had cleared away the bulletin board at the north-east end of the field delighted the eyes of the Peterborough admirers of the team with the legend, Peterborough 28, Ottawa 0. It was an ideal football day. The air was chilly and clear, there was very little wind, whilst the turf was dry and in perfect condition. The north and south sides of the gridiron were black with enthusiastic townspeople, who cheered and cheered again the good plays on either side, and shouted words of encouragement to their respective favourites on the field. It was a great game—free from roughness to any extent, the play for the most part open, and affording plenty of opportunity for the men of either side to display the evidences of careful coaching and persistent training. As for weight neither teams had a great deal of advantage, but for clear headedness, speed and passing, the locals were much their opponents' superior. Where the locals lacked the most was in their kicking in their attempts to convert. Five of these were lost which diminished the possible score by 10 points. Otherwise their play was almost faultless. The new scrimmage consisting of "Tick" Thornton at centre, and Hurtubise and Dainard at right and left respectively, proved a wonder. "Tick heeled out beautifully and although the local scrimmage played their opponents to a stand still, Hurtubise, as a matter of fact, blocked fully two-thirds of his opponents' kick-offs. The Peterborough wings, too, easily out-classed their opponent's wing line and swept them so completely from position that off-side plays became too frequent and afforded the visitors the privelege of no fewer than 15 free kicks during the game. For the locals Capt. McPherson on the half line played a great game. His sprinting was splendid and his passing clever, whilst ex-Capt. Burnham, also on the half line, was equally as noticeable in his work throughout the day. Harold Armstrong, who was tried out at half, made a favourable impression, whilst Bell at quarter did most excellent service. Norman's work was certainly deserving of all the applause given him, and his rushes over the line were always pretty and exciting. Asselstine, the new wing man gave great assistance and is a source of strength to the locals.

An attempt to particularize the playing of the entire Peterborough team would be perhaps superfluous as there was scarcely a weak point on the fifteen. Lee the young junior, who was tried out at full back, came up to the expectations of the management when there was any need for his services, but it was seldom the ball was over the middle line. Sizing up the Peterborough 15 the general opinion is that they are fast enough for the senior series. That they have a number of men who can grace any senior company cannot be denied, and that they more than surprised the visitors was admitted by the Ottawa men themselves. The score of 28—0 gives the locals a lead that even the Ottawa seniors would have difficulty in overcoming, and that the Peterborough rugby team is in fair sailing for the Ontario and Dominion championships is beyond any question.

During the game Meagher had his ear split open, but beyond this no causualities were reported. The game was refereed by Mr. G. M. Biggs, of Varsity, whilst Mr. W. B. Hendry, of Varsity also, officiated as umpire. Both gentlemen gave general satisfaction. The teams were as follows:

HOW IT WAS DONE.

It was only a few minutes after three when the ball was placed in centre field and the kick off taken by Peterborough. This McPherson caught and returned while the home wings following down rapidly secured the ball on Ottawa's 25 yard line. Peterborough's quarter tried to buck the line, but Ottawa obtained a free kick and were safe for the time being. Burnham caught the kick and returned to Ottawa's right half-back who was downed by Noble near Ottawa's line. From the scrimmage Burnham passed to McPherson, who, after a splendid run, went over for a try which was not converted. Score 4—0. Ottawa's kick off was a short one and Burnham, securing the ball, kicked and McPherson following up closely, brought it down near the 25 yard line. During the following scrimmage there was an offside and instead of kicking Ottawa took "yards." Burnham secured the sphere and gained 20 yards before he was forced into touch. A scrimmage followed the throw in and during this Ottawa secured a free kick, which "Mac." caught and after running about 20 yards kicked to the Ottawa defence, who returned to centre field. Here Peterborough was the recipient of a free kick and a short time later Armstrong, after a good run, passed to Burnham who kicked into touch. Score Peterborough 5, Ottawa 0. Ottawa's kick off was blocked and dribbled into touch. From the scrimmage following Ottawa kicked and Captain McPherson securing it ran for a goodly gain. Just here there was an interchange of kicks from our half line to Ottawa's back division one of which went into touch. After a number of crooked throw ins Ottawa secured the ball and from the the resulting scrimmage kicked to McPherson who returned it sharply. The right half of Ottawa muffed and Rickey coming down secured the the ball within 2 feet of the line. Bell bucked and after two scrimmages went over for another try, which was not converted. Score 9—0. The kick off went straight at Bell and the latter brought the ball fifteen yards nearer another score. Here there was a throw in which Burnham secured and kicked to Ottawa's right half who again muffed, and was brought down by Rickey. Following this there were a number of scrimmages and interchange of kicks. After one of the former Bell again secured the ball and after a brilliant run went over for a touch. This, like its predecessors was not converted. Score 13—0. Hurtubise blocked the kick off and made a gain of five yards. After the scrimmage McPherson dropped the ball and it was Ottawa's. The scrimmage was followed by a free kick for the Rough Riders. Just here there occurred a pretty run that resulted in a splendid gain. Cameron had just stopped a likely looking run and following the scrimmage Burnham ran, passed to McPherson, who in turn passed to Armstrong. Ottawa secured two free kicks, but gained nothing and just then half time was called with play at centre field. On resumption of second half Ottawa was offside on kick off and Peterborough was awarded a free kick. On the return Burnham kicked into touch near Ottawa's 25 yard line. The throw in was secured by Peterborough and Bell received the ball from the scrimmage, bucked the line and went over for a touch, which was not converted. Score 17—0. Bell secured the kick off and for some time the play consisted merely of scrimmage work from which as usual Ottawa secured a free kick, which McPherson caught and punted into touch. Bell secured the throw in and dodging and squirming, ran for 50 yards and was almost over the line before being stopped. Here Meagher had his ear split and after a rest went back while Lee came up and took his place on the line. Shortly after Rickey following, forced Ottawa to rouge. Score 18—0. Armstrong gathered in the kick off and returned to Baskerville who became a cushion for Crowley very close to the line, but Ottawa with the courage of dispair managed to push the home team back. Here the referee discovered that there was a free kick coming to Ottawa and Burnham and Messrs. Roberts, Baskerville & Co. became engaged in a long range duel, but the home wings becoming interested they gathered about and failed to observe the five yard rule. The pigskin came to Burnham who disappeared for a time and when discovered it was found that he was over the line for another try which "Fighting Mac." in his compassion, did not convert. Score 22—0. Hurtubise showed the usefulness of length, secured the kick and punted into touch. The throw in resulted in a loss to Ottawa of 10 yards, followed by a scrimmage from which Crowley dribbled into touch. Bell who had for some time, owing to a kick in the head, been moralizing on the brutality of rugby, became dissatisfied and began business in partnership with Armstrong and on closing out found themselves in possession of the ball within three feet of Ottawa's line. A series of scrimmages took place, after which Ottawa started a brilliant run but after going some distance found that they had not the ball, and on retracing their steps found that Lee had stolen it and gone over the line and deposited it there. This touch down was converted for a change. Score 28—0. It was just here noticed that the Peterborough half line had been thinking pretty hard, and the result was that from the kick off a run was inaugurated that brought the ball down well to Ottawa's territory. The partnership looked like failure, but Asselatine saved the firm's credit by bringing down the Ottawa right half back. It looked here like a further enlargement of the score when the referee's whiltle blew, leaving the score 28—0.

The teams were composed as follows:—

Peterborough—Back, Lee; Halves, Burnham, McPherson, Armstrong; Scrimmage, Dainard, Thornton, Hurtubise; Wings, Inside, Dillon, Asselstine; Middle, Meagher, Noble; Flying, Crowley; Outside, Rickey, Cameron.

Ottawa — Back, Hutton; Halves, Roberts, Baskerville, Rankin; Scrimmage, Morgan, Facto, Aylmer; Wings—Inside Wood, Hawkins; Middle, McQuaig, Jackson; Flying, White; Outside, Ralph, Fagan.

KICKS.

Yesterday's gate was the largest in the history of the club.

"Tick" Thornton surprised those who had not been watching the scrimmage work lately. The wise ones, however, had prophesied and their predictions were fulfilled by the splendid heeling out of Peterborough's centre "scrim."

Asselstine, at inside wing, was a great help to the line. His coaching was timely, and somehow there was nearly always an opening there for the quarter.

It is hard to particularize any of the boys, all played a good, if not a brilliant, game. Special mention might be made of the following of the wings, without which the kicking of the back division would have failed. Rickey, Meagher and Crowley gave the Ottawa backs no chance to correct their errors and but little time for any work.

Cameron played a plucky game, and Lee, during the short time he was on the line, made a splendid steal and touch.

Let the team turn out from now on and let those who have time come out and give the boys practice, also let all bear in mind that the season is not finished yet, in case any self-esteem may undo the fine start made. Consider "How are the Mighty Fallen," and "Lest we Forget."

President "Hal." McGiverin, of the Rough Riders, came up from Ottawa with their intermediates, in order to arrange for their needs here. Mr. McGiverin is known to many here who have, in years gone by, met him on the cricket field. It is owing to him that Ottawa has displayed such an interest in sport this fall.

LATEST IN SPORTING CIRCLES.

A Great Day's Sport on the Golf Links.

The Bankers and Lawyers Were Defeated by the "Rest of the Town"—Rugby Notes.

GOLF.

Yesterday, Thanksgiving Day, was a very successful day at the Golf Links.

The contest in the forenoon, between the Bankers and the Lawyers, on one side, and the remainder of the club, resulted in a very decisive victory for the Town. Mr. Burnham being the only one up on the side of Bankers and Lawyers. A surprise in this match was the defeat of Mr. Hamilton by Mr. Garvin, by 2 holes.

The Championship contest, between Mr. H. Burnham and Mr. Burnett, resulted in Mr. Burnham winning the annual championship of the club by two holes. This match of 36 holes was very closely contested, and was not decided until the 35th hole had been played. At the close of the third round, 27 holes, the score was all even, and the final nine holes were played by Mr. Burnham in the fine score of 39 strokes, while Mr. Burnett took 43.

At the close of the Championship match, the annual driving, cleeking, approaching and putting contests took place.

The longest drive was made by Mr. Hamilton; the next longest being made by Mr. Dennistoun.

The cleeking contest, owing to the lateness of the hour, was limited to a single approach, that to one of the holes, at 150 yards. Robert Neill came the nearest, followed very closely by P. Campbell.

The approaching and putting contest consisted of holing out two balls from 50 and 75 yards distance from one of the holes, with a bunker intervening. Mr. Burnett won this in five strokes for the two balls. Mr. Hamilton was second with seven strokes.

The putting contest consisted of the total number of strokes required to hole out four balls located at three corners of the home green, the fourth ball being located about two yards from the hole. Mr. Burnett won this contest by taking a total of nine strokes, Mr. Hamilton following with a total of ten strokes.

The score yesterday was as follows:

1	Burnham	Burnett	0
0	Hamilton	Garvin	2
0	Dennistoun	R. Neill	0
0	Campbell	McAllister	8
0	Smith	Dr. Neill	5
0	Gracey	Granger	2

RUGBY.

There will be an executive meeting of the Rugby Club to-morrow night in the Oriental Hotel at 7.30 o'clock.

LACROSSE.

The members of the Athletic Lacrosse Club had their pictures taken at Roy's on Thursday morning.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Of the three universities (Queen's, Toronto, and McGill) McGill has the best record in athletics. All three held their sports last week. Queen's equalled McGill's 100 yard dash and did better in the hop-step-and-jump. In other events McGill was considerably ahead, perhaps, because the opposition was keener than at Queen's. For instance in the pole vault, high jump, etc., here the leader was not forced to do his best. — Kingston Whig.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The old C.P.R. crossing on George street is being replaced by a new one.

—The executive committee of the George street choir will meet to-night at 7.30 p.m. Choir practice will be held at 8.15 sharp.

—Owing to the inability of the Rifle Association to compile the scores in time for to-day's issue the reports of yesterday's matches will not appear until to-morrow's issue.

—Don't forget this is positively the last week Miss Ellen Francis will give you the opportunity of receiving a full one dollar palm reading for fifty cents. Parkours National Hotel.

—The words "When we were Twenty One," so prominently displayed about town at present, are bringing forth many sighs from the more matured members of the spinster and bachelor fraternities.

—The automatic alarm at the C.P.R. crossing on George street, has for some time been out of repair. Yesterday one of the company's electricians placed the apparatus in order, and it will receive a good test.

—Dr. Lee will deliver the fourth, greatest, grandest, and most soul-stirring of all his series of great lectures, entitled "The Witch of Endor," in the Sons of England Hall, Sunday evening, at 8.30 p.m. "The truth sets us free." 2d

—A number of our customers had to go unserved on Saturday, owing to lack of help. We have had this remedied, and will now be able to serve all. Finest brands of cigars, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc., always in stock. Crystal Barber Shop, W. Morgan, proprietor.

—It has recently been stated in several of the Toronto papers that the wet weather of the summer destroyed a great number of turkeys intended for Thanksgiving and Christmas. This commodity will be fairly plentiful in Peterborough as large numbers arrived in town this morning.

—Anyone caring to look in the window of the Young Women's Christian Association, George street, will be amply repaid by the dainty exhibition of wood carving there. The pieces, though not numerous, are well executed, and show considerable skill on the part of the artist. We understand that Miss Dickson will open a class to teach this work. This should fill a long felt want in Peterborough.

OMEMEE.

The fall weather has set in, and the leaves are colouring very fast.

Our village is at present in a very healthy condition.

Dr. Keith continues his trips to Mount Pleasant every Friday, and is working up a good practice.

The Presbyterians are making active preparations for their anniversary services which will take place on Sunday, October 26th. Rev. Mr. Fragg of Uxbridge, and Rev. J. A. Wilson, of Peterborough, will occupy the pulpit. The choir is preparing appropriate music.

Potatoes are a very poor crop here and are selling at $1 a bag.

Other vegetables are plentiful. Oats are a bountiful crop.

Jas. Graham, proprietor of the Commercial House, is a very busy and up-to-date hotel man.

There are large numbers of our young men seeking employment in Peterborough for the winter.

Many of our citizens will not use their coal stoves this winter. They will substitute them by wood stoves.

The grounds around the English church are being greatly improved.

There is great activity among the temperance people over the referendum. It gives an excellent chance for people of all creeds and politics to show their loyality to the temperance cause.

MITCHELL MODERATE.

Charges of Coal Operators Replied to and Criticized.

SARCASM WITHOUT BITTERNESS

Aims of Miners—Seek Reduction of Hours and Increased Wages—Managers Challenged — Arbitration Commission Approved of and President Roosevelt Praised — Miners Hope For Lasting Peace.

Washington, Oct. 18. — The latest correspondence between President Roosevelt and John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, was made public at the White House yesterday. It consists first of the following telegram from President Roosevelt to Mr. Mitchell, dated Washington, October 15:

"I have appointed as commissioners Brigadier-General John M. Wilson, Mr. E. W. Parker, Judge George Gray, Mr. E. E. Clark, Mr. Thomas H. Watkins, and Bishop John L. Spalding, with Hon. Carroll D. Wright as recorder. The names are accepted by the operators, and I now most earnestly ask and urge that the miners likewise accept the commission. It is a matter of vital concern to all our people, and especially to those in our great cities, who are least well off, that the mining of coal should be resumed without a day's unnecessary delay."

Mr. Mitchell answered this from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., under date of Oct. 16. After acknowledging the President's communication he said:

President Mitchell's Reply.

"I beg to inform you that your recommendations were submitted to the members of the Executive Board of districts one, seven, and nine, United States Mine Workers of America, and they have unanimously agreed to call a delegate convention to be held next Monday, and will recommend to the convention that all men now on strike return to the positions and working places formerly occupied by them.

"In their refusal to accept your arbitrament at our suggestion on Oct. 3rd the operators sought to hold you in part accountable for the very conditions which you were trying to remedy, and to instruct you as to your duties concerning them. Eight days later they appeared before you dropping the common pleas judges, and proposing to abide by the verdict of a tribunal appointed by you, but attempting to prescribe within fixed and narrow limits the character and vocation of the men you were to name. To this proposition, as the operators made it, we were unalterably opposed.

"But now that you have yourself removed these objections by broadening and strengthening the commission, we feel confident that our convention will declare its willingness to have all questions between employing companies and men determined by the board chosen by you.

"We feel grateful to you, Mr. President, for the patriotic efforts which you have made to bring about an honorable settlement of the strike. We were in a position to sympathize with you, inasmuch as we had long been forced to endure arrogance, insult and false witness from the same source. Our gratitude is due to you and to the American people, and the press, who have supported you and us in this long struggle.

"If our proffer of arbitration or impartial investigation had been accepted six months ago, instead of now, there need have been no strike. We have been so eager, Mr. President, to respond to the people's demand for coal that, during the progress of the strike, we have more than once offered arbitration, but we have invariably been met with the reply, 'We will not permit outsiders to dictate to us in the management of our affairs. We have nothing to arbitrate.'

"Now that the managers of the companies have been compelled by you and a thoroughly aroused public conscience to recede from this position, we are proud that the firmness and the heroic endurance of our men and women in support of their rights and of a vital American principle have won the victory. The poor, under-paid mine workers of these coal regions, who toil hard from early morning until late at night for a livelihood, nobly supported by organized labor in this and other lands, have taught these corporation managers a useful lesson in civic and social duty. We exult over this tribute to the dignity of labor because it is the triumph of right and of good public policy.

"We do not, however, exult over our opponents, we appeal to them now, as we have from the first, to turn their eyes to the future and to co-operate with us in an effort to establish better relations between employer and employes for the advantage of both.

"We forgive them their arrogant refusal to deal with us, and in this hour when they are forced to acknowledge their inability to operate their mines without our consent and co-operation, we hold out the right hand of friendship and ask them to join with us in securing amicable relations and wholesome conditions in this region. We forgive them even the false accusations which they have made against us. They charged us with being criminals, rioters and Anarchists, and our organization they denounced as 'lawless and irresponsible.' They know, and did know that their charges were untrue and without foundation, in fact; they know that every officer of the United Mine Workers' of America from the President down, has constantly urged upon its membership the imperative need of respecting the law; that 'every man who commits a deed of violence is an enemy to our cause,' has been our watchword. Despite these admonitions, supported with all our influence, there have been a few crimes and a number of misdemeanors chargeable to those on strike.

But, Mr. President, we make the unqualified declaration that the imported guardians of law and order, the companies coal and iron police, have committed more unprovoked murders during this strike than can be charged to the great army of men who have been in idleness for the past five months. We have repeatedly, and in language not susceptible of misconstruction, condemned transgressions of the law on the part of those on strike, and we challenge the coal companies to point to one public utterance on their part in which they have even deprecated acts of violence committed by their hired guards.

"We declare that it was unfair and unmanly for the coal road operators to insult us while we were your guests, and charge our organization with responsibility for acts of lawlessness during the strike. It would be just as logical to charge the American army in the Philippines with being an army of murderers, to torturers and robbers, because a few crimes were committed by soldiers there. Until the millennium there will be crimes in every community, the human nature is the same, no better and no worse, among the half million people dependent upon us in the coal field as it is everywhere in our country.

"The pretense of the operators that they were unable to produce coal because intimidation kept from work men who were willing to work have been proven false by the fact that protection, which they demanded, has decreased rather than increased, the number of men mining coal. A hundred thousand troops could not have enabled the operators to start their mines for the simple reason that the men who work them are members of the United Mine Workers' of America, men who were determined to stand to the last for their rights to organize, and through their organization to demand better wages and improved conditions of employment. Deprivation, misrepresentation and troops together were not sufficient to drive them to surrender. They stood shoulder to shoulder to the very last.

"The operators declared that they would have nothing to do with the United Mine Workers' of America, but they have found it necessary to recognize the power of the United Mine Workers' of America through you, Mr. President, and to seek terms of peace which will enable them to resume their business of mining and selling coal. The recognition of our strength thus forced upon the operators by a stern necessity, we exult over, not in any narrow spirit, but because we believe it marks a forward step to a new era. Upon the foundations laid through war we are ready to join with them in building for better conditions and a long and lasting peace. The United Mine Workers' of America, since its organization in the anthracite field, has constantly sought to establish:

"First—Fair wages and just conditions of labor, conditions just to both operators and miners. We have never made demands beyond the ability of the industry to pay on a basis of equitable division of profits between labor and capital.

"Second—Amicable relations between employers and employes, the latter speaking through their organization, and their organization aiding the companies in maintaining discipline, adjusting all difficulties by conciliatory methods, averting local strikes and lockouts, and securing stable and satisfactory conditions to the industry.

"Our organization by the same methods which we have proposed here has secured just such relations and just such results in the coal fields of the country. Organizations, like an individual, must stand upon what it has done and the life it has lived. We invite scrutiny and investigation of our record and character. In the soft coal fields we have joint conferences with the operators, and with them we adjust differences. We sign joint agreements, settle disputes and maintain harmony and stability in the trade.

"We have asked the anthracite operators to enquire of the coal operators how well they are pleased with their business relations with us, whether or not we keep agreements and tender satisfactory service for wages paid to our members. One business man might thus learn of another what is the character of our organization. Many soft coal operators have publicly declared that they would not dispense with our co-operation and would deem it a disaster if compelled to go back to the chaotic conditions which existed when their labor was unorganized. Upon our part we are willing to stand or fall. We have, time and time again, invited the anthracite operators to adopt these business methods and to deal with us on this basis. Despite repeated rebuffs we persisted, but they resented any attempt upon our part to organize their employes; they refused any overtures for amicable discussion and possible satisfactory adjustment of wage difficulties in joint conference. They refused to have any dealings with their employes except as individuals; they refused concession and refused arbitration; they put their backs against the wall of prejudice and their faces arbitrarily against progress; they thought themselves stronger than the great union principle which is making such strides throughout the world; that while combining their corporations and pooling their interests in hard and fast alliance they could deny the men who worked for them the right to organize and speak through their organization.

"When the inevitable conflict came on they attempted to justify themselves upon the false plea that ours is an irresponsible organization; when we demonstrated our responsibility and reliability, they then asserted that we were an organization which was dominated by violence. When society attempted to interfere to settle the strike they declared their divinely appointed right to be let alone.

"When representatives of national and State Governments tried to mediate they resented such 'meddlesome politicians.' But, thanks to you, Mr. President, and to the power of public opinion, they have been brought to a realization of the fact that the interests and welfare of the American people cannot be ignored with impunity.

"By the eminent tribunal which you have named we have confidence that justice will be done our people. We are glad to have a chance to appear before such a court, empowered to consider and dispose of all the mine workers have struggled for: increased wages and a reduction in the hours of labor. Also the relations which ought to exist between the employers and the organization which the men have formed, and which they authorize to speak for them.

"From the arbitration we hope and believe will come a complete, satisfactory and permanent solution of the troubles which have vexed the anthracite field from time immemorial."

It is a remarkable fact that few savages have ever been known to stammer.

Enthusiasm Never Ran Higher in any Mantle Department

Than it has in this Store's Mantle Department this Season

Pleasant encomiums seem to be uttered by most every buyer, as well as visitor, and if you will just pardon our self-praise) well they might express their delight, for never have we known a better and more distinctive lot of Mantles grouped together. This alone would be sufficient to attract the attention of the purchasing women of Peterborough; BUT, there is another very strong and drawing feature about this store's Mantles, or "Ready-to-don" Department—it's the prices—the favourable prices—the prices that we can afford to offer them to our patrons, owing to our own syndicate of stores.

WHAT STORE outside the large cities that can scare up enough courage to buy Thirteen Hundred (1300) Coats to commence a season? Can you imagine any Foreign, Canadian or American manufacturer not anxious for such an order?

It's the favourable buying of big quantities that makes the prices so easy for our customers, that causes the favourable reports not only about our Mantles, but about our store. It's this large purchasing power that helps this store to grow so fast.

CASE DISMISSED.

The Court's View of the Mustard Charge—Disappearance of Mr. Watson's Witnesses—Progress at London.

Woodstock, Oct. 18.—The developments in the South Oxford election trial yesterday were not by any means as startling as the previous day's evidence. A couple of negroes swore that another negro had paid one of them $2 for his vote, and another witness swore that he had been offered $10 for his vote by Mr. Stephen King, and that Mr. King subsequently paid him $2. Mr. King denied the story absolutely.

Mr. Blake sought to discredit the evidence of several witnesses by exposing rather formidable records of convictions against them, and a scene occurred between Mr. Blake and Mr. Watson, because Mr. Blake ascribed to one witness a charge in which he was the complainant.

Some delay was caused by the disappearance of Mr. Watson's witnesses and the absence of others who were said to be in the hands of over-zealous friends. The trial may not conclude this week.

Mr. G. G. Duncan, a Norwich solicitor, was summoned in connection with the Mustard declaration which was made before him. He had handed it to Mr. Hewlett, a member of the Norwich Liberal Association. Mr. Hewlett had left $10 for Mustard in his office on the day the declaration was made.

Mustard Charges Dismissed.

Judge Street then announced that the court had decided to dismiss the Mustard charge. He said that the court would not have had the slightest hesitation in dismissing the charge had it not been that Beattie's evidence as to the objects of the Conservative Club was not straightforward. The very improper and reprehensible way in which the statement of Mustard was obtained was almost enough to entirely discredit the evidence of Mustard or any evidence given under the circumstances where a money inducement was held out to a man in order that he might sign a statement.

Rapid Progress at London.

London, Ont., Oct. 18.—More rapid progress was made in the trial of the East Middlesex election case yesterday than on previous days, and expressions of opinion were given by the court which indicate that, although some of the charges so far investigated have been formally dismissed, that will be the fate of several of the charges of treating. Others, too, have been abandoned by the petitioners, but there still remains quite a number to be disposed of. The evidence was given in one charge of bribery which was flatly denied by the party accused. It is probable that the evidence upon all the charges, except one series in which the respondent is charged with treating, will be completed to-day. As the particulars have been so amended that these charges are virtually new ones, the respondent has been given time to prepare his defence, and the trial of them will in all likelihood have to be postponed until some future date, when the Judge's numerous engagements will permit them to take up the case again.

FOR THE MUNICIPAL THEATRE.

Sir Henry Irving Advocates It and Says It Would Improve the Stage.

Manchester, Oct. 18. — Sir Henry Irving, in advocating the municipal theatre, said he felt it would help to drive from the stage those highkicking, discreditable shows which so often passed for theatrical plays. He added that the municipal theatre was coming. It had arrived in the United States and Germany. He would gladly give a thousand pounds to advance the movement in England.

Gave Her $500.

Windsor, Oct. 18.—Judge Carpenter of Detroit disposed of the Orton v. Norris breach of promise case yesterday afternoon, and the jury, after being out a little over three hours, returned a verdict of $500 damages for the plaintiff. Miss Orton of this city had charged Norris with breach of contract to marry her, and had placed her damages at $5,000.

Bond Concludes Treaty.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 18.—It is reported here that Premier Bond has concluded a reciprocity treaty with Secretary Hay in Washington. It is feared here that Canada now will adopt the same measures she did in 1890, when she protested against a former treaty and secured its abrogation.

Accidentally Shot Dead.

Montmagny, Que., Oct. 18.—Arthur Painchaud, 26 years of age, of Isle Aux Grues, was accidentally shot Thursday. He was coming through the woods, when his rifle caught in some branches and the charge entered his breast.

NEW DENTAL PARLOURS.

Of Dr. H. A. Wood—Handsome, Up-to-date Apartments.

It is possible to furnish and beautify rooms and places, that to the average are associated with torture and to the reflective with relief from pain, in such a manner that relief is, to some extent, received through the eye and a sense of bodily comfort. Such is the general impression given one on a visit to the dental parlours of Mr. H. A. Wood, L.D.S., in the Schneider Block, George street. The waiting room furnished with easy chairs, Ottoman rugs and palms is almost Oriental in appearance, and carries with it that sense of rest common to the east. A visit to the operating room and workroom is a sharp contrast, for there everything is business like, and fitted for the rapid alleviation of pain. At the rear a dressing room completes the suite, which is in every way complete and deserving of mention.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

This is a very important consideration in a woman's correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. It is a great satisfaction to feel that one woman can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only,—a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and with a knowledge of woman's ills greater than that possessed by any other person.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

The reason Mrs. Pinkham is so amply qualified to give advice in cases of female ills is for the reason that over one hundred thousand cases come before her each year,—some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day. Twenty years of constant success,—think of the knowledge thus gained. Surely, women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free.

As an illustration of the good coming from such advice we herewith publish two letters and portrait of Miss Hattie DeGroat, the reading of which should give every sick woman confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's ability to help them. This is only one of thousands of the same kind of letters which Mrs. Pinkham has on file.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have read with interest your advice to others so much that I thought I would write to you, for I have been suffering for a long time. I have such bearing-down pains, and such shooting pains go through me. I have headache, backache, and feel tired. Menstruation is very painful, sometimes have to stop work and lie down. My stomach bloats terribly, and I am troubled with whites. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

July 24th, 1900. MISS HATTIE DEGROAT, Succasuma, N. J."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can hardly find words to thank you for your advice and wonderful Vegetable Compound. I was in a terrible state, every part of my body ached, was very nervous, had hysterical spells. I think I would have become insane had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Your letter told me just what to do, and your medicine cured me, and I cannot express my thanks."

March 8th, 1901. MISS HATTIE DEGROAT, Succasuma, N. J."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends. Do not be persuaded that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who suggests something else has no interest in your case. He is seeking a larger profit. Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that the thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ONTARIO TEACHERS CAUGHT IN STORM.

A Damp South African Experience.

RAIN THAT DOES RAIN.

Graphic Letter From Miss Eleanor Yenney—The Teachers' "Trousseau" Considerably Curtailed.

Miss Eleanor Yenney, one of the contingent of Canadian teachers, now on duty in South Africa, sends the Examiner the following details of an exxperience, which may be counted a disaster, for only a strong mind like that can describe anything which injures a lady's wearing apparel:

Teachers' Quarters,
Kitchen, Klerksdorp, Sept. 11th.

Am writing this under somewhat peculiar circumstances, so please be lenient towards any faults of writing or expression. At present I am sitting on the kitchen table, and writing on an upturned soup-plate, instead of at the table in our comfortable sitting room. To fully explain the why and wherefore, I had better begin at the beginning.

The latter part of Thursday afternoon—to-day—had been very cloudy, heavy masses of vapour hanging low over the kopjes all around. When we went to dinner a few drops of rain were falling, while the thunder began to mutter and the lightning played incessantly. You could feel the air was charged with electricity. Some of the girls were rather alarmed, and confined their dinners to soup and bread, as they didn't need any knives for these.

Before we had finished dinner the wind was blowing a regular gale, but there was little rain. Then, all at once, down it came in perfect torrents, and in a moment big hailstones pelted down until we could not hear ourselves speak. Our mess tent was not new, and the rain began to come through. We could not get to our own marquees, so we all sat on the couch with a brown army blanket over us. Big as they are, there is hardly room for five under one, so several of us supplemented our covering with some of our household linen that was lying there. We did look rather ghostly by the flashes of lightning, I must confess, for by this time the lamp had blown out.

We could see the water coming into the tent from the far door, so we considered it prudent to draw up our feet. Our dog came and put his head on my knee, and in a moment his wet forepaws. This was the first intimation we had that the water had reached our haven of refuge. Putting down my hand I felt that the water was four of five inches deep on the floor. Then we thought it time to leave. You should have heard the shrieks as one girl after another got down into that water! Cold? Ugh! We all went to our marquee, which was nearest, and which we had fondly fancied would be dry.

PICTURE OUR AMAZEMENT

when we found it deep in muddy water! Our two cabin trunks had floated out into the sitting room, our curtains were trailing, and mats, boots, and boxes were sailing gaily in all directions.

For a few seconds we stood appalled, and then decided that the kitchen was the only safe refuge. I stayed just long enough to get a few dry things, and when I reached the kitchen the others were settled in rather odd positions, to be sure. Among the dishes on the table sat two of the girls, who kindly made room for me, and on an up-turned tin-box was perched a third. We dried ourselves as well as we could, and awaited developments.

They were not long in coming. One of the girls rushed in to say breathlessly that her tent had quite collapsed, and that her things were sailing serenely down to the Repatriation Quarters below. The others rushed out to see, and our maid opened the door to peep out, and announced that the mess tent had fallen! And, sure enough, it was quite flat, the table standing amid the ruins, and the dishes in fragments beneath it.

The crashing of the thunder was truly awful, and the play of lightning magnificent beyond description. The rain still poured down, and the camp was like a sea. But we were comparatively safe, and quite dry, so Miss Wilkinson and I began to write and the rest chatted and sang.

Tivoli Hotel, Sept. 13th, 1902.

We didn't let our spirits go down in spite of our misfortunes, and just at that point they began to come thick and fast. The next thing, Miss Rolston, looking out of the window, cried suddenly, "Miss Yenney, Miss Wilkinson, your tent has gone!" It wasn't a surprise, but it did come as a bit of a shock, for our marquee had been so lately and so securely put up that we had hoped it might stand. We know well enough, too, that it meant utter ruin to all our books, photos, and clothes, outside our trunks, for there was no only the water to take into account, but the soft mud into which the heavy tent would crush them.

The superintendent of the camp had been in to see that we were quite safe, but all the camp officials were busy helping to

of the hospital into shelter, for some of them had been only in marquees. All the staff quarters had shared the same fate with the exception of one. So he wanted us to go into that one, where he was having beds put up for us. Two of the girls went, but the rest of us preferred the more stable corrugated iron walls of the kitchen.

By this time all our tents were levelled, and I must confess we were beginning to feel rather forlorn. A gust of wind had blown our candle out, and we had no matches. So we sat in darkness and silence until our inspector and head master came up to our rescue. They at once set to work to carry in all our trunks, and as many of our scattered possessions as they could collect. We got all our most valuable things, watches, rings, etc., quite safely.

When they had saved all they could—they put the articles in the kitchen and pantry—Mr. Corbett, our inspector, said that he had engaged rooms for us at the Tivoli, and that we had better start. As you may imagine, we were quite ready to do so! They had intended to drive us down, but feared that the spider would be blown away bodily. So we walked.

I shall never forget that walk. Our costumes were rather peculiar. Two of the girls went down without stockings, one was wrapped in an army blanket, Miss Wilkinson had on a sunbonnet, and I had no hat at all. All of us were wet, and consequently did not mind getting a little wetter. What pools we waded through, and what sprults we forded! But we were quite reckless by this time, and personally, I was enjoying the experience immensely. We found very comfortable rooms ready for us, and appreciated four steady walls very much.

Next morning we went up to camp early to view the wreck. Such a scene of desolation I never saw in my life before. Beds, china, blankets, chairs, books, tables, scattered about in wildest confusion! We now began to realise the extent of the damage. All our small belongings and many of our clothes are utterly ruined. The men were busy putting the tents up again while we were there, ours among the number. But of all the muddy, disreputable looking marquees! It will be some time before we can return, as it has been raining almost ever since, and nothing can be done till all is thoroughly dry.

It was not only the camp people who suffered. Many of the residents of the town had their houses flooded too. Everyone says it was a phenomenal storm, and I can realize that it must have been. For before we left the water round our tents was nearly a foot deep—yet they stood at the top of a decided incline!

So though you have been having a summer of rain, we have not been without our share. To-day it is the drizzly variety, and it makes one feel quite homesick.

CENTRAL MILLING CO.

The Annual Meeting Held Thursday—The New Directors.

The adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Central Milling Company, Limited, was held at the Foresters' hall on Thursday, Oct. 16th, when the following Directors and Auditors were elected for the ensuing year:—Directors, — D. Carlow, J. W. Lucas, G. F. Warde, J. Stothart, J. W. Hall, J. Madill and George Taylor. Auditors, — G. K. Martin and F. E. Bell, re-elected.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring Directors, Mr. H. P. Kennedy and Dr. Gray, for their valuable services while members of the Board. Mr. Kennedy's business ability having materially assisted in procuring the machinery and making the necessary contracts for the erection of the building, etc. And it was chiefly through Dr. Gray's instrumentality that the site for the mill was obtained from the C. P. R. on such favourable terms.

At an informal Directors' meeting immediately after the meeting of shareholders, the following officers were appointed:

President— D. Carlow, re-elected.
Vice-President—J. Stothart.
Secretary-Treasurer—G. F. Warde, re-elected.
Manager—H. A. Mulhern, re-elected.

A NEW BRIDGE

To be Erected at Healey's Falls on the Trent.

The Seymour Council has at last awarded the contract for building a new bridge at Healey's Falls, and the job has fallen into the hands of Dickson Bros., of Campbellford, who have entered into an agreement to span the river with an iron structure, according to the plans of the engineer, for the sum of $5,450, and to complete it by March next.

The stone and cement piers now being built by the Government will be completed next week. The Seymour Council are now making preparations to raise two of the wooden abutments to the level of the piers, for the time being, as it is expected that the Government will replace the wooden abutments with cement in a few years.

HUNTING NOTES.

Mr. Harry Neil has Returned From Rainey Point—Season Opening.

Harry Neil has returned from Rainy Point, Rice Lake, and reports that the duck shooting season is just coming in. Sam Courrier and Ed. Young, the one-arm shooter, bagged ten brace of blue bills, also four brace of plover, on Thanksgiving.

Messrs. Chris. Woods, of the Bank of Commerce, — Watson, of the Bank of Montreal, and A. Talbot, will occupy "Sea Breeze," cottage, Rice Lake, for the coming week, on a duck-shooting expedition.

The Rob Rob leaves this afternoon with a party of duck shooters for Rice Lake, Capt. Snider in charge.

Accidentally Wounded.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—A. A. C. E. Robbins of 39 Simcoe street was admitted to the General Hospital yesterday in a very weak condition from loss of blood, caused by a gunshot wound in his left thigh. On Thursday he was hunting game at Newoll, near Stayner, with George and Alfred Horsberg. The hammer of George Horsberg's gun caught in Robbins' coat and the gun was discharged, inflicting the injury.

May Lose a Foot.

Elora, Oct. 18.—Harry, youngest son of Mr. A. Andrich, Elora, was Thursday sitting on the ground fixing his own gun, when one of the guns, which had been laid down by one of his companions, accidentally discharged, the whole charge passing through his ankle. It is feared he will lose his foot.

Benjamin Everall an old resident of the Wallace township bounday, about three miles from Listowel, committed suicide on Wednesday by hanging himself in his barn. He was in his 48th year.

"77" COLD FEET.

Cold feet and hands indicate poor circulation of the blood and a nervous predisposition to take cold.

Most Colds start with checked circulation, known by a chill or shiver, cold feet and hands.

The use of "77" starts the blood coursing through the veins, the extremities warm up, and the Cold is broken.

Dr. Humphreys' "77" consists of a small vial of pleasant pellets—fits the vest pocket.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH—212 CASES CURED.

The Semi-annual report of the Drouet Institute lately published in the leading London daily papers gives a record of 212 cases of deafness and ear, nose and throat diseases cured by the Drouet Method during the first six months of 1902. A brief analysis of these 212 cases shows results which are, to say the least, remarkable. Nearly one-half the patients before applying to the Institute had been under some form of treatment which had failed. There are numerous cases of deafness of 5, 10, 15, 20, and even 40 years duration in which restoration of hearing had been effected, and some of these patients had been "Stone Deaf." Then there are those astonishing cases, where deafness was cured at the ages of 60, 65, 70, 75, and even 86 years. Again there are cases of sclerosis, or deafness from dry catarrh of the middle ear, pronounced incurable by many Aurists, which have yielded to the new treatment of the Drouet Institute, all of which give renewed hope to those who after trying the older methods have given up in despair. For those who suffer from catarrh of the nose and throat there are the histories of cures of cases of long standing in which the Drouet Method has been successful, even after operations and severe cauterizations of the nose and throat have failed.

Those who desire to read the complete details of the various cases can find very full descriptions in the latest number of the "Journal for the Deaf," a publication which is issued by the Institute as a means of assisting people who desire to gain a knowledge of the causes and the symptoms of deafness and diseases of the ears, nose and throat. Besides plain talks to the deaf, and to catarrhal sufferers, the "Journal" describes the method of treatment devised by Dr. Drouet, which consists chiefly of an external application placed on the prominent bony part of the skull just behind the ear. A free copy of the "Journal," with a "Supplement" containing an additional record of upwards of 40 cases cured during the past month, can be obtained by addressing the Secretary, Drouet Institute, 72, Regent's Park-road, Primrose-hill, London England.

A special feature of the Drouet Institute is the Correspondence Department, which enables patients who cannot come to London for a personal consultation, to receive advice and all instructions for carrying on the treatment at home. This is accomplished by means of a Pathological Report Form which allows patients to give explicitly the details of their ailments. In fact all but a few of the 212 cases reported cured had treatment conducted by correspondence. The Report Form is always enclosed free with each copy of the "Journal," and the advice by correspondence, as well as the consultation by means of the Form, is also absolutely free.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

The Regular Monthly Meeting of the Township Council.

The council met in regular session on Monday, October 13th, 1902, in the Town Hall, at 2.30 p.m. All the members were present. The Reeve, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, presided.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. R. E. Wood, of Peterborough, representing Mr. G. Stevens, of Ashburnham, was present, and on motion was permitted to address the council on behalf of Mr. Stevens. Mr. Wood applied for permission to temporarily establish and operate a factory on Lot 12, Con. 11, in the Township of North Monaghan for the purpose of drying and manufacturing into a commercial fertilizer the contents of privy vaults, night soil, etc.

The following amounts were presented;

J. J. Bennett repairs to culverts in Road Division No. 5, two accounts, $7.00.

R. Sanderson, repairs to culverts in Road Division No. 2, $3.50.

G. H. May, rent of school house for Provincial election, $4.00.

John McIntosh, one-half cost of 40 yards of gravel on Cavan boundary, 42.

It was moved by Messrs. Madill and Dobbin that the above accounts be passed and paid. This was carried.

It was moved by Mr. May and seconded by Mr. Madill that this council do not consent to the establishing of the trade or manufacture as applied for by Mr. Wood for Mr. Stevens. This was carried unanimously.

Moved by Messrs. Smith and Madill that the Clerk render an account for damages done to culverts to Mr. A. Reynolds, caused by the non-observance by him of the Act regulating the running of traction engines on public highways. This was carried.

Council then adjourned until the next regular meeting, on Nov. 10th, 1902.

JOHN KYLIE

Hunter Street, Next Mitchell's Grocery

H. LeBrun & Co.

Never before, in all the years we have been in business, have we laid in such enormous stocks of Superior Ready-to-Wear Clothing, Cloths, Hats, Underwear and Furnishings for Fall and Winter wear, as is now displayed in our New Store.

CLOTHS.

Our Fall and Winter selections of Imported and Domestic Suitings and Overcoatings for our Merchant Tailoring Department is the largest between Toronto and Montreal. We offer the best choice that gentlemen can possibly have for their Made-to-Measure orders. Our new cutter, Mr. Williamson, is a practical artist in fashioning garments, and will allow nothing to pass through his hands that does not satisfy the most exacting and exclusive dresser.

HIGH-CLASS READY-MADES.

The standard of our Ready-Made Clothing has, is now, and always will be carefully guarded. What we buy comes from only the most reliable makers; and what we make up ourselves is done by high-priced skilled labour. No defective garment will leave this establishment if we know it.

MEN'S and BOY'S OVERCOATS

Reefers, Ulsters, Raglanettes, Box Coats, Fine Suits, Business Suits, etc., are all so reliable, so up-to-date and so moderately priced that we are sure they will win us staunch friends and customers.

UNDERWEAR.

We have double the stock of Underwear usually carried, and we do not know where you can get so large a stock to choose from or such solid value as we are offering. We can supply you Underwear from 25c to $3.50 a garment. Anything you want in wool and cotton, fleece-lined, cashmere, Scotch wool, natural wool, and fine silk or wool.

FINE UP-TO-DATE HATS.

We are right up-to-date with our Hats, as with everything else we sell. The settled styles are here. Popular Derbys, softs and stiffs. As good hats at $2.00 as you can buy anywhere for $2.50 and $3.00.

SWELL FURNISHINGS.

The top notch of fall and winter styles in Gentlemen's High-class Furnishings. Every new thing in fine Gloves, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, etc.

Will You Write a Postal

So a Sick One May Get Well?

Send no money—simply a postal card, giving the name of some one who needs help. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this:—I will send the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

That month's test will show you what a remedy can do. It is the easiest way to convince you. It is the only way to induce all who need help to accept it.

I make the offer to multiply my cures, and I am willing to trust the cured ones to be fair with me.

In the past 12 years I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands of sick ones on just those terms, and 39 out of 40 have paid gladly, because they got well. I pay just as willingly when one says I have failed.

The remedy is my discovery, the result of a lifetime's work. I have perfected it by watching results in thousands of the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. I know what I will do.

My success comes from strengthening weak inside nerves, and my Restorative is the only remedy that does that. When an organ is weak I bring back the nerve power, which alone operates every vital organ. It is like giving an engine more steam. I give the weak organ power to do its duty, and there is no other way to make weak organs well.

Can you conceive of a sick one who will neglect such a treatment, when I take the entire risk??

SIR WILFRID HOME.

Quebec Gives the Premier a Right Royal Welcome.

ANCIENT CITY ILLUMINATED.

Quebec Honors Her Distinguished Representative—Mayor Parent Reads the Civic Address—A Reference to Health and Repose Neatly Turned by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in His Brief Reply.

Montreal, Oct. 18. — Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, landed at Rimouski, Que., at 3.30 yesterday afternoon. All reception arrangements are cancelled in Montreal. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will arrive here at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon and listen only to the presentation of an address by Mayor Cochrane. He will then proceed immediately to Ottawa to resume his work.

Royal Welcome at Quebec.

Quebec, Oct. 18.—The arrival of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was attended by one of the grandest demonstrations ever extended to a Canadian statesman by the people of Quebec, irrespective of party politics, as a mark of personal esteem, as well as in honor of his return from his participation in the King's coronation.

The special train from Rimouski with Sir Wilfrid and party on board reached St. Joseph de Levis about 8.45 o'clock, where the train stopped to allow the Premier and those accompanying him to disembark, when they proceeded to the Island boat wharf, and took the steamer Druid, which brought them to the King's Wharf. Thousands of people were assembled on the King's Wharf and vicinity, and when Sir Wilfrid came ashore with his Cabinet Ministers, who accompanied him, they were escorted to waiting carriages, and a procession formed, when Canada's Premier was escorted through the principal streets of the city first by way of Mountain Hill along Ruade to the drill hall, where Sir Wilfrid was presented with an address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Quebec after a display of fireworks took place from the large square in front of the drill hall, and Sir Wilfrid was ushered to the Chateau Frontenac. Preparations had been made on a large scale for the illumination. The hall was one blaze of electric lights, with the word "Welcome" in French and English, surrounded by electric lights. The Parliament Buildings, postoffice and other public buildings as well as private houses were decorated. Other illuminations at Levis, the Island of Orleans and along the shores of the river were viewed from Dufferin terrace.

The words "Welcome Home" in large letters lighted by electricity were located on the Levis heights. At other points of vantage, such as the Island Orleans, St. Joseph's, etc., large bonfires sped out the welcome to the Premier, while the new I.C.R. station at Levis was brilliantly lighted up by electricity and elaborately decorated.

The address of welcome, presented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, said in part: "We are actually bent on offering you more than an ordinary reception, for you are one of our own, a distinguished member of the great Canadian family, and most prominent citizen—you return home not simply as a traveler from distant shores, but in the capacity of an ambassador, whom the nation has sent abroad as her representative to share in a solemn function which has impressed all loyal subjects throughout the Empire, the coronation of our most gracious and beloved King Edward the Seventh. To the most representative gatherings of the old world you have responded in glowing terms to the boundless wealth and resources of our country, and you have faithfully portrayed us."

Sir Wilfrid's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid, in reply, dwelt chiefly on the points in the address, expressing himself as delighted to find himself in his native land, and thanking all those who had contributed to the demonstration. With reference to the paragraph about health and repose, Sir Wilfrid remarked that he could not accept the advice about repose, as the office was no sinecure. As to health, he might have accepted it a few weeks ago, but had no need of advice for the moment, and was proceeding to Ottawa to resume work. In conclusion, he said that to-night he spent his time with his constituents, and would reserve any reference to the colonial conference and other questions which took him to England for another occasion. The meeting then broke up.

No Gratuity For Them.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The War Office had decided that the officers and men of the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th Regiments, Canadian Mounted Rifles are not to receive the war gratuity, these corps having landed in South Africa after the war had ended. The gratuity amounts in the case of the men to £5 or $25, and increases according to rank.

DR. PITCHER CURES A TORONTO TOBACCONIST.

Mr. C. F. Helmkay, the Proprietor of the "New Century Cigar Store," 94 Queen Street, East, Cured of Acute Kidney Trouble.

There are not a few people in the eastern portion of Toronto who know Mr. C. F. Helmkay, who keeps the New Century Cigar Store at 94 Queen street east. For some time past Mr. Helmkay has been a victim of kidney complaint in its most acute form, and every remedy he tried seemed to be of no avail to cure him.

He read that Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets were curing cases of severe kidney complaint that other remedies seemed unable to benefit, and in consequence he decided to try them. The results were simply marvellous. A few bottles of Dr. Pitcher's Tablets soon removed every trace of the distressing kidney trouble, and made Mr. Helmkay feel like a new man. When interviewed about his case, Mr. Helmkay gladly gave the following particulars:

"Yes," said he, "I suffered from kidney trouble in the most acute and tenacious form, and can never be thankful enough for what Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets did for me."

"What were the symptoms of your complaint?"

"Well, I had a terrible pain across the small of my back, an irritable condition of the bladder that caused much suffering. My appetite was poor, and when I did eat anything it gave me great distress."

"Had you been troubled that way for any length of time?"

"Yes; for some considerable time. Of course I took all sorts of remedies, hoping to be cured, but kept getting worse all the time."

"Then you say that it was Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that cured you?"

"I most certainly do. I think Dr. Pitcher's Tablets are the only remedy in the world for kidney troubles. This statement may seem extravagant, but I have gone the rounds of all the advertised kidney medicines and Dr. Pitcher's was the only one that touched the spot and cured me."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the most effective, scientific treatment for backache, lame or weak back, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, dizziness, mist before the eyes, bloating, gravel, stone in the bladder, high coloured urine, sediment, scalding or smarting, irritability of the bladder, frequent calls during the day or night, rheumatism, pains in the joints or muscles, uric acid in the blood, kidney troubles of women, bed wetting of children, and all forms of kidney, bladder or urinary troubles of old or young.

Price 50 cents a bottle, or three bottles for $1.25; at all druggists, or sent by mail by addressing the Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

STRIKE COMMISSION.

Will Not Begin Work Until Miners Have Agreed to It.

MINERS ARE NOT IN HARMONY.

It Is Thought Certain, However, That Majority of the Locals Will Accept the Commission Arbitration Proposition—District President Nichols in Favor of Its Acceptance—Non-Union Question.

Washington, Oct. 18.—It is now known that the strike commission will not begin its labors finally until the miners shall have agreed to it.

Miners Not in Harmony.

Scranton, Oct. 18.—Reports were circulated last night that the locals of the mine workers in West Scranton, Pittston and some other localities, had voted to instruct their delegates to oppose the acceptance of the operators' proposition unless the companies would agree to discharge the non-union men, take back all the old employes, drop the suits instituted against strikers and recognize the union. It was impossible to verify these reports, but they are persistently and generally circulated.

A significant fact in this connection was the concern of District President Nichols yesterday over a published report that he was at the head of a movement to oppose the acceptance of the proposition. "This report," said Mr. Nichols last evening, "is doing no end of mischief, and I want it stated that the report that I am opposed to the proposition is absolutely false and without foundation. I have been in favor of it from the very first, and the vote of the district officers recommending its acceptance to the convention was unanimous."

Majority Will Accept.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 18.—In accordance with the call issued by order of the executive boards of the anthracite districts of their union, "all locals," throughout the coal fields began electing delegates yesterday to the convention which will be held here next week to consider the acceptance or rejection of the arbitration plan submitted by President Roosevelt. Many of the local unions held their meetings last night. It is positively certain that a majority of delegates will vote in favor of the acceptance of the arbitration scheme.

Prominent officials of the union say there is no fear that the opposition will be strong enough to defeat the efforts of those who favor ending the strike by arbitration their differences with the operators.

President Mitchell does not care to anticipate the action of the convention, but from his manner it is taken that he bears not the slightest doubt as to the result. He will go back into the convention and make a strong speech for the acceptance of the arbitration scheme.

The indications are that the convention will last two days, and there will be much debate on various features of the arbitration plan.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

To Represent the Lion's Cubs.

London, Oct. 15.—Lord Strathcona and Sir Frederick Darley, Lieutenant-Governor of New South Wales, have been appointed additional members of the Royal Commission which is inquiring into the conduct of the South African war. They will represent Colonial interests.

Kidney Pains Relieved.

If anything prevents the urine from being discharged from your kidneys, if germs should attack the urethra and inflame the kidney ducts so that some of the urine is retained in the kidneys, inflammations and congestions set in, and you have a sore back, neuralgic headaches, and you suffer the severe pains usual with kidney trouble.

MRS. BURKE'S HISTORY.

"I would consider myself very ungrateful if I did not give you my testimonial to the wonderful curative powers of Powley's Liquified Ozone. I have been troubled for over four years with severe kidney trouble, and suffered intense pain at times. I could scarcely straighten up after being in a stooping position. I tried every known remedy, but received little or no relief. About the middle of August I was induced to try Ozone. When I had finished one bottle I was much improved, and the pain began to leave me. After taking six bottles I was entirely cured, and to-day I am in better health than I have been for years.

"I can cheerfully recommend Ozone to all women sufferers from kidney trouble or female weakness." (Signed) MRS. WM. BURKE, 28 Adeline St., Montreal.

THOS. P. ANTLE.

"I have suffered from kidney disease for many years and although I have tried many remedies, and have been treated by several doctors, I have never received any permanent relief. I began taking Ozone, and I am pleased to say that I feel like a new man. You are at liberty to publish this, as it may induce some other sufferer to try it."

(Signed) THOMAS P. ANTLE, 30 Church Ave., St. Verdun, Montreal, P. Q.

Powley's Liquified Ozone destroys the germ life, and by stimulating the kidneys restores their natural action. It is remarkably successful in curing kidney disorders, so successful that it is taking the place of older and less effective treatments. Ask the drug man about it—he'll tell you what it does.

Marketing Western Grain.

Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—From October 1 to Oct. 16, both inclusive, 5,900,000 bushels of wheat were marketed at telegraph stations on the Canadian Pacific as compared with 2,225,000 bushels during the same period last year. Ten per cent. may be added to this total to represent the marketing at flag stations. Over 3,400,000 bushels were loaded into Canadian Pacific cars during these seventeen days, as compared with 1,800,000 bushels loaded during the same time last year. The railway is keeping well abreast of the movement of wheat.

A COMBINED TREATMENT

That is Proving Wonderfully Successful in the Cure of Complicated Ailments.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is most powerful as a system builder and nerve restorative. As it is only mildly laxative some people find it advisable to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in conjunction with the food in order to secure proper action of the kidneys, liver and bowels. Here is an instance;

Mrs. John Shanahan, 319 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., states; "I was troubled with pains in the back and dropsy, and was subject to fluttering and palpitation of the heart. In order to set my kidneys right I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the same time.

"The combined use of the two preparations has done me a world of good. I used to have a rush of blood to the head, dizziness and headache, but I am thankful to say that all these symptoms have disappeared, and I have been cured by Dr. Chase's remedies."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box; Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 5

Peterborough Federal Union.

The regular weekly meeting of Peterborough Federal Union, No. 9240, American Federation of Labour, was held last night in the Central Labour Hall, Water street. The president, Mr. John McCann, presided. The principal business of the evening was the appointment of auditors, the arranging of a rate of rental for the different unions and the Trades and Labour Council, and the desirability of having all the Trades Unions meet in the Central Labour Hall, so as to have it recognised as labour headquarters. A notice of motion was given looking to the restoration of members who are in default for dues.

AT THE RIFLE RANGES.

Thanksgiving Day "Shoot" a Great Success.

THE RUNNING MAN TARGET.

Results of the Tyros are Not Yet Out—Some Very Clever Shooting.

Thursday was a day of exceptional activity at the Curtis' ranges, it being the occasion of the annual "Shoot" of 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers. The day was all that could be desired, from a markman's point of view, with fine, clear air and very little wind. In point of attendance the number of competitors was very encouraging and the scores were high. The two innovations—the running man target, which was described in the Examiner some time ago, and the Company competition, were highly appreciated, and at the former the scores were better than expected. Everything that would be conducive to the comfort of the men had been thought of and arranged. A large marquee was provided for the men and another for the officers. Lunch was provided for the men, so that the whole day could be devoted to the shooting. The range officers were Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards, Major Miller, Capt. Walker, Capt. Clegg, and Lieut. Cameron, while Major Stevenson acted as range clerk. When the scores were compiled it was found that the experienced marksmen had carried off the honours of the day, Sgt. F. Bartlett winning the General Match, while Lieut. Cameron and Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald each made a possible at the running man target, and a very large number tied with scores of 10, 8, 7 and 6. It is likely that the money coming to those who make same scores in this match will be totalled and divided between them. This is the usual custom for ties in extra series of one range. For instance, the five who made ten should have the money coming to 4—8 inclusive totaled and divided equally between them and the other ties in a like manner.

There has been some difficulty experienced in obtaining the right scores, and those that have been furnished are as follows;

ASSIZES OPEN ON TUESDAY

Before the Honourable Chief Justice Meredith.

THERE ARE 5 CIVIL ACTIONS.

And One Criminal Case to be Heard—Court Opens Tuesday at One O'clock.

The Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice for the County of Peterborough, open at 1 o'clock on Tuesday before the Hon. Chief Justice Meredith.

There are five civil cases to be heard, and only one criminal case is set down, it being a charge against a man named Falon, under the provisions of the Charlton Act.

The civil list is as follows:

Dwyer vs. Cox. — In this action Addie Dwyer, an infant under the age of 21 years, is suing by her next friend, Douglas Succee, Henry Cox, a farmer who resides in the township of Otonabee, to recover the sum of $1,000 damages, and the costs of the action. The plaintiff claims that on or about the 25th day of August, 1902, the defendant enticed the plaintiff into a conveyance, and then into an ill-lighted and unfrequented part of the town of Peterborough, where he carnally knew her, against her will, and subsequently spoke words of the said plaintiff which were injurious to her character.

The defendant in his statement of defence, denies that he had criminal intercourse with the plaintiff.

Messrs. O'Connell & Kerr, for plaintiff; E. B. Stone, for defendant.

Smith vs. English. — The plaintiff is Margaret Smith, a hotel keeper in the village of Hastings, and the defendant is a merchant residing in the said village. The action arises over a certain chattel mortgage that was held by the defendant upon the goods and chattels of the plaintiff's husband, Patrick Smith, who became separated from his wife. She alleges that immediately upon the said separation of her and her husband, the defendant entered into possession of the goods and chattels, and advertised and sold the same for considerably more than would pay the claim of the defendant, and costs connected therewith, and also seized, and took away and sold, a large quantity of household furniture, etc., not covered by the mortgage, and that although an account has been demanded from the defendant none has been forthcoming. She asks that an account may be had and taken of all moneys that were received by the defendant from the sale, etc., and that the defendant be ordered to pay the costs of the action.

The defendant in his statement sets forth that the sale under the provisions of the chattel mortgage was conducted in a perfectly proper manner, and that on the 10th day of June, 1898, the defendant settled all matters, and accounts between them, and a receipt and release were given therefor to each other by the plaintiff and the defendant, and the defendant craves leave to refer to the said receipt and release at the trial.

W. L. Payne, Colborne, for plaintiff; L. F. Clarry, Hastings, for defendant.

Webb vs. Canadian General Electric Company. — The plaintiff is Andrew Henry Webb, and the defendant an incorporated company carrying on a manufacturing business in Peterborough. On the 11th of February last plaintiff was engaged in the course of his employment with the company in repairing a certain railway track upon their premises in that portion known as the Compbund Building, when, without any warning, a heavy car was run over the track, one wheel passing over plaintiff's arm. He claims that the accident was caused by negligence of the defendant's servants or agents in charge of the car. The plaintiff claims $2000 damages.

In their statement of defence the defendants deny the statements contained in plaintiff's statement of claim, and put the defendant to the proof. They state that he was not employed to work upon the railway track, and had no occasion to be upon the same, and was guilty of contributory negligence.

J. Green for plaintiff; Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson, for defendants.

Jory vs. Wilson. — The plaintiff is Thomas Edward Jory, a farmer residing on lot 21, concession 5, of the township of Douro, and defendant John Wilson, is also a farmer residing on the west half of lot 20, concession 5, Douro. Action as taken by plaintiff to recover $4500 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections by defendant, the loss of her society and assistance; $200 for the trespass of the defendant upon the premises of the plaintiff; $200 damages for the assault complained of.

Defendant denies the allegations in plaintiff's statement.

O. A. Langley, Lakefield, for plaintiff; Stratton & Hall, for defendant.

Spry vs. Spry. — Plaintiff, Eliza Spry, resides in Peterborough, and the defendant is Lewis Spry, who duly married plaintiff on 22nd of September, 1885, and they lived together until September 6, 1902, when, on account of alleged cruelty and misconduct of the defendant, the plaintiff left the defendant's house and is boarding with friends in Peterborough. One of the acts of misconduct alleged occurred on or about July 12th, 1899, when defendant got into a fit of temper, brought out his rifle and threatened to shoot plaintiff.

Plaintiff claims a declaration that she is entitled to almony from the defendant (and also to interim alimony) sufficient under the circumstances and that the defendant may be ordered to pay the same; and that for these purposes all necessary directions be given and accounts taken.

The defendant admits that he is the husband of plaintiff, but denies that he ever assaulted, threatened or ill-treated her, and states that plaintiff left his home and has continued to live apart from him of her own accord, without reasonable cause and that he has always been and is willing to support defendant and provide for her so long as she resided with him.

O'Connell & Kerr, for plaintiff; Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson for defendant.

—County Magistrate Edmison was in Havelock yesterday taking further evidence in the Adams case, which was again enlarged for one week.

CIVIC GRATITUDE.

With unquestionable propriety the country honours those who have conferred benefit upon it, especially in the red field of war, and the town has not been remiss in honouring those of its citizens who have distinguished themselves in the arena of domestic strife in our own North-west, or upon the broader stage of South African struggle. While thus honouring our citizens, it will be admitted that the town has arrived at a stage of importance when, apart from considerations of gratitude, the desirability and fitness of honouring our deceased citizens who have conferred important benefits upon the community, should be practically considered. The late Robert Nicholls by industrious pursuit of his business amassed a considerable fortune, and left to his wife Charlotte Jane Nicholls the disposition of it. The town owes to the Nicholls Estate under the will of the latter Jackson Park, one of the finest natural parks in the province, Inverlea Park and Nicholls Park, maintained and beautified by the proceeds of the estate. The possession of these not only brings pleasure to every citizen but gives the town an outside creditable name for most enviable park properties. From the same source came the Nicholls Hospital, built at large expense and munificiently endowed. Surely the town could well afford, in consideration of all these beneficent provisions, to erect a monument or memorial of some kind to those whose means have been so generously and beneficently employed in the interests of the enjoyment, pleasure and health of our citizens. This would not only be the right thing to do but something the town can perhaps ill afford not to do, having in view the obligation which common gratitude imposes not only upon individuals but communities as well.

HAD EXCELLENT LUCK.

Messrs. Neill and Lorrimer Have a Splendid Shoot at Pigeon Lake.

A week ago yesterday Messrs. G. W. Lorrimer and N. D. Neill, of Brantford, left for a week's shooting at Pigeon Lake, in the care of Guides Madden Howard and Zack Knott. With two such guides they expected good luck, but their "bag" exceeded their fondest anticipations. At the end of the week, it was found on going over the score that the game of our north country had been depleted to the extent of eighty-six ducks, and ten partridge. Messrs. Neill and Lorrimer returned last evening, highly pleased with their success. That the inner man was well taken care of, and plenty of amusement provided, need not be stated in view of the fact that Messrs Howard and Knott were the guides for this party.

BETHANY THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

Peterborough Talents' Contribution.

A very successful thanksgiving service or entertainment, was held at Bethany on Thursday night. There was a very large attendance, and with Rev. Mr. Hale, as pastor, in the chair, a pleasing programme of addresses and music was presented. The addresses were given by Rev. Messrs. Oswald, of Pontypool, Kannawin, of Omemee, and J. A. Wilson, of Peterborough, and the choir of the church, very ably assisted by Mr. Jas. Dawson, of St. Paul's choir, furnished excellent music.

Don't pay a canvasser $5.00 for a teacher's Bible when you can get a good one at Sailsbury's for $1.40.

ST. ANDREW'S TO-MORROW.

Rev. T. W. Goodwill M. A., Will Preach To-morrow.

The Rev. T. W. Goodwill, M.A., a graduate of Queen's University, will preach the annual Thanksgiving sermon to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Auxiliary.

Mr. Goodwill is a native of the South Sea Islands, being the son of a most faithful missionary, and is well qualified to know much of the life of the people, as well as of the work of the W.F.M.S.

On Tuesday next between 3 and 5 p. m., the St. Andrew's W. F. M. Auxiliary will hold an at home in connection with their work, when the Thank offering will be made.

A COMFORT AND A CARE.

If Your Home is Blessed With a Baby You Will Appreciate This.

A baby is a priceless comfort, but in its utter helplessness is also a great care. Anything that will relieve the tired mother and add to baby's health and happiness is both a help and a friend. This is what makes the statement of Mrs. Thos. Little, of Kingston, Ont., so interesting to all mothers. She says:—"When my baby was eighteen months old he was troubled with a sour stomach and was badly constipated. These troubles made him cross and restless and I had to be up with him a number of times during the night. I finally got a box of Baby's Own Tablets, and after giving them to him for a few days his bowels became regular, his stomach was sweetened, and he slept well. I think that these Tablets are just what mothers need for their little ones." Baby's Own Tablets are the best and most convenient form for administering medicine to the very young. They are safe and harmless and free from opiates. Sent post free on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schnectady, N. Y. A book on the care of infants and children sent free on request. Write for it.

A NEW APPLICANT.

October 15th, 1902.

To the Editor of the Examiner;

Dear Sir,—I am thinking of enlarging my business in Peterborough. I have done well here and find it a first-class place so I will add to my shop if I can get sufficient encouragement and can get exemption from taxes. I employ 25 hands, including my father and mother, who help, my wife and myself, and my six children and the servant girl—the youngest girl is in the Kindergarten and I cannot yet count her. Sir, I believe in manufactures, and if this town will only show a little encouragement I will extend my business and take in my wife's sister's children as well. Do you think, Mr. Editor, the Council is sufficiently progressive to awake to the occasion and submit a by-law to the intelligent ratepayers to vote on it? I know it would carry, for all my own and my wife's relations will vote for it, and they all have rigs to draw voters, and if we just keep quiet till election day, we will just spring it on them and it won't take many to carry it when there's no voters against it.

Yours truly,

JOHN KAY.

P.S.—If the encouragement was sufficient and I could get a free site and exemption and a few thousand dollars I could do better—I would take out the cellar under the back kitchen and employ a couple of my wife's sister's cousins.

Our correspondent, as a type of a class, is not quite consitent, even in his sarcasm. He proclaims himself a believer in manufactures and their benefits, and at the same time speaks disparagingly, in effect, of assisting manufacturers, and proposes bringing in "children as well." The logical effect of manufactures is to bring in not only children, but heads of families, and without prejudice to our position in the matter at which 'John Kay" is evidently driving, it may be pointed out that the very establishments he is aiming at are to be credited with the setting up of scores of self-owned homes, a most important contribution to our population, and a valuable element in promoting commercial prosperity. While our correspondent plays the easy game of ridicule he seems to forget that the proposition which he, and no doubt, others, considers objectionable is, while it may be thought undesirable in form, still an assertion of the principle of assisting manufacturing industries, and perhaps his well known interest in the town's advancement might be better employed in suggesting some feasible modification of a proposition which might meet his and the views of others who are desirous of promoting the manufacturing importance of Peterborough.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

The regular Sunday gospel meeting to-morrow at 4.15 will be addressed by Mrs. (Rev.) Kilgour. Subject, "Ideals and Influence." There will be special music. All young women are cordially invited.

The members of the Y.W.C.A. are asked to keep in mind the reception to new members to be held in the Association rooms on Tuesday next at eight p.m. A modern art gallery will be one of the chief events in the evening's entertainment.

CHEAP MEATS.

It will be in your interests to call at our MEAT MARKET Saturday when you can buy SPRING LAMB by the quarter at 6 and 7 cents per lb. We have had large crowds this last couple of weeks but at these prices more purchasers than ever.

OTONABEE POWER COMPANY

Completed and Furnishing Industrial Motive Power.

DAM NO. 5 IN HARNESS.

Brief Description of the Works of the Company—Modern, Solid and Beautifully Effective Throughout—Generating Capacity 2,000 h. p.—900 Practically in use Driving Peterbdrough Machinery.

The test of the best efficiency is success accomplished in the face of obstacles. The Otonabee Power Company has succeeded; and at the celebrated Dam No. 5, on the Trent Canal, one of the completest and most modern power stations in Ontario, is at work supplying power to several important industries, which without this power, under the present conditions of the fuel supply, would have seriously affected their ability to carry on the extensive operations which the prevailing activity in the industrial and commercial world demands. In thus establishing an important industry — one might say a parent industry — the Otonabee Power Company has doubly justified the object and aims of its organization. It was argued by those influences which opposed its acquirement of privileges necessary to its establishment and operation, that its application was not bona fide, and that no development, such as promised, would follow, and, even aside from that, there was no need of the extension of the privileges the company sought to purchase — that there was no scarcity of electric power at cheap rates to supply the demands of existing or projected industries. Whereas it is not only a fact that outside the supply this company is now able to give, there is not only a deficiency of electric energy available for power purposes, but, as periodical plunges of the town into darkness testify, there is no superabundance for lighting purposes either. The company has had to contend in the inceptive stages of its enterprise, with the opposition actuated by a determined combination of business and political interests; but the Otonabee Power Company and its friends feeling certain that the course pursued was in the interests of the industrial progress and prosperity of the town, persevered, and now it is in active operation, serving these ends, not only in the present, but with a reserve ability and probability of more extended future usefulness.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE INDUSTRY.

Not half of the two thousand horse power the company can now furnish, is in actual or engaged use. The Canadian Cordage Company—whose factory would not have been built in Peterborough, had not its promoters been assured of the power the Otonabee Power Company is today supplying — the William Hamilton Company, the George Matthews Company, Meldrum's elevator and mills, and other industries, are using and have contracted for, nine hundred horse power, leaving eleven hundred horse power available for similar services, constituting a no unimportant factor in determining the establishment of new industries in Peterborough. The first flash of electric power developed by the completed works of the Otonabee Power Company, and transmitted over its wires to the works of the Canadian Cordage Company, was the first step in the new stage of development and utilization of our splendid water powers, for which the town has for years otherwise been vainly looking.

WHERE THE WORK IS DONE.

The announcement, therefore, that the power station of the Otonabee Power Company is completed, and in operation, is important, as marking a new step — nay, rather, a new stride—in Peterborough's industrial development and progress. A drive of about four miles from town northward, on the western side of the river, takes one to the fourth line of Smith, whose terminus, (east from the Lakefield Road) leads to the river and to the premises of the Otonabee Power Company, on the west side of the river, at Dam No. 5, on the Trent Canal, river and canal being, in this case, convertible terms. This little stretch of Smith highway is the first evidence one meets of the enterprise of the ccompany. At no small expense it has built a good road from the Lakefield highway to the power station, where no passable road was before.

About one thousand yards north from the lower outlet of Look No. 5, is situated Dam No. 5, and here the company has established its station. To provide its head race and tail race, there was necessary, or it was considered necessary to effective service, to construct southward from the dam, a retaining wall of solid cement, rock bottomed, of about 200 feet, up to and including, the wheel pits, and a further retaining wall of stone filled crib work, containing 200,000 feet of timber, of 350 feet from the tail race, with a continuation of about 100 feet of stone embankment.

DEVELOPMENT OF POWER.

The head race, provided with six sluice ways on the river side, is 180 feet in length from the dam to the racks at the entrance of the wheel pits, 60 feet wide, with a depth at normal water of 14 feet, giving a head of that height. The head at the dam is only nine feet, but the other five feet is accounted for by the deepening of the head race and the tail race, whose water surface is four feet below the surface level of the river alongside. The retaining wall of the head race is of solid concrete, 24 feet wide at the base, which rests on the rock, and eight feet broad at top.

There are three wheel-pits, enclosed by solid concrete walls, eight feet at base and five feet on top. The excellent nature of the concrete work is demonstrated by the fact that in no part can a jet of leakage or a mark of seepage be seen. The three water wheels, 66 inch turbines, of 600 horse power each, manufactured and installed by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, are placed and supported in the most solid and substantial manner, and geared to the main shafting, 66 feet in length from the first wheel to the electric generator. The shafting for the first wheel is six inches in diameter, the second eight inches, the third ten and the axle of the generator wheel is twelve inches. A separate and distinct 24-inch water wheel of 50 horse power is used to drive the exciter which generates the direct current for the building up of the fields of the large generator, an arrangement which gives much more satisfactory results than operating the exciter from the main generator shaft. The water wheels are regulated by the Lombard governor, regarded as the most efficient in use. The armature, twelve feet in diameter, is supported upon two journals, each weighing three tons, and the bed frame of the generator is 10 x 14 feet in area. The diameter of the armature is ten feet, and the potential capacity is 2,000 horse power. The generating compartment also contains the automatic oil braking red-light signal switch board, of the most modern and most highly improved character. This applies, however, to all the electric machinery which was put in under the superintendence of Mr. E. H. Davis, by the Canadian General Electric Company, and combines in essential operation and appliances all the latest discoveries and inventions bearing upon and applied to the generation, control, transmission and distribution of electric energy for the purposes of power or light. The same applies, mutatis mutandis, to the hydraulic machinery put in by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, under the supervision of Mr. James Garrow, which machinery exerts its tremendous power, so smoothly does it run and so solidly is it supported by the substantial environments the company have provided for it so that no jar is perceptible. The extreme solidity which characterizes the structural work in connection with the hydraulic power extends to the station building, a handsome structure 35x45 feet, resting on the solid rock, its walls built of the stone taken out in deepening the tail race. The generating room is floored with hard wood.

A very comfortable and complete dwelling has been erected for the resident electrician of the company, Mr. Victor F. Hunt. The premises of the company include besides, four or five acres of nicely timbered land, and the grounds will be improved and beautified, now that the compnay has realized its chief aim and ambition, the furnishing of a large and economical supply of electric power for industrial purposes.

THE TRANSMISSION OF POWER.

The system is the three-phase system, and the pole line carries three sets of heavy copper wires, No. 1, which are put on with a view of transmitting the heavy current of 6,600 volts. The pole line crosses the river at the dam to the east side, down which it passes to the town. The poling and wiring are done with the same regard to solidity of construction that characterizes every part of the system, and a visiting engineer pronounces it one of the most complete and well built systems of wiring and poling he has seen anywhere. From the main station the current of 6,600 volts is conveyed to the sub-station, situated on the company's premises at the south side of the foot of Simcoe street, where it passes through the transformers.

WHERE THE TRANSFORMATION TAKES PLACE.

The sub-station is a brick building 24x32 feet. It contains six transformers, a five panel switch board with 16 oil brake switches, with the necessary rotary tan, lightning arresters, and all the appliances, including a direct telephone connection with the main station, necessary in a thoroughly modern and first class transforming station.

The works of the company went into operation Thanksgiving Day, supplying power to the Canadian Cordage Company, which takes 500 horse power, and on Monday connection will be made with The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, using 225 horse power; The Meldrum Mills, 50 horse power; the Ultimator Sifter Company, Ashburnham, 15 horse power, and the Geo. Matthews Company will take 125 horse power as soon as their transformers can be supplied and installed, making a total of 900 odd horse power, representing the present contribution of the Otonabee Power Company to the industrial activity of the town.

Not only is this permanent benefit to be largely increased in the future as demand may arise, as it is sure to do, but the money distributed in construction work has not been inconsiderable. In addition to the wages paid out in the work of construction at Dam No. 5, there have been about $50,000 paid indirectly to the employees of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Compnay and the Canadian General Electric Company, represented by the orders to this amount filled by these establishments. In addition there is to be considered from a local point of view the distribution of money for supplies of various kinds, for not a dollar's worth of anything of this sort used in the construction of the works has been purchased outside of Peterborough, except the cement used, which came from Lakefield, so close at hand as almost to be classed as a suburb of Peterborough, which it is hoped it will be in time, when the town and the village in the course of expansion may meet midway at dam No. 5.

The Directors of the Company are Messrs. Wm. G. Ferguson, President; W. A. Stratton, K.C., and Adam Hall, Vice-Presidents, and Mr. R. R. Hall, and Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., had engineering charge of the structural work throughout. The Company as well as the town has reason to be well pleased at the success the former has achieved and the benefit the latter has derived, a success and benefit which every well-wisher of both hopes may continue to an increasing degree.

The A.R.M. Club.

The A.R.M. Bible Club got a splendid start at the Y.M.C.A., on Wednesday evening. The attendance was most encouraging and the interest in the question discussed all that could be desired. The young men recognise in Mr. Sorsoleil a leader of exceptional ability. The enrolment is now 21, and promises to increase as the work of the club becomes known. Mr. H. A. Pearson has been elected president, the one elected at the last meeting being unable to act. The programmes are now in the press and will be ready next week.

DR. LEE AGAIN.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

In answer to the statements made by "Arequipa" in his communication in the Examiner on Wednesday, I have only this to say:—

"I do like a man who can stand boldly up
And tell me right out what he feels;
I can fight with a lion that will roar in my face,
But I can't bear a cur at my heels.

Spiritually yours,—

DR. L. LEE.

HUNTING NOTES.

That the Salmon Club now in session at Ketchecum Lake is having good luck is evidenced by the splendid lot of fish sent down last night in care of Messrs. Rush, Davidson and Bradburn. The largest fish was a beauty weighing 12 1-2 lbs, and its great size would almost lead one to believe it a salmon instead of a mountain trout as averred. Messrs. Sanderson and Shortly, the lucky fishermen, landed the fish while trawling.

DRYNAN JEWELS STOLEN.

One Thief Rescues Another at Point of Revolver From Constable.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—One thousand dollars worth of jewelry was carried off last night from the residence of John Drynan of the W. A. Murray Co., at 75 Queen's Park, by two of the most daring "porch-climbers" who ever operated in this city. The robbers took a buggy with them, when they went to enter the home, and the outfit materially aided the men in escaping from the house. One of the climbers carried a loaded revolver, and threatened to use it when his pal was caught by a policeman after a hard chase. The constable, not being armed, was forced under the circumstances, to release his hold on his man and both porch-climbers got safely away. The robbery was committed after information had been received here regarding the operations of the two men under similar circumstances in Buffalo Thanksgiving night. The police here and in Buffalo have excellent descriptions of the two men, and every effort will be made to run them down.

Montreal, Oct. 18.—H. G. Johnson, a clerk in the general offices of the Canadian Pacific, was before Judge Laiontaine yesterday on a charge of conspiring with others to prevent the search auditing of conductors' reports, by obtaining from other employes the dates on which the audits were to be made, and revealing them to such conductors. Johnson pleaded not guilty and will be tried next Tuesday. Other arrests are to be made.

AN ANXIOUS TIME FOR NEURALGIC SUFFERERS.

Paine's Celery Compound

The Only Medicine That Successfully Cures This Terrible Nerve Disease.

Experienced physicians know well that the variable weather of this autumn month decides the fate of thousands in ill health. At the present time, men and women are falling around us like leaves before the chilling north winds.

Amongst the diseases prevalent at this time, terrible neuralgia with its sharp, lacerating and darting pains is doing its intolerable work. The cold winds, damp air and sudden changes in temperature, favour this pain-rucking disease. The best physicians of all schools admit that Paine's Celery Compound is the only known specific for the cure of neuralgia. If you are experiencing the torments of this most terrible of nerve diseases, we counsel you to give Paine's Celery Compound an immediate trial. It has permanently cured others; it will, without fail, meet your case. Mrs. T. McMaster, Toronto, Ont., says:

"Ten years ago I was attacked with neuralgia, and though treated by six doctors, the disease grew worse and and nearly made me insane. Day after day I suffered the most intense agony, and I became utterly disheartened. One day my deliverance came. A lady who had suffered as I had, told me that Paine's Celery Compound had cured her. I used the compound, and it simply made a new woman of me. The pain vanished, I grew well, and I never felt happier in my life. All this is due to Paine's Celery Compound."

A MOTHER'S PRAISE

For the Medicine That Restored Her Daughters Health.

She had Suffered From Severe Headaches, Vomiting and Extreme Nervousness, and Feared She Would not Regain Her Strength.

Every prudent mother will watch carefully the health of her young daughter at the period when she is passing from girlhood to womanhood. This period is the most critical in the young girl's life. It is then that she becomes pale, easily tired and troubled with headaches, without apparent cause. The blood becomes thin and watery, and unless prompt steps are taken to restore it to its rich, red, health-giving condition, decline, and perhaps consumption will follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more pale, anaemic, easily tired girls than any other medicine, and mothers will make no mistake if they insist upon their growing daughters taking these pills from time to time. Mrs. P. Gage, a lady well known in Rowanton, Que., tells what these pills have done for her daughter, She says: "My daughter, Catharine, aged fourteen years, was suffering greatly with severe headaches, vomiting and nervousness. She was so completely run down that we feared that she would not recover her strength. We tried several medicines, but they did not seem to do her any good. I then thought we would try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result has been up to our fondest hopes. She has fully recovered her health and strength, and I shall be very glad if this experience will help some other suffering girl regain her health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood and give new strength with every dose. They cure anaemia, headache, heart palpitation, dizziness and bring the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. These pills are also a certain cure for the ailments that make the lives of so many women a burden. Be sure you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Most Enchanting Scenes on a Candle Being Lighted.

Among the numerous minor cave systems found in New South Wales, none are more remarkable than those situated at Oakey Creek, in the heart of a country rich in mineral wealth, gold, silver, and tin being frequently found, also diamonds and other gemstones. The entrance to the caves is situated in a sequestered nook, and might be unsuspectingly passed by anyone not aware of its real character. How it was discovered has never been explained, but the first explorer must have been possessed of considerable nerve, for the opening is very small, only large enough to enable a moderately-sized person to crawl through, and when the visitor has safely accomplished this feat he finds himself encircled by Cimmerian darkness. But directly a candle is lighted a wonderful transformation takes place, and a most enchanting scene, formed by multitudes of dainty, fantastically-shaped stalactites and stalagmites becomes revealed to view. The floor is one vast deposit of carbonate of lime, and from the roofs and sides of the calcareous cavity the same mineral hangs pendant in strange conglomerate shapes, that are sometimes artistic and sometimes grotesque. Right at the entrance is a solid white block, which has been formed from the constant drip of the limestone, and which, from its supernatural appearance and resemblance to the human form, has been christened "The Ghost." In this large cave there are four or five chambers, all similarly formed. In the main eastern one a dwarf figure communicates with the upper crust, through which a tiny stream of light issues, which only tends to make the intense darkness a greater source of apprehension. The large cave leads to another, known as "The Blow Hole," the mysteries of which have never been penetrated. The entrance is by a crevice equal in size to the outor opening to the caves, but on throwing a stone in some seconds elapse before it is heard to strike the bottom, a sufficient admonition to even the most venturesome of the abyss within, to explore which would be literally walking into the jaws of death. Those most familiar with the caves express an opinion that if the blow hole were properly explored another series of subterranean passages or chambers would be discovered.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Remarkable Reasons For Duels.

Colonel Montgomery was shot in a duel about a dog; Colonel Ramsey in one about a servant; Mr. Featherstone in one about a recruit; Sterne's father in one about a goose, and another gentleman in one about a bottle of anchovies. One officer was challenged for merely asking his opponent to pass him a goblet; another was compelled to fight about a pinch of snuff. General Barry was challenged by a Captain Smith for declining wine at a dinner on a steamboat, although the general pleaded as an excuse that wine invariably made him sick, and Lieutenant Cowther lost his life in a duel because he was refused admittance to a club of pigeon shooters.

In 1777 a duel occurred in New York between Lieutenant Featherstonehaugh of the Seventy-fifth and Captain McPherson of the Forty-second British regiment in regard to the manner of eating an ear of corn, one contending that the eating was from the cob and the other contending that the grain should be cut off from the cob before eating. Lieutenant Featherstonehaugh lost his right arm, the ball from his antagonist's pistol shattering the limb fearfully, so much so that it had to be amputated. Major Noah lost his life in 1827 at the dueling ground at Hoboken in a simple dispute about what was trumps in a game of cards.—London Tit-Bits.

Good Health for Capital.

Maintaining good health is to the majority of people the most vital question in the world and nature affords no more efficient strengthener for the system and restorative for the nerves than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Naturally, gradually and certainly it forms new red corpuscles in the blood, creates, new, healthy, nerve cells and puts into the system the snap, energy and vitality that defies disease.

Mr. Pickwick and Lord Rosebery.

"It is always best on these occasions," said Mr. Pickwick, in a famous political emergency, "to do what the mob do."

"But suppose there are two mobs?" suggested Mr. Snodgrass.

"Shout with the largest," replied Mr. Pickwick.

Lord Rosebery's career is in some degree a reflection—a refined and instructive reflection — of Mr. Pickwick's philosophy. When the country was Gladstonian he was a Gladstonian; when it was Radical, with a touch of Socialism, he was a Radical-Socialist; when it turned Imperialist he turned with it. The "last phase" of Lord Rosebery's politics is indeed that which is most characteristic and sincere. Imperialism always appealed to his imagination, and its ideas penetrate Lord Rosebery's defiance of Home Rule, his personal fervor for Mr. Gladstone, his sentimental democracy. But it is inevitable with Lord Rosebery that as rivers are colored by the soil through which they flow, so he should take on every fresh shade in the complexion of the spirit of the hour. Resistance to that spirit is not in him.—H. W. Massingham in London Speaker.

WHEN WOMAN LOVES

By JOHN F. PEARSON

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson

It will simplify matters and lead to a better understanding if I confess at the outset that I am what the police denominate a "crook." I am neither a thief, robber nor burglar, but a financial agent for people who have property to dispose of, property acquired in an unlawful way. For instance, if a burglar comes across bonds, shares, notes, deeds and the like while pursuing his calling he bundles them up and brings them to me. For a liberal commission I dispose of the papers on the open market or deal with the loser direct. Now and then I handle jewelry, but the gems must be valuable and the losers wealthy to interest me in a case. It may be of interest to know that I was a fairly good civil engineer before I became a financial agent. Why I exchanged professions is a matter concerning myself alone.

Ten years since a friend of mine named Dee got into trouble in a western state. In trying to break away from the officers one of them was shot dead. That meant the gallows for Dee. I at once secured the best legal counsel for him, but was plainly told that only a miracle could save his neck. When his case came up, he was convicted without the jury leaving the box, and he was sentenced to be hung. We made an appeal, and he went back to prison knowing that he would be safe for eight or ten months to come.

Dee was a man of twenty-eight, a gentleman by birth, one of the handsomest men you ever saw. Had it been a jury of women they would have acquitted him as promptly as he was convicted. A dozen females broke down and wept when he was sentenced. Though watching things closely I had not put myself forward at the trial. Among the interested ones I had noticed a handsome girl about twenty, and the trial was not half concluded when I knew that she regarded Dee as an innocent man and a hero. When the verdict of guilty was pronounced, she fainted away, and the incident created some local gossip.

As nothing more could be done for Dee for some time I was about to leave the city, when I received a note asking me to call at a certain house. I called and met Miss Fay, Dee's courtroom admirer and an heiress. She told me that she had fallen in love with Dee and that every dollar she had was at his disposal to save his neck. When I replied that it wasn't a question of money and that he was almost certain to hang after we had exhausted all legal dodges, she asked me to remain in town until I heard from her again.

Dee was a far better man in all things than three-fourths of those shouting their morality, but I felt it my duty to tell Miss Fay just where he stood. I admitted to her that he was a criminal instead of a hero and that even if his life was saved through her efforts she could hardly hope he would marry her and settle down. Nothing I could say would dispel her illusions, and she actually became angry at me for giving her brotherly advice. She did not tell me what steps she meant to take, but I knew by the light in her eyes that she would hesitate at nothing. It was seven days before I met her again, and I was astonished at the work she had done. Dee was confined in the county jail, which was as strong and safe as a state prison. He had a cell at the end of a wing, and was so hedged in by bolts, bars, guards and steel and stone walls that there was not the remotest chance for an escape.

In a week the girl had located the cell, rented a cottage outside the walls and stocked it with tools and provisions and laid the plan to defeat justice. The plan was boldness itself. I was to find two trusty men and ensconce myself in the cottage and dig a tunnel to the cell of the condemned. The distance was 100 feet, and we must go under the street, under the yard wall and then under the wall of the jail. The cottage was one of three and had a space of only twenty feet on each side of it. The other cottages were owned by the families occupying them, and the people were bound to watch any strangers moving in. To dig that tunnel was the work of months, and to run its other mouth into a cell was a feat the oldest engineer and the nerviest sort of a crook might well hesitate over. I ridiculed the whole plan at once, but Miss Fay took it up point by point, and so well did she argue that after three or four hours I agreed that there was one chance in a thousand that success might be achieved.

The first move was to find a family to occupy the cottage. It was not very difficult for me to get hold of an oldish woman who would assist us to carry the scheme through. She opened a boarding house, but took in only three men of us. We were supposed to be railroad men and to come and go before daylight and after dark. Now and then we did come and go, but it was only to deceive the neighbors. As soon as we settled in the house we began work on the tunnel, and we never put in less than fourteen hours out of the twenty-four. The two men with me knew what they were being paid for and could be depended upon. The cellar of the cottage gave us room for the dirt excavated, and it seemed as if luck was with us from the start. It was winter, with but few people passing on the side street, and the ground being hard frozen there was less danger of the roof of the tunnel falling in.

One can run a ditch on the surface as straight as a rule, but when you come to run a tunnel it is a different thing. We had sewers and gas and water pipes and beds of rock to look for, and the far end must reach a certain cell inside the jail. To say that I sweat blood over that job would be drawing it mild. We went over or under the pipes in the street, made a couple of elbows to avoid big rocks, and finally reached the prison wall. From the wall we were to go under a coal shed until reaching the prison wall, and there would be no chance to take sights above ground. Fortunately for us we struck an old abandoned sewer, and this saved us at least a month's digging. We followed it up to the prison wall and then we were twenty-five feet from the spot we wanted to reach.

The jail had a cellar, but under only two-thirds of the space. The new wing rested on a bed of rock and cement. In the difficult work we had to get around the pipes we progressed only by inches. Toward the last of our work Miss Fay called at the cottage of a night and even crept into the tunnel. She made the arrangements for the future, and I alone was taken into her confidence.

At last there came a night when we began work on the flagstones forming the floor of Dee's cell. I had got a note to him, and he knew what we were doing. It was two nights later before we broke through and he dropped down among us. As we emerged into the cellar of the cottage I halted to tell him the story of the girl, and when I had finished it I said:

"You must make a choice. You must either marry the girl and settle down to an honest life, or I will give you up to the prison authorities before you can leave the house.'

He did not hesitate. He was touched by her devotion and glad enough of an opportunity to drop his profession. In an hour he was at the appointed place. She was there to greet him and a clergyman was there to marry them. Then they went away into hiding, and it was months later before they crossed the sea to make a home in a foreign land. The escape and the tunnel were discovered, of course, but the cottage was empty and the late occupants could not be traced. While I rejoiced over Dee's good luck, I really felt more solid satisfaction over the success of my tunnel. The newspapers, on the authority of the city engineer, pronounced it a splendid piece of work, and added that the designer must have ability of no mean order. I had come out to an inch of the spot aimed at, and I had taken a prisoner out of one of the strongest jails in the world.

The general health of a woman is inseparably related to the local womanly health. When the delicately womanly organism is diseased, the body loses plumpness, the cheeks lose their roses, and a nervous and fretful condition becomes habitual.

Thousands of sick women who have been cured of diseases peculiar to the sex by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have testified to the restoration of the general health when the local disease was cured.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I used four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mountshope, Lancaster Co., Pa., "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Everyone who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June, when I wrote to you, I was so poor in health that at times I could not walk. You answered my letter and told me what to do. I followed your advice, and to-day am cured. I tell everybody that with God's help Dr. Pierce's medicines cured me. If these few words are of any use to you, you are welcome to use them. They might help some other poor suffering woman."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Dog Is a Glove.

There is no question that the beagle is a very old breed. Early Roman accounts of England contain references to the beagle even by name. Books published from about 1580 to 1610 describe several varieties of hounds, including "the little beagle, which may be carried in a man's glove." That the miniature hound was extremely popular at that time was evident from Queen Elizabeth keeping a pack which were also said to be small enough to put in a glove. This statement is frequently ridiculed when it is not understood that gloves of that period were not the present day kind, but gauntlets reaching nearly to the elbow. What became of those glove beagles we may surmise from what we know of the results of later attempts to maintain packs of beagles of 8 to 10 inches high, the result after some years being weak puppies that fall short of the fine qualities of the little hunting dog when they are grown up.—Country Life in America.

Dynasties of England.

The dynasties of England since the conquest are Norman, four kings; Angevine, eight kings; House of Lancaster, three kings; House of York, three kings; Tudor, three kings and two queens; Stuart, four sovereigns; House of Orange, William III. and his wife Mary, conjointly; House of Hanover, six sovereigns, from George I. to Victoria; House of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the present king.

MRS. JOHN DRYDEN.

The Charming Wife of the Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

Mrs. John Dryden, wife of the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, is a native of Ontario County, and before her marriage was Miss Mary Lydia Holman, daughter of Mr. Thomas Holman, the well-known New York publisher. In 1867 her marriage to Hon. Mr. Dryden took place. Of their eight children, one son and five daughters are living. Mrs. Dryden is of a retiring disposition, and cares a great deal more for the happiness of her home life and the welfare of her family than for society. She is always ready to lend a helping hand to the deserving and her unassuming and sympathetic manner has won the friendship of those who have been so fortunate as to be numbered among her acquaintances. Most of her time is spent on Hon. Mr. Dryden's beautiful farm at Brooklin. Mrs. Dryden, who is a woman of deep religious convictions, and a member of the Baptist Church is closely identified with the various organizations in the church which she attends.

Curious Process of an Indian's Mind.

In an experiment whose purpose was to trace the stages of development of a baby's mind, the infant was placed before a mirror daily. During the earliest stage of the test he simply looked at his reflection, as birds do. He next showed fear of it, as do many of the higher animals. He then grasped at it with his hands, as cats strike at reflections with their paws. Later he looked behind the glass to find the object, as cats and monkeys have been known to do. But on the four hundred and twentieth day of his life, he deliberately turned the glass at different angles to obtain required reflections, an intelligence not possessed by any animal other than man.

A Time-Honored Belief Shattered.

The time-honored rule that moss grows on the north side of a tree, a rule which forms part of every woodsman's catechism, and which he would no more dispute than one of the Ten Commandments, has received a few sharp blows from Henry Kraemer, of Philadelphia. An investigation which he has conducted shows that on 10 per cent. of the trees which he examined moss grew on the west side; 10 per cent. on the northwest side; 20 per cent. on the northeast side; 35 per cent. on the east side; and 15 per cent. on the southeast side. What becomes of the old rule after such iconoclastic investigation?

The Latest Rosebery Story.

M. A. P.: Lord Rosebery was standing bareheaded in a hatter's shop in Piccadilly, the shopman having taken his hat away for the moment. An elderly bishop walked in, and, seeing Lord Rosebery, hatless, mistook him for an attendant. So, taking off his shovel hat and putting it into his hand, the bishop said: "Have you a hat like this?" Lord Rosebery held it for a minute, looked at it very seriously, and then replied: "No, I have not, and if I had —I'm hanged if I'd wear it!"

KINCARDINE GIRL'S ROMANCE.

Miss Maude Hadley Wins Her Husband a Box of Cigars.

Recently Karl A. Winters wagered a box of cigars with a friend that he would be married within 90 days. Time passed, and there was no wedding. Now news has been received in Chicago that Winters has won both a bride and the cigars, with ten days to spare. But it took an elopement to do it. The bride was Miss Maude Hadley, who for some time has made her home with her sister, Mrs. F. W. Beaver, 3,623 Ellis avenue, Chicago. She is from Kincardine, Ontario. Winters travels for the R. G. Gunning Company and is said to be the son of a wealthy Louisville citizen. The couple eloped on Sunday night, Sept. 7, and were married in Toledo, Ohio, on the following Monday. They had known each other for a year, but the marriage was a surprise to their friends.

Mr. Ross in Liverpool.

When Premier Ross lectured on Canada in Liverpool in his recent visit to Britain, he said among other things: With an area thirty times that of the United Kingdom; and a population of only 6,000,000, Canadians had too much room, and they wanted it filled up with precisely the same class as had already taken possession of it. The Canadian population was representative of the four dominant races of the world—Teutonic, German, French and Anglo-Saxon—and they, therefore, anticipated a great future. He was glad to say that they lived on neighborly, peaceful terms with the great Republic of the United States. Under the existing system of monarchical democracy, the Canadians were convinced that prosperity and liberty were as well secured as they could be under a Republican form of Government. He did not suppose there were a dozen Canadians inclined for a change, and he hoped that the dream of John Bright of the United States flag flying over the whole of the American continent would never come true.

Make Thanksgiving a Joyous Day.

Thanksgiving, unlike Christmas, is not especially the children's day. It is a time for the reunion of families, in which, of course, the children are included, but they do not occupy the chief place, as at their own festival. But we all desire to make the special holidays bright spots in the lives of children. The peculiar features of each should be emphasized so that they come around in after years they will bring with them something of the old childish joyousness, which no lapse of time can wholly deprive them of if they have been surcharged with it in early life.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Pious Soup.

Some years ago a thrifty old cottager named Bethia Rummy attended service every Sunday morning at the little church of St. Elzevir, distant some two miles from her cottage on a hillside in Derbyshire. As regular in her provision for temporal wants as she was in attendance to spiritual necessities, her custom was to place a piece of bacon in a pot near the fire to be ready cooked against her return. Then, with her big prayer book wrapped in a snowy handkerchief, Bethia trudged on to St. Elzevir's. One Sunday, however, she came late and flustered to her usual place, just in front of the reading desk and to her vicar's astonishment remarked as she unfolded the snowy handkerchief: "Lawk a daisey me! If I haven't b'iled the prayer book and brought the bacon to church!"—London Chronicle.

RUGBY.

Speaking of the game here on Thursday the Toronto Star says: The holiday rugby games furnished several surprises, chief among which was the crushing defeat sustained by the Ottawa City intermediates at Peterborough. It had been sent out from Ottawa, in the customary boast-language, that the Rough Riders were out after the senior and intermediate championships, and owing to the plentitude of good men the second team would be equally as strong as the first. The intermediates went up against the champion Peterborough team yesterday with the idea of making mince-meat out of them, but they were badly beaten in every department, and at every stage of the game. The score was 28 to 0, Peterborough scoring 6 touchdowns, only one of which was converted, and two rouges.

The Mail and Empire on Saturday said:—"The default of the Hamilton Club marks another turning point in the history of the O.R.F.U. If the wishes of many football players today are heeded, there will be a change in the playing rules of the game. Twelve men, or even fifteen men a side will be adopted, and the troublesome scrimmage will be done away with. The only solution to the difficulty is the adoption of the snap-back system, with or without a reduction of the men to twelve.

"By the adoption of this system of getting the ball out there should be no difficulty in securing teams. Three-quarters of the time spent in practive now is devoted to the trio who pretend to scrimmage the ball. All the doctoring in the world will not make a perfectly legal scrimmage, and the only solution is the snap-back system. The Varsity team tried the game last year in their Mulock Cup games, and it worked to perfection. The ball always came out for the side in possession of it, and the game was faster and more open.

"With twelve men a side, a splendid series can be formed in the senior series. London, Peterborough, and Kingston will put in teams, and two districts, composed of London, Hamilton, and Argonauts, in the west, and Peterborough, Kingston, and Ottawa in the east, can be arranged without difficulty.

"The O.R.F.U. should next year certainly see that a clause is inserted in the constitution to provide against defaults. Bonds should be given by each club in the sum of $200 as a guarantee of good faith to finish the season. Then there would be no defaults.

"While the default of the Hamilton Club is to be regretted, it will only serve to put the O.R.F.U. on a firmer basis. The interest is on the increase in the greatest of fall games, as manifested by the number of junior teams entered this season. Next year will see many more teams entered, with an increase in the junior, intermediate and senior series."

Our contemporary is perfectly right regarding the abolition of the scrimmage, and the adoption of the snap-back system. The great trouble with the Canadian game lies in the scrimmage, as has been so often pointed out in these columns, and the sooner the remedy is applied the better for the game.

It can hardly be argued that the default of the Hamilton club will be a benefit to the O.R.F.U. It is a most regrettable state of affairs when a city club like Hamilton is unable to find sufficient support for a senior team.

CURLING.

The annual October meeting of the Ontario Curling Association was held at the Walker House, Toronto, on Thanksgiving Day, when clubs from all over the province were represented, there being nearly half a hundred curlers in convention. The chair was occupied by Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, President of the Association. The chief topic of the meeting was the visit of the Scotch curlers to America. Suggestion after suggestion was handed in by the clubs' representatives. The Royal Caledonian Club of Scotland will send out 20 men, or five rinks, and they will spend six weeks in this country. It is the object of the O. C. A. to give as many curlers as possible a chance to meet the visitors, and it is likely that the clubs will not be allowed to play more than two rinks against the visitors. A pile of correspondence was gone over from the clubs of the association advising the Executive as to their willingness to entertain the Scotchmen. The Ontario curlers had one objection generally, and that was that the time of nine days for Ontario was too short. Word will be sent to Scotland asking that more time be given to Ontario, and every effort possible will be put forward to save the visitors expense. A motion was passed leaving the matter in the hands of a sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, E. B. Edwards, J. A. Macfadden and Geo. Moore, the new President of the Association. Barrie, Windsor, Hamilton, Lindsay, Toronto and London have asked that they be allowed to have the visitors, and all are willing to stand their share of the expenses.

The grouping for the season was taken up and there was only one or two changes from the proposed groups sent to the clubs by the Executive. Embro is transferred from the Districts Cup competition to the Tankard. Notices of motion of an amendment to the constitution will be sent out to clubs, so that they can deal with it at the April meeting.

Peterborough is placed in the following group: No. 5.—Port Perry Bowmanville, Kingston, Cobourg, Lindsay, Peterborough Granite, Peterborough Thistle, Port Hope. Umpire—Sheriff Paxton. Play at Port Hope.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday at 3.30 o'clock.

—To-morrow will be observed in the Anglican Communion throughout the world by special intercession on behalf of Sunday school work.

—To-morrow at St. Paul's church the Young Men's Guild take over the duties of ushering and taking up collection. This should be a decided success.

—The Boys' Club Basketball Team of Hamilton Y.M.C.A., arrived this morning on the 11.30 express, and and will play the Brownies of the local Y.M.C.A. this evening at 8.30.

—Don't forget this is positively the last week Miss Ellen Francis will give you the opportunity of receiving a full one dollar palm reading for fifty cents. Parlours National Hotel.

—The postponed annual meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday evening, in the Y.M.C.A. parlours. It is desired that this club should be organized as soon as possible, as a very successful season is anticipated.

—Chief Roszel has a pocket book which will be restored to person proving property. He has not as yet found the owner of the gold spectacles referred to in the Examiner on Wednesday.

—Dr. Lee will deliver the fourth, greatest, grandest, and most soul-stirring of all his series of great lectures, entitled "The Witch of Endor," in the Sons of England Hall, Sunday evening, at 8.30 p.m. "The truth sets us free." 2d

—The Examiner has been compelled to hold over until Monday's issue a quantity of local matter, including the report of the presentation of an address to Mr. Rup. Dosel, by the members of the Anglers' Club of the C. G. E.

—A number of our customers had to go unserved on Saturday, owing to lack of help. We have had this remedied, and will now be able to serve all. Finest brands of cigars, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc., always in stock. Crystal Barber Shop, W. Morgan, proprietor.

—The advantage of having a Trust Company named as Executor and Trustee in a will, instead of a private individual, is well exemplified by the very large number of persons who have appointed The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, in that capacity. The Company forwards wills and gives suggestions to those sending their addresses:

—Though the calender does not at present indicate any ice or skating, Mr. Redner, George street, has installed a motor to drive his emery wheel, in order to be in a position for the skating season. Mr. Redner evidently sees indications of a rink in the near vicinity. The chances are that he will see the rink itself presently.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

It may be said that the rifle shooting season is now over for 1902, as far as target practice is concerned, and that the local regiment has benefitted by the experience gained this summer goes without saying. There are now in the 57th, some very clever marksmen, as has been evidenced by the excellent scores that have been made at the recent matches of the local civilian and military rifle leagues.

Mr. R. Henderson returned to town last night from a visit to his old home at Barrie. While there he received the medal to which he was entitled as a member of the Coronation Contingent. This medal is a trophy more exclusive than the war medal, inasmuch as only a very few of them are in Canada, as compared with the South African medal. On the face is a double profile of King Edward and Queen Alexandra and on the reverse the monogram "E. R. VII." underneath which are the words "June 26th, 1902." The ribbon from which it is suspended is composed of red, white and blue, woven with the red in the centre and the blue on each side, and a fine white strip on the outside. In size it is about as large as a fifty cent piece, slightly oval in shape. It was manufactured by Alkinghow & Co., and the whole enclosed in a handsome red case. This makes two of these medals in Peterborough, Sgt.-Major Brittain being the holder of the other.

It is greatly to the credit of Mr. Chamberlain that he is a strong advocate of old age pensions. He has been the advocate of old age pensions for many years, and it should not be forgotten that in his early days he was much infused with socialistic opinions. This old age pensions is a system which is sure to be ultimately adopted, and the industrial struggles which are now taking place will considerably hasten its arrival. There is little use for old men at the present day in industrial and business occupations. Life is so "strenuous" that only young men can keep up the pace. Old men are being superseded. A working man of fifty years of age, who is out of a job, finds much difficulty in obtaining employment where young and active men are preferred by the employer. These conditions are becoming so general that the industrial class are discussing the subject with considerable vivacity. "What is to be done with old men" is a topic of current talk. At a labour meeting in Chicago on a recent occasion the suggestion was made that old workmen who reach the age of fifty should be taken out and shot. That the suggestion was made and discussed is a proof that the labour conditions are most precarious, and unless a change takes place will soon become dangerous. The working place of fifty years of age is in many instances regarded as a "back number." Thus we see that there are millionaires among the monopolistic class, and "back numbers" whom it is proposed to shoot among the industrial class. Can such conditions subsist for any length of time?

Everybody in this city will remember Gunner Horace Gillespie, "the man who fired the first shot at the relief of Mafeking," and a fine, manly young fellow he was. On his return from South Africa Mr. Gillespie was presented with a gold watch by the people of Plainfield, his native village. He was afterwards connected with the Fifteenth, and last fall accompanied the Regiment to the Royal Review. During his residence in this city Mr. Gillespie made many friends, who will regret exceedingly to hear of a terrible accident which befel him while at work on the C.P.R. near Sudbury.—Belleville Intelligencer.

A Belleville exchange says: — The Fifteenth Regiment will attend service at St. Thomas's church to-morrow at 11 a.m. The Regiment is in fine form, and a splendid turn-out is expected. The beautiful harvest decorations of the church have been kept in place for the occasion, and in addition there will be patriotic flags. Martial hymns will be sung, and also Hopkin's Te Deum. A beautiful anthem, "Hosanna," will be rendered by the choir, and the National Anthem will be sung after the presentation of the alms. A special sermon will be preached for the occasion.

Describing the characteristics of some of the Boer leaders, an article in the October Munsey's says that, in addition to his ability, it was the unrivalled personal knowledge of the country that made De Wet the power he has been in the South African war. He fought on his own and on his brothers' farms and wherever he challenged an engagement he had by his side the man on whose land the battle was fought as chief of his staff. No map, no survey, no scout's report, possibly could equal such first hand intelligence. Most dignified of the Boer generals, General de la Rey has the appearance of a Hebrew patriarch and the manners of an old time French seigneur. He stepped into the war with the reputation of a leader. As a veldt cornet he had served his country in all its native wars since 1852. One of the Boer leaders who reached Europe but to die was Lucas Meyer; a man of impressive bearing, no man throughout the republics was better esteemed as gentleman and statesman; as soldier he was out of his element. Of all the Boer generals Louis Botha most resembles in appearance the method and professional soldier. Throughout the war he always appeared in uniform, and did his utmost in the most dispiriting circumstances to regulate and organize his forces.

Major General Sir Ian Hamilton, whose reputation is well known to Canadians, has been giving evidence before the Royal Commission on physical training in Scotland. He spoke from his own knowledge of the great improvement in the physique of army recruits after training, and advocated training of this kind as part of the curriculum of day schools. Replying to the Earl of Mansfield, (the Chairman) General General Hamilton said he inspected the Sandhurst cadets three weeks before he saw the cadets at Potsdam School on the occasion of his recent visit to Germany. As regards attention to physical development, gymnastic exercises, etc., he thought Sandhurst cadets good, but young Germans he considered very much better. A good deal more attention has been bestowed on the systematic development of their bodies. It struck him that in Germany an immense deal was done by the Kaiser and the government to foster national sentiment and improve the national physique. So far as native aptitude went, our boys were better, and would be superior to German boys if similar care was given to them.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Miss Mazie Halpin spent Thanksgiving in Lakefield.

Miss A. Cromie has returned from spending a few days with her sister in Toronto.

Mrs. Thomas Byshe and Mrs. W. Peace spent Thanksgiving in Norwood, visiting friends.

Miss Edna Macfarlane, Toronto, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Winnie Macfarlane, Homewood avenue.

Mrs. James Dolan has returned from Chicago, where she has spent the last three weeks the guest of her sons.

Mrs. (Dr.) Brown will return this evening after an extended visit in Winnipeg, Brandon, Nipawa and other points in Manitoba.

Mr. James Dawson, of St. Paul's church choir, sang with great success at the Thanksgiving service at Bethany on Thursday night.

Mr. Stanley Burton, formerly of the local staff of the Bank of Montreal, was in town last night prior to leaving for his new post at Belleville.

Rev. T. E. Brown, pastor of the Methodist church, Sydenham, Ont., is visiting at the home of his niece, Mrs. Wm. Henry, matron of the Children's Shelter, Charlotte street. Miss Mildred Shea, a niece of Mrs. Henry's, is also visiting with her at present.

Mr. W. J. Martin returned to-day from Fenelon Falls where he was attending the funeral of Mrs. Geo. Jeffrey, who passed away Wednesday night. Her husband, who was a brother of Mrs. W. J. Martin of town, predeceased his wife only six weeks ago.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

Stocks Held Gain of Three Days Past—The More Active Quotations.

The market retained the advance made during the last three days. B.O. and M.O.P. were the principal features, which were devoid of any great changes. B.O. opened at 110 1-4 and closed at 109 5-8 after reaching 112 1-8. M.O.P. lost 1 5-8 points from the opening quotation of 113. C.P.R. remained unchanged. Sugar closed with same quotations as yesterday's close, at 125 1-4. Corn also remained practically unchanged, at 53 1-4.

New York, Oct. 17th.—The coal strike appears to be on the way to a speedy close. Reading is in the neighborhood of ten per cent. higher than it was at the time of the declaration of the strike last May, at which time it sold at 59 7-8, so the bears with early news have not much to plume themselves upon. We called attention about a week ago to the likelihood of a speedy ending to the anthracite troubles, advising the purchase of these stocks. We believe they will be much higher this winter. Considerable bullish talk is again in evidence on C.F.I. The arrival of J. W. Gates probably is responsible for a great deal of it. The stock has acted remarkably strong for the past two or three weeks. Our reasons for bullishness on these shares were made the subject of a letter written the past ten days. We have not as yet changed our views, seeing no reason in the action of the stock for so doing. All the steel stocks have held wondrously strong during the entire close money period. United States steel did not sell so low during that time as it did about a month or so prior. Pressed steel car and foundry actually recorded recorded fair advances during that time, selling higher than at any previous time. This certainly is a most plain indication of the strong position on the market of these securities, and is a strong pointer that they will be materially higher this fall. St. Paul maintains a wondrous strength all the time, recovering rapidly from each market depression, and coming pretty close to reaching its extreme high point. It is plainly evident that something of importance in this security is going on—something that will ultimately cause it to command a very high price. Were it merely speculation which carried its shares up so materially, the bubble would have been pricked sometime ago and to-day the stock would not be within ten points of the price it now commands. The M.O.P. people seem to have recovered their equilibrium. We think the pool have purchased their shares sold recently. The action of the stock would so indicate. The good decline in such standard shares as N.Y.C. and Ill. Cen. cause them to appear specially attractive at going prices.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO'Y.

New York, Oct. 17th.—Marked strength continues to be the characteristic of market dealings. It looks as if the week were to close in a blaze of glory with a rattling good bank statement. Money continues to become easier and exchange weak. All stocks were strong, M.O.P., Ill. Coalers and Steel shares making decided gains. Our opinion that the first of the week would see the low prices of the week proved correct. We advise buying stocks on each reaction from now on until further notice. Probably the first of the coming week will witness one. Some times things that are generally prepared for in Wall street fail to materialize. If you have sold for a reaction and then stocks continue strong do not be afraid to repurchase them. In doing so maintain your position upon the side of advancing values. Money closed at five per cent. Sales 1,071,200.

GOLF.

A very successful competition was held yesterday at the links by the ladies of the Golf Club. It was an ideal day, and in the forenoon the different events were keenly contested, Mr. Burnham very kindly assisting in his usual capable manner. Those successful in winning were:—

Driving — Won by Miss Halliday; prize given by Mrs. Campbell.

Cleeking—Won by Mrs. Campbell; prize given by Mrs. Hill.

Approaching and Putting — Won by Miss Clementi; prize given by Miss Barlee.

Brassey — Won by Miss J. Denniston; prize given by Mrs. Davidson.

After luncheon a medal round was played, won by Mrs. R. M. Denniston.

A five o'clock tea was given Miss Barlee by her friends, who were delighted to welcome her home again. The club house was very prettily decorated for the occasion. Among those present from a distance were Mrs. Cluxton, of Toronto; Miss Baker of Chicago, and Miss White, of Ottawa.

BASKET-BALL.

All lovers of the indoor gymnasium game — basketball — will have an opportunity to see perhaps two of the most scientific games of the season to-night at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium. There will be an informal programme, consisting of a match between the Harriers and the Maple Leafs, and the Boys' Club of Hamilton, against the Brownies. There will also be some tumbling to intersperse the games. The players in these matches are perhaps the fastest that can be brought together, and this event should prove an incentive to the prospective players. The Brownies have been practising faithfully and should be able to defeat the boys from the Ambitious City quite handily, as they accomplished this feat last year on a Canadian tour, defeating them 17-15. The preliminary game will commence at eight o'clock sharp so that the programme will be completed before ten o'clock.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Micht's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

MADE FIERCE ATTACK.

Mad Mullah, a Fighter, Falls on the British Expedition.

2 OFFICERS AND 50 MEN KILLED

One Day's March North of Mudug Was the Scene of the Violent Onslaught in the Thick Woods — The Somali Levies Badly Shaken — Col. Swayne Wants Reliable Troops.

London, Oct. 20.—The Foreign Office has issued an undated despatch from Col. Cobbe, commanding one of the columns of the British forces operating against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland. The despatch was forwarded through the British Vice Consul at Berbera, Somaliland. The British forces engaged were composed entirely of native troops and levies. Col. Cobbe says:

"My forces reached Erego this morning. When about one day's march north of Mudug it was attacked in the thick bush. The advances were made, and the enemy was beaten back in the morning. Their losses were heavy, and we captured 100 rifles. Our force then proceeded to collect animals for transportation purposes, and to join the detachment at the stockade. In the afternoon a reconnaissance was made, and, after sharp fighting, the enemy were again driven off.

"I deeply regret to report the following casualties: Col. Phillips and Captain Angus and fifty men killed, and about one hundred men wounded. The latter include Captain Howard and Lieutenant Everett, but both are doing well. There were several losses among the transport and riding camels. The force will reach the stockade camp to-morrow, and will advance to attack the enemy."

The Vice Consul also telegraphs the substance of a later despatch from Col. Swayne, who says that as a result of the fighting at Erego, Oct. 6, which was very severe, the Somali levis are considerably shaken. The Mullah, who is said to be in communication with Kail and Inger in the direction of the Webb River, is bringing up reinforcements from all sides.

Col. Swayne is much hampered owing to the necessity of transporting the wounded and water. He is retiring on Mohotle. He asks that 600 further reliable troops be despatched from Berbera forthwith.

The serious reverse in Somaliland places the small British forces there of about 3,000, men of doubtful reliability, in an exceedingly perilous situation. Since the beginning of Col. Swayne's second campaign against the Mullah, last May, little has been heard of the expedition. The present despatches seem to show that he was retreating from the Italian frontier, northward, when the Mullah attacked him at Erego. Last December the Mullah was reported to have about 12,000 men, mostly armed, a large percentage of whom were armed with rifles. It is possible that he now commands about 15,000 men. With this large force harrassing him. Col. Swayne has to retreat to Mohotle, 150 miles, and probably still 100 miles further to Burao, the principal British frontier post. This march must be made under a scorching sun and over an arid and roadless desert, even if the retreat is successful. The gravest anxiety will be felt until further news is received. The entire expedition will have to be repeated on a much larger scale.

Col. Swayne is accompanied by over 20 white officers, and has with him some Maxim guns and some 7-pounders. The Mullah's success will set the whole Ogaden and Dolahanta country aflame. Trade relations at Berbera and Bulhar have shown an enormous decrease since the operations of the Mullah cut off across to the rich markets of Ogaden and Dolahanta. It was announced by Lord Lansdowne, Foreign Secretary in Parliament, last summer, that the Italians were co-operating with Col. Swayne, but as despatches made public to-day do not mention Italian help, it is supposed that some local difficulty was found in arranging for the co-operation.

CAUGHT BETWEEN TWO CARS.

Claude Clare of Preston, Fifteen Years Old, Killed Sunday.

Preston, Oct. 19.—The town people were shocked this afternoon at the accident to Claud Clare, 15 years of age, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clare. He was playing with some boys on a flat car on the Preston and Berlin new electric road in the town. The flat car was coming down a grade, and Claud tried to couple it with another car. When he reached the bottom of the grade, the bump of the two cars threw Claud between them. He was at once carried to the office of Dr. N. Mulloy about 150 yards off, but died shortly after the accident, which occurred about noon.

A Toronto Man Killed.

Winnipeg, Oct. 19.—Somerville Beamish, a young man recently come from Toronto, where his father, two brothers and a sister now reside on Elizabeth-street, was almost instantly killed in the C.N.R. yards this afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock. Beamish was employed as a car repairer. He was working on a car and had forced an adjoining car back to get more room. There was a slight grade. He neglected to block the second car. It closed in, crushing Beamish below the grain. Despite medical aid he expired almost immediately.

Engineer Moore Killed.

New Hamburg, Oct. 19.—In a dense fog at 6 o'clock this morning a freight train following another ran into the preceding train on the grade a short distance west of this station. Engine-driver M. Moore of Sarnia jumped from his engine, and received injuries which proved fatal. An inquest will be held to-morrow by Coroner Arnott of Berlin.

Scores Were Converted.

Montreal, Oct. 20.—General Booth addressed three meetings yesterday in Windsor Hall. At the evening meeting the General's exhortations led thirty to forty men and women to profess conversion.

MINERS' CONVENTION.

Will Put a Formal End to the Great Coal Strike.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE DELEGATES

There Is No Probability of Trouble, as the Majority of Delegates Will Do as Mitchell Says—The Opposition to the Roosevelt Commission Is Very Slight—Over by Thursday.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 20. — The delegates to the Anthracite Mine Workers' convention, which will meet in the Nesbitt Theatre, this city, at 10 o'clock this forenoon, for the purpose of accepting or rejecting the proposition of President Roosevelt to end the strike, and submit all grievances to the arbitration commission appointed by him, began arriving here yesterday, and about one-quarter of the 700 or 800 delegates to the convention are now in the city. Many of the delegates are instructed in various features of the settlement, but a majority will follow the advice and judgment of President Mitchell.

To-day's convention will complete the formal preparations for the resumption of mining all over this district. In fact, the mules have been returned to the mines fully shod, the machinery is in order and all is in readiness to start the work as soon as the strikers' delegates cast their final vote. That means that the men will assemble around the shafts Tuesday, receive final instructions, and on Wednesday return to their old places and begin to dig the anthracite coal again after so many months of idleness.

There is but slight opposition to the proposition as set forth in the President's appeal. The objection that is being met with is quite spasmodic and comes from that element among the machinists, pump men, engineers and those other than actual miners, who are liable to lose their positions entirely. These men will be the chief sufferers. The men who actually mine the coal will not be replaced. All of them will secure their positions if they want them.

Will Take Mitchell's Advice.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 20.—Headed by John Fahy, president of the 9th District, 60 delegates left here yesterday for Wilkes-Barre, to attend the United Mine Workers' convention there to-day. President Fahy said he expects the convention to vote unanimously in support of Mitchell's advice to them to accept services of President Roosevelt's special commission.

Wright Sees Roosevelt.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Carroll D. Wright, who is the recorder of the Arbitration Commission appointed by the President to consider the differences between the mine operators and miners, spent a half hour at the White House last night.

DEATH OF DR. A. R. C. SELWYN.

Was Director For Geological Surveyor of Canada For 26 Years.

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—Dr. A. R. C. Selwyn, formerly director of Dominion Geological Survey, died here last evening, after a long illness. Deceased was 78 years of age.

Sketch of His Career.

Alfred Richard Cecil Selwyn was born at Kilmington, Somerset, Eng., July 25, 1824, being the son of the late Rev. Townshend Selwyn, Canon of Gloucester Cathedral, and a great grandson of the Fourth Duke of Athol. He completed his education in Switzerland, and was appointed an assistant geologist on the Geological Survey of Great Britain, which post he held till 1852, when he was chosen by the Colonial Secretary to assume the duties of director of the Geological Survey of Victoria, Australia, remaining there seventeen years, during which time he also undertook a special examination of the Tasmanian and South Australian coal and gold fields. Several commissions were given him to represent the colony at European exhibitions, and in 1869 he resigned his position to come to Canada to succeed Sir William Logan as director of the Canadian Geological Survey. In 1895 he was retired with a pension. He was in charge of the mineral department at the Philadelphia Centennial (1876), Paris (1878), London (1886) and Chicago (1893). Under his directions the offices of the survey were removed from Montreal to Ottawa in 1881. He was a Fellow of the Royal Society, London; the Royal Imperial Society, Germany; the Geological Society, London, and of several other scientific bodies. On the organization of the Royal Society of Canada in 1882 he was chosen one of the fellows by the Marquis of Lorne, and became president of the society in 1896. He has also been president of the Natural History Society of Montreal. In 1862 he married Matilda Charlotte, daughter of Rev. Edward Selwyn of Hemingford Abbots, who died in 1882.

Bloody Seven Day's Fight.

Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, Oct. 19. —A cable message received here from the Secretary-General of President Castro says the Government army has been victorious over the forces of the revolutionists after seven days' fighting, during which 3,000 men were killed. The revolutionists are said to have been completely routed.

Redmond to Harry Home.

Boston, Oct. 20.—John Redmond, M.P., of the delegation of Irish Nationalists who arrived to attend the convention here, will be compelled to return to Ireland, as the serious condition of affairs in the fight between the league and the Government demands his presence.

QUEEN'S PRINCIPAL.

REV. DR. BARCLAY, OF MONTREAL, ELECTED AND DECLINED.

The Unanimous Choice of the Trustees, Who Thought That the Late Dr. Grant's Successor Should Be, at This Critical Juncture, a Canadian—Sketch of the Gentleman Named.

The trustees of Queen's University, Kingston, have made a selection of a Principal to fill the place of the late Dr. Grant. The unanimous choice fell upon Rev. Dr. Barclay of Montreal. The only other name considered was that of Rev. Prof. Patterson of Aberdeen, who was highly recommended and was endorsed by Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Hill of Montreal. The trustees thought that at the present critical stage in the history of Queen's a Canadian should be placed at the head of the university. The salary of the new Principal was fixed at a substantial increase over that received by the late Dr. Grant, whose salary was $3,000 per annum.

Rev. Dr. Barcley, however, without giving any reason therefor, has declined to accept the principalship.

Rev. Dr. James Barclay was born on June 19, 1844, at Paisley, Scotland, a son of the late James Barclay of Edinburgh. He was educated at the Paisley Grammar School and at Merchiston Castle School, Edinburgh. Subsequently he entered the University of Glasgow and graduated with first-class honors. The Presbytery of Paisley licensed him in 1870, after which he ministered for three months at Dalbeatie, and the following year was ordained at Dumfries. In 1874 he was translated to Canobie, in 1876 to Linlithgow, and in 1878 was chosen colleague of Rev. Dr. McGregor of St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh. His preaching at this church won for him a high reputation, and a call was extended to him from St. Paul's Church, Montreal. He accepted and was inducted on October 11, 1883, and has since discharged the duties of the pastorate with much ability and evident success. He received his degree of D. D, from his alma mater in 1892.

REV. DR. BARCLAY.

Dr. Barclay bears the distinction of having been summoned several times during his pastorate in Scotland to preach before the late Queen at Balmoral, an honor that was afterwards repeated on occasional visits to his native land. He has a wide reputation as a lecturer, and his best known subject is "The planting of the church in Canada." Manly sports have found in him a ready champion, and he has himself a reputation upon the athletic field. The Edinburgh Scotsman has spoken of him as the best all round cricketer in Scotland. He has held the position of Hon. President of the Scottish Athletic Club, chaplain and President of the Thistle Curling Club of Montreal and chaplain and captain of the Royal Montreal Golf Club.

At the time of the Riel rebellion in the Northwest he accompanied the Montreal Garrison Artillery in the capacity of chaplain, and holds the Northwest medals. He has been President also of the Trafalgar Institute, Montreal, and was for years a trustee of Queen's. He resigned some time ago because of opposition to the separation of Queen's from the Presbyterian Church.

"Mount Royal," in a sketch by Dr. Barclay, published in The Westminster on November 4, 1899, had this to say of him:—"The minister of St. Paul's is a man. From the resounding timbre of his voice and the sweep of his large arms to the finger tips, which can crush a walnut with a single snap, there is an unmistakable evidence of strength. An enthusiastic lover of outdoor sports, he excels in many of them, and consequently has secured much influence over many young men who admire endurance and skill.

A Canadian European Adviser.

Mr. Wallace Broad, B.A., who has been selected for the newly-created post of European Adviser to the Chinese Minister of Mines, is a Canadian. He was born at St. John, N. B., and after graduating in honors at the University of New Brunswick, took the course of engineering at McGill University in Montreal. After serving on the field staff of the Geological Survey of Canada he went to South Africa and has acquired much practical experience as consulting engineer and mining geologist in Rhodesia, and subsequently in West Africa. Mr. Broad has just left for China.

Tinted Woodwork.

Tinted woodwork is having a wide vogue for colonial bedrooms just at present. Pale green and a cream white, flushed with pink, are much liked, while a dull finished cream or a silver gray that looks almost white are two other favorites. Care should be taken, however, to avoid crude color tones.

Rheumatism..

is Uric Acid in the blood. Unhealthy kidneys are the cause of the acid being there. If the kidneys acted as they should they would strain the Uric Acid out of the system and rheumatism wouldn't occur. Rheumatism is a Kidney Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a great part of their reputation curing Rheumatism. So get at the cause of those fearful shooting pains and stiff, aching joints. There is but one sure way—

That Lame Back

You can hardly straighten up, the back feels so sore. There's a chance that it is kidney "trouble," and that is something which it is dangerous to neglect. The best medicine for disease of the kidneys is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The use of this medicine has resulted in some remarkable cures. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, purifies the blood and relieves the kidneys from clogging impurities.

"I feel it my duty to let you know that I have recently advised a young gentleman who was suffering badly with kidney and bladder disease to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Frank Starts, M. D., of Flatonia, Fayette Co., Texas. "He bought four bottles from our druggist here, and after he had used the first bottle he began to improve. Sometimes he was unable to walk ten steps; now he can ride any horse without any pain in his back and he looks as well and sound as a young boy. His age is only 26. He has suffered for nearly three years, and several other doctors called the case incurable, but I had confidence in Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I have been offered one hundred dollars several times already for my kind advice, but I would not accept it because I want everybody to know what Dr. Pierce's famous medicine can do.

"This testimony is absolutely true, and the reason I haven't mentioned the young gentleman's name is because he don't want to have his name published."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." The sole motive for substitution is to enable the dealer to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the action of the sluggish liver. They should always be used with "Discovery" when there is need of a laxative.

FARMER IS NOT SO SLOW.

Man From the Country Beats the Chap From the Centres of Population.

Don't laugh at the man from the country who comes to town without a patent leather shine. That team of his have got it on their harness.

Don't laugh because he gapes at a horseless carriage. Ten to one you wouldn't know a harrow from a hay-rake, or an Ayrshire from a Holstein.

Don't give him the merry ha-ha because he wears a five-dollar suit. It is paid for, and he hates tailor bills worse than the devil.

Don't swell yourself and call him a pumpkin because he cuts the sweat from his brow with his forefinger instead of a silk wipe. That sweat fertilizes the ground 60 bushels to the acre and feeds the world. Go out in your 10x6 back yard, cut down the weeds, tidy up, raise a blister and complain to your wife what a slave you are.

Go to, ye scoffers, who rail at the man in the country and call him Rube.

Compare.

Do you have that stone-in-your-crop feeling after meals? Take a pill, then look at the farmer and pity yourself. He doesn't even know what the word indigestion means. Give him a dictionary and he would think he was hunting for a Latin quotation.

His boss?

Time checks?

Pay days?

Crowded store workshop?

Strike?

The farmer bossed, putting in a time-check, waiting for pay-day—well hardly;

His own boss, the only cheque he knows about is that paper one from the grain buyer, and the leather one over the neck of the colt he is breaking. Every day is pay-day with him drawing on the soil in summer and the bush in winter. Lucky chap, got two banks, both founded on God.

His workshop the acres, perhaps 300 of them, where, roofed by the sweeping skies, served by the sun seasons, tickling the soil, and watching the earth laugh grain, he is master of the situation and doesn't know it.

True, his boots are headed with the dew of dawn, and his shirt damp with the moisture of the gloaming, but his soul is as sound as the great tree that shelters his stock in the open.

Crowded, yes; sometimes the barn cries enough, and he stacks beside it.

And when the lean year comes and the world is chastened, when homes are wrecked and suicide made by a stroke of the ticker, when panic is in the air and poverty pinches, when the black flag floats to a peaked wind, when the cry for bread goes up from starving, then he kills a hog and is happy, and his wife innocently throws the liberal sweepings from her table to the chickens.

Envy the farmer. Perhaps we are the Rubes.—Ridgetown, Ont., Plaindealer.

Channel Islands and Canada.

The Channel Islands are, in a way, a miniature Canada. They are as French as Old Quebec, and as British as the whole of the Dominion. They cherish their ancient Norman institutions; but, though they are within sight of the French coast, they have as little desire as their trans-Atlantic compatriots to exchange the Union Jack for the tricolor. It is a remarkable fact, showing that the love of liberty—liberty in fact, and not of the lips—is greater in the Gallic heart than love of race. In Jersey, as in Canada, all the inconvenience of the dual language is experienced by business folk and visitors. But Great Britain has guaranteed the Channel Islanders and the Canadians their laws, their language, and their institutions, and every loyal word that Sir Wilfrid Laurier uttered in his speech at St. Heliers would be echoed and endorsed by the people of Jersey. Sir Wilfrid, in Paris, has ample opportunity for admiring the greatness of the race from which his ancestors sprang; but Jersey and Quebec are reminders that France does not sum up all greatness, even for her own sons.—Public Opinion.

THE HERETIC.

One day as I sat and suffered
A long discourse upon sin,
At the door of my heart I listened,
And heard this speech within:

One whisper of the Holy Ghost
Outweighs for me a thousand tomes;
And I must heed that private word,
Not Plato's, Swedenborg's, nor Boone's.

The voice of beauty and of power
Which came to the beloved John,
In age upon his lonely isle,
That voice I will obey, or none.

Let not tradition fill my ears
With prate of evil and of good,
Nor superstition cloak my sight
Of beauty with a bigot's hood.

Give me the freedom of the earth,
The leisure of the light and air,
That this enduring soul some part
Of their serenity may share!

The word that lifts the purple shaft
Of crocus and of hyacinth
Is more to me than platitudes
Reshundering from groin and plinth.

And at the first clear, careless strain,
Poured from a woodbird's silver throat,
I have forgotten all the lore
The preacher bade me get by rote.

Beyond the shadow of the porch
I hear the wind among the trees,
The river babbling in the clove
And that great sound that is the sea's.

Let me have brook and flower and bird
For counsellors, that I may learn
The very accent of their tongue,
And its least syllable discern.

For I, my brother, so would live,
That I may keep the elder law
Of beauty and of certitude,
Of daring love and blameless awe.

Be others worthy to receive
The naked messages of God;
I am content to find their trace
Among the people of the sod.

The gold-voiced dwellers of the wood
Flute up the morning as I pass,
And in the dusk I lay me down
With star-eyed children of the grass.

I harken for the winds of spring,
And haunt the marge of swamp and stream
Till in the April I might hear
The revelation of a dream.

I listen when the orioles
Come up the earth with early June,
And the old apple orchards spread
Their glories to the moon.

So I would keep my natural days,
By sunlit sea, by moonlit hill,
With the dark beauty of the earth,
Enchanted and enraptured still.

Away Down in Mexico

There grow two plants known and used before Columbus discovered America. One is a specific for inflamed membranes and the other a certain cure for bronchitis. Combined with Tar, Tamarac, Tolu and other herbs they go to make up Four T's, the only positive cure known to-day for whooping cough and bronchitis. A 25c. bottle cures an ordinary cough in 24 hours. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Solomon's Temple Lightning Proof.

There was one famous building of antiquity which, according to the records, was never once damaged by lightning during its thousand years of existence, although placed high on a hill above a city in a mountain region where thunderstorms are very frequent. It was the Temple of Solomon at Jerusalem. The temple was overlaid within and without by plates of gold. Now gold is one of the best of electric conductors, and in this way the whole building was protected with a perfection and thoroughness that has never been attempted before or since.

When the Globe Was Young.

We confess that it is with some gratification that the circulation of The Globe has reached a point altogether unprecedented in the experience of Canadian journals. We are now circulating of the tri-weekly and weekly editions united, a little of six thousand, and are daily receiving large additions to our list. We believe that our number of subscribers is double that of any paper published in British North America. We can remember the time when the circulation of two thousand for a Canadian newspaper was considered very large then it was three thousand and four thousand which was to be reached; and now that The Globe has arrived at six, we see nothing difficult in attaining ten thousand and nothing impossible in twenty.—From The Globe of Sept. 9, 1852.

Happy Homes.

Instead of the regular topic for this evening's meeting, of St. Paul's Young People's Society, Mr. Elcome, the well-known taxidermist, will speak on "Nests, or Happy Homes and How to Make Them." All are invited.

The French Revolution.

Dr. Lee, spiritualist, appeared again last night in the Sons of England Hall, and delivered a lecture on the French Revolution. The hall was crowded, and Dr. Lee's lecture proved very interesting.

The Late Mrs. Keele.

News was received in town to-day of the death of Mrs. Keele a former very highly respected resident of Peterborough. The deceased was an aunt of Mrs. Alex. Fitzgerald, the Misses Graham, and Mrs. Sedgwick, of Ashburnham.

Programme Issued.

The Literary Committee of George Street Epworth League have issued a neat programme for their "Musical Evening," to-night, which promises to be of much interest. In addition to instrumental and vocal music an address on "Music" will be given by Mr. D. W. Dumble, also a humorous address on "Modern Music" by Mr. M. A. Sorsoleil. The League would be pleased to see a large number present.

A Late Purchase of Children's Coats.

Messrs. Richard Hall & Son beg leave to announce that in a day or two they will receive a delayed shipment of ladies', misses' and children's coats, and that owing to the lateness of the season and the delay in shipment, being entirely the fault of the manufacturers, they have made a considerable claim which will enable them to sell the coats at away below regular price. If you want a coat we would ask you to see them.

A Trip to Coontown, Wednesday Oct. 22.

Probably few staged entertainments have been of more elaborate creation and sitting than "A Trip to Coontown." It is a fine production. There are many so-called features, a Shakespearean parody being among the best; the songs are generally apt, and the dancers are always effective, but the pretty girls; the girls and their handsome dresses, framed in sitting of expensive scenery, are the great features of "A Trip to Coontown." There is so much to look at that one feels dissatisfied with one view.

A BUFFALO WEDDING.

An Esteemed Member of the Local Bachelor Ranks Joins That of Benedicts.

A very quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Peter Perry, 368 West avenue, Buffalo, on Wednesday last, the contracting parties being Miss Winnifred Perry, of Buffalo, and Mr. Michael Coughlin, of the Coughlin Marble Works, Hunter street. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Emma Perry, while Mr. Frank Kearney, of Belleville, performed like duties for the groom. Mr. Coughlin was formerly a resident of Belleville, but has for a number of years resided in Peterborough. In future Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin will reside at 89 Gilmour street.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Fall Assizes open at 1 o'clock to-morrow.

—A lace collar rolled in a small parcel was lost on Friday last. Any one finding the same will kindly leave at the Examiner office.

—Don't forget this is positively the last week Miss Ellen Francis will give you the opportunity of receiving a full one dollar palm reading for fifty cents. Parlours National Hotel.

—There will be a rally of Sunday School workers, parents and all those in any way connected with the Sunday schools of the Anglican churches of the town, in All Saints' church this evening.

—Captain Lane, of Bobcaygeon, was in town yesterday on his way to Peterborough. The owner of the Steamer City of Peterborough, which vessel he commanded this season, desired to consult with him regarding a number of improvements to be carried out this winter.—Post.

—Two wealthy residents of Belleville, Mrs. F. R. Lingham, and Mr. H. Corby, ex-M.P., have purchased the property formerly occupied by the late Colonel Brown, and will turn it into a lady's college, which will, it is understood, be run under Church of England auspices.

—A number of our customers had to go unserved on Saturday, owing to lack of help. We have had this remedied, and will now be able to serve all. Finest brands of cigars, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc., always in stock. Crystal Barber Shop, W. Morgan, proprietor.

—Town Treasurer Brownscombe states that the payments for the past quarter for water rates which fell due on the 15th, were very promptly met, and that there are only a few outstanding accounts, which must be settled, of course, forthwith, or the service will be discontinued.

—Mr. Wm. McKenzie, president of the Toronto Street Railway, has donated the handsome sum of $5,000 to the endowment fund of the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay's finest public institution. May his shadow never grow less! The gift was made through Mr. J. D. Flavelle, who was in the city Thursday.—Post.

—Many people may wonder how long it took to move the two buildings that were on the hockey rink lot, over Bethune street, en route to Kirk street. The smaller of the two buildings took only four minutes, whilst the largest was pulled over the railway track in 20 minutes. No disruption was caused to railway traffic.

—Mr. Allan McCarthy is suffering from an injured leg just at present. He claims that on Saturday morning while crossing the G.T.R. track on Brock street he was struck with a stone of considerable size, and which he brought to the police station this morning. Mr. McCarthy says that while he does not know who threw the stone or for what reason it was thrown, he has a pretty good idea from what quarter it came.

—Mr. George Gowlland, of the Gowlland Meter Company, Toronto, and formerly of town, has been appointed on the auxiliary staff of the teachers at the Toronto Technical School. Mr. Gowlland will teach Mathematics and Applied Science. This college was established for the benefit of young working men, who find it impossible to attend school during the day time but who are desirous of bettering their educational condition.

—The concert on fair night, under the auspices of the Fifty-Seventh Regiment Band, Peterborough, was a splendid success. The band is composed of forty members, all of whom are fine musicians. The programme was lengthy and very interesting, one item of which, "Reminiscences of Scotland," was especially enjoyed by the audience. In the "Hunting Scene," the description of the chase was so vivid one could almost see the foxes. A very large number were present. The receipts were $121 — Norwood Register.

PETERBOROUGH ALWAYS WINS

Hamilton Basketballers Taken Into Camp.

The Score was 34 to 7—A Good Exhibition of the Game on Saturday Night.

Not only can the boys of Peterborough play football and hockey, but it is whispered that they can e'en play basketball. Such may be only an idle rumour, but those who were fortunate enough to witness the basketball match between the Boy's Club of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. and the Brownies of the local Y.M.C.A. have a suspicion, which amounts to a strong certainty, that such is the case. The score, at least is a strong argument in that direction, for when time was called the scorer announced that the Brownies were victorious by a score of 34 to 7. This score is no criterion of the quality of the game for there were several things that militated against the visitors making a larger score. In the first place the screen behind the baskets are so arranged in the Hamilton gymnasium that a ball thrown against the netting is guided to a great extent into the basket, while in the local "gym." the ball can only be put in by clean accurate throwing. Then too the Brownies had what appeared to be marvelous luck, but which may be luck of the kind that is the result of careful practice. To particularize any individual player would be doing the remainder of the players an injustice. Throughout the game the play was clean, swift and very free from rough play. Daly was the only one to be disabled and then only with a blow on the nose that caused a delay of but a few moments. From the beginning Peterborough was playing to win and notched four goals before the visitors scored, and at half time the score was 17—4. During the remainder of the play the Brownies doubled their score while the Hamilton boys succeeded in adding three, leaving the score at the close of play 34—7 in favour of the proteges of the home gymnasium. The teams lined up as follows:

Hamilton — Defence, Cothess and Harper; centre, Thompson; forwards, McKay and Hickey.

Peterborough — Defence, A. Boucher and R. Hall; centre, H. Daly; forwards, Gordon and Norman Miller.

Umpires, Messrs. Peter Jameson and S. Hall, Referee, H. E. Ayers. Scorer, H. A. Pearson.

Previous to the game with the Hamilton boys, a close game was played between the Harriers and the Maple Leafs, which resulted in a win for the latter by a score of 28 points to 15.

MR. ROBINSON REMEMBERED

By His Fellow Employees on the Occasion of His Marriage.

On Saturday evening Mr. W. S. Robinson, an official of the Canadian General Electric Company, was kindly remembered by his fellow employees on the occasion of his marriage. He was presented with an address and a token of esteem in the form of a beautiful upholstered chair. The following address was presented to him;

Dear Mr. Robinson,—We, the undersigned committee, on behalf of the employees of the S. and R. Department of the C. G. E. Company desire to congratulate you on the occasion of your marriage, and we trust every happiness will be yours for many long years and may prosperity attend you in all your efforts in future life. Thanking you for your kindness in the past as an officer of this department, we desire to tender you this small token to show our regard and esteem towards you and trust that you may enjoy many an hour of rest in the evenings, after your day's labour is over. We further trust that the cordial relations, which now exist between us, may continue for many years in the future.

Signed by the committee—

CHARLES AKEY,
THOMAS FOSTER,
JAMES KYLE,
GIBSON PRINGLE,
PERCY FULLER,
JAMES HICKEY.

The address was read by Mr. Charles Akey, after which Mr. Robinson replied in his usual pleasant and genial manner, thanking the employees for their kindness and appreciation shown toward him. A very enjoyable hour was spent by all at the conclusion of which the gathering dispersed with mutual good wishes.

ACTION SETTLED.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fox Received Damages for Death of Son.

A settlement has been arrived at in the case of Fox vs. Davis. This was an action brought under what is known as Lord Campbell's Act, in which Henry and Ann Fox sought to recover from Messrs. Davis Bros., proprietors of the Don Valley pressed bricks works, damages for the death of their son, an employee of the works, who it was alleged was killed through the negligence of the proprietor. The action was about to be set down for trial when a settlement was reached between the parties concerned, whereby the defendant paid to the plaintiffs $400.

CHURCH CHIMES.

ST. PAUL'S.

The music of St. Paul's church was fully up to the standard which it has held during the past few years. For the morning anthem, "I will Feed My Flock," was sung with splendid effect, and in the evening, "Guard while I Sleep." The solo was taken by Mr. J. Dawson.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

At the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday, three pretty anthems were sung. That during the offertory, "O Worship the King," was exceptionally fine, and was given at at both morning and evening services. The morning anthem was "Thou, God, art Praised," by Rayleigh Vicars, and for the evening, "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem," by Maunder.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Creswick, of Young's Point, exchanged services with Rev. J. C. Davidson yesterday morning. In the evening Rev. A. E. Langfeldt of St. Luke's, took the services at St. John's, and Rev. Mr. Creswick officiated at St. Luke's.

At St. John's yesterday evening, Mr Herbert Morphet sang with fine finish and expression the solo, "Face to to Face."

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

A special thanksgiving musical service was given last night by the choir of the George street church. Preceding the sermon the anthem, "O Clap Your Hands Together," and "Fear Not, O Land," were sung in excellent style, and during the offertory the anthem, "O Lord, How Manifold," was given. Att he morning service the selection "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet," was given by the choir and during the collection Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang "Moment by Moment."

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

The marked improvement in the singing of St. Andrew's choir is well maintained, and now that the musical season has re-commenced, it is expected that the rehearsals will be well attended and productive of further improvement. Yesterday the choir sang two anthems with excellent effect, that in the morning being Roland Smart's "O Give Thanks unto the Lord," and in the evening Barnby's "O Lord, How Manifold are Thy Works!" Miss Nellie Davies, who returns to Toronto to-day, sang two solos which were much enjoyed, that in the morning being Dr. Vincent's "O the Bitter Shame and Sorrow," and in the evening a beautiful solo by Rathbun, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

In the absence of Rev. J. Bastow, pastor, of the Murray street Baptist church, who was in New York yesterday, Rev. J. A. Wilson, assistant pastor of St. Paul's, occupied the pulpit in the morning, and Rev. Dr. Torrance in the evening. The music was especially prepared for the occasion, being of a harvest thanksgiving nature.

The morning anthem was entitled "O Lord, How Manifold," by Barkeley. During the offertory Miss Florence Hall rendered a solo, "The Lord is my Light," by Marsh, in which the range was excellent. In the evening the choir rendered the anthem, "O Come All Ye Faithful," (Adeste Fideles) solo parts being most ably taken by Misses Hall and Coe, and Messrs. Martin and Matthews. During the offertory a quartette was rendered, entitled, "Guard, while I Sleep," by Misses Hall and Coe, and Messrs. Browne and Routley, the blending, phrasing and expression be particularly fine.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The services at All Saints' yesterday possessed special interest. The morning sermon was devoted to a consideration of the importance of the religious education of the young. The main position taken was to emphasize the duty of all connected with the church to unite in co-operation to advance the effectiveness of Sunday school work. The text was from Zech. 8th chapter, 5th verse—"And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing on the streets thereof," which showed that under the ideal conditions to prevail under the Gospel, children could play in the streets in innocency, something, the preacher lamented, that could not be said of our streets today, because of the lack of training necessary to instil religious principles, which were the only true basis of right life, and provided the only safety from the abounding temptations of the streets, as well as of the world at large.

The evening sermon was the third one in the series of "Common Things Spoken of by our Lord—Homes and Buildings." In the morning the anthem, "There is a Green Hill," was very tastily rendered, Miss Brundrett and Miss Mary Rush taking the solos. The male quartette in the evening was contributed by Messrs: Legg, Goodhugh, Shepherd and Armstrong, and was an exceptionally effective presentation of Vaughan's "Tarry with Me."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

The attendance at the Gospel meeting yesterday afternoon was exceptionally good. A most helpful talk on "Ideals and Influence" was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Kilgour, who based her remarks upon Paul's farewell message—Acts 20; 18-38. She dwelt upon the necessity of having the highest possible ideal for the sake of the development of one's own character, and one's influence upon others. The highest ideal is found in Jesus Christ, who is also the friend to help us in attaining this ideal.

The attention of the Association members is again called to the reception for new members to-morrow (Tuesday) at 8 p.m.

OUTLOOK FOR THE CURLERS.

Scottish Team Will Likely Visit Peterborough.

GAME NEEDS RESUSCITATION.

Will the Local Curlers Control Charlotte Street Rink?—Should be a Flourishing Organization in Town.

It is a well known fact that the good old game of curling has been below par in Peterborough for some years past. There has been during the past four or five years a gradual dropping out of the older members of the two clubs, with the introduction of little, or no, new blood. The enthusiasm of those who have remained in the local clubs has not been what it should have been, and there were only a few nights last winter when the three ices were covered with lovers of the "roarin' game." This state of things should not be in a town of the size of Peterborough, where there is ample material for at least two flourishing curling clubs. If Peterborough in the past has supported two good clubs, there is no reason why it can not do so now.

There are various reasons assigned for the decline of enthusiasm in curling in Peterborough. The principal cause given is that of the growth of the hockey spirit, and the fact that it became almost useless to attempt to carry on the game of hockey and the game of curling under one roof. The general opinion is that hockey has injured curling to a very large extent. It is not here intended to convey the impression that the Knights of the Broom and Stone have forsaken the game of their forefathers, to participate in the more agile game, known as hockey, and which is fast becoming recognized as Canada's leading winter sport, among the younger people of the Dominion, but the fact of the matter is that the excitement attending a game of hockey is too great, as compared with that aroused in a spectator who may be witnessing the most interesting game of curling. The noise becomes deafening during an exciting game of hockey, and the poor curler endeavours to proceed with his game under trying circumstances indeed. This has been the experience oft he past few years. To attempt to curl on an evening when there was a hockey match in progress, is attempting almost an impossibility. Apart from the noise of the spectators on an occasion of this kind, caused of course from excitement, and with no real desire at all to interfere with the distracted curlers, there has always been a stampede of boys and young men over the curling rinks in their endeavour to obtain a point of vantage on the side walls of the hockey ice. Often has the patience of the curler become exhausted and more than one skip has been tempted to trounce some inconsiderate youth with his broom as the latter promenaded down down the centre of the cruling rink when the former is giving "ice."

There is reason now to believe that they day of trials and tribulations of the Peterborough curler are at an end. The clang of the stone mason's trowel is heard on Brock street, the much-talked-of and long-looked-for home for the hockeyist is being rushed along with all possible speed, and the clash of the hockey sticks, the shrill notes from the referee's whistle, and the cheers from a thousand voices in approval of the work of seven sturdy athletes will be transferred from Charlotte street to two blocks northward. In view then of the fact that the game of hockey will be transferred from the old Charlotte street rink to another portion of the town the question arises as to what will become of the old rink, and for what purpose will it be utilized. Here is the chance for which the curlers of Peterborough have been looking for. The opening of the present season should prove to be the dying days of curling in Peterborough or should witness a wonderful revival in the game. Which of these we shall see will be known in the course of a month or so. If hockey has been detrimental to curling in Peterborough been played in the same building that trouble will no longer be encountered and the curlers may possess a home of their own if they so desire, free from the annoyances of which they have hitherto complained.

There is another reason why the present season appears to be most opportune to give the game a fresh start in Peterborough. The visit of the Scottish curling team to Canada will prove to be a historic event in the annals of curling in both countries. Never before has a curling team from the old land visited Canada and the event will be looked forward to all over the country as one of singular importance. It may be incidently mentioned here, that the visit of the Scottish players will be important not only from a curler's point of view, but from an Imperial standpoint as well, as the twenty curlers who have been selected are representative gentlemen, chosen from different parts of Scotland, and there should be every effort made to leave a good impression on their minds, not only as to the Canadian's ability to play the game, but they should be impressed with the hospitality of the people with whom they come in contact, with the importance of the country's position from a commercial stand point, as well as being impressed with the existence here of a broad imperial spirit.

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless, that Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, who last year was president of the Ontario Curling Association, has been conducting the negotiations with the Scottish curlers relative to their visit to Ontario and an effort will be made to open the Ontario tour in Peterborough. This, however, will not be undertaken without the hearty co-operation of not only the curlers of the town, but the townspeople in general. The visit of the Scotchmen to Peterough would not be of very lengthy duration, but it should be made interesting while it lasts. Being the beginning of their tour in the Premier Province, the reception tendered them in the premier town should be such as to create a profound impression upon the minds of the visitors, such as they will remember for many years to come. Lieut.-Col Edwards although not this years president of the Ontario Curling Association is chairman of the committee which has the arrangements of the Ontario tour in hand, and the town is almost assured of the opening game in Peterborough. The visit of the Irish football men to Peterborough a few years ago gave that game a boom that has resulted in Peterborough holding a prominent place in the Rugby circles of Canada. There is reason to believe that a visit of the Scottish curlers would have a similar efffect on the "roarin' game," and would arouse that enthusiasm in curling in Peterborough which is sadly lacking at the present time and which will end very shortly in the complete extinction of the game in Peterborough unless something is done in the manner herein before set out.

It might be stated that the Scottish curling team which is to tour Canada, is composed of the following gentlemen, whose names are given with their places of residence: Messrs. Sanderson, Duddington; Cousin, Merchiston, Gordon, Bathgate; Husband, Dunfermline; Major Davidson, Fife; Murray, Airthreycastle; Henderson, Kinnochstry; Macmillan, Dumfries; Plain, Castlehuntly; Gibson, Biggar; Murray, Kelvindock; Stirling, Galashields; Ballantyne, Peebles; Kerr, Dirleton; Ritchie, Broughton; Ferguson, Ayr; Johnston, Annandale; Campbell, Gourock; Reid, Dumbarton; Simpson, Kinross; Major Betram, Lanark; Kirk, Bathgate; Provan, Craiglockhart; Bramwell, Uppernithsdale; Smith, Stenhouse; McGregor, Camperdown.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Whatever you want to help you with your "garden in the window" you will find in excellent bloom and foliage at the West End Greenhouses, 465 Park street, residence of G. M. Roger. Telephone 21b. A. A NEW I. O. G. T. LODGE.

Kawartha Lodge Organized at Chemong Indian Reserve on Thanksgiving Night.

A party of Good Templars, composed of Mr. S. G. Cowan, Mr. W. Dredge, Mr. G. W. Powell, Mr. J. M. Roszel, and Mr. G. G. Pratley, of town; and Mr. Nathan Taylor and Mr. R. C. Heard, of Bridgenorth, drove out to the Indian Reserve at Chemong on Thursday night, and were successful in organizing a good healthy lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars. Twenty three signed the petition for a charter, and the work of organizing was completed.

The new lodge chose their officers for the quarter, and they were duly installed as follows:

Sampson Fawn..... ....C.T.
Mrs. John David..... ....V.T.
Chief Jos. Irons..... ....P.C.T.
Daniel Whetung, sr..... ....Chap.
D. Whetung, jr..... ....R.S.
Daisy Whetung..... ....Asst. R.S.
Arthur Whetung..... ....F.S.
Willie Whetung..... .....Treas.
J. McCue..... ....Marshall
Grace Taylor..... ....D.M.
Lillie Jacobs..... ....G.
John T. David..... ....Sen.
Alf. McCue..... ....Lodge Deputy

After some advice from the organizers as to the working of the order, the new lodge passed a hearty vote of thanks to them for their services.

The people of the Reserve appear to be contented with their lot, and were very obliging. The party was met at the ferry by a deputation, who made arrangements for the comfort of the horses. The party was then rowed across the Narrows to the Reserve. On the return trip a number of the members of the Reserve accompanied the Peterborough people till they were safe on the main shore. The return trip was safely made, considering the darkness caused by the eclipse of the moon.

RAS MAKONNEN.

An Amusing Abyssinian Who Left Kindly Memories Behind Him in Old London Recently.

Ras Makonnen, the Abyssinian General, whose arrival in London, wearing a green slouch hat, a satin cape and a white silk cloak, created so much amusement, has left a kindly impression behind him. A London writer says that the Abyssinian is far more demonstrative than the Orientals. About his visits to the King, the Ras assumed what was almost an awed, reverential tone. "The King is all goodness," he would repeat. "Nothing is too good for him," and then passing to what had evidently been borne in his mind by personal experience, he would continue, "But the people, from the highest to the lowest, all are good." Nothing struck the Ras more than the good behavior of the "common people." "Never," said he, has anyone said anything about me of an uncivil nature, nor behaved otherwise than kindly." And this he considered the outcome of the innate good qualities of the nation. Children were the special favorites of the Ras. His visit to the children's ward in St. Thomas' Hospital was one of his most delightful memories. So delighted he was that, before leaving, he sent £100 to the hospital—most of which is to go in toys—and also a silver watch to the doctor who showed him over the wards.

The Ras was a keen observer of natural characteristics. He recognized the Highlander from the Lowlander—"we have the same distinction," he added, "in our own country." He was very much amused when they told him some perfervid Gaels were trying to claim him as a member of the clan of McKinnon. He even knew that some people really took this quite seriously. "I hardly think so," he laughingly said, "but if they insist, I shall come back and claim my share of the family estates."

He appreciated the Irishmen, and their loquacity greatly amused him. He greatly enjoyed the Irish night in the House—stopped there till 1 a.m.—and did not want to leave. Driving late home one night with a distinguished Irishman, he pointed to the light on the clock tower—the sign of a sitting House—and remarked jocularly: "Ah, your countrymen are still at it, I see."

The Ras enjoyed the western menu, but personally abstained both from alcoholic drinks and the use of tobacco. He brought the thoroughness of the religion of his land with him—even outvying the Oriental. His suite were equally strict. Some members had traveled, and spoke several languages. They all liked England, but it was clear that Switzerland, too, attracted them. The London policeman was an object of marvel. "All is so orderly, so full of system," said the Ras; "the policeman has but to put up his hand and all obey." "And what had he noticed of a less favorable kind?" He sighed, and said, "I see that everybody hurries!"

Great generosity characterized his stay. He distributed presents to all he knew with a marvellous degree of tact and delicacy, and often in a sort of "punishment fit the crime" manner. To Captain Ames, "High Ames," the tallest man in the army, he expressly gave a beautiful spear very much taller than himself. The last day or two were spent in purchases.

HAD MADE HIS WILL.

Fully Expecting to Die, had Arranged all his Earthly Affairs.

How Death was Disappointed by the Happy Restoration to Health and Strength of Mr. Teeny.

Sumner, Assa., Oct. 20. (Special).—Mr. Louis Teeney of this place was so ill with Inflammation of the Bowels and Kidneys that no one ever expected him to recover. All hope had been abandoned and Mr. Teeny had made his will fully expecting that he would die.

In this extremity, Mr. Cosgrave, postmaster, thought of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and immediately gave Mr. Teeny a dose. This treatment was continued at intervals, with the result that in a very short time the man who was thought to be dying was on his feet and going around as if nothing had happened.

This remarkable cure of such an extreme case has created quite a sensation in the neighbourhood and many kind words are being said of Dodd's Kidney Pills for the wonderful work they did in Mr. Teeny's case.

This remedy has always been recognized among the people as a surecre for Rheumatism, Backache and all Kidney Troubles, but this is the first case ever reported in this vicinity, where they have been used with such quick results.

Mr. Teeny himself is very grateful to Dodd's Kidney Pills for his happy restoration.

People in and about Sumner have just about concluded that there is nothing in the way of sickness that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure, and there is scarcely a home to be found in the neighbourhood that does not contain a box of this wonderful medicine.

Men, women and children are finding out every day some new virtues in it and it is very interesting to hear them get together and compare notes as to what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done in their various homes.

Canadian Remount.

London, Oct. 20.—The report on the Remount Department says: The Dominion of Canada is at present unable to supply a large number of horses. The report recommends that a stimulus be given to this trade in the colony by a steady and permanent demand for army horses and the introduction of suitably selected stallions.

Race Riot in Alabama.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 20. — A race riot is in progress at Littleton, 25 miles from Birmingham. The sheriff and ten deputies left last night on a special train from this city. A late report from Littleton says that three white men and eight negroes are dead as a result of the race riot.

SHEPPERING SAILED AWAY.

Ship Had Been Libelled For Wages By Deputy Marshal.

St. Thomas, Oct. 20.—On behalf of three sailors who had claims for wages, a deputy marshal of the Admiralty Court several days ago libelled the ship Ishpeming. While the boat was in charge of the deputy marshal Friday, the captain and crew with the assistance of a tug, sailed out of the harbor at Port Stanley. It is alleged that several Port Stanley citizens aided in the escape, and a motion may be made to commit these persons for contempt of court.

Came Out $3,400 Ahead.

London, Oct. 20.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Monte Carlo sends an account of the experience of a fortunate United States player there. He is an officer attached to the United States naval squadron at Villefranche. He entered the casino with a party of friends and threw a 5 franc coin on zero on the nearest roulette table. When his number turned up he refused to take his winnings. He said: "Let it go to enrich the pool. Zero again turned up and he was $1,000 winner. He kept repeating, "Let it go." His friends however, took charge of the money. Zero again turned up. When the player left the table he had won $2,400

Austria's First Liquor Law.

Vienna, Oct. 20.—The bill for the purpose of combating drunkenness, which is being prepared by the Austrian Government, is the first measure of its kind in the history of Austria. It provides for the imprisonment of persons found intoxicated in a public place over a certain number of times within six months, and restricts the sale of bottled spirits, which, it is declared, leads to home drinking, to holders of special licenses. Only one such license is to be granted for every 500 inhabitants.

Politics Maddens Students.

Glasgow, Oct. 20.—At the opening Saturday of the campaign for the election on Oct. 25 of a rector for Glasgow University, for which post John Morley and George Wyndham are candidates, the students indulged in riotous behavior. Unionist students tried to wreck the Liberal committee rooms, and attacked the police and their opponents with sticks and a fire hose and pelted them with flour. A large body of police had to be employed before order was restored.

EDITOR-DESIGNATE.

Rev. George Bond, B.A., Appointed Editor of the Christian Guardian.

Rev. George J. Bond, B.A., the editor designate of The Christian Guardian, has had a lengthy experience in the editorial chair, having been for eight years editor of The Wesleyan of Halifax. He is by no means unacquainted with the duties that will devolve upon him as the head of The Christian Guardian, for in the summer of 1900, during the absence of Rev. Mr. Courtice, he filled most satisfactorily the position of acting editor of that periodical. As a writer he is held in esteem by the Methodist Church generally throughout the Dominion. His appointment to the editorship of The Christian Guardian is looked upon as part of a plan for the amalgamation of The Wesleyan with The Guardian.

REV. GEORGE J. BOND, B.A.

Mr. Bond is a middle-aged man, and was born in Newfoundland. Hon. Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, is a brother. He entered the ministry of the Eastern British America Conference in 1871, and was stationed at Sackville, N. B., where he spent three years. In 1874 he entered the Newfoundland Conference, and in the same year received the degree of bachelor of arts from Mount Allison Wesleyan College, Sackville. He spent eight or nine years in active ministry in Newfoundland before assuming the editorship of The Wesleyan. He has filled numerous prominent positions in the church, such as that of District Chairman and Financial Secretary of Conference. He will not assume his new duties until next July.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild.

Some of It Was All Right.

It is related of an Irish coachman that his medical adviser prescribed animal food as the best means of restoring health and activity. "Patrick," said he, "you're run down a bit, that's all. What you need is animal food." Remembering his case a few days afterward, he called upon Pat at the stable. "Well, Pat," said he, "how are you getting on with the treatment?" "Oh, shure, sir," Pat replied, "Oi manage all right with the grain and oats, but it's mighty hard with the chopped hay."

When Books Were Dear.

In the reign of Edward I.—that was from 1272 till 1307—the price of a fairly written Bible was twenty-seven pounds. The hire of a laborer was only three halfpence a day, so it may easily be calculated what the purchase of a copy of the Scriptures would then have cost a laboring man.

Most Dreadful of Skin Diseases

A Chronic Case of Eczema of 30 Years Standing Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment during the summer months is enormous. It is during the warm weather especially that there is such great suffering from eczema and similar skin diseases. That Dr. Chase's Ointment is a thorough cure for this torturing disease is proven in hundreds of cases similar to the following:

Mr. G. H. McConnell, engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ontario, states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema, and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed in eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description, and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me, and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

Few people realize the suffering caused by eczema and other itching skin diseases. This is an example of what Dr. Chase's Ointment is doing in the way of relieving suffering mankind. Many of the cures it brings about are more like miracles than anything else; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 6

WIRELESS SYSTEM FAILED.

It Is Said Its Weakness in War Was Shown in Mediterranean Test.

London, Oct. 20.—At the naval manoeuvres in the Mediteranean the Channel and Mediterranean squadrons comprised the largest fighting force ever concentrated in one sea. The most interesting feature was the blockade of a collection of battleships, cruisers and torpedo craft in the Gulf of Argostoli by two forces more than twice its strength. The blockaded fleet, which was commanded by Prince Louis of Battenburg, made its escape without molestation, to the surprise of everybody. A correspondent who witnessed the manoeuvres writes that the wireless telegraph system broke down completely in the face of the enemy, who deliberately and continuously sent confusing messages. In its present state it is absolutely useless for war purposes.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritat- and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

Fall in British Shipbuilding.

London, Oct. 20.—Engineering says that not since the autumn of 1897 has the tonnage of merchant ships in course of construction in the United Kingdom been so low as at present. Five years ago the work on hand, which had been fluctuating for some time between 600,000 and 800,000 tons, began to show a steady improvement, and finally reached the top point of 1,414,120 tons. Then came a steady drop to 1,000,714 tons, the decrease being about 40,000 tons per month.

U.S. Crooks Must Go.

London, Oct. 20.—The officials of Scotland Yard intend to take vigorous action as a result of the recent French racing scandals, and the arrival here of about 100 United States sharpers of various kinds, have been expelled from France. Among the arrivals were the notorious Dr. Springer and many others who are well known to the police on both sides of the Atlantic.

Family Quarrels.

"How may serious family quarrels, marriages out of spite, and alterations in wills, might have been prevented by a gentle dose of pills." With the liver and kidneys torpid and sluggish digestion is impaired and temper ruined. But Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills by invigorating the action of these organs, ensures good digestion and sound health. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box.

LAURIER WELCOMED.

The Capital City Enthusiastically Greets Sir Wilfrid.

PLEASURE OF HOME-COMING.

Unfeigned Delight at His Return Showed by Citizens of all Shades of Political Opinion — Guards' Band Plays "Home, Sweet Home"—Addresses Presented, to Which the Premier Replies.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in the Dominion capital once more, after an absence of exactly eighteen weeks and three days. He reached Ottawa Saturday night, and the unrestrained enthusiasm of his welcome must have greatly intensified the pleasure of his home-coming. Citizens of all shades of political opinion showed unfeigned delight at his return. They gathered in hundreds around the Central Station, although the streets were swept with pelting torrents of icy rain, and when the Premier appeared they raised cheers so deafening as to almost drown the notes of "Home, Sweet Home," played by the Guards' Band. The cheers were renewed as the Premier drove up to the city, and when he appeared to the gaze of the crowd packed within the Council chamber the glad shouts of welcome fairly made the rafters ring.

The Premier's Party.

The Premier was accompanied in his journey to the capital by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. James Sutherland, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. Wm. Gibson, Mr. W. C. Edwards, M. P.; Mr. Henri Laurier, his brother, and Mr. Rudolph Boudreau, his private secretary. Lady Laurier arrived at Ottawa by the noon train, but went down again to the station to meet her distinguished husband. There were also present:—Hon. Clifford Sifton, Hon. R. W. Scott, Hon. F. R. Latchford, Mr. N. A. Belcourt, M.P., Mayor Falardeau of Hull and Mayor Cook and the Ottawa Civic Reception Committee.

Addresses of Welcome.

The informal welcome over, the Premier was driven to the City Hall, which was attractively decorated with bunting in honor of the occasion. Arriving in the Council chamber, Sir Wilfrid was given the place of honor on the Mayor's right, Lady Laurier being seated on his left. She carried a bouquet presented by Ald. Payment.

An address of welcome from the Ottawa City Council, handsomely illuminated and framed, was first read, and a brief address in French from the Hull City Council followed.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply.

A little attenuation of the face revealed the strictness with which Sir Wilfrid has been dieting himself, but the elasticity of his gait, the brightness and virility of his glance, and the vigor of his speech soon dispelled the idea that he is a sick man. The Premier lost no time in demonstrating that he is anything but an invalid, and his declaration that he was a well man and had come back to work evoked a thunderous outburst of cheers. He made a brilliant response to the two addresses.

Sir Wilfrid, in reply, made happy reference to the pleasure it gave him to be home again. He was glad to be in Ottawa, and said it would be his home permanently. While he did not anticipate a change of government for years, still, if reverses should come, he would be glad to settle down to the life of a private citizen of Ottawa.

Sir Wilfrid announced that he was in good health and anxious to get back to work again.

SHE CAME FROM GALT.

A Woman Shot and Killed in a Buffalo Flat House.

Buffalo, Oct. 19.—The dead body of Mrs. C. V. Morton was found in a flat at 145 Eagle-street yesterday afternoon. Near it was George J. Willing, with whom she lived, suffering from several bullet wounds in the head. He may die. Mrs. Morton had been shot in the head, and apparently died several hours before her body was discovered by her 17-year-old daughter, who is doing a turn at Fenton's Music Hall. Willing is at present in the hospital, where he underwent an operation, and if he recovers will be placed under arrest. He says he did not know he had been shot, nor that Mrs. Morton had been shot. Mrs. Morton's maiden name was Elizabeth Hunkin. She spent the early years of her life in Galt, Ont., and her parents are living there now. Besides, she is survived by two sisters in Galt, one in this city, a Mrs. Walter Brown of Potomac-avenue, and brothers in Galt and Preston, Ont. Previous to 1895, she was known as Lizzie Miles, having married a man of that name. In that year she married Thomas Alexander Gormely of Pickering, Ont. Her daughter, Florence, is a child by a former marriage. Florence is seventeen years old. During the girl's recent theatrical trip in Pennsylvania she several times drew on her mother for funds, and telegrams asking for money were found in Mrs. Morton's rooms yesterday.

John R. Moodie Passes Away.

Hamilton, Oct. 20.—John R. Moodie, sr., one of the best-known and most progressive citizens here, died at 10 o'clock yesterday morning of paralysis. He was 68 years of age. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter. His sons are James R., John, Charles W. Moodie. Deceased was one of the founders of the Cataract Power Co., and at the time of his death was its treasurer. He and two of his sons founded the Eagle Knitting Co., but he retired from it some years ago. Mr. Moodie came to this city from Scotland about 58 years ago.

SOUTH OXFORD TRIAL.

An Agent of Mr. Sutherland Hired Rig's in South Oxford—Trial Postponed Till December 1.

Woodstock, Oct. 20.—The petitioners scored their initial successes in the work of proving corrupt practices in connection with the South Oxford election Saturday forenoon, when Judges Britton and Street tendered their decision on the charge which had reference to the hiring of livery rigs from R. A. Skinner and Walker Bros., in Ingersoll, on election day, by the Conservative agents.

The two charges against John W. Patterson in this respect were proven and confirmed.

The charge that Edward Johnston of Dereham was an agent of Mr. Sutherland and paid $2 to John Henderson for his vote was dismissed. At 1 o'clock the court adjourned, until Dec. 1, when the trial will be continued here.

In all, 11 charges have been heard, and, of these, two were confirmed, five dismissed and judgment was reserved on the rest. Saturday morning, the prosecution agreed to the dropping of 38 out of the 106 charges in the bill of particulars.

Up in London.

London, Oct. 20.—When the East Middlesex election trial opened Saturday morning Mr. Walter Cassels, for the petitioner, put in evidence from the past examination of Dr. Routledge to prove that the respondent treated at the Birr Hotel, at Drake's, at Burton's, at Gilson's, at Charles', at Durand's, Belmont, and at the St. John's Hotel, Young's Hotel, and the Dominion Hotel, in this city, during the convention. Rebuttal evidence was also put in.

After the treating charges had been investigated, William Guffin took the stand and swore that John MacArthur, who recently figured in the Nimham murder case, drove to his home before the election and offered him $3 to vote for Routledge, but Guffin refused. MacArthur then offered $4, but Guffin wouldn't take it. The offer was made before witness' daughter.

The evidence was all put in in the East Middlesex election case. The cross-petition has been abandoned. Argument on the petition will take place in Toronto. No judgment was given.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Cunard Steamship Agreement.

London, Oct. 20.—In a printed reply to a question asked in Parliament, Gerald Balfour, president of the Board of Trade, promises to submit the Government's agreement with Cunard Steamship and the International Mercantile Company as soon as possible.

Good Health for Capital.

Maintaining good health is to the majority of people the most vital question in the world and nature affords no more efficient strengthener for the system and restorative for the nerves than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Naturally, gradually and certainly it forms new red corpuscles in the blood, creates, new, healthy, nerve cells and puts into the system the snap, energy and vitality that defies disease.

Poor Pa.

The Canadian boy is irrepressible: "I say pa," cried little Bobby, "is it right that there is only one man before whom the King must raise his hat?"

"Nonsense!" replied his father. "Who told you that rubbish? The King need not take off his hat to anybody. As a matter of courtesy, of course, he raises his hat to ladies, and returns the salutes of his subjects; but there is no man living to whom he is compelled to uncover."

"But," continued Bobby, who had now got near the door, "what about his hairdresser. He must uncover to him! Got yer, dad."

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

TULLY & MERRELL,
MANAGERS.

THE C. G. E. ANGLERS' CLUB.

An Address That was Presented Recently.

The Club Bard Hands out Some Verses —The Season's Sport.

Some few evenings ago the Anglers' Club of the Canadian General Electric Company, held their annual dinner in the palm parlours of Mr. H. Lon. The affair passed off most enjoyably, and during the course of the evening's proceedings Mr. Rupert Donel was presented with the following address:

Mr. R. S. Donell:

Dear Sir,—The members of the C.G.E. Angling Club, having been subjects of your personal favour on occasions of recreative outings, when your services and those of your staunch little yacht, "May Flower," were placed cheerfully and gratuitously at our disposal, and for your thoughtful consideration of our environments, because of which your efforts have been more valued, desire to express in a tangible way our sincere and hearty appreciation of your generosity and ask your acceptance of the accompanying gift, not for its intrinsic worth, but as a slight token of our gratitude for the courtesies received at your hands and the spirit which prompted them, with a wish for a very prosperous future.

Signed on behalf of the C. G. E. Angling Club.

A. W. PATTERSON,
President.
J. A. SHARPE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

THE TROUBADOR'S LAY.

The Anglers have a poet amongst them, and it has been the custom, at the close of every season to describe in verse the more memorable incidents of the season's outings. At the banquet the bard handed out the following, which was received with much applause:

As time rolls on there is many a change
For better or for worse,
The fishing club must fall in line—
It's the fate of the universe.

When we met here together,
I think, some two years past,
There is many a face not with us now,
But in memory they will last.

We must not forget those absent ones
Although they are far away;
The best of luck we wish for them,
And a safe return some day.

This has been a successful year,
With that you'll all agree,
Our first trip was down the river,
To a place called "Jubilee."

Three hundred pounds of gamey fish—
Maybe you think I'm lyin'—
If every word is not the truth,
Why just ask "John O'Brien."

Of all the fishermen we ever knew
In and around the town,
Sir Izaak Walton, and the rest,
"Go 'way back, and sit down."

Three big Johns got in a boat,
They had no time to lose,
A red-skin told them where to fish,
And the kind of bait to use.

The children of those heroes
Will tell of the fish their fathers caught,
And 'twill have a place in history
When Waterloo's forgot.

The fish were greatly honoured,
And could not resist their hook;
Through vanity after they were caught,
They got their pictures "took."

But let us tell the artist,
If we are not too late,
A blunder, in the photograph,
Was leaving out the "bait."

Away back north, at White Lake,
Somebody lost their food;
They thought the one that took it
Had acted rather rude.

Kind friends just take this warning,
When you go with the bunch—
Keep one eye on the commodore
And the other on your lunch.

The culprits evidently thought,
There is no use in scolding;
We'll take the grub, sit on a log,
And thus keep it from "Moldon."

Professor Gilbert, the egg expert—
His collection gained great fame—
They good naturedly assisted him,
With things he'll never name.

At Lake Chemong, three jolly sports
Went up in a baloon;
We know you heard the story,
Of the capture of the loon.

You have heard that old, old saying—
Birds of all one feather—
It is easy for to catch one,
When they get flocked together.

In order to mention everything,
It would keep us here all night;
So I must conclude this history,
And do the thing up right.

Now with your permission,
I think I have had my say—
And before I become a chestnut,
Will for someone else give way.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalising blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

The Market was Featureless To-day.

Heard Amongst the Bulls and Bears—Money Four Per Cent.

There were no startling features about the Wall street market to-day. Prices advanced slightly during the day, but the market generally speaking, closed at about the opening. C.P.R. opened at 137 1-4, reached 138 1-2, and closed at 137 1-2; M.O.P. opened at 112, gained a half point, and fell back to 111 5-8; Union Pacific, after opening at 106 5-8, and touching 107 1-8, fell down to 106 at the close; sugar opened at 125, and lost one-eighth of a point; Sloss gained one point over its opening quotation being up to 70 at three o'clock. N.Y.C. was quoted at 107 1-4 at the close; C.O., 53 1-2; B.O., at 110 3-4, and M.S.M. at 81. Sales to noon, 373,800. Money at four per cent.

New York, Oct. 20th, 10 a.m.—Opinions as to whether the market will maintain the past week's improvement are very conflicting. Western element and pool brokers and many traders are strongly of the opinion that the worst of money situation is passed, and things will continue to improve and and the market will gradually recover all its losses of the past month and will make new records on continuance of purchases. The bank statement was better than expected, and this is regarded as almost certain to be a remarkably good one and on this aggressive bull interest is talking of renewed activity this morning.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 20.—Foreign exchange steady this a.m., with demand sterling 486 1-8. Commission houses are not advising the trading, and it looks as though the rapid advance from low prices has apparently discounted the good news. Sentiment of local traders is quite bearish, and they have been selling stock with considerable noise. Steamer La Touraine arrived Saturday with $375,000 gold consigned to a firm here. Late London cables report market irregular and heavy with majority of American ranging from 1-4 to 1-2 below Saturday's figure. Atch., G. W. Co., M.K.T., N., R.G., SR. U. P. and Erie showing greatest decline, and N. Y.C., B.O., Ills., 1-4 higher.

LATEST IN SPORTING CIRCLES.

What Ottawa Papers Say of Thursday's Match.

Notes on Hockey Curling etc.—The Standing of the Intermediate O. R. F. U.

RUGBY.

The Free Press of Ottawa says: "The Ottawa seconds went down with a dull sickening thud in Peterborough, being defeated by 28 points to 0. Great things were expected of the junior Rough Riders and the result was therefore all the more distressing to Ottawa men. The Peterborough men fairly smothered the Ottawa forwards and the latter's back men could not get away with the ball. The halves of the victors are among the best men playing the Rugby game and kept the play in Ottawa territory nearly all the time."

* * * *

There were many points in Thursday's game which the players should take into their serious consideration. Our wings in following down should be more careful of the five-yard rule. It is not the man who is to be given the five yards, but the ball, until it is played by the opponent. It may roll, but still the wings must keep five yards away. Another thing is that Peterborough wings were a little too anxious to break through. Let them wait a little longer when their opponents have the ball before breaking through. Of course it is hard to critize, but the players themselves know what is meant, and can, it is hoped, reduce the number of free kicks. Many ask why Armstrong did not do more. He couldn't. The Ottawa backs were kicking to Peterborough right half, and as the centre, Burnham, was nearest, it resulted that he and McPherson were in most of the plays. Armstrong behaved splendidly at every chance, and was once bothered and hindered by Peterborough's right half. The scrimmage has satisfied everybody, but their work can be improved if, when it is their ball, they would be content just to hold themselves steady and not try to push. This would give the centre a much better chance to heel out accurately, a thing impossible when he is using all his power in shoving. Especial attention will be paid to this during the coming week. It is also hinted that there will be some time devoted quietly to place kicking.

* * * *

There are a few players who behaved in a very rude, not to say ungentlemanly manner, to their opponents in Thursday's match. Such practices as dropping their "checks" on the quarter and sitting on both to rest is a practice that should be apoligized for at once. There are eye-witnesses who aver that Dillon and Noble were each guilty of that breach of etiquette. It is to be hoped that they will be more polite in future and give in a number of written apologizes to the manager of the opposing team before the match starts.

* * * *

The standing of the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. in which Peterborough is greatly interested, is as follows:

Eastern Section.	won	lost	to play

Ottawa II.	0	1	1
Western Section.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Might's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

Miners Unanimously Accept the Arbitration Proposal.

WILL GO TO WORK THURSDAY.

The Arbitration Commission to Meet at Washington on Friday—Prompt Decision of President Roosevelt—Text of the Resolution Passed by the Miners in Convention Without a Dissentient Voice.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 22. — The mine workers' convention has accepted the arbitration proposal, declared the strike off, and agreed to return to work on Thursday morning next.

The vote was unanimous. It was decided that all men needed to place the mines in condition can return to work at once.

President Mitchell announced that he has a telegram from President Roosevelt that he will call a meeting of the commission immediately after the favorable action of the convention.

President Mitchell said he had reason to believe the findings of the commission would be announced within one month after the close of the convention.

The Resolution.

The following is the text of the resolution drafted by a special committee and afterwards unanimously adopted by the convention:

We, the Committee on Resolutions, beg leave to recommend that the following communication be adopted and forwarded to Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States of America.:

Wilkes-Barre, October 21.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, Washington, D.C.:

Dar Sir,—We, the representatives of the employes of the various coal companies, engaged in operating mines in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania in convention assembled having under consideration your telegram of October 15, 1902, addressed to John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, which reads as follows:

"I have appointed as commissioners Brigadier-General John M. Wilson, E. W. Parker, Judge George Gray, E. E. Clark, Thomas H. Watkins, Bishop J. L. Spalding, with Carroll D. Wright as recorder. These names are accepted by the operators and I now earnestly ask and urge that the miners likewise accept this commission. It is a matter of vital concern to all our people, and especially to those in our great cities, who are least well off, that the mining of coal should be resumed without a moment's unnecessary delay."

We have decided to accept the proposition therein embodied and submit all questions at issue between the operators and mine workers of the anthracite coal region for adjustment to the commission which you have named.

In pursuance of that decision we shall report for work on Thursday morning, October 23rd, in the positions and working places occupied by us prior to the inauguration of the strike.

We have authorized John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, with such assistants as he may select, to represent us in all hearings before the committee.

(Signed.) JOHN MITCHELL.
Chairman of Convention.
W. B. WILSON.
Secretary of Convention.

President Roosevelt, having taken prompt action in calling the arbitrators together for their first meeting on Friday, the miners hope they will know by Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, what practical gain they have made. The vote to resume coal mining was an unanimous one, and was reached only after a warm debate. President Mitchell announced that by special arrangement with President Roosevelt, he would represent the miners at the sessions of the arbitration commission.

Convention Meets Friday.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Immediately upon receipt of the information that the miners had accepted the arbitration proposal, the following telegram was sent to Mr. Mitchell, signed by Secretary Cortelyou:

"Upon receipt of your telegram of this date the President summoned the commission to meet here on Friday next, the 24th instant, at 10 a.m.

Stabbed Heart Sewn Up.

New York, Oct. 22.—The rarest operation known to surgery—the sewing up of a severed ventricle of a human heart—was performed last night at Bellevue Hospital. The patient was Annie Kingsley, a woman who had been brought to the hospital late last night stabbed to the heart by her husband during a quarrel on the street. After the operation she kept on improving steadily, and at midnight Prof. Stewart said: "I am astonished at her strength. She is doing remarkably well. I may say that there is a very fair chance of her ultimate recovery."

The Jury Has It.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—The third "digger" trial was concluded yesterday and the case was given to the jury. Harvey Ruminens was the accused conductor, and he told a plausible story. Caulfield, the Pinkerton detective, was chief witness against him.

350 Delegates There.

St. Thomas, Oct. 22.—The Provincial Sunday School Association convened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Knox Church with about 350 delegates, representing all sections of the province.

Spent a Quiet Day.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The Boer delegates spent a quiet Sunday, taking full advantage of the opportunity to rest. Hon. Sydney Fisher was among the callers

Mad Mullah's Men Supplied With German and American Rifles—British Force of the Somaliland Expedition Caught in a Regular Trap—Opinions of Travelers—A Very French View.

Simla, India, Oct. 22.—The 2nd Bombay Grenadiers, stationed at Mhow (Central India), have been ordered to Somaliland. Other troops will probably follow.

Twelve officers and 400 men of the 23rd Bombay Infantry will accompany the 2nd Grenadiers. The troops will sail for Somaliland Thursday.

Serious Situation of British.

London, Oct 21.—A letter from an officer belonging to the Somaliland expedition, received here, shows that the British force is even in a more precarious position than has been indicated in the official despatches. The writer says:

"No one will appreciate this business until it is too late. We are in a regular trap, and how we are going to get out we do not know. We have had stiff fights and have lost many men. The worst is that our blacks are funking and our camels have nearly all been killed or captured. We have next to no water, and we are miles from any wells. We have no supplies and nearly no ammunition. They have captured two of our Maxims. I do not suppose they care at home what happens to us. It is a brutal shame to send us blind into an ambush like this. I hear fresh troops are coming up, and only hope they will come from India." The writer refers incidentally to some brisk fight which he apparently presumes was already known of here, and adds: "Thirty-three of us escaped. By jove, that was a pretty affair. We whites stood out but—Oh, well, we have too many blacks."

An official connected with the Red Sea ports, in an interview published in The Star yesterday, says: "The Mullah and other turbulent chiefs have been liberally supplied with rifles by Americans and Germans, in spite of the British gunboats. The rifles supplied by the Americans were done up in cotton goods. This explains the frequent reference in consular reports to the fondness of the Somalis for American calicoes and shirtings. It is not calico the Somali wants, but the rifles inside the calico."

Alfred Peace, M.P., and other travelers, who have been in Somaliland, say that it is now necessary to conquer the whole country, as the Mullah is certain to be reinforced by all the petty Sultans. The natives will make even the ports on the coast untenable, unless the country is effectively occupied.

A French View.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Journal des Debats declares that Great Britain's object in sending the expedition against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland was to pave the way for the subsequent conquest of Abyssinia. The paper says that England now discovers that she has a long and costly undertaking on her hands. The Temps regards the defeat of Col. Swayne as another sorry exhibition of British military methods.

DEWET ALWAYS READY.

Addresses a Crowd at Hanover Out of a Car Window at 2 a.m.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—General Dewet spoke in his nightshirt at 2 a.m., on Sunday at the Hanover Railroad Station to a thousand persons, who almost stormed the train. The General leaned out of a window as he addressed the assemblage, recounting the warmth of the Boers' reception in Berlin and the liberality of the Germans.

The general collected a total of $87,500 here. They undertook to give autographic receipts to every contributor of $1.25 and had to spend several hours signing receipts. Dewet said that if the thing kept up his right arm would be in a sling as the result of writer's paralysis. Envelopes containing money were thrown into the Boer's carriage when they were out driving.

Who Owns the Railway.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—The fight between two factions which claim control of the South Shore Railway Company reached an acute stage yesterday, when a writ of quo warranto was issued against Hiram A. Hodge of Rutland, Dr. Seward Webb of New York, Percival W. Clement of Rutland and Frank D. White of Rutland. The effect of the proceeding will be to bring the matter into the courts with an idea of settling the ownership of the railway by legal means. Action was taken at the instance of Alfred Schiffer of New York, who alleges that defendants have usurped and unlawfully hold and exercise office of directirs of the South Shore Railway.

Threat to Kill a Missionary.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 22. — Rev. George H. Marsh, for 30 years a missionary in Bulgaria, has been threatened with death unless he gives up the sum of $2,400. The demand was made some weeks ago in an anonymous letter, which declared that if he refused his home at Philippopolis would be destroyed by dynamite and his wife killed.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's return to Canada, after a protracted holiday in Europe, is an event of national importance, as his presence in Europe last summer was a matter of Imperial importance. He returns, it is a pleasure to say, in improved health and ready to resume the burden of office, whose weight, bravely borne in the interests of Canada, led to conditions of physical fatigue that necessitated a period of rest. He has administered the affairs of Canada for half a dozen years with consummate ability and success, and though he went abroad in one sense, for a holiday, he has been constantly engaged in the work of worthily representing Canada abroad. He has done this, even his political opponents admit, in a way which could not be excelled by any other man living in Canada to-day. While in Great Britain, Sir Wilfrid represented Canada with credit and dignity, and received attention from all classes, greater than any other colonial representative. He was, the Globe says, "serene, dignified, courteous, neither over-awed by his surroundings, nor inflated with a sense of his own importance." His speeches in France were models of eloquence, plain speaking, tact and—courage; for few men in his position would have had the courage, not to say, temerity, to tell the French people that he, a statesman of French descent, was premier of a British colony of French origin, which enjoyed under British rule a measure of liberty, and conditions of prosperity, which never could have come under the genuis of French administration. An assertion of this kind revealed the secret of Great Britain's success as a colonizer. Wherever her authority becomes paramount the peoples subject to her sway are accorded the same, if not a greater, degree of liberty and self government than obtains in the home islands. With Canada such a conspicuous example of complete self-government, conjoined with loyal attachment to the parent state, and with the fact brought so tellingly before the nations of Europe by the dignified utterances of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, these latter would be impressed deeply with the fact that Great Britain's "greed of conquest," so much denounced, was in effect a boon and a blessing to the world, continuously widening the area in which constitutional government of the highest kind, carrying with it the greatest national benefits, and the most beneficent form of civilization, exercise an influence. With these facts impressed upon them the European powers, jealous as they are of the greatness and paramount influence of the British Empire, will be less inclined, as they will have less excuse, to pursue a policy of aggressive opposition to Imperial undertakings. In this regard Canada, through her representative, has shown herself practically a factor in influencing the world's politics.

Sir Wilfrid returns home to find his beloved Canada still exulting in the abounding prosperity which has been the accompaniment, if not the consequence, of the application of his administrative policy. His political opponents gloat over what they consider the difficulties which confront Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his return. Whatever intrinsic importance these alleged difficulties may possess we have every assurance that Sir Wilfrid will meet them manfully, that he will do what is right, and that the country's interests will be his first care. He met, dealt with and settled the most momentous and irritating domestic problem that ever menaced the peace and even stability of the confederation and we may safely trust him to deal wisely with whatever problem, either of administration or discpline, which may confront him.

At present the nearest approach, Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, can get to the public crib is a public banquet—which was very enthusiastically and successfully given to Mr. Borden at Winnipeg on Monday night. The enthusiasm of his reception in the capital of Manitoba must have turned Mr. Borden's head a little. In his speech he asserted that the Conservative prospects in the west were "rosy," while at the same moment he ingeniously admitted that he didn't know much of the west.

MUNICIPAL FUEL SUGGESTION.

Toronto Star.

Several Canadian cities are investing money in coal and wood, which will be sold at cost to citizens during the coming winter, and we desire to call the attention of Toronto aldermen and the editors of newspapers in other places to the probability that these municipal ventures will, later on, be described as experiments in municipal ownership by the opponents of this advanced idea. Those who are friendly to the principle of municipal or public ownership, should therefore see to it that the municipalities that are venturing upon a critical line of duty at a critical time are not involved in preventable blunders. Aldermen in Toronto and in other cities who advocated municipal ownership, should keep a steadying hand on the municipal trading of this winter in coal and wood.

The conditions at the present time are such that no fair test can be made of the public ownership principle in connection with the fuel bought and sold by the city. It is a blind venture the public is compelled to make—much more hazardous than if normal conditions existed. Toronto is forced to lay in a supply of fuel, so that if the worst happens she can sell it without desire of gain to those unable to pay the market price for it, or give it away, to save the lives of those unable to pay cost for it.

The municipalities must guard against unbusinesslike investments. There are several wild goose schemes being advanced in connection with cordwood, which Toronto should keep clear of. We do not believe, for instance, that the city should spend a dollar for wood now in the tree, unless it is impossible to get cut wood. Green hardwood will not be used by city people, if any other fuel is procurable, and the result will be that such wood will remain on the city's hands until it is dry, and by that time prices will have gone down. As an immediate fuel it were better to buy dry hemlock than green hardwood.

But the main thing is to resist the tendency to make the city's fuel charity fuel. If the coal and wood are supplied at cost—and by that we mean the full cost — nothing more should be asked or attempted. With the prices high, people having no personal pride will seize the excuse to get fuel for nothing from the city but they should not be allowed to do so. There should be no free fuel, except for those in indigent circumstances, and those who apply should do so through the Relief Officer. There can be no gilded indigents getting fuel on the q. t. to keep their parlours warm.

In short, the city must make the best possible showing in its venture and come out next spring with an even balance sheet.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mrs. Peter and Miss Maud Baptie have gone to Norwood, Hastings and other places for an extended visit.

The banking business of Messrs. James Linton & Co. has been taken over by the Trader's Bank of Canada, and business will be started on Tuesday under the new management. The opening of a branch of the Trader's Bank will be a boon to the village, as the citizens of Lakefield have long felt the want of a chartered bank in their midst.

Mr. F. A. Kilbourn spent Thanksgiving Day in Toronto with friends.

Mr. Wills, of the Trader's Bank, Port Hope, was in the village Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Clare Bravender has been successful in winning the championship in the Ping Pong tournament which has just been finished in the village.

Messrs. Wm. Stabler, W. Wagner and E. Moore have returned home after a couple weeks' outing in the north country. They report deer very plentiful about Apsley the week of the fair at that place.

Mr. Walter Smythe leaves Tuesday for Kingston where he will resume his studies in Queen's University.

The saw mill closed on Monday after a very successful season.

Messrs. Tate & Lillicrap are making good progress, installing the machinery in their new mill, and ere long it will be in readiness to start operations.

Mr. McCullough left Friday for his home in Detroit, Mich.

SPRINGVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Thomas Brown has raised and remodelled his barns and outbuildings, and is putting in a stone basement.

Mr. Robert Morrison, of Lachute, Quebec., is visiting his brother, Mr. John Morrison.

Times have changed from when there were two blacksmiths in the village. Our late smith has moved away because of not getting sufficient work.

Mrs. Cathcart, of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving with friends here.

The potato crop in this vicinity is next thing to a failure, and some farmers have not enough for themselves.

On Wednesday evening a large and representative congregational meeting was held in the local church. The chair was occupied by Mr. T. M. Hunter, and under our able and energetic pastor, Mr. Yule, the congregations of Springville and Bethany have become self sustaining, and owing to the liberality of some of the members a manse is one of the possibilities of the near future.

HARVEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Municipal Council of the Township of Harvey, met in the town hall on Wednesday, October 9th, pursuant to adjournment. Members present, Jas. Ingram, Esq., Reeve, in the chair, and Councillors Elliott, Cairnduff and McKenty. Minutes of the last meeting were read confirmed.

An application for the collectorship was read from Mr. Jas. McL. Oliver.

On motion a bylaw was introduced and passed appointing Jas. McL. Oliver, as collector for the current year, 1902.

On motion a bylaw was introduced and passed appointing sanitary inspectors for the balance of the current year, 1902; also members Board of Health for the balance of 1902, and for the year 1903.

On motion the following orders were drawn on the treasurer:

C. E. Bonnell, disinfecting	$ 9 35
Jas. Atkinson, work on roads ...	6 00
Noah Ward, work on roads	9 00
Quinton Moore, work on roads	10 00

On motion the council adjourned to meet in the town hall on Monday, Dec. 15th, as the statutes provide.

PRAISE FOR MR. TULLY.

What Mr. Ruddick Says Concerning a Well Known Milkman.

A new and interesting feature this year in connection with the dairy exhibits at the Toronto Industrial Exposition was the giving of addresses in the dairy building by well known dairy experts.

The first of these talks was given by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, chief of the dairy division of the department of agriculture, Ottawa.

Referring to the new dairy building Mr. Ruddick said he considered it the best adapted building for dairy purposes in the world.

In the afternoon Mr. Ruddick announced to a large audience the result of his work as judge of the cheese exhibits.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Ruddick said:

"I had the pleasure this week," writes Instructor Ward of the Peterborough district, in a letter to the Journal, "of seeing the cleanest and most perfect load of milk delivered to Central Smith cheese factory by hauler Mr. David Tully, that I have ever seen delivered to a factory. This man I think deserves a medal. Mr. Tully is about 65 years of age and has drawn milk for a number of years. He has kept right after his patrons in a nice spirit until now he has not a can on his load that needs any repairs and all are perfectly clean. As he carries the milk of some ten patrons this is something that I have never seen before. I wish that every cheese and butter maker and milk producer could see that load of milk."

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritat- and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature. but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The pages of a Peterborough morning paper have lately been devoted to correspondence from our village of, to say the least, an exaggerated nature. Our fair village is just a village of the ordinary stamp, occupied by ordinary mortals. It is neither the abode of angels nor the rendezvous of demons.

Our duck hunters report the season only fair—plenty of hunters but few ducks. Talbot and Clarke, of Peterborough, are at Sea Breeze, H. Delarey, Cobourg, on Rock Island; W. Weir and G. Dimsdale, Keene, on Hickory Island, Creesor, of Cobourg, on Curtis Point, Dr. Fairbanks, of Cobourg, on Lower Foley, J. Dimsdale, of Lang, on Upper Foley, Dr. McCauley, of Warkworth, on Lower Sugar, H. Elmhirst, of Villiers, on Borland's Point, T. Fraser, of Hastings, on Sandy Point, Mr. Humphries of Warkworth, on Grasshopper. Now where would a person go, but in the rice?

The grounds around the new manse are being nicely terraced.

Mr. Thos. Laing spent Thanksgiving with friends in Toronto.

Mr. J. R. McCamus intends spending a week with the deer this year.

Mr. Thos. Tully is about again.

Messrs. W. A. Eaton and J. F. Anderson, of Norwood, spent Thanksgiving here.

School will be closed on Thursday and Friday, as the teachers will attend the annual convention.

Miss N. Dennis, Huntsville, Muskoka, is visiting her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Shaw.

Miss Daisy Secombe, Whitby Ladies' College, spent Thanksgiving at her home.

On Sunday evening Rev. J. G. Potter, Peterborough, conducted a union service in the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Bible Society.

NO LONGER MINISTER.

Hon. Mr. Tarte Resigns His Position On Premier's Demand.

THE LETTER OF RESIGNATION.

Former Minister of Public Works Says He Prefers His Freedom of Action Even to the Great Honor of Being Sir Wilfrid's Colleague —The Reply of the Premier.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Mr. Tarte is no longer a member of the Dominion Cabinet. He has placed his resignation in the Premier's hands and it has been accepted by Sir Wilfrid. The reasons for Mr. Tarte's withdrawal from the Government are fully set forth in the appended correspondence, which was given out by the Premier yesterday morning:

The Letter of Resignation.

"Public Works Department Minister's Office, Toronto, 20th October, 1902.

"The Right Hon. Sir, Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister, Ottawa.

"My Dear Sir Wilfrid,—I feel it is my duty to place my resignation in your hands, and to ask you to be good enough to have it accepted by His Excellency the Governor-General. In the interview which I had with you you expressed the opinion that I should not have spoken on the tariff as I have done; that the Government had not as yet come to a definite understanding in their fiscal policy for the future, etc. I shall not discuss with you at the present time the question as to whether I was right or wrong in the course I have followed. You are the leader of the Government, and your opinion, as far as my attitude is involved, must prevail. You told me that my utterances are causing you trouble. I have no right and no desire to be a source of embarrassment to you or to the party with which I have been connected since 1892.

"My views on the tariff are well known to you. I have, on several occasions, stated them publicly in your presence and discussed them often privately with you. Entertaining the opinion that the interests of the Canadian people make it our duty to revise without delay the tariff of 1897 with the view of giving a more adequate protection to our industries, to our farming community, to commerce and to our working men, I cannot possibly remain silent. I prefer my freedom of action and of speech under the circumstances, even to the great honor of being your colleague.

"Before severing my official relations with you, allow me to express my sincerest hope that you will soon be restored to your health of former days.

"You would greatly oblige me by conveying to my colleagues my best wishes for their welfare and their happiness. My personal relations with most of them have been pleasant and cordial, and I hope they will continue to be the same in the future.

"Believe me, my dear Sir Wilfrid, very sincerely yours, J. Israel Tarte."

The Premier's Reply.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.

"My Dear Tarte,—After having seen you on the subject last Sunday and having expressed to you my well-settled opinion as to what would be the consequences of your recent attitude, my first duty was to wait upon his Excellency the Governor-General to inform him that I was obliged to demand the resignation of your portfolio. After having seen his Excellency, I had to acquaint my colleagues of the interview which I had had with you.

"In accepting your resignation, it is well to emphasize the points of differences between us. During my absence in Europe, without any communication with me and without any previous understanding with your colleagues, you began an active campaign in favor of an immediate revision of the tariff in the direction of high protection. I regret having been obliged to observe to you that this attitude on your part constitutes a self-evident violation of your duty towards the Government of which you were a member. I repeat to you here what I told you on Sunday. I do not wish to discuss at this moment the economic theory of which you have made yourself the champion. This question, however important it might be, is subordinate to one still more important.

"If you had reached the conclusion that the interests of the country demanded without delay an increase of the customs duties, the first thing for you to do as a member of the Government, before addressing your views to the public, would have been to place them before your colleagues, with the object of obtaining that unanimous action of the Cabinet which is the very foundation of responsible government. If you had not been able to obtain from your colleagues their assent to the course which you recommended you would have been obliged then to decide whether to accept their own views or to sever your connection with them, and then for the first time would you have been free to place your views before the public. Such was the very simple course which was binding upon you. But to remain a member of the Government and at the same time to advocate a policy which has not yet been adopted by the Government was an impediment to the proper working of our constitutional system and implies a disregard for that loyalty which all those who are members of the same administration owe to each other and have a right to expect from each other.

"I thank you for the good wishes which you express for the improvement of my health and I will make it my duty to convey to your old colleagues those that you formulate for their welfare and their happiness.

"Believe me, yours very sincerely,
"(Signed) Wilfrid Laurier."

"To J. I. Tarte, Ottawa."

Mr. Tarte's Plans.

Mr. Tarte last evening returned from Toronto. It is understood that he will return to his former vocation as a journalist. The question as to who will succeed him has not been settled, although a number of names are mentioned.

Names Mentioned.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Among the names mentioned as probable successors to Hon. J. Israel Tarte are Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Senator Beique, Raymond Prefontaine, M.P.; Hon. Lomer Gouin, Minister of Public Works at Quebec, and Premier Parent of Quebec.

Dr. Lacombe, the local member for St. Mary's, which is represented by Mr. Tarte is strongly in favor of that gentleman, and has called a meeting for next week to give him an opportunity to explain.

Parkhill, Oct. 22.—The coroner's inquest says that Thomas O'Rourke died of natural causes.

Josh Billings Said of Niagara Falls

That the reason why people liked it was "Because nobody kin make wun jest like it." For the same reason people like Four T's, the great guaranteed cough cure. It is the only lung remedy made that cures coughs and colds in two days with perfect safety. Children like it and it cures croupy coughs. Sold in 25c bottles by Ormond & Walsh.

MANY LIVES LOST IN A FIRE.

Plant of the Glucose Sugar Refinery in Chicago Burned.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—A fire broke out at midnight in the plant of the Glucose Sugar Refinery establishment at Taylor street and the Chicago River, destroying the factory and causing the loss, it is believed, of many lives. The number of dead has not been established as yet, but it is known that a number of men were in the building, on the seventh floor. The flames spread so rapidly that a man who was working on the third floor had barely time to escape with his life, and it is not thought by the firemen that the men in the upper storeys could have escaped. Soon after midnight two bodies were taken from the ruins, but the fire was burning so fiercely that it was impossible to make further search.

FIRE AT TILBURY.

Family Narrowly Escaped With Lives Early Tuesday Morning.

Tilbury, Oct. 22.—About 4.30 o'clock yesterday morning, fire broke out in the frame building of J. E. Scriven, Queen street, occupied by G. Marchand, as a grocery. He lived upstairs. The family narrowly escaped with their lives. The fire then spread north to the Massey-Harris machine shop, which was destroyed, although most of the contents were saved. To the south, Dr. Boyd, V. S., office, and G. McLaughlin's tailor shop, and the building of H. Johnston, were burned, the latter three carrying no insurance. The total loss is about $4,000, half covered by insurance in the Economical of Berlin, London Mutual, and York Mutual.

ANARCHISTS AFTER LOUBET.

One Caught While Trying to Get Into the Elysee Palace.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Figaro this morning says a man was detected early Tuesday morning attempting to climb a wall of the Elysee Palace. It is believed that he intended to hide in the palace garden in the hope of obtaining an opportunity to assassinate President Loubet. He was arrested, however, and was found to be armed with a poignard and a loaded revolver. He had been recognized as a dangerous Anarchist, who has already been convicted three times, and upon two of these occasions for manufacturing explosive machines. The police are trying to keep the matter quiet, and refuse to divulge the man's name.

Mishaps to Vessels.

St. Catharines, Oct. 22.—A 36-mile gale was responsible for three slight mishaps to vessels. As the steamer Rosemount, with the barques Quebec and Selkirk in tow, was making the piers at Port Dalhousie, the Quebec, loaded with iron rails, lurched heavily against the west pier, denting her starboard below. While canalling under difficulties, the barge Selkirk lost a rope fender, which became entangled in a valve of the lock, which delayed navigation three hours. As the Lakeside was tying up, the wind was so strong that all her lines had to be let go, and the vessel was tied up with great difficulty.

The Skin on Fire.

So dreadful are the sensations of burning, itching eczema that victims frequently describe their sufferings by saying that the skin is all on fire. The stinging, biting, fires of eczema are quenched by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. The first few applications may cause a little uneasiness but cure is sure to result, and the skin is healed without scar or blemish.

No Operator at New Hamburg.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—Coroner Arnott's jury yesterday found that the accident in which Engineer Hugh Moore of Sarnia lost his life on Oct. 19 would not have occurred had a G. T. R. night operator been employed at New Hamburg. Moore was killed about one mile west of New Hamburg by jumping from his engine owing to an approaching collision with a passenger train.

Alleged Embezzler on Trial.

Brooklyn, Oct. 22.—John H. Collins, alleged embezzler of trust funds to the amount of $25,000, was arraigned yesterday and held for the grand jury. It is alleged that Collins, under cover of continuing his dead brother's jewelry business, secretly disposed of the stock and squandered most of the proceeds.

Struck by a Train.

Hamilton, Oct. 22.—George Bristol, a farmer residing about a mile from Ancaster Village, was struck by a T. H. & B. Railway train while driving across the tracks near Binkley's Hollow, late last night. His rig was demolished, and he was seriously hurt about the head and face.

Threaten to Tie-Up Twin Cities.

St. Paul, Oct. 22. — Forty-eight hours has been given to the railroads of the Twin Cities in which to consider the demands of the switchmen for additional pay and shorter hours. It is threatened that unless concessions are made, a strike will be ordered.

Don't Help Being Cranky.

It's the effect of dyspepsia on the nerves that makes the afflicted one morose and cranky. They can't help that though until they take Merrill's System Tonic, the only positive cure (not relief) for dyspepsia known. It cures by acting on the liver, nerves and bowels. Pleasant to take and three weeks treatment for 50 cents. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

Linotype Combine.

London, Oct. 22. — Negotiations looking to a combination of the British, German and American companies owning linotype patents are afoot, but nothing definite has been concluded.

Philippines' Rice Famine.

Manila, Oct. 22. — It is believed that the Philippines will experience a rice famine. The islands' crops are small, the Oriental supply seems limited and the price is advancing rapidly.

At the Opera.

There was a large attendance at Bradburn's Opera House last night to greet Morris & Hall's company in H. V. Esmond's love romance in four acts, "When We Were Twenty-one." There was nothing very sensational in the production, but Miss Meta Rogers as "Phyllis Ericson," and Walter Walker as "Richard Carwell," played their respective roles in a rather able manner. The play might be made somewhat livelier by the introduction of a few specialties whilst with a less degree of profanity the play would be equally as interesting. The production on the whole was fair.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Keele, whose demise occurred in Toronto, took place to-day upon the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train from Toronto, to Little Lake Cemetery. The service at the grave was conducted by Rev. J. P. Wilson, and the bearers were chosen from the official Board of George street Methodist church. Amongst those who were present from a distance at the funeral were,—the Misses Keele, daughters of the deceased, Mrs. Beatty, a niece, Mr. John Keele, of Ottawa, a nephew, and Messrs. J. W. Flavelle, Toronto, Hon. Senator Dobson, Lindsay, and Mr. M. McLaughlan, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Port Hope.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

At the Peterborough Hardware Company's Premises.

Last evening about 10.45 the fire brigade turned out to extinguish a small blaze in the cellar of the Peterborough Hardware Company. At first there was some difficulty in locating the fire, as the smoke was so dense that it was impossible to see more than a foot or two. However, the fire was finally discovered near the furnace, and had only, as far as can be gathered, originated from the furnace ashes, and spread to a pile of wood near by. The damage was very slight, but had the fire gained any headway and reached the oils and powders, a very disastrous conflagration would have been the result.

MISS POGUE'S TROUBLES.

A Former Peterborough Girl Arrested in Toronto.

A Toronto paper says:

"A well-dressed girl led the rank and file from the cells into the dock in the police court this morning, before Magistrate Denison, and taking a place at the end nearest the entrance to the dock, turned her back on the rest of the prisoners, and with bent head read from a book of Browning's poems. Her associates were obviously not of her kind, and she huddled away from them. Her name was Helen Pogue, and she comes from Peterborough. She was charged with theft from the W. A. Murray Co. She pleaded guilty. A week's remand was made in order that her friends in Peterborough might be communicated with. The theft to which she pleaded guilty was of $25 worth of various materials, which she ordered and had delivered at the Queen's Hotel, representing that she was a daughter of Mrs. Kirkpatrick. Some time ago, shortly after she came here, she took apartments in a Bloor street residence, and on leaving, neglected to pay her board bill."

Miss Pogue was, previously to going to Toronto, employed by Mrs. Dunsford, 113 Simcoe st., town. On leaving there it was discovered that a number of things were missing, and a warrant was sworn out here. This is the first offence as far as can be learned, and it is altogether likely that the unfortunate girl will be lightly dealt with on account of her previous good character.

A PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. Robert Hicks and Miss Mary Menzies.

At two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon October 22nd, the residence of Mr. Wm. Menzies, 291 Rubidge street, was the scene of a very pretty, albiet, quiet, family wedding, when his eldest daughter Mary, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Hicks, of the firm of R. Hicks & Co., lumber and coal merchants.

The residence was appropriately brightened for the occasion, the colour scheme being pink and white, chrisanthemums relieved with ferns and amilax. The portion of the drawing room occupied by the bridal pair during the ceremony, was banked with palms and ferns, and the electroliers were swathed in ropes of smilax interspersed with other floral decorations. The bride entered the drawing room under the escort of her father to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march, performed by her cousin, Miss Mary Paterson.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. aul's, assisted by Rev. J. A. Wilson. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Isabel, was charmingly gowned in a tailor-made costume of navy blue chevoit, with collar of Irish point lace, sent expressly for the occasion by friends in Ireland, and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and maiden hair ferns. The bridesmaid wore a biscuit-shade voile over orange brule taffeta, with trimmings of black and linen applique, and bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The groomsman was Mr. W. C. Ackerman. At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony the guests, who were for the most part confined to the immediate relatives of the principals, partook of the wedding dejeuner, served by Mr. Harry Long. The numerous beautiful presents received by the bride were admirable testimony to the high esteem in which she is held. The groom's gift to the bride was a wishbone in gold studded with pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, who are most estimable members of the community, accompanied by the cordial congratulations and good wishes of a large circle of friends, embarked on the 5.10 Canadian Pacific Express upon a bridal tour which will include Toronto, Boston, Buffalo and other places; and on their return they will take residence at the corner of Murray and Aylmer streets.

AN OCTOBER WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Alma Louise Moffatt and Mr. Ernest Gittens.

A quiet house wedding was performed at 344 Simcoe street, by Rev. Mr. Yule, now of Springville and Bethany but formerly of St. Paul's, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The bride was Miss Alma Louise Moffatt, granddaughter of the late Andrew Moffatt, Peterborough, and the groom was Mr. Ernest Gittens, of Alleghany, Pa. The bride, who was gowned in a travelling dress of fawn, covert cloth, with a vest of white corduroy, trimmed with brown velvet, carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and smilax, and was assisted by Miss Mary Kelly, attired in a linen all-over-lace gown, and carrying a bouquet of red roses and carnations; while Miss Hazel Stanger performed the duties of flower girl. Rev. Mr. Wilson acted as groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Gittens leave to-morrow to take up their residence in Alleghany, where the groom is manager for a large wholesale confectionery business.

QUIETLY MARRIED.

Mr. Clarke W. Earls Joins the List of Benedicts.

A quiet wedding took place at 2.30 yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. T. G. Harper, the contracting parties being his daughter, Lavinia, and Mr. C. W. Earls. The bride, who wore a dress of dark blue, trimmed with white broad cloth, was assisted by Miss Lena Alford, who was attired in grey voile, while Mr. Fred A. Clark, George street, performed the duties of best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Armitage, of All Saints' church. Mr. and Mrs. Earls left yesterday for points west and on their return will reside at 202 Charlotte street.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Lost Money Claimed by two Women—The Courts Decision.

At the police court this morning a man named Hoban was up for drunkenness, and was remanded. He paid a fine yesterday morning on a similar charge, and was brought in again last night.

There was a slight difference in the ownership of a five dollar bill. The money was found in a grocery by a dog belonging to Mrs. Foy, who claimed the money, stating that she had lost it from her pocket. Mrs. Kronk also claimed ownership of the bill, and after hearing the two claims His Worship Magistrate Dumble decided that the money belonged to Mrs. Kronk.

AN AMBULANCE ORDERED.

The Dan Spence Memorial Fund—Last Night's Joint Meeting.

At a joint meeting of the councils of Peterborough and Ashburnham last evening, it was decided to purchase an ambulance, to be known as "The Dan Spence Memorial." The probable cost will be about $300, and it will be ready some time early next spring.

Mr. A. B. Greer, manufacturer of cabs, hearses, ambulances, etc., London, was present, and it was with him that the agreement was made. The ambulance will be made according to certain specifications. One of the conditions is that it is to be able to accommodate two stretchers and the attendant at the same time. It will be fitted with an electric gong and medical cases.

Mr. Greer has just returned from a trip through the principal cities of America, whither he went to inspect their ambulances in order that none of the modern improvements should be lacking in the proposed ambulances, which is one of several being built by his firm.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

Election of Officers was Postponed Last Night.

The Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. R. F. McWilliams Presents his Annual Report.

The annual meeting of the Fortnightly Club for the election of officers was held in the Y.M.C.A. last night, but owing to the very small attendance the election of officers was not proceeded with and the meeting merely received the Secretary-Treasurer's report and discussed the future outlook of the Club.

The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. Sheriff Hall. In view of the little enthusiasm that has been displayed by the members of late it was decided to hold an executive meeting on Friday afternoon next at 4 o'clock, when the future of the Club will be further considered and a date set for the annual election of officers.

The Secretary-Treasurer's report was as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen:

In presenting the annual report of the Secretary-Treasurer, I have to make a return quite satisfactory in some respects, but in others not so much so as desirable. Unfortunate circumstances prevented the Club from carrying out the announced programme as regularly as could be wished, but on the other hand the membership was the largest in the Club's history.

As Treasurer I have to report an exact balance between receipts and expenditures. Thanks to the method adopted of collecting the subscriptions, the large number of 188 were received, yielding a revenue of $47.00. The expenditures were.—lecturer's expenses $17.00, rent of hall $13.00 contribution to piano $12.00, printing, etc., $6.00. It appears that two years ago the Club undertook to assist the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. in the purchase of a piano, but this is the only year in which the Club has had the necessary funds to do so. The Club therefore stands at present in the position of having nothing on hand and no debts.

The Club held six meetings out of the eight announced, which were addressed by Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Rev. Dr. Symonds, Prof. Alexander, Prof. Shortt, Mr. Sheriff Hall and Mr. H. D. Burnett. We were unable to have the addresses of Hon. David Mills and Mr. Daniel O'Connell. Great disappointment was felt by the members when it was found that Hon. Mr. Mills could not come. At the time arranged for, he was ill and asked for a postponement till after the new year, but before an opportunity could be found then his elevation to the Supreme Court Bench made his coming impossible. The failure of this meeting, and the postponement, at his request, of the meeting addressed by Rev. Dr. Symonds, left a gap of two months between the meetings, and brought the next two in successive weeks. Similarly the postponement of the meetings addressed by Mr. O'Connell and Prof. Shortt left another gap of two months. This unfortunate but unavoidable irregularity injured the interest in the Club very much and the later meetings were not so well attended. It is suggested that it would be better to have the meetings closer together and thus maintain the interest instead of having them stretched out from October to late in April.

It is felt by many of the members that the system of conducting the Club at present is not satisfactory. It has grown from a series of meetings for discussion of the papers read to a series of public lectures mainly by outsiders with practically no dicussion, especially since the removal of Dr. Symonds. The general opinion seems to be that it is impossible to satisfactorily combine these two features and that there must be either a further development into a programme of lectures by well known public men and scholars, or a return to the original system with discussion the main feature. If the former course be adopted there will have to be a change in the fees or an admission charged to meet the increased expense, while if the latter course be adopted it may be found necessary to divide the Club into sections, since few of the members will engage in a general discussion with the present large numbers.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank, on behalf of the Executive, not only those both strangers and members who addressed the meetings, but also all who contributed to the enjoyment of the evenings by music and readings.

R. F. MACWILLIAMS,
Secretary-Treasurer.

The new Henty Books and a thousand other good books just received at Sallsbury's.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. NOTES.

The new books for the library, about five hundred volumes in all, have arrived, and are now being placed on the library shelves. The selection of books is a first class one.

The Ladies' Literary Society, in connection with the T.A.S., will hold a literary meeting on Friday night, when a paper will be read on "Temperance."

St. Peter's T.A.S. will tender a banquet to both lacrosse teams in the rooms on Thursday evening.

"A Trip Through Ireland," will take place in the rooms on Monday evening, when sereopticon views of the old sod will be shown.

The membership contest is booming and some lively canvassing is being done on both sides.

To Increase Your Weight.

If you are thin, weak and emaciated and want to increase your flesh and weight you should try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You can feel it doing you good from day to day, as it strikes at the root of the trouble and creates new, rich blood. You can prove that it builds up new tissue and adds flesh if you weigh yourself each week while using it.

SALESMEN PRESENT ALL HELD FIRM.

This Morning's Meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board.

CHEESE SOLD AT 11 1-4.

An Adjournment for Three Weeks to Accommodate the Deer Hunters —The Factories.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning. There were 5,536 boxes boarded and every factory excepting one received 11 1-4 cents. The following buyers were in attendance,—Messrs. Whitton, Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Rollins and Wrighton.

Before the bidding opened Mr. Cook addressed the President, stating that several of the buyers were deer hunters and they would like to see the Board adjourned for three weeks in order that the hunters may be able to be out when the season opens.

Mr. Cook moved to this effect, his motion being seconded by Mr. Rollins, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Ferguson, a salesman, asked as to whether the buyers had a right to make such a motion? Were they properly speaking, members of the Board?

Mr. Drummond held that they were.

The factories boarded as follows:

Keene	104
Warminster	116
Shearer	85
Central Smith	200
North Smith	187
Villiers	100
Warsaw	130
Westwood	200
Oakdale	150
Missing Link	200
Daisy D	85
Melrose Abby	130
Lakefield	170
Pine Grove	60
Peterborough	83
Otonabee Union	75
Maple Leaf	135
Myrtle	171
Ormonde	225
Young's Point	135
Lang	200
Fraserville	175
Indian River	110
North Dummer	85
Ballyduff	42
East Emily	117
Trawern	130
Bensfort	172
Cedardale	78
Stony Lake	50
Cavanville	238
Mt. Pleasant	90
Norwood	200
Fleetwood	200
Oak Leaf	95

Model	—

Mr. Kerr opened the bidding at 11 cents, which was followed by 11 1-16 by Mr. Whitton, 11 1-8 by Mr. Fitzgerald, and 11 3-16 again by Mr. Whitton. He called Westwood and was greeted with a reply of "No" from Salesman Blezard. Shearer and Ormonde also refused and it became evident that there was trouble ahead.

"Worse than a coal strike," remarked Buyer Cook.

Mr. Whitton gave up in despair and Mr. Fitzgerald threw out the same bait to the salesmen, but it evident that they wanted more than 11 3-16 cents. There was a cesation of business during which the buyers talked considerably, and the salesmen did likewise. Finally Mr. Whitton cried out "I'll go 1-4."

Mr. Whitton called Westwood, and the salesman shouted out in even a more positive manner than before, "No." "Keene," called out Mr. Whitton, in continuing his selections. President Drummond, who is the salesman for this factory, sat silent for an instant, and then asked the indulgence of the Board while he had a consultation with the rest of the salesmen, in order that he might learn what there was doing.

Mr. Cook stated that the coloured market at present was in the back ground, and if the buyers were to buy the cheese at 11 1-4, they could hardly get it disposed off at even a small profit.

Mr. Whitton said that as he was the top bidder he might say that he made the bid of 11 1-4 as the very outside figure. "I now withdraw that bid, and will stay with my 3-8," said Mr. Whitton. Continuing, Mr. Whitton said that he would renew his offer of 11 3-8, but a salesman shouted that it was no use. Mr. Whitton, however, called Keene, Shearer, Villiers, Westwood, Ormonde and Oak Leaf; they all refused.

Mr. Whitton at last offered 11 1-4 and called Westwood, Ormonde, Villiers, Shearer, and Oak Leaf. They accepted.

At the same price Mr. Fitzgerald took Keene, Fraserville and Myrtle.

Mr. Rollins then offered 11 1-4, calling Warminster, North Smith, Oakdale, Daisy D., Maple Leaf, Young's Point, North Dummer, Cedar Dale, Stony Lake, South Burleigh, Apsley.

At 11 1-4 Mr. Kerr named as his selections, Bensfort, Mount Pleasant, Fleetwood, East Emily, Central Smith, Cavanville, Missing Link, (100), Norwood, Melrose Abbey, Dartford, Percy, Shamrock, and Brickley. They all accepted.

Mr. Rollins added Pine Grove to his selections should they board, and then Mr. Kerr added Buckhorn at the same price.

Lang, Indian River, Otonabee Union, Warsaw and Peterborough sold to Mr. Cook at 11 1-4, and Mr. Fitzgerald added Trewern to his list.

Darlington Union sold to Mr. Cook at 11 3-8.

The Board then adjourned.

PETERBOROUGH FALL ASSIZES

Falon Receives one Year in the Central.

Proceedings Will Likely Conclude This Afternoon—A True Bill.

The first case taken up at the Assizes yesterday was that of Webb vs. the Canadian General Electric Co., in which Andrew Henry Webb, a former employee of the works, endeavoured to recover from the plaintiffs, damages to the extent of $2000, for injuries alleged to have been received from an accident which he alleges was caused through the negligence of the plaintiff's servants, or agents, in charge of a certain car which was upon a track upon which the plaintiff was working.

The line of defence was that of contributory negligence. His Lordship did not allow the case to go to the jury but dismissed it, giving the plaintiff 60 days in which to appeal if he so desired.

W. R. Riddell, K.C., and John Green for plaintiff; R. M. Dennistoun for defendants.

Wednesday, Oct. 22.

The Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice for the County of Peterborough which is now in progress before the Honourable Mr. Justice Meredith, has about cleared off its list. In fact the Court was dealing with its last case this afternoon.

In the action of Dwyer vs. Cox, a settlement was arrived at out of Court. Messrs. D. O'Connel and F. D. Kerr for plaintiff; E. B. Stone for the defendant.

Only a small amount of evidence was taken in the action of Spry vs. Spry, when His Lordship suggested an adjournment while the parties to the action might discuss the matter of a settlement. This was done and the announcement of a settlement was made to the Court.

D. O'Connel and F. D. Kerr for plaintiff; R. M. Dennistoun for defendant.

The case of Smith vs. English was referred by His Lordship to the Local Master for reference, and His Honour Judge Edmison is to-day engaged in hearing the evidence.

W. L. Payne, Colborne, for plaintiff; W. R. Riddell, K.C., and L. F. Clarry, Hastings, for defendant.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill in the criminal action against a man named Falon. This is a charge under the Charlton Act, it being alleged that the prisoner carnally knew a certain young girl under the age of fourteen years.

In the criminal case Falon was found guilty of an offence under the provisions of the Charlton Act. He was sentenced to one year in the Central Prison. The jury found him guilty of attempt.

KINMOUNT STATION BURNED.

Big Blaze in That Village Yesterday Morning—Baggage Room and Freight Shed Saved.

When the south-bound train from Haliburton, reached Kinmount yesterday morning, the villagers had just made the discovery that the G. T.R. station was on fire, and were rallying from all points to lend aid in extinguishing the flames and rescuing the contents. The building was frame and very old, and the fire spread so rapidly that despite the efforts put forth that Agent A. H. Brandon speedily came to the conclusion that it was beyond saving, and the papers and office fittings were quickly removed.

The station was one of the oldest buildings in the village and while the people regret the disappearance of a relic of former days they will be pleased to have a new building more in keeping with the importance of the place.

MITCHELL'S GREAT ADDRESS

His Reply to the Objections of the Striking Engineers.

On the reinstatement of men one delegate asked Mr. Mitchell to express his views on the subject. He immediately responded, and made one of the most important addresses he has been called on to make during the past five months. He spoke slowly and clearly, and every word was listened to with the deepest interest. It proved to be the real speech of the day. The strike leader spoke as follows:

MR. MITCHELL'S SECOND SPEECH.

Mr. Mitchell in his second speech said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention.— I desire to inform you that the president of your organization has done all he can to learn the attitude of the companies towards the men who are now on strike. As you know, the companies refuse direct negotiations with us. Through intermediaries, we have received assurance that the companies are to meet the issues fairly, that they are not disposed to blacklist the men; that they do not propose to be vindictive; that as far as possible, men are to be returned to their old places. It may take some time before that can be brought about, and it may be that some few men will not be restored to their former positions at all. When you vote on this proposition you must do it with as full knowledge as I can give you.

"Now let me emphasize this point: That the poorest boy that worked in a breaker is as dear to us as the men who ran the engines, that while we shall try with all the power we have to get every man that struck back to his old job, we will make special efforts for none and show special favors to none. We want the engineers and the firemen and the pumpmen, and the inspectors and the bosses to go back, but we do not want them to go back one bit more than we want the little breaker boys to go back. There was no single class of workmen who went out on a sympathetic strike. Every man who struck, struck for wages; he struck for exactly the same thing the miners and mine laborers struck for. As far as it is within the power of the union, we shall afford protection to every man, union or non-union, who went out on strike with us. But, gentlemen, it may be true that some will be sacrificed, and, much as we shall regret that, I desire to say that no battle was ever fought, no victory was ever won that did not carry with it some victims. Lives have been lost to gain the most brilliant victories that were ever won in the world. If it appeals to your judgment to accept the recommendations of your officers, if you decide to defer to the judgment of the President of your country, if you wish to be guided by the advice of your friends all over the land, and decide to return to work, the United Mine Workers of America will protect the man who happens to be left out of his job. In our pledge to the President of the United States, in which we notified him that we would recommend to you a resumption of work, we said that we should recommend a return of our people to their old jobs, and, if the coal companies fail to give our men their old places, if they fail to treat them reasonably, we shall carry the question to the tribunal named by the President, and ask that tribunal to decide that we are entitled to the work we left when we went on strike.

"Now, gentlemen, those are my views, I have no assurance that if you return to work on Wednesday all of you will be given back your old places. I do believe, however, that the coal companies will gradually displace the men who have your jobs and give you your old places again. I dare say that hundreds of men who were brought here from the cities and from the farms to take your places will go back to the cities and farms when you go back. I have no doubt at all that before two or three weeks have rolled by there will be no question about the reinstatement of the men. However, remember this, that when your votes are cast, I want you to cast them with the full knowledge that some of you may not get your old places back. I dare say the companies are as anxious to have competent engineers, firemen, pumpers and inspectors as you are to fill those places; and you know that the men they brought here to take your places are not competent. You all know that the men they brought here to take your places are not competent to run the hoisting engines; that the firemen they have brought here have not been successful; and, while the companies will not go out before the public and say they will "sacrifice the men who stood by them," as they call it, they will in most cases be glad to have their old and competent workmen back."

His remarks were greeted with applause. Another delegate made a speech against ending the strike without definite assurance of reinstatement, and Mr. Mitchell was again called upon for an explanation of the status of the arbitration plan as it now stands. In response to this request he said:

MR. MITCHELL'S THIRD SPEECH.

Mr. Mitchell in his third speech said:

"We have not adopted their proposition, as they made it. The proposition would never, with my consent, have been adopted as they made it. When the coal companies thought to practically name the arbitrators we objected, and secured a modification of their proposition. That modification enabled the President to select men outside of the class suggested by the operators. Organized labor is represented on the commission. I do not, however, assume that either the capitalists or the trade unionists who are on the commission will permit their special interests to influence their judgment in making their decisions; but organized labor is on that commission, and it is there because the President of the United States wanted it there, and because we would not agree to the proposition unless it was there."

After further debate the matter was left over till to-day.

A committee on resolutions was then appointed, and at 5.18 p.m. the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

The Resolutions Committee met last night and outlined a set of resolutions to be presented to the convention to-morrow.

Free Labor Association.

Leeds, England, Oct. 21. — The tenth annual congress of the Free Labor Association opened here yesterday. The delegates represented 300,000 workmen. President John Chandler made a virulent attack on trades unionism. He claimed that the growth of industrial freedom greatly tended towards the diminution of strikes and declared that trades union excesses in violation of personal freedom were a disgrace to labor in this country.

Doubtless Insane.

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Thos. Wright, who says he came from Port Arthur, Ont., was found wandering around the streets Sunday night by the police, with his throat cut. He says he committed a murder in Toronto some time ago. The police believe he is demented. His reason for cutting his throat was that all the city gates were shut, and he could not get out.

Great Banquet to R. L. Borden.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—One of the largest banquets ever tendered to a politician was given to R. L. Borden, M. P., and his party at Alhambra Hall last night by the Conservatives of Winnipeg and surrounding district. It was altogether in the nature of a love feast. Speeches were made by the honored guest of the evening, R. L. Borden, F. D. Monk, M.P., Sir Charles Tupper, E. F. Clarke, Hon. George E. Foster, W. B. Northrup, K. C., J. Clancy, M.P., Dr. Roche, M.P., Richard Blain and Sandford Evans. The whole area of Dominion politics was gone over in the speeches.

Want a Garibaldi.

Rome, Oct. 21.—Many Italians are volunteering in support of the Macedonian cause, and they have appealed to Gen. Ricciotto Garibaldi to assume their leadership. The general, however, thinks that the time is not yet ripe.

May Send Indian Troops.

London, Oct. 21.—The British Government is considering the expediency of despatching Indian troops to Somaliland to deal with the Mad Mullah.

HAD MADE HIS WILL.

Fully Expecting to Die, had Arranged all his Earthly Affairs.

How Death was Disappointed by the Happy Restoration to Health and Strength of Mr. Teeny.

Sumner, Assa., Oct. 20. (Special).—Mr. Louis Teeney of this place was so ill with Inflammation of the Bowels and Kidneys that no one ever expected him to recover. All hope had been abandoned and Mr. Teeny had made his will fully expecting that he would die.

In this extremity, Mr. Cosgrave, postmaster, thought of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and immediately gave Mr. Teeny a dose. This treatment was continued at intervals, with the result that in a very short time the man who was thought to be dying was on his feet and going around as if nothing had happened.

This remarkable cure of such an extreme case has created quite a sensation in the neighbourhood and many kind words are being said of Dodd's Kidney Pills for the wonderful work they did in Mr. Teeny's case.

This remedy has always been recognized among the people as a surecre for Rheumatism, Backache and all Kidney Troubles, but this is the first case ever reported in this vicinity, where they have been used with such quick results.

Mr. Teeny himself is very grateful to Dodd's Kidney Pills for his happy restoration.

People in and about Sumner have just about concluded that there is nothing in the way of sickness that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure, and there is scarcely a home to be found in the neighbourhood that does not contain a box of this wonderful medicine.

Men, women and children are finding out every day some new virtues in it and it is very interesting to hear them get together and compare notes as to what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done in their various homes.

LIBERALS SUPPORT HOME RULE.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Cordially Argued Their Cause.

London, Oct. 22.—In the House of Commons during the proceedings yesterday the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, cordially joined the Irish in supporting their demand that the Government fix a day to discuss the state of Ireland, but he declined to make the Liberal Opposition responsible for the demand, which, he said, was made by the constitutional representatives of Ireland and in regard to a purely Irish question.

Mr. Arthur Balfour, the Premier, retorted that Sir Henry's doctrine seemed wholly separatist. He would not admit that the Government of Ireland was a purely Irish question, and until the ambiguous attitude of the Liberal leader was cleared up he declined to say if the Government would grant a day for the discussion of the state of Ireland.

Uniform as Evening Dress.

London, Oct. 23.—Replying in the House of Commons yesterday to a member who asked whether he would take action with reference to the exclusion of soldiers in uniform from the portion of London theatres reserved for people in evening dress, the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, replied that if the principle that uniform was equivalent to evening dress was not recognized by the managers, he intended to take legal steps to secure soldiers against such exclusion.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Poison's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Pirates on the Red Sea.

Constantinople, Oct. 22.—Red Sea pirates have been raiding the Island of Dhalak, in the group belonging to Massowah (capital of the Italian colony of Eritrea). Two Italian gunboats which went in pursuit of them cornered the pirates at the Island of Midia, off the Lohela (Yemen, Arabia) coast, which the Italians briskly bombarded. The gunboats afterwards proceeded to Hefeida, the most flourishing seaport of Yemen, and demanded reparation. The Porte has promised the officials of the Italian embassy here to take measures to arrest the culprits. In the meanwhile the commander of the Italian gunboats threatened, unless prompt reparation is accorded, that he will himself take the action necessary to obtain it.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Fred Davis Arrested.

Toronto Junction, Oct. 22.—Fred Davis was placed under arrest yesterday morning. Davis has been wanted since last July on a charge of having stolen $200 and two suits of clothes, the property of Alex. Wyllie, from a boarding house at which he was staying. He was remanded until Friday, when he will be tried by Police Magistrate Ellis.

Queen as Godmother.

London, Oct. 22.—According to The Onlooker, Queen Alexandra has promised to stand godmother to the son of the Duke and Duchess of Manchester.

New Wireless System.

London, Oct. 22.—The Eastern Telegraph Company has equipped its cable ships with a new system of wireless telegraphy.

Most Dreadful of Skin Diseases

A Chronic Case of Eczema of 30 Years Standing Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment during the summer months is enormous. It is during the warm weather especially that there is such great suffering from eczema and similar skin diseases. That Dr. Chase's Ointment is a thorough cure for this torturing disease is proven in hundreds of cases similar to the following:

Mr. G. H. McConnell, engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ontario, states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema, and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed in eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description, and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me, and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

Few people realize the suffering caused by eczema and other itching skin diseases. This is an example of what Dr. Chase's Ointment is doing in the way of relieving suffering mankind. Many of the cures it brings about are more like miracles than anything else; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 6

AN OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN.

No clever, brilliant thinker, she,
With college record and degree;
She hath not known the paths of fame,
The world has never heard her name;
She walks in old, long-trodden ways,
The valleys of the yesterdays.

Home is her kingdom, love is her dower—
She seeks no other wand or power
To make home sweet, bring heaven near,
To win a smile and wipe a tear,
And do her duty day by day
In her own quiet place and way.

Around her childish hearts are twined,
As round some reverend saint enshrined,
And following hers the childish feet
Are led to ideals true and sweet
And find all purity and good
In her divinest motherhood.

She keeps her faith unshadowed still—
God rules the world in good and ill;
Men in her creed are brave and true,
And women pure as pearls of dew,
And life for her is high and grand;
By work and glad endeavor spanned.

This sad old earth's a brighter place
All for the sunshine of her face;
Her very smile a blessing throws,
And hearts are happier, where she goes,
A gentle, clear-eyed messenger,
To whisper love—thank God for her!
—L. M. Montgomery.

"DROPPING THE PILOT."

Punch's Idea of the Retirement of Lord Salisbury—Anecdotes.

When Lord Salisbury determined that he could no longer bear the burden of the Premiership, after a record innings, the announcement of his disappearance from public life must have reminded many people of Punch's famous Bismarck cartoon, "Dropping the Pilot." Those of us whose memories go back to the early eighties will not have forgotten the political excitements generated by the personal and party differences of Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain. When we study the two men, there is little more remarkable in their working together for the common good than there was in Lord Salisbury working with Mr. Disraeli. Mr. Chamberlain never said much harsher things of Lord Salisbury than Disraeli did, and Lord Salisbury has probably trusted him rather more than he trusted Lord Beaconsfield at certain times. With both it was Lord Salisbury's fate to assist in directing his country through a crisis to peace with honor.

Lord Salisbury was as nearly a self-made man as any aristocrat could be. He knew what it was to struggle to keep a family going in the days when neither the Premiership nor the Marquessate seemed likely to come his way. His life had been relieved by one great hobby—chemistry, and his devotion to his home has been characteristically English. The stories told of his peculiarities are many (says a writer in Public Opinion). There is the story of his giving up an experiment with a piece of wire in order to take office, and of his asking for that piece of wire years after, when his Government was turned out. As a working journalist, he is said to have borrowed sixpence, and to have paid it back twenty years later, when the man who lent it him, and whom he did not see again in the interval, called on him on a matter of business. Lord Salisbury's apology for keeping it so long must have been a revelation to the lender. The best anecdote, perhaps, is that of a certain energetic journalist, just appointed to an important editorship, who invited Lord Salisbury to tell him what line he would adopt in his paper in regard to national affairs. "I should have no politics," was Lord Salisbury's blandly crushing observation. Such anecdotes are characteristic of the man. He never forgets, and he was never to be drawn, unless to be drawn was to serve some special end. He was no flyer of kites.

The English Climate.

Perhaps only those who live mainly out of doors, and are moreover something of connoisseurs in climate, fully realize how few are the hours of an English year when the open air is so tempered of hot and cold and moist and dry as to be purely pleasurable to the bodily senses in a state of repose. Atmospheric conditions exciting to displays of energy are common enough, and perhaps the pleasure of vigorous exertion in sunny frost or of battling against wind and rain is greater than that which any "dolce far niente" can offer. And of course, on the moral side, everything is to be said in favor of the sterner skies; an habitual necessity of doing something to keep warm helps to breed an active race; we have all learned the debt we owe to the brave North-Easter. Yet to be able to sit still and merely enjoy the ambient air, to lie for an hour on the grass without a suggestion either of rheumatism or sunstroke, knowing that the skiey influences have for the time made truce with man, and feeling that the elements are so nicely tempered that no excess or defect will fret the fine edges of our sensoria is a harmless luxury enough; and is moreover too rare, in the seasons we know, seriously to lower the severer standard.—Saturday Review.

An Old Hawkesbury Harvest-Home.

A harvest-home in Hawkesbury, England, is thus described by a traveler, who wrote the account in September, 1824: "As we approached the isolated hamlet we were 'aware' of a May-pole—that unsophisticated trophy of innocence, gaiety and plenty; and as we drew near saw that it was decorated with flowers and ribands fluttering in the evening breeze. Under it stood a wagon with its full complement of men, women, children, flowers and corn; and a handsome pair of horses, tranquilly enjoying their share of the finery and revelry of the scene; for scarlet bows and sunflowers had been lavished on their winkers with no niggard hand. On the first horse sat a damsel, no doubt intended to represent Ceres. She had on, of course, a white dress and straw bonnet—for could Ceres or any other goddess appear in a rural English festival in any other costume? There was something very affecting in this simple festival. It had its origin, doubtless, in some of the very finest feelings that can adorn humanity—hospitality, sociality, happiness, contentment and gratitude."

A FALSE FACE.

When dyspepsia fastens on a man it changes his feelings and it changes his looks. He frowns now instead of smiling. His expression is harsh instead of kindly. He is wearing a false face—a face which does injustice to the real nobility of his nature.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition, and the record of the cure is written both in the face and the feelings of the person cured.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is not a stimulant or temporary tonic. It cures the diseases that are the cause of ill-health and builds up the body with sound flesh.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." The sole motive for substitution is to enable the dealer to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

"Last spring, early, I wrote you my feelings and condition," says Mr. A. J. Vanderwater, of 973 West Division street, Chicago, Ill., "and you advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and then write how I felt. I am happy to say I am getting to feel fine. In all I have taken six bottles of the 'Discovery' and four or five vials of the little 'Pellets.' They have done me worlds of good. All my friends say: 'Vanderwater, how well you are looking.' The medicines have made the great change in me; from the slow mope of a man that could hardly crawl, tired and sick all the time, could do no work, to a man who can work, sleep, eat, and feel fine, and that tired feeling all gone away. I am very thankful that I wrote to Dr. Pierce. His 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little liver 'Pellets' have almost made a new man of me. I feel young as I did at thirty years."

NEW FOLK-LORE.

Tale of a London Missionary to the Lower Zambesi.

A native told me this tale, says a London missionary to the Lower Zambesi, who has just returned home:

Once upon a time a Rabbit succeeded in winning the affections of an Elephant's daughter. His long silky hair and clever ways attracted the attention of the daughter of the mammoth of the jungle, and they were married. All went happy as the marriage tom-tom until the hoeing season came around. Then, as is the custom among African people, the Rabbit went forth to help his father-in-law hoe. After they had been busy hoeing some time the Rabbit's hoe became loose in the handle. Thereupon he went up to his mighty father-in-law and said: "Please, Sir, my hoe is loose; may I go and seek a large stone on which to knock it into the handle again?" "No need to go so far away, my son," said the Elephant, "Come, knock your hoe on my tusk." "Oh, no, father," replied the Rabbit, "I am afraid I should hurt you." "Hurt me, indeed," said the Elephant, indignantly, "you could not hurt me; my tusk is as hard as any stone you could find. Come, little one, and do as I bid you." So with much fear the Rabbit knocked his hoe firmly into the handle on the Elephant's tusk and then resumed his work. After a time the Elephant's hoe became loose. Then he called out to his son-in-law, the Rabbit, "Come here, my son, my hoe is loose; I want to knock it on your head to fix it in again." "Oh, no," cried the Rabbit in dismay, "you would kill me?" "But you knocked your hoe on my tusk," said the Elephant; "it is only fair you should return the favor." "But my head is not hard, like your tusk, father," said the poor Rabbit; "you would surely kill me." "Tut, tut, child, no more words; come here at once," shouted the Elephant. Seeing that further resistance was useless, the Rabbit took to his heels and fled into the forest.

Then the Elephant dropped his hoe and gave chase. After a long run the Rabbit was caught. "I have caught you at last," said the Elephant; "you shall not escape me again." So he tore some strips of bark off a tree, and twisting them into a rope, bound the Rabbit to the tree. "I am going to fetch my hoe now," he exclaimed, "and when I return I will break your skull with it." After saying this he went off, and was soon out of sight. The Elephant had not been gone long when a Hyena came by. Seeing the Rabbit bound to a tree, he asked him why he was tied up in that fashion. "Well," replied the cunning Rabbit, "I was out here in the forest cutting firewood with my father-in-law, the Elephant, and as it got near noon I began to feel very tired and hungry, having had no food since early morning, so the Elephant said he would take home the wood we had cut, and return with some meat for me. But as he was afraid I might wander away and get lost in his absence, he just tied me up to this tree, so that he will know where to find me when he returns." "Ah, I wish I had some meat," said the Hyena, licking his chops. "Here I have been wandering about in the forest for three days without a morsel to eat, and I am just ready to faint with hunger." "Poor fellow," said the Rabbit, "how I pity you! I will tell you what you shall do—just unfasten me and let me tie you up in my place, and then when the Elephant returns he will give you the meat instead of me." "You are kind," said the unsuspicious Hyena, hastening to untie the rope. Soon the Rabbit was free, and the Hyena tied up in his place.

By the time this was accomplished the Elephant was seen coming through the forest; so with a hasty "Good-bye, Hyena, I hope you will enjoy your meat," the sly Rabbit slipped away and was soon lost to sight. He was no sooner gone than the Elephant came up, and seeing the Hyena, exclaimed in astonishment: "Why, how big you have grown, Rabbit; I have only been gone a little while, and now you are ten times as big as when I left you. However, now I have got my hoe, I will break your skull with it, as I promised you." "What for, O Elephant?" exclaimed the frightened Hyena. "There is some mistake. I am not a Rabbit. I am a Hyena." "Hyena, indeed," said the Elephant. "I did not tie up a Hyena. I tied up a Rabbit. No; there is no mistake. This is the very tree to which I tied you, Rabbit. See the place where I tore off the bark. There is no mistake. I am only somewhat surprised to see how you have grown in so short a time." So without more ado the Elephant lifted up his trunk and struck the Hyena a tremendous blow on the head with his hoe, crushing right through his skull and killing him outright.

For Attaching Bottle Labels.

The best application of all, however, for attaching bottle labels is fresh egg albumen. Labels put on with this substance, and well dried at the time, will not come loose even when the bottles are put into water and left there for quite a while. Albumen, dry, is almost proof against mold or ferments. As to cost, it is but little, if any, higher than gum arabic, the white of one egg being sufficient to attach at least a hundred medium-sized labels (such as are used on soda bottles.—Canadian Druggist.

A Wrong Burial Certificates.

When a physician issues a burial certificate for one who has died of consumption or throat trouble, he should say, Cause of death, neglect to take Four T's when the cough first started. Four T's cure a cough in 24 hours and the worst cold in two days, and you get a large bottle for 25c at Ormond & Walsh's.

The Sphinx Decaying.

D. G. Longworth of the Cairo Sphinx declares that the famous Egyptian Sphinx is rapidly decaying. This is said to be the result of the altering climate of Egypt due to the irrigation of recent years. Heretofore an hour's downfall of rain once a year was a novelty in Egypt. The natives regarded it as some dire message from the gods. The irrigation and the many trees about the delta, however, have changed this. Fifteen to eighteen days' heavy rain falls now every year on the head of the sphinx. The severe "khamseen" sandstorm follows and cuts into the soddened limestone of the ancient monument, whittling it away all over the surface.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.
Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild.

Mr. Pickwick and Lord Rosebery.

"It is always best on these occasions," said Mr. Pickwick, in a famous political emergency, "to do what the mob do."

"But suppose there are two mobs?" suggested Mr. Snodgrass.

"Shout with the largest," replied Mr. Pickwick.

Lord Rosebery's career is in some degree a reflection—a refined and instructive reflection—of Mr. Pickwick's philosophy. When the country was Gladstonian he was a Gladstonian: when it was Radical, with a touch of Socialism, he was a Radical-Socialist; when it turned imperialist he turned with it. The "last phase" of Lord Rosebery's politics is indeed that which is most characteristic and sincere. Imperialism always appealed to his imagination, and its ideas penetrate Lord Rosebery's defiance of Home Rule, his personal fervor for Mr. Gladstone, his sentimental democracy. But it is inevitable with Lord Rosebery that as rivers are colored by the soil through which they flow, so he should take on every fresh shade in the complexion of the spirit of the hour. Resistance to that spirit is not in him.—H. W. Massingham in London Speaker.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

A Slight Upward Movement Noticeable To-day.

Some Market Letters of Interest—A Few Quotations.

The market was a little more buoyant to-day, slight gains being made in most cases. There were few stocks, if any, that closed below their opening prices. St. Paul opened at 190 1-4, and closed at 191 1-2; M.O.P. opened at 109 5-8, went to 111 1-4, and closed at 110 3-4. The opening and closing quotations of some of the more minor were—B.O., 103 5-8—109; U.P., 104 7-8—105 1-8; W.S.M. 78—79 3-4; Sloss, 66—67; Sugar, 123 1-2—124 3-4; Corn 50 1-8—50 3-8.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Pousssett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 22nd, 9.40 a.m.—Earnings 45 reads second week of October increase of 8.66 per cent. Sugar insiders report trade favourable. Better demand for stocks in loan crowd. Advancing exchange causes talk of possibilities of exports. A further rise of 40 per cent. in demand for sterling would make exports profitable. Treasury total purchases to date reported representing $17,000,000. Standard Oil buying in St. Paul does not indicate any change in control.

DOW, JONES & CO.

We expect further irregularity and lower prices in the stock market to-day. Scattered straggling liquidation with continued London selling and absence of substantial bull support or any extensive short interest were the weak features in trading which caused the declines. The action of the market was disappointing, and was reported to have been extremely so to leading bull interests, which was so aggressive at the end of the week. Commission house business was very light, and brokers generally reported more disposition among outsiders to sell than to buy. Failure at end of coal strike to stimulate any new buying is not a surprise, as that factor has been discounted in rise last week. The strength of foreign exchange in demand sterling advancing to 4.84 8-10—to within one point of gold shipping point, has attracted renewed attraction to the money situation. We still believe stocks a sale on all rallies.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 21st.—The strike has accomplished one thing, as to this there can be no dispute. Bituminous coal will from now on, be more largely used than ever before. The ability to so burn it as to minimize the smoke nuisance, and its comparative cheapness as against anthracite, will make it used by many manufacturing interests from now on, that formerly used anthracite exclusively. One large New England manufacturer, who burns about ten thousand tons of coal per month, says he believes his concern will continue to use the soft coal, as it will be a great saving for his company. There is without doubt many users of coal in the anthracite region who will not return to the use of the hard and more costly product. The roads that are going to benefit by this state of affairs, as they have been doing all through the strike period, are the bituminous roads. The rise in Norfolk and W. and C. & O, and B. & O. were largely brought about through the results of the strike. They are going to retain many of the newly forced users of their product, and it will guarantee to these concerns a greatly increased demand from now on. We believe the prices of all such shares will increase wondrously as a result of the strike. It will be for some time before anthracite comes into the markets in sufficient volume to satisfy the demand, so for some months to come the soft coal carriers will continue to be the beneficiaries. In the manufacturing way they will be permanently benefitted. There is a lot of meaning in these facts. They will have an important bearing upon the business earnings and prices for the soft coal stocks in the future. Many people will be compelled to re-adjust their estimates of their value within the next six months. As to the hard coal stocks the settlement now under way guarantees to them for a period of three years tranquility, as far as the differences between capital and labour are concerned. They will be as busy as they possibly can be from now on, resupplying the exhausted reserves throughout the land and the urgent demand of the country at the present time facing the cold period. Coal will probably not go within a dollar and one half per ton all this winter to the prices at which it has hitherto been sold. The coal carriers will in this way make up largely for the losses incurred through the strike period.

New York, Oct. 21st.—There was a further re-action in the share markets to-day. Our advice in last Friday's and Saturday's letter, to close out long stocks, so as to be in position to take them back on re-action then due, was well timed. We now suggest taking back all long stocks on a scale order to buy, and should you not have all re-secured, should the market get stronger, buy them at market. The market now looks as if re-acton had run its course. The lower prices are accompanied by dullness. Stocks do not come out on the decline. The next market change should be for the better. Money closed 5 per cent. Sales 801,300.

FEW FACTS ON RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Peterborough People Being Educated in the Game.

THE METHODS OF SCORING.

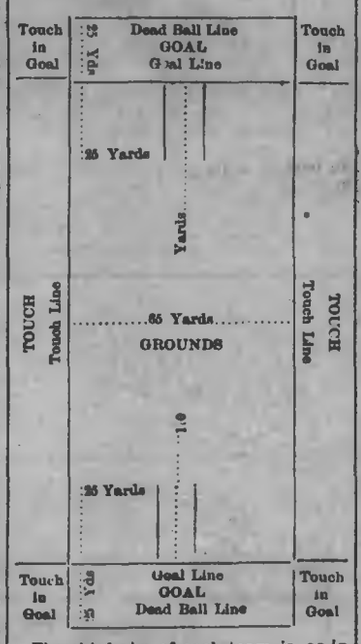
Some Interesting Information for the Benefit of Those Who are not yet up in the Game.

During the Rugby season. the remark is often heard at a match here, "I don't quite understand that." This is so often heard, that it would, it seems, be well, for the benefit of those who do not understand the salient points of the game, to give a short resume on Rugby.

A Rugby team is composed of fifteen players, and is divided is follows, one back, three half backs, one quarter back, and ten men on the line, the latter forming up across the centre of the field. The three men in the centre are known as scrimmage men, and the other seven as wings, so divided that there shall be four on one side and three on the other side of the scrimmage. The two on each side of the scrimmage are known as inside wings, and it is their duty to protect their own quarter back and to break through on their opponents. Next on each side are the middle wings and it is their work to protect their own halves and to break through on their opponents. Then there is the odd man, known as the flying wing, and outside on each side are the outside wings. These are to check the rushes of the other team, and to follow down all kicks, etc.

At the beginning of a game, or after a score, the ball is taken to the centre of the field, and started in play by one side or the other kicking it at least five yards. At any other time, except in case of a free kick, or a "throw in," the ball is always put in play by the scrimmage. The ball has to be placed on the ground in front of the centre man of the scrimmage, and must by him by kicked forward or kicked backward. It is the duty of the man on each side of the centre "scrim," to so support him that he may be able to do this without being pushed by the opposing scrimmage away from the ball.

The field on which they play is 65 yards by 110 yards, and is divided by lines as follows:



The chief aim of each team is, as in all games, to secure a larger score than their competitors, and this may be made up in several ways, viz., by a touch down, 4; from a goal made by a drop kick, in course of play, 5; a goal from a free kick, gained by making a fair catch, 4; a goal made from a free kick awarded as a penalty for wrong doing, 2; and a rouge, 1.

As there are a number of terms used that to the uninitiated, are unintelligible, and which are not explained in the rule book in such a manner that he who runs may read and understand, an endeavour will be made to explain a few of these expressions in the simplest manner possible.

In piling up a score the "touch down" is the chief means used, and therefore it is for these that every player strives. Should a player succeed in getting the ball across his opponent's goal line, and touch it on the ground, he has secured for his team what is known as a "touch down," or a "touch," the value of which is four points. Then the ball is taken into the field to a point directly opposite the spot where it was touched down, and the team which has secured the touch may try to kick the ball over the bar, and between the posts, or the posts produced. This is called "converting," and should the kick be successful two more points are gained, making six points in all for a touch down and the converting of it.

A goal is made by kicking the ball over the bar between the posts, or the posts produced. Should any player catch the ball from an opponent's kick, and without being obstructed make a mark at the same time with his heel, he in turn has a free kick and should he score a goal his team receives four points. Should a free kick be obtained as a penalty and a goal made from this the team making the goal counts two. It should be noted here that there are three kinds of kicks, a punt made by kicking the ball from the hand; a drop kick made by dropping the ball from the hand and kicking it as it touches the ground, and a place kick made by placing the ball on the ground before kicking. It is only from either of these last two that a goal may be scored.

Another word that is not generally understood is the term rouge. A rouge may be made in several ways. Suppose that a player receives the ball behind his own goal line and cannot well have time to get away with it or kick, he touches it down himself, making a rouge, and the opposing team counts one point. Then when the ball or a player getting it is in what is shown in the diagram as "touch in goal," it constitutes a rouge, or if a player with the ball runs on or across his own dead line. Such are the means by which a score may be compiled. Now for a few of the rules.

The chief rules of football, literally speaking, are, first,—That no one shall throw the ball forward in any degree, but must always throw backward. Next comes the offside rule. There are few people in Peterborough who do not know what an offside in hockey is. An offside in rugby is almost the same thing. No member of a team can be in front of the ball and either interfere with an opponent or handle the ball unless he is put onside by one of the opposing side handling the ball or by the man of his own team who has last kicked the ball running up abreast or ahead of him. This is as it is in hockey only substitute puck for ball. If during a scrimmage a player becomes offside, the side not offending is given a free kick, but if a referee believes that players are getting offside purposely he may give the other team a gain of ten yards, and order a scrimmage there. But should a man be offside and the ball kicked to his opponent he must remain five yards away from the ball and not interfere with the catch. When his opposing player starts to run or play the ball he may then tackle or impede him.

These are a few of the rules and terms of the game simplified, and it is hoped that they may help some of the supporters of the game to understand it better.

RUGBY.

The Ottawa Citizen complains of the O.R.F.U. executive appointing a Toronto referee for the Rough Rider-Argonaut match. It claims that one should have been selected from Hamilton or Kingston where there are more capable and fairer officials. The Citizen demands that the union's name be changed from "Ontario" to "Toronto," as the Argonauts are the only team to get favours, in fact they get everything they want. However, it is long since recognised that Ontario and Toronto are synonymous, and that little towns like Kingston, Hamilton and Ottawa, are no doubt relegated to corner lot positions in New Ontario, which is not a hog-raising country.

Port Perry, we understand, are going in for O.H.A. honours this winter. They are arranging to place a strong seven in the intermediate series, and have so far secured the services of Mr. H. Callaghan and C. Dennistoun, formerly of this town. They have also secured Pargnet, of the Orillia Club. The Port boys won the Grand Challenge Cup last year at the Markham tournament, and will no doubt give a good account of themselves in O.H.A. company. — Lindsay Post.

"Shadow" Mafer, who fought with "Kid" McCoy, and other clever boxers, was in town to-day looking over the ground, and received good encouragement. He will return from Toronto in a few days to make final arrangements and expects to secure a large class of students.—Post.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY.

Sunday School Workers in All Saints Church—The Proceedings.

The Anglican Sunday school workers of town gathered in convention in All Saints Sunday school room, on Monday night, and spent a most profitable two hours. The large attendance showed the hearty interest in the work, and was inspiring to those taking active part.

The meeting opened with singing and prayer, and Rev. W. L. Armitage who acted as chairman, briefly outlined the objects and importance of such gatherings.

Miss Williamson, teacher of the infant class of St. Andrew's church, then gave a practical illustration of her methods. She applied the principles of Kindergarten work to the lesson, "The Fall of Jericho," with a class of little ones, using blocks to represent the walls and the houses on the walls, and a scarlet cord to mark the house of Rahab; also imitation soldiers, priests, and the Ark of the Covenant. Several present spoke of the advantage of such methods and congratulated Miss Williamson on her clever handling of her lesson.

The next part of the programme was the teaching of next Sunday's lesson by Mrs. Grundy-Jackson, of St. John's Sunday school. This was much appreciated and drew forth considerable discussion. The lesson was thoroughly gone into, and many beautiful points brought out, and many helpful passages of Scriptures applied.

The Rev. J. C. Davidson then followed with an address on "Distinctive Church Teaching in the Sunday School." His main divisions were on the two great parts, the Bible and the church. Each was beautifully portrayed in its importance, while care was urged as to the proper teaching of them to avoid narrowness and bigotry. At the same time we should know why we are what we are — members of the Church of England — why we have our distinctive services and methods. The teaching of the catechism was dealt with, which showed no bigotry, but that which was the great need of the present day—the obligations of duty—duty to God and duty to man.

Bible Class Work, was the subject of a splendid address by Mr. J. J. Turner, jr. He spoke more especially of his work in the Bible class of St. Luke's church, but gave some helpful ideas and plans for this work.

The time being limited, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt spoke briefly on "The Opportunities and Rewards of Sunday School Work," showing the great opportunities afforded in reaching possibly great lives at an impressionable age, and the rewards, now and in eternity, for the bringing of souls to Christ.

The thanks of the meeting were tendered to those who took part, and especially to Miss Williamson, of St. Andrew's Sunday school. It was agreed to hold such meetings quarterly and committees will be appointed from each Sundays chool to make final arrangements.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Whatever you want to help you with your "garden in the window" you will find in excellent bloom and foliage at the West End Greenhouses, 355 Park street, residence of G. M. Roger. Telephone 21b. A. Blade, Manager.

—Some idea of the immense grain traffic on the Grand Trunk Midland Line, is shown by the statement of an engine driver, who went north on Sunday, that between Belleville and Peterborough he met seven heavily laden trains, of perhaps 30 or 40 cars each holding on an average 800 bushels of grain.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

For these reasons we announce that our proprietors are the principal shareholders in

The Turn of The Weather

Now we have the interval between Fall and Winter—a season of cold, wet and muddy days.

Most men are becoming anxious about their Heavy Suits and Overcoats. Many men don't leave their measure until they can't delay any longer, and many others get ready all at once and come at the same time.

Would it be well to come just a little ahead of busy time—tomorrow for instance—and give us a chance to bestow all the care we would like on your orders.

HE PARRIED QUERIES.

Under-Secretary Lord Cranborne Juggles With Words.

HE GAVE ALL EVASIVE REPLIES.

Reported That a Secret Treaty Exists Between Germany and Great Britain —Portuguese East Africa in the House of Commons — Premier Balfour as a Tactician—He Badgers Opposition.

London, Oct. 23.—The general belief that a secret treaty is in existance between Germany and Great Britain relative to the prospective division of the Portuguese possessions in South Africa, received further confirmation in the House of Commons yesterday, owing to the evasive replies of Under Secretary Cranborne to questions on the subject. The Secretary parried all queries, saying that, if such a treaty existed he, in the nature of things, was precluded from giving its terms.

Balfour as a Tactician.

The Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, again supported Patrick O'Brien's request for a day, saying that, since the Premier had declined the concession, "on the mere request of the Irish members," he, as a Scotchman, gladly supported the request.

Mr. Balfour explained that he could only grant a day at Sir Henry's request, on the understanding that the motion took the form of a vote of censure of the Government, and that it was supported by the Opposition, as a whole. The Liberal leader, however, disclaimed any such intention. He refused to identify himself as completely with the Nationalists, although he strongly contended that the request of the Irish members should be granted.

Mr. Balfour said: "I think the right hon. gentleman had better make up his mind. If he cannot go any further, and take a full plunge, he had better defer this discussion."

Sir Henry resented what he termed a discourtesy, but Mr. Balfour disavowed any such intention.

During the altercation William O'Brien, T. P. O'Connor and others interjected comments on Mr. Balfour's "insulting attitude towards the Irish," and the discussion concluded with William O'Brien exclaiming: "If we are not given a day, we will take one."

William O'Brien afterward gave notice of a resolution, declaring that, in the opinion of the House, the operation of the Crimes Act in Ireland was not justified by the condition of the country, was unfair in its application, opposed to civilized usage in the manner of its administration, and calculated to undermine respect for the law, estrange the people of Ireland and deeply injure the interests of peace between England and Ireland.

The Nationalists refrained from voting on any of the amendments to the Education bill.

Fight For the Control of London's "Tube" Railways Expensive.

London, Oct. 23.—The fight for the control of London's "tube" railroads has caused a very unusual amount of comment and discussion in the London newspapers yesterday morning. On the whole, satisfaction seems to be felt at the discomfiture of the Morgan group, whose expenses in pushing their bill through Parliament are estimated to approach $500,000.

The Daily Mail says: "Under the new conditions the more modest schemes of the British promoters may have better chances of success."

On all sides the necessity is urged of some central advisory authority to deal with the transit needs of London instead of the present chaotic procedure.

Fourth Flood of Year.

Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 23.—The fourth flood of this year overflowed the territory at the mouth of Skunk River yesterday, putting 2,000 acres under water. A heavy rainfall in Poweshiek and other counties on the upper Shunk River caused the rise, which was rapid. The water rose five inches in three hours yesterday, and 10 inches in 10 hours, after the heaviest of the flood had arrived. There is considerable damage.

Drowned on Siberian Coast.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 23. — Steamer Kinshu Maru, which arrived last night, brings news of the drowning of nine Americans and Europeans as a result of the capsizing of a launch on the Siberian coast. Included were Messrs. Steele and Monaud, the latter the founder of the Monaud Hospital in Seattle.

Harvey Rummans Is Guilty.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—After deliberating for about an hour yesterday, the jury who heard the case of Harvey W. Rummans, charged with stealing money and tickets from the Street Railway fare-box, returned a verdict of guilty.

Moving Western Wheat.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 23.—Down to noon yesterday, 13,982,000 bushels of wheat of this season's crop had been marketed on the lines of the Canadian Pacific in Manitoba and the Territories. The quantity marketed for the same period last year was not quite 9,000,000 bushels.

Special War Gratuity.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—A despatch has been received from the Colonial Office, stating that members of the South African Constabulary who were employed in South Africa between Oct. 10, 1899, and May 31, 1902, are entitled to the special war gratuity.

Parkhill, Oct. 23.—Pintler's evaporator was burned yesterday afternoon. It is a total loss.

TO JOIN THE TORIES.

An Invitation from Ottawa Citizen to Mr. Tarte to Do So.

WAS RESIGNATION DEMANDED?

The Ex-Minister of Public Works Denies That His Portfolio Was Demanded by Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Evidence in the Matter Against Mr. Tarte—Premier Went Straight to the Point.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—In an interview published by The Ottawa Citizen the ex-Minister of Public Works states that the Premier did not demand his resignation, but he sent it in of his own volition.

Mr. Tarte says: "The Prime Minister states in his letter that on Sunday he intimated to me that I would have to give up my portfolio. Sir Wilfrid is, unintentionally, no doubt, in error as to that. He did me the honor to call upon me on Sunday, and we discussed the position. I frankly admit that he found fault with my utterances. I explained to him—not for the purpose of having him to retain me as his colleague, but for the sake of argument and truth—that I had spoken in his presence exactly as I had done since he left, and this statement of mine he did not deny. In point of fact, it cannot be disputed. However, after having talked matters over, I told him that he might take my resignation that very moment. He answered me that he was not in the habit of coming to hasty conclusions. I have the greatest respect for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He and I have always been good personal friends. Well, I agreed to wait, as requested by him, although I told him that I did not see any possibility of agreement. On Monday morning I called upon him at his office, after I had been telephoned by him to do so. There I repeated to Sir Wilfrid what I had said—the day before, namely, that my portfolio was at his immediate disposal. I left for Toronto at 11 a. m., and after reflection on the way to Toronto, I made up my mind it was no use leaving things in abeyance. So I sent in my resignation. These are the facts; but again, let me say these details have no great importance."

Evidence Against Mr. Tarte.

Mr. Tarte observes that the fact of whether he was asked to resign or whether he tendered his resignation voluntarily is a mere detail, yet he labors energetically to prove that the latter is the case. Circumstantial evidence however, apart from the Premier's statement, points unmistakably to the fact that Mr. Tarte was asked to withdraw from the Cabinet. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned from Europe he lost no time in coming to Ottawa. He announced to his friends that important business called him to the capital. It now appears that the important business in question was the consideration of Mr. Tarte's position. At the earliest possible moment after his arrival Sir Wilfrid saw Mr. Tarte, and that the former then demanded the latter's resignation there is little room for doubt. The Premier on this point says: "After having seen you on Sunday last, and having expressed to you my well-settled opinion upon the consequences of your recent attitude, my first duty was to wait upon his Excellency the Governor-General to inform him that I was obliged to demand the resignation of your portfolio." On Monday morning another interview took place, at the close of which Sir Wilfrid conferred with the Governor-General. At this conference what took place? The Premier could not announce Mr. Tarte's resignation, as he had not resigned. It is clear that he must have informed his Excellency that he had asked the Minister of Public Works to give up his portfolio. After seeing Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Tarte went to his department and told some of his subordinates that he might resign. On the way to Toronto he decided to comply with his leader's request, and hence the Premier received the resignation yesterday morning.

Tories Would Welcome Him.

The Ottawa Citizen yesterday morning invited Mr. Tarte to join the Conservative ranks. It argues that his retirement will be injurious to the Liberal party and declares:—"Whether he resorts to the slower and less satisfactory method of instituting a third party or the more effective and decisive action of allying himself with the Conservatives, with whose views he is practically in accord, the result will be the same."

Municipal Telephone System.

Fort William, Oct. 23.—Connection has been established with Port Arthur across the wires of the municipal telephone system. An interchange of courtesies between the mayors of Port Arthur and Fort William constituted the first official message across the two towns. DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN.

Mrs. E. B. Bradshaw, of Guthrie, Okla., cured of a severe case by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary medical treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects as well.

Thousands of testimonial letters prove beyond question that nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It always works in harmony with the female system.

Mrs. Pinkham advises sick women free. Address Lynn, Mass.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Whatever the abstract merits of Mr. Tarte's position the Laurier Government need not be ashamed of the cause of his retirement in comparison with the cause of his break with the Conservative Government in 1892. Comparisons are odious, but the odium is all on the side of the first Government Mr. Tarte "shook."

In demanding the resignation of Mr. Tarte Sir Wilfrid Laurier, says the Farmer's Sun, took the only course that was open to him. Under our system of Government the unity of the Cabinet in face of the country is essential, and in openly advocating a line of policy distinct from that of the Government Mr. Tarte rendered his continuance in office impossible.

According to Sir Wilfrid Laurier it is treason to the Government to talk protection, but the best of patriotism to advocate a policy that will smash Canada's industries. — Mail and Empire.

Rot is a mild term to apply to a charge of the Liberal policy "smashing Canadian industries," in face of the fact that in the six years under Liberal rule, Canadian industries have worked more hours over-time than they worked full time in any six years of the high protection Conservative tariff.

ATTACKING THE BRITISH PREFERENCE.

Ottawa Journal, (Independent.)

Reference has occasionally been made by the Journal to the probability that a cry for a higher Canadian tariff, while ostensibly directed against the United States, is equally intended to hit our tariff preference to Britain and the rest of the Empire. The latter factor of the movement is usually kept in the background, for the more astute Conservatives realise that the British preference is popular except possibly in the Province of Quebec. But the industries from which the most strenuous demand comes for a higher tariff, in particular the woollen industry, are those which are affected by the tariff preference to Britain; and it is this preference they most intend to strike at. While usually the Conservatives keep this fact in the background, they do not disguise it. The Journal recently quoted Mr. Monk, the Conservative leader in Quebec, as saying that the British preference was disastrous, and should be abolished. Mr. Henderson, M.P. for Halton, a prominent Ontario Conservative, declared in parliament his keen desire to "maim and wound and hamper this preferential tariff." He said:

"If we had fifty of a majority on this side of the House, we would very soon repeal it. I would have no hesitation any day in recording my vote in this House to wipe out the preferential tariff."

He is also on record in Hansard as follows:

"If these gentlemen (Western Liberal M.P.s) would join us in voting down this preferential tariff and give us an opportunity of doing something to help them they would find a justification for their votes."

These sentiments met no criticism from other Conservatives. Many similiar Conservative intimations, though less direct, are on record.

Now is found in Mr. Tarte's campaign the same view, not protruded, but palpable. In his speech at Ganaoque, Mr. Tarte spoke of his readiness to do away with the British preference. And that idea is advocated by La Patrie, the paper owned by Mr. Tarte's sons. La Patrie on Friday had an article summing up the political and tariff situation from Mr. Tarte's standpoint. Here Britain is ranked with foreign countries, as regards our tariff. La Patrie says:

"The powerful industrial organizations of the United States, the manufacturers of Germany and Austria, and those of England, throw their surplus products upon our market. We have always been obliged to import a great many things.

"There is no country in the world capable of producing all the products of other countries. Our importations from the United States, from England and from other countries have always been of considerable volume, but it is certain that we can largely reduce this volume to the great advantage of the Dominion."

Upon this basis, namely, the treatment of the rest of the British empire as foreign to us, La Patrie cries, "This is what we demand — the improvement of the tariff of 1897."

Mr. Tarte and the Conservative leaders are thus at one, not merely in their demand for higher tariff against the United States, but in their desire to abolish the tariff preference to Britain, or—to be literally accurate, though the meaning remains the same—to render the general tariff so high that a so-called British preference, even if allowed to remain, would be of no effect. This being the case, those who believed in a revenue tariff—a comparatively low tariff—and those whose hearts are warm for the British bond, whatever their tariff views may be, need to be prepared to act together. Those who are for honourable British connection, and those who are against protectionism as now advocated in Canada, must make common cause, or both will be overthrown. The flag follows trade. If we shut out British and Australasian and South African goods from tariff favour, compelling our British brothers to meet here on equal tariff terms the competition of the United States, overwhelming through advantages of proximity and knowledge of our markets, our business with Britain and the rest of the empire must necessarily grow less and less, our kinship less remembered, our sentiments less kindly. We shall prove that we think as much of the foes of the empire, or the aliens to it, as of our own British kin overseas. We shall prove that blood is not thicker than water. Whatever political party comes to be ranked against that, the Journal will be with it.

OUR OWN ANTHRACITE.

Favourable Reports Respecting Chelmsford Coal.

German Geologist Says it is Anthracite and not Anthraxolite—Large Percentage of Carbon—Further Investigation on Foot.

Anthracite in Ontario, is the announcement made by parties concerned in some recent tests and examinations of coal in the vicinity of Chelmsford, 20 miles northwest of Sudbury. For some years a deposit of carboniferous material at that point has been known, but in its early days the boom was snuffed out by a Provincial geologist calling the discovery anthraxolite. Nevertheless it was used as fuel by persons living near by, although it left considerable ash. For some weeks past interest has revived, and a German geologist connected with one of the large nickel companies at Sudbury, has just given it as his opinion that the mineral is no other than anthracite, a precious article recently known and revered as black diamonds. A Toronto gentleman connected with the property, made this announcement to a representative of the Globe a few days ago: "Even if it were anthraxolite," he said, "it would be just as combustible and as good material for use as anthracite, but anthraxolite is found in smaller quanities. The percentage of carbon in the Chelmsford article has been found to be very high. Picked pieces have gone 95 per cent., and when mixed even with quartz it has shown 65 per cent. of carbon. As far as it has been exposed the outcropping is increasing apparently in size. Some Pennsylvania coal experts who have recently examined the property say that the slate found in apposition to the coal is of exactly similar quality to that found in the anthracite beds of Pennsylvania. It is only a question of development to see how large is the quantity."

It is stated that some Pennsylvania coal people people have become interested in the property and that energetic development work will be prosecuted at once.

In connection with the early unfavourable reports presented regarding this deposit by Ontario authorities, it is interesting to recall that cold water was similarly poured by scientists upon early discoveries of iron in the famous Messaba range of Northern Michigan, upon the gold of Cripple Creek, and upon the gold in the granite rocks of Hastings County.

TRANSFER OF LICENSES.

A Meeting of the East Peterborough Commissioners.

A meeting of the License Board of the East Riding of Peterborough was held on Saturday. The inspector, Mr. J. J. Orowe, produced a letter from Mr. P. Gallagher, License Inspector, of East Nothumberland, giving a satisfactory recommendation of Mr. King, of Hastings, who has lately taken over the McGregor House, Norwood, which has up until the present been run by Mr. White. The transfer of the license was accordingly made. The transfer of the licenec of the Westwood Hotel from Mr. John Doherty to Mr. Con. Heffernan, of Asphodel, was also put through.

To Increase Your Weight.

If you are thin, weak and emaciated and want to increase your flesh and weight you should try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You can feel it doing you good from day to day, as it strikes at the root of the trouble and creates new, rich blood. You can prove that it builds up new tissue and adds flesh if you weigh yourself each week while using it.

GREAT SHOOTING

At Rice Lake—Seventy Wild Ducks Bagged.

Mr. James Wedlock, of "Frogmore," on the banks of the Otonabee River, and Wm. Thompson, also of South Monaghan, had a great day's shooting on Friday of last week. In White's Bay, near Harwood, Rice Lake, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. they bagged 64 wild ducks, and they finished the day with a total of 70 birds. The ducks were for the most part red-heads and blue-bills.

AN IDEAL MEDICINE.

A New Discovery Which Cures all Forms of Catarrh.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medicine, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted. There is now, however, an excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh in tablet form, known as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and sold by druggists, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicine for cure of catarrh and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

The old time treatment of catarrh was in the form of inhalers, washes, douches, sprays, etc. Later on internal remedies were used with greater success, but being in liquid or powder form were inconvenient to use and like all medicines in liquid or powder form, lose their medicinal properties when opened or exposed to the air.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, contain highly concentrated antiseptics, Hydrastin, Blood root, and Red gum which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membrane, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, because all authorities are now agreed that catarrh is a constitutional blood disease, and local applications can have only a transitory effect.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays is a nuisance and inconvenience and can in no wise compare favourably with the same antiseptics given in tablet form internally, where they can reach the stomach and blood and kill catarrh germs right where they are produced.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for twelve years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucus from the nose into the throat caused irritation and hoarseness, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, expectorating, gagging and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cleared my head, throat and stomach and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have no trace of catarrh."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package.

They can be carried in the pocket and used any time and as often as desired since they contain no cocaine, mercury or any other injurious drug.

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD.

1531 Boxes Boarded at Monday Morning's Sale.

Salesmen Named the Price They Want Wanted and Buyers Objected Paying it.

(Lindsay Post.)

The salesmen stood firm at the meeting of the Victoria Cheese Board held Monday morning, and as a result Buyers Flavelle and Fitzgerald experienced considerable difficulty in convincing them that they should accept their offer of 11 1-8c., allowing for shrinkage.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese placed opposite:

Star	107
Cameron	110
Dunsford	145
Mariposa	90
Janetville	50
Omemee	135
Fenelon Falls	60
North Verulam	125
North Ops	80
Pine Grove	54
Reaboro	125
Bobcaygeon	170
Maple Leaf	80
Palestine	75
Red Rock	135
	1,531

How the Bidding Went.

Mr. Flavelle started the bidding by calling 10 3-4c., Mr. Fitzgerald raised it to 10 13-16c, Mr. Flavelle made it 10 7-8c, and Mr. Fitzgerald jumped to 11c. Mr. Fitzgerald then went a point better, making it 11 1-16c, and after careful consideration, causing about ten minutes' delay, Mr. Fitzgerald raised it to 11 1-8c. Mr. Flavelle refused to go higher, so Mr. Fitzgerald called Star, Dunsford, Omemee, North Ops, Pine Grove, Reaboro, and Maple Leaf, meeting with a refusal.

Mr. Fitzgerald called Omemee, North Ops, Reaboro, Maple Leaf and Pine Grove, securing 716 boxes; and Mr. Flavelle took Cameron, Mariposa, Fehelon Falls, North Verulam, Bobcaygeon, Palestine, Red Rock, Star, Dunsford and Janetville, securing 815.

Mr. Robertson wanted to know if any of the salesmen had interviewed their respective cheesemakers relative to the work done by Mr. Hall, the inspector. It was the opinion of all the salesmen that Mr. Hall had given fairly good satisfaction.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Nov. 3rd.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

NORWOOD WEEKLY BUDGET.

Regular Monthly Meeting Board of Education.

Mr. Anderson Retires From the Banking Business—Some Personal Mention.

Norwood's Fair is over for another year and the directors have good reason to feel proud of its success.

CORRUPTION CHARGED

The North Wentworth and North Perth Election Cases.

THE PARTICULARS FILED IN EACH

Dates For the Trial of These Election Petitions Fixed—Cross-Petitions Also Filed—The Bribery Fund Charge in North Wentworth—$500 For Distribution Corruptly in the Riding.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—At Osgoode Hall yesterday particulars were filed in the North Wentworth and North Perth election cases, which will be tried respectively on Nov. 4 at Hamilton, and next Tuesday at Stratford. The petitioner in the former case is A. R. Wardell of Dundas, the defeated Conservative candidate, and the respondent R. A. Thompson, M. P. P.-elect.

In North Perth, John Brown; the defeated Liberal candidate, is the petitioner, and J. C. Monteith, the respondent. There are also cross-petitions in both cases, particulars of which have been filed.

North Wentworth Charges.

Altogether there are 57 charges in the Wentworth case, some of which are: That Patrick Green, hotelkeeper, S. Frank Smith, auctioneer, and John Burke, license commissioner, all of West Flamboro, agents of the respondent, directly or indirectly threatened and practiced intimidation upon Luke Dooley of West Flamboro, to compel him to refrain from voting.

That Chas. M. Jarvis, license commissioner, of Dundas, an agent, threatened Otto Shoan, hotelkeeper, of East Flamboro, to compel him to refrain from voting.

That Jarvis also threatened Matthew Ryan, hotelkeeper, of East Flamboro; that John Burke, license commissioner, threatened John Eagle, hotelkeeper, of Bullock's Corners; that Jarvis threatened Robert T. Lunaway, hotelkeeper, of West Flamboro; that Jarvis threatened T. L. Robertson, hotelkeeper, of the Township of Beverley.

Charges of impersonation were also laid.

Counter Charges Preferred.

In the cross-petition these charges are made: "That Clark Popper of East Flamboro, offered $5 to Adam Black, to induce him to vote for Wardell; John Campbell, aged 18, personated his father, J. W. Campbell, in Dundas; Henry Camp and Charles B. Parkes were promised their day's wages to vote for Wardell; John W. Dickson, an agent, gave $18 to Thomas Burns, of Dundas, to bet upon the result of the election; John Enright of Dundas promised Edmund Zass of West Flamboro, $10 to vote for Wardell; Robert McNicholl gave William Campbell of Beverley Township, $1 to vote for Wardell; Edmund Dayman offered John Goodale $1 for his vote."

The bribery fund charge reads: "The respondent as a member of the Conservative Union and Association, received from them $500 to be expended in corrupt practices, and that he and his agents so expended the money."

Particulars in North Perth.

In the North Perth case some of the charges made are:

That the respondent, through Andrew Gabel of Wallace Township, gave or agreed to give, money to Adam Gabel to refrain from voting against him.

That the railway fare of William Field of Woodstock, was paid; that the respondent, through Charles Cassens, became bail for Joseph Marten to procure his release from imprisonment, and provided Marten with drink and other refreshments, to induce him to vote for the respondent, or refrain from voting against him.

That the railway tickets and traveling expenses of one R. Thos. Orr of Waterloo, were paid to come to Stratford and vote; also the traveling expense of Chris. Gagen, to come to Stratford. Traveling expenses also of Chas. Filey of Toronto; Joseph Doyle of Stratford, to go to Owen Sound, and refrain from voting; Alexander Foster of Toronto, and Charles Wilson of Toronto, are alleged to have been paid.

That George Near of Stratford was offered a receipt of a month's rent by Nelson Monteith.

That the respondent, through his agents, provided refreshments to R. R. Forest and 10 others.

That the respondent, through agents, paid to John Nealon, a voter, $50, to be used in betting on the election.

That the respondent, through himself and Dr. Monteith, agreed to give Dennis Mullen of Stratford a discharge of indebtedness of Mullen to Dr. Monteith; also a similar discharge to Lewis Peters, and John Armstrong of the Township of North-east Hope.

That money for corrupt purposes was paid to James Steele, Ed. Sidney Smith, K.C., Charles Casson, J. J. Coughlin, Stephen Mallion, Arch. McArdle, George Close, James Sharmon, Dr. Monteith, Benjamin Williams, Jas. B. Gillis, Felix Devlin, Thomas Steele and A. H. Monteith.

That the respondent, by himself, and through John J. Haggarty, bet $5 with John Nelson on the result of the election.

That money was paid to induce them to vote, to John Chance, John Dunn of Stratford; Markham Reynolds of Stratford, and John Nealon of Stratford.

The Cross Petition.

That George M. Reid, stationer, of London; Chas. S. Hyman, M. P., manufacturer of London, Thos. Lewis, saloonkeeper, London; John O'Gorman, commercial traveler, London, and Wm. Malloy, agent, London; all agents of John Brown, furnished to Robert T. Harding of Stratford, barrister-at-law, or to some other agent of the said John Brown, whose name is at present unknown, a large sum of money, which was to be used as a fund for the purpose of promoting and procuring the election of the said John Brown, and for the purpose of bribing or corruptly influencing voters.

RETURNING TO WORK.

Miners Preparing For Resumption of Coal Mining.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 23.—Thousands of men began work yesterday repairing the mines and placing the collieries in condition for the general resumption of coal mining, which will take place throughout the anthracite region to-day. Those men who are directly engaged in cutting and handling coal will return to the mines this morning. Reports were received here yesterday that scores of non-union men have given up their positions and are leaving the region.

Looks Fairly Well.

London, Oct. 23.—If the British Government again refuses to remove the embargo against Canadian cattle, which, indeed, is only removable by act of Parliament, it seems probable that the request of the Canadian Government will be acceded to that the period within which Canadian cattle must be slaughtered after landing at Deptford and other ports will be extended from 10 days to a further period. Overwhelming evidence presented from Ottawa makes it impossible for the Board of Agriculture to longer maintain that any danger of disease from Canadian cattle exists. The urgent request from the Argentine Government for the admission of Argentine cattle on an equal footing with Canadian will not likely be granted.

Centralization in St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 23.—The Minister of the Interior, von Plehwe, has perfected a sweeping scheme by which the whole municipal administration of the capital will be practically handed over to the Government. Most of the urban liberties will be suppressed, the police will be controlled entirely by the Government, franchise for election to the City Council will be largely restricted and the city's funds will be placed under the control of the Government, which will, in short, appoint all the city officers and take general direction of municipal affairs.

Senate Will Tie It Up.

Montreal, Oct. 23. — Sir Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, left for home last night. During the day he had a conference with the business men of the city, who have close relations with the colony. To one of his intimate friends he spoke of his mission to Washington, and from what Sir Robert said it is inferred that he has arrived at a basis of understanding with the Secretary of State, but fears that the Senate will tie it up in the same manner as it has done the Cuban and many other important questions.

New Port For G.T.R.

New London, Conn., Oct. 23.—The Grand Trunk of Canada, which only recently acquired control of the Central Vermont, has matured plans for materially increasing its terminal facilities in this city. A new freight house and a freight shed 1,200 feet long will be erected, and the wharfage facilities will be greatly enlarged. This is a preliminary step in the proposed policy of the Grand Trunk system in shipping through this city a larger volume of freight from the West and Canada than ever before.

B.C. Shuts Out Doukhobors.

Victoria, Oct. 23.—The Provincial Government has received a petition from the Doukhobors of Assiniboia in the Canadian Northwest, asking that they be allowed to move to British Columbia, stating that they are not allowed to practice their religion as they would wish, for their religion holds that they must obey the laws of no country, no laws other than those of God. The Executive of British Columbia has declined to entertain the proposition.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

MURDER NEAR HALIFAX.

Armenian Pedlar Found With His Skull Battered In.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 23.—With skull battered in and face covered with blood from a great wound on the side of his face, the body of an Armenian pedlar, who had been murdered, was found yesterday afternoon in the tunnel of the famous old Tenny Cape Mine, a short distance from Noel.

The horrible discovery was made by two men who had been hunting. The body was taken to Tenny Cape and an inquest held. Another man passed on the road, was captured and is held in custody.

EIGHTEEN LIVES LOST.

Entire Crew of French Schooner Drowned on Grand Banks.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 23. — The French fishing vessel, Cecilia, has been lost on the Grand Banks. Her entire crew of eighteen perished. Owing to recent heavy gales on the Banks it is feared that there have been other casualties.

Gen. Miles Robbed.

Honolulu, Oct. 23.—Lieut.-General Nelson A. Miles was the victim of a robbery which for a time was thought to mean the loss of valuable documents. A valise containing jewelry and money and some of the general's papers was stolen from the room of Lieut.-Col. Maus, aide-de-camp to General Miles, in the Hawaiian Hotel. The theft took place during a reception and dance given at the hotel in honor of the visitors, and was detected early in the evening. On the following day the valise was recovered a short distance from the hotel. It had been cut open, the jewelry and money were taken, but the papers were untouched.

Would Lynch the Murderer.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 23.—Feeling runs high in the Soo over the recent murder of a man in a drinking quarrel, and the fact that the murderer escaped lynching is openly talked of, especially among the employes of the steel plant, among the fellow-workers of John E. Griffith, the dead man. He was very popular among the steel workers.

Yesterday morning a party of 17 of them, heavily armed, started out in search of the fugitive, Charlie Pasqualo. When they left, they said would not come back without him, and, furthermore, that he would never come to trial.

Six Men Drowned.

Willemstad, Curcacao, Oct. 23. — Captain Stack of the Hamburg-American steamship Valesia, the chief engineer and four seamen were drowned here Tuesday.

The Valesia left Hamburg Sept. 16 for the West Indies. She is a passenger and freight ship.

Young Man Shoots Himself.

Eagle, Oct. 23.—A sudden gloom was cast over this vicinity on Tuesday, when it was learned that Edward, third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindenman, one of the leading men of this place, ended his life by shooting himself just above the temple. Deceased had been in poor health.

Dr. Barr Injured.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Dr. Barr of Shelbourne, M.P.P., for Dufferin County, is in the General Hospital with a broken thigh, resulting from a collision while driving. He was brought to Toronto by train yesterday, and thence to the hospital by the police ambulance.

Don't Help Being Cranks.

It's the effect of dyspepsia on the nerves that makes the afflicted one morose and cranky. They can't help that though until they take Merrill's System Tonic, the only positive cure (not relief) for dyspepsia known. It cures by acting on the liver, nerves and bowels. Pleasant to take and three weeks treatment for 50 cents. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

An Alcoholic Record.

Paris, Oct. 23.—It is now said that Le Bissonet, who was alleged to have premeditated an attempt on President Loubet's life, was not an Anarchist, but only "an alcoholic record."

B.C. Remembered Nelson.

London, Oct. 23.—Among the many wreaths which decorated the Nelson column in Trafalgar square yesterday, was one from the British Columbia branch of the Navy League.

Dalny Instead of Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 23.—The Russian Government is contemplating the abandonment of Port Arthur as an arsenal, and the establishment of a new stronghold at Port Dalny.

TO CORNER MAD MULLAH.

Whole Brigade of Troops With Four Maxim Guns Have Sailed.

Simla, India, Oct. 23.—The military authorities now anticipate that a whole brigade of troops will be required to cope with the Somaliland difficulty. The regiments are preparing for eventualities. Four Maxim guns will accompany the troops sailing to-day.

Plea For Assistance.

Rome, Oct. 23.—Negotiations are proceeding with the object of obtaining Abyssinian military co-operation in Somaliland similar to that of 1900, when Ras Makonnen invaded and devastated Ogahden. The suggestion is that the Abyssinians should hem in the Mad Mullah's forces from the southward, while the British attack them from the north.

DEATHS AT CAMP M'KINNEY.

Miss Louise Smith, Teacher, Missing—Manager Mathias Missing.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 23.—A special despatch from Greenwood, says a telephone message from Camp McKinney states that the Hotel Fairview was completely destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Several people were fatally injured. Miss Louise Smith, a school teacher, is missing, and was probably burned to death. The fire broke out in the basement and spread very rapidly.

The guests on the first floor escaped, and others had to jump from the burning building. Mr. Mathias, manager of the hotel, is one of those fatally hurt, and Mrs. Mathias was badly injured. Word was sent to this city and Vernon for medical aid, and nurses.

But Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills by invigorating the action of these organs, ensures good digestion and sound health. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box.

Cattle Thieves Sentenced.

London, Oct. 23.—Judge Elliott yesterday imposed sentence on four members of the gang of cattle thieves whose operations have proved such a source of loss and annoyance to the farmers of Caradoc and other townships in Middlesex County. Frank Mitchell, the leader of the gang, was given five years in Kingston; William Connell and Fred Butler, 2 years, and Carson Wellestine, 6 months in the Central Prison.

A Consultation Held.

Drs. McDade, Rush and Sims, three of the most eminent American doctors, in a series of articles outlined a tonic treatment calculated to cure a vast number of diseases. Their suggestions were embodied in a formula which is dispensed by a Brantford druggist, and called Merrill's System Tonic. It is a reliable and a pleasant remedy for stomach, bowel and kidney diseases. Sold at 50c. per bottle by Ormond & Walsh.

Blake at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 23.—At the U. I. L. Tuesday night a speaker from the ranks of the envoys was Edward Blake, M.P. He spoke at length on the court abuses, the denial of the right of trial by jury, or, when trial by jury is allowed, of packing of the panels by agents of the governmental machinery which has its centre in Dublin Castle.

Train Robbers Get 2,000,000 Francs.

Irun, Spain, Oct. 23.—A band of robbers entered the mail car of the Spanish express last night and held up the clerks. There was some resistance, and one of the clerks was mortally wounded. The robbers secured cheques and money orders to the cash value of 2,000,000 francs, and made good their escape.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Might's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Town and County Historical Society, will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. The election of officers for the ensuing year and the reception of reports of the officers of last year, will constitute the chief business of the meeting, while papers of an interesting nature will be read by several members. A full attendance of members is requested.

Creditable to Mr. Long.

Mr. Harry Long, has, it is well known, great success in making his own "puffs," but he deserves a little puff for his success as a caterer. A gentleman from outside the town, who was present at a recent social event, where Mr. Long officiated, declared that the banquet he put up was superior in smoothness of service and quality of viands, to one he had been recently present at, which was supplied by a Toronto caterer, whose reputation has brought in a large list of patrons to his net.

"Haunts of Fish and Game."

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Town May not Purchase any Extra Fuel.

A special meeting of the Town Council of the Town of Peterborough will be held this evening. It is "street" talk to-day that in view of the settlement of the coal strike, and the likelihood of fuel being obtainable at reasonable prices this winter, the Town Council is desirous of withdrawing from their contract with the Dickson Company. It is also rumoured that the Dickson Company pany have very kindly consented to release the corporation from the said contract.

ANOTHER COUNTERFEIT BILL

That has Made its Appearance in Peterborough.

Still another counterfeit bill has come to light here. The last one was a one dollar American bill raised to a ten. This one is a counterfet Canadian two. For neatness and cleverness of workmanship it is a marvel, and can be distinguished from the genuine only by an expert. The bill passed through several hands and was accepted by one of the local banks. From the latter it went to their head office in Toronto, and was there detected. It is supposed that the counterfeit was made by the photogravure, and only in paper and in a few minor details can it be told from the genuine. It is to be hoped that ther are no more in circulation in this vicinity, as this bill would deceive even those whose business it is to detect and repudiate counterfeits.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Messrs. F. D. Kerr and J. O. de Laplante left this morning for Cobourg.

Mrs. Church, of Mount Julian, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Stewart, Brock street.

Miss Mary Sawers left for Toronto to-day to enter Grace Hospital as a nurse-in-training.

Mr. M. Quigley, of the local staff of the Ontario Bank, has been transferred to Aurora.

Miss K. Baskin and Miss Wetherson, of Norwood, are attending the Teachers' Convention in town.

Major Harry Ward, M. P., Port Hope, was in town last night and was registered at the Oriental Hotel.

Mrs. Morrow is in Toronto procuring the scores of the opera "The Geisha" which will be produced in Peterborough.

Mrs. V. Eastwood and daughter left to-day on a visit to Mrs. Eastwood's sister, Mrs. Masson, at Concord, New Hampshire.

Mr. Jim Baskin, of Norwood, is in town to-day, the guest of Mrs. Thos. Bishe, Bolivar Street. Mr. Baskin has recently returned from South Africa.

The Examiner from time to time receives personals, and social items of various kinds, through the mail, without the name of the writer being signed to the communication. No notice whatever will be paid to such items, as the name of the writer must be attached as a voucher of good faith.

A Most Popular Feature.

The second regular session of the A.R.M. Bible Club last night showed a surprising increase in attendance and interest. The discussion of the question "If ye love them that love you, what thank have you?" was most practical, most of the members participating. Mr. Sorsoleil's manner of conducting the Club's study is making the Club the popular feature of the week. At next week's session the first social evening will be held which will take the form of a "Potato Social." The details of the programme are in the hands of the committee and promise a good evening. The Club's programme for the season was issued last evening.

IT IS NOW LT.-COL. MILLER.

Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards Says Farewell.

He Steps to the Reserve List of Officers —Some Words of Advice.

The Militia General Orders of yesterday announce the retirement from the command of the 57th Regiment of Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, who is placed upon the retired list of officers. Major J. W. Miller, who has been second in command for some time, has been promoted to the command and Lt.-Colonelcy of the regiment.

These are changes, the official announcement of which have been expected for some time, as it was known that Lieut.-Col. Edwards was desirous of retiring from the command of the 57th before his time was up in order that Major Miller might receive the highest honour that an officer can obtain in his regiment.

The promotion of Major Miller is well deserved and will be a popular one. He has a long connection with the corps and has always proved to be one of the most enthusiastic officers in the regiment.

The following farewell order was issued by Lieut.-Col. Edwards, on resigning the command of the regiment:

In taking leave of the Regiment, in which he has served for twenty-three years, and resigning the command which he has held for the last two and a half years, Lieut.-Col. Edwards feels that he cannot do so without expressing to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men, his warm appreciation of the pleasant relations which have so long existed between them and him, and his hearty thanks to them for the loyal support which they have rendered to him and to the Regiment during his term of command. Major Miller, as second in command, has performed services for the corps, and has set an example of zeal and devotion to duty, which augur well for his success when in command, which will entitle him in that position, to the same loyal support which he has always shown to his commanding officer. The staff and company officers have performed their several duties in a way that has made the working of the regiment harmonious and successful. The men who have made up the rank and file have been drawn from the best class of young men in the community, and they have by manly and soldierly bearing, brought fresh honour and credit to the name of the 57th Regiment, and have gained for themselves and their corps the respect and esteem of their fellow citizens. There is much yet to be done, and there is a fresh career coming up before the regiment with its increased establishment as an eight company battalion. In the work still to be done, and the career that is before it, Lieut.-Col. Edwards wishes the 57th Regiment, and his successor in the command of it, the fullest measure of success.

TOWN OFFICIAL APPRECIATED.

Superintendent Henderson Invited to Hamilton to Give Expert Advice.

Mr. W. Henderson, superintendent of the Peterborough Water Works, has returned from a visit to Hamilton, where he was invited by the directors of an electric railway company, to give an expert opinion as to the location and arrangement of a dam at Caledonia, on the Grand River, to supply power for the development of electric energy to supply motive power for a system of electric railway—the Hamilton and Caledonia—from Hamilton to Selkirk, on Lake Erie, a distance of about forty miles.

It is a striking tribute to Mr. Henderson's large experience, practical knowledge of engineering and mechanical problems, and steady judgment, that his opinion and advice should thus be sought; and proof, if such were wanting, that the town is fortunate in having the services of so efficient and reliable a superintendent of the Water Works system.

THE NEW HOCKEY RINK.

The Structure Rapidly Soaring Skyward.

Work on the new rink is coming on apace. The stone work of the foundation on the east side is nearing completion, and the excavation for the remaining sides is almost done. It is expected that the foundation will be completed next week. From that on the daily progress will be more noticeable, and will be watched with much interest.

A NEW YACHT.

Mr. A. M. McDonald has Purchased a New Craft.

Mr. A. McDonald, of Point St. Charles, has purchased the steam launch, "Gringo Mink," from Dr. Neeland, of Port Hope. The yacht, which weighs 1260 lbs., was brought up last night by G. W. Brockenshire, Port Hope, and will be launched in the Little Lake to-day.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH NOTES.

Messrs. James Bell and R. Soanes have returned from Brantford where they have been attending the convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews. They will give an address on the subject of their visit at a meeting of local Chapter on Saturday afternoon.

There will be a young people's social at St. John's on Monday, Nov. 3rd.

At a lecture to be given in St. John's school house, Tuesday, the 11th, Rev. C. H. Brooks will speak on the subject of "Turkey and the Turks."

Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of seasons affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

RELICS FOR MUSEUM.

A Number of Trophies From the Field of Waterloo to be Added.

One of the most enthusiastic supporters of Victoria Museum is Mr. T. A. S. Hay. In the course of years many curios have found their way into his hands and from thence to the museum. The latest addition is a number of trophies from the Battle of Waterloo, consisting of a bugle, a cuirass, a gun, several pistols and a large knife and scabbard. These were taken from the field three days after the battle by Mr. Stewart, the grandfather of Mr. Hay, and were brought to Canada by him. Mr. Stewart, it is claimed was the first white settler in Otonabee, and these relics have been loaned to the museum by his decendants.

"A Trip to Coontown."

A fair sized house greeted "A Trip to Coontown" in Bradburn's Opera House last evening. The entertainment was a decided change from the usual run of plays, and as such was highly appreciated. Those who went expecting to see high class acting were disappointed, but those who went for a night's amusement had their expectations fulfilled. In chorus work the company were at their best, and called forth repeated and deserved applause, while they had two very clever buck and wing dancers in Sam Davis and Pauline Humphries. On the whole the entertainment was highly refreshing and amusing after a long run of plays.

ASSIZES OVER.

The Grand Jury Made the Presentment Yesterday Afternoon.

The Assizes for the County of Peterborough, which have been in session before Honourable Chief Justice Meredith, concluded yesterday afternoon. The Grand Jury made the following presentment:

To the Honourable Mr. Justice Meredith, presiding at the Fall Assizes for the County of Peterborough:

Your Grand Jurors, having completed their duties, desire to make their presentment.

Your Grand Jurors have disposed of the only criminal charge laid before them and deem it a subject of congratulation to the community that the criminal calendar is so light.

Your jurors have examined the county jail and have found everything in good order and the prisoners well cared for.

Your jurors have visited the hospitals and have to report that these institutions are well managed and under the control of competent officials and assistants.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES ANDREWS,
Foreman.

Hunters' Excursions.

The Grand Trunk announce single first class fare from stations in Canada, Brockville and West, to that sportaman's paradise, the "Highlands of Ontario," which include the Muskoka Lakes District, Lake of Bays, Lake Nipissing, Argyle to Coboconk, Severn to North Bay, Lindsay to Haliburton, on line of Canada Atlantic Railroad, Rainy Lake to Parry Sound, and on C.P.R.—Mattawa to Nepigon. Tickets are good going Oct. 24th to Nov. 1st inclusive, and valid returning until Dec. 13th. Reports from this district promise a record year, and the deer are much more numerous. The fact that there is an open season for moose this year, Nov. 1st to 15th, will induce many hunters to take advantage of these low rates, and enjoy this exhilarating sport. Illustrated booklets entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game" may be obtained from W. Burton, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, or by addressing J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto. 2d941w

"THE GEISHA."

Mrs. Morrow Intends Organizing a Company to Produce the Opera.

Will all ladies and gentlemen desirous of joining Mrs. Morrow's Choral Class please leave their names at her studio, 368 Brock street, on or before Wednesday, Oct. 29th.

It is Mrs. Morrow's intention to place before the music loving public of Peterborough the beautiful opera "The Geisha." Mrs. Morrow has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. J. Harry Proctor as stage director. Mr. Proctor is well known, having conducted the Grecian Bells at the Charleston, S.C., Mid Winter Exposition, as well as having staged many operas throughout the United States and Canada.

Would members of choirs and all those accustomed to sight reading kindly forward their names, as this will be without doubt the finest operatic performance ever given here. Mrs. Morrow is at present in Toronto.

HEARTY RECEPTION

Tendered New Members of the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday Night.

The reception tendered the new members of the Young Women's Christian Association, Tuesday evening, was most successful, and satisfactory in every respect. Miss Dickson, the secretary, in a few words of welcome, spoke of the interdependence of all the members, new and old, and of the need of every heart as expressed by a leading association worker, "common, human, sympathy sweetened by the love of Jesus Christ"—the necessity for ministring as well as seeking to be ministered unto. An excellent musical programme was most efficiently rendered by Madam Alio and Misses Tully, Van Every, King and Campbell.

At the close of the programme the members adjourned to the parlours, where a most interesting and instructive art gallery had been arranged. Each one present was furnished with a catalogue of the pictures represented, and asked to give each its proper title. The prize given for the largest number of correct answers, was won by Miss Edith Gillespie, who succeeded in naming 42 out of 54 subjects.

Refreshments brought to an end a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The names of several new members were received.

KEENE.

Miss Emeline Miller is still achieving success in her musical studies. She has won the $100 scholarship given by Heintzman & Co. for excellence as a pianiste. This scholarship entitles her to a year's free tuition in music at the Toronto Junction Conservatory of Music. Her many friends heartily congratulate her on her success, which is the legitimate result of marked natural ability industriously exercised.

IN CONVENTION.

The Teachers of the Peterborough County Association

The annual convention of the Peterborough County Teachers' Association is now in session in Peterborough. The first session opened in Ashburnham this morning, there being a good attendance of teachers from all parts of the county. The morning session was taken up in hearing the reports of the delegates to the Provincial Convention. The delegates were Miss McEwan, of Bridgenorth, and Mr. T. J. Wallace, of Keene. Mr. J. C. Brown, County Inspector of Schools, read a paper on "The Ontario Reader."

The convention will be in session for two days. This afternoon's session is being held in the Y.M.C.A. hall.

In the afternoon the convention met in the Y.M.C.A. hall, Peterborough. Mr. D. L. Somerville, Havelock, gave an excellent paper on "Nature Study." A good discussion followed in which several took part. Inspector Walker, Peterborough, gave an excellent paper on "Manners," and called attention to the many points which teachers should attend to.

It was moved and seconded that the papers presented should be published in the county papers.

Mr. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's Church, gave a very able paper on "Temperance in Public Schools," which was not finished when the Examiner went to press at three o'clock.

THE DEADLY ANTHRAX.

It Wipes out a Whole Herd Belonging to a Farmer in Belmont Township.

Mr. Daniel Munroe, a farmer who resides about three miles east of Havelock, in the township of Belmont, lost ten cows and a bull last week, from the disease known as anthrax. In the evening the cows were driven from the pasture field to be milked, and Mrs. Munroe milked one, and sat down to milk another, but before she was through with the second, the first one died. Another soon died, and others followed it, until the whole number had dropped off.

When it was seen that the cows were so seriously affected, word was sent to Mr. Geo. A. Hay, veterinary surgeon of Campbellford, and on his arrival on Friday, seven of them were dead, one died an hour afterwards, and three others, he said, would die before night. The bodies were disinfected and buried, but the safest method is to burn them.

Anthrax is fortunately not a common disease, and manifests itself in cattle that feed in low, swampy lands. It arises from a germ, which may be carried by spring freshets and lodged in the ground, where it may remain for twenty years, and not communicate itself to cattle.

The loss to Mr. Munroe is a heavy one, as he is not in prosperous circumstances, and we think that it would be a creditable act on the part of his neighbours if they joined hands in expressing sympathy for him in a practical way.—Campbellford Herald.

INJURIES PROVED FATAL.

A Young Lacrosse Player of Port Hope, Who Died Yesterday.

The Port Hope Guide says: "It is with the deepest regret that we have to record the death of one of Port Hope's most promising sons, Mr. Grant McLean, who by his kind and obliging disposition had won the affection of all who knew him. One week ago Saturday he went out to Millbrook to play lacrosse, the first out of town game he ever was in, and received injuries which to-day proved fatal. The sickness was brought on by a very severe check in the side, which caused peritonitis. This was his first year to play the game, and the Victorias, of which team he was the favourite member, can hardly believe that he is gone. Deceased was sixteen years of age, and the sixth son of Mr. and Mrs. William McLean. He was a good living young man and a regular attendant of the Methodist Sunday school and church. He was in the third form of the High School, and was a great favourite with the teachers."

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

James Fegg, While out Hunting, Accidentally Shoots Himself in the Right Foot.

James Fegg, one of the most popular employees of the Kingston Street Railway Company, was the victim on Tuesday of a very painful and serious accident. During the day, Mr. Fegg, in company with his brother in law, P. C. Graham, went shooting out on the Cataraqui marsh. Late in the afternoon while on the watch out for birds, Mr. Fegg rested the muzzle of his gun on his right foot, and while in this position the weapon went off, the contents of the same, heavy shot, entering the foot of the unfortunate man. His companion did all he could to relieve his sufferings, and after great difficulties the injured man was gotten as far as the asylum, where his injuries were partly dressed. One of the toes hung only by a thread and the rest were badly mangled. Dr. Kilborn ordered him removed to the General Hospital, where he is now resting as easily as can be expected. can be expected.—Kingston News.

Mr. Fegg was a resident of Peterborough previous to going to Kingston, and was for a number of years baggageman at the C. P. R. station.

THE POWER OF THE STAGE.

William Winter, in Leslie's Monthly for November.

To sordid and commonplace minds it is a satisfactory belief that the theatre is merely a shop and that the art of acting is merely a means for the peaceful pursuit of gain. Such minds are very numerous, and in the business world are usually predominant, and under the perverting control of such minds the stage has known long periods of degradation. At intervals, however, strong spirits have arisen in the drama to vindicate its intrinsic intellectual worth and moral potentiality, to assert its educational drift and to exalt and extend its social influence. A noble personal force, in fact, sometimes shining forth in great affluence and splendor, and never quite extinct, has been the salvation of the stage, which, but for this fortunate ordainment, would long since have sunk to ignominious frivolity. This intelligent saving force, which believes in art and is devoted to its cause, has kept the stage alive in honour and prosperity, and upon this force its dependence must rest. The stalwart presence of Richard Mansfield in the American Theater, therefore, is auspicious in a high degree; for there is great need of a leader, and the need will increase with every accession to the phalanx of theatrical button-makers now rampant in a transitory time.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Whatever you want to help you with your "garden in the window" you will find in excellent bloom and foliage at the West End Greenhouses, 465 Park street, residence of G. M. Roger. Telephone 21b. A. SALUTES AT SEA.

Courtesies That Must Be Observed by Ship Captains—Lowering the Flag the Oldest Form of Salutation.

In the days before cannon, and indeed until comparatively recent times, a vessel made its salutation by lowering its flag. This is the oldest and most honorable greeting which a ship can give, and it ranks before the booming of guns, however many. This salute has always been demanded by English seamen, and its exaction has burned the hearts and the powder of generations of naval commanders. For a foreign ship whether merchant or martial, to enter an English port without veiling topsails or lowering its national flag was to court the chances of war though the profoundest peace existed. Without warning or argument the shore defences or a man-of-war sent a round shot across the bows or between the masts of the insolent intruder, and if the offending flag came not down instanter the foreigner was brought to her senses by being raked through and through. Such was the reception accorded by John Hawkins to the Spanish admiral who in time of peace sailed into Plymouth Sound without veiling his topsails or striking his flag. The Dutch vehemently resisted the British demand, and it was not until 1673 that they finally agreed to strike the English colors in home waters. The same honor was formally assented to by France in 1704, although it had been long exacted by Britain.

Until modern times it was regarded as a high misdemeanor for a merchant vessel to pass one of his Majesty's ships without dipping its ensign, and the consequence was that a shot across her bows compelled her to heave to while her captain's name was taken, the Admiralty instituting a prosecution against him for his negligence. The trading ship dips her ensign and waits for the man-of-war's dip in return. Then she dips again, and after that, in strict etiquette, she ought to dip a third time, but this is seldom done now. The maritime supremacy of Britain is still enforced by the refusal of any British war vessel to dip its flag to any foreign ship until the latter has first lowered its colors, and this acknowledgment of precedence is required not only in home waters, but in all seas.

But naval salutes are now essential matters of etiquette, and are exchanged under an elaborate code arranged between foreign powers and the Admiralty in 1876. The number of guns to be fired under all conceivable circumstances is minutely stipulated. Second to the salute of twenty-one guns in honor of Royal personages and national flags are the nineteen rounds given to Ambassadors. Colonial governors, foreign possessions and fortresses receive seventeen guns, and envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary fifteen. Two guns less are fired for lieutenant-governors. Charges d'affaires are treated to eleven, consuls-general to nine, and a mere consul to seven. The salute for admirals of the fleet is seventeen guns, and for admirals simpliciter fifteen. Vice-admirals are greeted with thirteen, and rear-admirals with two less, while nine guns are fired for commodores—captains and lower officers being classed as not worth the burning of powder.—London Standard.

PREJUDICE OVERCOME.

After Everything Else had Failed, Madame Bujold Tries Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and is Cured.

Dyspepsia and other kindred stomach troubles always cause great depression of spirits.

This depression is frequently shown in the form of doubt and fear.

A Dyspeptic is hard to convince and this doubt and fear is one of the surest symptoms of Dyspepsia.

Madame Marie Ann Bujold, of Maria Cup, Bonaventure Co., Quebec, was for years a chronic Dyspeptic.

She says she always had very strong objections to proprietory medicines and refused for a long time to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for her malady.

She preferred to consult several physicians, and it was not until after their treatment had been thoroughly tested with no good results that she made up her mind to throw aside all doubt, fear and prejudice and use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

She was by this time very low and could not take the simplest food without having a severe pain across her stomach together with great distress of body and mind. After a treatment of this remedy she writes: "Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are wonderful. For two years my life has been a burden, but they have completely cured me.

"It is now a long time since I have taken any and my trouble has not returned.

"I recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all who suffer with Dyspepsia."

This is an unsolicited testimony of one who for a long time refused to be cured, and should come as good advice to any Dyspeptic who may be in doubt as to how best to find relief from the pain and distress which is the inevitable result of this malady.

Burglars at Berlin.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Early yesterday morning two men threw a stone, five pounds in weight, through the plate glass window of J. Fensell & Sons' store, and abstracted four revolvers from the window. Some time during the night a black horse and rubber-tired buggy were stolen from J. Kaufman's stables.

Rejected the Sale.

Copenhagen, Oct. 23.—The Landsthing yesterday rejected the second reading of the bill providing for the ratification of the treaty between Denmark and the United States in regard to the cession of the Danish West Indies to the latter country.

Didn't Know His Wife.

When T. Coleman, a Brantford traveller, left on a three weeks' trip, his wife was a yellow-faced, fagged-out looking woman. When he returned he didn't know her. Her eyes were bright, and her skin clear, and she walked differently. Merrill's System Tonic did it. Fifty doses for fifty cents. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

THEIR BOER PUPILS

HAVE ALREADY ENDEARED THEMSELVES TO CANADIAN TEACHERS.

Teaching in a Tent a Valuable Experience—Boer Children Are Not Listless and Inattentive—Very Obedient and Very Easily Governed—Life in Camp Has Proved an Agreeable Surprise to Canadian Teachers.

Teaching in a tent, writes Miss Ruby Rothwell, the Canadian teacher in South Africa, who is Montreal Star correspondent, is an experience which cannot fail to be of great use to those who have encountered its inconveniences. When you consider the disadvantages that one must labor under—the lack of walls to hang maps and charts and pictures on—the dearth of desks and tables, and even seating accommodation—the earthen floor, inches deep in dust—you may imagine the training in patience and the opportunity for the development of one's powers of ingenuity which the poor harassed teacher necessarily comes in for. Add to this the difficulty of teaching children, who can, at best, speak only a few words of English, and you will perceive that the task of such a teacher is not exactly an easy one. But there are other points to be taken into consideration. After all it is not the lack of a comfortable schoolroom that worries a teacher so much as the listlessness and inattention of pupils who do not appreciate the efforts made in their behalf, and the want of sympathy so often shown by parents.

The Boer children are anything but listless and inattentive. Not one of them but listens eagerly to all that is said—not one who does not try earnestly to grasp the meaning of all that is explained to them. They are very obedient, very easily governed, naturally polite and exceedingly good natured. The teacher, handicapped in every other way almost, finds relief and comfort in looking at the faces, begrimed with the unescapable dust, perhaps, but which, fairly beaming with intelligent interest and good will, are turned to her in absorbed attention, throughout an entire lesson.

Our life in camp has been an agreeable surprise in most ways. We have found that whatever hardships we have had to encounter—and they have really been very few and far between—have not been the result of living among the Boers, but rather the unavoidable inconveniences which must be experienced in a country where the demon of war has held undisputed sway for nearly three years.

We have comfortably furnished tents, fairly good food, short hours, a free hand, practically speaking, in teaching, the hearty good-will of the burghers, who thoroughly appreciate the advantages their children are receiving in the way of education, and if there are a few discomforts, we tell ourselves that we expected a great many more.

I had a conversation with an educated Boer, who is on the teaching staff at Irene, one of the best equipped and regulated camps in South Africa. He spoke very freely to me, evidently looking upon me as American rather than British, and, therefore, more likely to sympathize with the views he held. He spoke fluently and even eloquently, in the purest English, advancing argument after argument to prove that his countrymen had waged a righteous war, but expressing the hope that they would recognize the hand of God in what to them had been such bitter humiliation. When I asked him if he thought the people would return contentedly to their isolated farms, after the taste they had had of life in communities, he declared that no amount of education or so-called civilization, would ever eradicate the love of a lonely life from the Boer nature. It was inbred through generations, and he, for one, would be sorry to see any change.

He had lived six years in Europe, and, at the end of that time, had been glad to get away from the crowds—to go back to the solitude of his old home, where he could live close to nature, communing with God, and free from the contamination of what we call civilized society. He may be right, but I doubt it. These children, who are listening to our tales of the great world, and its wonders, who are reading our books, and learning of the pleasures and delights which can be found only where people congregate; who, I hope, will understand some day that there is a higher happiness than in selfishly withdrawing themselves from the rest of the world—surely they will never go back to the old conditions.

Conductor Was Killed.

"DROPPING THE PILOT."

Punch's Idea of the Retirement of Lord Salisbury—Anecdotes.

When Lord Salisbury determined that he could no longer bear the burden of the Premiership, after a record innings, the announcement of his disappearance from public life must have reminded many people of "Punch's" famous Bismarck cartoon, "Dropping the Pilot." Those of us whose memories go back to the early eighties will not have forgotten the political excitements generated by the personal and party differences of Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain. When we study the two men, there is little more remarkable in their working together for the common good than there was in Lord Salisbury working with Mr. Disraeli. Mr. Chamberlain never said much harsher things of Lord Salisbury than Disraeli did, and Lord Salisbury has probably trusted him rather more than he trusted Lord Beaconsfield at certain times. With both it was Lord Salisbury's fate to assist in directing his country through a crisis to peace with honor.

Lord Salisbury was as nearly a self-made man as any aristocrat could be. He knew what it was to struggle to keep a family going in the days when neither the Premiership nor the Marquessate seemed likely to come his way. His life had been relieved by one great hobby—chemistry, and his devotion to his home has been characteristically English. The stories told of his peculiarities are many (says a writer in Public Opinion). There is the story of his giving up an experiment with a piece of wire in order to take office, and of his asking for that piece of wire years after, when his Government was turned out. As a working journalist, he is said to have borrowed sixpence, and to have paid it back twenty years later, when the man who lent it him, and whom he did not see again in the interval, called on him on a matter of business. Lord Salisbury's apology for keeping it so long must have been a revelation to the lender. The best anecdote, perhaps, is that of a certain energetic journalist, just appointed to an important editorship, who invited Lord Salisbury to tell him what line he would adopt in his paper in regard to national affairs. "I thould have no politics," was Lord Salisbury's blandly crushing observation. Such anecdotes are characteristic of the man. He never forgets, and he was never to be drawn, unless to be drawn was to serve some special end. He was no flyer of kites.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.

A Methodist Minister Tells How He was Rescued From a Helpless Condition by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail, is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work and was so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, but in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery when he began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes; "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete and though I was in physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness.

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigour, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but also in several others where I have recommended it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 7

CANADA'S WILDFLOWERS.

Marjorie Pickthall Tells How They May Be Made a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever.

A most interesting and delightful pastime for those who can use pencil, brush or camera is to make a collection of sketches or photos of local wildflower. Indeed, it may speedily become almost more an occupation than a pastime—a very absorbing occupation, too. A great point in its favor is that it may be carried on from April to October, even in our climate.

The Canadian flora lends itself especially to this pursuit, as the color and form of the flowers are alike beautiful. Their only deficiency is in the quality of scent, which is of no consequence in a picture. I always use large sketch-books, covered with stiff brown linen, and with the best of paper, writes Marjorie Pickthall in The Toronto Globe. For it is impossible to make a wash drawing look well on a sheet of paper which is neither large enough nor good enough.

For some three or four years I have been collecting sketches of the wildflowers growing about Toronto, and have succeeded in finding some seventy-five species at the Island and in High Park alone.

About a quarter of the number seem to possess names, and about a score of those varieties I have found appear to be practically unknown; this is especially true of those which grow by the Island ponds and lagoons.

A peculiar point concerning these latter flowers is that their blossoms are nearly all of that bell-like form seen in the foxglove (or digitalis.) They vary somewhat among themselves. In one or two species the blossoms are more tubular in form, in others they flare more widely at the mouth, and they are quite small, but their general structure seems the same. They are nearly all blue or mauve in color, and I have occasionally found white specimens. However, one of these delicate little marsh plants bears flowers of a brilliant rose pink, which is, I suppose, about the rarest hue for a Canadian wildflower.

I have never found evening primroses in such perfection as at Toronto Island. They grow in profusion—or did two years ago—on the sands near the Children's Hospital. In the evening the air used to be almost oppressive with their scent, their blossoms, sometimes about two inches in diameter, showing like little yellow moons in the dusk.

I think in any collection of wildflowers I should include thistles. Many people seem to regard them as weeds, but they are one of the most decorative of plants, often presenting a color scheme in grey-green and red which is a delight to the artistic soul.

In spite of its being so much frequented, High Park is a perfect garden at certain seasons of the year. I do not intend to reveal the habitat of any rare floral favorite of mine; it is enough to say that ninety-nine Torontonians out of one hundred do not seem to have any idea of the number of lovely plants to be found there.

The well-known flowers would be enough to fill a sketch-book by themselves. For it begins, this floral calendar, with hepaticas and dog-violets and uncanny little tropical blossoms growing from lily-of-the-valley leaves. Then comes the white anemone, and later the purple anemone, the little foetid iris and the columbine, with wild roses and lupines in plenty. Later still appear the gorgeous milkweed, the detestible mullein, wild sunflower, clematis, and the red lily, queen of them all. In hot summer weather, too, may be found the yellow snapdragon and the heatherbell. No painter on earth could render just this latter's tint of sunlit blue. While all the year round, growing in lonely little valleys, may be seen many flowers more lovely than trillium or daisy or yellow violet, which no one seems ever to have noticed or named.

And all this in that much-frequented 300 acres known as High Park! Blessed be the memory of old Mr. Howard.

Flowers are the only things which fully obey the teachings of Christianity. The more you take from them the more they give. For this very reason they should be treated with tenderness. Therefore, in your searches for specimens, never take a root, even by accident.

These floral sketch-books are rendered more interesting, at any rate from a botanist's point of view, if the flowers are shown in all their stages of growth, from bud to seed. Water color drawings are, of course, the best method of showing them, though pencil is good; pen and ink is too hard and stiff, I think. Personally, I do not like the regular botanist's collection of dried flowers. The poor little flat, faded corpses look so sad, and the color is always impaired or destroyed by pressing. However, tastes differ, and you can easily make your collection in this way, though to my mind it would not look half so well as the wash drawings.

And remember that the buds of almost every wildflower will open in water, so there should be no difficulty in sketching them at your leisure.

This Is a Good Idea.

As an experiment the British Post-office Department undertook the delivery of book packets addressed simply to "The Householder" in specified districts. The packets were delivered in bulk at the postoffice, and one was delivered by the postman at every house in the district named. The arrangement worked well. Senders did not have the expense of addressing persons by name, while the postoffice was relieved of the sorting necessary when particular packets have to be delivered at particular houses. This system ought to work out in Canada. If a postal map were made showing the districts, letters without addresses might be delivered at each house on any street in any city in the Dominion.

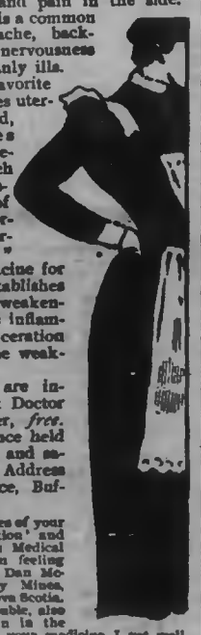
"I had headache and pain in the side."

If you will read the letter of Mrs. McKenzie, given below, you will find that she says—"I had uterine disease, also headache and pain in the side." Uterine disease is a common cause of headache, backache, sideache, nervousness and other womanly ills.



Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures uterine disease, and, therefore, cures the headache, sideache, etc., which result from a diseased condition of the womanly organism. "Favorite Prescription" is the best medicine for women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence held in strict privacy and sacred secrecy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I took two bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am feeling well," writes Mrs. Dan McKenzie, of Lorway Mines, Cape Breton Co., Nova Scotia. "I had uterine trouble, also headache, and pain in the side. After taking your medicine I got well. You may publish this or use it in any way you think best, as I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, containing 1008 large pages, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW FOLK-LORE.

Tale of a London Missionary to the Lower Zambesi.

A native told me this tale, says a London missionary to the Lower Zambesi, who has just returned home:

Once upon a time a Rabbit succeeded in winning the affections of an Elephant's daughter. His long silky hair and clever ways attracted the attention of the daughter of the mammoth of the jungle, and they were married. All went happy as the marriage tom-tom until the hoeing season came around. Then, as is the custom among African people, the Rabbit went forth to help his father-in-law hoe. After they had been busy hoeing some time the Rabbit's hoe became loose in the handle. Thereupon he went up to his mighty father-in-law and said: "Please, Sir, my hoe is loose; may I go and seek a large stone on which to knock it into the handle again?" "No need to go so far away, my son," said the Elephant, "Come, knock your hoe on my tusk." "Oh, no, father," replied the Rabbit, "I am afraid I should hurt you." "Hurt me, indeed," said the Elephant, indignantly, "you could not hurt me; my tusk is as hard as any stone you could find. Come, little one, and do as I bid you." So with much fear the Rabbit knocked his hoe firmly into the handle on the Elephant's tusk and then resumed his work. After a time the Elephant's hoe became loose. Then he called out to his son-in-law, the Rabbit, "Come here, my son, my hoe is loose; I want to knock it on your head to fix it in again." "Oh, no," cried the Rabbit in dismay, "you would kill me?" "But you knocked your hoe on my tusk," said the Elephant; "it is only fair you should return the favor." "But my head is not hard, like your tusk, father," said the poor Rabbit; "you would surely kill me." "Tut, tut, child, no more words; come here at once." shouted the Elephant. Seeing that further resistance was useless, the Rabbit took to his heels and fled into the forest.

Then the Elephant dropped his hoe and gave chase. After a long run the Rabbit was caught. "I have caught you at last," said the Elephant; "you shall not escape me again." So he tore some strips of bark off a tree, and twisting them into a rope, bound the Rabbit to the tree. "I am going to fetch my hoe now," he exclaimed, "and when I return I will break your skull with it." After saying this he went off, and was soon out of sight. The Elephant had not been gone long when a Hyena came by. Seeing the Rabbit bound to a tree, he asked him why he was tied up in that fashion. "Well," replied the cunning Rabbit, "I was out here in the forest cutting firewood with my father-in-law, the Elephant, and as it got near noon I began to feel very tired and hungry, having had no food since early morning, so the Elephant said he would take home the wood we had cut, and return with some meat for me. But as he was afraid I might wander away and get lost in his absence, he just tied me up to this tree, so that he will know where to find me when he returns." "Ah, I wish I had some meat," said the Hyena, licking his chops. "Here I have been wandering about in the forest for three days without a morsel to eat, and I am just ready to faint with hunger." "Poor, fellow," said the Rabbit, "how I pity you! I will tell you what you shall do—just unfasten me and let me tie you up in my place, and then when the Elephant returns he will give you the meat instead of me." "You are kind," said the unsuspicious Hyena, hastening to untie the rope. Soon the Rabbit was free, and the Hyena tied up in his place.

By the time this was accomplished the Elephant was seen coming through the forest; so with a hasty "Good-bye, Hyena, I hope you will enjoy your meat," the sly Rabbit slipped away and was soon lost to sight. He was no sooner gone than the Elephant came up, and seeing the Hyena, exclaimed in astonishment: "Why, how big you have grown, Rabbit; I have only been gone a little while, and now you are ten times as big as when I left you. However, now I have got my hoe, I will break your skull with it, as I promised you." "What for, O Elephant?" exclaimed the frightened Hyena. "There is some mistake. I am not a Rabbit. I am a Hyena." "Hyena, indeed," said the Elephant. "I did not tie up a Hyena. I tied up a Rabbit. No; there is no mistake. This is the very tree to which I tied you, Rabbit. See the place where I tore off the bark. There is no mistake. I am only somewhat surprised to see how you have grown in so short a time." So without more ado the Elephant lifted up his trunk and struck the Hyena a tremendous blow on the head with his hoe, crushing right through his skull and killing him outright.

German Government Defeated.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Government was defeated in the Reichstag yesterday in test votes on the tariff bill. The Conservatives and Centrists in the ministry's bill amendments fixing the minimum wheat duties at $1.50 per metric hundredweight, in place of $1.37, and the rye duties at $1.37, instead of $1.25. The votes were: Wheat, 194 to 115; rye, 187 to 152. The minority was composed of National Liberals, Socialists and Radicals. Three courses are now open to the ministry—to dissolve the Reichstag, negotiate for a compromise, or let the majority pass the bill in any form it chooses and suppress it in the Bundsrath. In the latter event, commercial treaties will be negotiated on the basis of the present tariff. The Chancellor's plan appears to be to do nothing immediately, and to see if the majority will yield.

The Skin on Fire.

So dreadful are the sensations of burning, itching eczema that victims frequently describe their sufferings by saying that the skin is all on fire. VARICOCELE NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, worry vanished, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, arise became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. THE WALL STREET MARKET

The market to-day was very quiet, and few of the stocks were very active. These latter included B.O., which opened this morning at 109 1-2, an increase of 1-2 point, over last night's closing, and closing at 108 1-4. Corn was very active to-day opening at 50 1-2, and closing at 51 3-4. The opening and closing prices of a few of the other stocks were, —M.O.P. 111, 110 3-4; M.S.M. 79 7-8, 79 1-8; L.N. 138 1-2, 139; St. Paul 191 5-8, 191 3-8; C.P.R. 136 3-8, 136; N.Y.C. 156, 155-3-8; P. A. 77 1-2, 77 1-2; Sugar 124 1-2, 123 1-2.

Money opened at 5 1-2 went to 5 per cent., is now 4 per cent.

Sales to noon 240,400.

New York, October 22nd.,— The latter part of last week we suggested quite strongly in these letters that profits be taken in the then strong range of prices, as in our opinion a reaction was due. Monday and Tuesday witnessed a reaction, not quite as much as we would have liked to have seen, nevertheless a set back. As the market receded, it became intensely dull, stocks falling, to be freely offered at the concessions, which leads us to the belief that the recent decline lodged stocks in hands that are unwilling to dispose of them for ordinary profits, as would tempt most traders. This fact causes us to some extent to revise our opinions, to such an extent, as leads us to the belief that reactions will not be of any great dimensions, but small in fluctuation, and very frequent. In other words, market reactions will be from now on more likely to be in range from 1-2 per cent. to a point and a half, instead of, say, three to five points, but will be four to five times more frequent. If this be true, then stocks should be persistently purchased on any concessions of from 3-4 to a point; the dullness that sets in after each half to one point concession is our principal grounds for the above belief.

We feel disposed to devote a little space to cotton paragraphically, at least though we don't intend to infringe upon the prerogative of our cotton man, who each week prepares a resume of the market for our house. We simply desire to call your attention to the fact that cotton is at present selling at most attractive prices, while statistics shown by the Government and other cotton experts, make the strongest showing for bulls upon that staple of any given out for the past 12 years. Cotton, is in our opinion, about as low as it will go for the balance of the year, and once it has drifted from the hands of the planter to those of the middleman, it will be in line for advancing prices before the spinner comes in for his supplies. Statistics are favourable for higher prices. Cotton ought to sell well above ten cents very shortly.

To-day's market was dull but stronger; it looks as if it would be still higher before reactions set in again. Buying demand was well distributed throughout the list. Gains, while not great, were practically unanimous. We look for higher prices before Saturday. Money, 5 per cent; sales, 449,700.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

Grain.—Week has been generally favourable for corn and growing wheat. Corn is drying slowly, and there is a disposition to sell it when in fit condition. Liverpool opening—Wheat unchanged; corn 1-8 higher. The first car of new corn for season received here yesterday from Sterling, Illinois. It was damp and inspected "no grade," and sold at 35 cents free on board.

Chicago, Oct. 23. — The late rally yesterday was due to covering of shorts, and buying by traders for a turn, but the movement is likely to prove only temporary, as it is entirely a trader's market. The easier call money conditions are no indication of general money situation, and time money is still scarce, besides foreign exchange conditions continue to show an advancing tendency. Demand sterling closed within half point of gold shipping basis, and this is regarded as very plain evidence that gold exports are inevitable. Our trade balance has gone against us, and gold shipments, which are regarded as only a question of a few days will keep money tight the rest of the year. Jersey Central for September shows increase $416,000.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

London, Oct. 23, 2 p.m.—Pressed Steel Car Co. turning out 125 cars a day, and orders on books guarantee work throughout coming year. In November company will begin delivery of 5000 cars to Pa. An evidence of company's strong position is that during recent money stringency it was a large lender of money.

M. & M.

This slight rally in stocks looks to us like a movement in which the list has been bought and bid up to sell stocks on, and not on any real merit. Situation remains about the same as yesterday, and we do not expect to see movement hold, and we would take advantage of it to liquidate our holdings.

M. & M.

I hear on good authority that Goulds have made a payment of $18,000,000 for stock of the company recently acquired through the Fuller syndicate for the extension of Gould system.

M. & M.

Wheat closed in Liverpool 1-4 to 3-8 higher; corn 3-8 to 1-2 higher; corn firm on good buying by commission house induced by decision of warehouse commissioners to let the old inspection stand. Shorts covering freely in both May and Dec., and find very little offering.

RUGBY.

There is some slight falling off in the attendance at the Rugby practices and the boys need a little shaking up in this regard. The team needs all the practicing they can get between now and November 1st, and if they intend to win the Canadian championship it will not be by absenting themselves from nightly practices.

Lindsay has written down for a game for the King's Birthday. An effort will be made to satisfy the Scugog men.

Norwood is organizing a Rugby team. Well done, Norwood! There are very few villages in Canada the size of Norwood that have a Rugby team, and it is to be hoped that the boys in the East Riding capital will succeed. Of course, Norwood has seen Rugby before, and when Rev. Mr. Bushell resided there he did much to help the game along.

GOLF.

The match of the Peterborough Ladies' Golf Club, with the ladies from the Toronto club, which was to have taken place to-day, has been postponed.

On Friday at three o'clock, the ladies of the local club will play the gentlemen. Handicap will be arranged and published later.

The Ottawa Free Press says: —"The Peterborough team who will likely figure in the senior series next year will be in Ottawa, November 1, to meet the Rough Rider seconds. The Peterborough fifteen is one of the best intermediate organizations ever seen on the rugby field."

St. John's choir boys will play Trinity College School juniors, Port Hope, on the Nicholls Oval next Saturday at 2 o'clock.

* * * *

Down in Ottawa they think Peterborough has the intermediate O.R.F.U. championship cinched. That's because Peterborough swamped the Young Rough Riders. However, London may keep in the straight and narrow path for a whole season, and then nobody can tell what's going to happen.—Telegram.

* * * *

It is not very likely that the juniors will go to Port Hope on Saturday as was intended to play the T.C.S. return game.

THE RING.

A Peterborough gentleman offers to wager $500, or any part of that amount, that Chris. Graham, the plucky little boxer of that town, can defeat Jack Scholes, of Toronto, the world's amateur light-weight champion, in a ten-round go. In fact, this friend of the Peterborough scrapper is willing to wager that Scholes will be knocked out in less than ten rounds. Graham is in good shape and may take part in the bouts which the Ottawa Amateur Athletic Club will arrange next winter. It is likely that an effort will be made to have him meet Scholes, Certain it is that the meeting will take place, if Scholes is agreeable.—Ottawa Citizen.

The above item is entirely uncalled for and is no doubt the result of someone's great imaginary powers. Mr. Graham did do a little work with the gloves some time ago for his own amusement, but is out of the business entirely and has been so for some time. The statement that Mr. Graham will take part in the bouts of the Ottawa Amateur Athletic Club is as absurd as the other statements contained in the above item.

TENNIS.

Lawn tennis players are greatly interested in a report that there is a possibility of widening the courts for doubles. The plan proposed is to extend the side lines of the double court six inches on either side, making the court thirty-seven feet wide instead of thirty-six feet. This change would make the distance from the side lines of the single court to the side lines of the double court, five feet instead of four feet six inches.

SKATING.

The probabilities are that Montreal will once again see one of the finest skating tournaments on record. As usual it will be under the auspices of the Amateur Skating Association of Canada. The chances are that Peter Castlund, the great European skater and the finest on the other side of the water at present, and Nilssen will meet. If they do there will ensue one of the fastest and best contested races that have ever been skated in America.

W.C.T.U. Convention Closes.

Portland, Me., Oct. 23.—With the hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the benediction, the great convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union came to an end last night.

A Wonderful Arrow.

"An arrow studded with the most costly of stones, tipped at both ends with pure virgin gold, and headed with the feathers of the rarest birds." Such is the description given of the "Polenzelo arrow," which, in 1843, was presented to Sir John Dalcourt by a Spanish gentleman. This wonderful arrow was made in 1204 by an ancestor of the Spaniard's, and every stone and jewel with which it was set was said to represent a human life cut short through its instrumentality. The stones indicated the number of men to whom it had carried death, whilst the curiously fashioned gold and silver jewels represented the women who had fallen under its poisoned point.

English Missionary Killed.

Tangier, Morocco, Oct. 22.—An English missionar named Cooper, was recently murdered at Fez, and his murderer sought refuge in the sanctuary; but, on the order of the Sultan, he was seized and shot in front of the Mosque.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

Provincial Health Officers Visit Berlin's Farm—Dr. Amyot's Paper on the Subject and Discussion Thereon.

Just before the close of the annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario the members were driven to the Berlin sewage farm, which they examined with the utmost thoroughness. Upon returning to the Court House a paper was read to the Association by Dr. Amyot on "Sewage Disposal." Dr. Amyot has been conducting a series of investigations at the Berlin farm during the past summer on behalf of the Provincial Board of Health. The experiments have been watched closely by Berlin's people, as owing to the peculiar situation of the town the question of sewage disposal there is unusually difficult. The rapid growth of the last few years has increased the quantity of sewage, until there is now some half-million gallons a year. This is much stronger than ordinary domestic sewage, as the waste of four large tanneries is included. Some years ago a sewage farm was acquired and it has been in operation since. A septic tank has been installed, but the plant has been found insufficient to meet the situation, and the effluent to the small stream is not pure. Dr. Amyot not only described the experiments being conducted there, but also dealt with the general question of sewage disposal and the process of putrifaction. Dr. Amyot said finally that the reason that the Berlin septic tank has not been effective in disposing of more than 50 per cent. of the organic matter is that the tank is altogether too small; that, in fact, one tank is being used to do the work of seven or eight, according to the results obtained with septic tanks in other sewage disposal plants.

Mr. Thomas Macfarlane of Ottawa read a paper on the treatment of domestic sewage with moss litter. He described a moss closet that, he said, completely dries, disinfects and deodorizes organic matter, and at the same time preserves its full fertilizing value. The system, he claimed, required little attention, and is very inexpensive.

The discussion on sewage disposal was opened by Mr. Willis Chapman, C. E., who suggested that perhaps after experimenting with many forms of sewage disposal municipalities might return to the broad system which had never been abandoned in favor of septic tanks, etc., but merely supplemented by them, in old country plants. He deprecated the parsimony of the average Councilman who feared to lay out enough money to procure a proper plant. To illustrate the extravagant expectations of some people in connection with septic tanks, he said that an Alderman looked into a septic tank and said: "I don't believe this tank is any good: I can't see a blamed living thing in it."

CANADA'S NEW WATERWAY.

Description of the Plan Recently Outlined From a U. S. Viewpoint.

A Buffalo paper says that Canada has revived the old project for the construction of a deep waterway from Lake Huron to the seaboard, though by a different route from the much talked-of Georgian Bay canal. The new plan of the Dominion Government as outlined by Mr. Tarte, the Canadian Commissioner of Public Works is to improve the French River to Lake Nipissing and secure a deep water channel to Montreal by improvement of the Ottawa river. He says that $5,000,000 has already been provided for the improvement of the French river and that a deep water channel by the way of French river, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa river will call for an expenditure of $80,000,000

The old scheme for a Georgian Bay canal, which has been agitated off and on for more than thirty years, was a short cut to Lake Simcoe and from there to Lake Ontario. This route, it was claimed, would save 300 miles from any port on Lake Superior, Lake Michigan or Lake Huron to Lake Ontario, and, as the Canadians claimed, would avoid the dangers of the St. Clair flats.

The main point, however, was to divert commerce from Lake Erie, as it was admitted by the advocates of the project that once the boats from Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron entered Lake Erie the commerce was sure to go by the way of the Erie canal or the railway lines to the seaboard. They argued that if this commerce could be kept out of Lake Erie and thrown into Lake Ontario by way of the Georgian Bay canal, it would go down the St. Lawrence and be to the benefit of Montreal and Quebec. The same results, it is now insisted, could be obtained by the French river, Lake Nipissing and Ottawa river route, which the Canadian authorities appear to regard as more feasible than that of the Georgian Bay.

The fact that the Canadians seem to be in earnest about constructing such a waterway as is here indicated should stir to action the people interested in the maintenance of our supremacy of the commerce of the great lakes. If Canada can afford to spend $80,000,000 on the proposed deep waterway to Montreal, the United States can afford to spend as many or more millions in building a ship canal from Buffalo to the Hudson river. If it is to the political and commercial interests of the Dominion to have a purely Canadian route from Lake Huron to the seaboard, it ought to be much more to the interest of the United States to have a purely American route from Lake Erie to the seaboard.

Maker of Cardiff Giant Dead.

Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 23.—George Hull, famous as the man who in 1870, devised the Cardiff Giant, the greatest hoax of the day, died in poverty at his home, near here, yesterday. He was 81 years old. In 1869 he conceived the Cardiff Giant scheme, and accumulated a fortune from it. Carved from gypsum, interred in the ground and afterward exhumed as a discovery, the Cardiff Giant was heralded throughout the country as the petrified remains of prehistoric man. Scientists from colleges and institutions here and abroad flocked to see the giant, and pronounced it a relic of past ages.

The English Climate.

Perhaps only those who live mainly out of doors, and are moreover something of connoisseurs in climate, fully realize how few are the hours of an English year when the open air is so tempered of hot and cold and moist and dry as to be purely pleasurable to the bodily senses in a state of repose. Atmospheric conditions exciting to displays of energy are common enough, and perhaps the pleasure of vigorous exertion in sunny frost or of battling against wind and rain is greater than that which any "dolce far niente" can offer. And of course, on the moral side, everything is to be said in favor of the sterner skies; an habitual necessity of doing something to keep warm helps to breed an active race; we have all learned the debt we owe to the brave North-Easter. Yet to be able to sit still and merely enjoy the ambient air, to lie for an hour on the grass without a suggestion either of rheumatism or sunstroke, knowing that the skiey influences have for the time made truce with man, and feeling that the elements are so nicely tempered that no excess or defect will fret the fine edges of our sensoria is a harmless luxury enough; and is moreover too rare, in the seasons we know, seriously to lower the severer standard.—Saturday Review.

The World's Volcanoes.

Since the disasters in Martinique and St. Vincent somebody has taken the trouble to count up the world's volcanoes. The total, according to The Paris Siecle, is about 1,000 of which 325 are still classed as active. "Extinct" volcanoes, however, are suspect. After the destruction of Pompeii Vesuvius lay quiescent for three centuries.

RESUMING WORK NOT GENERAL

Price of Coal Goes Up—Unwelcome Announcement by the Operators—Bad Condition of the Mines Will Tend to Keep Many Out of Employment For Some Time—The Commission.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—President Morton of the International Association of Stationary Engineers and Firemen, stated yesterday that all members of the association all over the country will be ordered to refuse to handle any anthracite coal until every member affected by the anthracite coal strike is reinstated on the basis on which the miners returned to work.

The brotherhood has a membership of 14,000. President Morton declares that his organization is in a position to shut hard coal out of all cities, where it has local unions, and such action will be taken, if necessary, for the protection of members of the union who have lost their positions on account of the anthracite strike.

SOME MEN STILL OUT.

Work Resumption at Mines Not as General as Expected.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 24. — The resumption of mining throughout the anthracite region was not as general yesterday as was expected. Unlooked for difficulties were encountered in the shape of water and accumulated gas, and dangerous roofs which threatened to fall and entomb the workers were also discovered in many of the collieries.

The mine superintendents would take no chances, and the mining of coal was put off until all parts of the underground workings can be made safe. This will take a few days yet, and in some cases, it will take weeks before the mines can be put in full operation.

In quite a few of the collieries, the machinery and everything else connected with the hoisting of coal acted badly, and it was found necessary to close down after steam had been raised and the miners were ready to go to work.

From reports received from the entire anthracite region, the number of mines in operation is given as a little less than two-thirds of the total number, but the output of coal was less than half the normal.

As was expected there was more or less dissatisfaction among the old employes over the reopening of the mines. Where it was decided not to resume work for a few days, the men took it that the coal companies did not want their services, and many complaints reached President Mitchell's headquarters. President Mitchell expects that when all the mines get in operation there will be less complaints.

It looks as though the union engineers were going to have some difficulty getting back their old places. At nearly every mine where the striking engineers made application for work yesterday, they were told that there were no vacancies. A large number of carpenters are also out in the cold.

DEALERS KEEP UP PRICES.

Radical Order Issued by President of the Reading Coal Company.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24. — President George F. Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company has sent a letter to the general manager of the company, saying that reports received from several groups of collieries estimate an average increase in the production of coal as a result of the strike, of more than 50c per ton. It is hoped to reach a normal condition of production by Jan. 1 next. Mr. Baer also states that no coal was sold at an advance by the company during the strike, yet "the price has been unreasonably advanced to the public by some retail dealers. In the distribution of coal, therefore, you will, so far as practicable, supply the dealers, willing to sell coal to the public at reasonable prices. Where dealers seek to obtain an unfair profit from the public you will promptly take steps to supply the reasonable demands of the public directly."

The opinion is expressed by the manager that the prices of all kinds of coal delivered to citizens of Philadelphia should not in any case exceed $6.75 a ton.

The Commission Is Ready.

Washington, Oct. 24.—All the members of the Arbitration Commission appointed by the President to investigate and report on the conditions in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania are now in the city preparatory to the initial meeting to-day.

ONE FRENCH STRIKE SETTLED.

Chamber of Deputies in Paris Adopts Principle of Arbitration.

Paris, Oct. 24.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, the Premier read two despatches which he had just received from the Under Prefect of Dunkirk. The first message related to Tuesday's disorders there, and the second reported that the strike was ended, and that work would be resumed to-day, as the workmen and their employers had come to a complete agreement. The reading of this second message was greeted with enthusiastic applause from all parts of the House.

Immediately afterwards, the following order of the day was accepted by the Governor, and adopted by 375 votes to 164: "The Chamber of Deputies, taking into account the declaration of the President of the Council that he will press in Parliament the discussion of and vote on the reforms interesting to the miners, and confiding in his firmness and wisdom to protect the liberty of workmen and the free exercise of the right to strike, invites the president of the Council to use all his influence to cause both parties to accept arbitration."

Prior to the receipt of the messages in the Chamber of Deputies, the following story had come from Dunkirk:

Further serious strike disturbances occurred at Dunkirk yesterday. Barricades were erected, and the cavalry was compelled to charge the rioters. Some of the latter were killed or wounded. Martial law has been proclaimed at Dunkirk.

The strikers sacked the residence of a municipal councillor, who is a large dealer in coal, and then set fire to it. The man's neighbors afterwards extinguished the flames. A detachment of cavalry was obliged to repeatedly charge the strikers, who resisted with sticks and spades. Several men were injured on both sides.

The strikers invaded the law courts during the day, and interrupted business there. They were charged repeatedly on the square in front of the law courts. The rioters assailed the soldiers with bricks, and scrap iron. A lieutenant of cavalry and all the commissaries of police present were wounded.

A mob of striking dock laborers set fire to barrels of oil and other goods on the quays, and also set fire to the house of a mine owner.

No Mediation in English Strike.

London, Oct. 24.—Impressed with the result of President Roosevelt's intervention in the coal strike in the United States, Mr. Field, M.P., president of the Irish Cattle Traders' and Cattle Owners' Association, invited the president of the Board of Trade, Gerald Balfour, to adopt a similar course in the case of the old-standing Penrhyn quarry dispute. Mr. Balfour, however, replied that the circumstances in the Penrhyn dispute were quite dis-similar to those in the American strike, and said there was no prospect that official intervention would tend to promote a settlement.

TEACHERS IN CONVENTION.

Election of Officers Took Place This Morning.

Convention Concluded This Afternoon Miss Munro's Address.

The Friday morning session was held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, the chair being occupied by Inspector Brown.

Mr. Albert H. Leake, of Toronto, Director of the Macdonald Manual Training Schools, was present, and gave a splendid address on the necessity for and the principles of Manual Training. He pointed out many erroneous ideas in regard to this matter, showed how it could be successfully conducted, and expressed his disappointment that it had not been introduced into Peterborough. A discussion followed in which Inspector Brown, Miss Munro, Mr. T. J. Wallace, Mr. L. T. Lochead, M. A., and others took part. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Leake.

Mr. W. A. Evans followed with an admirable paper on the subject of "Attention."

The Nominating Committee reported as follows:

President—Mr. D. L. Somerville, Havelock.

Vice-President — Miss Agnes Moloney, Douro.

Sec.-Treasurer—Mr. J. W. Kelly, Box 620, Peterborough.

Executive Committee — Miss E. Waters, Norwood; Miss K. Courtney, Peterborough; Miss Bella Duff, Lakefield; Mr. S. A. Smithson, Villiers; Mr. T. J. Wallace, Keene.

Auditors—Miss Annie L. Wood, Mr. Louis Bolin.

Delegates to O.E.A.—Miss M. McEwen, Mr. John Mahood.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. M. W. Matchett, who has severed his connection with the teaching profession, and has accepted a position as special agent of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in connection with the office of Mr. W. H. Hill, Peterborough.

Miss Jessie K. Munro, who spent some time in Japan, gave a most interesting address on "Life in Japan." The address was very profitable to all who heard it, and outlined the possibilities of the country, the peculiarities of the climate and people and the advance of western civilization. The address was more in the form of a talk and was much appreciated.

MR. GILLESPIE MARRIED.

A Former Peterborough Boy Weds a Lady at the "Soo."

The Daily News-Record, of Sault St. Marie, contains the following account of the wedding of Mr. Richard Gillespie, son of Mr. John Gillespie, of town:

"Miss Lillian Isobell Stevenson became the bride of Richard Gillespie, of the Canadian Soo, last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. B. Steele under a floral arch which separated the parlours in the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Adam Ferguson, Maple street.

"At 8 o'clock Miss Helen Ferguson began the notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march on the piano in the parlour, in which the ceremony was to take place. Mr. Gillespie and Miss Stevenson came down the stairs, followed by Thomas Thompson, of the Canadian Soo, and Miss Maud Stinson, the groomsman and bridesmaid.

"The bride was attired in a costume of pure white, French lawn over taffeta and she carried white roses. Miss Stinson's gown was of white batiste over tafetta and her bouquet was pink roses. The floral decorations in the back parlour, where the service was read were supberb, being made up of potted plants, cut flowers, ferns and smilax, arranged in a bank of bloom and green at the sides of the floral arch, which formed the canopy over the bridal party.

"Following the wedding service a supper was served at which a small number of guests sat down. The tables were decorated in carnations and smilax. Mrs. Gillespie was during the evening made the recipient of a number of costly mementoes of the wedding.

"Mr. Gillespie is the manager of Stark's store in the Canadian Soo and previously to that time he had been employed in this city; so that he is still considered a Sootie, and as such is very popular socially and among his former associates. His bride has been a Soo girl for a number of years. Her social accomplishments are many and she has been much sought after among the younger set. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie left after the ceremony for their home in the Canadian Soo. They will be at home in two weeks on Wellington street."

TELLING HALF-TRUTHS.

The Whitney party in Ontario has been working over time in denouncing alleged corruption on the part of certain minor Liberal political workers with the assumption that the Conservatives were pure and undefiled. As a matter of fact political sharp practices are not confined to either party exclusively. There are elements in both parties whose zeal for partyism success leads them to disregard the higher principles of political ethics, and it is sheer hypocrisy for the Conservative party or any one on its behalf to claim that that party is free from political crookedness. Referring to this subject the Brockville Recorder says:

"In speaking of the nastiness in South Oxford, not one Conservative paper has commented on the fact that the main instrument in the deal and the man who pocketed the cash, is the same man who four years ago was the Conservative candidate in that constituency. He offered to play Judas with his fellow-Conservative, the local member, and supply evidence to unseat him for a price. Jackson, a Liberal, swallowed the bait and entered into the deal. Neither party has anything to be proud of in the transaction, and surely the Conservatives ought to be too heartily ashamed of their ex-candidtae and the man they shouted for four years ago, to gloat over his treachery as a thing to be admired, merely because he pulled a Liberal into the mess with him."

Lest the reader of Conservative papers may think their party is too good and pure for this world, they may be reminded that in the North Waterloo election trial the two Conservative star witnesses were bought by prominent official members of the Conservative party to give false witness and their own evidence convicted them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is often said that "two heads are better than one." Sir Wilfrid Laurier doesn't think so.

The Conservative journalistic critics, who have been so fond of calling Mr. Tarte "the Master of the Administration," are compelled to admit that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has something to say that goes.

If there were any proof required that the Mad Mullah in Somaliland, East Africa, is deserving of his title, it is furnished by the fact that he is mad enough to pit his puny power against the might of the British Empire.

The corset makers of Canada are said to contemplate forming a great combine. Another plan to squeeze people, we suppose.—Hamilton Times.

With such a concentration of waist energy such a combine is likely to be bust.

When the Liberals are in power, people, the Hamilton Times says, do not need a mass of statistics to prove to them that they enjoy prosperity. The officials are not set to work preparing schedules in which every old lady who knits stockings is put down as a woollen manufactory.

Mr. Borden, the Conservative leader, it is said is anxious for Hon. G. E. Foster to re-enter parliament. The former needs a financial critic, he has none in his present following. But Mr. Foster has no seat, and he finds it as difficult to get one as it was for Noah's dove to find a roosting place.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review suggests that the election petition saw-offs be sent to the municipal wood yards.

There's nothing in it. Those saw-offs will not produce fuel. — St. Thomas Times.

But they may fuel some of the electors.

Those who regard the Mail and Empire as hostile to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, must revise their opinion. The last day or two the Conservative organ has shown extraordinary kindness to the Premier — it has taken off his hands the work of supplying a successor to Hon. Mr. Tarte, as Minister of Public Works. Sir Wilfrid will indeed be ungrateful if he declines to accept the Mail's services, but perhaps he will be unreasonable enough to insist on having a little to say in the matter. He declined to permit Mr. Tarte to shape the policy of the Government, and he will, doubtless, have something to say as to whom Mr. Tarte's successor will be.

TARIFF STABILITY.

(The Globe.)

The Mail says that Mr. Tarte goes out of the Cabinet on the question of the tariff, not on a constitutional question. Both questions were involved. The action of Sir Wilfrid Laurier means that he will not have his hand forced on the tariff, and will not retain a colleague who attempts to force his hand by working up public sentiment for high protection. It means that he will consider the permanent interests of the people as a whole, and will not be carried away by gusts of sentiment, or by agitation, however energetic and well organized. The tariff is in excellent hands, and the utmost importance will be attached to the views of the Ministers who have special duties in connection with it. The present tariff has worked exceedingly well, and the excitement that has been aroused about it is largely factitious. There is very little practical or substantial basis for the agitation. A man who, as manufacturer or workman, is well satisfied, is shown a lot of statistics, and told that our country is being ruined by American competition. There is a general belief that American tariff legislation has been unfriendly to Canada, and human nature is pleased by the notion of doing something by way of retaliation. The trouble with tariff retaliation is that you cannot tell whom it will hit, or whether you will get at your real enemy. It is like throwing a stone into a crowd.

The principle which underlies the tariff of 1897 is the promotion of Canadian interests. The tariff is a moderate one, lower than its predecessor, admitting raw material free or at a low rate of duty, and giving a preference to British imports. Nothing has happened since to warrant a serious departure from that policy. There is no such emergency as Mr. Tarte and his friends have represented. The situation is just what it was in 1898, 1900 or 1901. There may be occasion for an alteration here and there, but there is certainly no occasion for going into a panic and enacting a prohibitory tariff. No panic, no stampede, no forcing of the hand of the Premier or his financial colleagues. That much is implied in Mr. Tarte's departure.

OUR TRADE IN SOUTH AFRICA.

A recent article in the Cape Colony Advertiser, dealing with Canadian products and the work of Mr. J. G. Jardine, Canadian Trade Commissioner, shows a growing interest in the affairs of the Dominion, and the commercial relations of the colonies. "It is a pleasure to meet Mr. Jardine," says the Advertiser, "a breezy, genial, energetic man, who comes right to the point at once, is full of enthusiasm, and arouses interest in Canadian industries and Canadian aspirations." It is encouraging to see a healthy eagerness to welcome Canadian trade in this distant part of the empire, and it shows that our recent services are likely to prove of lasting value. Of Canadian products wanted in South Africa, the Advertiser says:

"From a butcher's skewer to a main mast, from a ninepin to a piano or organ, there is hardly anything in the manufacture of which wood is an important factor that Canada cannot supply in quantity and price to meet an extensive export demand. Thousands of miles of Canadian forests were secured some years ago by far-seeing Americans, who noted the rapid depletion of American timber forests, and quite two thirds of the timber exported from the States as American timber, comes from Canada. . . . Furniture, organs, household implements, boots and shoes, leather goods, can be sent to this country very advantageously. But Canada's staple trade for South Africa is food products of all kinds, with canned goods, and particularly salmon, as an especial attraction."

It is now known in southern colonies, that much of the "Oregon pine" they are consuming, comes from the forests of British Columbia. The time when merchants in South Africa addressed letters to "Canada, U. S. A." is happily past, and it remains for our manufacturers and exporters to build up the reputation already established by supplying goods of excellent quality and attending carefully to the special needs of the market. The many complimentary references to the work of Mr. Jardine show that his share of the work is in good hands, but our exporters must bear in mind that they are entering a competitive field, where those who first secure a foothold will not be easily dislodged.

PETERBOROUGH HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting Held Last Night.

THE OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers is Again President —Secretary T. A. S. Hay's Report—Additions to the Museum.

The Peterborough Historical Society held their fifth annual meeting in the parlors of the local Y.M.C.A. last evening, with President Lt. Col. Rogers in the chair, and the following members present;—Vice-President R. Hall, Secretary T. A. S. Hay, Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, H. R. H. Kenner, D. Walker, Col. E. B. Edwards, H. Strickland, J. C. Brown, Rev. J. C. Davidson, E. J. Toker, Robt. Harrison, Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, Mrs. Birdsall, and Miss Watt.

A few minutes after eight o'clock the meeting was called to order by President Rogers, who, in a brief speech, outlined the reasons that the Historical Society had to be proud of their past record. One thing which was a matter of self congratulation was the very successful meeting which the Ontario Historical Society had held here last spring. Following this, Secretary Hay read a report of the previous meeting of the Society, after which the fifth annual report was submitted to the meeting as below;

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Members of the Peterborough Historical Society;

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I beg to present my fifth annual report as follows;

The Society had the honour of entertaining the Ontario Historical Society, which held its annual meeting for 1902 in Peterborough and Lindsay.

At the annual meeting of that Society, held in Belleville in 1901, our President, Lt.-Col. Rogers and delegates Messrs. Hall, Collins and Dunlop tendered an invitation to the Ontario Society to hold its annual convention for 1902 in Peterborough. His Honor Judge Dean and delegates of the Victoria Society pressed the claims of Lindsay for the same. A compromise was arrived at by a proposition to divide the honours by holding the meeting one day in each place.

A preliminary meeting of this Society was held on May 23rd, 1902, at which the President reported that he and the Secretary had gone to Lindsay and concluded arrangements with the Victoria Society.

As it was found absolutely necessary to have sufficient funds to carry out the proposed programme, Mrs. Birdsall, Vice-President, and Miss Watt very kindly offered to canvas the members for arrears of annual dues. This was carried out most successful, and the ladies handed over the sum of $47.50. An application was also made to the Town Council for assistance, which resulted in a grant of $50.00.

Several of our lady members also very kindly offered to billet the lady delegates.

The meeting of the Ontario Society was convened at two p.m. in the assembly room at Victoria Museum on June 4th, 1902. At 3.30 p.m., carriages being in waiting, the meeting adjourned, and under the guidance of members of the local Society, the delegates were driven about the town and vicinity and were shown various points of interest.

At eight p.m. the meeting resumed business in the Y.M.C.A. assembly hall, Mr. Coyne, President of Ontario Society, presiding. Several interesting papers were read and addresses given.

On Thursday, June 5th, at 8.15 a.m., the Ontario Society and members of the local Society went to Lakefield by train, where they embarked on the steamer Ogemah. A very pleasant day was spent on the beautiful lake and river stretches of the Trent canal. Meetings were held during the day at which reports of the various County Societies were presented. The party were received by Mr. W. Boyd at Bobcaygeon, and transferred to the steamer Esturion, which arrived at Lindsay at six p. m.

The closing meeting of the convention was held in the assembly hall of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, at which the officers and delegates of the Ontario Historical Society expressed in the highest terms their appreciation of the trip through the lakes and the entertainment throughout the two days. The receipts and expenditure in connection with the convention were as follows:

Receipts.

Fees collected by Mrs. Birdsall and Miss Watt	$47.50
Grant from Town Council	50.00
Total	$97.50

Expenditures.

Expenses of President and Secretary to Lindsay	$ 6.70
Paid half expenses of trip from Lakefield to Lindsay	27.50
National hotel, board of delegates	6.00
R. H. Leary, cabs	14.25
R. Gibbs, cabs	1.50
Y. M. C.A., rent of hall	2.00
Mrs. Howland, donation	5.00
R. M. Roy, photograph	.90
Secretary, postage, express, etc	4.15
Balance on hand	29.50
Total	$97.50

Vouchers for which are submitted herewith.

The museum has continued to grow in extent and interest very satisfactorily during the past year. Many new and valuable exhibits have been added to it through the generosity of two former residents of Peterborough, each having contributed $50.00, and through the kindness and influence of the Hon. J. R. Stratton a grant of $100.60 was received from the Ontario Government. Some new cases have been ordered, but owing to pressure of work they have not yet been supplied.

The museum has been visited by many hundreds of people during the season and the Committee has received hearty congratulations. On looking over the visitors book it is found that a large proportion of names registered are of visitors from other places. It is to be regretted that so few of our fellow citizens have been inside the walls of the institution. The building is open to the public, free of charge, from April 15th till October 15th, from two till five p.m., and the caretaker, living in the building, is always ready and willing to allow visitors every opportunity to see the collections. The Committee also desire to express their entire satisfaction with the faithful services rendered by the caretaker, Mrs. Howland, who has kept the rooms clean and bright and the exhibits in good order.

The thanks of the Society are due to the ladies who undertook the arduous task of collecting arrears of dues; to the ladies who kindly entertained at their homes delegates to the annual meeting; to the Messrs. Boyd, of the Trent Valley Navigation Company, for the excellent steamboat service and lunch, and many kind attentions during the trip; to the Town Council for a grant of $50.00, and to Mr. J. W. Flavelle and Mr. A. P. Choate for donations of $50.00 each; to a large number of citizens who have kindly donated valuable articles for exhibition in the museum; to the Trustees of the Nicholls Estate for generously putting the building into first rate condition for utility and comfort, and to the Press for many kind services in publishing information for the benefit of the Society.

In conclusion I would remind the members of one of the most important functions of a Historical Society, viz., the acquisition of information, anecdotes and lore of the few remaining "old settlers." Hitherto this work has been prevented to some extent by the want of funds. Now, however, the Society has the necessary funds which cannot be expended for a better purpose.

T. A. S. HAY,
Secretary.

On the conclusion of this it was moved, seconded and carried that the secretary's report be accepted. The election of officers for the coming year was next taken up and the following were appointed;

Hon. President — His Honour Judge Weller.

President—Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers.

Vice-Presidents—R. Hall, J. B. McWilliams, Mrs. Birdsall.

Secretary—T. A. S. Hay, C.E.

Treasurer—Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson.

Executive Committee—Col. E. B. Edwards, D. Spence, E. J. Toker, Rev. J. C. Davidson, J. C. Brown, E. Elcome, F. J. Jameson.

Museum Committee—H. Strickland, T. A. S. Hay, and H. Burnham.

In nominating Mr. Hay for Secretary Mr. Strickland paid him a glowing tribute for his services in the past, and the zeal which he had shown for the welfare of the Society. Replying the Secretary disclaimed any honour due him, happily stating that the task, although arduous, was very congenial to him, inasmuch as the object of the Society was one that had always been his favourite study and pastime.

A paper dealing with the life, habits and work of the Township of Asphodel was then read by Mr. Robt. Harrison. This paper was compiled from data obtained by Mr. Harrison from his father who is at present one of the two living men who were the first settlers of Asphodel and vicinity. The article was rich in incidents, and events that gave a splendid insight to the mode of living in those strenuous times, and was listened to with interest to the end. On the conclusion of this article the hearty thanks of the gathering was extended to Mr. Harrison, and then plans for the coming year was discussed. No definite programme was outlined, but the Executive Committee was authorized to wait upon the Fortnightly Club, and see if an arrangement could not be made with them as in previous years. The expectations of the Historical Society are that the coming season will be one of the most profitable and prosperous years in the history of the Society.

PRIEST INVENTS AN AIRSHIP.

Says It Can Travel 100 Miles an Hour in Safety.

Denver, Col., Oct. 24.—Rev. Felix M. Lepore, pastor of Mount Carmel Italian Church, is the inventor of a flying machine, which he declares will revolutionize the present mode of travel and warfare, and is as free from danger as the present day locomotives. It is said that the priest's plans have attracted the attention of Eastern capitalists, who have promised to advance the $20,000 needful for the construction of the machine. Father Lepore says his airship can attain a speed of 100 miles an hour, and can be made bullet-proof. He is the inventor of a fire escape, a hospital bed and a life preserver, all of value.

Other Pedlar Held.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 24.—In the case of the murdered Armenian pedlar found at Tenny Cape Wednesday, an inquest was held Wednesday and a verdict returned that deceased came to his death at the hands of his comrade. A razor and a large stone covered with blood were found yesterday near the place where the body was discovered. The other pedlar, who is held on suspicion of being the murderer, will be taken to Windsor to-day for examination.

IT MAY BE KITCHENER.

Who Will Yet Wipe Out Mad Mullah and Fanatic Followers.

Rome, Oct. 24.—Lord Kitchener, now en route to India, in an interview yesterday, admitted that if the situation in Somaliland grows worse, he might pause there on his way to India and organize an anti-Mullah campaign. Thus the man, who, as Sirdar, crushed the Mahdi, may be the one to wipe out the Mullah and his fanatic followers.

More Troops to Be Sent.

Simla, India, Oct. 24.—Besides the Second Bombay Grenadiers, and the Bombay Infantry Regiment sailing for Somaliland yesterday, a native field hospital will sail for the same destination Saturday. The 29th Baluchis have also been warned to be in readiness.

Escapes From the Fanatic.

London, Oct. 24.—A message received at the Foreign Office here yesterday from Gen. Manning, dated Berbera (capital of Somaliland, British East Africa), announces that the force commanded by Col. Swayne, which was threatened with destruction by the army commanded by the Mad Mullah, has reached Bohotle in safety.

Gen. Manning's message adds: "Col. Swayne's force was not attacked during its retirement. The situation, consequently, is more satisfactory, but do not cancel the orders warning a Punjah regiment to be in readiness in case it is wanted, as further developments must be awaited. The wounded are all doing well, and no anxiety concerning the wounded officers need be felt. The Aden detachment is expected to-day, and will go forward to-morrow."

The news from Somaliland caused great satisfaction here, and relieved the keen anxiety felt as to the fate of the British expedition. Gen. Manning's message was promptly forwarded to King Edward.

Karl Inger at Buda-Pesth.

Vienna, Oct. 24.—It is stated that Karl Inger, a former officer in the Austrian army, who was reported to be acting as the chief lieutenant of the Mad Mullah in Somaliland, has been staying at Buda-Pesth for some time.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

SIR WILFRID AT MONTREAL.

Premier Will Visit Quebec and Arthabaskaville.

MR. TARTE'S WORD TO COUNTRY

Ex-Minister Leaves the Cabinet Without Any Bitterness—Work in the Department—What He Has Done to Improve Transportation — Allowance For the Premier's Letter—Ministerial Scapegoat.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The centre of political interest has been temporarily transfered from this city to Montreal where the Premier went yesterday morning, accompanied by Lady Laurier, Mr. Charlemagne Laurier, M.P., and Mr. Victor Geoffrion, M.P. From Montreal Sir Wilfrid goes to Quebec, and he will spend Sunday at his country home in Arthabaskaville, which he has not seen for many months. His visit to Montreal and Quebec is doubtless connected with the choice of a successor to Mr. Tarte.

Mr. Sutherland a Possible.

Hon. James Sutherland is acting Minister of Public Works, and it would not be surprising if the portfolio of that department, for the present at any rate, were committed to his care. Mr. Sutherland's administration of the Marine and Fisheries Department has been progressive and practical, and he has won golden opinions from the shipping interests by his promptness in carrying out improvements for rendering still more safe the navigation of Canadian waterways, especially on the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence. Should Mr. Sutherland go to the Public Works Department, the new Minister would seemingly be given the portfolio of Marine and Fisheries. This is, however, mere speculation, seeing that nobody knows what will be done save the Premier himself, and it is very doubtful if Sir Wilfrid has yet made up his mind on the matter.

A WORD TO THE COUNTRY.

Hon. J. Israel Tarte's First Contribution to La Patrie.

Under the heading, "A Word to the Country," Hon. J. Israel Tarte contributes the following to La Patrie:

"The incident is closed to the satisfaction of many people. The Conservatives rejoice at my resignation—that is legitimate—They think it will increase their chances of success—what then would an opposition exist on if they did not have hopes? Some of my political friends hail my retirement with content. Others, and I thank them with all my heart, have shown me the warmest sympathy. I am decidedly one of the most interested parties in the matter. I declare myself content. I leave the the Cabinet without regret, without pain, without bitterness against anybody. I have tried to do my duty. For more than six years I have been in the Department of Public Works. I labored hard during the day. I worked late into the night. I had at heart the advancement of the great cause of our national means of transportation. This has been the basic principle of my administration of affairs. There are no indispensable men. I will easily be replaced. There are in the Liberal party men who will give Sir Wilfrid Laurier their undivided support. I wish that my successor may do more and do better than I did.

"I see that some reproach Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the tone of the letter which he addressed to me. The Prime Minister is fatigued, harrassed, ill. The undeniable harshness of some of his words by no means changes my personal feeling towards him. I have grown old enough to take the circumstances into consideration. The Prime Minister had no right to tell me that I had failed in loyalty towards my colleagues, in using the language which I recently did on the fiscal question. To this unjust reproach I have the right to oppose the numerous speeches which I made, in the same sense, during the last few years.

"I did not organize a campaign in Ontario. I went into that province last year and this summer at the urgent invitation of the agricultural societies of the Chambers of commerce, of ministerial members. I had been represented during the elections of 1900 especially, as a man who was disloyal to His Sovereign. I seized every possible opportunity to dispel that prejudice, which had no justification for its existence. If those who held the strings of the political organization in Ontario in 1900 had not prevented me from going to speak in the province, I am sure that the results of the last electoral battle there would not have been the same in many counties.

"I appeal on this point to the Liberal deputation, to our friends in the different districts in Ontario. There is loyalty and 'fair play' among the English population. If I had been heard, I would not have been condemned. I had an ardent desire not to allow the cruel suspicion that I was not a loyal subject of His Majesty to float over my head. I went to Ontario. I opened a great many fairs. I spoke there. I discussed the questions of transportation and the tariff as I had done in the past. It is possible that I overshadowed somebody, that unintentionally I wounded some susceptibilities.

"I have been bitterly reproached for meddling with things which were under the control of other departments than my own. From my seat in Parliament I will ask my colleagues to reply to me for this malevolent attack. I have been for nearly 30 years a journalist. I have travelled much throughout Canada. It was natural that people should apply to me The French groups in various sections of the confederation have often entrusted me with difficult and delicate missions. I have fulfilled them to the best of my ability. I have, in all this, endeavored to serve the interests of my country, of my race and of my party. There are times when a Minister who knows that he represents considerable interests is obliged to hold firm at the risk of creating opponents to himself.

"At the beginning my situation was especially embarrassing. I had belonged for a long time to the Conservative party. If anything happened, or did not happen, which was displeasing to certain groups, it was I who was the culprit. I was a Conservative. I would not desire my worst enemy to have to travel the road which I have been forced to cover.

"My re-entering into private life is a surprise for those who are among my intimate friends. I desired to retire before the elections of 1900 I yielded to the pressing solicitations of my personal friends and I remained.

"The constitutional pretext which is the cause of my departure, is nothing but a shallow argument. I thank Sir Wilfrid Laurier for having done me the honor to confide to me the important portfolio of Minister of Public Works on July 13, 1896. I have learned to know my country, its immense resources, its possibilities for development. My experience will not be lost. I shall utilize it in my career as a journalist, and as a member of Parliament. I have served my leader and my party faithfully, loyally, honorably. For one, or the other, I have never spared my energy or my devotion.

"My views on the fiscal situation, which confronts this country, are, I have the profound conviction, those of the very great majority of the Canadian people and of the Liberal party. A tariff of defence for our national interests, of firm protection, without ambiguity, for our industries, our agriculture, our working classes. That is the policy of to-morrow. That is the policy which I will continue to defend with my pen, my speech, and from my seat in Parliament. J. I. Tarte."

Sir Wilfrid in Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—Yesterday was a busy day at the Windsor, where Sir Wilfrid arrived at noon, sending soon after for ex-Mayor Prefontaine. No announcement may be expected for a few days as Sir Wilfrid will go to Quebec to-day, and then pass several days at Arthabaskaville.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

At Rome an earthquake shock was felt at 9.51 Thursday morning.

France, Great Britain and Germany have made an agreement providing for the military evacuation of Shanghai by their forces.

A despatch received at Manchester further confirms the many reports of differences between King Alfonso of Spain and General Weyler, Minister of War.

The Boer generals arrived in London Thursday morning. Secretary Devilliers said the generals had no intention of asking the Colonial Secretary for a further interview.

Alex. Niven, the Government land surveyor, has returned from a three months' trip through Central Algoma. The country, he says, is rich in white pine, banksian pine and spruce.

The health of General Dewet's three year old daughter is so unsatisfactory that he intends to return to South Africa on November 11, unless there is a marked improvement before that day.

Friend of Victoria Dead.

London, Oct. 24.—The Hon. Lady Biddulph, who was a lifelong friend of the late Queen Victoria, died at Windsor yesterday. King Edward visited Lady Biddulph just before her death.

To Increase Your Weight.

If you are thin, weak and emaciated and want to increase your flesh and weight you should try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You can feel it doing you good from day to day, as it strikes at the root of the trouble and creates new, rich blood. You can prove that it builds up new tissue and adds flesh if you weigh yourself each week while using it.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Might's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

The Treat for To-night.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, are to be congratulated upon their first public efforts in providing so rare and pleasing an enjoyment for the public this evening as the famous Canadian Jubilee Singers and Imperial Orchestra. They are all coloured people, the offspring of escaped slaves, and Canadians by birth, each possessing a wonderful musical gift. There is said to be something wildly sweet and stirring in their singing of the melodies which the rich voiced slaves sang in the old plantation days, after the day's labour in the cotton field was done. Their rendering of "Suwanee River," "My Old Kentucky Home," and 'Rock of Ages," are worth twice the admission fee, 25 cents. Turn out to-night, rain or shine, and enjoy this treat in St. Paul's church, as well as show your appreciation of the Guild's enterprise.

Hunters' Excursions.

The Grand Trunk announce single first class fare from stations in Canada, Brockville and West, to that sportsman's paradise, the "Highlands of Ontario," which include the Muskoka Lakes District, Lake of Bays, Lake Nipiasing, Argyle to Coboconk, Severn to North Bay, Lindsay to Haliburton, on line of Canada Atlantic Railroad, Rainy Lake to Parry Sound, and on C.P.R.—Mattawa to Nepigon. Tickets are good going Oct. 24th to Nov. 1st inclusive, and valid returning until Dec. 13th. Reports from this district promise a record year, and the deer are much more numerous. The fact that there is an open season for moose this year, Nov. 1st to 15th, will induce many hunters to take advantage of these low rates, and enjoy this exhilarating sport. Illustrated booklets entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game" may be obtained from W. Bunton, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, or by addressing J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto. 8d941w

Rugbyists Practice To-morrow Afternoon.

Is the Score of Thanksgiving Day Match in Doubt?—Notes on Hockey, Curling, etc.

RUGBY.

Evidently the London club is being troubled with lack of enthusiasm amongst the players, as has been the case during the past week with the Peterborough fifteen. The London News in commenting upon the situation there says:

"Four of the London intermediate football players — Messrs. McKay, Sterling, Sippi and Regan, were at the Jubilee Rink Tuesday evening to engage in a practice preparatory for their game with the Torontos on Nov. 1. This cannot be said by any means to be a gratifying or encouraging showing to the London club management. The team has by no means finished the season, and practice, and continual practice, can alone keep players in the desired position. Again, should London win this district they will have Peterborough undoubtedly for an opponent for the championship and if reports of the strength of that team be true the Londons will have no weaklings to tackle."

* * * *

Under the heading, "Now, Who Knows?" the London News says:

"There seems to be some doubt as to the official score in the recent Peterborough-Ottawa II match, which was played in Peterborough on Thanksgiving Day. Ottawa papers declare that it was 26 to 0. Referee George Biggs gives the official score as 28 to 0, made up as follows: Six tries, 24 points; one goal from try, 2 points; a rouge and a touch-in-goal, making a total of 28. Ottawa II will make a great effort to pull down this big margin."

As a matter of fact Peterborough people have heard nothing a a dispute about the score. It was 28-0 beyond doubt.

* * * *

The Kingston News says: "Guy Curtis of Queen's Rugby fame, has assuredly retired from the world. Visitors to his place of activity, Delta, found "the old man" engaged in playing marbles on the street, and in chasing the 'kids' over the fence."

* * * *

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby club will be held in the Oriental Hotel at 7.30 o'clock to-morrow evening.

* * * *

It is a downright shame that there could not be a local second fifteen raised to go to Port Hope on Saturday, to play the return match with T.C.S. The college boys were good enough to come to Peterborough a few Saturdays ago and it seems too bad, indeed, that they cannot be given a match on their own grounds.

* * * *

The London Free Press says:

"When London wins out in this series, home and home games will be played with Peterborough."

Well, now! This is the first intimation the Peterborough people have ever received that London ever contemplated coming to this town.

* * *

A real stiff practice is looked for to-morrow afternoon. Every man who knows anything at all about the game is asked to turn out. Sides will be chosen and a hard afternoon's work will be put in.

THE WORK UPON THE NEW DAM.

A Visit to the Scene of Operations.

MAKING GREAT PROGRESS.

Concrete Work Goes Along Uninterruptedly—Labour-Saving Machinery.

As the Examiner has lately made no mention of the work going on near the old Dickson dam, it has been thought well to pay a surprise visit to it, and become satisfied as to its progress. It is with no little astonishment the scribe noted the immense progress it has made since the visit a short time ago, and one could not but admire with pleasure the persistent, unflagging energy that has been throughout displayed in the construction work now being carried on. One has only to go down to the site of the dam any day during working hours to recognize how smoothly and systematically all the operations are being conducted. If any slight hitch occurs, it is only for the briefest period, and then all goes on once more with the regularity of clock work.

One learns that, barring all accidents, the concrete walls and piers of the dam will be completed to a height of twelve feet above the level of the present bed rock before the end of this month. This height reached the spring floods will not affect the progress of the work, even though the space enclosed inside the coffer dam is flooded full up. The concreting of the dam is now within ten feet of the east face of the power house. Within the lines of the latter a large yawning hole has been blasted out and excavated, partly in connection with the wheel pits, and partly in connection with the tail race. It is stated that some 7,000 cubic yards of rock have to be excavated within the lines of the power house alone, the excavation being carried down to a depth of about 15 feet.

Only a brief while ago, the latter end of August, the River Otonabee was flowing more freely along its course than it had done for many a year, the additional freedom of its passage having been given by the contractor's dredge removing the immense body of sawdust lying between the end of the bulkhead of the old Dickson dam and the present saw mill. Since then what a change has been wrought, owing to the operations of Mr. O'Toole, and his men. In just about eight weeks the channel of the river has been greatly contracted, and reduced to 100 feet. Through this narrow passage flows the waters of the upper lakes and streams. The large coffer dam encloses an area of 56,732 square feet, and, taking the average depth of water at three feet all over, the cubic contents would equal 170,196 c. feet, equal to 1,063,725 gallons of water. This large amount of water, it is stated has been pumped out of the coffer dam on more than one occasion in three hours. The enclosure may be said to be dry, and but little water leaks into it through the coffer dam. All the rock, boulders, (quite a quantity of the latter, and one was shown some immense ones), clay, gravel, etc., found within the enclosure is not being allowed to go to waste, but is being used, or carefully stacked for future use. Many of the larger boulders are being placed inside the cribwork, now being built near the old bulkhead, and which will eventually carry the large steel rack through which the water will pass to the wheel pits, etc. Some of the smaller boulders will be passed through the stone crusher, and then converted into cement. Whilst referring to the stone crusher, (known as the Austin Crusher,) one might draw the attention of those visiting the works to the "Smith Concrete Mixer." Both these machines were specially purchased by Mr. O'Toole for this work, are new and have given the greatest satisfaction. We have already referred to the systematic way in which the work has thus far been carried out. At the same time we do not think it would be out of place to more particularly call attention to the system adopted pertaining to the concrete work. To begin with, there are three derricks at work in connection with the concreting. Derrick No. 1, that nearest to the excavation, hoists up in large scale boxes the stone blasted out in the site of the power house, and places it on a heavy timber platform immediately above the stone crusher into which it is fed and broken up to the size of road metal. Derrick No. 2 handles the square boxes that contain a yard, of material. The box is first filled to guage with a certain proportion of sand and cement, then whipped round to the crusher, where a certain proportion of stone is placed in it; the box now fully loaded is taken up by the derrick and deposited on the top of a high staging where is the upper mouth of the conical shapped mixer, and a large wooden tank of water. Here two men shovel in the

SKILFUL AND ENERGETIC

STONE, SAND AND CEMENT

into the mixer and whilst it is revolving a certain proportion of water is poured in. After the lapse of a minute the concrete has become well incorporated and by the use of a simple mechanism, the mixer is tipped downwards, and the concrete discharged through its lower mouth into large buckets which as soon as ready are drawn away by a horse along the "elevated railway" to derrick No. 3, which distributes the concrete wheresoever required. On an average 150 cubic yards of concrete are mixed and put in place daily. With the exception of the meal hour between noon and 1 p.m. the mixer is kept continuously at work

From what was said round town prior to the commencement of the work many were doubtful as to the possibility of building a large cofferdam successfully and taking in the large area that has been done. However, as is visible to the naked eye, it has been done, and done in a most thorough and workmanlike manner. We must congratulate Mr. O'Toole and his staff on the energy and capability displayed by them, and it must be both gratifying and encouraging to them to see the lively interest displayed in their task by the citizens of Peterborough, many of whom go down to the works of a Saturday and Sunday to see what progress has been made since their last inspection.

Though we believe that the contract is a two year one, still according to the present rate of progress we think that the work will likely be completed before next fall.

ILL AT THE "SOO"

Mr. James Hill has Typhoid Fever at the New Ontario Metropolis.

Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., has received official intimation from the V. G. of the Sault Ste. Marie Lodge of Oddfellows, of the serious illness, from typhoid fever, of Mr. Jas. Hill, a Peterborough citizen, a brother-in-law of Mr. Thos. Rehill, and engaged in the construction of a bridge at the "Soo." The bonds of brotherhood that unite a brother so far away with his home lodge, will be duly connected.

High Wind Causes Damage.

This afternoon the high wind played havoc with right good will among the signboards, awnings, etc. It obtained entrance to the back of the confectionery store of Hopper & Crafts and in its exit carried the large plate glass window out into the street and there let it down with disastrous results.

ANOTHER GREAT SUCCESS.

All Saints' Annual Dinner and Concert

Held in Foresters' Hall Last Night—A Large Attendance—Delightful Programme.

Perhaps no event in connection with All Saints' church is awaited with greater interest by the members of the congregation, and the friends of the church, than the annual harvest dinner and concert. It is one of the most important social functions of the year in connection with All Saints', and it might also be incidentally mentioned that it is one of the most successful of the financial schemes that Rev. Mr. Armitage and his congregation undertake. As a rule this annual function is held in All Saints' Sunday school room, but this year the experiment of holding it in a central part of the town, was tried, and it proved to be highly successful. The Foresters' Hall on Simcoe street was brought into commission, and it must be admitted that it is a splendid place for an affair of this kind. From five o'clock the members of the congregation and their friends began to patronize the dining room, which was for the next two hours or more uncomfortably crowded. The dining hall was set with numerous tables, which were bedecked with a most appetizing supply of edibles. The tables were carefully looked after by an efficient staff of waitresses, and the manner in which the several hundred people were catered to, reflected credit, indeed, upon the capital organization of the volunteers in All Saints' church work. Professional men, business men, young men, and men, women and children of all ages, and of all church denominations ,paid their respects to the annual dinner. At the conclusion of the dinner a highly successful concert was held in the main hall.

The concert opened shortly after 8 o'clock, the chair being occupied by Mr. J. Harris McClellan, who spoke of the pleasure it gave him to preside on such an occasion, and of the success, so far, of the annual dinner and concert, and he assured them that the programme about to be rendered would be equally as interesting. The following programme was then given:

Piano solo... ... ...Miss L. Meharry
Chorus, "O Who Will O'er the Down so Free?"..... ....Choir
Recitation... ... ...Miss Carrie White (encore.)
Female quartette, "In the Gloaming"... Misses M. Rush, B. Best, M. Bullen, B. Brundrette.
Recitation ... ...Master Freddie Hooper (encore.)
Solo, "Wait"... ...Miss Daisy Sawers
Male quartette, "Juanita"..... .... Messrs. J. Legg, Goodyew, Sheppard, Armitage, (encore.)
Recitation ... ...Miss Carrie White (encore.)
Instrumental ... ...Mr. Maughan
Quintette, "Massa's in the cold, cold, "Ground"
Solo by Mr. B. Welsh, with banjo accompaniment, by male voices, Messrs. Legg, Goodyew, Sheppard and Armitage.
Recitation... ... ...Master Freddie Hooper (encore.)
Chorus, "Come where My Love Lies Dreaming"..... ....Choir
God Save the King.

The recitations of Miss Carrie White were very much enjoyed, and called for frequent encores. Master Freddie Hooper, too, drew forth great applause, and is losing none of his ability in this line. The ladies' quartette was a rather unusual treat, and drew forth an encore.

The coffee for the supper was very kindly supplied by Messrs. E. F. Mason & Co., who had the well known firm of Chase & Sanborn, wholesale merchants, send a man to supervise the making of it. The excellence of the coffee was a matter of favourable comment by many.

RELEASED FROM THE CONTRACT.

Town Council Will not Purchase 600 Cords.

A SPECIAL MEETING HELD.

Peterborough Canoe Company ask for a Fixed Assessment—Some Communications.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Town Council was held last night. There were present His Worship Mayor Denne, in the chair, Aldermen H. Best, J. Corkery, R. Clinkscale, M. A. Morrison, J. J. Turner, G. M. Roger, and Jas. Edgcumbe.

Mayor Denne said that it had been suggested that the minutes of the meetings of the council be typewritten, and given out to the members so that they could be taken as read at each meeting, and adopted accordingly, if found satisfactory. The plan had been suggested in order to save the time of reading the minutes at each council meeting, which on some occasions, occupied a good hour. "For instance," the Mayor remarked, "to-night there will be the minutes of three meetings to read." Mr. Armstrong was willing to prepare the minutes in typewritten form for each occasion, unless something occurred to prevent him doing so.

The aldermen all agreed that it was a move in the right direction, and hereafter this course will be pursued.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received and disposed of as follows:

From the Department of Inland Revenue, acknowledging the receipt of a communication from the corporation of Peterborough relative to the equipment of the office of Assistant Inspector of Weights and Measures, R. W. Errett, and stating that as respects the equipment of the office of Peterborough and Port Hope, that the office at Peterborough is very much the better equipped. The letter also stated that the following additional articles would be supplied: One five pound balance, one eight ounce balance, one comparateur, and one set of grain weights. The communication was received and the clerk instructed to acknowledge it.

From the Peterborough Canoe Co., re fixed assessment, asking to be put on the same footing with other concerns that are applying for change in assessment.—Referred to Committee of the Whole Council.

From F. H. Dobbin and others, asking that Hunter street be better lighted at night.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From L. D. Letellier, asking that a new sidewalk be placed in front of his new houses on Wescott street.—Board of Works, with power to act.

From Wm. Godfrey, asking for a remission of his taxes.—Court of Revision.

From A. G. Brown, clerk and treasurer, Stouffville, re roller. — Board of Works, with power to act.

From H. F. Timmerman, of the C. P. R., stating that he had under consideration the matter of placing gates on the C.P.R. crossing on George street. He said that he was awaiting the report of the inspector on the matter. Left with the Mayor with power to proceed as he thought best.

From Thos. H. Moore, asking that a granolithic sidewalk be placed on the south side of Homewood avenue, from the corner of Belmont avenue 40 feet west.—Board of Works.

From J. J. Turner & Sons, re fixed assessment.—Committee of the Whole Council.

From W. J. Johnston, secretary of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, endorsing the project of a municipal wood yard.—Committee of the Whole.

From Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Chalmers, on behalf of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, asking the council to prohibit the spitting of tobacco in the market hall and on the streets.—Referred to the Solicitor to determine what power the council had in the matter.

From Mr. W. H. Meldrum, on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company, asking permission to place poles and wires on Murray street to Aylmer, on Aylmer from Murray to McDonel, then east on McDonel to Dickson street, to enable the Company to connect his own house with their private telephone line to Dam No. 5.—Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

Regarding the application of the Otonabee Power Company, Ald. Best thought that the Company was asking too many pole concessions. It was a small pretext for asking such a privilege and in a short time he thought we would be in a heap of trouble with so many pole lines. They should have some regard for the future.

After a brief discussion the matter was referred as above noted.

From Walter Evans, J. T. C. Laing and Frank White, drawing the attention of the council to the condition of the Park street drain in front of Mr. R. C. Braund's store.—Board of Works with power to act.

ACCOUNTS

were received and referred to the Finance Committe as follows:

Robert Howland	$ 10 00
Allin Ice Company	25 00
Bell Telephone Company	75
Kingan Hardware Company	9 00
A. McDonald	107 39
Victoria Industrial School	26 00
W. R. G. Higgins	4 75
St. John's Industrial School	26 00

Ald. Turner drew the attention of the council to the condition of the sidewalk between the Custom House and Mr. Comstock's on George street.—The matter was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The Committee of the Whole, through Ald. Roger, reported as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:

Your Committee held a joint meeting with the Daniel M. Spence Memorial Committee, and after considering the matter of the proposed purchase of a memorial ambulance, we recommend that the matter be left in the hands of Mayor Denne, Ald. Roger, Reeve Smith, of Ashburnham, and Messrs. D. W. Dumble and Joseph Succee, with authority to purchase a suitable memorial ambulance.

2. We recommend that the hydrant at the corner of Simcoe and Bethune streets be moved further east so as not to interfere with the railway gates, and that the matter be left in the hands of the Town Engineer and the Superintendent of the Water Works.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. M. ROGER, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The Board of Works, through its chairman, Ald. Best, reported as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works, beg leave to report as follows:

1. The following tenders were received for the construction of the sewer as a local improvement on Dalhousie street from George to Aylmer streets:

J. S. Hayes, $1.09 per foot, connections $16.50.

R. Sheehy, $1.33 per foot, connections $17.50.

J. Robson, $1.03 per foot, connections $15.00.

Wm. Henry and J. Gibson, 90 cents per foot, connections $18.00.

We recommend that the tenders of Messrs. Henry and Gibson be accepted.

2. Your Committee authorized a sidewalk to be built from George street to the Central Milling Company's mill on Dalhousie street.

3. We recommend that the Chairman and Town Engineer be authorized to have the street railway tracks covered where it is exposed from Smith street northward, and to repair all bad places on the streets within the fire limits.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. BEST, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Mayor Denne said that at a committee meeting of the council the other night, at which there were six members present, it was felt that the price of the wood which they had decided to purchase from the Dickson Company was rather high, for the quality, and that Ald. Roger was delegated to see if the Dickson Company would allow the corporation to withdraw from the same contract. In view of the probability of fuel being obtainable at reasonable prices shortly, it was felt that the town could manage without the council making the purchase of 600 cords of slabs, as was intended. Mr. Shook had that afternoon telephoned the Mayor assuring him that the company would release the town from the contract if they so desired.

Ald. Best asked why they wished to withdraw the order.

Ald. Roger explained that the Dickson Company had very generously offered to free the town from their contract if they so desired. Continuing he said that it remained with the council now to do as they pleased.

Ald. Best — "Well, I think that it would be a very good chance to get out of a rather bad bargain."

The Mayor then mentioned that he had been in receipt of several other tenders for cord wood, etc., offering to supply the citizens with wood at a price which the citizens could obtain at $3 a cord. One of these was from Richard Killen and Thomas Twoomey, stating that they were prepared to deliver 300 or 600 cords of mill wood to the town at $3 a cord, on condition that the council gave them one car a day and supply them with orders and pay for the same.

Ald. Rush moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that Mr. Shook's generous offer to free the town from the contract, be accepted.—Carried.

Ald. Best introduced a bylaw to provide for the construction of a sewer on Dalhousie street, from George street to Aylmer street.

Ald. Batten asked what they were going to do regarding fuel for the heating of the civic buildings. He had had an offer of 50 tons of soft coal at $7 a ton.

Ald. Turner said that he had paid $7.50 for three tons yesterday.

Ald. Best moved that the chairman of the Property Committee be instructed to purchase his coal in small quantities at a time, until such time as the price of fuel was considerably lowered.

The council then adjourned.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mr. J. J. Robertson, of Port Hope, arrived in town yesterday.

Mr. C. Strange, of Toronto, arrived last evening to enter upon his duties in the Bank of Montreal here, in place of Mr. Burton.

Mr. A. J. Gough, of Gough Bros., is in town. His physical appearance indicates that Toronto air agrees with him and he reports business as excellent.

Mrs. Clark, wife of General Manager W. T. Clark, of the Cordage Company, is in town for a few weeks' stay. Mrs. Clark is well known in the musical and social circles of New York and New England.

Mr. George Curtis is a guest at the Oriental Hotel at present. Mr. Curtis has for some time been in the employ of the British Government in Western Canada in connection with the Remount Department.

Mr. and Mrs. James Spellman, who have recently returned from their wedding journey, have received news of the illness of the mother of Mrs. Spellman, and the latter has gone to Pittsburg, Pa., to be with her mother in her illness. Mr. Spellman is spending a few days in Hastings.

Mr. Sidney Tivey, formerly of the pressroom of the Examiner, left this morning to assume a similar position in the pressroom of the Advertiser, London. Mr. Tivey was a prominent member of the 57th Regimental Band and has a wide circle of friends here who will regret to know that he is leaving town.

WONDERFUL SILVER WORK.

Some Specimens Loaned for the Coronation Bazaar.

The exhibition of European silversmiths' works at St. James' Court, Buckingham-gate, S. W., this year, consisted of specimens of silver work lent by their owners especially for the purpose, many never before having been placed before the public. Many of the most valuable pieces were lent by Mr. Pierpont Morgan, who purchased the collection of Herr Gutmann, of Berlin, containing every known type of German silver-work, the value being reckoned in hundreds of thousands. A colossal wine cooler, large enough for a bath, enormous salvers, and massive gilt pilgrim bottles were lent by the Duke of Portland, who also owns the chalice from which Charles I. took his last communion before going to the scaffold. This priceless relic is marked No. 3 in the sketch. The Charles II. relics shown are also unique. No. 1 in the sketch shows the Great Charles II. sweetmeat box lent by Sir Charles Selby, valued at several thousand pounds, and No. 2 a Charles II. cup and cover belonging to Lord Middleton, which is considered the finest specimen of its kind in the world. No. 4 is a unique steeple cup and cover. In addition to these fine things the exhibition included plate and jewellery, all of it historically interesting and of immense value, lent by Sir Samuel Montagu, Lord Burton, the Duke of Rutland, the Duke of Newcastle, the Earl of Ancaster, Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, various firms of goldsmiths, and others. It was altogether the most wonderful show of plate ever exhibited in this or any other country says Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper.

PREDJUDICE OVERCOME.

After Everything Else had Failed, Madame Bujold Tries Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and is Cured.

Dyspepsia and other kindred stomach troubles always cause great depression of spirits.

This depression is frequently shown in the form of doubt and fear.

A Dyspeptic is hard to convince and this doubt and fear is one of the surest symptoms of Dyspepsia.

Madame Marie Ann Bujold, of Maria Cup, Bonaventure Co., Quebec, was for years a chronic Dyspeptic.

She says she always had very strong objections to proprietory medicines and refused for a long time to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for her malady.

She preferred to consult several physicians, and it was not until after their treatment had been thoroughly tested with no good results that she made up her mind to throw aside all doubt, fear and prejudice and use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

She was by this time very low and could not take the simplest food without having a severe pain across her stomach together with great distress of body and mind. After a treatment of this remedy she writes:

"Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are wonderful. For two years my life has been a burden, but they have completely cured me.

"It is now a long time since I have taken any and my trouble has not returned.

"I recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all who suffer with Dyspepsia."

This is an unsolicited testimony of one who for a long time refused to be cured, and should come as good advice to any Dyspeptic who may be in doubt as to how best to find relief from the pain and distress which is the inevitable result of this malady.

The Isle of Man.

Discussing the recent visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to the Isle of Man, The London Daily Telegraph says:

"The little island retains all its archaic customs. It keeps its House of Keys, and its separate laws are proclaimed annually from the Tynwald Hill in its ancient language, as well as in its modern speech. The legislation of the Mother of Parliaments does not extend to Manxland without special enactment, and, indeed, the little nation maintains that its constitution is older than our own. And, above all, the island enjoys the fortunate privilege of being totally exempt from Imperial taxation. In these quaint survivals of legendary usages there is something singularly characteristic of the irregular genius which has been always the inspiration and the salvation of our policy. France would have looked with horror upon the eccentricity of such a connection as has been preserved between the Manx Island and the greater countries which surround it. Our neighbors would have crushed the local liberties and distinctions of the Manxmen into one remorselessly Procrustean model. The island petitioned for the protection of England, and received it in the reign of the first of the Edwards, though it remained untrodden by a British Sovereign until the time of Edward the Seventh. That so much of its separate political character should be found still surviving after that interval of six hundred years and at the beginning of the twentieth century, is a significant illustration of the elastic and tolerant temper which has been, perhaps, the principal secret of our whole Imperial stability.—London Daily Telegraph.

LABOR AND THE ANGEL.

By Duncan Campbell Scott.

"The wind plunges-then stops;
Aril a column of leaves in a whirl,
Like a dervish that spins—drops,
With a delicate rustle,
Falls into a circle that thins;
The leaves creep away one by one.
Hiding in hollows and ruts;
Silence comes down on the lane;
The light wheels slow from the sun,
And glints where the corn stood,
And strays over the plain,
Touching with patches of gold
The knolls and the hollows,
Crosses the lane.
And slips into the wood;
Then flashes a mile away on the farm,
A moment of brightness fine;
Then the gold glimmers and wanes,
And is swept by a clouding of grey,
For cheek by jowl, arm in arm,
The shadows afoot with the shine,
The wind roars out from the elm,
Then leaps tiger-sudden—the leaves
Shudder up into heaps and are caught
High as the branch where they hung
Over the oriole's nest.

"Down in the sodden field,
A blind man is gathering his roots,
Guided and led by a girl;
Her gold hair blows in the wind,
Her garments with flutter and furl,
Leap like a flag in the sun;
And whenever she stoops, she stoops,
And they heap the dark-colored beets
In the barrow, row upon row,
When it is full to the brim,
He wheels it patiently, slow,
Something oppressive and grim
Clothing his figure, but she,
Beautifully light at his side,
Touches his arm with her hand,
Ready to help or to guide;
Power and comfort at need,
In the flex of her figure lurk,
The fire at the heart of the deed,
The angel that watches o'er work.

In the above lines we have, first, the background, shot with a riot of interest of the scene, a blind man digging roots in a field, gently guided by a girl. The poet then, by a process of imagination called analogy, which regards the similarity of shadow and sun, described a perfect picture of a Canadian autumn day, and, second, the human element and the "relations" of things, taking the component elements of real scenes or events and combining them anew in the mind, conceives of the girl as representing Love, lightening the task of Labor, represented by the blind man.

"This is her visible form,
Heartening the labor she loves,
Keeping the breath of it warm,
Warm as a nestling of doves.
Humble or high or sublime,
Here no reward of degrees,
Ditching as precious as rhyme,
If only the spirit be true.
'Effort and effort,' she cries,
'This is the heart-beat of life. . . .'

. . . . . .

When labor is counselled by love
You may see her splendid, serene,
Bending and brooding above,
With the justice and power of her mien,
Where thought has its passionate birth,
Her smile is the sweetest renown,
For the stroke and the derring-do,
Her crown is the starriest crown."

. . . . . .

The poet then figures unfavorable conditions of work, where the senses are deadened by toil, and the part of Labor, "she the twin-sister of Love," is "wiser than wise" in offering no vision sublime and encouraging stoicism.

"So we have come with the breeze,
Up to the height of the hill,
Lost in the valley trees.
The old blind man and the girl;
But deep in the heart is the thrill
Of the image of consoling love;
The shape of the soul in the gloom,
And the power of the figure above,
Stand for the whole world's need;
For labor is always blind,
Unless as the light of the deed
The angel is smiling behind. . . . ."

Sketch of Duncan Campbell Scott.

Mr. Scott's poetry is distinguished by marked beauty of diction, elevated imagery and a rare tranquility of thought. But moral passion stirs strongly within him, as witness that fine effort, "The Harvest," and the lines of "The Dame Regnant." He is an idealist, and implicity acknowledges a transcendent source for the profound effect the contemplation of nature makes upon him. Mr. Scott is a native of Ottawa, where he first saw the light in 1862. He was educated at the public schools of the city and at Stanstead Wesleyan College. He entered the Canadian civil service in a minor capacity and has risen to the position of chief clerk and accountant in the Department of Indian Affairs, a position he still retains. He has long had a connection with American periodicals, and a recognized place among the younger poets of his time. In 1893 he published his first volume of verse, entitled "The Magic House and Other Poems." Five years later a second volume appeared from the press of Copeland & Day, Boston. The lines above are extracted from this collection, which is named from the initial poem, "Labor and the Angel."

Gorilla Hunting in Africa.

Gorilla hunting is a distinct sensation, even for the veteran hunter. This animal is a decidedly unpleasant one to engage. The West Africans are mortally afraid of it, believing that the brute contains the spirit of a man. They attribute to it all sorts of ferocities, like the carrying off of a human being, who is permitted to return after being deprived of toe and finger nails. Skilled hunters have never observed any of these doings, but they testify to the brute's strength and ferocity. According to a recently returned sportsman, a full-grown gorilla can bite through a tree six inches thick in order to secure the sap, and twist a gun barrel with the swollen bunches of muscle that serve for arms. His roar is terrifying and can be heard for a distance of three miles. "I shall never forget how the first one impressed me," says the sportsman, "for I had a bad attack of shakes. The woods had been filled some time with a barking roar, but I saw nothing until my guide clucked softly and pointed to a tree alongside which stood an immense male gorilla. There he remained, but twelve yards away, boldly facing us with his huge chest, muscular arms, fiercely-glaring eyes, and a fiendish expression, until I moved. "At that he dropped to all fours and came six yards nearer, sitting up to beat his breasts with his huge fists—a defiance—so that it sounded like an immense drum. His roar was most singular, beginning with a kind of bark and deepening into a bass roll that literally resembled thunder. The short hair on his forehead was twitching, his powerful fangs showed unpleasantly, and, feeling he was about to attack, and incidentally being scared green, I shot him through the heart. With a groan something human, and yet brutish, he fell on his face and died quickly, like a man. He measured five feet nine inches in length, his chest was sixty-two inches, and his arms spread nine feet. I was glad to have the specimen, but somehow after that never cared to kill a gorilla, unless he actually menaced me."

New York's Big Buildings.

When Sir Edmund Barton, Premier of the Australian Commonwealth, was in New York, he looked at the tall buildings and heard about the subways and tunnels with a very doubtful expression.

"You'll find that so much tunneling, combined with such high buildings, will make a lot of trouble for you," he said to an American friend. "They're learning that in London now. It is said that the foundations of St. Paul's Cathedral have been weakened by the tunnels."

"Strangers are always doubtful about the solidity of our high buildings," was the response. "When Prince Chen drove up Broadway the other day, he looked at the tall buildings and smiled. A gentleman who sat in his carriage asked through an interpreter if the prince would tell just what he was thinking about"—

"I'll bet I know what he was thinking about," said Sir Edmund. "He was thinking what a fine mark they would make for a shell."

"No. He said that he was wondering when those buildings would fall down and what we would all do when they did fall."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Sir Edmund. "How true it is that language was made in order to conceal thought."—New York Times.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Nobody Is Sacred Nowadays.

Nobody is sacred to the modern publisher, not even royalty itself. The Prince of Wales has been approached by a well-known publisher to write his reminiscences, including his personal views and the opinions he formed on his voyage around the world. The sum offered was very large indeed, but so far there has been no response.

By the way, the late Duke of Albany, who was the literary member of the royal family, left a number of manuscripts. These may see the light before long. They are principally essays on scientific and social topics.

The Countess of Cork is editing two volumes which are in possession of the family. They will, in fact, be epistolary vignettes of the middle part of the eighteenth century and will introduce the reader to the Earl of Cork, who was Pope's friend, to Swift and various other celebrities.

Remarkable Recovery From Nervous Collapse.

A Methodist Minister Tells How He was Rescued From a Helpless Condition by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses unusual control over the nerves and rekindles nervous energy when all other means fail, is well illustrated in the case described below. Mr. Brown was forced to give up his ministerial work and was so far exhausted that for a time he was positively helpless. Doctors were consulted and many remedies were resorted to, but in vain. Every effort to build up the system seemed in vain, and it is little wonder that the sufferer was losing hope of recovery when he began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rev. T. Brown, Methodist minister of Omemee, and late of Bethany, Ont., writes; "A year ago last November I was overtaken with nervous exhaustion. For six months I did no work, and during that time I had to be waited on, not being able to help myself. Nervous collapse was complete and though I was in physician's hands for months, I did not seem to improve. At any little exertion my strength would leave me, and I would tremble with nervousness.

"From the first I used a great many nerve remedies, but they seemed to have no effect in my case. I had almost lost hope of recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and began to use it. As my system became stronger I began to do a little work, and have gradually increased in nerve force and vigour, until now I am about in my normal condition again. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best medicine I ever used. Not only has it proven its wonderful restorative powers in my own case, but also in several others where I have recommended it."

THE MAPLE LEAF MEN

HOW THE AUSTRALIAN REGARDS THE CANADIAN SOLDIERS.

The Most Interesting of the Groups of Men Who Formed the Strange Medley of an Army That Fought Britain's Battles in South Africa—Story of One Who Out-Canadianed the Canadians.

One of the most flattering estimates of Canadian character is that given in "Tommy Cornstalk," a book about the recent war by an Australian officer, Mr. Abbott. "Tommy Cornstalk" is the picturesque name of the Australian soldier, and this particular Tommy Cornstalk writes about 'the men of the maple leaf" in these terms:

Of all the interesting groups of men who helped to form this strange medley of an army, there were none who, for picturesque interest and fascinating detail of exploit, could approach within helio-range of the Canadians. And in this connection the writer has been recently doubting very much whether, in a book that purports to be written by a Cornstalk about cornstalks, he has not already at various times devoted too much space to the doings of these remarkable men—whether the beguiling shadow of the maple leaf has not rested too long and frequently upon pages that ought, more properly, to have been chronicles of gum-tree and she-oak men. But, through all the length and breadth of land, camp fire, and hospital and railway station echoed their weird deeds—they made a name and recollection for themselves within South Africa which will not be forgotten until the race-feud dies out, and men cease to speak of 1900. Wherever you went, whomsoever you might hold converse with, you heard mention of them. "Have you heard the latest about those hard-cheeked Canadians?" became almost a stock question when conversation flagged, or a new topic was needed. And there was always something fresh or new to tell and hear of them. One seemed to fall, almost unconsciously, under the curious charm of their quaint collective personality. And everyone liked them. Undoubtedly they were the most interesting and picturesque figures of the war. Their dashing actions, cool ferocity, quiet "slimness," and guileless "verneukery" of the Boers themselves—and their pure hard cheek—rendered them famous and fascinating wherever they went.

This story of one of them, who out-Canadianed the Canadians, may be worth recording, even though, possibly, it has been told in print before. It is of a man whose renown traveled through all Africa, who, though he was but a corporal of mounted infantry, attained a degree of local fame such as some brigadier might even have envied. It was related to the writer by a Highland officer in Wynberg Hospital, who, having allowed a bullet to pass clean through his head somewhere in that neighborhood, had been a patient in the hospital at Vredefort, and had himself heard it from both Boer and English sources.

"Well, it seems that this Corporal Clarkson of the Canadian Mounted Infantry, you know, was rather a noted character in Hutton's Brigade. They used to give him all the hard jobs to do—ridin' out reconnoitrin' by himself, you know, and so forth—and he generally managed to do whatever he was instructed to, and a good deal beside. Sort of 'handy man' at scoutin', you know.

"Well, when French's crowd were just thinking about crossing the Vaal, they camped a few miles outside a little place called Vredefort—typical 'dorp,' an' all that—you know the kind of thing. Expected a big fight somewhere about, but it didn't come off. So, just to make sure, French thought he'd send someone out to reconnoitre Vredefort. Accordingly, the M.I. were told to find a patrol to do the job.

"Whoever it was had the sending out of the expedition I don't know, but I really think that the man who picked Clarkson to lead must himself have been a born leader of men, you know—sort of chappy who recognizes the qualifications of his men, you know, when he wants anything done.

"So this fellow Clarkson was paraded with five of his 'darned outfit,' as those chappies call themselves, you know—and instructed to go and find out whether Vredefort was occupied or not. So out he went.

"When they got to within about a mile of the town, they came quite suddenly over a ridge on to a Boer outpost, or picket, or something—consistin' of eight or ten lusty Dutchmen. Clarkson arrived so very abruptly in their midst that they hardly knew what was the right thing to do—to shoot or run. Quite flabbergasted 'em, you know. The gallant corporal took in the situation at a glance—let on he was the general himself, you know, and demanded their arms. I think they must have been a lot of awful Johnnies, you know—kind of town guard of Vredefort or something, because they just did as he told 'em. He took their ponies, remounted his men fresh, sent the Boers away on foot, and, leaving two men to guard the loot, continued his advance on Vredefort.

"Well, when he rode into Vredefort, he found the Dutch people fairly scared, you know. They knew French was pretty close, and had been filling one another up with lies about what would happen if he entered the place. There were white flags up on every chimney-pot and gate-post.

"Clarkson simply rode straight up to the office of the Landrost—sort of civil magistrate Johnnie, you know. By this time he was Commander-in-Chief, vice Lord Roberts, resigned; if you give a Canadian an ell he'll take as far as his rifle can carry.

"Our friend simply demanded the surrender of the town—nothing less! Well, the Boer Johnny was so overcome, you know, and so very much afraid of losing his billet, that he thought perhaps he'd better do as requested, seeing also that Clarkson must undoubtedly be a general of very great standing. So, actin' under orders from Field-Marshall Lord Clarkson, he summoned all the available burghers who had arms to deposit 'em immediately in the Market Square, an' come an' listen to what the great officer of General French had to say. Course, you know, they think French has 'seniority of God Almighty. Altogether, Clarkson collected between forty and fifty Mausers and Martinis, stacked them in a wagon, an' sent 'em into Hutton's camp with a note and one of his remaining three men—having previously invited himself to lunch with the Landrost at the hotel. I heard about the note; it was something like this, you know:

"'Dear General—Please receive accompanying armament of one commando., I am pleased to state that I have this day captured the city of Vredefort (fancy Vredefort a "city") and taken a large number of prisoners, whom I propose, subject to your approval, to release upon parole. You will be glad to hear that I am at the present moment enjoying an excellent luncheon with the mayor of this city. We're havin' champagne! After lunch, as to-morrow will be the birthday of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, I propose to formally annex this city to the British dominions. Hopin' this will find you well, and in good spirits, as it leaves me at present. I am, dear sir, yours faithfully, Duncan Clarkson, Corporal, Canadian M.I.'

"Well, after lunch, he had 'em all called up into the Market Square again. Some English lady had a flag hidden away all the time, and she produced it for the occasion. So Clarkson commanded the Free State flag to be hauled down, and ran the Union Jack up in its place.

"Then he made 'em a great speech. Pointed out all the benefits that would accrue to Vredefort under British rule, you know, an' all that—and finally worked 'em up into quite a pitch of enthusiasm, you know, so that they gave three cheers, and sang 'God Save the Queen,' etcetera.

"But the best of it, you know, was a snapshot which that English lady took with her kodak, an' which I saw afterwards. There were all the old Boer Johnnies, you know, cheerin' away like anything, an' throwin' up their hats into the air—our brave boy, seated on his pony in the middle of the crowd of 'em, smilin' like a Cheshire cat, and—with one hand on the butt of his revolver!

"Well, now, I call that 'moral suasion,' don't you?"

PIMPLES

And other eruptions which mar the skin are more than a disfigurement and annoyance; they are a positive detriment to the business interests and social successes of the man they mark. Other things being equal, the man with a smooth skin and clear complexion will find it easier to get a good position or a good wife than the man whose face shows the impurity of his blood. That's the real point. The blood is bad. And for that very reason any treatment which is designed to cleanse the skin must cleanse the blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cleanses the blood from the clogging impurities which breed and feed disease, and so cures pimples, boils, eczema, and other diseases which have their cause in impure blood.

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I have used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' in a case of scrofula, and cured it," writes Mr. Wm. D. Shamblin, of Remy, Cherokee Nation, Ind. Territory. "I took five bottles of it for my blood. I had 'ringworms' on me and I would burn them off and they would come right back, and they were on me when I commenced using 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which took them away, and I haven't been bothered anymore."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Let Us Remember.

The man was up the apple tree picking apples when the small boy happened along, stopped, and looked longingly at the tree. Finally he said "Let me help you to pick those apples, boss."

"Get out, or I'll skin you," said the man, surlily, and the small boy shuffled off dejectedly. He didn't want to help; he only wanted a chance to fill his pockets, and the man knew it.

"Little beggars," he said, as he went on picking, "they've stolen half what were on the tree already," and a moment later he added: "Oh, well, I was a boy once myself."

An hour later, after he had finished picking, he hunted the boy up. "You can have what's left on the tree," he said, and chuckled as the boy dashed whooping off with a couple of companions. He had left enough fruit to give them a good feed, and he felt young again as he watched them swarming up the tree.

We were all boys or girls once. You wouldn't think to look at that grey-haired speculator over there, with avarice writ large upon his wrinkled features, that he was a boy once, but he was. You don't realize that the sanctified, middle-aged citizen who passes the plate to you in church on Sundays was once a skillful raider of melon patches and orchards, but he was. He was really. That old gentleman in a silk hat and frock coat, with a protruding corporation, was a boy once, and played hookey from school many a fine day. That pillar of the Church there was a terror to fight when he was nine years old, and that stately dame there swishing by us all so haughtily in her silks, why, I remember when she used to trot around in her bare feet with her face generally undistinguishable for mud—she used to be an expert in mud-pie making. Tell her about it now, and though she'll look indignant at first she'll melt to laughter after.

We were all boys and girls once, and if we would only recollect it oftener we would have fewer wrinkles in our faces and crochets in our tempers, the harsh notes of our voices would ring softer, and we would be the better in every way.

Let your memory wander back again once in a while to the days when you were young. Memory does to the past what hope does to the future, softens the rugged outlines of the stern realities of life, minimizes its sorrows, and accentuates its joys. Old man, give your memory a chance.

Letters Made by Nature.

A woodsman, after a great deal of labor, has just completed an alphabet, all the letters of which are formed naturally from the growths found by him in the woods.

The idea to obtain a complete set of letters was given to him by the discovery three years ago of the letter A, of vine maple growth. It was a perfectly made specimen, but weighed over one hundred pounds. He has studied trees so well during his search that he is now able to say at a glance whether it is worth while hunting among the roots or branches for letters.

The letters O E F and G he has found in cedar trees; firs give N M W and K; crab-apples X and Z. The collection is composed of entirely perfect specimens, ranking from four to twelve inches in size. Many larger letters, equally perfect, have also been found.

A Wrong Burial Certificates.

When a physician issues a burial certificate for one who has died of consumption or throat trouble, he should say, Cause of death, neglect to take Four T's when the cough first started. Four T's cure a cough in 24 hours and the worst cold in two days, and you get a large bottle for 25c at Ormond & Walsh's.

If You Have a Good Thing, Stretch It.

Yesterday two wee maidens toddled up the city street in the pouring rain. They were poorly clad, but one of them was better dressed than the other to the extent that she had a cape. It stretched, and she just managed to make it cover the shoulders of the other little one as well as her own, and so, closely folded together, they toddled up Yonge street, says Toronto Star, the warmer, because they were so close held together by the encircling cape.

If you have a good thing, stretch it, so that some one else may share the benefit. If your pocket is full, halve up; if your coal bin is full, pass a scuttleful over to your next door neighbor. Your own coal will warm you more thoroughly because your heart will be working in accord with it. If your table is well loaded, send a basket round the corner where you happen to know it will be welcome. You will be less liable to have indigestion if you do.

If you have a good thing, stretch it, and if you haven't a good thing stretch it anyway, because misery loves company.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Verne Still at Work.

Jules Verne, the novelist, though now in his eighty-sixth year, still works at his desk for four hours a day. He has several new books in hand, which he hopes to finish before the close of the year. His house in Paris is crammed with scientific books, electrical apparatus and nautical instruments, and on the wall of his study hangs an enormous map of the world, all scored over with lines indicating the routes taken by the heroes of his stories. Verne corrects his works to a remarkable extent, and it is said that he has written many of his books ten times.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 24th.—Reading advanced coal at mines 50c a ton. Demand for higher wages of S.P. employees regarded as forecasting similar action on all Western roads. Talk of contest for control in B. O. ridiculed. Increased competition in sugar trade expected. Reported U.P. controls St. Joe and G. T. Atchison will cut off 200 miles by connection of El Passo division with Pecos Valley division. Earnings 3d reads, 2nd week of October, increased 7.2% per cent. Change of management in B.R.T. expected on January 1st. Rumored St. P. will concede demand for higher wages. Fair borrowing for stocks at five per cent. Grain—Liverpool open wheat, 1-8 higher. Corn, 1-8 higher.

DOW, JONES & CO.

Oct. 24th, 9.40 a.m.—We look for repetition of yesterday's market, both as regards character of trading and fluctuations. There is fair sized short interest, and this with expectation of a very good bank statement and temporary check to gold export, may check a decline. Should shorts try to cover, prices could be advanced with some pool manipulation, but beyond this, we do not expect any special developement in the market.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

New York, Oct. 23.—Certain Industrials have recently been showing considerable strength. On Tuesday last when the market was exhibiting a tendency to decline some of these shares actually advanced upon a comparatively animated business transacted in them, considering the dullness of the market as far as dimensions in transactions were concerned. Some of them lost their earlier gain in sympathy with the balance of the market. Notable strength appeared for Rubber Goods issues, Hide and Leather, Sloss Sheffield, Pressed Car, Car and Foundry and H. V. The prospects are that in the absence of outward developments none bullish activity will be seen in the future in the Industrial group. One reason for this is that the Industrial companies of this country have been very successful, while their securities have not participated to any great extent in the sharp rise enjoyed by the railroad shares in the past 12 months. All of them or nearly all are selling at moderate prices, which do not necessarily require large sums of money to handle, and those of the dividend class make enormous returns upon money invested, many of them being absolutely certain of maintaining their present rate of interest, while several more are actually in shape, not only to increase them but will positively do so. The main obstacle to an industrial boom is the lack of confidence of the speculative public in the market movements of the speculative public in the market movements of this class of stock. Owing to the unpleasant episode which has occurred in some of them, they will nevertheless have their day. It does not take a long memory to go back to the great industrial boom of '99, in which ex-Gov. Flower was the chief Engineer. Then the industrials proved to be the best speculative propositions in the market. The present era of prosperity so greatly reflected in Wall street activities will not pass away without the industrials getting their turn. We will devote some space in these letters for a few days to certain issues that are certain and large dividend payers for such of our clients that are looking for outright investments, which are not only safe, but yield large returns. Sub-treasury has paid 57 banks $100,000 transferred from San Francisco.

To-day's market was nondescript in character, showing extreme inertness to drift. Manipulation was lacking most everywhere, save in C.F.I., where a buying movement of some aggressiveness seemed to be under way. There was no particular news all through the day having any direct influence upon prices. Facts circulated by the Wall street news agency were negative in character, and the bulk of transactions were made by the room traders and the eighth chasers. In fact, there was hardly any market at eleven o'clock. The undertone was strong, and what little business there was transacted was generally well distributed. We look for a more or less quiet market until after the election, with the general tendency in the upward direction. To-morrow's letter, "Market caring for itself." Money closed at four per cent. Sales were 400,400.

LACROSSE BOYS BANQUETTED

T. A. S. Club Around the Festive Board Last Nigt.

The Chair was Occupied by Rev. Father McColl and President Howden of the League was Present.

A most successful banquet was last night tendered to the members of the T.A.S. lacrosse teams, in the Society's rooms, George street. The affair was also attended by President Howden of the City Lacrosse League, and by a few of those who took a deep interest in the affairs of the T.A.S. lacrosse teams. A very pleasant social evening was spent in speeches, songs, etc., and many complimentary references were made to the work of the T.A.S. teams during the season which has just closed.

Rev. Father McColl made a capital chairman, and had on his right Mr. J. J. Howden, President of the City League, and on his left Mr. J. Hickey, chairman of the committee. The vice-chair was filled by Mr. John O'Brien, President of St. Peter's T. A.S., and seated on his right was Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Spiritual Advisor, and on his left Mr. R. J. Begley, Manager of the Club. Around the festive board were noticed the following: Messrs. A. Sharpe, Albert Doris, F. McFadden, P. Simons, jr., J. Mahar, John Burns, John Murray, E. Flaherty, D. J. Devine, P. Meagher, J. Crough, L. J. Picard, B. Anglesey, F. Pope, E. Hickey, J. Anglesey, R. Boyle, J. Gorham, W. Meagher, Jas. O'Brien, W. Crowley, F. Derocher, F. McGrath, L. McCoy, Eugene McNichol, E. Mahoney, E. Doherty, A. Delaire, J. Gilman, B. Doris, John Mulligan, W. McCormack, W. O'Brien, F. Whaley, Jos. O'Brien, L. Doris, R. Stortz, T. Coughlin, Hastings, Jas. Derocher, F. O'Brien, C. Wilhelmy, T. McCabe, J. Begley, J. McCabe, J. McFadden, E. Hurtubise, and T. J. Begley.

The spread, prepared for the occasion by Mine Host Potvin, was a sumptuous and toothsome one, and reflected the highest credit upon his skill as a caterer. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided the toast list of the evening was opened. Each toast was received with considerable enthusiasm, and the speech making was punctuated by the club yell, which was given with a vim.

Rev. Father McColl, on rising to propose the toast of "The King," paid a warm tribute to the banquet committee, and to Mine Host Potvin for the excellent spread provided, and remarked that if one were to judge by the rapidity with which the good things disappeared, the boys were adepts at other things besides athletics. He coupled Mr. Jos. Mahar's name with the first named toast, which was honoured by the company singing the National Anthem.

Mr. Mahar made a neat speech of a patriotic nature, and incidentally bestowed considerable praise on the boys for the success they achieved on the lacrosse field this summer.

"Our Honorary President," was the next toast, and it was very warmly received indeed by the gathering.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, on rising to respond was greeted with the club's slogan, and he assured his listeners that the "yell" brought back the pleasant incidents of the past season, and the success the boys achieved should stimulate them to greater activity during the coming season. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. John Howden, President of the City League, for the manly and upright course he pursued while filling that position. Though a position of this nature, he stated, was at times onerous, still Mr. Howden faced it with credit to himself, and did all in his power to make the game clean. In making this statement he knew he was only voicing the views of the members of St. Peter's T.A.S. Rev. Dr. O'Brien was warmly applauded and before resuming his seat proposed the health of the "President of the City League." The toast was received with enthusiasm by the gathering, and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. Howden, in responding, thanked Rev. Dr. O'Brien for his complimentary remarks as to his services as President of the City League. He did his best to discharge his duties, without fear or favour, and was pleased to think that he gave satisfaction. He thought that the T.A.S. should be proud of their lacrosse teams. The players were nearly all beginners, but the record that they achieved during the season was a creditable one. He congratulated St. Peter's T.A.S. and its worthy Spiritual Advisor on the good work being done in the temperance cause.

Mr. John O'Brien, president, proposed the toast "Canada our Home," and coupled with it the name of Mr. Joseph Begley, who made a patriotic address, which was followed by the singing of the "Maple Leaf Forever."

"Our Guests," proposed by the chairman, was responded to by Mr. Fred Derocher, who in a neat speech thanked the T.A.S. for the handsome manner in which they recognized the services of the lacrosse team.

Mr. William Crowley, although he declared himself to be "too full for utterance" also responded to the toast in a speech replete with expressions of thanks to the society for the manner in which they entertained the boys.

Mr. Eugene McNichol, also thanked the society for their kindness and congratulated the boys on their success during the past season.

The toast of "Our Manager" was greeted with "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and was responded to by Mr. R. J. Begley, who referred to the season's record and the pride he felt in the boys.

"Our Field Captain" was another toast warmly received and capitally responded to by Mr. L. J. Picard in a speech in which the boys were warmly congratulated on their creditable record. He stated that the club had a good future ahead of them, and it behooved every player to turn out early in the spring and get into condition.

At this juncture Mr. Frank Pope contributed a vocal solo, "Down where the Cotton Blossoms Grow," as did also Mr. T. J. Begley.

The toast of "Our Absent Friends" was next proposed and was ably handled by Mr. Arthur Sharpe, who expressed the regrets of the gathering at the absence of several of the players as well as friends of the team, referring in an especial manner to Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell who kindly donated the handsome silver cup which was won by the St. Peter's II team in a three-game competition with Campbellford.

The toast of "The Press" was responded to by Mr. T. J. Begley, who read the following telegram which was received during the evening:

Mr. Thos. J. Begley, Secretary St. Peter's T.A.S. Lacrosse Club:

Expressed sterling silver cup tonight, rather than further await my arrival. Peterborough St. Peter's T.A.S. may also expect more from an ardent and clean sport, when favourable opportunity occurs. Best wishes for pleasant meeting to-night.

J. ALEX. CULVERWELL.

The reading of the telegram was received with cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. John O'Brien next contributed a solo "The Little Old Dhudheen," which was capitally rendered.

"The Winner of the Schneider Cup" proposed by Mr. R. J. Begley, was received with cheers and Mr. Fred McGrath in rising to respond, was cheered to the echo. He assured them that it was a source of pride to him to be a member of the lacrosse club in connection with the T. A. S., and was also proud of the fact that he represented the society in the recent foot race in which he was victorious.

"The Ladies" found a worthy champion in Mr. D. J. Devine. He referred to the creditable showing made by the lacrosse boys during the summer and the interest taken in the club by the chairman of the evening and Rev. Dr. O'Brien. A great deal of praise was bestowed upon the lady supporters—and they were legion—for their loyalty to the boys and for the interest they had taken in the team by their attendance at the different games and by their many manifestations of encouragement.

The gathering recognized this toast with considerable gallantry and "Just One Girl" was sung with vim and cordial expression.

Rev. Father McColl closed the speech-making with eulogistic references to the banquet and congratulated the boys on their season's work as well as the society in general.

A thoroughly delightful evening, and one that will be remembered with pleasure by those present was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

The different trophies which the club won during the season, as well as the Schneider Cup, occupied a prominent place on the banquet board.

The committee having the banquet in hand, Messrs. James Hickey, Albert Doris and Arthur Sharpe, are to be congratulated on the successful manner in which the affair was handled.

The secretary of St. Peter's T.A.S. Lacrosse Club to-day received by express the trophy donated by Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, to be competed for between the T.A.S. II team and Campbellford, and which was won by the former. It is in the shape of a handsome sterling silver cup, bearing the following inscription:

"Presented by J. Alex. Culverwell to St. Peter's T.A.S. II Team, Winners of the Campbellford-Peterborough Series, September 1, 1902."

A Priceless Book Sent Free for the Asking.

"There be books and books;" some edifying, others entertaining, and still others instructive. The average man is so busily engaged in the labour of money-making that he has little time and less inclination for books which instruct; hence when he feels out of sorts, either he gives no heed to Nature's warning, or he consults a physician, at an expense which a little knowledge would have enabled him to avoid. There is probably no complaint upon which the public is so little informed, as hemorrhoids, or piles; this little book tells all about their nature, cause and cure; it treats of the different forms of blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, describes their symptoms, and points the way to a cure so simple and inexpensive, that anyone can understand and apply. The importance of promptness and thoroughness is vital, for the disease will not cure itself, and Nature, alone, unaided, will not accomplish a cure, while the consequences are too painful for detailed description. You are told how piles originate, the reason for their appearance usually being that some of the rules of correct living have been violated, and (what is more to the point) how you may rid yourself of this bane of human existence. All affections of the rectum are treated in simple plain language, so that all may understand, and learn how the cause may be removed. Many people suffer from piles, because after trying the numerous lotions, ointments and salves that are on the market, without relief, they come to the conclusion that a surgical operation is the only thing left to try, and rather than submit to the shock and risk to life of an operation, prefer to suffer on. This little book tells how this may be avoided, and a cure be effected without pain, inconvenience or detention from business. Write your name and address plainly on a postal card, mail to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and you will receive the book by return mail.

You spend a good deal of your life in your shirts.

If you wear "Tooke Shirts" you will certainly live more comfortably than in inferior makes.

SWAYNE NOT PURSUED

The British Force Were Not Molested by the Mad Mullah.

NOW RETREATING TO BERBERA.

Details of the Severe Fight in Which Heavy Losses Were Incurred — The Officers Displayed Great Courage— Col. Swayne Led a Splendid Charge and Checked the Mullah's Hordes.

London, Oct 27.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Simla, India, reports that Col. Swayne and his forces are continuing their march from Bohotle to Berbera, Somaliland, East Africa, and that they are not pursued.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

How the Enemy Was Turned by Brave British Officers.

Aden, Arabia, Oct. 26.—Details of the fighting in Somaliland, Oct. 6, between the British expeditionary force and the followers of the Mad Mullah, show that a more serious disaster was only averted by the splendid example of the few white officers. As it was, the British force lost a Maxim gun and 70 men killed, while 62 of their enemies' dead were counted close to the firing line.

Shortly after the British expedition left their zareba (fortified camp), for Mudug, Oct. 6, the Mullah's forces were reported about a mile ahead, and within half an hour, while the British were advancing in single file through a dense jungle, the enemy charged the British right flank. But the Mullah's troops were met with such a severe fire that they swung round towards the British centre and left. In the meanwhile the transport got mixed up with the firing line, which was thrown into confusion, and a Maxim was rushed and captured, as were many camels. Major Phillips was shot while gallantly attempting to rally his men, and Lieut. Everett was wounded while attending Major Phillips.

The disorder spread to the gun teams, which were driven back. Capt. Angus was killed while serving a gun. Col. Cobbe, with a single Somali sergeant, continuing serving a Maxim, and then Col. Swayne, the British commissioner in Somaliland, and commander of the expedition, led a splendid charge, checked the Mullah's hordes, and re-captured some of the transport. But he was unable to recover the Maxim. The British then formed a zareba, and sent out parties to collect the scattered transport.

The enemy later tried to get away with the captured camels, but Col. Swayne took out three companies of troops, and, after a sharp fight, recovered the majority of them and picked up 70 rifles.

SICILY UNDER WATER.

Peasants on Roofs of Houses Firing Pistols in Distress.

Catania, Sicily, Oct. 27.—There have been heavy rains and floods between Catania and Syracuse. The railroad was partly destroyed near Bicoca, and great damage has been done to property. In many places the water has attained a depth of 15 feet; the peasants have taken refuge on the roofs of their houses and are firing pistols as signals of distress.

Several Lives Lost.

Rome, Oct. 26.—There have been floods in the Province of Calabra, in which several persons were drowned. There have also been renewed earthquake shocks at Rieti, Umbria.

Big Combine of Shoe Men.

Montreal, Oct 27.—The consolidation of most of the boot and shoe manufacturers and jobbers of Canada seems to be nearing completion. The new trust will include from forty to fifty of the leading Quebec, Montreal and Toronto manufacturers. It is stated here that the capital of the new concern has been underwritten to the extent of $5,000,000. The consolidation is being brought about owing to the fact that under present conditions they cannot compete with the United States for the trade of England and the other British colonies, which they were particularly anxious to secure.

Whisper Caused a Riot.

Dublin, Oct. 27.—An extraordinary scene occurred in a Dublin church during the service yesterday. The preacher had made a severe remark on proselytism, when a woman leaned over the back of the pew in front of her and whispered audibly in the ear of another woman: "There's a tip for you." The woman spoken to turned and struck the speaker across the face. The congregation was instantly in an uproar, and in the panic several persons were knocked down and trodden on.

Koch Reiterates.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The sensation of Saturday's session of the International Tuberculosis Congress came toward the end of the sitting in the form of a paper by Prof. Koch, in which he maintained all his former position regarding the non-transferribility of animal tuberculosis to man.

Municipal Ownership.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 27.—Municipal ownership received a big boost at the special election Saturday when the voters of the city declared themselves ten to one in favor of purchasing the West Duluth water plant and the gas franchise of the company. The vote for the by-law resulted favorably by 1,337 to 146 votes.

Trolley Hold-Up Was a Fake.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 27.—The young man, Mason Logan, who was supposed to have been held up and clubbed into insensibility and his body placed on the trolley tracks in Queen Victoria Park last Monday night, has admitted that he devised the story to cover up a shortage in his accounts.

Macedonian Leader Killed.

London, Oct. 27.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Constantinople says it is reported that M. Zontcheff, the Macedonian leader, was killed during a fight between insurgents and Turkish troops. The insurgents had 23 men killed in the engagement.

Czar to See the Pope.

London, Oct. 27.—According to the Copenhagen correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, the Czar of Russia, after visiting Italy, will proceed to Montenegro, Athens, and probably to Constantinople. While in Italy the Czar will have an interview with the Pope.

Twenty-Five Indictments Brought In.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—The grand jury late Saturday afternoon returned twenty-five indictments in the local grave robbery scandal. Five doctors have been indicted. All the ghouls now under arrest are indicted.

Soldiers Still on Guard at Dunkirk.

Dunkirk, France, Oct. 27.—Soldiers are still camped in the streets here, although work has been resumed at the docks.

FINAL CEREMONIES.

King Edward's Reign is Now Completely Inaugurated.

ROYAL PROCESSION IN LONDON

His Majesty, With Members of His Family, Attend Divine Service in St. Paul's Cathedral — Returns Thanks For His Recovery—Their Majesties Cordially Greeted by London Crowds.

London, Oct. 27.—The last ceremonies connected with the inauguration of the reign of King Edward VII occured yesterday, when the King, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and almost all the members of the royal family drove to St. Paul's Cathedral and offered up thanks for the recovery of his health.

The weather was rainy, and small crowds marked the royal progress through the metropolis. At Temple Bar the Lord Mayor of London and the corporation met the King and escorted him to the cathedral, where in the nave were gathered several thousand persons, including Premier Balfour, leading members of the nobility, almost all the members of the Cabinet and the Foreign Ambassadors to Great Britain.

The Honorable Artillery Company formed an imposing line, but before the service was over several of the artillerymen had fainted as a result of long standing.

The choir, the chapter and the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur Ingram, escorted the King and the Queen to the throne under Reredos.

There was a full choral service of thanksgiving, followed by a sermon from the Bishop of London, who laid special stress upon the fact that this was the second time in His Majesty's life that he had entered St. Paul's to give thanks for his recovery from a dangerous illness. At the conclusion of the sermon the Te Deum was sung.

The royal party then returned to Buckingham Palace, being greeted wherever the crowds were large enough to raise a cheer. In spite of the rain, King Edward ordered that the carriages be kept open, and Queen Alexandra bowed and smiled from behind a small umbrella. King Edward was dressed in the uniform of a field marshal, and wore the decoration of the Order of the Garter.

The event was marked by two untoward incidents on Saturday.

A fanatical clergyman was arrested for having a quantity of gunpowder in his possession, with which he intended to make a demonstration against the erection of spectators' stands around St. George's Church, Southwark.

The second incident was the breaking out of a fire in the dome of the Guildhall just after the royal party left the building, which, several firemen declare had been smouldering while the King was at lunch.

An interesting feature of the royal progress on Saturday was the King's reply to the address of the London County Council in Trafalgar square. The Boer generals occupied prominent seats in the centre of the County Council stand, immediately facing the King. His Majesty's reply was clearly audible to all in the vicinity. He said:

It gives much pleasure both to myself and the Queen to receive in person the loyal and dutiful address of the centre of municipal authority on the occasion of our progress through the capital of the Empire, and to receive the greetings of our people on our coronation. Your confidence that my favor will be extended to every measure calculated to ameliorate the conditions of my subjects is well founded and of the numerous important questions which come under your consideration none appeal more strongly to my interest and sympathy than those directly touching on the welfare of the poorer classes of this and other great cities. I thank you for your good wishes for myself and my house. I cordially share your aspiration that it may be granted me by the same divine providence which preserved my life from imminent danger to reign over my firmly established and peaceful Empire, and in the loyal hearts of my contented and prosperous people.

The King's reply to the address in the Guildhall was much on the same lines as his speech at Trafalgar square.

After luncheon the common crier called for a toast to His Majesty the King, and Mme. Albini, stationed in one of the galleries, sang the national anthem, in which the whole company joined.

Two Schooners Reported Lost.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 27.—Two more schooners were reported yesterday to have been lost on the north coast. The crews of these vessels, however, are said to have been saved.

The Labrador mail boat, which is here, reports much distress among the fisher folk on the Labrador coast as the result of a recent gale and the destruction of fishery outfits.

House Breakers Sentenced.

London, Oct. 27.—Wesley Perry, James Langley and Manville Newans, who pleaded guilty to breaking into the residence of Mr. T. L. Belcher and stealing several valuables, were sentenced Saturday morning. Langley and Perry were each sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary, and Newans was given six months in the Central Prison.

EDITORIAL NOTES

On Saturday at the sitting of the Election Court in Toronto, twelve petitions and eight cross petitions were dismissed and dates fixed for the Frontenac and Halton petitions, Nov. 18th, and the Lennox and Kingston petitions for Nov. 25th.

It is reported that W. J. Bryan, the silver tongued and silver system Democratic presidential candidate in the United States, is one of a company which is negotiating with the Ontario Government for a tract of 3,000,000 acres of land for colonization purposes. The chances are one to sixteen that little will come of the project unless the Province gets the big end of the bargain.

Activity in industrial and other enterprises, as reflected in the incorporation of companies in Ontario, seems to persist, according to the returns of fees collected by the department of the Provincial Secretary. For the nine months ending September 30th, the amount received was $80,684 as against $69,347, an increase of $11,336 over the corresponding period of last year.

The Marine Review anticipates a total movement of 35,000,000 tons of freight to and from Lake Superior through canals at the Sault by the close of the present season of navigation, as against 28,000,000 tons a year ago, 8,800,000 tons ten years ago, and only 1,500,000 tons twenty years ago. Reports from Government officials in charge of the canals show a total movemen 26,312,922 tons to Oct. 1 of this year, as against 20,369,065 tons on Oct. 1 a year ago and 19,901,473 tons Oct. 1, 1900. Coal is the only important item in which a decrease is shown. The hard coal movement to Lake Superior is confined to the few cargoes shipped before the strike—little more than 100,000 tons in all. Soft coal shipments to Oct. 1 foot up 3,455,608 tons, as against 2,896,483 tons on the same date a year ago and 3,178113 tons Oct. 1,1900.

BENSFORT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Thos. Johnston, of Bailleboro and his staff of men packed one hundred barrels of apples in two days for Mr. James Wood.

We are pleased to see Walter Morrison able to be out again, and although he will not be able to work for a few weeks, it is a pleasure for him to be able to walk around and visit his many friends. Mr. Morrison was in town on the 11th of October, and stopped at Mr. Ted Cavanah's hotel, and when passing through the stable was severely kicked by a horse, displacing one of his kidneys. Any person leaving a kicking horse in a stable should warn people to be careful in passing behind them, and not leave them to endanger life or limb of any person who may chance to pass that way.

On Monday and Tuesday, the 20th and 21st, there were two scow loads of grain shipped from Hall's Landing, one by the Farmers' Mill and one by McAllister Milling Co. This is a great advantage to farmers living in this vicinity.

The prayer meeting held in the Sunday school hall on Wednesday evening was not very well attended on account of the unfavourable weather.

Mr. Wm. Emberson lost a valuable mare last week.

Miss McMartin is visiting at her sister's, Mrs. Powers.

Miss Ethel Marett, of Millbrook, spent a few days with her sister, Miss L. Marett, recently.

Wm. Buckham and J. W. Wedlock spent three days on the lake last week duck shooting, and report having good sport, but were not so successful as in former times.

Charley Stinton and Tom Armstrong bagged several pairs of blue bills one morning last week. They shot off the north point of Long Island and report ducks plentiful, but rather wild.

R. J. O'Hare and John Reid were digging a well for W. R. Morrison when they struck a spring which overflowed the well. Well! Well!

Rev. Mr. Drew, of Fraserville, has started a singing class here for the benefit of the young people. We wish him every success in his task.

The Skin on Fire.

So dreadful are the sensations of burning, itching eczema that victims frequently describe their sufferings by saying that the skin is all on fire. The stinging, biting, fires of eczema are quenched by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. The first few applications may cause a little uneasiness but cure is sure to result, and the skin is healed without scar or blemish.

REMINISCENCES OF A PIONEER.

Mr. Robt. Harrison Sr. Tells Story of Pioneer Days

OF THE TOWNSHIP ASPHODEL.

Sketch of Narrator's Pioneer Life and Names of Early Settlers—How They Lived in Those Primitive Days—Interesting Contribution to Local History.

The following is a continuation of the paper read at the annual meeting of the Historical Society last Thursday evening:—

NUMBER TWO.

Richard Birdsall was chosen the fist reeve and John Fitzpatrick the first assessor of the township, Thos. Murphy, first treasurer and clerk. In the year 1833 the first school was established in the "Pinegrove," lot 1, concession 4, near Robert Humphries' homestead, Mayor Sharpe, a retired British Army officer, being the first common school teacher employed, where he continued to teach for a number of years. The second school house was built shortly afterwards, a few rods north of Walker's, (now Breckenridge's) bridge, lot 9, concession 2, and was taught by John Irwin in 1834, and for a short time afterwards. But whiskey flowed like water in those days, and a "wee still" that existed a mile to the southward soon furnished sufficient "fire water" to burn out the vitality and engulf the lives of not only the children of the forest, but also of the pioneers, officers and teachers of those early days. " At times fun ran high and some amusing anecdotes might be told of the sport enjoyed by the young men of Asphodel at the expense of some of the old topers who were in the habit of frequenting the "wee still."

The men of Robinson's Immigration had, many of them, been in but poor circumstances in Ireland but the British Government had dealt so generously with them on coming to Canada in the matter of supply of provisions that one immigrant who was intimately known to the narator had in the course of two years not only fed his own large family well but in the meantime sold sufficient of the pork and flour furnished him by the Government to purchase two cows. Yet the possession of good land, comfortable log shanties and abundance of pork and flour were ineffectual means of warding off death from the homes of the early settlers.

The first death of a grown person in the township, of which I have any certain recollection, was that of a man named Callaghan, who had settled on a lot of land in the extreme south east corner of the township, on the banks of the Trent. The poor fellow had built a small log hut and chopped an acre of bush when he was stricken with fever contracted from drinking the river water and, being a bachelor, he was not discovered in this helpless and sad condition until medical aid, which was not obtainable nearer than Cobourg, was of no avail. His body was buried in the clearing made by himself. This occurred in the year 1825. The death of the first wife of the late Richard Birdsall, father of Francis Birdsall, Esq., was, I think, the second occurrence of the kind that took place among the early settlers, but I am not certain of the date. The sad death of Mr. Spencer Birdsall was an event that shocked the sparely settled township to its utmost limit as Mr. Birdsall was widely known. I was the first to find the body some two days after the tragic occurrence. From this time forward death reaped his harvest rapidly. The first white child born in Asphodel was the eldest child (a daughter) of the late Richard Birdsall Esq., who married early in life and became the mother of Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, of Ashburnham. She was therefore the aunt of our President, Col. H. C. Rogers.

The first white male child born in the township was Peregrine Maitland Cameron, now living in Westwood. This event occurred at the pretty little grassy glade at the entrance to the River Trent from the waters of Rice Lake, known as Cameron's Point, but there exists some difference of memory among the old settlers now living as to the exact date of this second notable birth of white children.

It is quite proper at this point to return to the subject of the establishment of schools. The third school house was built at Keeler's Mill and in the year 1839 I, in company with the late Harry Fowlds, built a frame school house, 30x30 feet with 12 foot walls and cottage roof, on Cameron's bill in U.S.S. No. 2, Asphodel, and in which school was regularly thought until the erection of the stone structure now occupying those grounds.

For a number of years Divine Services were conducted with great regularity in this frame building by Rev. Messrs. Durant of Cobourg, Smith of Colborne, Roger of Peterborough, Colhoun of Dummer, and Andrews of Keene. In those early days long distance travelling by clergymen was usually done on horseback and furnished in all weathers with saddle-bags and black leather leggings which during hot weather were often distressingly warm arrangements. A well-remembered anecdote of the physical distress of one of the above named ministers who was noted for his furious riding was told repeatedly and with great zest by the late William Learmouth. One hot day in August Mr. Learmouth met his pastor riding at his accustomed rate of speed, which was invariably under full gallop, and saluting in his native, respectful manner, said—"Mr. Colhoun, are you not afraid to ride at such a terrific speed on this hot day?" But the reverend gentleman quaintly replied, "Hoots mon, I am riding at this rate simply to create a breeze," and after a few minutes' conversation he again put spurs to his steed and was soon out of sight again under full gallop. But many years previous to these events the first church building in the township was a frame structure erected at Keeler's Mill, in which Divine Service was occasionally conducted by an Episcopal minister named Johnston, who also occasionally held services in my mother's house at Walker's mill, now the homestead of John Breckenridge, Esq. The second church was a frame building erected on lot 15, concession 7, (near the old Walter Scott homestead) for Roman Catholic service, the first priest being the late Father Crowley, at one time Rector of St. Peter's church, Peterborough. Previous to the erection of this chapel the priest, who came to the township with the men of Robinson's Immigration, conducted Mass and burial services in the homes of his parishioners.

The first post office opened in the township was in the house of Squire Walker, formerly the home of Captain Howson, now the home of John Brekenridge, Esq., at Welbeck, then Asphodel, P.O. The second post office was at Norwood, and the third at Hastings; but I do not remember the exact date of these important events. Urton Hill, now living in Hastings, then a young boy, was the first mail carrier to regularly bring mail to Asphodel P. O., which was done on horseback and brought from Peterborough once a week. The first sawmill was operated at Keeler's Mill (Norwood), second at Walker's (Breckenridge's at Welbeck) the third at Fowld's, now Westwood. These events occurred in the years 1829, 1830 and 1835. My brother, the late William Harrison, was the first to supply logs to both these last named sawmills, as we were then chiefly engaged in lumbering and the erection of the first frame houses and barns built by the early settlers. The late Jacob Bull of Percy village, was the first man to frame a barn in the township, which was on the homestead of the late Robert Humphries, near the site of the first school house, and my late brother William and I worked on that building. My brother had the contract and he and myself framed and finished the first frame barn erected on the Birdsall farm, and Mr. Francis Birdsall has still in his possession a copy of the written contract for this building, drawn up by the late Richard Birdsall, and signed by my brother and Mr. Birdsall. Mr. Francis Birdsall will kindly furnish the date of the above named contract to anyone applying for the same. My brother and myself were the first white men to clear the River Ouse of driftwood, as far up at Walker's hill; and, further without peradventure, we were the first men of any complexion to take out and float square timber from the forks of the Ouse to the River Trent. My brother, William, who was ten years my senior, had purchased a yoke of very large, powerful oxen, both grey in colour, from a man in the southern part of Percy, brought them to Asphodel and worked them on the farm and at lumbering for some time. Spring time came and they were let out to grass. The first night they both started south, swam the Trent, and next morning were found at the gate of the old home where they were raised, having marched through the bush and swam the Trent in one of the short nights of June.

Being at this time engaged in various branches of the timber trade, our practice was to mulnette the square pine, load it, all that it would float, with pipe staves, (which were then in good demand for the West Indian trade), take all down the river and sell out at the Trent, and in these respects our efforts were almost always crowned with success. These events took place in the thirties, and even then money was gaining a wider and better circulation; the pulse of colonial life was making itself felt with fairly regular beat in the hearts and homes of families far removed from the centres of, perhaps, more active, yet certainly not more forceful thought that inspired the leading minds of those communities that were rapidly and permanently lining the shores of the greater waters to the south.

CHAMBERLAIN.

The Colonial Secretary Is Slated to Visit South Africa.

London, Oct. 27.—It is officially announced that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has decided personally to visit South Africa and examine on the spot the problems presented by the termination of the war and the settlement of affairs in the new colonies. King Edward has given his approval to this plan.

Mr. Chamberlain proposes to start for South Africa toward the end of November and to return in the early part of March. His visit will embrace the Cape, Natal, the Orange River Colony and the Transvaal.

The striking precedent to be established by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in visiting a colony during his term of office is a subject of universal and approving comment this morning.

The Daily Telegraph thinks that this step will be the precursor of similar visits to Canada and Australia.

The Times this morning says it understands that Mrs. Chamberlain will accompany her husband to South Africa, and that his son, Austen (who is Postmaster-General), will answer Colonial Office questions in Parliament about his father's absence.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It Is Digested.

Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe outdoor manual labour can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, woman and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutricious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People may make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestives; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

To Solve Turbine Problem.

London, Oct. 27.—Great interest is being displayed in the turbine yacht which, built to order for Sir Christopeher Furness, has been launched at Glasgow. The vessel is expected to solve some of the problems which confront marine engineers in this new mode of applying power.

A LIST OF ACCIDENTS

Two Railway Accidents at Cobourg—William Stumps Loses Both Legs—Jumped to Death at the Canadian "Soo"—Longshoreman Killed at Montreal—Indian Cableman Killed at Port Arthur.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 27.—A very sad drowning accident occurred here Saturday when John Duncan of the Canadian Soo lost his life by falling into the river at the ferry dock. Duncan was returning home from the water power celebration across the river, and the ferry was just pulling out as he reached the wharf. He attempted to catch it by jumping, but fell short, hitting his head on the side of the ferry and sinking immediately. He was a man about 40 years of age, and leaves to mourn his death four children.

Dropped to His Death.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—A fatal accident occurred shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday evening, on one of the Donaldson Line steamships lying at the foot of Beaudry street. It appears that a number of workingmen were unloading the vessel, when one of them, named Zenon Mainville, was struck by a package which was being taken from the ship. The blow knocked Mainville head first into the hatchway, a distance of 45 feet, where his head was cut in two, death ensuing instantly.

FATALITIES AT COBOURG.

Wm. Stumpe Fell Between Cars and Was Terribly Cut Up.

Cobourg, Oct. 27.—On Friday evening an unknown man was struck and instantly killed by a freight train two miles east of here. He was a man about 35 years of age, and evidently did not hear the train approaching.

Yesterday morning a man giving his name as William Stumps and place of residence as Purpleville, Ont., tried to board a westbound freight when nearing Cobourg, but fell between the cars and was terribly cut to pieces. Previous to attempting to board the train he took off nearly all his clothes. Stumps is a very large man, weighing over 200 pounds. It will be necessary to amputate both legs.

Killed a Cable Man.

Port Arthur, Oct. 27.—A work train ran into a hand car near here on Thursday, killing an Indian cableman and seriously injuring Brakeman J. Humphreys.

Drowned in a Cistern.

Tilsonburg, Oct. 27.—A fatality occurred Saturday afternoon at the toll-gate, a mile east of here on the Courtland road. Rowan, the 8-year-old son of R. Cornwall, the keeper of the toll-gate, had been playing about the house and was missed by his companions. No trace could be found of him, and it was suspected that he had fallen into the cistern. After some trouble the body of the child was brought to the surface.

FELL FROM TOP OF CAR.

Head Struck on Rails and Serious Injuries Resulted.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 27.—Shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday morning a G.P.R. yeardman, William Teat, fell from the top of a freight car in the eastbound yards, striking on the track head first, badly injuring himself and dislocating and fracturing his wrist. His forehead struck the rail, inflicting a flesh wound about three inches long, laying bare, the skull, breaking the nasal bone, fracturing the chin bone and causing a slight contusion at the base of the brain. Dr. Wilson attended the man and dressed his wounds, which it is expected will not prove fatal.

Woman Will Recover.

Mansfield, Oct. 27.—Considerable damage by fire was done to the stock of H. Gilbert's store, caused through the upsetting of a lamp. Mrs. Gilbert's clothing also caught fire, and she was badly burned, though hopes are now entertained for her recovery.

Drowned Her Own Child.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Daniel Lynch, the wife of a prominent shoe merchant of this city, drowned her 8-year-old daughter in the bath room at her home, and then attempted suicide by cutting her throat yesterday. One of the Lynch children died a month ago, and Mrs. Lynch has been acting strangely since.

Guilty of Murder.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 27.—The trial of George W. Cook for the killing of his wife in their home on Albermarle street, July last, by cutting her throat with a razor, was concluded Saturday afternoon, and the jury, after being out an hour and a half, returned a verdict of guilty of murder.

Wyndham Defeats Morley.

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 27.—In the election Saturday of the Rector of Glasgow University, in succession to Lord Rosebery, Mr. Wyndham, the Irish Secretary, defeated John Morley, the Liberal leader, 675 to 645 votes.

Neck Broken, Almost Instant Death.

Jamestown, Oct. 27.—A football fatality occurred in this city Saturday in the game between the Jamestown and Buffalo High School teams. In an unusually fierce scrimmage one of the Jamestown players was injured and taken from the game. His place was taken by George McClurg, a substitute. McClurg had been playing only a few seebnds when he was thrown in such a way that his neck was broken, death occurring almost instantly.

South Polar Trip Delayed.

Glasgow, Oct. 27.—The auxiliary screw steamer Scotia, fitted out by the Scottish National Antarctic Association, under the leadership of William S. Bruce (director of the Laboratory of Marine Zoology, Edinburgh), which was to have sailed from the Clyde Saturday for the Antarctic regions, has postponed her departure until to-day. The expedition consists of thirty-two Scotchmen.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL WORRIED.

9,000 Miners Refuse to Go Back to Work—More May Follow.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 27. — The situation in the Hazelton, Panther Creek and Mahoney City districts of the anthracite field is so critical that another large strike is not improbable unless the operators recede from their position. In the Hazelton district nine thousand men refuse to return to work. Near Mahoney City eight hundred went on strike Saturday and nine hundred threaten to strike on Monday, while in the Panther Creek Valley the locals are yet to determine whether they shall ask the Executive Board to order a strike of the six thousand men of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.

President Mitchell is endeavoring to smooth things over, and the district officers to have the operators recede from the position they have taken, but the breach only grows wider, and the ill-feeling increases. An effort to have the Cranberry local pass upon the question of going to work resulted in a unanimous vote to stay on strike.

President Mitchell is worried about the situation through the region, and considers it so serious that he will not talk about it, which is one of his traits. It would be a big feather in his cap if, when he appears before the commission at Washington on Monday, he could say that all the strikers were back at work and that there was no friction. The fact that men would not agree to treat non-union men properly is not readily understood by the public. Their objection is not to the non-union men and their treatment of them, but to signing an agreement with the operators. They want no such agreement until they know what the commission grants. They also assert that the operators, against whose actions they protest, are the men who did not sign the arbitration proposition, and that it is not known where they stand.

Yesterday afternoon President Mitchell was presented with a gold badge and gold watch from the Polish, Lithuanian and Slavish members of the United Mine Workers. The presentation took place at President Mitchell's headquarters, and a large crowd listened to the speeches of presentation and acceptance.

Fear Local Strikes.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 27.—One hundred deputies, who were on guard at the collieries in this region during the strike, were sent home Saturday night, under orders to be ready to return at any time when notified, as it is feared there will be local strikes if all non-union men do not resign their positions.

Wright Another Arbitrator.

Washington, Oct. 27.—President Roosevelt announced Saturday that he had designated Commissioner o Labor Wright as an additional member of the coal arbitration commission. Col. Wright will continue to sit as recorder of the commission.

Hard Coal $6.50.

New York, Oct. 27.—The first of the freshly mined coal reached New York Saturday and was sold to the public at $6.50 a ton. It came over the Ontario and Western from their mines in Lackawanna County, Pa. It consisted of two trainloads, with a total of 1,700 tons. It was split up into 100-ton lots and immediately distributed among the trade.

The man who got the first consignment was Henry Berghorn, a Harlem dealer. He was selected by Dickson & Eddy, sales agent of the Ontario and Western, because they considered him a man who would not overcharge. He respected their confidence by making the retail price of $6.50 a ton.

Ottawa Frozen Up.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Yesterday was the worst day of the season since the coal strike, and the scarcity of fuel was felt. Rain poured in torrents and froze as soon as it had fallen. Wires were incased in ice, and icicles hung from the houses, presenting a decidedly wintry appearance.

Municipal Coal in Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Saturday at the western city yard at 7 o'clock the doors of the municipal coal yard were opened. M. VanZant, 15 Gladstone avenue, ordered a ton of coal. It was ready to leave the yard at 7.30 o'clock, and was delivered by Pete Doherty. So Mr VanZant goes down in history as the first man who ever purchased fuel of the city of Toronto.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Shipwreck Crew Reach Land.

St. George, Island of Grenada, British West Indies, Oct. 27.—A boat containing Capt. Kay and his wife and the crew of the British barque Florence B. Edgett, from Bear River, N.S., for Buenos Ayres, arrived here yesterday morning. Capt. Kay and his companions report that their vessel was dismasted in a hurricane on Sept. 18, and was abandoned on Oct. 15, in a waterlogged condition. They suffered many hardships, and were without nautical instruments in the boat, but managed to reach Grenada safely.

To Increase Your Weight.

If you are thin, weak and emaciated and want to increase your flesh and weight you should try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You can feel it doing you good from day to day, as it strikes at the root of the trouble and creates new, rich blood. You can prove that it builds up new tissue and adds flesh if you weigh yourself each week while using it.

The King of Ranges—"Buck's Happy Thought"

Buying a Range

There are three essential things to consider when buying a Range,—Quality, Consumption of Fuel, and the Price. The price is the least important. A good Range will last many years, and when it saves in fuel it pays for its self, while a cheap Range is constantly adding to its price in extra consumption of fuel. The is the lightest fuel consumer in the world, and the most perfect Range constructed. It is a perfect cooking apparatus.

"Happy Thought" Range

JEWELED SWITCH TURNED.

Sister of F. H. Clergue Officiates at Climax of Soo Celebration.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 27.—Water was turned into the new power canal of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company Saturday morning, and at noon Miss Helen Clergue, sister of Francis H. Clergue, organizer and general manager of the company, turned a jeweled switch that started the wheels in the big power house. Then Dedlam broke loose in the two "Soos."

A civic and military parade marched through the streets in the morning, while in the afternoon, an industrial parade took place, showing products of the Clergue institutions in the various stages from raw material to finished product.

Ex-Mayor Charged With Arson.

Grand Forks, B.C., Oct. 26.—John A. Manley, formerly Mayor of this place, and one of its most prominent citizens, and chief engineer of the Kettle Valley lines, was arrested at his home, on a charge of complicity in the burning of the Escarlet Hotel at Columbia, B.C., about three years ago. He was released on $15,000 bail. Few men in eastern British Columbia are so well-known as Manley. Three years ago he was proprietor of the Yale Hotel at Columbia. The Escarlet was dividing patronage with it, when one night it was burned to the ground. Two men were convicted of incendiarism, but no charge was made against Manley, who went to the United States till the trial was over. His arrest created a big sensation.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Gorilla Hunting in Africa.

Gorilla hunting is a distinct sensation, even for the veteran hunter. This animal is a decidedly unpleasant one to engage. The West Africans are mortally afraid of it, believing that the brute contains the spirit of a man. They attribute to it all sorts of ferocities, like the carrying off of a human being, who is permitted to return after being deprived of toe and finger nails. Skilled hunters have never observed any of these doings, but they testify to the brute's strength and ferocity. According to a recently returned sportsman, a full-grown gorilla can bite through a tree six inches thick in order to secure the sap, and twist a gun barrel with the swollen bunches of muscle that serve for arms. His roar is terrifying and can be heard for a distance of three miles. "I shall never forget how the first one impressed me," says the sportsman, "for I had a bad attack of shakes. The woods had been filled some time with a barking roar, but I saw nothing until my guide clucked softly and pointed to a tree alongside which stood an immense male gorilla. There he remained, but twelve yards away, boldly facing us with his huge chest, muscular arms, fiercely-glaring eyes, and a fiendish expression, until I moved. "At that he dropped to all fours and came six yards nearer, sitting up to beat his breasts with his huge fists—a defiance—so that it sounded like an immense drum. His roar was most singular, beginning with a kind of bark and deepening into a bass roll that literally resembled thunder. The short hair on his forehead was twitching, his powerful fangs showed unpleasantly, and, feeling he was about to attack, and incidentally being scared green, I shot him through the heart. With a groan something human, and yet brutish, he fell on his face and died quickly, like a man. He measured five feet nine inches in length, his chest was sixty-two inches, and his arms spread nine feet. I was glad to have the specimen, but somehow after that never cared to kill a gorilla, unless he actually menaced me."

ODONTOGLOSSUM GRANDE.

A Tropical Parasite in Bloom in Peterborough.

This rather pertentious title signifying according to its Greek etymological elements, tooth-tongue, is the name of a Guatemalan member of the orchid family, which may be seen in bloom in the shop window of Mr. W. H. Hamilton, Simcoe street. It is also known as the "Baby Orchid." The flower resembles the devil fish; it is large of a cinnamon brown tint, splashed with yellow. It blooms in September, October, November and December. The specimen referred to above is from the greenhouse of Mr. Percy Hamilton, corner Bethune and Sherbrooke streets, and as far as known is the only one in town. This specimen began to bloom Oct. 1st. A view of this beautiful bloom shows that contrary to general opinion Central America can produce something besides political revolutions of the average seriousness of a sharply fought municipal contest.

TELLS HOW IT WAS DONE.

Mr. Albert Talbot Home From Rice Lake.

Mr. Courrier's Body Found on Saturday Afternoon—Interment Took Place To-day.

The remains of the late Samuel Courrier, who was drowned on Saturday morning, while shooting ducks off Curtis' Point, Rice Lake, were brought to town on Saturday evening by Undertaker Comstock, and the funeral took place to-day from the family residence, Ashburnham, to the G.T.R. station. The remains were then conveyed to Port Hope. Interment took place at Welcome Cemetery this afternoon.

The unfortunate man's body was found on Saturday afternoon after a diligent search had been kept up from the moment the accident occurred. Great sympathy is expressed for the deceased's bereaved wife and child.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Messrs. Albert Talbot and Chris. Wood, who, together with the late Mr. Courrier, made up the party, which was occupying "Sea Breeze" Lodge, at Roach's Point, arrived in town on Saturday evening, and they expressed their deep sense of sorrow at the sad ending of their otherwise successful outing. Mr. Talbot looks somewhat shaken up as a result of his thrilling experience, and his escape from death was of a two-fold miraculous nature. In the first instance he came within a hair's breadth of being shot to death by the premature discharge of Mr. Courrier's gun; and, secondly, had assistance arrived only a few minutes later he would undoubtedly have met a similar fate to that of his hunting companion.

Mr. Talbot in a talk with the Examiner this morning, explained the circumstances of the sad affair. They had proceeded across the lake at about five o'clock in the morning to Curtis' Point, built their "blind," and were just paddling into position, when the accident occurred. Mr. Talbot occupied the bow of the boat, with his back to Mr. Courrier, who sat in the stern. Mr. Courrier remarked that he believed his gun was "cocked," and leaned forward as if to take hold of it. Suddenly the gun, which was a 16 bore, discharged, and in an instant the boat began to settle. The two men at once realized their perilous position and quickly upset the boat. They scrambled around for a while in the water, and then climbed on to the canoe. Mr. Courrier all the while was the more excited of the two, and plunged at an awful rate. Mr. Talbot finally got astride the boat with his hand through the hole in the botton, and there he held firm. He was in the meantime endeavouring to get his friend to do likewise. They shouted with all their might for assistance, and knew that this could not be far away, as they saw two men at Mr. Curtis' house, and knew that there was always a skiff at that point. It seemed a long time, however, before they attracted the attention of their rescurers. Finally they saw the men run down to the skiff and proceed with all possible speed to the scene of the accident. The men had something less than a quarter of a mile to come, but Mr. Courrier became impatient, and foolishly struck out to meet them. He was a good swimmer, but no man could have accomplished what he attempted, with his very heavy clothing, and after being in the water for well on to an hour's time. Mr. Talbot protested with him to stay with the upturned craft, but he did not do so. He soon discovered his mistake, and tried to come back; he had only got a few feet on his return when he sank to rise no more. Messrs. McKnott and Hogg, the two gentlemen in the skiff, reacched Mr. Talbot, and conveyed him to the shore in a semi-conscious state of mind. He was weak and exhausted from his awful fight for life, and had to be assisted to Mr. Curtis' house, where he received every care.

Mr. Talbot's leg was badly scorched by the powder from the discharged gun. Had the muzzle been raised a few inches higher the shot would have certainly gone into his body. The two guns went to the bottom of the lake, together with various other articles that were in the boat. The accident occurred in about ten feet of water, with about ten feet of soft mud and muck below this. The articles have not yet been recovered.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT, Y.M.C.A.

The Officers Were Appointed for the Ensuing Term.

Announcement was made at the first Boys' Gospel Meeting on Friday evening of the new officers of the Boys' Department for the year.

This season the Boys' Work Committee decided to appoint the officers, instead of having an election, and the results of their choice are as follows:

President—Melville Robinson, re-elected.
Vice-President—Wm. McDonald.
Secretary—Warden Brown.
Treasurer—Gordon Thornton.
Executive—Officers and chairmen of committees.
Devotional—H. Johnston.
Social—C. Ackerman.
Membership—F. Richardson.

The initial meeting will be held this afternoon.

CATTLE FROM A HARVEY RANCH.

Mr. D. Conroy's Fine Herd of Beeves.

One of the finest lot of cattle that has been brought to Peterborough in some years was brought in this morning by Mr. David Conroy. The herd, which consisted of some eighty head, has been on Mr. Conroy's farm in Harvey, and owing to the plentiful pasture of the past summer, they are in the very best condition. The cattle, it might be added, are intended for the Toronto market. They averaged in the neighbourhood of 1100 lbs. each.

THE LATE MR. EVANS.

His Death Occurred at Three p. m. Yesterday.

Mr. Enos Dennis Evans, one of Peterborough's oldest residents, passed away Sunday afternoon at his late residence, 44 Paterson street, after an illness of only a few weeks of pneumonia. The deceased was a native of Western Ontario, but has resided in Peterborough for the past 37 years. He was a carpenter by trade, and was prominently associated with the erection of All Saints' church. As a citizen he was highly respected. The deceased was a lifelong member of the Church of England, and in politics was a Conservative. He leaves to mourn his demise, a wife and six sons and four daughters. The sons are: Messrs. James T., of Copper Cliff; Walter, Henry, Wallace and George of town; and Russell, of Niagara Falls. The daughters are Mrs. William White, Mrs. George Young, and Mrs. Pennington Alexander, of town, and Mrs. Fred Adams, of Guelph.

The funeral will take place from the family residence at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

CHURCH CHIMES.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Rev. Father McGuire of Hastings, preached in St. Peter's Cathedral last night.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The congregation of St. John's church was very large last evening. During the offertory a selection from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was rendered in excellent voice by Mr. A. Pereira.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The anthems yesterday were very well rendered. In the morning the "Hymn of Peace" was sung. Miss Mary Rush taking the solo with good effect. "Abide with Me" was sung at the offertory in the evening, Mr. Legg taking the tenor solo most acceptably. Reference was made at the evening service by the Rector to the sudden death of one of the oldest members, Mr. Enos Evans, who had been one of the builders of the church, a constant attendant and one ever ready to help. Many useful articles about the church are of his workmanship. He was universally respected and will be much missed in the congregation, whose prayers go up for those bereaved.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The music at both services was good and was well interpreted. In the morning the solo and chorus "Hosanna" was given by Mr. G. W. Mulligan and the choir, and during collection the latter sang the selection "Under His Wing." The evening anthem was "Conquering Kings," by Maunder, and the offertory selection was chorus "Jesus Shall Reign" by the men of the choir. The solo and chorus "Jesus Saves" was sung in good voice by Mr. Mulligan and the choir. The evening music was chosen with special reference to the missionary address given by Mr. Hiraiwa.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The services at the Charlotte street Methodist church were exceptionally fine. Mr. Richards pleased all who heard him both morning and evening. In the morning Mr. Richards gave as a solo "Calvary" and he also sang a duet with Mr. A. L. Davis "Forever With the Lord," Gounod. The anthem for the evening service was "Thou God Art Praised," and Messrs. Richards and Davis repeated their morning duet by request.

Rev. H. Hiraiwa, president of the Japan Methodist Conference, gave a very instructive and interesting sermon yesterday morning in the Charlotte street Methodist church. The sermon was mainly a historical account of the development of Christianity in Japan and especially an account of the growth of the Methodist church there. A great deal of interesting information was scattered throughout the sermon, and the congregation listened intently to the very end. It seems that the first missionaries went to Japan some three hundred years ago and were members of the Roman Catholic church. They met with so great success that they soon had over one million converts. Their great advancement caused the ruling authorities there to fear that the whole country would become followers of these missionaries and that Spain would acquire control of the Islands. An edict therefore was passed compelling the expulsion and extinction of the missionaries and their followers and for many years no intercourse was permitted with the outside world till forty-seven years ago when Commodore Perry, of the American Navy visited Japan and by his courteous treatment of the rulers broke down to a great extent the prejudice against foreigners. The result was that some four years later a number of missionaries went to Japan and began the task of Christianizing the people. The first missionariers went from Canada in 1873. Mr. Hiraiwa then gave an account of the growth of the Methodist church from then to the present time. At present the Methodist church in Japan consists of five districts with a total membership of three thousand.

The speaker closed his sermon by showing that it was the duty of the Christian church to forward the good work so well begun and appealed to them for aid.

ST. JOHN'S DEDICATION FESTIVAL.

To be Observed on November 1st.

At St. John's church yesterday announcement was made of the Dedication Festival, which will be held on Sunday next. Among the events in connection with the occasion will be a Young People's Social on Monday evening next, to be arranged for at a meeting of young men to-morrow evening. On Tuesday evening, Nov. 7th, a Turkish Social will be given, a feature of which will be an address on "Turkey," given by Rev. Mr. Brooks, formerly Chaplain to the British embassy at Constantinople.

Obituary.

The death occurred in Millbrook yesterday of Mrs. Johnston, relict of the late Alexander Johnston, an old resident of the village. The deceased was the mother of Mr. Harry Johnston, hardware merchant of Millbrook.

Mr. Cousin's Accident.

Mr. John Cousins, who is engaged on the excavation work of the new sewer on Babb's Lane, met with a painful accident while at work this morning. Mr. Cousins was down in the trench, when a large pipe rolled in, striking him on the head, and inflicting an ugly cut. He was attended by Dr. Pigeon, who dressed the wound, and Mr. Cousins, with his well-known vitality, returned immediately to work.

PETERBOROUGH WON AGAIN.

St. John's Choir Boys Defeated T.C.S. Juniors.

An Interesting Game on Nicholls Oval Saturday—Score, 8—0.

Saturday afternoon the Choir Boys of St. John's church gained a well-earned victory over the Trinity College School Juniors by the score of 8—0. The score gives little criterion of the merit of the game which was a stubborn, hard-played contest. In weight the choir boys were the better and it was this combined with the efforts of Boucher that won the game. The latter is the makings of a good man, and secured the two "touches" gained by the "Cherubs." In the back division Kern, Robinson and Willis, of the T.C.S., did exceptionally good work, and stopped many dangerous rushes. Spencer of the same team played a plucky game and was perhaps one of their best. Although both teams were small they dished up a superior article of ball, and it is by playing the game while young and growing up with it that the best players are made. Every effort should be made to encourage the younger players.

The teams lined up as follows:—

T.C.S. — Back, Meredith; halves, Kern, Willis, Robinson; quarter, Spencer; scrimmage, Lumsden, Hubbard. Passy; wings, Bethune, Parker, McKeand, Joy, Campbell, Vallance, Digby.

"Cherubs"—Back, Boucher; Halves, Hodgson, Mulbern, Sawers; quarter, Seymour; scrimmage, Wood, Yokome, Walkey; wings, Weller, Cummings, Smith, Morphet, F. Sawers, Campbell, Roy, Halpany.

Referee—R. F. McWilliams.

The collegians enjoyed their day to the utmost. During the morning a drive around town was the programme. Mrs. P. Campbell played the hostess at noon and Mrs. J. J. Lundy at tea, and from the remarks of the boys it was gathered that they could wish for nothing better. Anyway they deserve the best of treatment as this is the third team from the School that has visited Peterborough. The Executive of the local Rugby Club feel the obligation which they are under, and a team will, of a certainty be sent down in the near future.

ST. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.

Miss Bell & Soanes Give a Report of the Brantford Convention.

At a meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's (St. John's) on Saturday evening, Messrs. Jas. Bell and Randolph Soanes gave an interesting account of the proceedings of the convention of the Brotherhood, held last week at Brantford. They reported that the greatest enthusiasm prevailed, and that the addresses and discussions were of a high order. They were taken part in by such names as Bishop Mills, Kingston; Bishop Dumoulin, Niagara; Bishop Baldwin, of London; Mr. English, English, President of the American Brotherhood, Mr. Andrews, of St. Andrew's Cross, and others. The convention was most hospitably entertained by the people of Brantford. Messrs. Bell and Soanes were the guests of Mr. Jas. Miller, an old Peterborough boy, and former member of St. John's Sunday school, whom they found making his way prosperously in Brantford, where he is a rising young man.

The convention was marked by the retirement of Mr. N. F. Davidson, barrister, of Toronto, who has occupied the presidency of the Canadian Brotherhood for the past twelve years. This caused much regret, and several leading members expressed their appreciation of his faithful and valuable services during his incumbency in office.

ST. MARK'S, OTONABEE.

The annual harvest tea of the congregation of St. Mark's, will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 18th, in the Foresters' Hall, Otonabee.

"FLOWER LEGENDS AND OTHER POEMS."

The Examiner has received, through Mr. Garvin, for publication, the following tributes to the volume of poems recently issued for Miss Alma Frances McCollum:

A criticism from the "Quebec Mercury," the literary editor of which is John I. Proctor, a writer and poet of distinction in Quebec province:

To the press of Mr. William Briggs, Toronto, we are indebted for a pretty and attractive volume of verse, entitled "Flower Legends, and Other Poems," by Miss Alma Frances McCollum. About these verses there is a graceful and tuneful swing of true melody, and they are in divers tones, the author's muse running the whole gamut of minstrelsy. Love poems, we have, of course, and tender and gentle they are, but the poet can be matter-of-fact, and when she deals with common things, and the commonplaces of life, she is equally bright and distinctively clever. Her sonnets are so good that they would have delighted the heart of Leigh Hunt, who had his opinion of sonneteers and their work. Here is a sample of Miss McCollum's work, appropriately entitled:

LOVE.

The atmosphere of Heaven is love, and when
The portal outward swings for souls redeemed,
The precious ether, so released, is streamed
Upon a weary world. God's gift to men
It is for spirits turned to Him. Oh, then,
They, over whom this wondrous waft is beamed,
In breathing it, see visions brain ne'er dreamed,
Or through another source may dream again.
The world is glorified; they sing and sound
A quivering key-note of such ecstasy,
The keen vibrations throb till there is found
A soul companion of rare harmony.
If lightly breated it ends in one brief round;
If deeply drawn it chords eternally.

There is a portrait of Miss McCollum, which soulfully embellishes the work.

A criticism on "Flower Legends and Other Poems," by the famous Canadian poet, Dr. William H. Drummond, of Montreal, author of "The Habitant."

"I am reading over carefully Miss McCollum's dainty little collection of poems, which you were good enough to send me.

"'A song of the Forest,' is very good—nothing wrong with it.

"'Where Sings the Whippoorwill,' is for its beauty a strong little etching.

"'The Angel's Kiss,' is distinctly high class, and I think Miss McCollum excels in this key.

"'Evangeline' is very sweet and pure, but I wouldn't have allowed the printer to make it 'understand,' (sixth verse); simply 'And now you understand.'

"'Let Me Be Good.'—'Commingle mud which never should have been,' is not good; rest O.K.

"'Beyond the Hill' is about the finest poem in the book, although the last line in the second verse might, I think, be improved by making it read, 'I wonder what lies out beyond the hill.' 'Is seen' is very apt to be confounded with 'a scene;' 'What a scene beyond the hill.' Must not have any jarring.

"'The Silent Singer,' is perfect and a beautiful tribute.

"'Love' is grand, and Miss McCollum has the true conception.

"'Little Nellie's Pa' is so good that Whitcomb Riley might have been proud to sign it.

"And Miss McCollum will even do better work. She has the face, to judge from her portrait.

"On the whole, my judgment tells me the volume is a valuable addition to our Canadian literature. The only faults are minor ones, and consistent with the writer's youth; and who would have it otherwise? But there is no mawkishness,—easy to see what a lovely character is our 'jeune fille,' —More power to her!"

SHE WAS GIVEN UP.

Doctors Held out no Hope to Mrs. Huffman of Napanee.

A Wonderful Case and one Which Goes to Show the Wonderful Advancement Recently Made in the Science of Medicine.

Napanee, Ont., Oct 26—(Special.)—This town has furnished a case which has caused considerable talk in the county.

Mrs. John C. Huffman had been troubled for over six years with female weakness and kidney trouble. The pain was so great that she could not bear it and her kidneys gave her so much bother that she could not entertain any company in her home or take any social pleasures whatever. Her urine was very much discoloured and gave her great trouble in passing.

In addition to these symptoms she had all the pains, headaches, and weakness of Female Trouble.

Mrs. Huffman tried physician's treatment and many other medicines, but instead of getting better she was gradually growing worse and was very much discouraged.

Many of her friends thought she would never get better, but one day she picked up a newspaper and read an advertisement which said that Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Female Troubles.

As she had tried so many other things without being able to get any help, she was very doubtful, but concluded to try this remedy.

She used six boxes and was completely cured. She is to-day sound and well, without a single symptom of her old trouble left.

She was cured nearly five years ago and is to-day as sound and well a woman as there is in Napanee. She says:

"I can confidently recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to every woman in Canada for they cured me completely and mine was a very bad case.

"They are certainly a great medicine and I will always recommend them to women who may be suffering as I was with Female Weakness and Kidney Trouble."

Plan to Kill Queens.

Copenhagen, Oct. 27.—The international police claim to have discovered a plot of Anarchists banded together "to hit their enemies, the kings, by murdering their wives." The idea has been propagated among Anarchists for years and Empress Elizabeth was the first victim. The dowager Empress of Russia, now staying here, is billed to be second.

To Go Back Home.

London, Oct. 27.—In a despatch from Brussels, the correspondent of The Standard says it is declared positively there that Generals Botha and Delarey have abandoned their proposed tour of the United States, and will shortly return to South Africa.

An Income of $1,250,000.

New York, Oct. 27.—Russell Sage has $25,000,000 in cash loaned. He is the largest individual money lender on earth. He has an income of $1,850,000 a year from this source alone.

DEMOLITION OF LONDON HOUSES REVEALS GREAT BEAUTY.

Architectural Details on the North Wall of the Famous Roman Catholic Chapel of St. Etheldreda—Four Magnificent Windows Revealed—Some Memories of Queen Bess's Dancing Chancellor.

By the demolition of some old houses on the east side of Ely-place, Holborn, some architectural details of great beauty have been revealed on the north wall of the famous Roman Catholic chapel of St. Etheldreda. The details disclosed to public gaze consists of four magnificent Gothic windows above a set of smaller lights for the crypt. Lovers of architecture will do well to pay the church a visit before the windows are again shut away from the outside view by the new buildings that are to be erected, says Lloyd's Weekly to its London readers. The church of St. Etheldreda, or, as it was one time called, "Old St. Audry's," is one of the most interesting places of worship in the metropolis. It was erected in the fourteenth century as the chapel to the great palace of the Bishops of Ely, which occupied the entire space now known as Ely-place, and had attached to it a famous strawberry garden, where Hatton-garden now stands. The Bishop's palace was destroyed by fire, the chapel alone escaping. It remains as beautiful as when in its prime. The tracery of its east and west windows, its oak roof, magnificent crypt, and quiet cloister in which fig trees flourish, being amongst the finest examples of their mind in England. After many vicissitudes the chapel was purchased in 1874 for £5,250, by the Roman Catholic Fathers of the Order of Charity, and after thorough restoration at the expense of the Duke of Norfolk and others was reopened for worship in 1876. The spot is full of memories, especially of Sir Christopher Hatton, Queen Elizabeth's "dancing Chancellor." Legend has it that a certain Lady Hutton, who lived in Ely-place, sold herself to the devil, and, at the instigation of the latter, held blasphemous revels at midnight in the chapel. She had forgotten the date on which by the compact she was to yield herself to the fiend, and was actually holding an orgie when he came to fetch her. An awful storm took place, and next morning her mutilated body, with the heart torn out, was found in an adjoining thoroughfare, which still bears the name of "Bleeding Heart-yard."

De Wet to His Men.

An Englishwoman who was present when De Wet addressed the men and women in a concentration camp after the signing of peace sends a summary of his remarks to The Manchester Guardian. The speech is a remarkable and strong mixture, displaying at once De Wet's natural chagrin and his determination grimly to abide by the promise he has given. He said: "Of course you will all like to ask me the question, 'Have we lost?' In a word, I must say, 'Yes.' Our flag is fallen. It is dead and buried, never to rise again, and we are now under a new government, which we have to serve, not as well as we served our own, but a great deal better. Hunger," he went on, "compelled me to give in, but I stood till the rifle was taken out of my hand. I could point my finger to a good many cowards here who were going to shoot the English in this way and that way, but who never fired a shot and simply surrendered. I indeed thought more of you would remain loyal, as some of us did and were true to the last. But, as it is, if ever I hear of anything wrong among you—that is, disloyal to the new government—I, Christian De Wet, will be the first to arrest you and have you well punished."

Story of Sir William Mulock.

A good story on Sir William Mulock is being told in Toronto, and is circulating round his constituency of North York. The Postmaster-General has been busy in the Old Country booming Canada up hill and down dale, in season and, according to this story, out of it. Imbued with a desire to test the colonial knowledge of the ordinary Londoner Sir William took a friend along the Strand with him and cast about for three likely subjects. The friend, a distinguished London lawyer, was unwilling to believe that English people were as ignorant on matters Canadian as Sir William represented. The first person accosted had never heard of Canada, and said so shortly. The second was anxious to assist the befogged stranger, and ruminated, but finally had to admit that he was unable to give the locality of Canada. He was sure that it was nowhere near the Strand, as he had lived around those parts for nearly seventy years. This encouraged Sir William. Changing his question a little, he went up to a cockney flower-girl. He asked her if she was familiar with Ottawa. "Familiar with who?" she asked. "You go 'long or I'll smack your dirty face."

His Blunder.

"Say!" she cried suddenly, as the bashful young man backed into the nearest chair, "You must think you're a bird."

"Beg pardon," he stammered, "I don't understand what"—

"You're on my hat!" she shrieked.

GEN. VILJOEN'S BOOK.

Will Record "Romantic and Fabulous Stories" of the Boers.

There has been a good amount of amusement expressed at the many European reports of the alleged capture during the South African war of Lord Roberts, General Buller and others, but it appears from the introduction to a book about to be published by General Ben. Viljoen that British reports have in many cases been equally wrong. During his captivity in St. Helena General Viljoen has been employed in writing reminiscences. He says: "During the later stages of the struggle, when we were isolated from the outside world, we read in newspapers and other printed matter captured from the British so many romantic and fabulous stories about ourselves that we were sometimes in doubt whether people in Europe and elsewhere would really believe us ordinary human beings, and not legendary monsters.

"On three occasions I read circumstantial reports of my death, and once a long and by no means flattering obituary, in which I was compared to Garibaldi, Jack the Ripper and Aguinaldo.

"On another occasion I learned from British newspapers of my capture, conviction and execution in Cape Colony for wearing the insignia of the Red Cross. I found that I had been brought before a military court at De Aar and sentenced to be shot, what was worse, the sentence was duly confirmed and carried out. A very lurid picture was drawn of my execution. Bound to a chair near my open grave, I had met my doom with rare stoicism and fortitude. 'At last,' concluded the admirable historian, 'this scoundrel, robber and guerrilla leader, Viljoen, has been safely planted, and will trouble the British army no more.'

"I also learned with mingled feelings of amazement and pride that, having been imprisoned at Mafeking at the commencement of hostilities, General Baden-Powell had kindly exchanged me for Lady Sarah Wilson.

"To be honest, none of the abovementioned reports were strictly accurate. I can assure the gentle reader that I was never killed in action nor executed at De Aar. I was never in Mafeking or any other prison in my life, nor was I in Cape Colony during the war. I never masqueraded with a Red Cross, nor was I ever exchanged for Lady Sarah Wilson. Her ladyship's friends and admirers would have found me a very poor exchange."

As a matter of fact, an exchange with Lady Sarah Wilson really did take place, her Ladyship having been captured when on one of her daring rides out of Mafeking. The Boer prisoner who was exchanged for her, however, was not General Viljoen, but a much less important Boer of the same name.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Sir Edmund Head's Moose.

While the peculiar pacing gait of a moose will not carry him over the ground as rapidly as the deer or caribou, his endurance far surpasses either of these animals. For a short spurt, or in very deep snow, the caribou can easily discount the moose, but for an all-day's jaunt, where the course is fairly open, the moose has no rival. Many years ago when Sir Edmund Head was Governor of New Brunswick, he owned a tamed moose that performed remarkable feats of speed and endurance. On one occasion the Governor wagered $2,500 that a moose could travel from Fredericton to St. John over the ice, a distance of eighty-four miles, in faster time than any team of horses in the stud of Lord Hill, of the Fifty-Second Regiment. A sledge was attached to the moose and another to the horses. The river ice was covered with about eight inches of snow. The start was made opposite the Government House at 8 o'clock in the morning.

In several hours the moose and his driver was in Market Square, St. John. Lord Hill's team was distanced, one of the horses expired at Gagetown, and the other reaching St. John three hours behind the moose.

Have You Escaped Itching Piles ?

If so, you are one of the Few Fortunate Ones; if not, you can be Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Piles or hemorrhoids are among the most common as well as the most torturing ailments that afflict humanity. The keen distress caused by the itching, especially when the body gets warm, is almost beyond the powers of description.

The very mention of Piles suggests Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is beyond denial the only actual cure for this loathsome disease. If you ask your doctor, your druggists or your friends what to use for piles they will in nine cases out of ten advise Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. A. Oliver, farmer, Deseronto, Ont., states: "I had itching piles in the worst form, and can now testify that Chase's Ointment is a sure and positive cure for this dreadful ailment. I tried several other remedies, but could obtain no benefit from them, but am now cured, and have no doubt that the credit for the cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

A SIGHT TO BE SEEN

INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF A MANITOBA THRESHING.

H. F. G. Writes Entertainingly of the Hum of Industry Around Hartney—The Complement of Each 160 Acres—Twenty Men in One Field—The Winds of Manitoba—For a Poetic Eye.

Every morning from now on, the stillness of Hartney — a Manitoba prairie town is always quietest when the farmers are busiest in the fields —will be invaded by the screech of the steam whistle, writes H. F. G., in Toronto Star. These whistles belong to the threshing outfits, and they began their shrill chorus at half past six in the morning, not quite with the early matins of the lark, but very shortly after them. The Manitoba harvester gets good pay for a long day. Subtracting the noon hour for lunch—and even that would be curtailed if the horses could feed faster—he works from half past six in the morning to half past seven at night, a stunt of thirteen hours, and every minute of it close packed with healthful toil. The last nighthawk of a star has hardly disappeared from the sky when he rises and takes his breakfast; and the moon has hung out her lamp and the sun's afterglow is fading when he plods his weary homeward but contented way to supper.

The hum of industry encircles Hartney for miles, a low-pitched, vibrant note, in which the roar of the separator mingles with the chough-chough of the engine and the shouts of the harvesters. This voice of the wheat may be heard by sharp ears miles away. You sit in the hotel smoking room, and the distant rumor of it is borne to you on the wide-ranging prairie wind. The big red flour mill across the street, the same flour mill that took first prizes at Glasgow Fair and Paris Exposition, keeps up a cheerful clatter and embroiders it in the grander music of the wheat fields, 'Tis happy days for the flour mill, and full rations for the hopper. The six big red elevators sit up and get busy, and Hartney merchants rush their building improvement, and give the drummers big orders, to be in readiness for the good times. For the last four or five years, Hartney has listened to a swelling chorus of whistle echoes, and this year thirty new threshing outfits will contribute to the orchestra. A threshing outfit costs two thousand dollars, and thirty new threshing outfits in one district represent not only a sixty thousand dollar investment, but many times that amount of confidence in the future of the country. All the old outfits have dates booked for forty days ahead, and all the new ones, too, have a few that must wait until Winnipeg has been ransacked for a working staff.

A Manitoba threshing in a hundred and twenty acre wheat field is a sight worth seeing. There are farmers, to be sure, who have fourteen hundred acres under wheat, but they rarely sow in larger fields than a hundred and twenty. A wheat field the size of a down east farm is big enough in all conscience. This particular field in which we are taking notes we have reached by a six-mile drive over the black prairie road from Hartney. This road runs through that heavy clay loam which is the farmer's delight. It is a beautiful drive when the sun is shining and the road is dry, but in wet weather the mud is more than greedy, and might well suck off a man's overshoes if they were not latched and buckled.

The man who owns this wheat field has a half section and carries a harvest staff of six men. The thresher outfit provides an engineer, a fireman, a separator man, a tagger, a kicker, a tanker, and as many pitchers as the farmer has stackers on his wagons. Altogether there are perhaps twenty men at work in the harvest field, and not enough at that. The thresher outfit can thresh two thousand bushels of wheat in a day when everything is in good running order. To-day they will be lucky to dispose of one thousand bushels, because its outfit is new, the belts stretch, neither the engine nor the separator have found themselves, and last, but not least, the field staff isn't big enough to feed that insatiable separator, and the engine must shut down every once in a while to allow sweating humanity to catch up. Even at that every man has been impressed into service. The man who owns the outfit looks after the separator, because hired help is too scarce for him to do anything else; and the farmer, instead of standing out in the centre of the field, thumbs in armpits, watching his bank account grow with every revolution of the driving wheel takes off his coat, ties a red handkerchief round his neck, clops a straw cowhide on his head, gets out in a wagon and hustles with the best of them.

A high wind is blowing, but not too high—just fast and steady enough to temper the ardor of a prairie sun in the early September. If it weren't for the wind a Manitoba wheat field at 3 p.m. might do duty as the hot room of a Turkish bath. The rich black soil draws the heat; the yellow stubble invites it; and the whole landscape radiates with it. A wind that will toss the straw and chaff in a golden spindrift thirty yards from the tail of the separator is just busy enough to keep the harvester's brow from sopping. But it must be a high wind, not a gale, because that would mean danger from fire. A prairie gale rampaging over miles of flat land with never a wind break to arrest it would be called a hurricane down east. It rips shingles and strips chickens of their tail feathers. It volleys and thunders, and, to vary things, screeches like shrapnel. It goes so fast that it has to catch its own breath, giving it a wind pulsing sound which alarms an Eastern ear. But that is a gale. A high wind is the Manitoba harvester's zephyr, bearing coolness and refreshment on its wings.

Of course the scene in the harvest field appears to the poetic eye. It is easy to liken that twenty-five horse power engine with its angry cough and its fierce strawburning mouth to a dragon chained down to do God's work. With its broad chalked wheels, its savage looking stack, its devil-fish appetite, its pungent breath, and its generally lowering appearance, a threshing engine threatens more than pleases. The separator, too, is a great red, steel-fanged monster, which seizes the sheaves butt first, bites the twine in two, chews the stalks into a thousand fragments, scalps the head of its Manitoba No. 1 hard hair, and spits out the wheat as if in disgust. Such is the cruel way men gets at the soul of the wheat field, which is the wheat. And yet some beauty goes with it—just as the fragrance of high thought comes from the bitterest human experiences. Bruised, beaten, maimed, murdered as it is, the straw comes from the separator in a golden mist, a sort of yellow spume, which seems to hold the sunshine in solution just as man's heart holds hope when fortune buffets him hardest.

A Canadian in India.

A little while ago Canadians were referring with pardonable pride to the splendid work accomplished by one of the fellow-countrymen, Col. Girouard, as Director of South African Railways. The following from The New York Post is another evidence that, wherever they go, Canadians are usually equal to their opportunities and to the tasks, whatever their magnitude, entrusted to them:—

"The biggest electrical power transmission works in Britain's Indian Empire have just been opened in Southern India. The plant was constructed at Cauvery Falls, on the borders of the Mysore State, and is one of the great sights of the country. The natural difficulties which had to be overcome before the 4,500 horsepower could be conveyed over ninety miles, to supply the force for ten gold mines, were enormous. Hilly jungles infested by tiger, panther and bear had to be spanned, and herds of wild elephants to be combated before the telegraph posts, carrying six strands of copper wire, could be set up. The machinery had to be dragged thirty miles from the railway station to the works by elephants and the long-horned white draft bullocks for which Mysore has long been famous. Another and even greater enemy fought by Capt. Joly de Lotbiniere, the Canadian officer who initiated and executed the enterprise, was the widespread superstition that the god of the sacred Cauvery would annihilate all who tampered with the stream. Labor was consequently most difficult to obtain, and it was only by the greatest tact and ingenious explanation that the work was enabled to proceed. Cholera and malaria, always deadly in the river beds, particularly when freshly dug, also proved an obstacle. The Cauvery, one of India's sacred rivers, sometimes called the Ganges of the South, rises in a rugged valley on the western borders of Coorg, and flows through Mysore and Madras, forming on the borders of the two States the falls and rapids which enclose the Island of Sivasamudram, where stands a wonderful bridge, three-quarters of a mile long, built on piers of monoliths. The falls are two in number—Bur Chooki and Gunga Chooki—and are somewhat under 200 feet in height. The former is particularly beautiful; the spray of the latter, at the foot of which stands the generating station, can be seen for miles."

Canada Taught Uncle Sam.

C. W. Sinclair, a railway mail clerk living at Bridgeburg, disputes the claim of the United States, that Uncle Sam was the first to originate a railway mail service. He says that in 1864, Gilbert Griffin, theb postmaster inspector, was sent to England by the Canadian Government to study the English system, and on his return he introduced the traveling post office on the route between Niagara Falls and London — the old Great Western Railway. His first clerks—the first railway clerks in America—were George McDonald, Percy Purdon, who died afterward at Niagara Falls, and John Wynn, now living in retirement at Goderich, Ont. In 1856 A. G. McWhinney, now superintendent of railway mail service, London, Ont., and R. B. Rorison, now living in retirement at Windsor, Ont., received formal commissions as railway mail clerks over the same route.

It was not till 1864 that the United States had the traveling post office. In that year, on the invitation of the then United States Postmaster-General, Gilbert Griffin, went to Washington, explained the system and brought the first United States post office train through from Washington to New York, the Postmaster-General himself riding in the mail car with Mr. Griffin, in order to see the working of the system at first hand.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Worrying.

There was once a man who kept account of his worries for a given length of time, and then review the record to see how these anxieties looked in the light of subsequent developments. He said that out of all the worries in which he had indulged himself during several years only two had any substantial basis, and these were trivial.

The experiment might be a good one for some other folk to try. There is no reason to suppose that worrying ever did a single human being one bit of good, and it has done an immense amount of harm.

In the first place, there is the time spent in this uncomfortable occupation which should have been given to rest, recreation, or actual work.

Then there is the vitality lost by it, which is often more than would suffice to remove the cause of the worry, if properly applied.

Third, and not by any means least, there is the discomfort caused by the recital of the anxious person's worries to other people.

Most of us have enough reason for irritation in our own affairs and in the real perplexities and griefs of our neighbors, without troubling our heads over something which would be uncomfortable if it were to happen, but which has not happened yet and may never come to pass.

The habit of worrying is one which can be easily developed, and almost as easily checked if taken in time. It is a good plan, when one is made aware of a possibility of evil, to consider first whether anything can be done to ward it off at the moment, and if so, to do it. If there is nothing to do but wait then it is the duty of any reasonable person to put that worry resolutely aside and think of the pleasantest or the most absorbing topic within reach.

The misdirected conscience of some folk pricks them badly if they allow themselves to be comfortable when something bad is likely to occur. Such a conscience needs readjustment so that it will fit the circumstances and not prick in the wrong place.

When the lungs are diseased, physical weakness soon begins to show itself and the active outdoor life is given up. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the lungs and other organs of respiration. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bleeding lungs, emaciation and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated may find a fatal termination in consumption.

"After using about five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery my boy seems to be all right," writes Mr. J. W. Price, of Ozark, Monroe Co., Ohio. "He was very bad when I commenced to give him the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' The doctors claimed he had consumption and we doctored with them until he was past walking. It has been ten months since he stopped taking your medicine and he is in good health. We are very thankful to you for saving our son."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit for the dealer but a loss for you.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago :

New York, Oct. 27th.—Liverpool wheat and corn, 1-8 higher. We look for dull and irregular stock market to-day, with possibly lower prices. There is a continued absence of any outside or investment demand, and with trading element mostly bearish, and considerable uncertainty existing over money markets here and abroad, chances seem to be in favour of continued dullness, and only a traders' market until after election time.

M. & M.

Liverpool, Oct. 27th.—Americans, dull and heavy. 1-4 to 1-2 below our close. Reports continued uneasiness over the money situation, and this, with large bull account existing gives the market a dragging tendency. Stock estimates are—Hogs, 37,000 ; cattle, 23,000 ; sheep 40,000. Prices are easier. Corn, 1-4 to 3-8 higher. Wheat unchanged.

M. & M.

San Francisco wires "Australia continues large buyers of wheat from Pac. coast markets. Oriental demand for flour three times greater than ever before. Pacific coast stocks much less than generally supposed." Patten a buyer of May wheat. This buying started shorts to cover and turned market from a weak to a strong one.

DENISON.

Oct. 27th, 12.00 p.m.—Visible supply of of wheat increase, 2,254,000 bushels ; corn increase, 257,000 ; oats, 28000 ; corn increase, 2,433,000 ; oats increase, 7,235,000. Grain on passage—wheat increase, 96,000 bushels ; corn increase, 219,000 bushels. Wheat and corn 1-8 lower than on Saturday.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 27th.—3rd week of the October Twin City, $89,000, an increase of $7,000. Wabash, September increase, net, $45,000. M. S. M., $196,000—increase of $32,000.

M. & M.

The Herald election pool has occasioned a great deal of comment in Wall street. It is very elaborate, and is to the effect that the house of representatives will be Republican, but by a close margin, and there is a suggestion that Republicans may even lose control.

M. & M.

1.00 p.m.—Hocking, Columbus Coal & Iron dividend, 1-2 of 1 per cent., declared to-day, was made at the direction of the old Board of Directors, headed by Mr. Seigler. The dividend is not declared for any stated period, but it is the intention of the Seigler faction that, if they can remain in power, to pay dividends quarterly, if the earnings justify it.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 25.—The Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock is down at present at pretty close to bottom prices. Immediate facts warrant its selling higher shortly. It is improving its gross and net earnings. The company has just published its figures for September. They are as follows, and most excellent for September ; the gross earnings have increased $44,235 over same period for last year, while the net earnings increased $101,254. From July 1st the net increase amounts to $327,110, while operating expenses decreased $150,472. This shows the company to be the gainer at both ends of the proposition. Believe B.R.T. to be a good purchase in the lower sixties. A United States Steel director is quoted as saying that the settlement of the coal strike has stimulated demand. In every department of the steel corporations the coal shortage was becoming serious. Several of the mills have had to shut down. A discontinuance of the strike has stimulated confidence. The steel industry has just began to expand. The growth for the past ten years has been tremendous, and U. S. S. Corporation now leads the world. This country has just begun to build up this industry, and our company is the chief exponent of same. The records of exports for September is the largest for some time past, showing material gains. The best opinions foreshadow for the remaining exporting months the largest totals ever made. Many of the financing schemes underway in the interests of several companies which have recently sold out rights, and are in other ways readjusting their capitalization will be brought to a conclusion within the next thirty days. As a result millions of money will be released, and will then return to the Wall street market seeking employment. It will aid most materially in easing the financial situation, not only through providing additional cash for market purposes, but further minimize the present loan account greatly. The comparatively quiet market of the past week has worked untold wonders in easing up the money situation. Cash at present is only but barely commanding legal rates of interest.

Summary.—Texas Pacific was to-day taken in hand and advanced about two points upon comparatively lively business. Bullish manipulation was noticeable to quite a degree in B. & O. Atch. was fairly dealt in, and was strong, as were A.C.O. and P.R.S. issues. Quite a business was transacted in C. F. I., though changes in prices were insignificant for that mercurial industrial. An extremely favourable Bank Statement was issued, showing an increase in reserve of over twelve millions, and in deposits of over nineteen millions. It is the best statement that has been issued in many weeks, and will benefit the market the coming week. After a monetary spurt, based on bank statement, the bears made a supreme effort to nullify its influence, by offering stocks freely in the board room. Money—nothing doing. Total sales, 204,700.

The matter of the annual dance was brought up and the entire Executive was nominated as a dance committee to proceed with the preliminary arrangements for the annual assembly which will be held about the first week in December. The secretary was instructed to proceed with the arrangements for the team's trip to Ottawa on Saturday next.

Columns have been written of the great kicking done by Hardisty, of the Toronto Argonauts, and yet what effective work has he ever done? How many goals has he kicked ? As compared to Parkin, who played centre half back for Queen's from 1888 to 1891, Hardisty is a child at kicking. Parkin could kick seventy five yards without difficulty and knew how to put the ball over the goal from a drop kick in mid-field. — Kingston Whig.

LACROSSE.

General regret is expressed in Peterborough in the sad death of young Grant McLean, of Port Hope. He was a son of Lieut.-Col. Wm. McLean, formerly commanding officer of the 14th Field Battery.

* * * *

The Port Hope Guide says : The funeral procession that followed the remains of the late Grant McLean on Friday, was one of the largest seen here for a long time, showing the high esteem in which the young man was held. The High School was closed at 2.30 to allow the scholars to attend the funeral, and the Avenue and Hope street were lined on both sides with sympathizing friends. The Victoria Lacrosse Club, of which the deceased was a member, and two players from the Millbrook team, Messrs. Walter Coombe and W. O'Brian, attended in a body, as did also the High School boys. The lacrosse team was attired in all black with crape rosettes and white gloves, and at centre, where deceased always played such a wonderful game was left a blank, making a very impressive sight.

The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful. Six very handsome wreaths were received from the following places : The Chattan Literary Club, of Toronto ; the Beaver, Senior and Junior Ontario Lacrosse Clubs, Port Hope ; The Millbrook Lacrosse Club, and the Sunday School class of the Methodist church. A very handsome anchor from the Advertising Department of the C.P.R., Montreal ; a beautiful cross of white roses from the Victoria Lacrosse Club ; wreath and bouquet from the entrance class of the public school, a large pillow, bearing the inscription—"Our Comrade," from Grant's boy friends, and "The Gates Ajar," also bearing "Our Comrade," from the High School, besides numerous bouquets from friends and neighbours.

PING-PONG.

A fine work out in Ping-Pong was held Saturday evening by the members of the Executive of the Rugby Club. Mr. 'Mac" McClellan indulged in an especially heavy practice and is considered a dangerous figure in the coming "Oriental tournament. "Mac's" shoots, cuts and action were admired by all present.

HOCKEY.

Hockey will have the added attraction this season of keeping its sevens warm without the use of the precious and elusive anthracite. The game raises some heat, and it is safe to prophesy that more skating athletes than ever will enter into the game with a gusto this winter. There is every indication, even at this early date, of a boom in Ontario Hockey Association matters this year, and as soon as the football has been laid aside there will come to the surface more hockey to the square inch of the Ontario sporting pot than is even hoped for by the game's most sanguine supporters.

* * * *

It is pretty hard to figure out how the Royal Military College hopes to obtain permission to play against expelled O. H. A. players in Pittsburg and vicinity. To grant them permission would mean the pardoning of Hearn and Peel, and there seems but little chance of that. However, the Collegians are showing a better spirit this year in asking the permission to play than they did last winter when they sailed out and took chances.—Telegram.

LINE OF PROCEDURE.

First Investigation into Mines and Homes of Miners.

WILL START WORK AT SCRANTON

Thursday Morning Next, at 9 O'clock, the Commission Will Begin—An Important and Knotty Problem Will Be the Recognition of the Union—What Baer Will Urge—What Miners Demand.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The anthracite coal strike commission, with Judge Gray presiding, yesterday in the hearing room of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, held its first conference with the parties to the controversy in the anthracite regions. There was a full representation of both operators and miners. The proceedings covered about two hours time, and were given up entirely in a discussion of the time and method of proceeding with the proposed investigation.

The commission decided to begin its work next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The first days of the investigation will be devoted to an examination of the mines and homes of the miners, starting in the vicinity of Scranton. The entire anthracite field will be covered. The chairman of the commission will appoint an accountant in case his services should be found necessary to audit statements of wages.

During the progress of the meeting Mr. Mitchell, as the representative of the miners, presented a copy of the original declaration of the miners as formulated by the Shamokin Committee as the basis of the demands of the miners. This demand is, first, for an increase of twenty per cent. in wages of those not engaged by the day; second, a reduction of twenty per cent. in working hours of those engaged by the day; third, the payment for coal mined by weight at a minimum rate of sixty cents per ton of 2,240 pounds; fourth, a wage agreement between the operators and the miners for adjustment of wages.

Mr. Baer, on the part of the coal operators, took exception to Mr. Mitchell's appearance before the commission as a representative of the Mine Workers' Union, but said that he had no objection to his presence as a representative of the strikers as such in their individual capacity. The commission made no attempt to settle the controversy, but it was apparent that the recognition of the miners' union would be an important and knotty problem for the arbitrators.

Preceding a discussion over opening the books to the experts Mr. Baer said the operators would be prepared to meet the miners in the region and to assist in giving all information. Many of the individual operators are not represented, and they were not consulted and were not compromised by the letter he had written.

Judge Gray suggested that they could be represented. At the meeting next Monday they would determine which of the companies could be taken up first and the place of meeting could be determined by the location of the coal company taken up.

Mr. Baer made a point of saying that the case of each coal company would be dealt with separately. He would contend for the sliding scale in the regulation of wages. "I shall urge the adoption of that profit-sharing plan," he said, "which gave us peace as formerly in relation to our employes."

Mr. Thomas of the Hillside Iron and Coal and the Pennsylvania Coal Company said he noticed that the word "arbitration" had been applied to the commission's work, while he wanted it considered as an investigation. Judge Gray said the President's instruction settled that as an arbitration.

It was agreed that the operators put in sworn statements of their pay rolls. In cases of controversy an expert accountant will verify the facts.

The commissioners declined to accept the offer of the operators to give them a special train with which to visit the mines. The commissioners will pay all their own expenses.

Everything Goes Well.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 28.—More coal was mined and more men were employed in mining it yesterday than any day since the mines in the anthracite region resumed work. Only districts that lag behind in the output are Lehigh and Mahonay. The individual operators and their employes in those districts are still at loggerheads. In the Wyoming and Lackawanna regions all the collieries are in operation with the exception of a few which are still under water. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Delaware and Hudson, the Lehigh Valley, the Temple Coal and Iron Company, the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre, the Erie and the Ontario and Western, all had large outputs yesterday, and heavy trains of coal were moved rapidly to seaboard points. The miners and laborers, who left the region during the strike are returning in large numbers.

Anthracite at $6.50 a Ton.

New York, Oct. 28.—With tracks comparatively free from passenger traffic, all the anthracite roads rushed trains eastward on Sunday to fill the gap in the coal marts caused by the great strike. More than 10,000 tons reached the receiving yards and piers in Jersey City and its neighborhood. That coal was divided into small lots and put on the retail market yesterday, with the understanding that consumers should not be required to pay more than $6.50 a ton for it in any instance. Some dealers even went so far as to promise they would sell it to the poor at the rate of ten cents a bucket, which really would be $6.50 a ton. Many dealers who still have coal bought at high prices during the strike will still charge $2.50 a ton more than the dealers who are handling the new supply.

Scotch Coal and Stowaways.

New York, Oct. 28.—The British steamer Madura, which arrived yesterday from Glasgow, brought 5,500 tons of Scotch anthracite coal. She also had on board five stowaways.

Scotch Miners' Demands.

Glasgow, Oct. 28.—The Scotch miners have demanded an increase of 12½ per cent. in wages. About 70,000 miners are affected.

Machinists Go Back.

Kingston, Oct. 28.—Yesterday morning four machinists who went on strike in April at the Locomotive Works were again taken on as employes, they having renounced association with those who went out.

Railways Face a Big Fight.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Eighty thousand employes of western railways are expected to demand a 20 per cent. increase in wages, following similar action taken by 7,000 yardmen in the Chicago district last Saturday. Chicago will be the centre of the fight. Railway magnates have been given until next Friday to answer the yardmen. The schedule proposed affects all union and non-union men employed.

Dewet Sails Nov. 1.

London, Oct. 28.—Gen. Dewet said yesterday that he will sail for South Afeica, Nov. 1. He added: "Botha and Delarey still intend paying a visit to the United States."

Review of the Guards by His Majesty King Edward VII.

THANKS HIS ARMY FOR SERVICES

Says the Work Done by the Guards in the Field Makes Him Proud That He Had Served in Their Ranks as a Young Man—Regretted That He Had Not, Like His Brother, Seen Active Service.

London, Oct. 28.—King Edward reviewed nearly 4,000 Guardsmen who have recently returned from South Africa yesterday. The spectacle attracted a large crowd to the Horse Guards parade. His Majesty, wearing the uniform of Colonel-in-Chief of the Guards, and accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, Lord Roberts and a gorgeous staff rode through the ranks, and then, addressing the troops, welcomed them home.

He praised the work which they had done in the field, saying: "You have upheld the great name which has made everybody who has served in the Guards a proud man. I myself feel proud to have as a young man served in your ranks, though I regret I never had the opportunity, like my brother, of seeing active service. A finer body of men it is impossible to wish to see. It is a proud day for me to have inspected the Guards Brigade."

In spite of their arduous duties in South Africa, the King remarked, the men had not forgotten their drill, and the march past yesterday was as well done, if not better carried out, than ever before. The Queen and other ladies of the royal family drove past in carriages. At the conclusion of the ceremony the troops gave hearty cheers for the King, waving their busbies bayonet high.

A FUND OF $50,000.

What Members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Promise.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—"We, the undersigned, hereby severally subscribe for and covenant and agree with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to pay to said association the said amount set opposite our respective names hereunder in three equal consecutive annual payments (a first payment to be made within 30 days after sending of notice by said association that the fund has been subscribed) towards a fund of $50,000 to be used by said association in an educational campaign to impress upon Canadians the advantages of conserving and developing Canadian industries, and maintaining, as far as practicable, the home market for Canadian manufacturers." The foregoing is the wording of a guarantee form which has been sent to Canadian manufacturers, and to which many signatures have been appended. The Globe correspondent's informant was in error in stating the other day that the guarantee fund was $500,000, the correct amount is $50,000.

DANES MORE ACTIVE.

Take Steps to Develop West Indian Islands They Wouldn't Sell.

Copenhagen, Oct. 27.—The party that has successfully opposed the cession of the Danish West Indies to the United States has set to work to make great efforts to show what private enterprise can do to develop the islands. In addition to the West Indian Company, which will establish a steamship line between Baltic ports and the islands, another organization known as the New Plantation Company has been formed. The prospectus of the new company has not yet been issued, but it intends to exploit the rational cultivation of sugar and tobacco in the islands and eventually fruit.

Heartless Ways of Indian Agents.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—There is no truth in the reports sent out from Helena, Mont., alleging that Canadian officials had sent into the United States Canadian Indians suffering from smallpox. The Indians concerned were American Indians, and according to the information supplied by the United States Indian police they had been put across the boundary into Canada upon the order of Major Monteith, a United States Indian Agent, who also gave instructions that they were not to be allowed to re-cross, not because they were Canadian Indians, but because they did not belong to his (Monteith's) reservation. As a matter of fact they are American Indians.

The Charges Against Them.

Berlin, Oct. 28.—George Rieb and Charles Peppler are in jail here on charges of disorderliness and rifling the cash box at the Zimmerman House of $16 on Sunday night, and a more serious charge of attempted assault may be laid against them. John Dalimer alleges that the men went to his house and became unruly, and when he went to get his son to eject them the men dragged Mrs. Dalimer to the floor and held her mouth shut. She escaped with very little clothing to the barn, where she remained till the intruders were arrested.

Boers at Oshawa.

REMINISCENCES OF A PIONEER.

Mr. Robt. Harrison Sr. Tells Story of Pioneer Days

OF THE TOWNSHIP ASPHODEL.

Sketch of Narrator's Pioneer Life and Names of Early Settlers—How They Lived in Those Primitive Days—Interesting Contribution to Local History.

The following is a continuation of the paper read at the annual meeting of the Historical Society last Thursday evening:—

NUMBER THREE.

In those early days the timber easily obtainable in Asphodel was of great size, and very much of it was of the finest quality. Let one or two instances in the experience of the narrator be here recited in illustration of the foregoing statement. Shortly after the erection of Walker's Mill we were engaged taking our saw-logs on the high sandy ridges a mile westward, known as 'Walker's Mountain," when from a pine tree little more than three feet in diameter at the ground, we cut eleven twelve foot saw-logs; the top end of the top log was a foot in diameter. This was in 1832. On another occasion we took out a mast from lot 15, concession 4, that measured one hundred and twenty feet in length, and had a diameter of forty-two inches at what was known as the "first partner," which, in that instance would be the distance of forty feet from the "grub," one-third of the entire length. The largest piece of square timber ever taken out in Asphodel was cut on the west half of lot 12, concession 3, by the men employed by Foley and Grover, of Norwood. The stump of the tree, where out, was seven feet six inches in diameter, and the piece contained by admeasurement nine hundred and sixty cubic feet of timber. Every man in the shanty, cook included, got on the piece and danced jigs, reels and hornpipes on its surface to the music of the fiddle, for the two miles distance between the shanty and the landing place at the forks of the Ouse The hauling and landing of masts, while at times very laborious work on the men and horses, had, withal a spice of real danger to the limbs and lives of both sufficiently great to make the work of the mast gang lively, exciting and dashing; being ever surcharged with the spirit of daring amounting to fascination. To command twenty two span of spirited active, powerful horses, hitched to a "bridled" mast-sleigh to prevent the liability, while crossing steep ridges, to being "jacked" as the mast broke over the hill crests and rushed headlong towards the valley beneath, with teamsters mounted and every horse of the forty-four galloping for life at full speed, usually on a crooked road, frequently leaping the "lead-chain" sideways to avoid being caught and thrown, is by no means the office of a sinecure, and has furnished numberless experiences in the life of the narrator, not easily either imagined or described. This much for the road; now for the landing. Delaney's was a splendid landing on the Trent, two miles below Hastings. A long but not too steep slope formed the north bank of the River Trent, at this place. Winter was very rapidly becoming a thing of the past on the occasion in question. The ground was being laid bare of the fast melting snow. The last monster pine was yet lying prone in the mast road at the foot of a ridge, where, at near one o'clock in the morning, the sleigh "bridle" had given away, and the sleigh was "jacked." But this last mast of the season must be landed early next morning, for the ice at Delaney's was fast becoming honey-combed. Every horse and every available man was at daylight next morning called into requisition. The tacklings were all made ready, the mast rolled over, and the "jacked" sleigh turned right side up, and right end ahead once more. Soon the giant was loaded and again slowly moving, for the trusty forty four men were obliged to test their firm muscle and rigid sinew to the utmost. The hill-top was gained, the hundreds of broad acres of clearing were passed. The brow of the long slope to Delaney's was reached at last. The sun was high in the noonday skies, and shone with all the brilliancy and strength of his early April vigour. The flanks of the horses were heaving from long applied and strenuous exertion. A ten minutes rest was taken, for the work had been heavy for the past few hours, and the giant had to be roused from his slumbers again, as teamsters bringing forward their peeled skids gave evidence of the effort yet to come before the monster would begin his headlong rush for the landing berth of his fellows. But, right there, the element of extreme danger lay shimmering in the sunbeams, and in the water-covered and honey-combed ice of that splendid river. Soon the skids were in position and everything made ready for a start. The preliminary order "tighten up," then the command "All together," were responded to very closely, yet very quietly, for the men seemed impressed with a sense of unusual danger from the ice beneath. All seemed, instinctively, to become silent, save for an occasional word of direction, soon changed to fiery urging to the far ahead lead to "clear the way," as the occasional swish of the lead-chain on the icy slope or the clanking of the whiffletrees against the heels of the horses indicated that the mast-sleigh with its ponderous load was coming with an ever-increasing momentum and carrying destruction to everything caught or overtaken in the descent. Urton Hill, my trusty lieutenant, had in the meantime daringly mounted the mast, immediately in rear of the chain, and was carrying a keen-edged six-pound blocking axe in his hands, which he used in lieu of a balancing pole. Every horse had soon reached the ice, and all were galloping at the top of their speed; the mast was well-nigh full length from the shore when the ice suddenly broke under the great strain, and mast, sleigh, and twelve span of the rear horses were in a moment, with their riders, floundering in the mass of broken ice and water. Ten span of the forward horses were yet on sound ice; there remained not a single moment to be lost otherwise all might be lost with it. Instantly the command "Cut the Mast Chain" was given, and Hill's axe swept down upon it like a flash, completely severing it at one blow. Then almost as quickly the order "heavy on the lead" was followed by descending whips on the flanks of the horses that were still out of the water, and though not another word was spoken by anyone, each man and horse seemed to work instinctively, with a will; and in less time than is required to tell the story of their escape, men and horses were all safely standing on the unbroken ice, very little the worse of this their last adventure of the season before disbanding for our homes on the nearby farms. Blue and white oak, too, was frequently to be found with a diameter at the stump of more than forty inches, and a height of sixty to seventy feet without a branch.

As the forest rapidly receded before the powerful, well-aimed blows of the woodman's axe the industry of making pot and pearl ash, was introduced in the neighbourhood of the west branch of the Ouse by the late Henry Fowlds. Wheat, too, began to be extensively raised and prepared for market—not only at Cobourg but at Keene and other points of increasing interest. Prices for grain increased with the ever increasing demand; labour, by hand, became every year a little higher in price; farm hands eagerly taking up land and making homes for themselves; flail-threshing became a tedious, expensive and unsatisfactory method—largely owing to the fact that the chaff could not always be effectually removed from the grain. In the rank condition in which wheat usually grew in those days, the flail left great quantities of chaff known as "white-caps" and which was objected to by the wheat buyers.

Thus matters progressed until in the year 1843 George Ashe, of Coldsprings in the township of Hamilton, county of Northumberland, introduced the first threshing-machine—an open cylinder—but it remained for the late James Fife, lot 12, con. 1, to be the first owner of a threshing-machine operated and owned in the township. James Fife, Donald Cameron, Hugh Christie and myself were the first in the township to own and work the spring-tooth, hand-lift horse rake, we each having purchased one of those horse-rakes on the same day of July in the year 1852. The first elliptic steel-spring carriage was brought into the township by the late Henry Fowlds, then of Westwood it was a three-seated family carriage, seats all facing forward, capable of seating nine fully grown people and apparently strongly enough built to successfully carry three times that number of full grown men of the average avoirdupois weight. This was in the year 1850, and at its first day's real service in the township Mr. and Mrs. Fowlds, Mr. Jas. Fowlds, and his wife and two of their children, Miss Elizabeth Fowlds, and Messrs. Harry and William Fowlds, all rode quite comfortably to attend divine service, conducted by the newly inducted minister, Rev. Francis Andrews, in Cameron's school house. Shortly after this Mr. Fowlds gave the deed of an acre of land and enough lumber to build the Presbyterian church, now standing on the south-west corner, lot 11, in the second concession of the township of Asphodel. For a number of years, during the sixties, this church edifice was occupied by both the Presbyterians, under the pastorate of the Rev. Francis Andrews, and the Church of England, under the pastorate of Rev. Michael Angelo Farrar. But, returning to more primitive times, the first religious services held in the township were conducted by a layman, the late John Cameron, at his home at Cameron's Point. The Indians had, some of them at least, been converted to Christianity about this time; but the precepts of the white man's religion not being always carried out by him in practice, the Indians did not always agree to be governed by it; and although all were nominally Christians, the late James Cameron has frequently told me of seeing the children of the forest performing acts of heavily beating their bare chests with their clenched fists, and with faces upturned towards the sun, indicating in these ways and by a sort of weird chant, or dirge, that they were either lamenting the loss of their dead ones or engaged in solemn acts of sun worship.

Be these things as they may, changed conditions of life, dwelling in houses instead of wigwams, the clearing up of the country and the advance of civilization are clearing proving that the Indian is fast passing away and only at rare and long intervals are they now seen in the township.

While the work of clearing the land was necessarily slow and laborious yet it was not without many pleasing features, both as regards the nature of the work itself—wholesome, though heavy—and the abundance of good cheer which usually accompanied its performances. The common practice among farmers in clearing their lands was to cut down the timber in fallows of from 10 to 12 acres in extent. The underbrush was first cut, trimmed, and carefully laid in heaps, as far as possible lengthwise, especially if any considerable quantity of beech or birch timber grew upon the land, as the brush of these woods, also black oak and butternut, were difficult to burn when clearings were small and seasons wet. All fallen timber, too, was cut in convenient length for logging, which was usually from sixteen to twenty feet, as the underbrushing progressed. A good chopper invariably followed the terms of an excellent, though unwritten, law, pertaining to land clearing, which may be here briefly stated; that is to say, underbrush, which included all young trees of four inches and under at the ground, were to be cut at not more than three inches above the surface; all fallen timber except such as would make either pipe staves, square timber, sawlogs or fence rails was to be cut into logging lengths as the underbrushing proceeded, and an acre in extent of such chopping was by common consent allowed to be a fair day's work for a good axe man.

Pipe staves were invariably made from blue or white oak, while square timber and sawlogs were usually cut from white or yellow pine, it being the timber chiefly in demand as sawn lumber for square timber, either for home use or frontier market. Fence rails were made from all varieties of oak and pine, and from white and black ash, cherry, butternut, grey and rock elm, cedar, basswood, and even red beech, maple and black birch were used for making fence rails, when other and more suitable timber could not be obtained in sufficient quantity within the limits of the fallow, to enclose it with a five rail fence with locks and rider. Timber suitable for fence rails whether it were fallen timber or that which was cut down in chopping a fallow, was not cut into the ordinary twelve foot rail lengths, or even cut off where the tree was of no further use for rails for the very good reason that if so cut off the entire tree would in all probability be greatly damaged if not entirely destroyed by fire in the work of burning off the brush, usually done in May or June. Land clearing was sometimes done by contract, but as a rule by the settlers themselves and the chopping and logging was frequently done by "bees" to which the men would collect for a radius of one to three or more miles. Five men formed a gang of loggers, one of them being a teamster in charge of his yoke of oxen. A fallow of ten acres was staked off into one acre parcels and when a teamster and a gang got their acre logged the day's work was by common consent, at an end with that gang. If, however, any gang should have fallen upon a piece of bad fortune in the way of an extra heavy "through" as the acre parcels were called, his more fortunate comrades as a rule assisted him to a finish. Severe contests for who would have his "through" completed first often occurred, yet owing to difficulties in timber or the nature of the ground in the various "throughs" the best men and best oxen did not in all cases succeed in being first done. After the day's logging was over sports were usually engaged in, such as foot races, leaping, vaulting with the pole and wrestling and the Township of Asphodel produced in those days not a few rare champions in the line of athletic sports as well as in the safer and more permanent results obtained from clearing the land of timber and subsequent tillage of the soil. Severe contest's would take place at barn raisings not only as to which side would seal their victory and claim their laurels through their having their plate first in position and pinned down, but the contest would often be continued until nightfall in the matter of athletic sports. The personal experience of the narator in two or three instances in the above connection may be related here in evidence of the feats sometimes performed at barn raisings. On the day of the raisings the first frame barn on the Robert Humphries homestead, the narator was chosen captain on one side and victory was wrested from his opponents with long odds in placing the plates. The cheers of the victors were met by the vanquished with the retort that the victor's captain was too badly used up in his efforts to win success to be capable of engaging in the athletic sports that were to follow the erection of the frame. This was a challenge of no mean order in the estimation of one who has never yet been beaten by his fellows in athletic circles.

The gauntlet ws no sooner flung down on this as on every other occasion than it was picked up by the narator as the victorious side as a matter of honour was bound to meet all challenges from any quarter whatever. At that time Mr. Humphries owned a span of handsome dappled grey horses that stood sixteen hands in height. This team had been used in hauling the timber to convenient places for the men to lift it and place it together in bents, and when the raising contest began the team of horses was left standing on a smooth, grassy plot a few rods distant. When the vanquished captain of the barn-raising called out his challenge in athletics, it was instantly responded to by the narator who, throwing off his round-about jacket, called out: "Here, then, for a leader," and with a run of twenty feet in length cleared the withers of the dappled greys and landed safely on his feet on the further side, the feat being thus done on level ground. The narator in company with the late Robert Steele and others, frequently performed feats at barn-raisings of walking from opposite plates to the end rafter there lock arms, make a right-about-face, and return to the starting point.

Feats of slack and tight rope walking, wrestling vaulting with the pole, leaping, lifting heavy weights, etc., were the usual sports engaged in by the young men of those days, and few serious accidents of any kind attended their performance.

One good result that followed was to be found in the fact that to engage in such sports tended to draw all challenges from any quarter whatever. WHEN YOUR COSTLY WATCH is out of order you have it regulated, you don't at once throw it aside. Why, then, when your bowels are out of order, do you treat them as useless?

That is precisely what it means to take violent cathartics. They do not regulate the bowels, but take their work away from them, debilitate them, and make you more constipated than ever.

You had far better throw away your good watch than treat your bowels roughly. You can get another watch, but you cannot renew your intestines.

The only cure for Constipation is a gentle laxative with tonic action.

I Will Cure You of

Rheumatism

Else No Money is Wanted.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk.

I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you, anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47 Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

FATAL SCOTTISH COSTUME.

Aroused Anger of Spectator Who Killed the Man Who Wore It.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Because he was dressed in a Scottish costume, John A. Walker, 323 South Paulina street, was shot and killed in Dalton, Ga., by John Perry, who is said to be a notorious character about Dalton. A telegram received yesterday noon by William Pflieger, 291 South Marshfield avenue, Mrs. Walker's father, announced Mr. Walker's death. The shooting occurred on Saturday, Oct. 18. Since last year Walker has been one of the managers of the side shows connected with John Robinson's circus. It was in this side show that he was shot. According to the accounts of the affair published in Dalton, Walker had appeared on a stand inside the tent dressed in a Scottish uniform and carrying a bagpipe. Perry entered the tent and at once began making remarks about the dress, but no attention was paid to him by the show people. Perry continued to call to Walker to leave the stand and take off the costume. Finally Perry drew a revolver; it was charged, and fired one shot, the bullet taking effect in Walker's abdomen. Walker was a native of Aberdeen, Scotland. He formerly was a teacher of dancing in Chicago. Eight years ago he was married to Miss Alice E. Pflieger in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

A WORD TO FARM TOILERS.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

The Home Friend of the Farmer and His Family in the Autumn Season.

After the labours and toils of the summer time, and harvesting of crops in the early autumn, many of our farmers, their wives, daughters and sons, find themselves in a condition of health demanding careful attention if suffering is to be avoided later on. Many experience kidney trouble of some form; with some the lover is torpid; there is biliousness, nausea and vomiting, with loss of appetite and depression of spirits. Thousands who have been exposed to cold, damp winds and rains, now feel the twinges of terrible rheumatism; others rundown by worry, overwork and irregular dieting, are tormented with the pangs of dyspepsia.

To the thousands of rundown, sickly and half dead men and women in farm homes we recommend with all honesty and confidence the worker's friend, Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that can quickly and fully restore strength to the weak body and vigour to the muscles. Paine's Celery Compound tones the stomach; it removes poisonous acids from the blood which cause rheumatism; it feeds the weak and diseased nerves and banishes neuralgic tortures; it purifies the blood and gives true vitality and life. The use of Paine's Celery Compound in autumn means the establishing of a perfect physical vigour to withstand the rigors of a severe winter.

Suspected Wife Murderer.

London, Oct. 28. — George Chapman, who came from the United States in 1893, and who is now the landlord of a Southwark saloon, was arraigned at a police court yesterday, charged with poisoning a young woman who had lived with him as his wife. It developed that this was the third woman who had died within five years in houses owned by the prisoner. The other women mentioned as dying in Chapman's houses were his wives.

No Big Seal Catch.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 28.—The sealing fleet has not made a big catch in Behring Sea this year. With the return of the steamer Queen City last night, the nine of the fleet of twelve, which went to the sea, were reported. The Umbrina is top liner with 746 Carrie C. W. has 685, G. D. J. PERRIN KILLED BY A KICK.

William Stumpf Died From His Injuries—George Mearns, Formerly a Toronto Florist, Drowned at Chilliwack, B.C. —Drowned in the St. Lawrence —Lake Schooner, Olive Jeanette, Sunk in "Soo" Canal.

New York, Oct. 28.—Frederick Webb, whose wife is here in an insane asylum, became so despondent yesterday that he took his own life. His home is in Clinton, Ont.

Killed by a Kick.

Listowel, Oct. 28.—Word reached here yesterday morning of the death of J. Perrin at Roseville, near Berlin. He was visiting his sister of that place and was kicked by a horse Saturday, dying on Sunday from the effects without regaining consciousness. Deceased was an old and highly respected citizen of this town. He carried $6,000 accident insurance on his life. He was in his 64th year.

Switchman May Die.

Port Arthur, Oct. 28.—Switchman Barlow, of the C.N.R., is lying at the point of death here as a consequence of being jammed between two cars.

Drowned in the St. Lawrence.

Watertown, N.Y., Oct. 28.—William Card, aged 40, of Alexandra Bay, was drowned in the St. Lawrence River Sunday while crossing from the Canadian side in a small skiff. The boat was capsized.

Toronto Man Drowned.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Robert Mearns, florist at 1,304 West Queen street, was notified yesterday of the death by drowning, while fishing at Chilliwack, B.C., of his youngest brother, George. Deceased was formerly a florist in this city. He leaves a widow and two children.

Marine's Terrible Drop.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 28.—Edward Gibbard, a marine of H. M. S. Shearwater, fell into the Esquimalt dry dock yesterday morning. There was no water in the dock, the warship having been docked, and he struck some timber at the bottom, 38 feet below. He has not regained consciousness since, and will probably die.

Died on a Train.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—Staff-Sergt. Wm. Shipman, an imperial soldier on his way from Victoria to England, died suddenly at Chalk River Sunday on the C.P.R. train.

Died of Her Injuries.

Mansfield, Oct. 28.—Mrs. H. Gilbert, who was so badly burned in the fire that destroyed her home on Thursday last, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The end came suddenly, as was feared. She suffered terribly.

Died From His Injuries.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—William Stumpf, who was terribly injured in Cobourg by a Grand Trunk train on Sunday morning, died at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning in the General Hospital. The interment will take place at Port Perry.

Lake Schooner Sunk.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 28.—While making a landing at the pier inside the canal the schooner Olive Jeanette was struck by a floating log and a hole was punched in its bow. It filled with water and now lies on the bottom. Diuors were at once put to work putting on a patch, and as soon as this is completed it will be pumped out. The Jeanette was bound for Lake Erie with a cargo of iron ore, in tow of the steamer Iosco.

Feared Arrest For Murder.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—The Toronto police now believe that Mrs. Augusta Lauberg, who is on remand, charged with shoplifting, is Mrs. August Meyer, who left her home at 285 North Franklin street, Chicago, on Monday, Oct. 6, fearing that she would be arrested for the alleged murder of her husband. She had her 9-year-old daughter with her when she left, and the woman Lauberg had a child about that age when arrested on Oct. 18 in Eaton's. A story of the alleged murder was conveyed to the police from Chicago by telegram. When arrested here on Oct. 18, Mrs. Lauberg had $1,063.18.

Corp. Nunn "Called."

London, Oct. 28.—The Army and Navy Gazette, commenting on a communication on the Victoria Cross from British army veterans residing in Toronto, says: "Campbell did not lead the British relief column at Lucknow, nor the Highland brigade at the battle of Alma, and we ask the gallant veterans to disabuse their minds of the belief that Gen. (Lord) Kitchener disguised himself as an Arab and went to Omdurman for information before the battle."

Rothschild Aids Hospital.

Vienna, Oct. 28.—It has been known for some time that Baron Nathaniel Rothschild had intended to assist the Poliklinik Hospital here. On Friday morning the hospital authorities received notices that he had placed 1,000,000 kroner ($200,000) at their disposal.

Outbreak of Diptheria.

Port Hope, Oct. 28.—Much alarm is felt here over what appears now to be a serious fight with diphtheria, the disease having a hold on different parts of the town. One of the schools has been closed, and the others will probably be but slimly attended.

Siberian Wheat Harvest Poor.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—Reports received from Siberia say that the wheat harvest there is very poor.

An Obstinate Case of Eczema.

Mr. W. D. Johnson, Tilsonburg, Ont., writes that his father was entirely cured of a long standing and obstinate case of Eczema by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. His leg and foot was a mass of sores that refused to heal and he suffered terribly from the itching and stinging. Though he used a great many remedies and was treated by first-class doctors no permanent relief was obtained until he used Dr. Chase's Ointment.

AN IDEAL MEDICINE.

A New Discovery Which Cures all Forms of Catarrh.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medicine, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted. There is now, however, an excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh in tablet form, known as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and sold by druggists, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicine for cure of catarrh and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

The old time treatment of catarrh was in the form of inhalers, washes, douches, sprays, etc. Later on internal remedies were used with greater success, but being in liquid or powder form were inconvenient to use and like all medicines in liquid or powder form, lose their medicinal properties when opened or exposed to the air.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, contain highly concentrated antiseptics, Hydrastin, Blood root, and Red gum which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membrane, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, because all authorities are now agreed that catarrh is a constitutional blood disease, and local applications can have only a transitory effect.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays is a nuisance and inconvenience and can in no wise compare favourably with the same antiseptics given in tablet form internally, where they can reach the stomach and blood and kill catarrh germs right where they are produced.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for twelve years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucus from the nose into the throat caused irritation and hoarseness, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, expectorating, gagging and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cleared my head, throat and stomach and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have no trace of catarrh."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package.

They can be carried in the pocket and used any time and as often as desired since they contain no cocaine, mercury or any other injurious drug.

To Aid Irish Members.

London, Oct. 28.—The Liberals have been so unsuccessful in mustering their full strength against the education bill that they reluctantly decided yesterday to reinforce the Irish members in the attempt to waste the time of the House in side issues not connected with the measure for which the autumn session is being held. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has not led them with spirit, and Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Mr. Bryce are the only men on the front bench who appear to be sincere and earnest in offering resistance to the bill which has been so violently denounced by the Nonconformist ministers. The Unionists are now forecasting a vigorous application of the closure and the shortening of the session.

To Build a $750,000 Pulp Mill.

Baddeck, C.B., Oct. 28.—New York and Boston men who own the North River Pulp and Lumber Company are planning to build a pulp mill costing about $750,000 on their property. The company's lease covers all the ungranted lands of Victoria County and a large portion of North Inverness. It has already expended $100,000 in saw mills and marking machinery capable of handling several cords a day. At present the timber is shipped to Maine to be worked up into pulp. The plant will probably cost $2,000,000 when completed.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation.

John Charlton's Purchase.

North Tonawanda, Oct. 28.—An immense tract of timber land in Canada has been purchased by the J. & T. Charlton Lumber Company of this city. The tract contains 170 square miles, and it is expected that ten years will be occupied in cutting the timber. A large portable saw mill will be erected at once. The senior member of the firm is John Charlton, a leader of the Liberal party in the Dominion, whose home is in Lyndock, Ont.

Lawyer Cruelly Beaten.

Windsor, Oct. 28.—J. W. Hanna, the criminal lawyer, was beaten Sunday night near his home in Windsor. In the fight with his assailants one of his ankles was broken, and when he lay on the ground the two men who had attacked him kicked him in the face. The attack took place about 11 p. m. on Crawford avenue. The motive of the men is suspected to have been robbery, but they secured nothing.

The trial of John Marks was concluded in Toronto on Saturday afternoon, when the jury returned a verdict of guilty. Marks was specifically charged with stealing seven red tickets from his Toronto Street Railway fare-box, on April 23. It was the fifth of the "digger" cases tried, and the fourth conviction.

AROUND THE WORLD.

Final Cable Laying in the Wire Around the Entire Globe.

Honolulu, Hawaii, Oct. 28.—To the cable laying steamship Anglia will belong to the distinction of completing the prophetic girdle of the globe. The Anglia left Honolulu three days ago for Fanning Island for the purpose of taking up the cable laying work left off by the Colonia and completing the last link in a system of cables which will extend wire communication around the circumference of the globe.

The Colonia on Oct. 6 completed her work of laying the longest section of marine cable in the world. Starting from Bamfield Creek station, on Vancouver Island, Sept. 18, she laid 3,845 knots of ocean cable without the slightest hitch or delay. F. R. Lucas, the cable engineer in charge of the work for the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company of London, buoyed the end of the cable in 475 fathoms of water within a mile of Fanning Island.

Although the work ashore at Fanning Island had been going on for weeks before the actual laying of the cable was begun, the cable station house was not ready for the cable at the time of Mr. Lucas' visit. The residents of Fanning Island are eagerly awaiting the installation of the cable. The advent of the line will be the occasion of a general holiday and demonstration throughout the place.

From Fanning Island the Colonia came to Honolulu, bringing cablegrams. The experience of receiving cable news was decidedly startling. The newspapers printed all of the cablegrams, insignificant as some of the news was, in large type. Mr. Lucas stated that the company was considering the advisability of extending the cable from Fanning Island to Honolulu. No decision in the matter had been received, however.

At Honolulu, Mr. Lucas found the cableship Anglia awaiting the arrival of the Colonia. He transferred his entire staff to the Anglia. The Anglia will carry the cable to the landing station on Fanning Island, and from Fanning Island will lay the final link to Fiji, a distance of about two thousand, one hundred knots, completing the work before Nov. 1. The line has already been extended from Australia to Suva, Fiji, and all that now remains to complete the earth's girdle is the link between Fanning Island and Fiji.

A Breakfast Relish Prepared According to the Ideas of Great Medical Food Experts.

Malt Breakfast Food

Contains the True Elements of Health for Young and Old.

The ideas and suggestions of such celebrated food experts as Dr. Fothergill, Prof. W. M. Williams and Sir Henry Thomson regarding the use of Malt in connection with grain foods have been practically and successfully carried out by the manufacturers of Malt Breakfast Food.

Users of Malt Breakfast Food obtain all the virtues of pure Malt in a form that conduces to health, strength and robustness. It should be remembered that one package of Malt Breakfast Food contains more nourishment than can be found in a dozen bottles of liquid malt extracts costing vastly more money. All grocers sell Malt Breakfast Food.

Case Must Go to the Jury.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—In the Criminal Sessions yesterday before Judge McDougall, Warren Wilson, a farmer, living near Richmond Hill, was placed on trial on a charge of attempting to obtain money by threats from Dr. Ralph Lewis Langstaff, also of Richmond Hill. Wilson, it is alleged, demanded $5,000 from the doctor under pain of making known the alleged circumstance that he, Langstaff, had unlawfully performed a criminal operation on Wilson's wife, Margaret, besides, alleging that the doctor was responsible for her condition. Wilson is defended by E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., and W. G. Thurston. H. H. Dewart, K.C., is conducting the prosecution, and A. G. F. Lawrence is looking after the personal interests of the doctor. The Crown's case was concluded just before the hour of adjournment, and Mr. Johnston argued that there was "no case" to go to the jury. His Honor ruled that the trial must go on.

An Aching Back.

Is the first indication of kidney disease, and should be taken as a signal of danger — a warning to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills while yet there is time to avoid the dreadful pains and certain fatality of this terrible disease. There is no guess work, no experimenting when you use this prescription. It brings relief in a remarkably short time, and because of its combined action of liver and kidneys, cures complicated cases which cannot be reached by any ordinary treatment.

Officers as Stokers.

Lord Cole, an officer in the Hussars, was selected to go with the Ophir on the Prince of Wales' tour around the world. As the result of a bet, he undertook to act as stoker throughout the journey from Adelaide to Gibraltar, and Lieut. McClean, of the Army Service Corps, kept him company. During the whole voyage between the two places named they took their regular watches just like the other stokers—pluckily sticking to their self-imposed task even through the baking heat of the Red Sea.

In the small hours of the first morning after leaving Adelaide, the two amateur stokers were just coming off duty, and were going to their cabins, when the sentry guarding the officers' quarters refused to allow them to pass—which was hardly remarkable, for they were stripped to the waists, black from head to foot, and would have been scarcely recognizable in broad daylight.

"It's all right, sentry," laughed Lord Cole; "we're officers stoking for a bet."

The sentry evidently saw the humor of the situation, for he replied'

"Pass two officers wid dirty faces All's well."

The Season's Funniest Comedy.

The success that Mr. Robert Whittier has attained for several years at Daly's New York theatre, in leading comedy roles, guarantees his capabilities of properly handling such a fascinating comedy as "Tangled Relations," which is much stronger than Mr. Bisson's former success, namely, "the Masked Ball," and "The Nominee." This play will be presented at Bradburn's opera house on Wednesday, October 29th, and is sure to please every one, as all of this season's plays have done. Prices, 25, 35, and 50c. Plan of hall at Ormond and Walsh's. 1d

Masks and Faces.

Rev. J. G. Potter's address at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday was very interesting and full of force. A timely lesson was drawn from Hallow-E'en masks, to show that appearances did not show up the real man. The temptation was referred to to show how Satan allures and deceives. Young men of different types were pictured, the mask of the untruthful man, of the freethinker, who too often used his views to cover up a fast life. True life needs no mask, no covering up. In closing Rev. Mr. Potter impressively referred to the judgment, when all secrets will be revealed and the masks that men wore to cover up their evil deeds, would only prove evidences of condemnation.

Coronation Choir.

Of Mr. Albert Archdeacon, who is a member of the Westminster Abbey Choir, the Musical Times says:—"His voice is of most beautiful quality, his intonation absolutely perfect, and he sings with an ease and a finish and a masterful expression which are quite astonishing. Mr. Archdeacon should have a brilliant future before him." And the career of Mr. Archdeacon has amply borne out these high encomiums. In addition to repeated tours throughout the United Kingdom, he has accompanied his own opera company to Madeira and the Canary Isles, and also sang before the late Queen Victoria at Windsor Castle. On this occasion, he was accorded the honour of a special interview in the Queen's apartments, and remained as Her Majesty's guest at Windsor for several days. His voice has been a notable addition to recent historic services. George street Methodist church Monday evening, November 10th. Prices 35 and 25 cents.

A PETERBOROUGH HEROINE.

An Heroic Action of Miss Isabel Hay Wins Royal Humane Society Medal—Saves the Life of a Girl Friend at the Imminent Risk of her own.

The sanguine scene of the battle field is not the only place where deeds of real heroism are done and the Victoria Cross, the badge of life-saving valor represents no more heroic acts than are sometimes performed in the quieter environments of life. Miss Isabel Hay, elder daughter of Mr. T. A. S. Hay, C.E., has received notice that she has been awarded the medal of the Royal Humane Society of Canada, in recognition of her having saved the life of a Toronto young lady, Miss Maude Allen. On the 18th of last August a party of Chemong Park residents were bathing in the lake, Miss Hay and Miss Allen were of the party. The latter who was an excellent swimmer, had ventured too far into the lake and became too exhausted to make the return journey to shore. Miss Hay seeing her danger swam out to her assistance and was compelled to dive twice before she succeeded in bringing Miss Allen, who had meantime gone down, to the surface. By dint of keeping her presence of mind she was able to cooly take the action the emergency demanded, and with her coolness was combined the determination to save Miss Allen if she herself perished in the endeavour. By great exertion of strength she supported Miss Allen, who was unconscious and a dead weight. She grasped the loose folds of Miss Allen's bathing dress behind, and placing her in front, by treading water gradually passed over a distance of 65 yards before she reached safety at a partially submerged log near the shore, where proper means of resuscitation being employed the young lady, who was practically drowned, was restored to life. That Miss Allen owes to Miss Hay, her life, so far as human agency is concerned, is as certain as the fact of her existence. In Miss Hay's case the qualities of physical courage, coolness of head, and the operation of the supreme love, which would lay down life for a friend, were displayed in a degree never surpassed and seldom equalled, especially by women, comparatively few of whom have had the happy opportunity of doing what has never been placed to the credit of hundreds of great names that shine in history—the saving of a human life at the risk of their own. Grace Darling need not blush to share with Isabel Hay, her niche in the gallery of distinguished heroism.

PASSENGERS EXCITED.

The Express From Toronto an Hour Late Last Night—The Reason why.

Passengers on board the Grand Trunk Express from Lindsay last night were somewhat excited, and believed that they had a miraculous escape from a collision with a freight train. The express, as a consequence of the incident, was delayed an hour, and did not reach Peterborough until after ten o'clock. As a matter of fact there was not a narrow escape from a collision, although it is a fact that the passenger train and the freight train headlights did meet on the track. The circumstances of the affair are these: Passenger trains are entitled to the right of way over freight trains, of course, and there is no siding between Peterborough and Omemee. The despatcher gave orders to the conductor of a freight at Peterborough to proceed to Omemee, if he thought he could make that station before the express was due to pull out. Under ordinary circumstances the freight train could have done this, but the freight train last night was an exceptionally heavy one, and the steep grades proved to be too much for the engines.

The conductor of the express was given orders that if the freight train had not made Omemee to proceed on towards Peterborough. Circumstances developed in the latter way; the freight train was not at Omemee when the express was ready to pull out and she proceeded towards Peterborough, carefully watching for the freight. The men on the freight train, knowing that they were behind time, did likewise, and the trains met each other at Best's. As a matter of fact it would have saved time if the express had backed up to Omemee, but the other alternative was chosen, and shortly after ten o'clock the freight train backed into the G.T.R. depot with the express close behind it.

Whether the system is a good one or not may be open to question, but it only goes to show the need of a double track on this division.

THE LAKEFIELD BANK AFFAIR

Meeting of the Creditors of Messrs. Jas. Linton & Co..

Mr. Linton Made a Proposition That may be Accepted—Bank Statement.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Jas. Linton & Co., private bankers, Lakefield, was held in the town hall, Lakefield, last night. There were eighty or more creditors in attendance.

The meeting was called to order at about 7.30 o'clock.

Mr. Jas. Linton, the senior member of the firm, and general manager, submitted the following statement of the affairs of the bank:

Liabilities		$24,000
Cash on hand	$ 8,000
Notes, (good)	6,000
Total...	$14,000	$24,000
Deficit'		$10,000

In addition to this there are notes to the amount of $8,000, which are not considered of any value.

After this statement the meeting adjourned.

This morning Mr. Linton met a number of the creditors again, and offered to pay 30 per cent. of the claims forthwith, and to declare another dividend of thirty per cent. inside of four weeks..

The late manager at Lakefield, Mr. T. H. Benson, evidently misrepresented the state of the bank's affairs in the village for some time past. In his statement to the head office on September 30th, he assumed to show a surplus of $17,000, whereas an audit of the books showed that there should have been shown a deficit of $15,000 or $20,000! The deposits were much larger than were made to appear by the late manager. For instance, in the accounts of three cheese factories there were discrepencies to the extent of $3,500.

A package of notes which had been on deposit in the Traders' Bank at Port Hope, as collateral security, were withdrawn by the manager a day or two before the bank closed its doors. These, it is said, are missing.

The general feeling among the creditors is that the offer of Mr. Linton will be accepted. There are a few holding out, however, for some more favourable composition.

Messrs. W. H. Casement and J. M. Kilbourn, who were appointed by the creditors to investigate the bank's finances, have reported favourably to accepting Mr. Linton's proposition, and express the belief that he is doing all that is in his power for the benefit of his creditors.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

A Meeting of the Ministerial Association Held Yesterday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association of the Town of Peterborough was held in the Y. M.C.A. on Monday morning. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President — Rev. J. P. Wilson.
Secretary—Rev. J. A. Wilson.
Committee on Topics — Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. C. Davidson.

Rev. Mr. Armitage was authorized to make arrangements for the visitation of the schools.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mrs. Bradburn, Dr. and Mrs. Kirby and Master Tom Kirby leave for Ottawa to-night.

The Lindsay Post says:—Mr. J. Lockhart left to-day to visit Peterborough friends.

Mrs. F. S. Clarke left this morning for New Westminster, B. C., whether she has gone to join her husband.

Miss Sadie Dolan has gone to spend part of the winter in Montreal. She will also visit the coast before returning home.

Mr. Frank Dumble of Chicago, who has been spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dumble, returned home yesterday.

Miss Josephine Shannon of Hawkesbury, returned to her home to-day, after spending a few days in town the guest of Mrs. Macpherson, of Paterson street.

Mr. F. H. Lazier, Brighton, District Deputy Grand Master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, is in town on an official visit to the local lodge, No. 135, and will be present at the regular meeting of the Lodge to-night at 8 p.m.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Several hunting parties from town will go back north next week.

—A continuation of Mr. Robert Harrison's paper on the early settlement of Asphodel, will be found on page 2.

—Six or more beautiful trees have been cut down in Victoria Park. Many think that this policy on the part of the park management was uncalled for.

—All town churches are asked to make to-morrow night's prayer meeting a season of special prayer for Dr. Chown's meetings on Sabbath and Monday, in connection with the temperance campaign.

—The steamer Water-Lily arrived in port yesterday with a cargo of wheat for the McAllister Milling Co. She left again in the evening for Rice Lake ports with a scow load of machinery. The Water-Lily, North Star and Rainbow have considerable work ahead of them yet. There is a large quantity of grain to be brought to Peterborough yet from points on Rice Lake.

—Already this season ten persons have been shot in the Adirondack region, New York state, in mistake for deer. In more than half the cases the shooting was done by experienced hunters. This week thousands of sportsmen will invade the forests of this section, and every party will have a sprinkling of amateurs. They should be warned against travelling to and from their watches with loaded weapons, and to never shoot at a moving object in the bushes until satisfied that it is a deer.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

THEY'RE HERE AT LAST

We beg leave to announce the arrival of our Fall and Winter stock of Misses' and Children's Cloaks. These goods should have been here just six weeks ago, which means a loss of six weeks' selling to us, but it also means a big saving to those who have deferred buying their coats till now, as we are in a position to-day (owing to the delay in their arrival,) of offering them to you at a tremendous reduction from the original prices. This shipment includes One Hundred and Fifty Misses' and Children's Coats, and Twenty-Five Ladies' Coats, all thoroughly up-to-date goods, in every particular. We have made a big claim on the manufacturer for not delivering them on time, and we give you the full benefit of this claim. Come and see what a saving it means to you.

SPECIAL PRICES ON ALL COATS.

We also beg leave to announce that in sympathy with this Misses' and Children's Sale we will also give a special reduction on all other Coats in stock, Ladies' Misses' and Children's, which ought to make this sale doubly interesting to you. If you want a coat for yourself or any of the children, don't fail to take advantage of this opportunity.

"THROUGH ERIN'S ISLE."

A Splendid Stereopticon Entertainment in the T. A. S Rooms Last Evening.

The lecture room of St. Peter's T. A. S. was crowded to the doors last evening with an audience that thoroughly enjoyed a trip to the Emerald Isle, or at least the southern portion of it. Mr. R. M. Roy, of town, who recently procured over sixty original and up-to-date stereopticon views of scenes in Ireland, took the audience on a trip in a jaunting car through the beauty spots and historic places for which old Erin is celebrated. The guide on the outing was Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who spent some time in Ireland during his stay on the continent, and his description of the various places visited during the imaginary tour, were indescribably interesting, and his history of each scene was interspersed with humorous incidents, illustrating the proverbial wit of a son of old Erin. Rev. Dr. O'Brien certainly kept his eyes open while on the "ould sod," as his lecture was a splendidly arranged history of the different spots visited, delivered in a style that made it a veritable treat. Every spot had its history and legends galore, and the speaker did not fail to refer to them.

The views were splendid ones, indeed, vastly different from the so-called views of the Emerald Isle carried by some travelling entertainers.

During the presentation of the scenes, a chorus rendered several Irish melodies bearing on the views thrown on the canvas during the evening. Miss L. Hallahan rendered the solo "Come Back to Erin," in splendid voice. Views of the T.A.S. Lacrosse Club, and the Spiritual Advisor of the T.A.S., were also shown, which were loudly applauded. The evening's enjoyment terminated with the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham will speak at the next entertainment, on Nov. 10th, on "Ancient Egypt."

STRATFORD KNEW HIM.

The Forger Who Operated Here Last Week, was Also There.

The local police have gleaned a few more important facts concerning the man, "Grupe," who uttered a number of forged cheques here last week. Knowing that forgeries of a similar nature had been perpetrated in Stratford a short time previously, Chief Rossel sent one of the cheques there, and asked if in any particular they resembled the Stratford bogus cheques. An answer was received this morning, which confirms the Chief's suspicions, namely, that the forger is an accomplished crook, who disguised himself in various ways in order to escape detection. The Chief of Police at Stratford states that the cheques are the same. even to the amount, and the writing and paper are identical.

In Stratford he was described as a man of about 35 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 190 pounds. A gold filled tooth was very prominent in his upper teeth, and the disguise used there was that of a farm hand.

Chief Rossel is keeping his eye on the case, and it is expected that the criminal will shortly be caught in an attempt elsewhere. It is the wish of the Chief that the people in the different cities and towns should be warned, and be able to communicate at once with the local police.

ABSORBING PROBLEM

Of the Present Day.

The absorbing problem of to-day is, how to expend one's income so as to attain the best results; that is, get full value for one's money.

It may truthfully be said that this has been, is, and always will be an absorbing problem to those with limited means; but the fact remains that, with the price of living necessities constantly rising one must husband one's resources more carefully than ever before if he would live within his income. In saying that prices are rising, we except one article which has come to occupy a prominent place in the family medicine closet, and that is the specific for piles or hemorrhoids known as Pyramid Pile Cure; this remedy is still sold by druggists at the old prices of fifty cents, and one dollar, and these prices will remain unchanged. Those to whom this preparation has brought relief and a cure after years of suffering do not need to be told of its merits; others are advised that it is the greatest boon ever discovered, to all those afflicted with any form of piles; it is in suppository form, is easily applied, reaches the seat of the complaint, and gives immediate relief and a lasting cure.

The reader may have tried salves, ointments and lotions without benefit, and feeling that his money has been wasted, resolves to suffer on rather than experiment farther. The reason for the failure of these treatments is, that they do not reach the seat of the trouble, and hence do not remove the cause, as does Pyramid Pile Cure. A little book describing piles, their cause and cure, is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and anyone may procure a copy by sending name and address to above firm. As showing the estimation in which this remedy is held by the public it may interest the reader to know that its sales now exceed those of all other pile remedies combined.

TOOK A DOSE OF STRYCHNINE

Mrs. Glynn, of Havelock Committed Suicide.

The Gossip of a Neighbour Woman Said to Have Been the Cause of the Deed.

The Village of Havelock was thrown into a state of excitement yesterday afternoon by the suicide of Mrs. Frederick Glynn, a woman of about 19 years of age. The rash act was, it is alleged, the result of a dispute with a neighbour woman, who had accused the deceased of stealing some articles from her yard. The unfortunate young woman was of a rather excitable turn of mind and after having had some words with her neighbour, she proceeded to the house of her mother where she related her troubles. Mrs. Glynn told her mother that her neighbour had informed her that she had just been to the magistrate of the village, who had ordered that Mrs. Glynn pay $500 or go to jail for six months. Whether the neighbour woman really told Mrs. Glynn such a ridiculous story as this or not may never be known, but it is a fact that she had no conversation with the magistrate.

After Mrs. Glynn left her mother's house she went to her own home where she remained only a short while. She then went to a drug store and bought five grains of strychnine, signing her name for it and saying that she wanted it to kill some rats.

The husband all this while was engaged at some carpenter work some distance out of the village. When he returned home last night he found his young wife dead on the floor from the effects of the strychnine which she had taken. A cup containing some of the deadly stuff was lying close by her.

Dr. Jeffs was called, but life had been extinct for some time. Coroner Grey was notified and he has not yet determined whether or not he will hold an inquest. The deceased woman though poor was well respected.

It is stated that Mrs. Glynn's maiden name was Curtis, and that she formerly resided in Peterborough.

SUGAR WORKS AT LINDSAY.

Toronto Syndicate Will Erect One of its Factories There.

A Lindsay despatch says:—Those who supposed that the beet sugar factory proposition was a dead issue in this town will be surprised to learn that as a result of quiet negotiations carried on by the secretary of the Board of Trade, Mr. J. H. Southeran, and a few others, a letter was received this week from the Toronto solicitor of a beet sugar syndicate, saying that his clients had fixed upon Lindsay as one of four or five places in which they have decided to build factories if suitable terms can be secured. Those terms were said to be, roughly: Exemption from taxes for a period of years, and local subscription of stock to a sum that will pay for the charter and other expenses of organization.

LAST NIGHT'S LECTURE.

Rev. Mr. Hiraiwa has Great Hopes of Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

The lecture "The Anglo Japanese Alliance from a Christian Standpoint," delivered by Rev. Y. Hiraiwa, of Japan, in the school room of the George street church last evening was one that few would have cared to miss. Throughout the lecture was full of interesting bits of information, while it was something new to hear of the Japanese view of the alliance from a Japanese. Some time was consumed in introducing his subject and also the standing of the Japanese in the far east. The increase in Japan's power was in direct ratio as the western civilization was taken up, and the ideas of Christianity adopted. A brief resume was given of the possibilities of the Island nation as regards commerce. Another idea that was given a broad and interesting explanation was that of the situation in the Corean Peninsula. Here the position taken by Russia and the equally firm stand taken by Japan were explained in a new light. In the midst of these relations, so full of serious possibilities for Japan came the alliance with England. To show the favour with which this agreement was received by the Japanese nation he told that of the seventeen newspapers in Tokio there was not one that did not comment on it in the most favourable terms. Then the speaker showed why this alliance was a good one in the East inasmuch as the two nations made up a very strong naval alliance and this strength would be of the greatest utility in forwarding the march of the Christian religion in the Orient. The reason that naval strength was a predominant factor there was that nearly all the nations had to depend on their navies because of the great distance from Europe and America. In closing Mr. Hiraiwa gave a splendid account as to good results that this union should lead to. After the address Mr. D. W. Dumble moved a vote of thanks which was seconded by Mrs. Kilgour. In replying Mr. Hiraiwa stated his appreciation of the kindness received here and hoped to return in the near future.

SALUTES AT SEA.

Courtesies That Must Be Observed by Ship Captains—Lowering the Flag the Oldest Form of Salutation.

In the days before cannon, and indeed until comparatively recent times, a vessel made its salutation by lowering its flag. This is the oldest and most honorable greeting which a ship can give, and it ranks before the booming of guns, however many. This salute has always been demanded by English seamen, and its exaction has burned the hearts and the powder of generations of naval commanders. For a foreign ship whether merchant or martial, to enter an English port without veiling topsails or lowering its national flag was to court the chances of war though the profoundest peace existed. Without warning or argument the shore defences or a man-of-war sent a round shot across the bows or between the masts of the insolent intruder, and if the offending flag came not down instanter the foreigner was brought to her senses by being raked through and through. Such was the reception accorded by John Hawkins to the Spanish admiral who in time of peace sailed into Plymouth Sound without veiling his topsails or striking his flag. The Dutch vehemently resisted the British demand, and it was not until 1673 that they finally agreed to strike the English colors in home waters. The same honor was formally assented to by France in 1704, although it had been long exacted by Britain.

Until modern times it was regarded as a high misdemeanor for a merchant vessel to pass one of his Majesty's ships without dipping its ensign, and the consequence was that a shot across her bows compelled her to heave to while her captain's name was taken, the Admiralty instituting a prosecution against him for his negligence. The trading ship dips her ensign and waits for the man-of-war's dip in return. Then she dips again, and after that, in strict etiquette, she ought to dip a third time, but this is seldom done now. The maritime supremacy of Britain is still enforced by the refusal of any British war vessel to dip its flag to any foreign ship until the latter has first lowered its colors, and this acknowledgment of precedence is required not only in home waters, but in all seas.

But naval salutes are now essential matters of etiquette, and are exchanged under an elaborate code arranged between foreign powers and the Admiralty in 1876. The number of guns to be fired under all conceivable circumstances is minutely stipulated. Second to the salute of twenty-one guns in honor of Royal personages and national flags are the nineteen rounds given to Ambassadors. Colonial governors, foreign possessions and fortresses receive seventeen guns, and envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary fifteen. Two guns less are fired for lieutenant-governors. Charges d'affaires are treated to eleven, consuls-general to nine, and a mere consul to seven. The salute for admirals of the fleet is seventeen guns, and for admirals simpliciter fifteen. Vice-admirals are greeted with thirteen, and rear-admirals with two less, while nine guns are fired for commodores—captains and lower officers being classed as not worth the burning of powder—London Standard.

SHE WAS GIVEN UP.

Doctors Held out no Hope to Mrs. Huffman of Napanee.

A Wonderful Case and one Which Goes to Show the Wonderful Advancement Recently Made in the Science of Medicine.

Napanee, Ont., Oct 26—(Special.)—This town has furnished a case which has caused considerable talk in the county.

Mrs. John C. Huffman had been troubled for over six years with female weakness and kidney trouble. The pain was so great that she could not bear it and her kidneys gave her so much bother that she could not entertain any company in her home or take any social pleasures whatever. Her urine was very much discoloured and gave her great trouble in passing.

In addition to these symptoms she had all the pains, headaches, and weakness of Female Trouble.

Mrs. Huffman tried physician's treatment and many other medicines, but instead of getting better she was gradually growing worse and was very much discouraged.

Many of her friends thought she would never get better, but one day she picked up a newspaper and read an advertisement which said that Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Female Troubles.

As she had tried so many other things without being able to get any help, she was very doubtful, but concluded to try this remedy.

She used six boxes and was completely cured. She is to-day sound and well, without a single symptom of her old trouble left.

She was cured nearly five years ago and is to-day as sound and well a woman as there is in Napanee. She says:

"I can confidently recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to every woman in Canada for they cured me completely and mine was a very bad case.

"They are certainly a great medicine and I will always recommend them to women who may be suffering as I was with Female Weakness and Kidney Trouble."

Enthusiasm at Cape Town.

London, Oct. 28.—The announcement of Mr. Chamberlain's visit to South Africa has aroused extraordinary interest in Cape Town and is the sole topic of conversation. It is hailed with enthusiasm as marking an entirely new departure in the relations between Great Britain and her colonies.

John Lane Sentenced.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 28.—John Lane, prominent in Winnipeg labor circles, was yesterday sentenced to two years' imprisonment for theft of two bottles of perfumery from a drug store. Previous crimes increased the severity of his sentence.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—There were about 600 head of butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 2800 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The market was rather dull, with prices still tending downward. Mr. G. Nicholson bought six good steers at 4¼c per lb., which was the best lot on the market; a shipper bought 50 head picked out of two carloads of township cattle, at 4c per lb., but they were only good medium beeves, and from that down to 3¼c for ordinary medium stock. Common cattle sold at from 2c to 2½c per lb., and a number of these will not be sold to-day. Calves sold at from $2.50 to $13 each, or from 3½c to 5¼c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2¾c to 3½c, and lambs at from 3¼c to 3¾c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at about 6c per lb., weighed off the cars.

Invasion of British Ground.

London, Oct. 28.—The Constantinople correspondent of The London Daily Mail states that the British Ambassador, Sir Nicholas O'Connor, has informed the Porte that Turkish troops have advanced into British territory in the vicinity of Aden, and that Great Britain cannot permit this state of things to continue. The Ambassador further intimates that in case of Turkey's failure to take remedial action Great Britain will be obliged to adopt whatever action she may think necessary.

SEN. VILJOEN'S BOOK.

Will Record "Romantic and Fabulous Stories" of the Boers.

There has been a good amount of amusement expressed at the many European reports of the alleged capture during the South African war of Lord Roberts, General Buller and others, but it appears from the introduction to a book about to be published by General Ben. Viljoen that British reports have in many cases been equally wrong. During his captivity in St. Helena General Viljoen has been employed in writing reminiscences. He says: "During the later stages of the struggle, when we were isolated from the outside world, we read in newspapers and other printed matter captured from the British so many romantic and fabulous stories about ourselves that we were sometimes in doubt whether people in Europe and elsewhere would really believe us ordinary human beings, and not legendary monsters.

"On three occasions I read circumstantial reports of my death, and once a long and by no means flattering obituary, in which I was compared to Garibaldi, Jack the Ripper and Aguinaldo.

"On another occasion I learned from British newspapers of my capture, conviction and execution in Cape Colony for wearing the insignia of the Red Cross. I found that I had been brought before a military court at De Aar and sentenced to be shot, what was worse, the sentence was duly confirmed and carried out. A very lurid picture was drawn of my execution. Bound to a chair near my open grave, I had met my doom with rare stoicism and fortitude. 'At last,' concluded the admirable historian, 'this scoundrel, robber and guerrilla leader, Viljoen, has been safely planted, and will trouble the British army no more.'

"I also learned with mingled feelings of amazement and pride that, having been imprisoned at Mafeking at the commencement of hostilities, General Baden-Powell had kindly exchanged me for Lady Sarah Wilson.

"To be honest, none of the abovementioned reports were strictly accurate. I can assure the gentle reader that I was never killed in action nor executed at De Aar. I was never in Mafeking or any other prison in my life, nor was I in Cape Colony during the war. I never masqueraded with a Red Cross, nor was I ever exchanged for Lady Sarah Wilson. Her ladyship's friends and admirers would have found me a very poor exchange."

As a matter of fact, an exchange with Lady Sarah Wilson really did take place, her Ladyship having been captured when on one of her daring rides out of Mafeking. The Boer prisoner who was exchanged for her, however, was not General Viljoen, but a much less important Boer of the same name.

A Sure Cure for Constipation.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentry, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

Hamilton's Pills for the Liver.

OLD KING COAL.

Old King Coal is a grim old soul,
And a mean old soul is he,
And he called for blood, and he called for tears,
And he called for his henchmen three.
Labor, and capital, and buyer,
Stood forth that all might see.

To Labor he said, "Go forth, you slave,
And work in the darksome mine;
Go sweat, while death at thy elbow waits,
And let me have no sign
Of discontent or a glowering look,
And a pittance shall be thine."

Then Capital smoothed his lily-white hands
And the King said, "Baron, dear,
Much joy it giveth me to-day
To see thee standing here.
To land, and wealth, and gold galore,
Thou shalt read thy title clear."

But Buyer into the presence slunk,
With a haggard and weary air;
Eftsoons came many a caitiff in
That robbed him and left him bare;
And even the King got down from his throne
To kick him and pull his hair.

Spells of Weakness and Dizziness

The Accompaniments of Nervous Exhaustion and Weak Heart Action.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To many people peculiar spells of dizziness and weakness are a source of almost daily annoyance and distress. Some see flashes of light before them, and become blind and dazzled; others experience severe attacks of headache. The cause is exhaustion of the nervous system and deficiency in the quantity or quality of the blood. In all such cases Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most certain, as well as the most thorough cure obtainable.

Mrs. Symons, 42 St. Clair street, Belleville, Ont., states: — "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak, fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

LADY SOMERSET'S VISIT.

Famous Reformer Tells of Her Work—Progress Made at the Dux Hurst Home—Courtesy, Love and Occupation.

Lady Henry Somerset, of England, President of the World's W.C.T.U., is in this country, and will attend the 25th convention of the Ontario W. C. T. U. in Toronto, before going home about the middle of November.

Women interested in social purity work and the reformation of women from drink will be interested in the reports which Lady Henry brings with her of the success of her Industrial Farm Colony at Duxhurst, Reigate.

This colony founded by Lady Henry is maintained in connection with the National British Women's Temperance Association, and its purpose is to deal with the problem of inebriety among women, which has been so rapidly increasing in England. The idea of the colony was first suggested by some investigations which she made years ago in New England as to how tempted women were treated there.

Lady Henry found that the authorities were treating women inebriates with kindness; that instead of punishing them, they were being met with mercy and charity; that the law of love and not that of force was being used in their cases, and that the reformations secured were more lasting than any under the old system. She was so impressed with the results of the New England work brought to her attention that she believed she had found in it a partial solution at least of the women's drink problem in England. On her return to England the first steps were taken toward the founding of the Industrial Farm Colony, which now is an accomplished fact.

As to this colony, in her last report Lady Henry says:

"During the past year some progress has undoubtedly been made toward solving the great question which stands prominently before us as to how to deal with inebriety among women, which is so rapidly increasing in our nation. The amendments to the inebriate act, enabling magistrates to deal with cases of habitual inebriety, by sending the offenders to a reformatory instead of to prison, is an advance in the right direction."

A little further on in her report Lady Henry says of one of the difficulties confronting the reformatory or colony:

"We have proved beyond a doubt that there are many consigned to reformatories under the supposition that they are habitual inebriates who are distinctly criminals to whom drunkenness is a natural part of existence; whereas there are some who, under the influence of drink, have committed offences which, if it had not been for this failing, they would probably never have dreamed of. * * * The patients whom we receive at Duxhurst are of another caliber; they are the people who have not been habitual criminals, but who's drunkenness is desolating their homes."

At Duxhurst the woman who has stooped to toy with gin, small beers, whiskey and wine, is given courtesy first, love second and occupation third. Preferably, where occupation is provided, outdoor work is selected.

"Our medical officer's report," writes Lady Henry, "gives us the best encouragement as to the way in which the work has prospered, and the method by which we divide our colony into small homes has each year proved its value more fully, while the occupation in the gardens, the wholesomeness of outdoor work and the invigorating effects of fresh air are demonstrated by the improvement in the patient's health and morals, and confirm us in our belief that our theory of outdoor occupation is based upon sound principle.

"The very nature of the employment in the forcing-houses, the garden frames, the fruit picking, is necessarily foreign to the women who come to us, and consequently it has the desirable effect of breaking all continuity of thought with the past by giving them an extremely new outlook in their daily work. I believe that the possibilities of outdoor employment for women have not yet been developed, and that in many of our reformatories these methods will be adopted in lieu of the more remunerative laundry work or plain sewing. Last winter we started the industry of seed sorting, and we have found this meets with a measure of success. We have also introduced basketmaking, which has proved useful during bad weather in the winter months."

In the garden work to which the inebriate women are put extracted honey is produced, wax, fruits and vegetables. All the fruit is picked and packed by women. In the workroom there is embroidery, weaving, carpet-making and the like. Linen dresses in large quantities are woven by women who previous to their entering the colony had never had any experience in this class of work. As to whether these women like this work, as to whether they are happy in the thought of freeing themselves from the influence of drink, some letters published may show:

"We are happier together now, my dear husband and myself, than we have been for many a long year."

"I shall ever wish to keep Duxhurst green in my memory, as I feel it has been the means of restoring happiness to me."

"I am full of thankfulness for all this place has done for me."

"I owe you a debt of gratitude."

"I feel stronger in both mind and body."

Henry S. Sanders, warden of the colony, in writing of his knowledge of its work says:

"I have been able during the year to pay several visits to the colony, and rejoiced to see how the work grows and prospers, and I cannot forbear further to mention that I have also in various parts of the country been brought into contact with not a few past patients, whose converted, sober lives have been a source of deep thankfulness to me as they must be to all who love Duxhurst."

The medical officer's report shows that in the five years existence of Duxhurst 241 cases of women's inebriety have been treated, that 110 have been successfully treated, and that in the case of 76 the case was failure. Of the others, 11 died, 8 went insane, 17 were considered doubtful of recovery, 7 absconded, 5 were incorrigible and 5 were removed on account of ill health. Taking the successful and failed cases together 59.-13 per cent. were successful and 40.-87 per cent. failed.

Of the whole number of women received 167 were married, 60 single and 14 widows. All of the 84 had an inebriate family history, 16 had insanity in their family, 5 head epilepsy in the family and 12 were engaged in the licensing trade. There were 135 habitual drunkards, 81 periodic drunkards, 23 secret drunkards and 1 opium eaters.

Duxhurst, aside from caring for the inebriate mother, reaches out for the children of vicious homes and intemperance. The first consignment of little ones received consisted of six small, ill-used children, varying in age from 4 to 9, and one girl of 12. One little tot had chilblains which left her heel covered with hard, dry skin. She was told this was "dead" skin, but that did not satisfy her.

"What is the matter with my heel?" she asked. "You don't know, Sister Edith doesn't. Peoebe doesn't—only God knows. It's very awkward, isn't it?"

Several of the children playing decided to have a Punch and Judy show and one of the youngsters was selected to be Punch and to suffer his fate of hanging. Just when the string was round her small neck for the final punishment, she exclaimed, entreatingly: "Amy, I have never been hanged before; don't hurt me much." All these little children have developed in a bright and happy beings under the softening influences of the colony, or as their quarter is called, "the Nest."

Duxhurst is patronized by the Duchess of St. Albans, the Duchess of Bedford, the Countess Somers, the Countess of Dudley, Lady Arthur Butler and others of the nobility and clergy. The Earl of Stamford is a member of the advisory boards, also Lord Kinnaird and Lord Roberts. It has this prayer:

"That it may please Thee to strengthen such as do stand, to comfort and help the weak-hearted, and to raise up them that fall, and finally to beat down Satan under our feet. We beseech Thee to hear us, good Lord."

It is an experiment put forth by one of the most noble-hearted women in the world in a nation whose besetting sin is liquor-drinking. In England, as in no other country in the world is the liquor habit fastened on the women of all classes, and it has been one of the chief aims of Lady Henry Somerset to break this fastening, to turn the womanhood of England to a better life. Duxhurst cannot accomplish everything, but it is a beginning along the line of treating the tempted woman with kindness and love and of giving her occupation along common-sense lines.

"LUCKY"

Is often the name given by careless and thoughtless people to those who are careful and thoughtful. "What a lucky woman," is said of one whose health and beauty proclaim her free from womanly diseases. The luck often consists in her having thoughtfully considered the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and proved its ability to cure the diseases peculiar to her sex.

"Favorite Prescription" is a reliable medicine for the cure of womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"I had poor health for nine years," writes Mrs. Armintie Watkins, of Acme, Kanawha Co., W. Va. "Had female weakness, was very irregular and would suffer untold misery. Our family doctor did not do me any good and I concluded to write to you. When I wrote I had no idea that I would ever get well, but when your letter reached me I began to have hope. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines as directed and began to improve in strength. I was soon able to do the work for my family of six. I took eight bottles, three of 'Favorite Prescription' and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pellets.'"

STOLEN BY THE SEA.

England Loses Many Acres Each Year In This Way.

The Strand Magazine describes the steady and disastrous eating away of the coast line of England by the encroaching sea, and it is stated that the annual loss of area by coast erosion in England alone is probably not less than 2,000 acres. On the other hand, marsh lands have been reclaimed, but these areas are insignificant as compared with those which have been lost.

Parts of the lost lands were low lying, protected by dikes or levees, which were eventually breached; other parts were washed away by floods and storms, but in many cases the sea is eating its way into tall cliffs, demolishing numerous towns and villages.

The line of anchorage for ships off Selsey, in Sussex, is still called "the park," having been a royal deer park in the reign of Henry VIII., while the treacherous shoals known as the Goodwin sands formed in early days the estate of Earl Goodwin.

On the Yorkshire coast there are twelve buried towns and villages, and in Suffolk there are five. Submerged forests may be seen at low tide off Bexhill and Wirral, and their remains have been found at numerous points along the coast.

Southwest from Land's End, toward the Scilly Islands, a peninsula of about 227 square miles has been carried away, and below the sand beach is a deposit of black mold containing indications of trees and deer.

At Wirral is Leasowes Castle, now on the edge of the cliff, but fifty years ago it was half a mile from the sea. Many historical towns, such as Ravensburg (mentioned in Shakespeare), where Henry IV. landed in 1399 and Edward IV. in 1471, have now entirely disappeared.

At Reculver the cliffs were gradually eroded until a church originally two miles inland was partly wrecked. This church, however, had two spires, forming a striking landmark for sailors, and trinity board, in charge of the lighthouse work, therefore had a sea wall built to prevent the destruction of the towers.

The Story of Morning Tiredness.

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigour, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. Price 50c per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER.

By Thomas Moore.

'Tis the last rose of summer
Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone;
No flower of her kindred,
No rosebud is nigh,
To reflect back her blushes,
Or give sigh for sigh.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one,
To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
Go, sleep thou with them.
Thus kindly I scatter
Thy leaves o'er the bed
Where thy mates of the garden
Lie scentless and dead.

So soon may I follow,
When friendships decay,
And from Love's shining circle
The gems drop away.
When true hearts lie withered,
And fond ones are flown,
Oh, who would inhabit
This bleak world alone?

Sketch of Thomas Moore.

Thomas Moore, "the sweet singer of Ireland," was born at Dublin May 28, 1779, and died in England Feb. 25, 1852. Moore received a liberal education and traveled in Canada in 1803 and 1804. His poems, particularly "Lalla Rookh," were very successful and netted him a competency. Besides them, he wrote a life of Byron (with whom he was intimate), a history of Ireland and other works. He is now the most popular of Irish poets.

Sales to noon 2,9,900.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago :

New York, Oct. 28th, 10.00 a.m.—Spot moderate business. Prices barely steady ; unchanged at 47⅝ for middlings. Sales, 7,600 bales, of which 6,600 were American. Receipts, $12,800, of which 37,800 American. Futures open barely steady ; unchanged to one point decline, and are now quiet at about one point decline, as compared with yesterday's close.

M. & M.

We expect to see a repetition of yesterday's market. While it is true the local money market is easier and time money can be had at six per cent., the situation and the outlook are still far from encouraging. We have now the fear of the spread of labour troubles among the railroads in the West, and also the increasing probability of gold exports in the near future, and the uncertainty regarding the coming election. Moreover, it is believed that the Keene following has turned bearish on the market, except on a few specialties in which they are heavily interested, while most traders are disposed to work on bear side. The main stay of the market seems to be the hope that a large enough short interest will soon be created, which may have a steadying influence. Therefore, the best to be expected is a dull traders' market, with possibly a sagging tendency.

M. & M.

Oct. 28th, 10.30 a.m.—Wheat in Liverpool at 1.30 p.m. was unchanged, and corn was 1-4 lower. Chicago car lots, wheat 211, corn 34⅝, oats 434.

Paris exchange rate on London this morning is 1-3 centime lower at 25 francs, 13 1-3 centimes. Should this rate drop to 25.10, and our demand sterling rate go back to 486 3-4 to 487, arrangements would undoubtedly be made to ship gold from here. Demand sterling is now 486.40 to 486.50.

M. & M.

Brokers report that the principal support of the market from room traders covering shorts to secure profits. They are the principal buyers of U.P., S.P., and N. since opening. It is this buying which is absorbing scattered liquidation, selling which commenced with the common houses who are moderate sellers on balance.

M. & M.

New York, 11.30 a.m.—Corn steady, not much doing. Pit scalpers selling a little on favourable weather. Armour buying May wheat, west sellers.

DENISON.

The rally in the market is due to the covering of shorts, and is regarded as a natural movement. The market is narrow and almost entirely professional. We believe this rally will prove to be only temporary. Demand sterling is up to 486 3-4, and there is a good demand for remittances from London, and we would not be surprised if it goes to 487 before the close of the week and thus revive the talk of gold exports.

M. & M.

New York, 11.15 a.m.—We are told on good authority that in the very near future demands will probably be made on M. O. P., Wabash and possibly other Gould railroads by the different branches of labour for an increase in wages. Demand will be made primarily on the higher cost of living, and there is a disposition to concede that the men have some cause for complaint. It is, therefore, probable that some increase will be granted. Matters will probably receive some attention next week. Beyond some covering of shorts by traders, there was no particular support to the market. Commission house business is extremely small. What there is of it is struggling liquidation. General sentiment of room is that stocks are a sale on all rallies. Until after election, then if the election goes right, we may have some rally from its practically sold out condition.

M. & M.

October 28th, 1.00 p.m.—A prominent member of the Executive Committee of R.I. says "There seems to be some misunderstandings regarding the dividends on the new preferred. To make matters clear, let me say that the next and last dividend on the old stock will be paid on Nov. 1st, and thereafter dividends on the new preferred stock of Rock Island will begin to accrue at the rate of four per cent. for 1903. The dividend for the first quarter, therefore, will become due and will be paid Feb. 1st. The management has not decided as to the action to be taken regarding the dividends on the common stock."

M. & M.

Mr. W. G. Moore, representing W. F. Dewar & Co., stock brokers, of Toronto, New York and Boston, was in town today, looking after the firm's local business, which is quite extensive through this section. Speaking of the general outlook for stocks, Mr. Moore said, to sum up the present conditions, everything was against a rise at present, and until the result of the elections in the States are known, it is time for conservatism. Buy only sharp dips, and be satisfied with small profits. The present market is weak, and liable to go somewhat lower, in which case there will be bargains to be picked up for handsome profits by the first of the year.

Local Rugbyists Making Ready for Ottawa.

Some News for the Hockeyists—Rugby Gossip—Other Items of Interest.

RUGBY.

A football fatality occurred at Jamestown. N. Y., on Saturday, in the game between the Jamestown and Buffalo High Schools. In an unusually severe scrimmage one of the Jamestown players was injured and taken from the field. His place was taken by George McClurg, a substitute. McClurg had been playing only a few seconds when he was thrown in such a way that his neck was broken, death occurring instantly.

Last fall The News warmly advocated the snap-back, system for the Ontario Rugby Union, without much effect, unfortunately, for the Union turned the proposition down at the annual meeting most emphatically. Since then, however, a revulsion of feeling has gradually been taking place, and the snap-back system is now being regarded with favour in many quarters. New advocates are being found for it every day. In Ottawa, where the snap-back has been most violently opposed, the critics are gradually beginning to see its advantages over the present unsatisfactory scrimmage. Referee Dr. Bowie, of Brockville, after the Rough Riders-Argonauts game Saturday, said :—

"The scrimmaging is not all that I could wish. Though I hesitate to advocate the idea of the snap-back, I cannot fail to see its advantages, and it might, at least, be tried."

Secretary Woodworth, of the O. R. F. U., has become a staunch advocate of the snap-back system, and it is more than likely that it will be given a trial by the O.R.F.U. next season. —Toronto News.

"Mac" McClellan has quit the game again. The old veteran will accompany the boys to Ottawa on Saturday next, however.

Those who have sold membership tickets are asked to make returns to the secretary before Thursday next. It is going to take all the available funds to send the team to Ottawa on Friday night.

The Rugby dance last year was held on November 27th. This year the annual affair may take place on December 2nd.

Lakefield Preparatory School defeated Trinity College Juniors in their annual match at Lakefield on Saturday. The score was 43 to 0, but this hardly represented the play which was very even. For Lakefield the three half-backs played together prettily, passing and running like veterans. The Port Hope forwards held their own, but their backs were weak in kicking. The feature of the game was the playing of Dempster, for T.C.S., the smallest boy on the team.

The London team is putting in some hard practice for next Saturday's game in Toronto. They are confident of beating the Rosedale fifteen.

BASKETBALL.

A meeting of the captains of the senior basketball teams of the Y.M. C.A., is called for to-night at 7 o'clock sharp to organize a basketball league and draft a schedule for the games, which will be played on Saturday nights, from 8 to 10. Only organized teams will be drafted in the first schedule, and a player can only play on one team during a schedule. The Physical Committee have decided to put up a handsome trophy for the winner of the League.

RUNNING.

A full attendance is looked for tonight at the Senior Gymnasium Class at the Y.M.C.A., and especially those wish to take in the five mile run, which will take place at nine o'clock, going round by the Locks Bridge to Downer's Corners. There were four in the run last week, and it is expected that at least a dozen will compete to-night.

EVENING SILKS

The well stocked Silk Department of the Golden Lion has always added tone and character to the store. Good taste in selection, a sufficient variety and confined qualities, have given experienced shoppers a preference for our Silks. For a few days we will make a run on specially appropriate weaves of Silks for Evening Costumes. This should be of unusual interest to the ladies, more especially as the silk manufacturers are talking of an early advance in prices. Our special offers include lovely selections of favourite Silks, Satins and velvets, as well as beautiful DRESS TRIMMINGS and ACCESSORIES. Costumes orders committed to our Miss Neild's care will be executed in conformity with the very latest models. These prices will make Silk choosing a matter of pleasure as well as profit.

DOUKHOBOR PILGRIMS

Agent Speers to Send the Women and Children Home.

THE OBJECT OF THE PILGRIMAGE

Mounted Police Guarding Those at Yorkton—Doukhobors Say They Do Not Desire and Will Not Go Back to Their Villages—They Are Not Violent—Terpennie Their Objective Point.

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—The Mounted Police are guarding the Doukhobor women and children at Yorkton, also keeping an eye on the fanatical males in case they should become violent. After a night of meditation and prayer, the Doukhobors expressed their decision that they do not desire and will not go back to their villages. All night their plaintively sad chants could be heard in the village, and all night they wrestled in prayer, and they are still fixed in their purpose of converting the world.

The Government's Purpose.

Agent Speers had an interview with the men in the morning, and told them what the Government was doing was done in kindness, but they would not be allowed to wander about the country in such large bodies, and that they would have to adopt some other method of bringing the world to their ideas. In the immigrant hall the women were engaged in devotional exercises, singing and Scripture-reading. They did not seem to be worrying in the least.

They Are Not Violent.

Mr. Speers stated that he had decided to despatch them to their villages, where there is ample food and accommodation for them. The women, he said, were kept separate, under the surveillance of special constables, and will shortly, be removed to their respective villages. Many Doukhobors in town have been active in trying to persuade their countrymen to return to their villages. No sign of violence has been displayed by the Doukhobors, and it is the height of absurdity to suppose that they intend any force. All day they were most orderly and decorous.

Object of the Pilgrimage.

In the procession was an insane woman, who had been a resident of one of the villages for two and a half years. To Officer Harley they stated that they were going to meet Jesus Christ, and that they were leaving all to follow Him. Markoff, the leader of the "crazies," stepped out from the ranks to shake hands with Mr. Harley, kiss him and bid him good-bye, and to thank him for all he had done for him personally and for the Doukhobors in general. He told Mr. Harley that they were going to Terpennie.

"And after that?" inquired Mr. Harley.

"We don't know," was the response.

Had Money, But Not Life.

Durham, Oct. 30.—W. O. Patterson of Walkerton, who was out on bail on a trial of bigamy, was found on the roadside, near Vickers, yesterday morning, by William Johnstoh, manager of McKechney's mills. Nothing is known as to the cause of his death. His clothing was wet, as if he had fallen into the water, but there was no sign of liquor, and as he had $95 in his possession, his exposure was not from necessity. The body is lying at the Town Hall here, awaiting the arrival of Coroner Gunn, who is out of town. Since Patterson was placed on trial he is thought to have become somewhat demented.

A Danger to Public Welfare.

Port Hope, Oct. 30.—After listening to the evidence of several witnesses, Coroner Corbett's jury, empanelled to inquire into the death on Sunday from diphtheria of Harold Lesley Long, returned a verdict in which was this paragraph: "The teaching of the sect known as Christian Science, and as brought out in the evidence, is a danger to the public generally, and this jury would strongly urge that the Legislature enact a law which would make it a criminal offence for the demonstrator of this belief to attend or treat a case which is not being attended to by a duly qualified medical practitioner."

Nine Were For Acquittal.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—A disagreement is the result of the trial in the Criminal Sessions of Robert Warren Wilson of Richmond Hill, charged with attempting to extort money by threats from Dr. Langstaff of the same place. The jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. Following the charge of blackmail preferred by Dr. Langstaff, Wilson has entered suit against the physician for unstated damages for alleged criminal conversation with Wilson's wife.

Not Wanted in Chicago.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—The local Detective Department was notified yesterday that Mrs. Augusta Lauberg, arrested here on a charge of shoplifting, is Mrs. August Meyer of 285 North Franklin street, Chicago. No mention was made that the woman was suspected of killing her husband. She is not wanted in Chicago.

Withdrew Their Endeavor.

London, Oct. 30.—The efforts of the promoters of the Morgan "Tube" Railway scheme to procure the re-establishment of the Parliamentary status of their original franchise bill as a whole, led to an hour's debate in the House of Commons last night, the only result of which was the withdrawal of the endeavor.

Countess Sells Her Yacht.

New York, Oct. 30.—Countess Adeline Schimmelmann has sold her mission yacht, the Duen, or Dove, which has lain idle for some time at Manning's Basin, Brooklyn. The price was $600, and the purchaser, a Philadelphia man, is having the noted vessel rebuilt into a house boat.

"MITCHELL" DAY KEPT

12,000 Miners in Procession at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

SPEECHES WERE CONSERVATIVE

An Ovation All Along the Line to John Mitchell—7,000 United Mine Workers Walk at Shamokin—No Collieries in Operation and Business Generally Suspended—Strike Commissioners at Scranton.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 30.—Twelve thousand men and boys marched over the principal streets of Wilkes-Barre at noon, in honor of Mitchell, yesterday. President Mitchell, who was in a carriage, was given an ovation all along the line of march. The streets were packed with people. After the parade, a big mass meeting was held in West Side Park, at which addresses were delivered in four languages. All the speakers were conservative in their remarks. There was no work done at the mines yesterday.

7,000 Miners in Line.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 30.—Mitchell Day was observed here yesterday. Seven thousand United Mine Workers headed by the Tenth Regiment band and troops paraded the streets, after which the Mine Workers were addressed by several labor leaders. No collieries were in operation and all business was generally suspended.

25 Accountants Working.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 30.—The anthracite coal Strike Commissioners, who will make an inspection of the mines and the homes of the mine workers arrived here last night. Their train will travel slowly. Twenty-five accountants are getting out the wages statement of the Erie Company.

The French Miners' Strike.

Paris, Oct. 30.—The National Committee of the Miners' Federation, accompanied by several Socialist deputies, called on Premier Combes yesterday in regard to the progress made towards arbitration of the matters in dispute between them and the coal companies. Not receiving any satisfaction beyond an expression of hope by the Premier that he could secure arbitration, the committee later sent him a formal letter notifying him that the Government would be interpellated on the subject in the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

1,500 OUT ON STRIKE.

Montreal Longshoremen Want 30 and 35 Cents an Hour.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—The Montreal longshoremen went out on strike this afternoon, and not a bit of work is being done on any of the vessels in port. Trouble has been brewing for some time, as the men have claimed that they were underpaid. They were recently organized as a branch of the Longshoremen's Union. The men demand an increase in their present rate of wages of 20 cents an hour to 30 cents an hour for day work, and 35 cents an hour for night work. The shippers refused to accede to the demands of the men and they went out on strike. Unless an agreement is reached, serious inconvenience will follow. Fifteen hundred men are now out on strike.

1,200 Musicians May Strike.

Paris, Oct. 30.—Twelve hundred and more musicians of the Paris theatres will go on strike at noon today, if their demands for extra wages for rehearsals and matinees are not acceded to, and Paris will be without music. The strike will affect every theatre in the city, with the exception of the Grand Opera and Opera Comique, which receive grants from the Government. The musicians met yesterday and voted unanimously in favor of a general strike, if the directors of the theatres refuse to reimburse them for extra service. The directors of the theatres have been interviewed, and declare they will not yield.

Wages Cut, Joiners Strike.

London, Oct. 10.—About 2,000 shipyard joiners on the northeast coast have struck work as a protest against a 5 per cent. reduction in their wages.

Nihilists After a Minister.

Vienna, Oct. 30. — Die Ziet says that Russian authorities have ascertained that Nihilists in Berlin have plotted to assassinate Minister of the Interior Plehoe and that an emissary has left Berlin for St. Petersburg to accomplish the design. The paper states that the police followed the emissary, but were eluded. Minister Plehoe is a prisoner in his own house, which is guarded by an army of detectives.

Christian Socialists Win.

Vienna, Oct. 30.—Elections in twenty-four rural constituencies yesterday of members of the Lower House of the Austrian Diet resulted in a remarkable victory for the Christian Socialists, who, with one exception, won all the seats contested. In this case a second ballot was necessary to elect the opposition candidate.

Fire at Jarrow-on-Tyne.

London, Oct. 30.—A fire at Jarrow-on-Tyne yesterday destroyed the co-operative stores and several shops. The loss entailed was $200,000.

Chicago's Uncollected Taxes.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—In ten years the city of Chicago has lost $5,610,000 in uncollected taxes.

NORTH PERTH.

Mr. Ross' majority of one has emerged from its solitude and is now two. Mr. Whitney has thrown up the sponge in the North Perth contested election case. The Conservative candidate, Mr. Monteith, on a recount was declared elected by the narrow majority of one. A protest was entered and at the beginning of the trial a case of practical personation was revealed. The Liberal vote which had been displaced by the improper, if not corrupt, substitution, of a Conservative vote, was restored resulting in a tie, and the election was declared void. The respondent, the Conservative candidate, at the first disclosure, resigned claim to the seat. His counsel, representing Mr. Whitney, gave as the reason for scurrying out of the seat like a frightened child, the avoidance of the great expense of an election trial, but the real reason was, more probably, the fear of Mr. Whitney to have the search light of investigation turned upon the methods by which his candidate won the scant success he did win. Mr. Whitney has been trumpeting loudly his political purity and the purity of his party organization in the matter of conducting elections, and at the same time hypocritically denouncing the alleged political corruption of his opponents. Yet at one of the first investigations which would disclose the peculiar election methods practised by Mr. Whitney's friends in his behalf, he shirks the investigation and admits a minor offence rather than have the whole gruesome details laid bare. If Mr. Whitney felt that the extravagant claims he has made of the snowy purity of his election methods were in any way justified he would have been anxious and would have insisted upon securing the revelations an election trial would have afforded to prove the both the bona fides and the reality of his claims, which the people did not altogether believe, for Mr. Whitney protested too much to be altogether as innocent and ingenuous as he would have liked people to believe. The late election campaign was conducted in the Conservative interests, on the lines of imputing the grossest corruption to the Liberals, and the claim has been made by Mr. Whitney and his lieutenants that seats were stolen from the Opposition by scores. All this was mere assumption, but we have in North Perth an example of a seat stolen by the Opposition, and the receiver of the stolen goods, Mr. Whitney, rather than face an investigation, in the language of the street, "coughs up" the stolen seat without the semblance of an effort. What an ignoble surrender of the bombastic claims Mr. Whitney has been making that he has been robbed of the ticket to the Treasury benches, and that the popular approval was with him, only its expression was suppressed by the naughty machinations of the naughty Grits. Go to, Mr. Whitney, be a man, and fight with manly weapons. Don't go about whining about being robbed of seats by the political corruption of your opponents, when your own skirts are far from clear. The game of bluff only works till your hand is "called."

EDITORIAL NOTES

We have always contended that the majority of the Ross Government would grow. Why, it doubled in one day.

First blood to the Ross Government in the Election Courts. Mr. Whitney had a supporter unseated in North Perth and the resulting bye-election will doubtless result in the return of a Government supporter.

Mr. Whitney was seen at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, last evening and had "nothing to say" about his supporter being bowled out in North Perth, but he grew eloquent over the Doukhobors whom he pronounced "fanatics." But if a Liberal had resigned his seat rather than face an election investigation, Mr. Whitney would have raised the rafters with stentorian remarks.

Those who were under the delusion that they knew all about the Tarte incident, and its importance, will have their complacency ruffled under the following heavy words of wisdom conveyed to a waiting world through the Mail and Empire from the ponderous intellectual store-house of Mr. J. P. Whitney. He said to the Mail:

"Mr. Tarte's retirement and the circumstances causing it and connected intimately with it afford room for considerable thought. No doubt there will be further developments from time to time, in which the public will be deeply interested."

Mr. Whitney has a brilliant reputation for polysyllabic profundity—the use of high-sounding bombast which means about as much as the above cloudy chunk of platitudinous vacuity.

BYSTANDER'S VIEW.

Bystander, (Mr. Goldwin Smith) writes to the Farmers' Sun:

The North Oxford petition opens with the allegation that "J. P. Whitney, M.P., and other members of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario, ccorruptly and illegally contributed and raised a sum of money to assist the election of the respondent and other Conservatives candidates, and by corrupt and illegal means furnished the respondent and his agent a large sum of money to be expended corruptly." This strikes at the election fund, opening thereby a new and momentous line of investigation, which, if it could be pursued, would lead us to the fountain-head of corruption. Can inquiry be extended to the formation of election funds? Can we get at the amount of the funds, the names of the contributors, and the amounts of the several contributions? Can we find out how much was contributed by monopolist interests seeking a continuance or an increase of protection, by candidates for subsidies, or by men of wealth who aspire to Senatorships without having any claim but that of the purse? If a large fund is collected, while part of it may be spent on the necessities of party organization, the bulk of it will probably be expended, as the petitioners allege that it was in this interest, on objects more or less corrupt. We shall not extinguish corruption by warring with its petty local agencies, unless we are at liberty to attack the central fund.

The opinion of this distinguished gentleman does not dovetail very neatly in with Mr. Whitney's claim that the electoral methods of the Conservative party are, under his leadership, as pure as the falling snow. In spite of this absurd claim on Mr. Whitney's part, Mr. Whitney is afraid, as witness his throwing up the sponge in the North Perth case, to have his election methods ventilated in the courts. Mr. Whitney, with his absurd posturings as a political purist, is positively funny.

THE NORTH PERTH ELECTION.

Apart from its political consequences, the result of the North Perth election trial is satisfactory. The recording of a majority of two for the Conservative candidate was due to error, not to fraud or even culpable negelect. The Court corrects the error and leaves the result a tie, and the seat is re-opened. It is generally conceded that the election was clean and fair.

It must be said, however, that the proceedings in the courts scarcely warrant Mr. Whitney's charge that he was deprived by fraud and corruption of a victory in last election. The greater part of the Conservative protests have been withdrawn. Either there was no ground for them, or there were so many seats obtained by corruption for Conservatives that one crime was "sawn off" against another. In the latter case the condition of political morality would be very bad; but that would be reason for making Mr. Whitney Prime Minister of Ontario.

North Perth also shows the vanity of the popular majority argument. If either party had been able to show a majority of one, it would have been as good as a majority of a thousand. If Mr. Whitney wants to be Premier of Ontario, he must show a majority of seats in the Legislature. The "saw-offs" materially lessen his chances, and the North Perth election has the same tendency. It is a close constituency, and the Liberals have a fine candidate in Mr. Brown.—Globe.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The root crops are excellent. The farmers are nearly finished storing them.

There have been a number of sales here, including that of Mr. Lang's. Mr. Lang goes onto Mr. Davidson's farm, one mile west of Peterborough. Mr. McElwain moves away to the States.

The anniversay services in the Presbyterian church here on Sabbath were largely attended. They were conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, of St. Paul's, Peterborough, on Sunday morning, and by Rev. Mr. Fraser, of Uxbridge, in the evening. Both of the speakers made very favourable impressions, and were enjoyed by all. The collections were good, and the choir excelled itself on this occasion.

If the beet sugar factory is started in Peterborough a number of farmers here will supply roots.

Potatoes are very scarce around here and farmers are on the look-out for cheap Manitoba potatoes.

The anniversary services in connection with the Anglican church takes place here on next Sunday They will be conducted by the Rev. C. H. Marsh, of Lindsay, and Rev. E.A. Langfeldt, of Peterborough.

Col. Deacon was here on Wednesday hearing a case of illegal snaring of lunge. The offender had to pay $20.00.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT

RUGBY.

The Ottawa Journal says:

The Rough Rider Seconds and the Peterborough fifteen will meet at Varsity Oval on Saturday and a good game is promised. The Westerners have a team that is fit for senior honours, while the Ottawas have an outfit that possesses speed and skill. In the match at Peterborough the Ottawas were defeated by 28 points. They hardly expect to overcome this advantage, but a victory is looked forward to. The seniors will line up against the Intermediates at 4 this afternoon.

An amendment will be brought in this year at the annual meeting of the O.R.F.U., to adopt the snap-back system. The general feeling is that the system should get a trial at least. Every newspaper throughout Ontario is advocating the system excepting Ottawa. Less than two years ago Peterborough was the only club that favoured the snap-back play and the local papers were amongst the few who advocated it, now everybody appears to be in favour of it. It might be well to know that at the semi-annual meeting of the Peterborough Club last season, Peterborough's representative to the O.R.F.U. meeting was instructed to introduce a motion favouring the snap-back style of play. This, Mr. McPherson did, and the matter received favourable consideration, although, of course, it was not adopted. The time is coming when it will be adopted however, and Peterborough can claim the credit for having been the first Club to move in that direction.

A despatch from Kingston says: J. H. Geoghegan, manager of the Granites in their palmy days, has under consideration a scheme to bring the champion Ottawa Rough Riders to Kingston for an exhibition match with his former wolves and outlaws on November 8th. Former full-back Reyner is here; "Pud" Hamilton is coming to spend some holidays, and could play centre half along with "Chaucer" Elliott and "Wicky" Wilson; Milo Moore, and Haslett could be got for the scrimmage, while Varney, "Jack" Elliott, S. Hamilton, Palmer, and others could be placed on the wing line. With a few practices, they would be able to give the Rough Riders a good tussle.

The applicant for a place on the local football team was put through a long and rigid examination. Following are the questions asked by the captain and the answers of the applicant:

Q.—Age?
A.—Nineteen.
Q.—Weight?
A.—Hundred and sixty-four.
Q.—Knuckles hard?
A.—I can crack boiler plate with 'em.
Q.—Good biter?
A.—Bite an iron spike in two.
Q.—A good kicker?
A.—Kick a man's lungs out.
Q.—What would you do if you were running towards the enemy's goal with the ball and their crack player tackled you?
A.—I would throw the ball to my support, after which I would tackle the tackle.
Q.—Please explain.
A.—I would place my right arm under his chin and my left over his knees, then I would bend his back over my right knee until his spine cracked, after which I would jump up and down on him with my spikes.
Q.—How would you amuse him while doing this?
? A.—I would permit him to chew my thumb.
Q.—Suppose you found yourself the under man in a pile up?
? A.—I would eat my way out.
Q.—How would you tackle a heavy-weight tackle?
A.—I would first butt a hole through his vitals and before he recovered from the shock I would pick him up and throw him over the grand stand.
Q.—Suppose you were defeated in doing thtis?
A.—Then I should swallow the ball and stand pat.
Q.—What are the three cardinal indispensables in a football game?
A.—A doctor, an ambulance and a hospital.
Q.—Anything else?
A.—A funeral.
Q.—You cherish no personal ill-feeling against the members of opposing teams?
A.—Not in the least.
Q.—I understand that you know nothing of the technical points of the game?
A.—That is true.
You will do; please sign here.

HOCKEY.

There is every prospect that hockey will boom here again this winter. The meeting of those interested called for last evening at Hotel Quinte, was largely attended, and much interest was manifested. After talking over prospects for the season and some routine business, the meeting adjourned until Monday evening next, when officers will be elected and other necessary business transacted. —Belleville Intelligencer.

A VALUABLE MINERAL.

Molybdenite Worth Four Hundred Dollars a Ton.

The Latest Discovery of Ontario's Riches in the County of Haliburton—Veins Several Feet Wide.

The mineral riches stored in the rocks of Ontario are becoming better known every day as a result of the impetus which has been imparted to prospecting and development in every part of the Province. The latest discovery reported to the Crown Lands Department is of great value from an economic standpoint. It is a deposit of molybdenite, which occurs in the south-east corner of Haliburton, and which, from all the information that could be obtained by sinking a few test pits, is quite extensive. The veins are several feet wide in some places and are very rich in large crystals of the precious article, some of which are from three to four inches across and one inch in thickness. Molybdinite producing 50 to 55 per cent. of molybdenum is worth about $400 per ton and the product is worth $1.55 to $2.00 per pound. Molybdenum is used mainly as an alloy of the finer qualities of steel, to which it imparts an especial hardness, thereby considerably improving its quality and value.

TAXATION OF RAILWAYS.

Farmers' Sun.

In Ohio and Wisconsin, two States where the elections take place next week, the main issue is the equal taxation of railways. In Ohio the champions of equal taxation are the Democrats, under the leadership of Tom Johnson, while in Wisconsin equal taxation is the main plank of the Republicans, who are led by Governor La Follette.

In Ohio to-day the taxes paid by the railways to the municipalities amount to $2,638,447, an average of $303.79 per mile. In addition to this, there is a State tax of one-half of one per cent. of the gross earnings of the railroads, from operations within the State. The State tax in 1900 amounted to $300,000, the municipal and State tax combined being $326,-84 per mile. In Wisconsin the taxes paid by the railroads in 1900, were $1,500,965. The tax is computed on the gross earnings of the roads in the State, and ranges from four per cent. downwards. The railroad taxes for 1900 in Wisconsin averaged $238.07 per mile.

To us in Ontario, where the total taxes paid by the Grand Trunk Railway average $50 per mile, and the taxes paid by the Canadian Pacific Railway $18 per mile, it seems surprising that the people of Ohio and Wisconsin should object to the railway taxation laws of their respective States. Yet in Ohio, Tom Johnson shows conclusively that the steam railways of that state are now paying taxes on only 20 per cent. of their actual value, while the private individual pays on 60 per cent. of the value of his property. In Wisconsin a Single Tax Commission, after a most full and careful investigation, finds that the railroad taxes, instead of being $1,500,065, would be $2,402,312, if railroads paid on the same proportion of value as private property-owners.

The figures we have quoted, and the contests now being fought in these two States, show the pressing importance of taking up the subject of railway taxation in this Province.

YOUNG'S POINT.

The Steamer Majestic Still Towing Wood—Personal.

Mrs. F. J. Young, who for the past few days has been visiting friends in Peterborough, has returned home.

Mr. Will Young, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at his home here.

Miss Nellie Young returned this week to Denver. She intends making her home there.

The steamer Majestic is still busily engaged in towing wood down from Stony Lake. The steamer is engaged by the Rathbun Co. this week to bring a large scow of tan bark down from Squaw River.

A supper and entertainment in connection with the Methodist church here will be given in Heard's Hall, on Thursday evening, October 30th. After supper a programme will be rendered, consisting of readings, music, recitations, dialogues, etc. Rev. J. W. Bunner will be present and deliver an address.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any 'bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

1847 TRADE MARK ROGERS BROS.

The above trade mark has been stamped on every article of the original and genuine Rogers Bros.' goods for over 50 years. Get this and you get the best that is made.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Might's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

KING EDWARD'S MESSENGER.

Oliver A. Borthwick Arrives in New York With His Message.

New York, Oct. 30.—Small in stature and dressed in a plaid suit of English cut, a young man less than 30 years old, walked down the gang plank after the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was berthed yesterday and left the pier without the formalities of inspection.

He was Oliver A. Borthwick, a special messenger from King Edward VII., bearing documents of importance sent either to President Roosevelt or to the British Embassy at Washington.

To the customs officials, to whom he was obliged to disclose his identity, he stated only that his mission was one of great importance, and produced the precious parchment which, in language savoring of the past, proclaimed him the King's messenger or courier, and stated that he must not be detained when in the land of a friendly power. The document bore the signature of the King and the seal of the Lord Chamberlain of the King's household. Had careful selection been made, a more unobtrusive messenger in appearance could not have been found.

In his home country the young man is well known. Oliver Andrew Borthwick is the son of Lord Glenesk—Algernon Borthwick—who was created a baronet in 1887, and raised to the peerage as a baron in 1895—Lord Glenesk is the proprietor of The London Morning Post, and one of the organizing chiefs in the Conservative party. The young man is the only son and is heir to his father's estate and title.

Mr. Borthwick has a sister, Lilias, who is Countess Bathurst, the wife of Lord Bathurst.

WILL CANADA INVITE HIM?

Mr. Chamberlain Could Return From South Africa Via. Vancouver.

London, Oct. 30.—Friends of Mr. Chamberlain are much gratified by the announcement that the Australian Government is inviting him to extend his South African tour to Australia.

It is suggested that Canada should officially support the invitation with an addendum that Mr. Chamberlain shall return to England via Vancouver.

It is understood that such an invitation would stand no chance of being considered, unless strict limitations were placed on the number of Canadian engagements.

The English and the Continental press accept Mr. Chamberlain's tour as a signal tribute to the force of the new Imperialism, opening a way to the establishment of something like a class test for British ministerial rank, viz., a personal and practical knowledge of the self-governing colonies.

POPE GIVEN $5,200.

Archbishop Bruchesi Personally Presented the Offering on Wednesday.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The Pope yesterday received Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal in private audience. The Pontiff showed great interest in Canada, and spoke in flattering terms of Premier Laurier.

His Holiness said: "If the Canadians love me, I have a special affection for them, of which I have given proofs during the whole of my pontificate, the last being sending an Apostolic Delegate to strengthen the bonds between Canada and the Papacy."

The Archbishop presented the Pope with a diocesan offering of $5,200, and introduced to him several citizens of Montreal.

Sunk by a Canadian Steamer.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 30.—The steamer Capital City and the small Canadian freighter Trader, Capt. Parsons, which was bound from Steveston, B.C., to Tacoma, with a cargo of canned salmon, collided late Tuesday night off Dash Point. The Capital City, with twenty passengers aboard, had a big hole stove in her hull on the port side. She filled rapidly, and barely had time to run for the beach, where she sank.

Dropped Dead in Loan Office.

Chatham, Oct. 30.—Death came suddenly yesterday afternoon to David Hyatt, aged 78, a retired farmer of Dover. He dropped dead in the office of the Chatham Loan & Savings Company. He had been complaining of poor health for some time, and Coroner Bray attributed death to heart failure. He was a widower.

"AS SOON AS I DRAW A BEAD."

Young Carl Benson Said, When He Shot His Sister Dead.

St. Catharines, Oct. 30.—The awful fatality of Tuesday night, by which Miss Muriel Benson lost her life, through the careless handling of a rifle in the hands of her brother, Carl, aged 14 years, has caused profound grief throughout the city. It appears that young Carl Benson and Earl McCallum were in the kitchen of the Benson residence, when Carl undertook to explain how the cartridge is withdrawn from the rifle. He was cautioned by his sister to be more careful in handling the weapon, and she told Carl he would kill someone if he was not careful. To this Carl replied that he handled guns long enough to know what he was doing, and he continued the demonstration. Several times he placed the cartridge in the rifle and withdrew it, and, finally, he laid the rifle down, neglecting to unload it. He was asked by his sister to do some little chore. "All right," he said, "I will, just as soon as I draw a bead on you," and he raised the rifle to his shoulder and pressed the trigger as he spoke. The bullet entered the young lady's brain, and she was dead in five minutes. Miss Benson was 21 years of age, and was the sole surviving daughter, another daughter having died a couple of months ago.

AN IDEAL MEDICINE.

A New Discovery Which Cures all Forms of Catarrh.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medicine, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted. There is now, however, an excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh in tablet form, known as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and sold by druggists, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicine for cure of catarrh and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

The old time treatment of catarrh was in the form of inhalers, washes, douches, sprays, etc. Later on internal remedies were used with greater success, but being in liquid or powder form were inconvenient to use and like all medicines in liquid or powder form, lose their medicinal properties when opened or exposed to the air.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, contain highly concentrated antiseptics, Hydrastin, Blood root, and Red gum which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membrane, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, because all authorities are now agreed that catarrh is a constitutional blood disease, and local applications can have only a transitory effect.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays is a nuisance and inconvenience and can in no wise compare favourably with the same antiseptics given in tablet form internally, where they can reach the stomach and blood and kill catarrh germs right where they are produced.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for twelve years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucous from the nose into the throat, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, expectorating, gagging and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cleared my head, throat and stomach and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have no trace of catarrh."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package.

They can be carried in the pocket and used any time and as often as desired since they contain no cocaine, mercury or any other injurious drug.

Lord Minto Thrown.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The Governor-General was thrown from his horse while out riding Tuesday in New Edinburgh, but escaped with a few contusions on the leg.

Usual U.S. Thanksgiving.

Washington, Oct. 30.—President Roosevelt yesterday issued his proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 27, as a day of thanksgiving, as usual.

THE PREMIER'S VISIT.

Sir Wilfrid Has Returned to Ottawa—The Cabinet Vacancy.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT YET MADE.

Premier Met Mr. Prefontaine, Who Said Afterwards That He Was Not in a Position to Say Whether Any Appointment Had Been Given to Him—Not Hon. L. P. Brodeur Also—Looks Much Improved.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The Premier and Lady Laurier returned last evening from Montreal. Sir Wilfrid looked greatly improved. He stated there was nothing to announce just yet.

Premier Leaves Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 30. — Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who arrived in town at 1 o'clock yesterday, went at once to the Windsor, where he met ex-Mayor Prefontaine by appointment. Mr. Prefontaine remained with him for some time, and on coming down stairs stated that the Premier would leave for Ottawa during the afternoon, and that he would likely accompany him. He was not in a position to say whether any appointment had been given him. Hon. L. P. Brodeur had an appointment with the Premier at 3 o'clock. While waiting to see Hon. L. P. Brodeur the Premier was interviewed by Hon. Lomer Gouin, Mr. L. O. David, Hon. F. L. Beique, Mr. Godfroi Langlois and others. He left at 4 o'clock. Lady Laurier did not accompany Sir Wilfrid, as she is ill at her home in Arthabaskaville.

NEW REGULATIONS ISSUED.

Regarding Payment of Succession Duties to the Province.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—A new series of regulations have just been put into force by order in Council for the better enforcement of the succession duty act. Among the more important provisions is one requiring the filing with the Surrogate Registrar, on all applications for letters probate or letters of administration, two duplicate original affidavits of value and relationship, on a form prescribed. One of these duplicate forms shall be forwarded to the Solicitor to the Treasury at the succession duty office, Toronto, and at the same time a notice shall be sent to the Provincial Treasurer, in a form also prescribed. Upon the receipt of the first-named form the Solicitor to the Treasury shall determine whether in his opinion the property is liable for succession duty. It is also provided that no letters probate or letters of administration shall issue without the consent in writing of the Solicitor to the Treasury or someone deputed by the Treasurer to act for him.

Sleep Mystifies Doctors.

New York, Oct. 30.—For ten days Miss Nellie Corcoran has lain unconscious in St. Vincent's Hospital, and the best medical skill in the city has been unable to revive her or even to tell what is the cause of her condition. Every treatment known to the medical science has been resorted to in vain. The doctors are baffled by this new mystery, and in their dilemma have suggested that she is in a hypnotic sleep and are investigating along this line, but with little hope of reaching a solution.

Mother Wants Lizzie.

Georgetown, Oct. 30.—Lizzie Keeler, 18 years of age, disappeared from her home ten days ago, and nothing has been heard of her whereabouts since then. She is of slight build, five feet four inches in height, thin-featured, with dark brown hair and blue eyes. The girl's mother is heart-broken, and no effort will be spared to find her.

Fire at Hespeler.

Hespeler, Oct. 30.—Fire, apparently of incendiary origin, broke out in the Zryd block early yesterday morning. The building is occupied by H. Kreig, tobacconist, O. S. Eby, editor of The Herald, and D. Barber, photographer. All have insurance, but will meet with some loss.

Died at Guelph.

Guelph, Oct. 30.—Rev. John Ingham Hindley, M.A., Ph.D., the well-known Congregational divine, died this morning, after a lengthy illness. He gave up his regular work four years ago, when he removed to this city. Deceased was born near Fergus, in March, 1842.

Additional Fast I.C.R. Express.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—John M. Lyons, general passenger agent of the Intercolonial Railway, stated here yesterday that the outlook was bright for an additional fast train on the Intercolonial Railway next season between Montreal and Halifax. The time will be 22 hours.

Medal to a Heroine.

Peterboro, Oct. 30.—Miss Isabel Hay, daughter of T. A. S. Hay, has been awarded the medal of the Royal Humane Society for saving the life of a companion, Miss Maud Allen, of Toronto, while both were in bathing last summer. The rescue was made at great personal risk.

Sagasta Will Retire in November.

Madrid, Oct. 30.—Premier Sagasta will retire from politics in November on account of ill-health. A physician has taken Sagasta to his country seat in Alicante. Minister of the Interior Moret will likely succeed to the Premiership.

In Regard to Food Frauds.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—Hon. Mr. Bernier says that the law does not reach food frauds. The adulterators can be punished only if the consumer dies.

Wu Ting Fang Recalled.

Washington, Oct. 28. — Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister has been recalled to his country. He will become Minister of Commerce.

ITALY NOT AIDING BRITISH.

Will Not Fight Mad Mullah Unless He Attacks Italian Soil.

Rome, Oct. 30.—Foreign Minister Prinetti was quoted yesterday as saying that Italy will not intervene against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland unless he provokes a disturbance in territory under Italian sovereignty. Italy is not concerning herself with the Mullah's presence merely within the Italian sphere of influence, beyond consenting that the British operate therein. She has attached two officers to Col. Swayne's forces for the purpose of watching the operations.

Indian Troops at Aden.

Aden, Oct. 30.—The transport Hardinge from Bombay, with Grenadiers and Bombay Rifles on board, has arrived here. The troops are to operate against the Mad Mullah.

Harry Towns Killed.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—Harry A. Towns, who, for the last eleven years, has lived at the Daly House, was killed by a train at Gravenhurst yesterday. A telegram to that effect was received at the Daly House last night, but no particulars were given. Deceased left Toronto by the 1.45 o'clock p. m. train for Huntsville, accompanied by M. Waters, late bartender at the Daly House, where they were to take charge of the Reid House. The telegram announcing the fatality was sent from Huntsville by Waters. Towns was about 50 years of age, and well-to-do. This was to have been his first venture in the hotel business. He was quiet and steady-going. He is survived by a widowed sister and a niece, in Toronto. He was born and brought up in the vicinity of Bowmanville.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation.

Killed by a Cow.

St. Thomas, Oct. 30.—Mr. Wm. J. Locke, for fifty-six years a farmer in the Township of Yarmouth, just east of the city, was killed yesterday afternoon. A cow with only one horn had calved during the afternoon, and Mr. Locke led the calf in front of the cow while his wife was milking her. The cow attacked Mr. Locke, piercing him above the heart with her horn, severing the main artery, and he died instantly. Deceased was born in Somerset, Eng., and was 74 years of age. He leaves, besides his wife, three sons and two daughters.

A Doctor's Fatal Mistake.

Sarnia, Oct. 30.—News has been received of the death of Leo Hurditch, 18 years old, who went to Mathers, Man., to assist in the harvest. He had gone to the horses, and tossed a pitchfork into the mow, prongs downward. He jumped up, and the fang of the fork pierced his face between the eye and nose. He did not seem to mind it at the time, but died three days later. Meanwhile, it is said, the doctor treated him for typhoid fever.

400 Rebels Unburied.

Colon, Oct. 30.—Further news has reached here of the engagement on Oct. 24, at Rio Frio, near La Ciengo, which resulted in the surrender of the revolutionary generals, Uribe-Uribe and Castillo, together with ten cannon, 2,500 rifles and considerable ammunition. Four hundred revolutionists are reported to have been killed. The dead were left unburied.

Fell Off a Bridge.

Stratford, Oct. 30.—Conductor Levi Dingman fell off a bridge at Georgetown yesterday morning, but fortunately escaped serious injury. He was walking along the track, and accidentally stepped off the bridge. He was brought to the city in the van of a freight train.

An Obstinate Case of Eczema.

Mr. W. D. Johnson, Tilsonburg, Ont., writes that his father was entirely cured of a long standing and obstinate case of Eczema by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. His leg and foot was a mass of sores that refused to heal and he suffered terribly from the itching and stinging. Though he used a great many remedies and was treated by first-class doctors no permanent relief was obtained until he used Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. Cady Stanton at Rest.

New York, Oct. 30.—The funeral of the late Elizabeth Cady Stanton was held yesterday at her residence in this city. Besides the family there were present only a few close friends who had been invited, including Susan B. Anthony, the life-long friend and co-worker of the dead woman.

Spanish Soldiers Flogged.

Madrid, Oct. 30.—A part of the garrison at Valencia mutinied yesterday and began to cheer loudly for the republic. The offenders were arrested and flogged for their offence.

Last Night's "Attraction."

The "Attraction" at the Opera House last night, "Tangled Relations" was attended by only a small sized audience, but perhaps larger than the production deserved. It is about time that such combinations of vulgarity and low comedy were frozen out of Peterborough, and Manager Bradburn will do well to use extra precaution in future in the selection of his attractions. This he no doubt has endeavoured to do in the past, although a show not deserving of public patronage sometimes creeps in. It may be said to the credit of Mr. Bradburn, however, that when he was made aware of the calibre of the attraction yesterday he gave as much publicity to its reputation as possible in order to protect the public.

Mr. Charles Ellison

Is the tenor rubusto of the Coronation Choir, and in addition to a wide experience as a Cathedral singer has also the unique distinction of having a great reputation in England as an operatic artist. It is seldom that these two two qualifications are found together, the contrary generally being the case. After a course of study with the famous Manuel Garcia in London, Mr. Ellison proceeded to Italy and there entered the Milan Conservatoire, making his first appearance in Italian Opera at Ferrara in Gounod's Sappho, and afterwards becoming principal tenor in the Carl Rosa Opera Company. Among many positions of importance in London may be named that of solo tenor at the Lincoln's Inn Chapel (a celebrated professional choir) and his recent appointment to the Coronation Choir of Westminster Abbey. As a soloist Mr. Ellison is justly celebrated for a voice of extraordinary beauty and volume.

HALLOWE'EN FUN.

The Chief of Police Makes a few Observations.

To-morrow night will be "Hallow-E'en," and as such the younger members of the community will doubtless exercise what they believe to be their prerogative, and make gates, chairs, etc., the object of their zeal. It will be impossible for the police force to put a stop to all their depredations but they will endeavour to protect property from destruction. No objection will be made by the Chief of Police to innocent fun or noise, that does not damage property, but he wishes to be understood by the boys that any wanton destruction of property will assuredly be traced down and the offender severely punished. It is for the boys to draw the line between true fun and the enjoyment derived from the infliction of pain and loss on others.

MR. BAILLIE'S APPOINTMENT.

The Youngest Canadian Bank Manager.

This is the day of the young man in business. The truth of this is very well illustrated in the appointment yesterday by the directors of the Metropolitan Bank of Mr. F. W. Baillie, Assistant Manager of the Central Canada Loan Co., as Manager of the Metropolitan Bank, which will soon open for business. Mr. Baillie is just twenty-seven, but in his few years of business life he has climbed to a place of importance in Canadian finance that only the exceptionally gifted reach. Mr. Baillie is probably the youngest man ever chosen as aMnager for a large Canadian bank. His friends believe that the wisdom of the appointment will be thoroughly demonstrated in the years to come. —Globe.

Mr. Baillie is well known to many Peterborough people who will be pleased to learn of his appointment.

INQUEST ORDERED.

Crown Attorney Kerr, of Cobourg, has Instructed Dr. Corbett.

Dr. Corbett, coroner, of Port Hope, acting under instructions from Crown Attorney Kerr, will hold an inquest to-morrow to inquire into the death of Jas. Wanamaker, who was found dead on the Grand Trunk line about three miles west of that town a week ago last Sunday. The body, which has not been claimed by the father, still lies at an undertaker's. A suspicion of foul play has been aroused, owing to a stab in the lower part of the stomach, which entered the bowels, and has the appearance of having been caused by a knife.

Any person buying $1 worth of artist's materials is entitled to the loan of one of our art studies for two weeks to enable them to copy the subject. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

PRETTY OCTOBER WEDDING.

Mr. John Russ al Jeffrey United in Marriage With Miss Kate Ferguson.

A wedding of more than ordinary interest was celebrated at 7 o'clock last night at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ferguson, No. 254 Stewart street, when their only daughter, Miss Catharine Agnes, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. John Russel Jeffrey, of the Bullock Electrical Manufacturing Company, of Cincinatti, Ohio, and formerly of town. The nuptial knot was tied in the drawing room, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, and entered the drawing room to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. She was attired in a gown of white silk crepe de Chene over white taffeta, trimmed with Chantilly lace, and wore the customery veil. The bridesmaid was Miss Ada McBain, who wore a costume of white de voile over yellow taffeta. The bride carried a handsome bouquet of pink roses while the beautiful bouquet of her bridesmaid was of yellow roses. Mr. A. H. Jeffrey, of Toronto, brother of the groom, officiated as groomsman.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests, about seventy in number, sat down to a dainty wedding dejeuner, which was served by Mr. Harry Long. The newly married couple received the congratulations of their friends and left on the 9.10 G.T.R. train for Montreal and points east, and will, on their return, take residence in Cincinatti.

The bride was one of Peterborough's most charming young ladies and was prominently connected with church work in St. Paul's church. Her departure from Peterborough will be sincerely felt amongst a wide circle of friends, all of whom will join, however, in extending their heartiest good wishes. The groom is well known to Peterborough people, having been a resident of the town for some time.

The bride was the recipient of a costly and useful array of presents, and the gift of the groom to her was a handsome sunburst of pearls and diamonds, and the bridesmaid received a similar present.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Mr. Lewis Dobbin has Joined the List of Benedicts.

A quiet but interesting event took place at 6 o'clock last night at the residence of Mr. Fred Haskill, corner King and Bethune streets, when his niece, Miss Sarah Cochrane, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Lewis Dobbin, of town. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eva Cochrane, whilst Mr. R. M. Glover officiated in a like capacity for the groom. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of All Saint's, and the wedding march was played by Miss Lottie Cochrane. The bride is very popular amongst a wide circle of friends, whilst the groom has been prominent for some years in local lacrosse circles. The Athletic Lacrosse Club, of which he was a member, remembered him handsomely with the present of a beautiful carving set and other useful cutlery. Mr. Dobbin is an employee of the Adam Hall Company, and will reside in town. His host of friends will join in extending congratulations.

LAST NIGHT'S ALARM.

The Fire at the Gas House Does Slight Damage.

A small fire occurred last night about twenty minutes after ten in the building of the Peterborough Gas Company. The blaze began in the boiler room and before it was checked it had reached the roofing. At times there appeared no blaze at all and at other times a bright glare lighted up the surrounding houses. Many were afraid that the fire might communicate with the gas tank, but this was not likely, as the tank is pretty well isolated. After a few minutes work the fire brigade had the "devastating element" under control, and the hose, etc., was returned to the fire hall about 11.30. The damage was not extensive, and in no way affects the working of the gas plant.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. H. LeBrun, and her daughter, Miss Dot, have gone on a trip to Watertown and New York City.

Messrs. E. B. Edwards and C. B. Routley went up to Stony Lake this morning to close up their cottages for the winter.

Mrs. Archie Roberts and little son, of Belleville, are spending a few days in Peterborough, the guests of Mrs. Rev. J. P. Wilson.

Mrs. J. H. Sherin, (nee Rathbone,) will receive Monday afternoon and evening, of November 3rd, four to nine, and afterwards first and third Wednesday.

Mrs. Aaron Cox leaves to-morrow morning for Ottawa to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Hess, whose death occurred in Chicago, and whose remains are being interred in Ottawa.

OBITUARY.

The Late Alice Mary Weddell.

Very great regret and sympathy will be felt with Mr. John Weddell and family, over the death of his youngest daughter, Miss Alice Weddell, which took place to-day after a painful illness of some six or seven months. An elder sister passed away two years ago. Another sister, Mrs. Bruce Anderson, of Ox Bow, Assa., was present during the last weeks of Miss Weddell's illness. Miss Weddell was a young lady of most amiable disposition and genuine character. She was in her days of health a faithful worker in St. Andrew's church circles, where, as in the home and social circle her loss will be very keenly felt.

Funeral on Saturday, from the family residence, Charlotte street west at 2 o'clock p.m.

FELL FROM THE ENGINE.

A G. T. R. Fireman has a Narrow Escape.

An unfortunate accident occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway last night about three miles south east of Peterborough, near "The Poplars," by which a young man named Elmer Sidey, very nearly lost his life.

A special was running south and Mr. Sidey was performing the duties of fireman. When "The Poplars" (near the Elm Grove stock farm) were reached the train was running at a fairly high rate of speed, and it was just here that the accident occurred. Whether he lost his footing and fell, or whether he became frightened, as is reported, and jumped, is not known, but the former suggestion seems to be the more probable. The unfortunate man, although he was badly cut up around the head, is doing very nicely at the Nicholls Hospital, and is in a fair way to recovery.

DIED.

WEDDELL. — In Peterborough, on Thursday, 30th October, 1902, Alice Mary, fourth daughter of Mr. John Weddell, aged 19 years.

Funeral on Saturday, November 1st, at 2.30 p.m., from the family residence, Charlotte street west.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

THEY'RE HERE AT LAST

We beg leave to announce the arrival of our Fall and Winter stock of Misses' and Children's Cloaks. These goods should have been here just six weeks ago, which means a loss of six weeks' selling to us, but it also means a big saving to those who have deferred buying their coats till now, as we are in a position to-day (owing to the delay in their arrival,) of offering them to you at a tremendous reduction from the original prices. This shipment includes One Hundred and Fifty Misses' and Children's Coats, and Twenty-Five Ladies' Coats, all thoroughly up-to-date goods, in every particular. We have made a big claim on the manufacturer for not delivering them on time, and we give you the full benefit of this claim. Come and see what a saving it means to you.

SPECIAL PRICES ON ALL COATS.

We also beg leave to announce that in sympathy with this Misses' and Children's Sale we will also give a special reduction on all other Coats in stock, Ladies' Misses' and Children's, which ought to make this sale doubly interesting to you. If you want a coat for yourself or any of the children, don't fail to take advantage of this opportunity.

THE COURT OF REVISION.

Many Appeals Came up Last Evening and the Majority Dealt With.

The Court of Revision met last evening. There were present:—Aldermen Shortly, chairman, and Batten and Edgcumbe.

A number of appeals was heard, and action taken as seemed to the Court best:

Ambrose Jones asked to be relieved of assessment as tenant. —Granted.

Mrs. Card, J. Edwards and John Giles asked for reduction of assessment.—Refused.

Messrs. R. P. Boucher, and H. C. Roger had their assessment reduced from $4,000 to $3,500.

Messrs. A. and F. Ferguson asked to be relieved from assessment for statute labour.—Held over till next meeting of the court.

Mr. O. C. Kirn appealed against wrongful assessment as tenant. —Appeal granted.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams asked that his sons be assessed with him. —Granted.

Mrs. Rebecca Kerr thought that part of her assessment should be rebated.—Refused.

The People's Misson, through Mr. Best, held that it should not be taxed, but the Court failed to see it that way.

Mr. A. P. Choate said that lots 7-21 inclusive were rated too high. The Court concurred and rebated $600.

Mr. W. Collins asked that his brother, W. J. Collins, be assessed with him.—Granted.

The appeal of Mr. Wm. Yelland re over assessment, was held over until the next meeting of the court.

Mr. J. Irwin did not wish his tenant to be assessed as owner, and his appeal was granted.

Annie Martin thought herself overassessed, as did also Mr. D. D. C. Dawe, but the Court thought otherwise and confirmed the assessment.

Mr. D. H. Burritt had no dog, and his canine taxes were remitted.

A number of appeals from the C. P. R. re the Dickson spur line, the Bank of Montreal, the Otonabee Power Co., and the Auburn Power Co., for over-assessment, were laid over till the next meeting of the Court.

Messrs. N. T. Laplante and H. A. Wood thought their property was not as valuable as it appeared to the assessors, but were not able to convince the Court.

Mr. J. S. Boswell's assessment was reduced from $300 to $150.

At the meeting Mr. W. C. Ackerman presented an appeal against over-assessment but as he had not appealed in time it was laid over till the next meeting of the Court.

This made up the business of the evening, after which the Court adjourned until Tuesday, Nov. 4th.

THE JURY GAVE THEIR VERDICT.

Evidence in a Christian Science Case.

BOY DIED OF DIPHTHERIA.

An Interesting Case That Occurred at Port Hope—The Mother's Evidence.

Port Hope has been thrown into a state of excitement during the past week over the death of Harry Leslie Long, son of Mr. William Edgar Long of that town, whose death, it is alleged, was due to an attack of diphtheria, but which, it is alleged, might have been prevented or cured, had medical skill been summoned. Instead of this, however, it is alleged the parents of the child, who are Christian Scientists, resorted to other means of cure. An inquest was at once ordered, and the Examiner takes a portion of the evidence from the Port Hope Guide. That of the mother is rather interesting, and is as follows:

Mrs. Martha Long, mother of deceased, sworn—Deceased died a few minutes after nine on Sunday morning last. A week ago last Friday he appeared to have a cold and a little hoarseness, but did not complain of his throat. Had a slight cough, but was not feverish. He was attending school prior to Friday and I kept him home because he was hoarse, and said he could not repeat his lessons properly. He was out playing on Saturday following and went on errands for myself. His condition on Sunday was good and he was out walking on that day. He was much the same on Monday, only had the hoarseness and continued to have a little cough. Tuesday he was the same, and was out around the yard. Wednesday the same, but in the evening did not appear to be so well. Thursday he was some better and continued the same until Saturday evening. During Saturday night he was restless but I did not think he was serious. On Sunday morning he did not seem to be as well, and wanted his father to nurse him. I noticed that he did not breathe as easily, but did not feel alarmed as I have often seen him in a worse condition than that. His father was nursing him and he, Lesley, wanted me to take him. I told him I would as soon as I was through my work up-stairs. My husband called to me if I would soon be down, as he saw some change in him, and the deceased was anxious that I should take him, but I did not think that his condition was so bad. He was quite conscious, and asked for a drink of milk. I took him from his father in the kitchen, and when I went in the dining room and laid him back in my arms, I noticed a strange expression on his face. His father was standing at my side at the time and he asked me if he should go down for Dr. Corbett, and I told him yes, if he wished. The child was breathing at this time and for some time after his father had gone. He was breathing until just a few minutes before Dr. Corbett reached the house, and was sensible up to the last minute. He was out around the yard up to Saturday evening. I had him treated for what I supposed was a case of cold by Mr. Horsey. Mr. Horsey is not a medical man, he is a Christian Scientist. He helped him by God's power and had treated him before when he was in a far worse condition than he appeared to be in this time. He treated him by prayer. His treatment was successful and he was very much better. His body is gone. I did not consult any physician in regard to his condition. I accept the interpretations of the Scripture by Mrs. Eddy and am trying to be a Christian Scientist. I was asked by several of the the neighbours if my children had the mumps, and I said no.

To Mr. Kerr, witness said — Deceased was 7 years and 6 months old, and was a strong, healthy boy. He attended school last, a week ago Thursday. Died on Sunday a few minutes after nine. He did not go to school on Friday because he had a slight cold. Did not go on Monday and Tuesday because I saw fit to keep him home. I did not count the hoarseness an illness. He was in his usual health up to Thursday, when he took a cough. He has passed from here but I do not say that he is dead. I thought it proper to call Mr. Horsey, because his cough was a little worse. Mr. Horsey treated him on former occasions and always brought him through. He treated him Thursday morning and he felt much better. Mr. Horsey brought him some pears on Friday. I do not think he called again. My husband went up to his house on Saturday night and Mr. Horsey took the case up again but did not attend my house. I believe I did everything that was necessary. Mr. Horsey brought him through about three years ago, and he was in a worse condition. I do not see that medical attendance is as powerful as God. He had the necessaries of life as far as I am convinced.

Mr. Horsey—I knew the child but did not call at the house to treat him. I was called on at my house by Edgar Long on Wednesday or Thursday. Sickness is an error of thought. I treated the boy according to Christian Science. When I treated deceased I repeated the Lord's prayer; that is what Christian Science consists of. I saw the child on the Thursday. I do not know the nature of diphtheria or any other "theria." If I thought there had been anything dangerous I would have gone for a doctor to comply with the law. I treated the child for the purpose of convincing myself of the truth taught by Jesus Christ. The boy did not complain to me of hoarseness. Mr. Long told me that the child's breathing was tight, and I gave him an absent treatment, expecting to relieve his hoarseness. Truth destroys every form of error by repeating the Lord's prayer. We do not receive money for cures; if anyone gives me money it is all right. I have no fee.

Mr. Kerr—Did Mr. or Mrs. Long give you any money for your treatment.

Mr. Horsey—Mrs. Long gave me no money.

Mr. Kerr—Did Mr. Long?

Mr. Horsey—I have no fee.

Mr. Long also gave evidence which was equally as interesting, and after discussing the evidence and giving the matter their very careful attention, the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We find that Harold Lesley Long came to his death at the home of his parents in the town of Port Hope, from diphtheria, on the 26th day of October, 1902, and we find that the parents neglected to call in medical attendance until the child was practically at death's door.

"And we also find Robert Horsey, Christian Science Demonstrator, accessory to the child's death, inasmuch as he undertook to treat (for which he received a remuneration) a dangerous and contagious disease which he admitted he was totally ignorant of.

"The teaching of the sect known as Christian Science, and as brought out in the evidence, is a danger to the public generally and this jury would strongly urge that the Legislature enact a law which would make it a criminal offence for the demonstrator of this belief to attend or treat a case which is not being attended to by a duly qualified medical practioner."

NEW ORDER OF MERIT.

King Edward's to Be Run on the Same Lines as Those of Prussia—It Has Only One Class.

King Edward's new order of merit, created in connection with his coronation, is to be run on much the same lines as that of Prussia. That is to say, it is to constitute the highest recognition in the land "for merit"—that is, for services rendered to the nation.

There are quite a number of other nations that have orders of merit, so called, even in the new world. Venezuela having had an order of merit for the last 60 years, and Brazil for the last 12 years, while the negro republic of Liberia, on the west coast of Africa, likewise confers an order of merit upon those who have acquired his good will.

But none of these orders has anything in common with the Prussian order of merit, founded by Frederick the Great in 1740, or that of Great Britain, which has just been created by King Edward.

The Prussian order, "Pour le Merite," possesses, like its English counterpart, only one class, and is worn around the neck, suspended by a black moire ribbon with narrow edges of silver. It has an eight-pointed pale blue enamel cross, mounted in gold, between the branches of which there are four Prussian eagles spreadwise. The cross is surmounted by an "F," and a crown. It is limited to 60 members, 30 of them military men and 30 civilians. There is but one American upon whom it has ever been conferred—namely: the historian Bancroft—and while Thomas Carlyle declined the grand cross of the English Order of the Bath, as well as all kinds of other titular distinctions, he gladly accepted the Prussian order, "Pour le Merite," conferred upon him by the late Emperor William.

It has throughout the 160 years which have elapsed since its foundation maintained its reputation as one of the rarest and most highly prized distinctions in existence, in spite of which there have been several notable cases of its declination. Thus it has been refused in turn by Herbert Spencer, by Pasteur, by Francois Arago, and last, but not least, by the famous German poet Uhland, the latter declining it on the ground that its acceptance would be equivalent to a token of approval on his part of the policy of the Prussian crown, to which he was opposed.

The Prussian order of merit meets in chapter for the election of its new members, whose names are then submitted to the sovereign, who confers the order. It is understood that King Edward intends to pursue the same course with his own order of merit.

The new English order of merit consists so far of twelve members the recipients being those who have gained the highest distinction in war, science, letters and art. It consists of a cross of red enamel, with two silver swords, with gold hilts between the angles of the cross. The centre of the badge is of blue enamel, surrounded by a laurel wreath, bearing on the onverse the words, "For merit," and on the reverse the King's cipher. The cross is surmounted by the Imperial crown of gold and colored enamels, and is worn around the neck, suspended from a two-inch ribbon of garter blue and crimson.

There was formerly a French order of merit. It was created by that most disreputable of all French monarchs, King Louis XV., who, curiously enough, is known in history by the surname of "Le Bien Aime," although he was of all the long line of French kings, the one most profoundly and universally execrated. His order of merit went the way of all such things at the time of the great revolution in 1793, was revived at the time of the restoration in 1814 by King Louis XVIII., and finally passed out of existence in the days of that so-called July revolution in 1830, which resulted in the deposition and flight of King Charles X. and the advent of the Duke of Orleans—great-grandfather of the present pretender of that name—to the French throne.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

The Remarkable and Happy Result of Timely Advice in the Case of a Hamilton Young Lady.

It is a wise friend indeed, that gives us the right advice in our extremity.

Miss Lizzie Watling, dressmaker, at 177 King William street, Hamilton, Ont., has good reason to be thankful to a friend of hers for some good advice given in an hour of need.

Miss Watling was for several years a great sufferer with Dyspepsia. The pain she had to endure was very trying.

She got at least so that she could eat nothing that would digest without giving her much distress. She says:

"I could not get anything to relieve me of my trouble till a friend of mine advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I will always be grateful to her for this advice for they not only relieved me but in a short time completely cured me.

"This was five years ago and since then I am happy to say that I have not had any stomach trouble whatever, and of course, I am satisfied that my cure was a perfect and permanent one.

"I can and will always heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to anyone who may be suffering from stomach trouble, for I am sure from my own experience that they are the very best medicine for that sort of thing. Indeed, I found them to be the only medicine and they therefore have my heartiest recommendation."

There are medicines that relieve stomach troubles, but Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do more, they not only relieve but absolutely and forever cure the most chronic cases.

Miss Watling's case is ample proof of this statement.

Hers was not a trifling case, but a very serious one. She had suffered for years and had got to the point when everything that entered her stomach brought with it pain and distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured her five years ago and her statement positively proves that she has stayed cured.

Worrying.

There was once a man who kept account of his worries for a given length of time, and then review the record to see how these anxieties looked in the light of subsequent developments. He said that out of all the worries in which he had indulged himself during several years only two had any substantial basis, and these were trivial.

The experiment might be a good one for some other folk to try. There is no reason to suppose that worrying ever did a single human being one bit of good, and it has done an immense amount of harm.

In the first place, there is the time spent in this uncomfortable occupation which should have been given to rest, recreation, or actual work.

Then there is the vitality lost by it, which is often more than would suffice to remove the cause of the worry, if properly applied.

Third, and not by any means least, there is the discomfort caused by the recital of the anxious person's worries to other people.

Most of us have enough reason for irritation in our own affairs and in the real perplexities and griefs of our neighbors, without troubling our heads over something which would be uncomfortable if it were to happen, but which has not happened yet and may never come to pass.

The habit of worrying is one which can be easily developed, and almost as easily checked if taken in time. It is a good plan, when one is made aware of a possibility of evil, to consider first whether anything can be done to ward it off at the moment, and if so, to do it. If there is nothing to do but wait then it is the duty of any reasonable person to put that worry resolutely aside and think of the pleasantest or the most absorbing topic within reach.

The misdirected conscience of some folk pricks them badly if they allow themselves to be comfortable when something bad is likely to occur. Such a conscience needs readjustment so that it will fit the circumstances and not prick in the wrong place.

Died While Praying.

Belleville, Oct. 30. — Wm. Lafay of Frankford, a village near this city, dropped dead in church on Sunday last. He was at his devotions and was seen to fall. When picked up life was extinct. Death resulted from heart failure. He leaves a widow and three children.

THE RICHEST CANADIAN.

Remarkable Living Example of Great Wealth Won in Old Age.

The most remarkable living example of great wealth won in old age is that of Lord Strathcona, who is by far the richest man in Canada. He is now eighty years of age, and was nearly sixty when his great opportunity came to him. A native of North Scotland, born plain Donald A. Smith, he came to Canada while still in his teens, as a clerk in the service of the Hudson Bay Company; and, until 1867, most of his life was spent in the wilds of Labrador. He was gradually advanced, until he reached the highest post in the company's service, but he was verging on old age when he finally emerged from the crowded ranks of comparatively poor men. It was 1875 that opportunity knocked at his door, and was recognized with the eye of genius. One of his closest friends was James J. Hill, who was doing a freighting business between St. Paul and Winnipeg. The two men compared notes and agreed that much money was to be made from the Manitoba Railway, which extended from St. Paul over Minnesota and the Dakotas. It was built by Amsterdam capitalists, but the panic of 1873 forced the company into bankruptcy, and its bonds were a drug in the markets of the world.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Hill saw that, with the return of prosperity, which they believed to be at hand, the road would become a profitable property. They had not the money to buy it, but Mr. Smith had a cousin, who, having settled in Canada in his youth, had rapidly climbed to a name and recollection for themselves within South Africa which wealth, and was at that moment president of the Bank of Montreal. This friend, George Stephen, when consulted, entered into the plan with enthusiasm. He supplied the money to buy the road, and, by the rise of its stock to par, Smith, Hill, and Stephen were all made multi-millionaires. Since then, Lord Strathcona, to call Mr. Smith by the title which Queen Victoria bestowed upon him in 1887, has steadily added to his wealth. He took a prominent part in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is a controlling factor in its affairs, and in those of the Bank of Montreal. He is also said to hold a majority of the shares of stock of the Hudson Bay Company. This company has stores in all of the towns and cities of Western Canada, and has the cream of the retail trade, while further north it has a virtual monopoly of the fur business. Yet, had Lord Strathcona died in middle age, he would have left his family little save an honored name.

Lived a Century.

The Orangeville Post says: There died in Alton on Oct. 10 Thomas Russell at the age of 100 years 4 months and 10 days. He was born near Edinburgh, Scotland, in May, 1802. He came to Canada in 1834 and settled near Alton. Mr. Russell was a man of more than ordinary ability and served his township at the green table, having been at one time reeve of Caledon. In 1826 he married Miss Thompson of Leith, Scotland. Of the fruit of this union four are still living: Hugh, Alton; George, on the homestead; Mrs. James Burns of Bolton, and Mrs. McKinnon, widow of the late Arch. McKinnon, and mother of ex-Reeve McKinnon of Caledon. The funeral, which took place to the Alton cemetery on Sunday afternoon, was the largest ever seen in that locality.

NERVOUS HEADACHE.
The Cause of Much Suffering to Women is Permanently Cured When the System is Built up by
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Headache powders relieve headaches, but they have never cured them, and they are not intended to make a lasting cure. Besides the risk run in using a drug that is strong enough to instantly stop pain, you may be sure that the reaction on the nervous system is most trying and injurious.
Mrs. Clancy, whose letter is quoted below, was subject to headaches for nineteen years, and in spite of all the headache remedies she used she could get no lasting benefit. She suffered so severely when the attacks would come on that she could not go about the house. She has restored her nervous system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and her headaches have entirely disappeared.
Mrs. Jas. Clancy, 714 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I have used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found them an excellent medicine. I was troubled more or less for nineteen years with severe headaches, which made me useless as far as accomplishing my work was concerned.
"The Nerve Food seemed to build me up generally, and so made a thorough cure of my old trouble. I would not think of being without Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the house and would strongly recommend anyone suffering as I did to give it a trial. It succeeded in my case after a great many remedies had failed."
To the thousands of women who are victims of nervous headaches this letter should prove of inestimable value. If they will but follow the advice of Mrs. Clancy they can be certain of great and lasting benefit.

A MATTER OF FISH.

Union With Newfoundland—Rev. Mr. Dunn Says the People of the Island Are Not Greatly Interested.

"If Canada could take our fish I think there would be no question about confederation."

Thus spoke the Rev. W. T. D. Dunn, of Carbonneau, Newfoundland, who was a guest of the Rev. Dr. Briggs, of Toronto, recently. Rev. Mr. Dunn has been for twenty years a resident of Newfoundland, and is now the editor of The Methodist Monthly Greeting, the official organ of the Methodist Church there, and is also president of the Conference this year. He was then on his way home after attending the General Conference in Winnipeg. It was his first visit to Canada in so far as anything farther west than the Maritime provinces is concerned, and speaking of his visit to Winnipeg and Brandon, he thought "amazing" was the only word which described adequately the resources and development of that great country.

"It is not a live issue," said Mr. Dunn, when asked regarding the possibilities for confederation. "The trouble is no one can express what might be called public feeling on the matter, and anything I may say therefore must be simply my own personal views. So far as I have been able to see the people do not seem to be interested. One reason for this may lie in the fact that it has never been brought before the people as a practical issue since the first time confederation was discussed. We therefore see much more of the question in your Canadian papers than anywhere else. In so far as the thought of the country is concerned I believe for the most part the people who read and think look with favor upon the idea, but the working man of Newfoundland is decidedly opposed to it.

"One of the chief reasons why confederation is not a live question is, I think, on account of the prosperity and improvement in the general condition of the people during the last two or three years. The colony has been on the up grade, the fisheries have been good and the people feel fairly well satisfied to remain as they are. Then, too, there is abroad a fear that confederation would mean direct taxation and for this we as a colony are not prepared. Our entire revenue is raised by import duties and always has been, and it would take our people a good while to adapt themselves to the principle of direct taxation in any form. Further the average fisherman is possessed of the idea that union with Canada would mean an increase of officialism and with this he is already terribly burdened.

"Newfoundland being an island of some 220,000 population, with agriculture very limited, and with fishing as a staple industry, a market for our fish is essential and in this regard our fishermen look with much favor upon a scheme of reciprocity with the United States for there they can secure an ample market. Canada does not want our fish and our trade must be governed by the outlet for our fish. If Canada could take our fish I think there would be no question about Confederation. Aside, however, from a desire for trade reciprocity there is positively no feeling in the Island in favor of annexation with the States. The island is loyal to the core, and an intensely British colony.

"One of our greatest difficulties is what is known as the French shore question. I have thought, and there are many who think with me, that our only hope of settling that is by confederation. The colony at present is such a small affair that I think the Imperial Government do not wish to caTuse any friction with France. If it was a question of Canada, however, it would be taken account of and settled. I have no doubt but that the development and resources of the Island are seriously hampered while that matter is still unsettled. This, therefore, would be one of the chief advantages to the Island, of Confederation: but, while, of course, I have not had opportunity of looking into the question from a Canadian standpoint, I think the advantages to Canada would be largely sentimental. It would be nice to have a rounded-off Dominion.

"Education is increasing on the Island and a campaign of education on confederation might dispel erroneous ideas held. At present neither political party has dared to make it an issue at the polls, which would be an exceedingly risky thing. There are rumors, however, of a third party making this its chief plank, but I would not be inclined to think there is much in it myself."

Mr. Dunn also spoke interestingly of the system of education which prevailed on the Island. The chief churches there were the Roman Catholic, Anglican and Methodist, in addition to which there were only four Presbyterian ministers, four Congregationalists, and about 4,000 adherents of the Salvation Army. Each church manages its own schools, the Legislative grant being made per capita. Each school had its own board, the resident minister usually being chairman. The system of examination was the London University Correspondence Course. The scholars registered at convenient centres, the papers were received from London and the answers were all sealed and returned to London for inspection. All exams were on these lines. This plan of education worked very well and in some respects was perhaps the best thing for the Island in view of the fact that it was largely settled denominationally—that is one settlement Roman Catholic, another Methodist and so on. The greatest weakness was the overlapping in small places for although the Boards had power in such cases to amalgamate it was seldom done. Religious instruction was purely optional.

CRASH!!

Goes the crockery and the waitress will probably be called clumsy and careless. Her plea of sudden dizziness is not allowed. "What right has she to be dizzy?" they ask. Women who are suffering from diseases peculiarly feminine are liable to sudden dizziness and faintness, and it is only by curing the womanly diseases to which they are subject that dizziness and other ills can be entirely relieved.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures irregularity, dries disagreeable, weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. When these conditions are cured, backache, headache, dizziness, etc., are also cured.

"I suffered for twelve years with female trouble," writes Mrs. Milton Grimes, of Adair, Adair Co., Iowa, "which brought on other diseases—heart trouble, Bright's disease, and at times would be nearly paralysed. Had neuralgia of stomach. I can freely say your medicines (nine bottles in all, five of 'Favorite Prescription,' four of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets), have cured me. I can work with comfort now, but before I would be tired all the time and have a dizzy headache, and my nerves would be all unstrung so I could not sleep. Now I can sleep and do a big day's work, something I had not done for over eleven years before."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

DEMOLITION OF NEWGATE.

London's Ancient Prison to Make Way for a New Criminal Court.

Instructions have now been issued by the City Lands Committee of the corporation for pulling down the female wing at the Old Bailey, and it is hoped shortly to commence the demolition of the remainder of Newgate for the purpose of erecting the new Central Criminal Court. The female wing and the Sessions House have long been the property of the corporation, and it is only that portion of the prison known as the male wing which is being acquired from the Government.

Until the Brixton jail is completed, the Government do not see their way to effect the transfer, but it is thought that very little further delay will take place. Immediately the city authorities get possession operations will be started on a large scale. The dismantling of the huge building is considered likely to prove a rather difficult and protracted undertaking, and no approximate date can yet be given for the final execution of the scheme.

The design for the new Sessions House provides for an imposing edifice, surmounted by a dome, with the main frontage in the Old Bailey. An attempt has been made to preserve the traditions of the present building, and the style of architecture generally may be described as thoroughly English, being founded on the work of Sir Christopher Wren and his pupils. The Newgate street frontage will be curved. It is in this part of the building that the two principal court-rooms will be situated, separated from the roadway by a corridor, so as to prevent any disturbance to business from outside. The domed central hall is to be on the first floor. There will probably be a bronze statue of Justice on the summit of the dome, and allegorical figures will ornament the main entrance. The walls will be of brick, faced with Portland stone. It is the intention to make the courses of stone of the principal elevation of the same height as those of the existing walls, the object of this being to allow as much as possible of the old building being used should the material be found to be sound.

Since the acceptance of Mr. E. W. Mountford's design a few modifications have been introduced, and probably others will be made during construction. In connection with the cells, the requirements of the Home Office have been carefully followed. Temporary cells are now being fixed up for the accommodation of prisoners while the work is in progress. The present Sessions House will not be pulled down until some portion of the new building is finished, so that the administration of justice at the Old Bailey will not be interfered with during the time occupied in carrying out the scheme. The contract price is £282,000.—The London Times.

HOW TREES ARE BLAZED.

The Natural Marks Made in the Woods by the Pioneers.

No woodsman, guide or camper needs to be told the meaning of "blaze"—he knows it as he knows the alphabet. The dictionary defines blaze, "To indicate, or mark out, as by cutting off pieces of the bark of a number of trees in succession, as to blaze a path through a forest."

In the early days, when Canada was nearly all forest, when clearings were being made and there were few or no roads, travel from place to place, or from neighbor to neighbor, was accomplished by means of paths blazed through the woods. Hunters and woodsmen are in the habit of blazing their course through the deep woods in order that they may not become lost or lose time in their travels. To blaze is to clip off with an axe or hatchet a portion of the bark of tree trunks, cutting deep enough to take out a piece of the wood along with the bark. In blazing for a path very small trees are cut, while in blazing for the bounds of a lot or town or for a farm line larger trees are selected, the blaze being usually made about breast high. When, however, as is often the case, blazing is done in winter, when the snow is deep, by men traveling on snowshoes, the mark is higher up on the trees. After such blazes have become grown over, and in subsequent years it becomes necessary to perambulate the lines thus made, the surveyors have to examine the trees high up on the trunk, which is slow and difficult work.

In running a line or establishing bounds through a forest the surveyor blazes in this manner. If the line goes to the left of a tree designed to be blazed the tree is blazed upon the right side; if the line goes to the right the tree is blazed upon the left side, while if the line strikes the tree fairly, then the trunk is blazed upon both sides. In running a boundary line at a corner, where two lines come together, either a monument is erected—a stake and four bowlders constituting such monument—or a tree is blazed on all four sides, or, perhaps, four trees blazed, to indicate as nearly as possible the turning point of the line.

The permanency of the record made by blazing trees is quite remarkable, and it is a matter of fact that in many cases of disputed lines or boundaries of lots in forest lands the courts have held the record of the blazes as sufficient and reliable, where carefully drawn plans and formally attested title deeds have been set aside as containing possible errors. The wound of a blazed tree heals over, but never so completely that the scar will not be readily recognized by the experienced woodsman; therefore, so long as the blazed tree escapes fire and the axe of the lumberman, so long that tree is an ineffaceable record of the line as surveyed. The surveyor's recorded figures may be in error, and his written description may not coincide with the line he has traced on the tree trunks with his hatchet, but blazes are unchanging, and in a court of law they are indisputable evidence. They cannot be made to lie, no cross-examination can confuse them, no argument refute them. They fix dates as accurately as they preserve inscriptions; the outer shell which has grown over the scar is cut away, and the rings in the wood beneath the bark testify to the date.

A Sure Cure for Constipation.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentry, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

Hamilton's Pills for the Liver.

Historic Building Must Go.

The Sheffield, Eng., Week and Weekly News, has the following item which will interest many Canadians who have visited the spot referred to.

"A building intimately associated with John Wesley is about to disappear. It was on Trinity Sunday, 1743, that the famous preacher began his ministry at the Chapel in West street, Seven Dials. Speaking of that occasion Wesley writes: "I was a little afraid at first that my strength would not suffice for the business of the day when a service of five hours (for it lasted from ten to three) was added to my usual employment." Here it was that Wesley and Whitefield celebrated their reconciliation, and here, too, the saintly Fletcher, of Madeley, preached his first sermon in 1751. The first floor of the adjoining vestry house formed a Nicodem room, where, with windows opening into the chapel, the celebrities of the day could hear without being seen. This house is now condemned, and ordered to be pulled down forthwith. It is at present in the occupation of the Seven Dials Mission, and it is proposed to build upon its site a new building, where the urgently-needed increase of space for the work may be obtained."

The market to-day was fairly steady and opened up somewhat above last night's closing quotations. Most of the stocks held their own or made a small fractional gain. St. Paul, however, made a jump of 2 3-8 points, and this was about the only feature on the board. A few of the more active stocks were—

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 30th, 10.00 a.m.—Chicago.—Corn husking progressing as conditions permit. There is a disposition to sell at current prices; quality varies largely. Wheat is all sown and in a fine condition. Some apprehension about fly in Indiana. Car lots—wheat 94, corn 147, oats 158.

M. & M.

Chicago.—Foreign exchange actual demand sterling reported to have sold at 487 at close yesterday. Market now is 486.90 to 486.95 for sight bills. Experts say our easier money conditions are increasing the demand for remittances abroad, and say it is only a question of time when gold exports will be forced.

M. & M.

New York, 10.30 a.m.—While general sentiment is still bearish, particularly among professional traders, and there is still pressure from that source, we are of the opinion that the market is not far from the turning point. Liquidation has been very thorough, and short interest in the market has been growing daily. This much more favourable speculative position of itself should soon be manifested, and with money conditions easier and nearly all commission houses pretty well sold out we should hesitate to further follow the bear side. While prices may be forced somewhat lower, the principal bear factor on the market, the result of the elections, we think has been discounted. As a result we should rather favour the purchase of stocks now for a turn, especially on any further slump.

M. & M.

New York, October 29. — In a recent issue of Town and Country the position of the anthracite coalers was most ably and pertinently discussed. Illustrating their present and future values, the main facts, which we cull from the article, are as follows: Five months cessation of anthracite mining has made clearer than ever the monopoly enjoyed by the half dozen or more of the larger producing and carrying hard coal companies, and has signalized anew the great intrinsic values of the securities of these roads, and the foresight of the eminently wealthy capitalists, who for years have had investments in them. There is now a rush to mine and ship anthracite and for over a year to come it will go on to the fullest possible physical capacity of the producers. The closest unfriendly and legal scrutiny has shown the companies to be legally unassailable. If the arbitration committee find that the miners are entitled to more pay, the expense will be borne by the consumer. The anthracite coal companies will probably earn more money the coming twelve months than any corporation engaged in business in the United States — far greater than in their last previous year, when the Jersey Central, Delaware and Hudson, D.L.W. The three regular seven per cent. dividend payers showed returns of anywhere from 11 to 12 per cent. net. Well informed financiers believe that an anthracite holding company will be a development of the near future. Coal has at present been advanced 50 cents and it can be figured out at that advance, after allowing for a possible advance of 15 cents per ton to the miner, the increased profit to the companies of 35 cents per ton would aggregate about 20 millions annually. Officials of the Reading Company say that this would mean net earnings of more than 6 per cent. upon the common stock of their company in excess of what was earned one year ago. These are telling facts, well worth pondering over. There is no doubt that all the anthracite coalers are certain of increasing their money earning capacity very much in the immediatef uture; even Reading common, Ontario and Western, and such, will advance to the dividend basis, and above par price, as did Delaware and Hudson, which went from 20 to 175, Delaware and Lack., and W., from 40 to above 200, Jersey Central from 6 to 200, etc. The lower priced coal shares are splendid things to purchase and hang on to. Election talk was more prevalent to-day, accompanied by persistent hammering of all prices. The market as a result declined sluggishly, while the short interest was increased proportionately. Rallies were feeble and fitful. Apparent liquidation by the western contingent in Norfolk and B. O. Room traders worked industriously on the bear side of the accounts. Some investment buying was in evidence. A rally should again be near. On any further decline we are of the opinion that purchases are advisable. Money closed at 3 1-2 per cent. Sales, 533,700.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT.

The Team Committee Has Selected the Fifteen to go to Ottawa to Play Against the Rough Riders.

RUGBY.

The Peterborough Rugby fifteen leave at midnight to-morrow evening for Ottawa, where they will play the return game in the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. The boys go down confident of winning. Since the game here two weeks ago they have put in some faithful practicing, and they are now all in the best of condition. They had a good work out last night, and Capt. McPherson has every confidence as to the result of the encounter with the Rough Riders at Ottawa.

Should there be any who are desirous of accompanying the boys to Ottawa, a rate of one fare and a third can be arranged for providing that ten or more go down. In view of this fact the secretary of the club should be notified at once. Those who have been selling membership tickets are once more asked to make their returns to the treasurer of the club at once.

The Peterborough Rugby team for Ottawa will be as follows:

Back	Lee.
Halves	McPherson, Capt. Burnham, Morden.
Quarter	Bell.
Scrimmage	Thornton, Hurtubise, Dennaird.
Wings	Cameron, Noble, Asselstine, Dillon, Meagher, Rickey, Crowley.

St. John's Choir Boys, known to some of their admirers as the "Cherubs," play the Lakefield Grove School team here on Saturday, and anticipate a return game in Lakefield on the following Saturday.

The Ottawa Journal says: — "The strong Peterborough fifteen will be here on Saturday to do battle with the Rough Rider Intermediates and with an advantage of 28 points on the round, they will force the local boys to travel a bit to make it up. Herb Ralph, Dr. Sanderson, Sandy Cameron, Hal. McGiverin, and Joe McDougal will in all probability be seen in the line up with the seconds. The two last named players were in uniform yesterday afternoon and the agility and activity that they displayed for men who have been out of the game for a time was really surprising. They will certainly do a great deal towards overcoming that overwhelming Peterborough majority."

Westmount Intermediates go to Quebec on Saturday to play the first of the home and home games for the intermediate championship of the Q.R.F.U.

GOLF.

The game which was to have taken place this afternoon has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

RUNNING.

All those interested in running are asked to meet at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 6.30, when the five-mile course will be run, leaving the building; down George street to fair grounds; to the Lock's bridge; to Downer's Corners; to Mark street; to Hunter street; to Aylmer; to Murray street; to the building. This course has been measured to be exactly five miles. All young men invited to attend.

BASEBALL.

The salary of the 22 players comprising the Pittsburg Club for next season will aggregate $82,000.

HOCKEY.

Belleville club starts off with a surplus of $50.

The London people are counting on Wescott, the former lacrosse goalkeeper, to play hockey this winter. Wescott has been in Winnipeg since August and is there at present. This fact will not prevent him from playing in the W.O.H.A., but it certainly will spoil his chances in the O.H.A. Wescott comes from Beaverton.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The actual building of the Shamrock III will be begun within a fortnight. The bending of her frames is nearly finished and the shaping of her keel plates has commenced.

Facts About "The Roast Beef of Old England" — English Breeders Turning Attention to Dairy Farming.

"The Roast Beef of Old England" is mostly derived from the carcases of foreign cattle, and the tendency of home-killed beef to decrease is growing. Many English breeders now devote more attention to dairy farming than to cattle-breeding. It is becoming a serious question whether we are to have any beef at all, except at prohibitive prices. The consumer is at present paying nearly 20 per cent. more for his beef than last year, and in the opinion of trade experts prices will go still higher during the coming winter. A number of small shopkeepers, as our representative has ascertained, have been financially crippled by a shrinkage of business resulting from the inability of the poorer classes to purchase at the present rates. The wholesale trader inevitably suffers in his turn from the failure of retailers to meet their business engagements. In view of this serious position of affairs, which threatens one of the most important sources of the people's food, there is a growing demand that the embargo shall be removed from the importation of Canadian and Argentine cattle. For nearly two years our ports have been closed to Argentine cattle, as a preventive against the introduction of the foot-and-mouth disease. But the Argentine is stated to be now free from the disease, and a departmental official of the Board of Agriculture admitted to our representative that an offer of the Argentine Government to defray the cost of the expert examination of its herds in order to demonstrate their immunity from disease had been "heard of" at the Board of Agriculture.

Mr. Hanbury (the president of the board), however, saw no necessity for accepting it. The Minister's claim to be acting in "the interests of the English farmers" certainly suggests that his action is dictated more by the desire of protecting British cattle-breeding from foreign competition than by the fear of a disease which is, as far as he has any reason to believe, extinct in the country on which his embargo is laid. But the interests of the whole people are of more importance than the interests of the farmers, and this insidious form of protection deserves the indignation which it has raised. It is as futile, as it is unjust, for it has not encouraged the British farmer to engage more extensively in cattle-breeding.—London Chronicle.

The Story of Morning Tiredness.

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigour, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. STRIKE COMMISSION.

President's Arbitrators See Just How the Miners Work.

BISHOP SPALDING A LIVE QUERY

On the Run Up to No. 2 Mine of the Hillside Coal and Iron Company the Workers Gathered at Each Station to See the Men Who Had the Differences Between Them and the Operators in Hand.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 31.—The anthracite coal commissioners yesterday made a tour of the extreme upper coal field, and saw every step taken in the production of coal from the time it is blasted from the ground up to the point where it is sent to market ready for use.

The arbitrators returned last night, grimy from coal dust and tired after eight hours of observation and investigation. The commissioners displayed the greatest interest in every feature of coal mining, although they had to endure many discomforts, make their way through wet places in the mines, almost crawl along some of the gangways in the workings, and pass through clouds of dust in the breakers.

It might be unfair to say that one commissioner displayed more interest than another, but it can be truly said that Bishop Spalding asked more questions than any one of the others. He usually was in the centre of a group of commissioners, and asked many questions of those who are employed in and about the mines. All the commissioners were good listeners, but poor talkers when it came down to getting an expression from them on any feature of the mining business. It is certain they have agreed not to say a word about the investigations at present.

Yesterday's tour consisted in an inspection of No. 2 mine of the Hillside Coal & Iron Company, operated by the Erie Company, and the Coalbrook Breaker of the Delaware & Hudson Company. On the run up the Lackawanna Valley the commissioners had a good view of the several mining towns situated along the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

At each station a small group of persons was gathered, who curiously watched the special train run slowly by. When the party arrived at Forest City, a crowd was gathered, including some mine workers, but there was no demonstration of any kind. The workers silently watching the men who had the differences existing between them and the operators in hand. A short drive was taken through the town to give the commissioners an opportunity to view the miners' homes. Soon the entire party was bundled into three small cars. A small locomotive drew the cars to the No. 7 shaft, a mile distant down the valley. Here the commissioners had a little fun with one another. As the mine was wet and dirty, the company officials provided rubber overshoes, overalls, jumpers and miners' caps for the entire party. Judge Gray and Bishop Spalding were the first to don the uniform of the mine, and good naturedly took the remarks thrust at them by their colleagues as to whether or not they belonged to the union.

Hungarian Roasted to Death.

Forest City, Pa., Oct. 31.—About an hour before the strike commissioners' arrival at the mine shaft here a Hungarian was killed by a fall of roof in the Sliffard mine, which adjoins the one the commissioners inspected. He was pinned down under the fall, and his lamp set fire to his clothing. He was roasted to death.

Hopes For Settlement.

Paris, Oct. 31.—Premier Combes hopes a settlement of the Miners' strike will be reached.

Montreal Longshoremen Won.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—After being out one half day and one night it was announced early yesterday afternoon that the longshoremen's strike was over, the big companies giving the men what they demanded—30 cents an hour for day work and 35 cents for night work in place of 20 cents and 25 cents per hour, which had been the price up to this time.

Union Fines Members.

Kingston, Oct. 31.—The machinists Union has unanimously expelled and fined $250 each, the four men who deserted from the strikers and resumed work in the locomotive works.

Sugar Made in Canada.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—The Ontario Sugar Company, Limited, established in 1901, for the purpose of making sugar from sugar beets, started the erection of a plant just six months ago, and yesterday morning the first beets passed through the various channels, preparatory to being turned into sugar, which takes about twenty hours. This is the first sugar from sugar beets grown in Canada, and to Berlin especially this honor belongs.

Canada on N. G. List.

London, Oct. 31.—Rt. Hon. R. W. Hanbury says that in the near future Scotland will have to look to Argentina for supplies more than to America. He thinks the supplies from America will gradually decrease, and the same remark will apply to Canada.

Did He Marry Four?

Lindsay, Oct. 31.—Wednesday morning, a man named Sisson, of Manvers, appeared before Magistrate Steers, charged with bigamy. It is said that he has a quartette of helpmates. His case will be investigated a week hence.

Price of White Star Line.

London, Oct. 31.—It was officially announced yesterday that Morgan's purchase price of the White Star line is $53,497,180, of which $15,736,180 is payable in cash, $25,174,000 in preference shares, and $12,587,000 in common stock. The shareholders thus receive over $50,000 for each $5,000 shares.

A SCHOONER WRECKED

Mineral State Drifted Ashore at Port Stanley.

GALLANT RESCUE OF HER CREW

Great Work of Lifeboat Crew and Tug Gordon Brown—Port Dalhousie Fishing Boats Caught in the Lake Gales—All Finally Got In, However, After a Hard Experience—Accidents and Fatalities.

Port Stanley, Oct. 31.—Two vessels laden with coal were caught in the heavy gale yesterday morning and anchored just outside the harbor. One of them, the Mineral State, of Alpena, Capt. William Zien with coal for the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway. Port Stanley, at once set up signals of distress, and soon afterwards drifted ashore on the beach, a mile east of the harbor. She began breaking up, and at noon the mate, George Hazelwood, came ashore on a hatch cover, and with a life preserver managed to land in safety. He was much exhausted, but otherwise none the worse for his experience.

The mizzen mast fell at 2 o'clock, and by 4 o'clock the main mast fell and the vessel was going to pieces fast when the tug, Gordon Brown, towed the lifeboat down to the wreck and Coxswain Reginald Moore, with a volunteer crew composed of sailors and citizens, as follows: Thomas Hough, Frank Eveland, Henry Cherry, Frederick Pollock, William Hough and Alonzo Taylor, by careful management soon had the crew, consisting of Capt. William Zien, Frederick Lecuyer, cook, and Seamen William Henderson, Lawrence Walker and Frederick Door in the lifeboat, which was again picked up by the tug Gordon Brown and towed back to the harbor. They were all very much exhausted. The crew of the lifeboat and Capt. Brown of the tug, Gordon Brown, are worthy of the greatest praise for their part of the rescue in such a heavy sea. The schooner Rounds, which is laying at anchor two miles out, is riding out the storm in good shape.

"Dutch Pete" Escaped.

Port Dalhousie, Oct. 31.—A number of local fishermen were caught out in the lake by a heavy gale, but all reached shore in safety except two sailing boats, in which were Frank Dougherty and his brother of St. Catharines, and Peter Nath, or "Dutch Pete," and his grandson John Beats. They were driven down the lake by the force of the squall. Nath and his grandson landed at Eight-Mile Creek, and it is supposed the other missing boat will also manage to reach shore.

Had a Narrow Squeak.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Capt. Wakeham, commander of Le Canadien, Government steamer, reports that on the way from Anticosti to Gaspe the vessel was caught in a hurricane and suffered considerable damage. The stanchions and davitts were carried away, also one of the lifeboats. It was a narrow squeak for Le Canadien, but she safely weathered the storm and put into Caspe.

Crushed by Three Tons.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 31.—Ambrose Banton, an employe of the Crofton Smelter, being operated by the Northwest Smelting and Refining Company, was crushed to death Wednesday. He was killed by the cover of a converter of tremendous weight, which fell, and of the twelve employed there, Banton alone was unable to jump clear. The cover weighed three tons and a half. Deceased was 21 years of age, and resided at Chemainus.

Bullet Through Tongue.

Windsor, Oct. 31.—Dr. J. O. Reaume, Wednesday attended a boy named Churchill, in Sandwich South, in whose jaw-bone a revolver ball had lodged, after passing through his tongue. Gideon Reaume was testing a new revolver. He aimed it through a broken window and fired. The ball struck Churchill.

Mitchell Harper Killed.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—Mitchell A. Harper, the well-known proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, at 56 Jarvis street, died last night at his home 132 Winchester street from injuries received by falling downstairs at the hotel on Wednesday night. Mr. Harper was 50 years of age, and is survived by his widow.

Deliberate Suicide.

London, Oct. 31.—The body of Frederick Joyes, a well-known resident of Byron, was found hanging from a beam in his barn by George Sumner of the Waterworks Department yesterday morning. He left the following note, addressed "For William Griffiths only":

"I appoint William Griffiths of Byron and my brother, Cyranus Joyes, of Kilworth, to be my executors. Will you dispose of my pigs and pay so much on the dollar to my creditors, and give to my brother, Cyranus, all the furniture in the house."

Heroic Rescue.

Lindsay, Oct. 31.—A traction engine went through a bridge into two feet of water near Little Britain. A thresher named William Botts was pinned under the engine and kept from drowning only by the efforts of the fireman who held his head above water till help came. Mr. Botts was badly bruised, but not seriously injured. The engine was damaged a good deal.

Commandant Chris. Botha died at Kroonstad this morning.

LIBERALS' TURN NEXT.

North Perth is a politically uncertain constituency. It is the Liberal turn to win there now. In 1886 the constituency went Conservative by 42 majority; in 1890 it went Liberal, 92; in 1894, Conservative, 108; in 1898, Liberal, 160; in 1902, Conservative, 2. Now, remarks the Hamilton Times, for our turn to bring Ross's majority up to 3.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Montreal Herald asks if the manufacturers who are yelling for more protection called in the police.

The waterproof manufacturers of Montreal are asking for more protection. They do not state whether their anxiety is in the direction of protecting their dividends or the persons of the wearers of their goods.

The Doukhobers are making considerable of a stir, but not nearly so much as the Conservative politicians like Mr. Borden and Mr. Whitney, who are trying to ventilate Mr. Sifton's ribs with a knife.

Mr. Whitney says the Doukhobors are fanatics. The dictionary synonymizes "fanatic" and "visionary." Mr. Whitney in his monomania for calling his opponents corruptionists may fairly be charged with being a fanatic.

During the South African war we were Boered at long range. Now, we have the Boers with us—actually on Canadian soil. The Boer delegates now touring the country show a deep interest in the colony which furnished the soldiers who gave them the liveliest dodging practice.

Mr. Whitney claimed that Mr. Ross should resign because his Government had a majority of only one. Yet Mr. Whitney's supported, Mr. Monteith, held his seat by a majority of one and would not resign it till he was tilted out by the Election Courts.

The Globe remarks: "The Czar must have worn a smile of satisfaction the day he permitted the Doukhobors to emigrate to Canada." The Doukohorors wouldn't "jar" the "Little Father." His peasant subjects are so starved and go so in rags that eccentricities like those of our Northwest fanatics are as common as as oppressed peasantry.

The London News (Independent) thus barks back:—"But leaving all this out of the question, the Government of Canada is costing less to-day than six years ago under the Tories. At that time, if the Conservatives had been honest, the expenditure should not have exceeded $35,000,000 annually, instead of $42,000,000. If the Liberals to-day can transact double the business for $52,000,000 that the Tories transacted for $42,000,000, there must have been a big leak somewhere."

A few months ago, says the Hamilton, Times, when the Conservatives were filing protests by the dozen with long lists of trumped-up charges Mr. Whitney's clarion voice was heard in mellifluous whoops informing the faithful how the Grits were to be utterly wiped off the Provincial slate. As in batches the protests have been withdrawn his visage has assumed a less ferocious aspect and his tones have lost much of their volume and power. Since the Conservative has been unseated in North Perth they are almost dulcet in their sweetness. You wold hardly recognise the man who remarks that "if the House were to meet now the Government would have a majority of two, but as that was out of the question he did not see that there was any particular significance to be attached to the matter," the leader who a few short months ago longed, with a longing too great for even his florid utterances, to reach the courts that he might pulverize the Liberals and scatter their dust over the bosom of the Dominion. A little more of that sort of thing and it will be necessary for him to wear a label for purposes of identification.

MORE STRINGENT RULES.

A Close Tab Will be Kept on Succession Duties.

New Rules Passed by Order in Council Establish Direct Connection Between Probation of Wills and the Provincial Treasurer.

A new series of regulations has just been put into force by order in Council for the better enforcement of the succession duty act. Among the more important provisions is one requiring the filing with the Surrogate Registrar, on all applications for letters probate or letters of administration, two duplicate original affidavits of value and relationship, on a form prescribed. One of these duplicate forms shall be forwarded to the Solicitor to the Treasury at the succession duty office, Toronto, and at the same time a notice shall be sent to the Provincial Treasurer, in a form also prescribed. Upon the receipt of the first-named form the Solicitor to the Treasury shall determine whether in his opinion the property is liable for succession duty. It is also provided that no letters probate or letters of administration shall issue without the consent in writing of the Solicitor to the Treasury or someone deputed by ythe Treasurer to act for him.

A GREAT ADVERTISEMENT.

The extent to which the Canadian arch, which created so much talk in London during the Coronation period, will act as an advertisement for Canada, will probably not be known for years. But that it will prove a greater advertisement than at first expected, is now likely. Canadians who have just returned tell a good deal more about the triumph of the arch than the despatches told. It seems that not only was the arch the sight of the millions of London, but that through the medium of pictures other millions all over the British Isles were made familiar with it. Private firms took the arch up as a speculation. Handkerchiefs, with coloured pictures of the arch, photos, lithos, etc., were printed and sold by the millions not only in London, but in all the large centres of population. Thousands of people in the cities sent Canadian arch souvenirs to their friends in the country, and thus the good news of "free homes for the millions" was spread.

The arch had another effect. It has awakened John Bull to the business sharpness of his Canadian offspring. The old man has now got a notion firmly imbeded in his head that the arch was a good deal of a Yankee trick, combining as it did, loyalty to the Empire and business, with the business spelled with a big "B." John Bull, however, has taken it all in good part, seeing the source from whence it came, and the arch, therefore, stands to be to Canada the greatest advertisement she has yet received.—Ottawa Journal.

ABSORBING PROBLEM

Of the Present Day.

The absorbing problem of to-day is, how to expend one's income so as to attain the best results; that is, get full value for one's money.

It may truthfully be said that this has been, is, and always will be an absorbing problem to those with limited means; but the fact remains that, with the price of living necessities constantly rising one must husband one's resources more carefully than ever before if he would live within his income. In saying that prices are rising, we except one article which has come to occupy a prominent place in the family medicine closet, and that is the specific for piles or hemorrhoids known as Pyramid Pile Cure; this remedy is still sold by druggists at the old prices of fifty cents, and one dollar, and these prices will remain unchanged. Those to whom this preparation has brought relief and a cure after years of suffering do not need to be told of its merits; others are advised that it is the greatest boon ever discovered, to all those afflicted with any form of piles; it is in suppository form, is easily applied, reaches the seat of the complaint, and gives immediate relief and a lasting cure.

The reader may have tried salves, ointments and lotions without benefit, and feeling that his money has been wasted, resolves to suffer on rather than experiment farther. The reason for the failure of these treatments is, that they do not reach the seat of the trouble, and hence do not remove the cause, as does Pyramid Pile Cure. A little book describing piles, their cause and cure, is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and anyone may procure a copy by sending name and address to above firm. As showing the estimation in which this remedy is held by the public it may interest the reader to know that its sales now exceed those of all other pile remedies combined.

LET THE GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

London Paper Sees a Solution of the "Tubes" Problem.

London, Oct. 31.—The Globe yesterday, commenting on the "tube" railway debate in the House of Commons yesterday says: "Last night's proceedings were a melancholy forecast of what we are to expect under the rule of American capitalism. The real sting consists in the fact that American syndicates should have been allowed to fight over the body of the London citizen." The paper attributes the present condition of affairs to the apathy of the British investor, but declares it is "better to muddle on, over crowded and badly served as we are, than to place our means of locomotion in the hands of trans-Atlantic railway jobbers. In conclusion, The Globe urges the Government to control the "tubes."

RACE HORSES BECOME FIENDS

When Addicted to Drug Like Opium Smokers.

Ponies That are Doped Will not Race if They Haven't the Stuff Given Them —How Custom Originated.

It is the opinion of all who are acquainted with the subject, "dope," cannot make a horse that never possessed speed run fast. What it can do, and what it does do, is to revive in an old horse that once possessed great speed, but which has become sour and ill-tempered from training, his old ambition to try his best. For the time being he is so under its influence that he forgets himself completely, and has but one motive in life—to run just as far and as fast as he can. After several doses horses become fiends for it. They will not race without it. Their appetites become impaired, and after a time they become wrecks, the same as the men and women who are addicted to the opium habit.

One of the signs of the use of dope in a horse is profuse perspiration. Just as soon as it begins to act he breaks out into a sweat. A little walking exercise causes him to lather as if he had raced two miles at top speed. His eyes begin to look unnaturally bright, and he becomes restless and ill at ease. He is anxious to run and can scarcely be restrained from doing so while going to the post. Blueaway, who dropped dead last year after a race, was credited with being a "dope" horse. He got so much of it, some trainers claimed, that he was a "fiend," and would not race without it. He evidently died from too much stimulant.

"Dope," as it is called, first came into use among horsemen at Guttenburg. The track on the Palisades was responsible for many evils of the turf, but this was the worst that ever sprang into existence among the many racing outlaws that made that place their rendezvous. Dr. Ring was responsible for its introduction. He was a veterinary surgeon, who attended the sick horses at the track, and he brought forth the "elixir of speed."

It was first used on a big, black horse, a cripple. This horse had once been fast, but physical ailments took all his speed and courage away from him, and he had been relegated to the "also ran" class. His owner, a poor fellow, with more hope than dollars, worked as a stable hand for other stables, to earn oats and hay for his one chance to secure a fortune. He patched his leg up so that he could stand without shaking as though he had the delirium tremens, started him several times, and saw him finish far back in the race.

Then Dr. Ring appeared with his speed producer. He said that he had something that would make the old "skate" forget his pain, would fire him with all his old ambition to race, and that it would not cost the owner a cent. Would the owner allow him to inject the drug into the horse? Would he? Well! Such a thing as conscience was never heard of by a Guttenburg horseman.

So Dr. Ring brought forth his little "needle" and gave the horse the injection that was to fill his almost broken heart with the courage of a Salvator. In a short time the stimulat began to act. So did the horse. He jumped and snorted around like a young two-year-old. He forgot his ills and troubles and went to the post with his old life, his fast one, renewed. His speed came back and he beat his field in a gallop. Dr. Ring cashed in the thousands.

Dr. Ring never charged for the use of his services when he used the "dope." All he desired was the consent of the owner to use it and a promise of secrecy. He picked out a horse that once possessed speed, but had lost his best form, placed the needle to him and then went into the ring and backed him. He made the bookmakers pay his fee.

In recent years dope has been improved upon. If has changed its formula and is made up of other drugs than those used by Dr. Ring. When the use of it was no longer allowed by the turf authorities the "needle" was discarded and the "ball" substituted. The use of the syringe left a tell tale mark behind. Wherever the needle entered the flesh puffed up and remained in that condition until the effect of the drug had worn off. It was this sign that paddock judges searched for when looking for horses that were supposed to be "doped." The drug is now given as a "ball." It is not so dangerous to those who use it, and it does not leave a trace of its existence behind.

KEEP YOUR WINDOW OPEN.

The death of Zola by asphyxiation has been seized upon by an English magazine writer as an opportunity to open a tirade against unventilated sleeping chambers. The great French novelist would not have been suddenly cut off had he left a window open when he retired for the night, and thousands upon thousands would not have been gradually brought down to death had they not systematically neglected a similar sane precaution. Carbon monoxide killed Zola in a few hours, but it is none the less true, says our contemporary, that other poisonous gases are year by year sapping the vitality of the average individual. The poisonous products of respiration which infest the tightly-closed dwelling house are admittedly deadly to the dweller therein, and the spread of tuberculosis, as a result of lack of ventilation, is dwelt upon as an alarming fact of present-day life.

It is known that plenty of fresh air will go far to revive the consumptive, and it can be no less a fact that well-ventilated living apartments are conducive to the maintenance of health in the well.

So, keep your window open!

An Aching Back.

Is the first indication of kidney disease, and should be taken as a signal of danger — a warning to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills while yet there is time to avoid the dreadful pains and certain fatality of this terrible disease. There is no guess work, no experimenting when you use this prescription. It brings relief in a remarkably short time, and because of its combined action of liver and kidneys, cures complicated cases which cannot be reached by any ordinary treatment.

SWAYNE AT BERBERA.

British Will Send a Large Force Against Mad Mullah.

Aden, Arabia, Oct. 31.—Colonel Swayne, the British Commissioner in Somaliland, has reached Berbera in safety. His wounded are doing well. No further movement of the British troops against the Mad Mullah will be made until a large force is collected, which will be about two months hence. There is no doubt that the Somali levies showed the white feather in the recent fighting with the Mullah's followers. Col. Cobbe is in command at Bohtle, Somaliland, where the guns have arrived. The garrison there is not threatened.

Indians on Camels.

London, Oct. 31.—The Maharajah of Jodhpur, says the Simla correspondent of The Times, has volunteered to send for service in Somaliland 600 Imperial service troops mounted on camels.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. London, Oct. 31.—The Admiralty has ordered the construction of two new cruisers which, it is claimed, will be the most powerful and probably the fastest vessels of their kind in the world. Their speed is expected to exceed twenty-six knots.

Students' Strike Goes on.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 31.—The striking Michigan Agricultural College students held another mass meeting yesterday, and decided that in case any paper appears from the faculty for students to sign it shall not be signed until it has been brought up and passed upon in mass meeting of the students. This only widens the breach between the students and the faculty.

Against the Fast Line.

London, Oct. 31.—The Morning Leader yesterday says: "The Canadian fast line is impossible unless the Canadian people or ourselves care to pay handsome bounties for the ridiculous purpose of carrying goods across the ocean by an expensive and dangerous route.

Fatal Political Riots.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Oct. 31.—Political rioting at Ponce was renewed Wednesday evening. From 9 to 11 o'clock the city was in the hands of a Republican mob, alleged to have been aided by municipal police. The Federal Club was fired on. One man was killed and several wounded, but not fatally. The rioting was renewed yesterday. Business at Ponce is suspended. Another man was killed during yesterday's attacks of the Republicans.

Can't Arouse the Sleeper.

New York, Oct. 31.—Every resource that medical ingenuity of the old school could suggest has been tried in vain to awaken Miss Nellie Corcoran, who is now in St. Vincent's Hospital, having been in deep and constant slumber since Saturday, Oct. 18. Beyond her breathing and the beating of her heart, she gives no sign of life.

King's Birthday Dinner.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—A State dinner will be given at Government House in honor of the King's birthday on November 10. The dinner will be followed by a reception.

PLEASED BOER GENERALS.

Believe Good Will Come From Secretary's Visit to South Africa.

London, Oct. 31.—The Boer Generals have issued a statement to the effect that in their opinion nothing but good can result from the proposed trip of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain to South Africa next month. They express the hope that a personal inspection of the country and of affairs there by the Colonial Secretary may prove productive of much additional benefit to the country through the making of further grants.

General Dewet will return to the Cape on Saturday. Generals Botha and Delarey will remain in Europe a short while longer.

Bond Is Out-Matched.

Cape Town, Oct. 30.—The Argus says the members of the Afrikander Bond are afraid of Chamberlain's visit. They know they cannot hoodwink him any more than they could Lord Milner. They will do all they can to make the Colonial Secretary's trip a failure, but Chamberlain is more than a match for them all.

Boers Loyal to Britain.

London, Oct. 31.—The Contemporary Review has published an article by Gen. Botha, in which the writer insists upon the loyalty of the Boer leaders to Great Britain. He expresses regret that the language of some of their Continental appeals has been misinterpreted when scanned microscoptically in England, and reiterates his fervent desire to co-operate with the British Government in smoothing the effects of the war. Gen Botha says it is humiliating to have to appeal to foreigners for funds to aid his countrymen, and that he believes if Englishmen realized the pitiable conditions of their vanquished foes there would be no need to make appeals for help.

In conclusion, the writer urges a general and complete amnesty, which he says would remove the most potent cause of estrangements between Britons and Boers.

Chris. Botha Dead.

Pretoria, Oct. 31.—Commandant Chris Botha died at Kronstad this morning.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It Is Digested.

Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe outdoor manual labour can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutricious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables whose the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People may make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestives; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

To-Day or To-Morrow.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 31.—The last link of the Pacific cable, that from Suva to Norfolk Island, is expected to be completed by to-day or Saturday, and a celebration is to be held by citizens of Victoria in Victoria Theatre to mark the completion of the line, which connects Canada with Australia.

Poisoned Husband's Mind.

London, Oct. 31.—A sensational libel action was begun yesterday, when Lady Violet Beauchamp, daughter of the late Lord and Lady Romer, and the divorced wife of Sir Reginald Beauchamp, was accused by Mrs. Julia Watt of deliberately poisoning the mind of her husband against her.

DOUKS STILL MARCH.

Start on Their Mission After Taking an Apple or Two.

WANT TO GO TO WARMER CLIMATE

Ask For a Special Train to Convey Them to More Salubrious Climate—The Pilgrims March Towards Salt Coats, Where It Is Said the Mob Created a Panic—Mr. Pedley's Advices and Advice.

Yorkton, N. W. T., Oct. 31. — The Doukhobor pilgrims have started on their mission to Christianize the world. Wednesday night they camped in a bluff about a mile and a half south-east of the town and yesterday morning they started on their long walk. When a correspondent reached them they were all congregated around three barrels of apples and each took two or three and then started on his way. They are going in the direction of Salt Coats.

Cowboys and M. P. Baffled.

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—Forced to desist from violent measures by the utter indifference of the horde of Doukhobors surrounding Yorkton, the squad of Mounted Police and cowboys, which, for the past two days, have been endeavoring to compel these enthusiasts to return to their farms, has been drawn off by the authorities.

The troops are now guarding women and children given shelter in the town.

Early yesterday morning a second body of Doukhobors, numbering about 800, left Yorkton, en route to Winnipeg.

Late last night word reached here that the mod had arrived at Salt Coats, some eighteen miles east of Yorkton. The inhabitants of Salt Coats are at their wit's end to know how to deal with them.

Mayor Hopkins of Yorkton is becoming alarmed for the sanitary condition of the town. There are 450 women and children in the immigration sheds, and hundreds in the elevators, the Orange Hall and the warehouses.

Major Strickland, N.W.M.P., passed through Winnipeg yesterday for Yorkton. He will endeavor to turn back the Doukhobors now at Salt Coats and intimated that force would be used provided they refused to return to their homes.

Want to Go to a Warmer Country.

The Doukhobors at Yorkton have asked for a special train to take them to a warmer climate. All their funds have been given to Mr. Crerer, the local immigration agent, who has now upwards of $17,000, made up of their savings and the proceeds of the sale of their stock. One man, who had a good position in Yorkton, drew his monthly salary of $40 and immediately deposited it with Mr. Crerer and refused to work any more, saying he was going to work for Jesus.

Mr. Pedley's Advices.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Mr. Frank Pedley has been advised as follows of the situation at Yorkton: "Situation apparently improving. Women and children taking food freely; hitherto refused. Men started this morning marching towards Salt Coats. Doukhobors not affected using their influence with women to induce them to return home. A few consenting. Everything orderly and respectful."

Mr. Pedley has replied recommending that the greatest care be exercised in handling the Doukhobors.

Wounded His Brother-in-law.

Kingston, Oct. 31.—Melzar Avery, M. P., reports that a young man named Veley of the Township of Olden, had given himself up for having wounded his brother-in-law, a man named Soper, in self-defence. Mrs Soper had left her husband in a United States city and returned home. Soper sought her return, and some stormy scenes occurred at the farmhouse. Veley asserts that he was so threatened that in defence he used the gun, the shots damaging Soper's side and hands.

McHugh's Sentence Confirmed.

Sligo, Ireland, Oct. 31.—The sentence of two months' imprisonment with hard labor, imposed October 16 on Mr. McHugh, M.P., editor of the Sligo Champion, after his conviction on the charge of conspiracy and intimidation, has been affirmed on appeal, with the exception of the hard labor future. Mr. McHugh refused to give an undertaking not to publish boycott matter in his paper.

Maxwell Has Jaundice.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Mr. Beith M.P., of Bowmanville, is here on departmental business. He states that he crossed the Atlantic recently with G. R. Maxwell, M.P., for Vancouver, in the Kastalia, and that the latter was then very ill from jaundice. The voyage occupied thirteen days.

Extends Municipal Trading.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—The municipality of Berlin has decided to devote the new $50,000,000 loan largely to profit-making enterprises, including $15,000,000, for the erection of gas works near Tegel (six miles from Berlin) and for the construction of a wholesale meat market.

Coffee Zone Destroyed.

San Francisco, Oct. 31 —The entire coffee zone of Guatamala has been destroyed by flames and smoke from the volcano of Santa Maria. The eruption threatens the destruction of every living thing within reach of the fumes and fire that pours from the burning mountain

An Obstinate Case of Eczema.

Mr. W. D. Johnson, Tilsonburg, Ont., writes that his father was entirely cured of a long standing and obstinate case of Eczema by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. His leg and foot was a mass of sores that refused to heal and he suffered terribly from the itching and stinging. Though he used a great many remedies and was treated by first-class doctors no permanent relief was obtained until he used Dr. Chase's Ointment.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

Two Great Friends of Humanity, Lady Henry Somerset and General Booth, Visitors in Toronto City.

The St. James', (Montreal) contested election case will be tried Nov. 17, all preliminaries having been adjusted.

Application was made on Thursday for the probate of the will of the late Sir John Bourinot. The estate is valued at $20,000.

Harold, the son of Postmaster Hagbury, Dundalk, swallowed a pin last week. He has done it before and suffers no inconvenience.

The Provincial health authorities were notified on Thursday of a new case of smallpox in a lumber camp near Wahnapitae, Nipissing District.

The report of Mr. Evelyn Cecil, M. P., chairman of the Parliamentary subsidies Committee, on the matter of British ship subsidies, recommends that no subsidies are to be granted except for services rendered.

The 37 canneries outside of the present combine at Vancouver are being amalgamated. The proposition is being taken up in England. It is a foregone conclusion that the two large combines will eventually be one.

An immense carp weighing 14 pounds, was captured in the creek just below the dam at Pierce's mill, by Stephen Parker, of Aylmer, Ont., Steve waded in after him. Before it was landed he imagined it was a whale.

The strike of the members of the orchestras of the Parisian theatres, music halls, etc., began Thursday. Some theatre managers have already yielded. Most of the large music halls and cafes have also yielded.

Lady Henry Somerset was enthusiastically welcomed to Toronto on Friday about 5 o'clock by the W.C.T.U. convention. In the morning officers were elected. Mrs. McKee of Barrie is president, and the secretaries are, corresponding, Mrs. Wright, London, recording, Mrs. Acheson, Goderich.

The oldest Orangeman in Hastings County, if not in Canada, died Thursday morning in the person of Mr. Robert Gibson of Tyendinaga, who passed away in his 96th year. Deceased had been in this country 67 years, and joined the Orange order in Ireland, where he was born in the County of Monaghan in 1805. He served as a volunteer in the rebellion of 1837.

William Giles, 14 years old, son of Patrolman Giles of Windsor, was run over and instantly killed Thursday afternoon. The lad was riding on the seat of the wagon, in which was a heavy load of dirt from an excavation. He was jolted from the seat, and before the driver could stop the rear wheel passed over his head, crushing it to a pulp. Death was instantaneous.

Toronto, through its Mayor and thousands of citizens, headed by the organized Salvation Army of the city, gave a genuine and heartfelt welcome to General Booth, the founder of the Army, on Thursday night. It was a scene the beholders will never forget. He was given the freedom of the city, and in his reply took the Mayor's hand and hoped he would see him beyond the pearly gates in the time to come.

The Noon Hour.

Many a hard working young woman spends her noon hour in an endeavor to get a little rest to carry her through the remaining hours of the day. She is weak and weary, but she cannot give up the occupation which supports her. She must go back to the office and the typewriter, to the store and its duties, with tiresome customers to wait on and exacting employers to please.

For people who are weak and run down there is no medicine so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Many diseases in organs remote from the stomach have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs. When the stomach is "weak" there is a failure to properly digest and assimilate the food which is eaten. Hence the whole body, and each organ of it, suffers from lack of nutrition, so that as a consequence of "weak" stomach, there may be "weak" lungs, "weak" heart, "weak" or torpid liver, "weak" nerves, etc. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the assimilation of the nutriment necessary for the requirements of a healthy body. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of blood which is the vital fluid of the body.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Sick and ailing people especially those suffering from disease in its chronic form are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no similar offer of free medical advice which has behind it an institute of national note such as the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., presided over by Dr. Pierce, its chief consulting physician, with the assistance of nearly a score of skilled specialists.

"The Wonderful Medicine."

"I must again send a few lines to you to let you know how I am getting along since taking the wonderful medicine which cured me two years ago," writes Miss Bertha Ebeler, of 1416 Benton Street, St. Louis, Mo. "I still continue in very good health and think there is not a better medicine on earth than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. We would not be without it in the house, and also the little 'Pellets.'

"I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to many friends, and they all think it will do just what is claimed for it. It is the best thing for nervousness and for a weak, run down condition that any body could want. I was very nervous and weak last summer. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it just made me feel like a new person. It gives a person new life and new blood. I can now work all day long without feeling the least bit tired. In fact I feel like a new person.

"My mother was also cured by it of a very bad state of stomach trouble about three years ago. I thank you a thousand times for what you have done for me and for your kind advice."

Wasted to a Skeleton.

"About six years ago my health failed," writes Miss Alethea E. Green, of Coopstown, Harford Co., Maryland. "I kept getting down lower and lower, until I could scarcely walk across the floor without struggling and gasping for breath. My home physician pronounced it general debility and catarrh of the throat, but although he did all he could, he failed to even relieve me. I tried various remedies, but all of no avail. I soon wasted away to a mere skeleton. Finally I was persuaded to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., which I did immediately. And on receiving his very kind advice I commenced the use of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription.' I took fourteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and nine of the 'Favorite Prescription' and to-day I am a well woman. I do heartily thank God and Dr. Pierce for my good health."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the book in cloth binding, or 31 stamps for the paper covered volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sympathy Appreciated.

The family of the late Enos. D. Evans desire to express their appreciation of the evidences of esteem and respect that were paid to the memory of deceased by the forwarding of numerous floral offerings and sympathetic messages. They desire to especially tender their appreciation of the kindness of the employees of the American Cereal Company in this behalf.

Horse Died.

At noon to-day as Mr. Sam Sullivan, driver for the Central Milling Company was on his way up George street with his team of horses, one of the horses fell dead on the street. The animal had not previously shown any signs of being sick, and Mr. Sullivan cannot give any reason as to why the noble beast should act, or, rather, cease acting, in such a strange manner.

Head Nurse.

Miss Mary Bethune, a graduate of the Belleville Hospital, has been appointed Head Nurse of the New Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. Her duties will begin on Jan. 1st, 1903. The Belleville Intelligencer says of her—"Miss Bethune is to be congratulated on her, no doubt, well-merited advancement, which speaks volumes for the thoroughness and character of the training imparted at the Belleville General Hospital."

Artists' Materials.

Every artist is interested in artists' materials at this season of the year. The Peterborough Bookstore has a complete stock of Winsor & Newton's artist colours. All the standard oil colours we are selling at 8 cents per tube; larger tubes of white for 8 cents; Winsor & Newton's first quality of canvas, 27 inches wide, for 60 cents per yard. No use in using cheap substitutes for the genuine at the same price. Any person buying $1 worth of artist's materials is entitled to the loan of one of our art studies for two weeks to enable them to copy the subject. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

"Haunts of Fish and Game."

OFF FOR EAGLE LAKE.

A Large Party Started for There Last Evening.

A fairly large crowd gathered last evening about 7.45 at the corner of Brock and George streets to wish the Eagle Lake unt Club bon voyage on their long drive to the north country. In all there were three vans, each carrying four canoes and a part of the supplies besides the hunters themselves.

To the uninitated it might have seemed an expedition against the "Mad Mullah," but to all present it was simply a well equipped hunting party en route to the north country. Mr. R. H. Leary had the contract of transporting them and this was a guarantee that the journey would be made as quickly as possible.

About eight o'clock it became impossible to restrain the horses longer, and the word was given to proceed. This party will send in reports of the camp every few days by means of carrier pigeons kindly loaned by Mr. Harold Snowden.

The party was composed as follows: Messrs. M. Tooley, R. Sheehy, G. Evans, G. Gunsolus, R. Fitzgerald, C. Westlake, R. Tivey, H. Mit-Butcher, Parker, A. Pierson; O. Dumble, W. H. White, Dobson, J. Cottingham, Mitchell and others — in all nineteen.

LINDSAY HUNTERS.

The Sinclair-Ellis party left this afternoon on the 2.40 train for Gelert, from which point they go to Lodg Lake, Anson township. They took with them several canoes and over a dozen hounds. The party comprised the following: Messrs. D. Sinclair, Johnston Ellis, T. Sadler, sr., Wm. Sadler, James McLean, F. Bushell, E. H. Hopkins, town; Wm. Thorndyke, Oakwood; A. E. Phillips, L. Laverty, Toronto; Rev. S. J. Shorey, Picton; and Capt. Ball, Nestleton. Rev. G. W. Henderson is expected to join the party next week.

Messrs. C. E. Swainsland, of The Times; C. H. Wickett, and A. H. C. Long, Port Hope; W. S. R. Murch, Montreal; H. S. Crumley, Kingston; H. B. Gadden, A. R. Taylor, C. Hunter, Toronto; and A. W. Dolby, of Peterborough, comprised a party of jolly hunters who passed through to-day to Haliburton, from which point they go to Brady's Lake.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Rugbyists go down to Ottawa to-night.

—Many hunters made their way back north yesterday.

—The Brock street bridge over the creek is being replanked.

—There is no time being lost in the construction work of the new rink.

—Marks' Bros. opened a week's engagement at the opera house last night.

—The executive of the Fortnightly Club will meet at four o'clock this afternoon.

—The Track Association has made a five years' lease for the use of the Driving Park.

—The young men of the George street church are talking of forming a Guild.

—The heavy rain storm yesterday afternoon caused a flood at the corner of George and Hunter streets.

—The Social Committee of Mr. S. R. Armstrong's Bible class, will meet at the parsonage at eight o'clock this evening.

—All those who have not made their first payment to the Hockey Rink Company, are asked to do so at once.

—The public are requested not to attempt to go through Victoria Park. The park has been fenced in by wire for the winter.

—The Visiting Committee of George street Methodist church called at the Protestant Home last night and entertained the inmates.

—A sum of money was picked up yesterday on the street and is at present at the Police Station awaiting the rightful owner.

—The Norwood schools have reopened after being closed for several weeks as a result of an outbreak of diphtheria in the village.

—The steamers Water-Lily and North Star are still busy on the lower waters. Considerable quantities of grain are being brought to town.

—It is expected that the creditors of the private bank of Linton and Company, Lakefield, will receive 50 cents on the dollar.

—Dr. Lee, the eminent metaphysician, in order to introduce his "Revealed Remedies," for all disease incidental to the human body, will give free consultation for one week only. Parlours, National Hotel. 4d

—Mr. R. Hicks, who has just returned from Buffalo, says that it was impossible to buy any hard coal of any description. Every dealer was tried, but none were in a position to take orders, nor would be until after the close of navigation at least.

—The railway gates on Charlotte street are now in working order. Some complain of delay in that they are not able to rush over just before or after a train goes by, but there is the old axiom: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and this can truly be said of this class who, no doubt, would be the first to complain in case of accident.

A UNIQUE SPECIMEN

To be Seen in Window of Ormond & Walsh.

For the past week there has been in the west window of Ormond & Walsh's drug store, a young fawn, dressed and mounted in a very life-like posture. It is the fact that it was apparently but a few days old that makes it anything of a curiosity. Some of the oldest hunters in town say that they have rarely if ever seen so young a fawn.

The whole is the property of Mr. James Scott, of Gooderham, and is valued at rather a high figure.

ANOTHER MEET.

The Peterborough Track Association More Alive Than Ever.

The Peterborough Track Association intends holding both summer and winter meets. They have now announced their intention of holding a meet on January 21st and 22nd on the Peterborough Driving Park. The event promises to be one of unusual interest.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

THEY'RE HERE AT LAST

We beg leave to announce the arrival of our Fall and Winter stock of Misses' and Children's Cloaks. These goods should have been here just six weeks ago, which means a loss of six weeks' selling to us, but it also means a big saving to those who have deferred buying their coats till now, as we are in a position to-day (owing to the delay in their arrival,) of offering them to you at a tremendous reduction from the original prices. This shipment includes One Hundred and Fifty Misses' and Children's Coats, and Twenty-Five Ladies' Coats, all thoroughly up-to-date goods, in every particular. We have made a big claim on the manufacturer for not delivering them on time, and we give you the full benefit of this claim. Come and see what a saving it means to you.

SPECIAL PRICES ON ALL COATS.

We also beg leave to announce that in sympathy with this Misses' and Children's Sale we will also give a special reduction on all other Coats in stock, Ladies' Misses' and Children's, which ought to make this sale doubly interesting to you. If you want a coat for yourself or any of the children, don't fail to take advantage of this opportunity.

HAVE A SWEET TOOTH.

Some of the Boys Discover Means of Gratifying Their Taste.

For some time past Mr. Stevens has been engaged in a small wholesale confectionery business. His trade is principally carried on with the country merchants, and necessitates that he should be away from his home a part of the time, and also that he should carry a fairly large stock of sweets. A quantity of confectionery has been stored in a barn on London street. Lately Mr. Stevens has noticed that his stock was disappearing, and it was found that someone had obtained a key to the barn and had carried off a small quantity of candy. Again, yesterday, entrance was gained, when the barn was open and more taken. It is thought that the theft is the work of small boys, and it will will easily be stopped. The old saying, "Stolen fruit is sweetest," may be applied in this case, and it is to be supposed that the connoisseurs in this case have their own opinions.

FOUND GUILTY.

John Fowley, of Lakefield Fined $10.00 and Costs.

In the County Police Court yesterday afternoon John Fowley, of Lakefield was charged with indecent assault upon a 16-year-old girl.

Prisoner was defended by Mr. A. O. Langley, whilst Mr. R .E. Wood, conducted the prosecution.

Fowley was found guilty of common assault, and was fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to $29.60.

DEATH OF A CONDUCTOR.

Mr. Joseph H. Hewson Passed Away This Morning.

Mr. Joseph H. Hewson, died yesterday morning at the family residence, Albert street, Belleville. The cause of death was a complication of diseases. The deceased was a conductor on the Midland division of the G.T.R., running from Lindsay to Belleville. He had been in the employ of the company since 1885. Until some nine months ago Mr. Hewson resided in Midland. Although a resident of Belleville but a short time he had made many warm friends, as he was a kind-hearted and sociable man. He was in his 45th year. Deceased took an active interest in fraternal societies, and was a member of the Free Masons, I.O.O.F. and A.O.U.W. In religion he was a member of the Anglican Church. Widow and a family of two sons and one daughter survive. The funeral ceremonies on Saturday morning will be under the auspices of Mizpah Lodge, I.O.O.F., and the remains will be taken to Port Hope for interment.

RAILWAY GATES.

The General Superintent Writes Mayor Denne a Letter.

At the last meeting of the Peterborough Town Council the matter of the proper protection of the C. P. R. crossing at George street, was brought up and the matter was referred to the Mayor to take what action be deemed advisable. He wrote to the General Superintendent regarding the matter, and to-day received the following reply:

"T. H. G. Denne, Esq., Mayor,
"Peterborough, Ont.:
"Dear Sir, — Referring to your letter of the 24th, concerning the gates at George street:
"I have given instructions for the crossing to be protected by flag men when trains are using it until such time as an arrangement for gates can receive full consideration.
"Yours truly,
"H. P. TIMMERMAN,
"General Supt."

POLICE COURT.

In the absence of Magistrate Dumble Mr. Adam Hall, J. P., occupied the bench. There was nothing of importance before the court, merely a case of alleged dealing in seasondhand ware without a license. The charge was not confirmed and the court adjourned.

LOCAL LEGAL.

In the report of proceedings at Osgoode Hall on Thursday, appears the following:

"Hughes vs. Metcalfe.—Daniel O'Connell, Peterborough, for plaintiff, moved for order for leave to amend writ of summons by adding M. Elmhirst as a party defendant and for order for issue of concurrent writ of summons for service out of jurisdiction on added defendant. J. H. Spence for defendant J. H. Metcalfe. Order granted. Costs in cause."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Dr. T. P. McCullough has moved to the premises formerly occupied by the late Dr. Clarke, No. 166 Brock street.

Dr. Glover, a returned missionary from China, will hold services in Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday morning and evening. All welcome.

Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, drove through town to-day en route to Cobourg from which place he will bring Mrs. Hull and family, who have been visiting at the lakeside town.

WELL MERITED GROWTH.

Among the publications that came to our exchange desk this week is that little annual messenger, Dodd's Almanac, published by The Dodds Medicine Company, Limited. This is its eighth annual appearance, and its growth in the estimation of the public is attested by the fact that in the eight years of its life its circulation has grown from thousands to many millions, and that it is now printed in many languages and is found in almost every English-speaking home as well as in nearly every quarter of the civilized world.

Dodd's Almanac differs somewhat from other publications of the kind in that it is filled from cover to cover with useful information. The data, weather indications, etc., are prepared by expert scientists and have established a reputation for accuracy, while the antiquated joke that has made the ordinary almanac a byeword is banished from its columns, which are filled instead with simple straightforward talks on the rules of health and interesting accounts of some of the various cures that have been accomplished by Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

And it might be remarked here that people who are prone to overlook such reading simply because the cures are the work of what they call a proprietary medicine, devote much of their time to gorging their minds with less interesting, less wonderful and far less truthful matter. This is simply another exemplification of the general tendency to dodge that which is useful in the way of reading matter.

But aside from its value as a book of reference to the healthy and sick alike, Dodd's Almanac is a wonderful evidence of how an enterprise will flourish when it is founded on merit. As the circulation of Dodd's Almanac has grown from thousands to millions, so has the domain of Dodd's Kidney Pills extended. Eleven years ago they were placed on the market in Toronto, after years spent in the investigation of Kidney Disease and its cure had led to their discovery. They had their own way to make, and they made it. As one man or woman was benefitted by them he or she told another. Their fame has spread till it covers one continent and has made inroads into every civilized country in the world, and the Dodds Medicine Company has grown into one of the largest concerns of its kind, and we might even say, one of the largest influences for good on the American continent. And all this immense structure has been built by the hands of those whom Dodd's Kidney Pills have raised from beds of sickness and suffering. Each one told others. That is the secret of it all.

But it is not the intention here to go into the theories on which the Dodd's remedies work, nor to mention any of the wonderful cures they have accomplished. Those are now almost common knowledge, for, like Dodd's Almanac, Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, have found their way into every community and to almost every home. The intention is to simply welcome Dodd's Almanac for 1903 and to commend it to the consideration of the public generally.

MARRIED.

JEFFREY — FERGUSON. — At the residence of the bride's parents, Peterborough, on October 29, 1902, by Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's church, John Russel Jeffrey, of Cincinnati, Ohio, to Catharine Agnes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ferguson.

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER.

A Pedestrian has Troubles of His Own.

An anonymous letter has been received by the Chief of Police, signed by "One who rides a wheel," complaining of the carelessness of the local bicycle riders after dark. The writer ask if there is not a law compelling the use of lamps after dark. In reply the Chief wishes to say that there is no bylaw compelling the use of lamps after nightfall. Speaking of bicycle lamps, Chief Roszel still has one that awaits an owner.

Robert Watson Killed.

Robert Watson, an Algoma Central passenger conductor, was killed at Michipicoten on Tuesday, being caught between the engine and trucks while shunting. He died three hours after the accident in Helen Mine Hospital. He was 32 years of age, and leaves a wife and a young son. The body was taken to his former home, Havelovk, Ont., for burial.

Hunters' Excursions.

The Grand Trunk announce single first class fare from stations in Canada, Brockville and West, to that sportsman's paradise, the "Highlands of Ontario," which include the Muskoka Lakes District, Lake of Bays, Lake Nipissing, Argyle to Coboconk, Severn to North Bay, Lindsay to Haliburton, on line of Canada Atlantic Railroad, Rainy Lake to Parry Sound, and on C.P.R.—Mattawa to Nepigon. Tickets are good going Oct. 24th to Nov. 1st inclusive, and valid returning until Dec. 15th. Reports from this district promise a record year, and the deer are much more numerous. The fact that there is an open season for moose this year, Nov. 1st to 15th, will induce many hunters to take advantage of these low rates, and enjoy this exhilarating sport. Illustrated booklets entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game" may be obtained from W. Bunton, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, or by addressing J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto. 8d941w

Imports Reach Extraordinary Sum of £67,333,333 in One Year.

A Blue Book on the trade of British India with foreign countries for the year ended March 31 last has been published. It contains a good deal of information tending to confirm the recent remarks of Lord Curzon as to the increasing prosperity of India. The total imports reached the sum of £67,333,333, an increase of £6,000,000 over the preceding year, while the exports amounted to a total of £89,000,000, an increase of £12,000,000.

The increase was general in all classes of merchandise, particularly in cotton goods, and there was a marked revival of activity in the imports of machinery and mill work, metals, mineral oils, railway material, coal, chemicals and dyes, but the shipment of tea declined materially in value by reason of the continued low ruling of prices, while the quantity exported also showed a considerable decline.

With regard to sugar, the report states that best sugar has made very rapid progress in recent years. Six years ago the quantity of cane sugar imported was more than double that of beet, but during last year the imports of beet greatly surpassed those of cane sugar. While the latter declined from all sources of supply except Java, the former increased greatly, the increase from Austria-Hungary being exceptionally large, so large as to induce sugar refiners in India to persuade themselves that the countervailing duties did not cover the whole bounty received by beet sugar.

The statements with regard to the import of iron and steel are particularly interesting. They show that Belgium sends the greater part of both steel and iron bars and sheets. The cause of this is that Belgium supplies iron and steel of inferior quality to that sent from the United Kingdom, but much cheaper and therefore commanding a market which considers cheapness first and quality afterward. In other kinds of iron and steel work the United Kingdom holds its own, the total figures showing that while Belgium sent 143,756 tons to India, the United Kingdom sent 160,146.

Throughout the year the course of exchange for the rupee was perfectly steady, ranging from 1s. 3⅞d. to 1s. 4⅛d. and adds the report, it may be said now that importers and exporters alike have ceased to concern themselves about the course of exchange or to trouble about its fluctuation.—The London Mail.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

Gives advice and answers, without inquiries about investments. Studies underlying causes of market movements. Determines facts governing values of securities. Criticises, analyses and reviews Industrial and Railroad reports. Has complete tables of earnings of properties. Quotes active and inactive stocks and bonds. Records the last sale of bonds and the yield on investment at the price.

One who daily consults the Wall Street Journal is better qualified to invest money safely and profitably and to advise about investments than one who does not do so. Published daily by Dow, Jones & Co., 44 Broad street, New York. The oldest news agency of Wall street. $12 the year, $1 the month. Subscriptions and renewals taken at the Examiner office, Peterborough.

WHY ?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? Why not call at Lindsay & Might's Real Estate and Insurance Office for any of these?

HISTORY OF THE PEN.

Its Evolution From Ages of Antiquity to the Present Day.

In these days of public schools and wide education, it would be difficult to find many people not accustomed to the use of steel pens, yet they are of comparatively recent invention.

The earliest references to pens are probably those in the Bible, and are to be found in Judges v., 14, I. Kings xxi., 8, Job xix., 24, and Isaiah viii., I. But these chiefly refer to the iron styles which cut out the characters in the tablets of limestone or soapstone. Although the first reference in the Bible was made about B.C. 1296, an inscription has been found in Egypt which says that a communication was found written upon goat-skin in the inside of a brick wall about B.C. 3650.

After the styles, pens were made in tubular forms from sheet metal. There is a reference to pen and ink in the third Epistle of John viii., 5, which was written about A.D. 85, and as pens made in brass and silver were used in the Greek and Roman Empires at that time, it is probable that a metallic pen or reed was alluded to.

In the Far East, and perhaps in Egypt, the camel's hair pencil was substituted for metal implements, but the quills of geese and crows were discovered to be more useful than either the reed or brush, and were introduced, it is thought, about A.D. 56. For centuries the quill was used, until the steel pen took its place.

The real identity of the inventor of steel pens has yet to be discovered. There are so many claimants that it is difficult to decide to whom belongs the honor. Amoux, a Frenchman and a mechanic, made metallic pens with side slits in 1750. Joseph Gillott, Sir Josiah Mason, John Mitchell and James Perry, all Englishmen, began to manufacture pens by machinery during the early years of the last century. Patents were granted to Perry in 1830, and to Gillott in 1831.

Comparing the crude specimens that were made then with the finished productions of to-day, one is inclined to think that some praise was due of them. The old scribes, as the writers of law were called, were generally allowed one quill a day, and as the close of the day's work usually found the longest quill worn out, a good deal of time must have have been spent in shaping it with the pen-knife.

Here are two very common quotations about the pen; the first is seldom quoted entire:

Beneath the rule of men entirely great
The pen is mightier than the sword.
—Edward Bulwer Lytton.

As imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation, and a name.
—Shakespeare, in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

A FRIEND IN NEED.

The Remarkable and Happy Result of Timely Advice is the Case of a Hamilton Young Lady.

It is a wise friend indeed, that gives us the right advice in our extremity.

Miss Lizzie Watling, dressmaker, at 177 King William street, Hamilton, Ont., has good reason to be thankful to a friend of hers for some good advice given in an hour of need.

Miss Watling was for several years a great sufferer with Dyspepsia. The pain she had to endure was very trying.

She got at least so that she could eat nothing that would digest without giving her much distress. She says:

"I could not get anything to relieve me of my trouble till a friend of mine advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I will always be grateful to her for this advice for they not only relieved me but in a short time completely cured me.

"This was five years ago and since then I am happy to say that I have not had any stomach trouble whatever, and of course, I am satisfied that my cure was a perfect and permanent one.

"I can and will always heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to anyone who may be suffering from stomach trouble, for I am sure from my own experience that they are the very best medicine for that sort of thing. Indeed, I found them to be the only medicine and they therefore have my heartiest recommendation."

There are medicines that relieve stomach troubles, but Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do more, they not only relieve but absolutely and forever cure the most chronic cases.

Miss Watling's case is ample proof of this statement.

Hers was not a trifling case, but a very serious one. She had suffered for years and had got to the point when everything that entered her stomach brought with it pain and distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured her five years ago and her statement positively proves that she has stayed cured.

Salisbury's Grim Joke.

Lord Salisbury is a good talker, and his conversation is never trivial, although it is often witty. He was chatting with Sir Hiram Maxim, the inventor of the famous gun which bears his name, when the Prince of Wales, our present King, approached them, and asked what they were laughing at. "I was telling Sir Hiram that he had prevented more men from dying of old age than any man that ever lived," said Lord Salisbury grimly.

Bits of Experience.

In milking it is better for each man to have the same cow regularly. Both cow and milker will do better than with frequent changes.

It is well to remember that all crops have two values—their feeding value and their manurial value.

The persistent use of mower and scythe or spud will exterminate plantain.

In my experience with rape I find that pigs are ravenously fond of it.

Look out for chicken cholera. Cleanliness is one of the best preventitives.

THE ATLANTIC'S KEY

BEREHAVEN, THE GIBRALTAR OF IRELAND, STRENGTHENS EMPIRE.

A Great Fortification on the West Coast of the Green Isle, Has Been Just About Completed—At the Mouth of Bantry Bay—Batteries on Bere Island Very Ingeniously Constructed.

After seven years' work the defences at Berehaven are almost complete.

Berehaven is in the mouth of Bantry Bay, and Bantry Bay has the only landing place for troops in 200 miles of iron-bound creeks between Shannon Mouth and Queenstown.

This channel, all the way up to Bantry and Glengariff, where the piers and beaches are, is tormented by Atlantic storms. In the worst of these the warships of the whole world might ride commodiously at anchor behind Bere Island.

The island was treeless and rocky, but fir and pine trees planted by the Royal Engineers' Department will make the island some day picturesque. A spacious broken hollow, full of bog, has been drained out, levelled up with tippings and laid with loam and green turf as a recreation ground for the garrison and the crews of visiting ships. Barracks and mess-rooms for all the troops that will be needed have been almost finished.

From each end of Bere Island two fine batteries look out across the bay. They have the best modern armament of any island batteries in the kingdom.

An approaching enemy would first be hampered by the western batteries, one above the other—three 6-in. guns and three 4.7's. Occasional big shells would greet the enemy, too, from the big 9.2 guns of the eastern batteries. But the others defend the western entrance to the harbor, which, moreover, is to narrow that it could easily be boomed.

The eastern batteries, commanding the bay where its channel contracts a little, would give a good account of any ships trying to run a gauntlet and get round the island. Besides the two guns of greatest calibre, for which five miles is hardly more than a point-blank range, there are here four 6-inch guns in pairs. Hidden quick-firing batteries along the shore keep watch for torpedo boats.

The big guns are so protected in front that only a long shot, dropping by extraordinary luck into the very magazine, could damage them. Shells an inch too high, or shells that struck the sloping concrete of their breast-works, would fly across the harbot or burst in the air harmlessly.

It is amazing to see the strength and perfection of their great casemated magazines, with ample space for the gunners to work and to live. Major Speranza, who has just made an end of his labors there, may very well be satisfied.

Finally there is a rifle range, with 12 targets, 800 to 2,000 yards, where the men of the Channel Squadron will do their practice; and there is plenty of ground for skirmishing work.

Its value to the Empire will be mainly that of a great coaling station, where half a million tons of coal may be stored. This depot, so much nearer to North America than any other, will so increase the fighting range of the British navy that its cruisers and destroyers should be able to outrun those of any European power attacking our trans-Atlantic trade. Berehaven may then be called the key of the Atlantic, says The London Daily Mail.

SIR JOHN BOURINOT.

A Brilliant Servant of Canada Who Recently Crossed the Bar.

Sir John Bourinot has died, if not full of years, at least full of honors, and Canada has lost a brilliant servant. Anyone who looked at Sir John last session, who noted the quick, eager manner, the alertness, the appetite for work, and the fine mental poise he displayed when stirring questions of procedure arose, would have said, "He has ten years of good work in him yet." But, even at that time Sir John was struggling with the pangs of mortal disease, and only his strong will bore him up. The venerable Clerk of the House of Commons was a delightful man to his friends, but somewhat aloofish with mere acquaintances. There never was a public character in Canada with whom, for instance, the Ottawa correspondent was so little in touch. Sir John was a newspaper man once himself, and a splendid one at that; but when he became an official he set those old associations aside, fearing, perhaps, that old instincts might tempt him to favor old friends who were looking for a story. Sir John was no "leaker"; he was not recognized as a repository of news; he was courteous, but he never let out anything. He was official discretion to the limit—discretion, with a little hauteur thrown in. He was inclined to stand on his dignity, and one tyro in the press gallery has occasion to remember his withering glance when he called him "Mr. Bourinot" instead of "Sir John" after the cable had announced his K. C.B.

It does not transpire in his biography that Sir John was a lawyer, though he must have read law to become such an eminent procedurist. Perhaps he was a better and cleverer authority on that account, because he was not smothered in petty technicalities. Common sense and a searching logic always had room to operate. He was the best clerk the House of Commons ever had—a rock of calm and repose, a Daniel come to judgment. He was a literary man, too, not a frivolous voyager in belles lettres, but a conscientious, not to say profound, student of Canadian history and institutions. He wrote, 'tis true, as a Canadian and a Britisher. He was not without bias. He had not the imperial, dispassionate temperament of the great historian, but he wrote luminously, and we are willing to take his opinions with his erudition. It was, no doubt, his newspaper training that directed Sir John's literary endeavors into practical channels. He probably drew more income from literature than any other Canadian who has wielded the pen.

With Sir John goes the last monocle in the House of Commons. He was a gentleman of the old school—precise in his dress, punctilious in manner, and never quite without his official air. Imagination recalls the shining bald head—on which the press gallery looked down with awe—the eagle nose, the steely blue eye, the monocle, the silk gown, and a certain indefinable halo of majesty, as if the might of Canada was compact in his own person. Outside his achievements as a parliamentarian it will be hard to find a man of the same presence, and presence goes a long way in these matters. La Plante is his natural successor, but La Plante is not Bourinot by two inches and a whole library.—H.F.G., in The Star.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Britain Viewed as a Farm.

Britain may be viewed as one farm extending from county to county, interrupted by towns, it is true, but surrounding them like the ocean surrounds an archipelago of islands. Great Britain possesses a total area of 32,437,889 acres of cultivated land, of which 7,325,408 acres are under corn, the rest being in permanent pasture, temporary pasture, root crops, and so on. It includes over 51,000 acres of hops, 73,000 acres of fruit, and 308,000 acres of bare fallow. The capital employed is enormous, and be roughly estimated at £227,000,000, while the amount paid in wages has been estimated at £30,000,000 per annum. There are at least 1,000,000 men, women and boys employed in agricultural pursuits in Great Britain, who not only cultivate the ground, but attend to 1,500,000 horses, 6,805,000 cattle, 26,500,000 sheep, and 2,381,000 pigs besides countless poultry.

Science and Long Life.

It is asserted that scientific men are apt to live long, and that mental industry is a positive aid to attaing a healthy old age. The belief receives some support, says Modern Society, by the fact that four of the men recently seated at the council table of the London Iron and Steel Institute were over eighty.

Sir Lowthian Bell is in his eighty-seventh year, and still carries his extraordinary experience of British iron and coal as lightly as other men carry the gardenia in their buttonhole. Sir Bernard Samuelson is eighty-two. Time has left deeper marks on his figure and visage, it is true, but he is still hale and hearty. Sir John Alleyne stands as square and sturdy to-day as he did when at the head of the great Midland iron foundries which rolled the girders for all our earlier ironclads and ocean liners and cast the huge iron skeleton of the St. Pancras Railway Station. The fourth octogenarian is an American, Mr. John Fritz of Bethlehem, United States. He openly preaches the doctrine that applied science gives men healthy activity of brain and supplies that salt and savor to life which we all need to render our life worth living.

Liver Complaint, Biliousness

And Sick Headaches go Hand in Hand and are Cured by the Direct Action of

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

"Biliousness" is the one word used by most people to describe their trouble when the liver gets out of order, leaves bile in the blood, upsets the digestive system and brings on sick headaches and irritable temper, stomach troubles and irregularities of the bowels.

People who suffer much from biliousness become pale and yellow in complexion, irritable and morose in disposition, and are liable to find themselves among the chronic grumblers, to whom nothing seems to go right.

The trouble begins with the liver becoming torpid and sluggish in action, and disappears when the liver is set right. Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills cure biliousness promptly, because of their direct action on the liver. They thoroughly remove all the symptoms, because of their combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. W. Mein, 34 Louis street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a stone mason, states:

"For years I have been troubled with weak back, and have had severe shooting pains in the small of of the back and over the kidneys. I also suffered considerably from indigestion, headaches and dizzy spells. Since using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I am pleased to say that all this is changed. My digestion is good, the headache is gone, and I have not been troubled at all with pains in my back of late."

After all it pays to stand by the tried and proven medicines instead of running after every new-fangled treatment that is brought out. Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are considered well nigh indispensable in thousands of the best homes. They stand supreme as a reliable family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

TO HELP STRANGERS

LATEST IDEA OF PROGRESSIVE NEW ZEALAND GOVERNMENT.

Will Establish a Complete Tourist Agency Department With Offices Throughout the Country—Dark Rooms For Camera Fiends, as Well as Desks and Paper For Folks From Abroad to Write "Home" With.

Once more the Government of New Zealand is demonstrating the fact that it is peculiarly alive to the main chance, but this time the object is to assist strangers and tourists in the country rather than the New Zealanders themselves.

Under the tutelage of T. E. Donne, secretary of the department of commerce and industries, the Government is actively employed in the establishment of a complete tourist agency department, with offices throughout the country. Here travelers can make themselves at home, can write letters, cable to the outside world, receive their mail, leave packages and even be provided with developing rooms for changing and working on photographic plates a boon that will be greatly appreciated in these days by camera laden tourists.

Of course it is certain that this scheme of the Government will indirectly redound to the benefit of the people of the country, for New Zealand will be made more attractive to the tourists, who will make longer visits than under the ordinary conditions of travel and will therefore leave more money in the country. The result will also be that more people will be attracted to the colony than in the past, and the probability is that a number of them will remain there, thus adding to the wealth and population. The feeling is that too little is known in the outer world of the wonders of the country, and this plan is undertaken in the hope that it will attract "all the world and his wife" to visit New Zealand and see for themselves the progress that the colony is making.

New Zealand's governmental regulations make things easy for the people. Taxes can be paid in any postoffice, and life insurance and accident premiums are payable at the same place. By act of Parliament the postmaster or postmistress can marry couples. Postal savings banks are also a popular and important feature of the system. It is said that to-day there are no less than 212,346 separate depositors in these postal banks out of a population of 883,000 people, with a total of $32,000,000 on deposit. These deposits all receive interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

Government ownership of railways, telephones and telegraphs is an established fact in New Zealand. The Government has also instituted, owns and operates life and accident insurance companies and labor bureaus. Here strikes are unknown, labor grievances all being passed on by an arbitration court composed of the judges of the Supreme Court, one representative of the manufacturers and one representative of the organized labor interests. The leading features of the arbitration law of New Zealand are well worth noting as showing what can be accomplished by simple legal procedure.

The law applies only to industries in which there are trades unions. It does not prevent private conciliation or arbitration. Conciliation is exhausted by the state before it resorts to arbitration. If conciliation is unsuccessful, the disputants must arbitrate. Disobedience of the decision my be punished or not, at the discretion of the court.

The compulsion of the law is threefold—compulsory publicity, compulsory reference to a disinterested arbiter, provided the disputants will not arbitrate voluntarily, and compulsory obedience to the decision. It does not forbid nor prevent disputes, but makes the antagonists fight their battles in court according to a legal code instead of the ordinary "rules of war." There is no "making men work by law" and no "fixing wages by law." The law says only that if they work it must be without strikes or lockouts and that if they cannot agree as to wages the decision must be left to an impartial tribunal.

Another matter of great economic interest is the question of ownership of land. The New Zealand Government has no love for large land holders and is doing all it can to have the country divided up into small farms. They especially dislike absentee landlords, and if the owner of property lives outside of the country he has to pay 20 per cent. more taxes than resident owners. Large land holders are deemed a social pest, and everything is done to force them to sell out and leave the country. On the other hand, small farmers come in for tender cultivation, and every means is employed to make their life worth living.

The farmer need only bring his poultry to the Government depots, and there it will be plucked, dressed, frozen and shipped to England by the federal authorities, who act as agents for the small farmer and sell his produce at a commission of 4 cents per pound. The Government lends the small farmer money and helps him to get along when troubles arise. The man whose income is less than $1,500 escapes scot free, paying no taxes. The farmer whose farm is worth only $2,500 is also exempt from taxation. The man who takes a poor piece of property and improves it pays taxes only on what it was worth when he bought it. The rich man, on the other hand, has to pay taxes on his land, on his income, on everything.

The public holdings in New Zealand are very large, and the Government disposes of them to settlers on very easy terms and in varying methods. There is one way by which the Government employs those who are out of work—to clear the lands of timber and rock and sow them in grass. Then they are divided into small farms and are allotted to settlers at a perpetual rental large enough to cover the cost of clearing and at the same time give a fair interest on the value of the land. The size of such holdings is about 100 acres each.

Another interesting feature of the conduct of affairs in New Zealand is that there are no poorhouses, the aged being pensioned by the Government after their sixty-fifth year. The law applies to old women as well as to old men. If a man's income at the age of sixty-five is not more than $170 a year, he is given an annual present of $90, and if the income of his wife added to his does not exceed $340 the couple receive $180 yearly. If the man's income is a little more than $170, he is given enough to make it total $300. The law has been in effect since 1898 and requires to support it a tax of more than a dollar a year for every inhabitant of New Zealand.

The colonization of the islands of New Zealand dates from the end of the year 1842, and in spite of the fact that the Government possessed no territory in the country on which they might settle few communities can point to a record of such substantial progress. This is the more remarkable owing to the fact that the country has been devastated by two native wars, each of which retarded settlement for years, besides loading the young country with a war debt heavy indeed in proportion to its population.

Since the war of 1863 was finally put an end to in 1868, there has been no trouble of an organized character with the Maoris, who may now be regarded in the light of peaceable and often valuable citizens, with full representation in the colonial representative house of Parliament and with several of their principal chiefs sitting in the Council or Senate of the colony.

The European population of New Zealand numbers fully 750,000, while, according to the last census, there were nearly 45,000 natives, inclusive of nearly 3,000 half castes. The results have so far been, on the whole, remarkably successful, and New Zealand may be looked upon as one of the most progressive of countries and of all the Australasian colonies that in which the wealth is most equally divided among all classes.

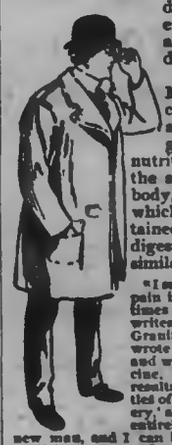
A Total Eclipse.

Any man can produce a total eclipse of the sun, so far as he himself is concerned, by holding a dollar close to his eye. The total eclipse of health is often produced in much the same way, by letting the dollar shut out from view all other things and interests.

A great many people pay for wealth with health and admit at last that they have made a poor bargain. In the chase of the dollar people are too eager to take time to eat regularly or choose proper food, the stomach becomes disordered or diseased, the food eaten ceases to nourish, and physical breakdown comes.



Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and so enables the strengthening of the body, in the only way by which strength can be obtained, by food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured, and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

Education and Leadership.

A few weeks ago Lord Selborne illuminated one of his speeches by saying that leaders were born and not made, and that character counted for more than intellectual attainments in the Navy. This is perfectly true, nevertheless promotion is based on the assumption that the reverse is the case. It is undeniable that French and German officers possess more general knowledge than the British officer, and a sounder knowledge of their profession. It is, however, he who leaves them far behind as a leader of men. It was character that made England what she is, and it is by character that her position will be maintained. The man who lacks the true quality of leadership is the man who despises knowledge, not the man who possesses it. We shall have arrived at a noble conception of life again when we pay homage to both. A few years ago we paid homage to neither; hence the diplomatic and military humiliations in South Africa.—Broad Arrow.

A Sure Cure for Constipation.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentry, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

Game Not Worth the Candle.

The intimation that Sir Thomas Lipton has decided to build a new challenger for the America Cup will be received by the general public somewhat listlessly. Doggedness is an excellent quality, no doubt, but there is a higher wisdom in recognizing and acknowledging when one has had enough. When a small boy has twice been soundly pommelled by a big boy, and is inclined to insist upon standing up to him for a third thrashing, the spectators are quite entitled to interfere. That the New York Yacht Club is the big boy in this contest the history of the cup has clearly demonstrated; and the defenders have not only the advantage in the matter of building racing yachts, but in the new Deed of Gift, which severely handicaps the challenger. If the defenders were not more keenly interested in retaining the Cup than in using it for the encouragement of yacht racing, Sir Thomas Lipton or any one else with plenty of dollars to burn, might still be advised to go in and win. But the contest, under present conditions, is altogether too unequal. No doubt the Clyde will turn out a faster boat than Shamrock II., and test her more thoroughly, and she may come a little nearer winning the cup. Meanwhile the defenders will put a faster Columbia into the water, or two, if necessary, and take their pick; and a year hence Sir Thomas Lipton will be the owner of three Shamrock's, for which there is no racing class, and which are therefore worth no more than their break-up value. Under present conditions the game of Cup Challenging seems hardly worth the candle.—Glasgow Herald.

Both of the Same Mind.

An extremely stout, good-tempered English woman once contrived to wedge herself into a gallery seat at the Adelphi Theatre that would have accommodated a person of ordinary size, to the unconcealed annoyance of a smartly dressed youth next to her. She began to peel an orange, and the youth, with a gesture of complaint, removed his silk hat fussily to a safer position.

"I suppose," said the good-tempered woman, "that you'd rather have had a gentleman sitting by the side of you, sir, wouldn't you?"

The youth replied, snappishly, in the affirmative.

"Ah!" said the woman, thoughtfully, "so would I!"

Forbes' Story of the Commune.

News-gathering, not fighting, is the trade of the war correspondent. But it is news at any personal cost, and a fine unpremeditated heroism often goes with the gathering of it.

One morning after the siege of Paris, when the city was believed in London to be still in the hands of the Communists, Sir John Robinson, manager of The Daily News of London, reached his office to find the late Archibald Forbes lying on the floor asleep, his head on a post-office directory, while the printers were hard at work on his manuscript, the story of "Paris in Flames," a most vivid description of the last days of the Commune.

"Forbes had telegraphed from Dover announcing his coming," said Sir John Robinson, at the recent unveiling, in St. Paul's Cathedral of a memorial to the famous war correspondent, "the printers had been waiting, and thus the country heard of those terrible days for the first time.

"London was ablaze with excitement. Fouverie Street was impassable and through the newsboys shrieking for copies, and in Parliament Mr. Gladstone was questioned that afternoon and could only say he hoped the story was exaggerated.

"When Forbes wakened from his slumber amid all this turmoil, what a spectacle he was! His face was black with powder, his eyes red and inflamed, his clothes matted with clay and dust; he was a dreadful picture. He had been compelled to assist the Communists in defending a triangular space upon which three detachments of the Versailles troops were firing, and had actually taught the citizens how to build a barricade."

By aid of dummy despatches, addressed to Lord Granville and the Queen, Forbes escaped from this threatening triangle and wrote all the way to London, being the solitary passenger on the mail boat across the Channel.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 31st, 10.00 a.m.—Outlook is for a steady market. Bearish sentiment is less pronounced in many quarters, owing to disposition to regard speculative position of the market so much improved by the extensive liquidation of the past three weeks, and belief that a large short interest exists. Then again, stocks have been passing from weak into strong hands for some time, and money conditions are much improved and the election scare is largely one of sentiment and conjecture. We do not look for much of a market to-day, but rather believe it will be a repetition of yesterday's narrow speculation and unimportant fluctuations.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 31st, 10.00 a.m.—Grain—Liverpool opening, wheat unchanged. Corn 1-8 higher; wheat 1-4 higher. Corn 1-4 higher than yesterday. Car lots, wheat 184, corn 180, oats 220. Cotton—Liverpool spot prices easier, mid. 464, six points down. Sales 7,000. Rects., 5,000. Futures opened quiet and irregular. Corn was weak, and lower early on fine weather for movement and renewed liquidation for long December and May through commission houses. Later a good demand developed for December.

M. & M.

Railway earnings.—C. P. R. net for September, is $1,410,455. Increase is $44,600. G. & W. September net decrease is $193,237. U. P. September net increase is $686,935 for three months. The New York sub-treasury has lost $675,000 to the banks since last Friday. Understood that St. Paul will supplement dividends by issue of occasional rights to stock-holders.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 31st, 10.30 a.m.—Minn., 547, Duluth 312, total 859. Last week was 706. Last year 600. Wheat opens steady, about unchanged. Trade light so far with little commission house business. Cables were higher, but offset by larger receipts and clear weather. Strength in corn helping wheat. Corn higher with rains in corn belt and higher cables.

DENISON.

New York, Oct. 31st, 11.00 a.m.—A sudden demand for call money appeared, and the rate is now six per cent. This is not surprising, as loans carried over from to-day till Monday and this last day of the month, and further provision being made for taking care of Nov. 1st payments, and also payments on B. I. new stock. A still further advance to eight to ten per cent. is not unlikely, and liquidation in L. & N. and some profit trading by traders is taking the edge off the markets. Weakness in L. & N. due to liquidation. It is pointed out, with no prospect of increase in dividend rate from five per cent., that it is too high to carry. Some recent buyers reported to be selling out the stock and buying M.O.P., B. & O., U. P., and U.C.V.

M. & M.

Chicago, Oct. 31st, 11.45 a.m.—Wheat close 1-4 higher, corn 5-8 higher. Call money now 5 1-2 per cent. Foreign exchange easier at about five points lower. Demand sterling 486 3-4. Keene brokers credited with again being fairly good buyers of stocks. It is reported that very much better news result of elections in this state have been received from republican headquarters and this has influenced quite a number who had begun to bet on Colter to hedge out this a.m.

M. & M.

It looks to me as if Democrats would carry New York state, but that would have no effect on the market. As M. & M. advised yesterday, the market is already to advance, but I think it is a sale at present. It is good to trade on either side.

PERKINS.

The advance in Soo. common this week accounted for by current gossip as due to Montreal pools, and it was thought to be intended to afford a cover for selling C. P. R., which was weak. The Canadian Pacific pool is said to have been dissolved, and some of the members still have a considerable amount of stock on their hands.

WORLD.

New York, Oct. 31st, 2.00 p.m.—Grain receipts, 1,177,000; last year 1,182,500. Corn 283,500, last year 292,000.

Chicago, Oct. 31st.—The better feeling is being stimulated by the more encouraging reports from Republican headquarters. Gates contingent has been the largest buyers of stocks the last hour, but the covering of shorts is a feature of the bank statement, hard to forecast, owing to uncertainty of the loan account. The week's movement of currency shows very little change in the cash item.

M. & M.

New, York, Oct. 30.—Wall street is proverbially notorious for its short memory, and now that the coal strike is a thing of the past, the election soon to be out of the way; with the substantial assistance the secretary of the treasury has recently afforded, the time should be again near when a resumption of a sound and healthy appreciation in security values, should occur. This is based upon the undoubted solid conditions of all lines of trade and industry in the U.S. Railroad earnings continue to pile up increases, and the only immediate problem to be solved grows out of the clearly impending congestion of freight traffic, resulting from the enormous movement of grain and cotton, coal and general merchandise, in all directions. The grain markets have reflected the recent reports of the unusual lateness of the staple European crops, and the availability of an ample fuel supply will, on the one hand, tend to increase our imports of pool products, and on the other hand decrease the volume of our imports of iron and steel from Europe. The buying of St. Paul during the past lively market episode, was of the very best character. The time is coming when it will command as high a price as does northwest common. Its securities are becoming greater European favourites every day. The London Statist Notes that the prices of St. Paul bonds are very high, as most of them mature within a comparatively short period, which will cause a further appreciable reduction in fixed charges by conversion of high interest into low interest bonds. The St. Paul annual report showed that the company, at the end of June last, had a credit balance to its income account of $20,682,000, of which $15,560,000 was in cash, besides $4,680,000 in deposit with the various banks and trust companies, on account of renewal and improvement funds. This certainly is a most gratifying and magnificent statement, illustrating the ultra conservatism of the St. Paaul management, and plainly demonstrates what is yet ahead for the shareholders of that company. No wonder the Rockefellers and their associated allied interests continue to be such greedy purchasers of St. Paul stock. No wonder prominent Chicago capitalists decline to sell their immense holdings to these interests at prices materially above the highest ever recorded in the past for that stock.

Summary.—What little market there was to-day leaned towards higher prices after an opening at about last night's closing prices, some hesitancy developed. The room traders finding that stocks were not freely offered, started into buy, and prices advanced. After two o'clock St. Paul rose rapidly from 187 1-2 to 189 3-4, from which point it receded slowly. Its action somewhat stimulated balance of the list. Sluggish of movement and extreme market inertia continues to be the feature of trading. The time is now drawing near when market activity will be much more pronounced; then there will be material increased activity and range of fluctuations. Money closed 5 per cent. Total sales 384,000.

Montreal, Oct. 30. — Dr. Clifford Jack and Mr. McClure are pretty busy communicating with the Senior Rugby Football Clubs, which have men that would be capable of representing them on the All-Canadian team that is to visit England later on in the season.

A number of these clubs have not yet replied to the first circular sent out and there will be another circular sent to remind them that if they wish to be represented they will have to send in the names of the players at once.

Montreal has selected its men. As a matter of course, Dr. Jack will go, and besides him Montreal last night selected "Jimmy" Craig and Captain Ogilvie.

If Craig goes it will be his final farewell to football, and Ogilvie will be a strong man, because he has played the game in England.

His brow was wrinkled in a frown;
His cheek was dented, rough and brown;
His countenance was grum;
His hair—a streaming aureole,
Seemed, as he hurried to the goal,
A mad chrysanthemum.

His nose was in a rubber shield
That dug great furrows in the field
And yielded not an inch.
His arms were massive in their strength
And terrifying in their length,
And awful in their clinch.

His feet, whene'er he got the ball,
Like automobiles dashed, and all
Were mangled in his path.
And, oh, he howled in such a way
No Piute Indian would essay
Such medium of wrath.

And all the ladies begged a curl,
And shuddered at the way he'd furl
The tackle on his boot,
There in the grandstand, they exclaimed
The while he wrecked and slammed and maimed,
"How lovely I ain't he cute?"

BASKET-BALL.

To-morrow evening at 8 o'clock there will be a basket ball match at the Y.M.C.A. between the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and the Canadian General Electric Company. The Ackerman Harness Manufacturing Company have defeated the Ironmongers, and are now waiting for a battle with the Electricians, if they should win to-morrow evening. The public are invited to attend this game.

At nine o'clock there will be a basketball league organization consisting of senior teams. Teams are asked to send their representatives as a schedule will be drawn and officers elected for the fall term. Already six teams have signified their intention of entering the league, which should make some keen contests for the Saturday night games.

Eastern League magnates had a quiet chat at the Minor League meeting and found prospects of the brightest. Billy Murray began business for Jersey City by representing the club in that city at the meeting.

HOCKEY.

Arrangements are pending by which the Beavers of Ottawa, Perth and Smith's Falls will form an eastern division in the Ontario Hockey Association. The easterners will likely enter the intermediate series and the winners will make it lively for the club that wins out in the west.

LACROSSE.

Secretary E. H. Brown of the M. A.A.A., has received letters from Capt. Moore and Colonel [illegible] from South Africa, ask[illegible] lacrosse sticks and balls, as it is their intention to introduce the game out there.

PING-PONG.

("The Ping Pong Association has revised the rules for 1902-3," — London Cable.)

Ping Pong is a game played in a similar way to lawn tennis if you have a lawn and take your grass in nights; otherwise it is different, the game being served on a dining table.

A dining table, about seven to nine feet long, with players about five to six feet long, both loaded, is the best way to play the game.

Height of the net can be varied from five inches to eight feet. If the dining table has on a forty-centre "French" tid. hote — including wine, the net should be barbed wire and the server should wear a catcher's mask. Of course, higher the net and closer the meshes the more difficult the return of baked potatoes or canned summer squash can be made.

The game is for two players; the conversation and advice is for anybody and everybody. Any racket may be used, but this makes the most racket.

The first ball served must be a high ball and must drop onto the table-top into a tall glass filled with ice, and is then in play. It requires some little practice before the proper strength is attained with which to hit the ball several times and yet keep the ball and player above the table.

The player who delivers first or serves the ball should be called the server or setter-up, and the other the striker-out or I'll-have-the-same.

If the ball drops into the soup it is called "a fault;" if it is chicken soup it is "fowl."

When the ball touches the net in passing over and drops in the salad the play is called "a let"—short for lettuce—but when it goes short of the net, but in the air, and connects with a Newburg the player is called "a lob," i.e.: short lobster.

If the ball in play strikes any object it counts against the striker. If it wings the little two-year-old-angel child it's a bad bawl and counts the striker out of the house; if it hits twins it is called "a double."

The server wins a stroke if the striker-out fails to return any of the silver forks and cut glass butter plates; the server can give the stroke between the eyes or on the solar plexus.

The method of scoring shall be by points; if mother objects to pointing, chalk it on the wall-paper.

Any player who sees two or more balls on the table at one time shall ring for the water wagon and leave his telephone number—"Hold the line, Minnie—in number two, please!"

If both players have won three strokes they call "duce;" the player who loses next stroke calls "darn" or worse, and so on; excepting, any player hit three times in one consecutive eye may call "fudge." "Heavens" and "mercy me" are not allowed.

Warming the battledores slightly before the fire will improve their elasticity; never do it after the fire.

And that's all we know about Ping Pong.

INSPECTOR OF IMMIGRANTS.

Dr. Ellis of St. John, N.B., Has Been Appointed—The Cabinet Vacancy.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—In view of the large increase in immigration, the Minister of the Interior has arranged for the appointment of Dr. Leonard Ellis, of St. John, N.B., as medical officer to be attached to the immigration branch of the Department of the Interior, with special authority to examine into the health and circumstances of immigrants from the British Isles and European countries arriving at the various seaports, including the examination of any immigrants who may be rejected by the American commissioners at Canadian seaport towns. Mr. Sifton intends to restrict immigration to the extent of preventing pauper immigrants landing in Canada or those who may be afflicted with dangerous diseases. The provisions at Halifax, St. John and Quebec for examining immigrants are now reasonably complete, and the appointment of a medical officer will certainly be a protection against undesirable persons landing on our shores. Under the act passed at the last session of Parliament the Government has full authority to deport diseased immigrants and to prevent their landing in Canada.

The Cabinet Vacancy.

Inquiry in official circles yesterday elicited the statement that there will be nothing to announce with respect to the Cabinet vacancy for several days yet. Hon. James Sutherland, Minister of Marine, will continue to act as Minister of Public Works for the present. A Council meeting was held yesterday afternoon, at which an accumulation of arrears was cleared off.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

First Message to King Edward VII. Over All-British Line.

A MESSAGE FROM AUSTRALIA.

Many Messages of Congratulation Exchanged—Sir William Mulock Hopes For Further State-Owned Cables Within the Empire—The "Cable Ring"—Premier Seddon to Sir Sandford Fleming.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—"The connection between the Canadian and Australian ends of Pacific cable was completed this morning, and messages were exchanged between the two countries." This was the statement by Sir Sandford Fleming yesterday morning. He added: "The cable, of course, will be in the hands of the contractors for thirty days."

Sir Sandford Fleming announced that he had received the following cablegram from Premier Seddon of New Zealand:

"Delighted to congratulate you on completion of great work, Pacific cable, thus rewarding your interest and labor, forging further link to advantage of our Empire. (Signed.) Seddon."

Congratulatory Messages.

The completion of the Pacific cable has been the occasion of many congratulatory messages. The Premier last evening cabled the Chairman of the Pacific Cable Board as follows:—"Walpole, London: Accept hearty congratulations upon successful completion of Pacific cable. (Signed.) Laurier."

The following cablegrams in recognition of the completion of the cable were sent yesterday by Sir William Mulock, to whose energetic efforts on behalf of Canada the successful completion of the enterprise is largely due:—

"Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, London: Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-General of Canada, congratulates the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, on completion of the Pacific cable, a work which will afford a new and important means of communication between all parts of the British Empire, and hopes that this realization of inter-Imperial policy may still further strengthen the bonds which already unite so closely the political and commercial interests of the mother country and her dominions beyond the seas, and that the result of the undertaking may lead to an extension of the system of State-owned cables within the Empire. (Signed.) William Mulock."

"Sir Edmund Barton, Premier of Australia, Melbourne: Canada's greeting to Australia on completion of Pacific cable, a work of far-reaching consequence. May it prove an effective instrument for promoting inter-Imperial trade and for solidifying the unity of the Empire. (Signed.) William Mulock."

"The Right Hon. Richard J. Seddon, Premier of New Zealand, Wellington: Congratulations from Canada to New Zealand on completion of Pacific cable. May it be the means of greatly increasing trade between the self-governing colonies and promoting the unity of the world-Empire to which we belong. (Signed.) William Mulock."

The "Cable Ring."

Regarding the report that the "cable ring" has managed in co-operation with certain of the Australian Government to place the Pacific cable in a disadvantageous position in competing for Australian business, and that the Pacific Cable Company will ultimately be absorbed by the Eastern Extension Company, Sir Sandford Fleming said last night:—"There is an element of truth in it. That is what is being aimed at, and it has to be guarded against in every possible way. I am quite sure that the Eastern Extension Company's desire is to make the Pacific cable so unproductive that the Governments interested will be induced to hand it over to them. This is their game, and they must not be allowed to have their own way."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Congratulated.

The Premier received the following message last night from Mayor Charles Hayward of Victoria: "We extend congratulations on the part that Canada has played in the great work now accomplished for civilization and the Empire. (Signed.) Chas. Hayward, Mayor."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied as follows: "On behalf of the Government I thank you for congratulations. The happy completion of the Pacific cable should be hailed with satisfaction throughout the Empire. (Signed.) Wilfrid Laurier."

The Mayor's telegram was sent from the Victoria Theatre," where a celebration was in progress in honor of the completion of the cable.

Celebration at Victoria.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 31.—Victoria is jubilating to-night over the completion of the Pacific cable. As soon as the tidings came in that the line was practically open Mayor Hayward issued invitations to a large number of prominent public men to meet him in the theatre, where an impromptu public meeting was called to celebrate the event. Mayor Hayward presided, and those present included Lieut.-Governor Joly, Admiral Bickford, members of the Local Government and prominent public men. Manager Christie of the local telegraph office was on the platform, with telegraph instruments, and despatched a large number of congratulatory messages from the meeting to the King, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Edmund Parton, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and Premier Seddon.

Interest in the Work.

A long resolution was adopted, expressing the gratification of the citizens of Victoria on the completion of the line, the terminus of which is at Bamfield Creek, not far from Victoria. A large map with the route marked on in red was displayed on the platform, and speeches expressing gratification at the achievement were made by a number of public men.

King Hears It First.

London, Nov. 1.—The Pacific Cable Board is rejoicing over the news received yesterday morning that the last link in the cable was completed at Suvam Fiji, at 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon. Congratulatory messages are now passing between the British; Canadian and Australian Governments. The King received a message at Buckingham Palace yesterday from the crew of the cable ship Anglia.

Boers For Somaliland.

Johannesburg, Oct. 31.—A number of former Boer commandants and British officers have offered their services, and those of 1,000 men, half of whom are British and half Boer soldiers, for service in Somaliland.

Foul Play Suspected.

Kingston, Nov. 1.—Dr. Mundell left on the 12.40 o'clock railway train yesterday for Mountain Grove to attend an inquest on the body of a man named Gilbert Flynn, alleged to have been poisoned.

Brodrick Will Marry.

London, Nov. 1. — Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of State for War, is engaged to marry Madeleine Stanley, eldest daughter of Lady Jeune, wife of Sir Francis Jeune, Judge Advocate General. Lady Jeune's first husband was Col. Constantine Stanley. Mr. Brodrick has been a widower for about a year.

French Government Sustained.

Paris, Nov. 1.—For the last two days the Senate has been debating an interpellation with regard to the closing of unauthorized congregationist schools by the Government. Yesterday, by 163 votes to 90, it passed an order of the day approving the action of the Government.

Lightning Burns Crop.

Belleville, Nov. 1.—Last night lightning struck the barn of Dennis Hanley and burnt it to the ground. All this season's crop was lost. Several head of cattle were burned.

THE SALVATION ARMY

Gen. William Booth on its Past, Present and Future.

LADY SOMERSET IN TORONTO.

Head of the World's W.C.T.U. Tells What That Great Woman's Organization Stands For—Tribute of Premier Ross to General Booth, Who Afterwards Tells the Thrilling Story of His Life Work.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Premier Ross introduced General William Booth to an audience of 5,000 persons in Massey Hall last night. In doing so he said the history of England during the 19th century would be incomplete without an extended reference to his work.

The General spoke on the "Past, Present and Future of the Salvation Army." In a word Gen. Booth conceived that the past of the army was glorious, because of the hardships overcome, the present equally so because of the triumphs won, and the future—he hesitated to speak of because he did not enjoy predictions in that direction. After preliminary remarks, the speaker said impressively that fifty-seven years ago God met me. I was leading a thoughtless life then and going down hill pretty fast. Then I realized by my position and wanted to work for my fellow man. But I was pretty nearly spoiled at first because I became a preacher and made sermons instead of saving souls. But I got back where I belonged and I just told God that what there was of me, and that was not much, I wanted to devote to the poor and the homeless, and I have. Why, 37 years ago all there was of these thousands of officers and army workers in all civilized nations and all the institutions the army control were in one head and my hat covered that head.

"Thirty-seven years is not such a long time for one's life work. Therefore, we do feel a pride in what we have accomplished with the help of God."

GENERAL BOOTH.

The Army's flag is now flying in forty-one different countries; spoken in thirty-one different languages; 70,405 separate posts; 18,486 officers; 2,200 employed without rank; 47,000 lay officers; circulating 1,000,000 copies of 61 periodicals; sheltering 17,000 people nightly; feeding weekly 300,000; managing 16 homes for ex-criminals.

This was part of the record of thirty-seven years, the speaker observed. Yet he had been told of instances where his Army officers had been accused of ignorance and unfitness to preach the word of God by thoughtless persons.

One of the lady workers was told that the officers were uneducated, untrained by a theological student.

"Why, ministers of our church can say the Lord's prayer in Latin," the student observed. "Pshaw, that is nothing," commented the lassie, "I can say that I know my soul is saved in good English."

That was the idea General Booth desired to convey—an organization that would reach the masses as they are found, not as theologians would have them.

Premier Ross presented to General Booth a vote of thanks from the audience, which was proposed by Rev. Dr. Potts, and seconded by Dr. Gilmore.

STANDS FOR THE HOME.

Lady Henry Somerset Speaks of Object of W.C.T.U.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The W.C.T.U. of Ontario concluded one of the most successful conventions in its history yesterday afternoon, and many of the delegates left for their homes immediately after having had the pleasure of listening to Lady Henry Somerset in the evening.

St. Thomas is to be the place for the holding of the next annual gathering.

A pleasing feature was the presentation of the banner for the biggest increase of members in any union. It went to the union of Bruce County, which nearly doubled its membership during the year.

In her address in the evening, Lady Henry Somerset said in part: The W.C.T.U. stands up above all things first and foremost for the protection of the home, and they have a beautiful chance here to enforce that protection. It is the pride of women to gather in thousands for the protection of the home; they have put their hands to the plough, and they dare not go back, knowing that they are building for those coming after them, working to make the home a brighter and holier place than ever, and that is one reason why the temperance reform has taken such a hold upon the womanhood of the world.

REASON OF NO AVAIL.

Alarming Mental Condition of the Marching Doukhobors.

AGENT SPEERS COUNSELS FORCE

Seven Hundred of the Pilgrims Have Passed Saltcoats—One of Their Number Absolutely Insane and Causing Much Apprehension—Farmers Are Alarmed at the Prospects—Statement of Mr. Speers.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1. — Latest news from the scene of the Doukhobor disturbance is to the effect that 700 have left Saltcoats and continued on their long march to Winnipeg. They came into the town singing, and were barefooted and otherwise scantily clad.

One of their number was absolutely insane, not fanatically speaking, but wild and dangerous. It required the continual attention of several of his comrades to prevent him from injuring himself and others.

Others in the band showed symptoms of nearing the same verge, and the farmers in the vicinity are thronging to the town very much alarmed, and fearing that a general outbreak of insanity is imminent. The pilgrims call at nearly every farmhouse along the line of march and demand provisions. Another detachment of mounted police is en route to Yorkton district. In the meantime, the Doukhobors show no indication to abandon their pilgrimage.

General Colonization Agent Speers, now at Yorkton, yesterday made the following statement: "I think it is beyond all power and reason to parley with the Doukhobors any longer. Exhaustion, hunger and sleeplessness have rendered their condition such that they cannot longer be reasoned with. I have worked night and day with the misguided people, and must confess defeat, so far as inducing them to return to their homes is concerned. It is impossible to predict the outcome. It seems to me that force now is necessary, as reason and kindness have failed. If disaster is to be prevented, the fremious illusians must at once be induced to abandon their mad march. I can suggest no method to bring this about."

PRESIDENT LOUBET ACTS.

Takes a Part in the Settling of the Miners' Strike.

Paris, Nov. 1.—President Loubet is taking an active part in settling the French coal miners' strike. Yesterday he had an extended conference with M. Vincent, Prefect of the Department Du Nord, who has been acting as intermediary between the strikers and the mine owners in this department. The mine owners have given the Prefect the names of four persons who are to represent them in a conference with an equal number of strikers.

In a semi-official statement given out last night, President Loubet expresses the hope for an early settlement of the strike, and declares that this would be a political accomplishment beyond precedent.

First Important Action.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 1.—The first important action by the anthracite coal commission, which is arbitrating the differences between the miners and their employers, was taken yesterday, when it was announced by Carroll D. Wright, the recorder of the commission, that, if any rates affecting the existing rate of wages shall be made, the award shall be effective from Nov. 1.

Will Wants to Get In Again.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 1.—Application has been made to the Manitoba Legislature for a charter incorporating a company which proposes to build a system in Manitoba of a total mileage of nearly 2,500 miles. Application is made in the name of C. E. Hamilton, attorney, of St. Paul, but it is generally understood that the Northern Pacific is behind the deal. The proposed line will enter Manitoba at Emerson.

Girls Who Work

Girls who work are particularly susceptible to female ills, especially when obliged to stand on their feet from morning until night.

Day in and day out, month in and month out, the year through, the working girl toils; she is often the bread winner of the family, and must work that others may live; whether she is sick or well, whether it rains or shines, whether it is warm or cold she must get to her place of employment and perform the duties exacted from her.

Among this class the symptoms of female diseases are early manifest by weak and aching backs, pain in the lower limbs and lower part of the stomach; in consequence of frequent wetting of the feet monthly periods become painful and irregular, and frequently faint and dizzy spells, with loss of appetite, until life is a burden and it is hard work to drag about. All these symptoms point to a derangement of the female organism, and if taken in time can be easily and permanently cured.

A Cordial Invitation to Every Sick and Ailing Working Girl.

It is to these girls that Mrs. Pinkham holds out a helping hand, and extends a cordial invitation to correspond with her. Her unrivalled record of success in treating woman's ills makes her letters of advice of untold value to every ailing working girl, and from her wide experience and skill she quickly points the way to health. Her advice is free, and all letters are held by her in the strictest confidence. Address, Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Don't put off writing her until your health is wrecked.

Grateful Words from Working Girls Who Have Been Helped.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I want to thank you for what you have done for me. I was dreadfully tired, I stand over my work all day, and no one who hasn't tried it knows how it makes your back and sides ache. I couldn't sleep, and had no appetite, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel entirely different now; it is a wonderful medicine. I do not feel that my work is hard now, and I recommend your medicine to other girls who are always tired."—MISS ISABEL SURGIN, 293 Willis Ave., New York City.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done so much good for me that I wish to recommend it to all girls whose work keeps them standing on their feet all day in a hot store. The doctor said I could not live and I must give up work, and stay out of doors; he did not seem to realize that a girl cannot afford to stop working. My back ached, my appetite was poor and I could not sleep; menstruation was scanty and very painful. One day when suffering I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me, I soon found that my menstrual periods were free from pain and natural; now my health is fine, and every one is surprised at the change in me, and I cannot be too grateful for what you have done for me."—MISS JANET PAINE, 530 West 125th Street, New York City.—$5000.00 forfeit if originals of above letters proving genuineness cannot be produced.

MR. BLEZARD'S POLITICAL EXPERIENCE.

He Tells a Reporter Some Interesting Incidents.

HIS FRIEND RICHARD TOOLEY.

How the East Peterborough Member Carried the North Country—Popular Everywhere—A Born Politician.

The most practical, matter-of-fact, and level-headed persons have, unconsciously, perhaps, to themselves, a considerable stock of sentiment, mingled with their shrewd common-sense. Mr. Thomas Blezard, ex-M.P.P., with all the attributes of mental soundness, and strength of character, would not be thought to have much sentiment in his practical constitution, but those who know his generous heart and unobtrusive, but practical deeds of kindness, know that he has a big, warm fund of sentiment at bottom. A case in point is the incident of Mr. Tooley, related in the following article. Mr. Blezard gives another instance of the sentimental spot in his heart. The old Parliament Buildings, on Front street, Toronto, are to-day turned over to the purchaser, and Mr. Blezard, with the rush of old-time memories, felt a desire to again see the venerable ruins before they passed into alien hands, and is in Toronto for that purpose. Blezard entered these old buildings in 1879, as representative of East Peterborough, and of course remained there till the new buildings were occupied. Although a representative of a rural riding, Mr. Blezard was bound to advocate economy, yet he favoured in the most earnest way the expenditure of any reasonable sum to provide public buildings worthy of the Province. To show how unworthy the old buildings were for the purpose, Mr. Blezard relates his first experience in reaching them. He went to attend his first session, a stranger in the city, and had to enquire his way to the halls of legislation. When the venerable old pile was pointed out to him as the Parliament Buildings he thought his informant was "guying" a rural representative, for, said he, "the old buildings looked more like a brewery than Parliament Buildings." One can fancy Mr. Blezard to-day wandering around the old Parliament Buildings like a spirit returning to the dear scenes of its earthly life, peopling the old pile with the public men who bore, and some of them still bear, great names — Edward Blake, Sandfield Macdonald, Sir Oliver Mowat, etc.

At this crisis in his life, it may not be inopportune to reprint, as is done below, from the Toronto Telegram, a racy sketch of Mr. Blezard's life, which appeared last winter:

Product of a Conservative home, Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., proudly boasts that he early found the error of his ways—and a man ambitious to attain public positions always found it was best to be a Liberal in the township of Otonabee. A Tory had the same disadvantage in that locality as a Tory in the county of Oxford. Anyway it is recorded in the history of Thomas Blezard's career, that though he stuck by the plough as was his father's desire, he wandered away from the parent's political fold and became a Grit, and that meant that he was soon a township councillor and a county councillor.

Thomas Blezard is a self-made man. He is natural even to the cut of his hair and the tone of his voice. M. P.P. after his name did not elevate Thomas above his fellows. He never felt big. He was the same twenty-four years ago when he first brought disaster to the Tory camp, as he is to-day. That's the secret of this political success. People down in East Peterborough swear by Thos. Blezard. Honest and generous, once he made a friend, he had him forever.

THOMAS TURNED THE TIDE.

East Peterborough had been helplessly Tory up to the time Thomas Blezard accepted the Liberal nomination. Hon. J. R. Stratton's father, a strong and well-known man, did not redeem the constituency. About the year 1878 the Tories nominated Henry Calcutt, a Peterborough brewer, as the candidate of the party. He was a popular man—all brewers seem to be in election contests—and the Grits felt they would have to encounter defeat again. Thos. Blezard, then unknown outside his township, a poor speaker, but a hustling canvasser, got the Grit nomination. "Why," said Mr. Blezard, "I canvassed every man in the riding, shook hands with them all, called as many as I could by their front name, and kissed as many Tory babies as I dare to. I let the other fellows talk while I used my hands and feet and covered the riding from end to end." That's the story of Thomas Blezard's first campaign, and his first victory too, for he redeemed East Peterborough and ever afterwards held it, though he had to combat the strongest Conservatives in the riding.

MR. REED GOT FRIGHTENED.

"George Reed, of Keene," remarked Mr. Blezard in a recent conversation, "used to represent East Peterborough in the Legislature. That was just before my time. After my first election the Tories decided they had to beat me, and they got George Reed into the field. I remember meeting him just at the commencement of the fight in Peterborough. He says, 'How's it going to go, Tom?' I looked at him kind of sympathetically and told him straight he would be the worst beaten Tory that ever ran in the riding. He laughed, and I met him the night before election at Norwood.

"'Well, Tom,' he says, 'who's going to win?'

"'I am, sure,' I told him, and he laughed again.

"'How many votes will you get in the back country,' Mr. Reed asked me, and I told him all he would get would be about 25. He laughed good and hard and told me that was all he was allowing me. Election day came and my calculations weren't far astray. Reed had 24 votes in the north country, and I carried the riding by nearly four hundred majority."

The Equal Rights agitation in the elections of 1890 nearly wrecked Mr. Blezard's political career. The Tories did not place a candidate in the field, but supported, almost solidly, Archibald R. Kidd, the Equal Righter. Mr. Kidd had been a prominent Liberal, a warden of the county, and in the past a supporter of Mr. Blezard. A good speaker, and an experienced municipal campaigner, Mr. Kidd proved to be a formidable antagonist.

LIBERALS GOT SCARED.

The battle was waged with a fierceness that caused the Liberals to fear their old warhorse would fall by the wayside, but Mr. Blezard was ever cheerful. He felt the contest would be very close, and yet he was certain that he would win. And he did. His majority was only about 40, though.

It is not very often a Grit M.P.P. and an Orangeman mix very well as one man, but Thomas Blezard came into Parliament as a supporter of Oliver Mowat and as an Orangeman of got a few years' standing, and his first speech in the House was on the question of the incorporation of the Orange Order. "It was a piece of trickery; an attempt to antagonize the Orange voters against the Liberals, but I would not fall into line," remarked the veteran representative from East Peterborough, in a recent conversation. "What business, I declared in that first speech of mine, had Andrew Broder and other Tories of Orange connection to bring in a bill that was bound to rip up the feelings of the people. Orangeman though I was, I stood out against this move, and supported old Sir Oliver." Mr. Blezard from the first day of his political career never received any Orange votes on account of his connection with the order, and he did not spend a day of sleepless nights deciding the way he would vote on the bill.

ORANGEMEN AGAINST BLEZARD.

One night Mr. Blezard was billed to talk to the electors at Nassau, an Orange settlement just above Peterborough, and in the Orange Hall, too Brother Orangeman, though he was, the people's Thomas thought he was going to lose his life. The people did everything but hit him. The lights went out as rapidly as they were lighted, and the M.P.P. was on the verge of giving up in despair when a veteran Orangeman with a mortgage on the hall, gave vent to these words, "I have known Mr. Blezard for years. He is an honest man and a good neighbour. Quit this rowdyism or there will be no more meetings held in this hall." There was quiet and after the campaign Mr. Blezard sent the peace-maker a family Bible, and it is a question whether the recipient, who had always been a Tory, ever voted against Thomas Blezard since the day the Bible arrived. Rough he may be on the exterior, but a big-hearted fellow, as this incident shows is the Never Vanquished Hero of many a fight in Peterborough.

A BORN POLITICIAN.

You know Thomas Blezard is a born politician. That hearty shake of the hand and crack on the back is not cultivated; it is natural. Thomas moves around amongst the farmers of his riding without swelling his bosom or holding his head high. An M.P.P. should be one of the people is Blezard's idea. "I believe in keeping in touch with your constituents; don't be backward in taking a cup of tea in the home of the most lowly. They never forget it." East Peterborough's representative does not exalt himself in any way. Yet he thinks that a call from an M.P.P. usually brightens up a home, makes the people think that they cut a figure in the world. It also adds value to the home. Walk into a sparsely settled township, among the rocks around Stony Lake, and you will find not a few residents that will glory in telling the visitor that Thomas Blezard dined there once. "There is the chair he sat in; that is for the big folks that come to eat with us now," is the way they introduce you to the log cabin.

Mr. Blezard's heart developed long before he entered politics, and it was well that it did, for many the vote it meant for him in his first campaign. A case in point: One day in the early seventies, the young Otonabee farmer was driving to Westwood. On the road he met an aged lady who had started to walk from Douro to her daughter's home in Asphodel. Mr. Blezard very graciously took her into his conveyance and went out of his way to take her to her destination. That act meant half a dozen votes when he became a parliamentary candidate.

MADE THEM VOTE FOR BLEZARD.

Let Mr. Blezard tell the story: "Just after I had been nominated for the Legislature I was driving through Douro, calling at every farm house. I knew very few people in the township. At one place I got my eye on a man chopping wood in front of a house. I got out, went up and spoke to him. I told him who I was and what I wanted. He said he was a Tory and could not vote for me. In the midst of our interview an old Irish lady stepped out of the door of the house, and greeted me with: "Hello, Mr. Blezard, and how are you? Come in, and have a cup of tea." And lo, and behold, it was the old lady that I had given a lift two years before. In I went, and around the table she told her sons how I had acted on that winter's morning while they were in the shanties. The result of my call at his little home was that I got the votes of three sons and a nephew from that day unto this," and that was the end of Mr. Blezard's tale. But it a lesson to the young man who wants to be an M.P.P., and get a grip on the affections of the people.

DID WELL BEFORE THE PREMIER.

On the stump Thomas Blezard's voice is heard nightly during a campaign. He strikes out at his opponents with a gentleness and an effectiveness as well that gives him a grip on his audience, and down in East Peterborough he ranks as an orator, and at tea meetings, picnics and the like he is in great demand. He can make a rattling campaign deliverance, too. One night he kept an audience applauding his sentiments and urging him to "Go on," for an hour at Havelock. The late Hon. A. S. Hardy was there and was to follow him, and did, but the late Premier always maintained that "my friend Tom," made the most votes in his talks to the electors. By the way, the late Mr. Hardy and Mr. Blezard were sterling friends. They admired each other; both were sturdy and honest and uttered straight from the shoulder thoughts. Many an hour the two used to spend together chatting over party legislation and party prospects, and the Otonabee farmer enjoyed the confidence of Mr. Hardy to a greater extent than a lot of the Liberal M.P. P.'s, who figured more prominently in party affairs. Thomas Blezard was close to the hearts and minds of the great representative class of people in Ontario — the farmers — and his opinions carried more weight than many imagine with the late Premier — a good deal more than the smoothly expressed ideas of the lawyers and doctors amongst his supporters.

AMONG THE ROCKS OF THE NORTH.

In the northern part of his riding Thomas Blezard has had many a lively experience. In that country the roads are like the proverbial rocky one that led the Irish into Dublin —only they are worse, for if the roads in Ireland can shake a person's bones more and make them feel that life is near an end as forcibly, then Home Rule ought never to have agitated the Irish, but good roads and nothing else. Travelling along these roads of a dark night Mr. Blezard has been jolted backward and forward, and up and down, until he wondered where all the rocks came from. It was not long until the member forced the Government to put a few thousand dollars into colonization roads, and he kept getting grants until to-day these roads are vastly improved, but even in the last election Mr. Blezard got tangled up on one of them while driving to Apsley, and had to rent a lantern from a settler in order that he could get on the right trail. Mr Blezard is the greatest benefactor the north country knows. He provides the schools and the roads, and if he could only give them enough soil to cover the rocks, and provide crops, he would have to represent East Peterborough for ever, or East Peterborough would go unrepresented.

DOWN ON THE FARM.

Mr. Blezard is a typical farmer. When not at the Legislature he is labouring on his splendid farm in Otonabee. Up early in the morning and to bed early at night, he watches his acres with a careful eye. He is on good terms with all his neighbours, and one of his best friends is John Lancaster, who opposed him in 1894. Mr. Blezard thought Lancaster made a mistake to run against him, and there is no doubt Mr. Lancaster has thought very strongly the same way ever since the election.

At the Legislature Mr. Blezard is always on hand. He is one of the characters of the House. Next to Hon. Richard Harcourt, he is the oldest member. He sits at his desk and listens attentively to his leaders, but usually grows tired of the youngsters who like to fill the Assembly with their voices. Then you see the member for East Peterborough move out into the smoking room and wait until the tedious part of the debate is over. He is on good terms with all the members, but he used to continually associate, in the old days, with that veteran,

DICK TOOLEY, OF MIDDLESEX.

When Dick sat in the House Thomas Blezard never lacked for a companion. The two were always together, except at a division, and then they separated at the crack of the party whip. Tooley has been out of the House for several sessions, but he longs to get back to talk over old times with friend Blezard. Fortune has not gone well with the old Middlesex Conservative, and one day in a letter to Mr. Blezard he very innocently remarked that he wished he had the money and he would come down and spend a few days "with the boys" at the Parliament Buildings. 'I felt sorry for old Dick when I got that letter, and I sent him a bill and told him to buy a ticket and come down and see me. A day or two afterwards I was walking along the corridor and saw Tooley in a corner surrounded by Whitney and a lot of Tory friends. As soon as he spotted me he brushed the others aside and rushed in my direction, saying as he moved along, 'Here's the chap I want to see.'" This little incident was told by Mr. Blezard one day in a conversation about his old friend. Tooley spent a week as Mr. Blezard's guest at the Elliott House, and the day the old campaigner left for his home, his companion of former years divided his sessional allowance of stationery with him. That is the kind of a man Thomas Blezard is. He is generous and thoughtful to a fault, and a friend in need always gets well looked after.

POPULAR WITH THE PAGES.

Take the lads—the pages who flit about the Legislative Chamber every session. Other men are brusque and cold in their manner to the boys, but Thomas Blezard is their friend. He loads them with gifts of apples and oranges, and yet seldom troubles them. With the pages he is probably the best-loved man in the House.

Many years of faithful service Thos. Blezard has given his party and country, and he goes out of public life not a bit richer in pocket, but worth a lot in the estimation of the people of his riding. He leaves public life with a clean record, and though not gaining notoriety by pushing himself to the fore on the floor of the House, those that have come into contact with him admired his honesty, his big heart and his quaint ways. The other day, just before the session closed, he calculated that he spent 1,000 days at sessions of the Legislature. He had lived through the Mowat and Hardy administrations, and had seen the Ross Ministry's career well started. Tories jocularly taunt Mr. Blezard with leaving the ship before it sinks, but the ship could sink a hundred times before the honest old farmer would be beaten in East Peterborough. He went through six battles, and in all of them he won the day and kept the party banner flying.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. If Your Friend is Sick

Let Me Know It.

As an act of humanity, tell me a friend who needs help. That is all—just a postal card—just the cost of a penny. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this:—I will mail the sick one an order—good at any drug store—for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month to learn what it will do. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

I do that so that those who need help will accept it. I have what those sick ones must have to get well, and I want my offer so fair, that no sick one can neglect it.

You may think it too fair to be possible, but I do just as I say.

I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands in this way, and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I willingly pay for the rest.

It is a remarkable remedy that makes such an offer possible, and I have spent my lifetime on it. It is my discovery, and the only known treatment that strengthens the inside nerves.

The common way is to doctor the organ that is weak, but that way brings at best but temporary results. My way is to bring back the nerve power which alone operates every vital organ. I give to each organ the power to do its duty, and there is no other way to make weak organs well.

I fail only where organic trouble—like cancer—makes a cure impossible. Such cases are rare.

My book will convince you, for it is clear. Almost any sick one who reads it will know that he can get well.

Simply state which book you want, and address to Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

Non-commissioned officers of the 57th Regiment are reminded of the class of instruction which will meet on Tuesday evenings throughout the winter months. The new drill, in which the Sgt.-Major is well up, will be taught, and it is desirable that every non-commissioned officer should be in attendance.

• • • •

It might be well to suggest to the rifle committee of the 57th Regiment that another year they make more complete arrangements for the publication of the scores of their annual matches. The press is not in a position to make out the scores in such matches as the tyro. As a matter of fact, the result of this match has not yet been furnished the press, although many enquiries have been made in that regard. The press of the town is only too anxious to publish the result of rifle matches, but, as before stated, it is too much to expect them to figure out the scores. They have in the past been furnished by the rifle committee.

Surgeon-Major W. A. Willoughby of the 46th Regiment, has been granted the honorary rank of Surgeon Lieutenant Colonel.

• • • •

The annual rifle matches of the Fifteenth Regiment of Belleville, took place on Wednesday afternoon last. Twenty-six non-commissioned officers and men took part, the officers in charge being Capt. Marsh and Lieut. Bleecker.

At a meeting of the Cobourg and Northumberland Veterans' Association, held in the Council Chamber, Cobourg, on Wednesday, October 22nd, it was moved by A. McCutcheon and seconded by John McIntosh, that Major George Guillett, President; Lieut. Wm. Richardson, Vice-President; be the delegates of that Association to wait upon His Worship the Mayor, and members of the Town Council of the Town of Cobourg, and ask them for the sum of two hundred dollars out of the volunteer fund now in the hands of the Council, belonging to the volunteers, to enable them to pay the expense of locating lands set apart by the Ontario Government for the volunteers of 1866. The Association respectively asks for a statement of the fund paid in by private subscription or otherwise.

The rules and regulations regarding the establishment of artillery corps are to be changed somewhat and will soon be issued in book form. Changes made will likely affect both of the local artillery bodies. It is likely that "B" Battery will be brought up to the same strength as "A" Battery, namely, one hundred and thirteen. The end in view is to keep the two batteries at about the same strength. Two more sergeants, two more corporals, bombadiers, etc., will be necessary.—Kingston News.

The death occurred in Cobourg last week of Lieut. Jas. Douglass Field, son of the late C. C. Field, M. P. P., for West Northumberland. The deceased was interred with military honours. A firing party of No. 3 Company, 40th Regiment, of which the deceased was Lieutenant, under command of Major Floyd, marched in front of the procession, while officers of the local militia were present in uniform. The bearers were Captain F. D. Boggs, Lieuts. J. W. Odell, C. Campbell, C. J. McCallum, H. McGlennon and W. Oldham.

The following militia order was issued last week: "The General Officer Commanding desires to impress upon all officers commanding districts and regiments the desirability of encouraging in every way the formation of Cadet companies and battalions throughout their districts." The matter should be taken hold of in Peterborough and an effort made to place the local cadet corps on a sound basis.

The South African war has taught little as to the effect of quick-firing guns on artillery fire-tactics, the Army and Navy Gazette believes. With these pieces "rapidity in ranging is paramount importance, for in a quick-firing duel, the battery which does not find the range first will not probably get it at all." A large use of field howitzers may be expected in future wars, the Gazette says, and lines of entrenchment with parapet may give place to concealed rifle pits. Generally speaking, the principal changes in artillery fire-tactics will be at long ranges, and in the preliminary dispositions for the fight, more especially when exposed to indistinct or concealed targets.

During the recent tour of the King of Spain it appears, the Army and Navy Gazette says, that a good deal of friction occurred between Gen. Weyler and the officers of His Majesty's military household and General Linares, commanding the territorial forces at Pamplona. The minister holds strongly to prerogative, and appears to have been in the right, because the etiquette of the Spanish Court prescribes that the minister in attendance on the Sovereign is alone responsible for the orders given. The King was enthusiastically received, although the dispositions of his military officers were questioned. General Weyler secured the victory, and the trouble was ended.

SEASONABLE ADVICE.

Change of Weather Disastrous to Many People.

Bad Blood Makes You Liable to Cold—A Cold Makes You Liable to Twenty Diseases—How to Protect Yourself.

Changes of the season affect the health more or less perceptibly. The effect of the hot summer weather on the blood leaves it thin and watery, and now that the weather is changeable this makes itself disagreeably felt. You feel bilious, dyspeptic and tired; there may be pimples or eruptions of the skin; the damp weather brings little twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia that give warning of the winter that is coming. If you want to be brisk and strong for the winter it is now that you should build up the blood, and give the nerves a little tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest of all blood-making, nerve-restoring tonics, and will make you strong and stave off the aches and pains of winter if you take them now. Mr. James Adams, Brandon, Man., is one of the thousands whom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored to health and strength. He says:—"It is with deep gratitude that I acknowledge the benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills my health was much shattered with rheumatism, nervous depression and sleeplessness. For fully twelve months I rarely got a good night's sleep. When I began the use of the pills it was with a determination to give them a fair trial. I did so and can truthfully say that I could not wish for better health than I now enjoy. I shall always speak a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Poor blood is the cause of most disease. Good blood means health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not purge—they simply make pure, rich blood. That's why they cure so many diseases. But you must always get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada's Customs Collections.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The customs collections for the Dominion during the month of October show an increase of over half a million dollars over the same month last year. The figures for the month were $3,240,901, making an increase of $556,070. For the four months of the fiscal year ending yesterday the customs revenue was $13,311,618, making a total increase of $1,591,698.

Farmer Loses a Leg.

Forest, Ont., Nov. 1.—John Ross, 12th line of Plympton Township, accidentally had his right leg taken off while endeavoring to board the afternoon train at Camlachie yesterday. The train was in motion, and in stepping on missed his footing and fell under the wheels. His leg was amputated at the knee. His recovery is considered doubtful.

No Longer Subjects.

Pekin, Oct. 31.—The Emperor of China to-day received Pak Chia Sun, the first Corean Minister to China. The Minister was accompanied by members of the legation. The Dowager Empress was not present at the reception. The Coreans wore European military uniforms to emphasize the fact that they are no longer subjects of China.

May Come to Canada.

London, Nov. 1.—The High Commissioner is receiving the practical support of the colonels of various British regimental districts where the South African soldier reservists have been discharged in his efforts to induce those unable to obtain employment here to settle in Canada on land.

Carnegie Morley's Guest.

London, Nov. 1.—Andrew Carnegie arrived in London yesterday morning, after a tour of Scotland, where he received the freedom of numerous towns. He was the guest of honor at a dinner given by John Morley at the Athenaeum Club last night.

Fishermen All Safe.

Port Dalhousie, Nov. 1. — The Doughty Bros., the last of the missing fishermen, landed at the Four Miles Creek Thursday night all right. There is nothing out now except one boat, loaded with fish, which is adrift in the lake somewhere.

Minister Dismisses 200 Officials.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—The Tageblatt yesterday prints a despatch from St. Petersburg saying that Finance Minister Witte dismissed 200 officials employed under the Finance Minister during his Far Eastern inspection trip for irregularities.

Four Men Killed.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 1.—By a sudden rush of gas, which is supposed to have been sulphureted hydrogen, four men were killed and three seriously affected near the 24th street heading of the big tunnel trunk sewer last night.

Household Brevities.

Opaque window shades should be alike all over the house. Otherwise you have from the outside a spotted appearance, which is most undesirable. Dark green is a very good color.

White and gold china is again the rage.

New and quite the thing to have in vegetable and entree dishes are the round ones.

Grass stains can be removed by using cream of tartar and water or alcohol.

Silver tea caddies are one of the fads.

Lacquer, a solution of gum shellac in alcohol, put on with a brush, will prevent brass bedsteads from tarnishing.

Where Shots Strike.

Of every 110 shots which strike some soldier, forty-three will lodge in the legs, thirty-three shots will lodge in the arms, twenty-two strike between neck and waist, and six or seven shots some part of the soldier's head.

Repudiates It.

"Where did that child get her manners?"

"Not from my side of the house."

"Why not?"

"Because she hasn't any."

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

Premier Laurier will not attend the reciprocity banquet at Boston.

AN IDEAL MEDICINE.

A New Discovery Which Cures all Forms of Catarrh.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medicine, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted. There is now, however, an excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh in tablet form, known as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and sold by druggists, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicine for cure of catarrh and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

The old time treatment of catarrh was in the form of inhalers, washes, douches, sprays, etc. Later on internal remedies were used with greater success, but being in liquid or powder form were inconvenient to use and like all medicines in liquid or powder form, lose their medicinal properties when opened or exposed to the air.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, contain highly concentrated antiseptics, Hydrastin, Blood root, and Red gum which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membrane, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, because all authorities are now agreed that catarrh is a constitutional blood disease, and local applications can have only a transitory effect.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays is a nuisance and inconvenience and can in no wise compare favourably with the same antiseptics given in tablet form internally, where they can reach the stomach and blood and kill catarrh germs right where they are produced.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for twelve years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucus from the nose into the throat, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, expectorating, gagging and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cleared my head, throat and stomach and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have no trace of catarrh."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package.

They can be carried in the pocket and used any time and as often as desired since they contain no cocaine, mercury or any other injurious drug.

Polyglot India.

Twenty-eight languages are spoken in India and none of these is spoken by fewer than 400,000 persons, while the most generous is the mother tongue, of 85,500,000. Besides these there are in the remotest parts of the country, dialects spoken by no more than 500 persons, which none other than themselves can interpret. India has nine great creeds, numbering their followers from the 208,000,000 Hindoos down to the 9,250,000 Animistics and the innumerable sects included in the 43,000 "others."

Dawson in Summer Time.

Mr. Harry de Windt, in one of a series of articles in The London Express, dealing with his overland journey from New York to Paris, says: The natural charms of Dawson City have hitherto been sadly neglected by writers on the Klondike, and yet it is (in summer) one of the prettiest places imaginable. Viewed from a distance on a still July day, the clear, bright-looking town and garden-girt villas dotting the green fields around are less suggestive of the black Arctic than of Italy or sunny Spain. Stroll down through the principal street at mid-day, and you will see a well-dressed but cosmopolitan crowd of both sexes, some driving and cycling, others inspecting the shops or seated at flower-bedecked tables in the fashionable French "Restaurant du Louvre," with its white-aproned "garcons" and central snowy altar of silver, fruit and hors-d'oeuvres all complete. Everything has a continental look, from the glittering jewellers' shops to the flower and fruit stalls, where you may buy roses and strawberries (Klondike-grown) for a dollar apiece. Indeed, you can get almost anything now in Dawson City, by paying for it on a scale regulated by the local daily newspaper, which is sold for a shilling—and sometimes more. The prices here dwarf those of Nome City. Even in the cheap eating houses, where sausages steam in the window, the most modest meal runs away with a five-dollar note.

A Publisher's Wit.

Rev. Dr. Briggs, of the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, is "not an Irishman for nothing." He has the gift of wit which is one of the characteristics of his countrymen. An example of it, which he gave at the recent meeting of Conference, will be especially appreciated by his fellow publishers. The Doctor was making his report on the subscription list of The Christian Guardian, and had to touch upon the sad fact of many subscribers being in arrears. "The paper has hosts of friends," said the Doctor. "All over the country are those who boast of being unremitting supporters of the Guardian. But, for my part, I would much prefer that they should be occasionally remitting supporters!"—Canadian Magazine.

MILITARY HONORS.

Methuen Made Knight Grand Cross of the Bath—Canada's Share.

London, Nov. 1.—A long list of honors and promotions in recognition of South African services were gazetted yesterday.

Lord Methuen is made a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath.

Major-General F. W. Kitchener gets the Order of Companion of the Bath.

Major-Generals French and Ian Hamilton are raised to the rank of lieutenant-general.

Colonels Kekewich and Plumer are promoted to be major-generals.

Brigadier-General Brabant is appointed an honorary major-general.

Lieut.-Col. Fiset and Capt. McMillan of the Canadian corps receive the decoration of Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

The Canadians Honored.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Lieut.-Col. Fiset went to Africa with the rank of captain, and while out there was promoted to the rank of major. Since his return to Canada he was made a lieut.-colonel. He is on the army medical staff at Ottawa as assistant to Col. Neilson, director-general of the medical service.

Capt. McMillan is not known here in military circles.

SOON COMING TO AN END.

Secretary Wyndham Hopeful in Regard to Irish Question.

London, Nov. 1.—Chief Secretary for Ireland Wyndham made a speech at Dover last night, in which he dealt with the Nationalists' challenge of the Government's Irish policy. The speaker expressed his belief that the end of the Irish question was coming soon, and said that the Irish land purchase bill, based upon sound business proposals, would be the principle measure proposed at the next session of Parliament. In the meantime, the Government must vindicate law and order, the defence of which Mr. Wyndham said, was "frontier politics."

Heavy Damages For Libel.

London, Nov. 1.—The sensational libel suit brought by Mrs. Julia Watt against Lady Violet Beauchamp ended yesterday by the plaintiff being awarded £5,000 ($25,000) damages. When the court opened an immense crowd besieged the public entrance. The court room was packed when the proceedings began.— Lady Violet Beauchamp, in a striking toilet of crimson, sat by the side of the man whose mind she was accused of poisoning. Both Lady Violet and Mr. Watt appeared absolutely undisturbed by the sensation which they caused. Mrs. Watt, who is rather handsome, was also stylishly dressed. Mrs. Watt in her evidence said she was compelled to have dinner in her bedroom because Lady Violet would not leave the house. Since she had left Mr. Watt, Lady Violet had lived with him continuously.

Smash Up on the Welland.

St. Catharines, Nov. 1.—A smash-up occurred on the Welland Division of the Grand Trunk yesterday afternoon. The 1.55 o'clock train, bound south, crashed into a runaway car at Lincoln avenue. The car, which was loaded with general merchandise, was smashed, and its contents scattered on the track. Engineer Matchem was in charge of the train. His arm was slightly injured, and a lady from Port Colborne was slightly hurt, also. The engine and tender were badly wrecked.

Aristocracy in Volunteers.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—The feature of the Caledonia Society's concert last evening was a speech from Lord Dundonald. The commander urged the wealthier classes in Canada to take an interest in military matters, as they had more time to give to drill than other people. He also said that he would never raise his voice against the Scotch uniform in the British army.

Noted Canoeist Dead.

Quebec, Nov. 1.—The oldest canoeman of Levis, Mr. Edouard Baron, died at the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Levis yesterday, at the age of 87 years. He had quite a reputation in days gone by as a very skillful winter navigator of the St. Lawrence. Mr. Frechette, the poet, has often sung his praises in his writings.

An Aching Back.

Is the first indication of kidney disease, and should be taken as a signal of danger — a warning to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills while yet there is time to avoid the dreadful pains and certain fatality of this terrible disease. There is no guess work, no experimenting when you use this prescription. It brings relief in a remarkably short time, and because of its combined action of liver and kidneys, cures complicated cases which cannot be reached by any ordinary treatment.

Obituary.

Mr. George Britton, aged 42 years, passed away this morning at the residence of his father, Mr. John Britton, No. 13 Harvey street, after an illness of some weeks. The deceased has been a resident of Peterborough all his life, and was known to a wide circle of friends. He was unmarried. The funeral will leave his father's residence on Monday at 2 p.m., and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

A Queer Caller.

Dr. P. G. Goldsmith, who resides on Church street, Belleville, on Wednesday evening was sitting in his study when the breaking of a window in the kitchen attracted his attention to that portion of the house. He was naturally surprised to see sitting upon the table a fine partridge which had flown against a window and broken it, and by this means entered the house.

AT THE POLICE STATION.

Hallowe'en Passed off Quietly—Driving Teams on Sidewalks.

Hallowe'en passed off in a comparatively quiet manner, there being little or no damage done by the boys bent on mischief. There was, however, an unusually large number of young people out last night, disguised in various ways and armed with pea shooters they performed their old pranks. There were not many complaints at the Police Station this morning. There came in a report of some damage that was alleged to have been done to a fence belonging to Miss Scott, corner of Rubidge and Hunter streets, and a fence belonging to Mrs. Hutchinson, corner of London and Stewart streets.

From one of the windows of Mrs. Wallis' residence, Gilmour street, the shutter frame was torn out by the roots, and the hinges broken.

The Chief wishes to intimate to the boys, now, that Hallowe'en is over, they had better put their pea shooters away for the present, otherwise they may get into trouble.

At the Police Court this morning a man was fined $1.00 for driving his team on the sidewalk. The offence was committed by the accused delivering fuel to a certain establishment and backing his team across the pavement in order to more handily unload his wagon. This is a practice that is too frequent in Peterborough, as drivers for coal and wood dealers imagine they can impede traffic by backing their wagons across the sidewalk in the manner above indicated. However, the Chief has started a crusade against this injustice to the public.

A man was run into the Police Station last night charged with being drunk, he was fined $1.00. He claims to be a bookkeeper, but didn't have his balance right this time.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Ladies, don't miss seeing the artistic demonstrations in dress-cutting at Y.W.C.A., day and evening classes.

—We take this means of informing the public that we conduct a union barber shop. None but first-class men employed, and all work guaranteed. W. J. Morgan, Crystal Barber Shop. 1d

—Dr. Lee, the eminent metaphysician, in order to introduce his "Revealed Remedies," for all disease incidental to the human body, will give free consultation for one week only. Parlours, National Hotel. 4d

—The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church hold their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. A full attendance of the members is asked for, and an invitation is extended to all the young men of the church.

—Anniversary services will be held in the Park street Baptist church to-morrow. Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, of Port Hope, will occupy the pulpit. On Monday evening at eight o'clock Rev. Mr. Dayfoot will deliver a lecture on "Happy, Though Married."

—The Lindsay Post, in referring to the show, "Tangled Relations," says: "We understand the company became financially embarrassed, and several members experienced much difficulty in raising the necessary coin to get out of town this morning."

—The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, 14 King street west, Toronto, accepts all classes of trusts funds, whether under will, marriage, settlement or agreement. As the company has perpetual existence, its clients have the assurance that the terms of the trust will be carried out, no matter what period they cover, without changing the trustee, which so often occurs when a private individual has been appointed in that capacity.

A Man's Soul History.

Rev. P. K. Dayfoot will speak at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday at 4.15, p.m., on the above topic. Mr. Dayfoot is an interesting speaker, and there should be a large attendance of men.

St. John's Church.

To-morrow will be observed as dedication festival. There will be special parochial communion at 8 a.m., and 11 a.m. The festival music for the evening will be accompanied by orchestral music.

In addition to the above named assets there are notes to the amount of $8,000.00, which are considered to be absolutely worthless. A package of notes to the amount of $8,000.00, which had been on deposit at the Traders' Bank at Port Hope, as collateral security, had been withdrawn by Mr. Benson, the late manager, a few days before the bank closed its doors, and no trace of them can be found. Even if those notes turn up the liabilities will be considerably in excess of the assets.

Mr. Linton stated that he would be able to pay his creditors 30 cents on the dollar, forthwith. In all probability if the notes can be collected and no litigation or anything unforseen occurs, and by the most careful management, an additional dividend 20 per cent. will be declared in a few weeks.

Mr. Linton is anxious to satisfy his creditors and will do everything in his power to do so. Orono creditors receive the same amount as the Lakefield creditors.

It appears that the late manager, Mr. T. H. Benson, had misrepresented the statement of the bank's affairs in the village for some time past, and in his statement to the head office on September 30, he showed a considerable surplus, whereas on the books being audited, a deficiency of quite a large amount was shown.

On Wednesday cheques were issued to all depositors, made out for 80 per cent. of their claims, and it is likely that they will be accepted by them, and a further dividend anxiously looked for.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will preach to-morrow morning on "The Re-Union of the Saints." Rev. J. H. Teney, rector of Omemee, will preach in the evening.

To-night at 8 o'clock, choir practice will be held in the church. A large attendance of the choir is requested.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. D. Corkery, of Harwood, is in town to-day.

Mr. Jas. Ross, of Toronto, is visiting with friends in town.

Mrs. John R. Jeffrey, (nee Kate Ferguson) will be at home to her friends on Tuesday afternoon and evening, November 4th, at her father's residence, 254 Stewart street, before leaving for Cincinnati, her future home.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.

Mr. Joseph Sproule Passes Away at the Age of 86 Years.

The death occurred at eight o'clock this morning at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Haggart, Brock street, of Mr. Jos. Sproule, a well-known resident of Peterborough.

The late Mr. Sproule was 86 years of age, and has been unwell for some time past. The deceased was a native of Tyrone, Ireland, and came to this country 45 years ago, settling in North Monaghan. He afterwards moved into town, where he has lived retired for the past 25 years. He was an adherent of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. The late Mr. Sproule's wife predeceased him last April, and there still survive him two sons and a daughter. The sons are Messrs. A. H. R., of Tyrone, Ireland; and G. B., of Montana. The daughter is Mrs. John Haggart, of town.

The funeral will take place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Haggart, Brock street, on Monday afternoon at 2 p. m., to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE REFERENDUM.

The Campaign now in Full Swing—Special Services.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, of Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto, and General Secretary of the Department of Moral and Temperance Reform, will open the campaign in the town with a day of special services in the West, Centre and East.

In the morning at 11 o'clock Dr. Chown will preach in St. Andrew's church; in the afternoon a mass meeting will be held in the Murray street Baptist church; and in the evening at the George street Methodist church.

On Monday the ministers of the county will meet in the Y.M.C.A. at 3 p.m., to confer on the work of the forthcoming campaign, and to arrange for representation throughout the county.

On Monday evening there will be the big meeting in the George street Methodist church at 8 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. Chown will give an address. Mr. G. W. Mulligan has kindly taken charge of the training of a special male chorus for that evening. Everybody will be made welcome.

A free will offering will be taken at all services for the work thus undertaken.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

An Increase of Over $5,000 Over the Returns of October, 1901.

The customs returns for the Port of Peterborough are jumping ahead by leaps and bounds, there being an increase of $5,788 in the returns of the month of October, 1902, over the same month last year. The amount of customs collected this year was $16,788.62, and during October a year ago there was $11,016.65 collected.

There are more collections at Peterborough in one month than there are collected in the same period at Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope and Lindsay.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

A Meeting of the Executive Yesterday Afternoon—The Lectures.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Executive of the Fortnightly Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. Every member of the Executive was present. They were, Mr. J. Jeffries, President; Sheriff Hall, Rev. J. C. Davidson, T.A.S. Hay, C. Fessenden, R. F. McWilliams and John Green, Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, Mrs. Bennett, Miss Halliday and Miss Jessie Denniston.

It was decided to have a course of four lectures. The gentlemen who will deliver three of these will be determined at once, whilst the fourth will be held over for some time in the hope that some exceptionally good man should be selected. The idea is to have two prominent public men, and two professors deliver addresses and the public may depend upon a rare treat.

The organization of the men's section of the Club is proceeding quietly, but the ladies will take no action in this regard as they consider that it would conflict with the reading circles.

ADVANCED THERAPEUTIC APPLIANCE.

Dr. Carmichael's Influence Apparatus.

The improvements in mechanical surgery have perhaps made more advance than has been made in any other branch of science, and the successful modern surgeon has to be a most diligent student and be much alert to keep in touch with the most improved methods. Dr. Carmichael has added to the equipment of his surgery one of the most wonderful of modern therapeutic appliances. This consists of a mechanism for the application of the wonderful X-rays, the Morton-Wimshurst-Holtz influence machine. These applied by aid of this appliance to certain forms of disease yield wonderful results. Sarcoma, cancer and lupus exedens, the latter a most hideous and loathsome form of disease, yield very readily, one application giving visible results of a beneficial character, and more persistent use in a large number of cases effecting a cure. The same applies generally to other morbid conditions, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, etc. Dr. Carmichael has already used, with gratifying results, this new appliance, which is one of the few in the Province outside of Toronto.

GAME WAS A TIE.

Peterborough put up a Great Game This Afternoon.

A despatch at half time from Ottawa states that the game between Peterborough and the Rough Riders stood 0-0. O'Meara, of Ottawa, is referee, and Brennan, of the same city, is umpire. Peterborough was aggressive throughout the first half.

Another despatch from Ottawa at 3.50 p.m., states that the game resulted in a score of 4—4. There were no accidents.

Artists' Materials.

Every artist is interested in artists' materials at this season of the year. The Peterborough Bookstore has a complete stock of Winsor & Newton's artist colours. All the standard oil colours we are selling at 8 cents per tube; larger tubes of white for 8 cents; Winsor & Newton's first quality of canvas, 27 inches wide, for 60 cents per yard. No use in using cheap substitutes for the genuine at the same price. Any person buying $1 worth of artist's materials is entitled to the loan of one of our art studies for two weeks to enable them to copy the subject. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 George street.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

THEY'RE HERE AT LAST

We beg leave to announce the arrival of our Fall and Winter stock of Misses' and Children's Cloaks. These goods should have been here just six weeks ago, which means a loss of six weeks' selling to us, but it also means a big saving to those who have deferred buying their coats till now, as we are in a position to-day (owing to the delay in their arrival,) of offering them to you at a tremendous reduction from the original prices. This shipment includes One Hundred and Fifty Misses' and Children's Coats, and Twenty-Five Ladies' Coats, all thoroughly up-to-date goods, in every particular. We have made a big claim on the manufacturer for not delivering them on time, and we give you the full benefit of this claim. Come and see what a saving it means to you.

SPECIAL PRICES ON ALL COATS.

We also beg leave to announce that in sympathy with this Misses' and Children's Sale we will also give a special reduction on all other Coats in stock, Ladies' Misses' and Children's, which ought to make this sale doubly interesting to you. If you want a coat for yourself or any of the children, don't fail to take advantage of this opportunity.

MR. GUILLETT'S ACCIDENT.

While Shooting Ducks the Barrel of His Gun Burst.

Mr. George Guillett, of Cobourg, ex-M.P., for Northumberland, who has been spending a few days at his residence on Stony Lake, met with a most serious accident on Monday last. Mr. Guillett was out duck shooting at the time. In firing at a flock of ducks the barrel of the gun exploded, smashing it to pieces, and inflicting a terrible wound on the left hand. The wrist was badly injured, and the thumb left hanging by fragments of skin from the hand. Mr. Guillett, who is a man of great courage and presence of mind, instantly made a tourniquet with his handkerchief and a piece of stick, and binding the injured member up as well as he could, paddled with one hand to Windsor's farm, near Burleigh, nearly a mile and a half from his own place and got one of the family to telephone for a doctor from the Burleigh Hotel. It was nearly four hours before Dr. W. A. Baker was enabled to come to his help, but Mr. Guillett bore the pain with Spartan fortitude. The injured man was taken to the residence of his cousin in Lakefield, Mr. Levi Payne. We understand that Mr. Guillett is progressing favourably, and that, barring danger from blood poisoning, it will not be long before he is in a fair way to recover some portion at any rate of the use of his hand.—Lakefield News.

Don't pay a canvasser $5.00 for a teacher's Bible when you can get a good one at Sallsbury's for $1.40.

Reds and Blues.

The last stage in the Y. M. C. A. membership contest has begun and between now and the 15th, when the contest closes, there should be great activity among the contestants. It will be an opportunity too for all members to invite their friends to join. The score now stands,—Blues [illegible] Reds 124. Renewals count as well as new members.

MOVING NORTHWARD.

Many Hunters Taking to the Woods—Another Peterborough Party.

To-day at noon another party left for the north country. Those who left this morning form the Ball Lake Hunting party. They went by train to Lakefield and will be met at that place by Mr. W. T. C. Boyd's yacht and conveyed to their hunting grounds, and will occupy the house-boat, Lotus. They will be joined at Lakefield by Mr. J. Edwards of Lindsay.

FOR TURTLE LAKE.

The Turtle Lake hunting party left Lakefield on Thursday for their camping ground at Turtle Lake. The party is composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. J Baladon, C Baladon, Dr. J R Fraser, W H Casement, Geo Baptie, W J Baptie, C Young and W E Brooks and P P Young, of Young's Point.

Mr. T. Gordon and sons, Gilbert, William and Charlie will camp at Cedar Lake for a two week's hunt.

PENCIL LAKE PARTY.

The Crawford-Kidd Hunting Party of Lakefield, left on Thursday for their annual hunt at Pencil Lake, Cavandish Township. The party believe in having comfort when they go on a hunt, and had a fine hunting lodge built this fall. The following gentlemen are in the party:—Messrs. A Hendren, C D Crawford, A J Kidd, Rev. C A Campbell, Wm. Preston, G Preston and W J White, of Peterborough.

AT JACK'S LAKE.

The Jack's Lake party left yesterday morning for Jack's Lake. The party go as far as Mt. Julian on the Empress, and drive from there into the lake. The following hunters are in the party:—Messrs. R C Strickland, W V Reynolds, Dr. Eastwood, J J Gould, Jr., P Doughty, Dr. Neill, Peterborough; John Bull, London, Eng.; Dr. Wells, Guelph; and J W Allen, Toronto.

Messrs. F X Fortier, P Phelan and J E Kearney will have a two week's hunt in Burleigh.

Messrs. Amos, Shear, Fred McMullin, H. Taylor, Alanwick; R. McCamus, Keene, and Dr. Stoddart, Rochester, comprised a party of hunters who arrived on No. 21 train yesterday morning and left on the Klondyke for Deer Lake, on the I. B. & O Railway, where they will hunt mountain mutton for the next two weeks.—Lindsay Post.

The Orono Hunt Club, comprising Bowmanville, Newcastle and Orono gentlemen, passed through to-day.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE fine deed of life-saving, which won for Miss Isabel Hay, the medal of the Royal Humane Society, suggests a reflection or two. It was her ability to swim, conjoined with her coolness, which permitted the wisest and best use of this ability. While coolness is constitutional in some persons, it is induced, in a larger degree, in cases of danger, by the knowledge of the ability to swim — the knowledge that one has a fighting chance for life tends to beget coolness. This points then the moral that every girl who frequents the water—in bathing suit or boat—should learn to swim. In these days of dwelling at summer resorts, of boating, etc., the danger of drowning is ever present, especially where the capricious canoe is so much used, and it should be made a law — the law of common sense and common prudence — that no person who is not able to swim should enter a canoe.

WHEN some food but, perhaps, impatient wife, wishes to make an otherwise useless husband of some use in maintaining her, she delicately feeds him on delicate doses of arsenic, with results which the heartless life assurance companies often fail to appreciate. In spite of the popular idea that arsenic is only a poison, it is of most important use in medicine, and in the arts, and is often the medium of providing us with potatoes. Paris green—arsenite of copper—is a base of the bane of the potato bug, and is used in mixtures for spraying fruit trees, etc. The only place in Otario where arsenic is produced, is at the Deloro mines, Hastings county, where eighty tons per month is turned out. The medicinal dose of arsenic (arsenious acid) is from one-sixteenth to one-fifteenth of a grain, so that half a grain would be a fatal dose. At this rate there is enough arsenic produced at the Deloro mines every few days to kill the entire population of the earth.

* * * * * *

SOME persons have peculiar ideas about newspapers. A correspondent of a contemporary objects to the opinion, expressed through this column, that Saturday be employed as one of the days of the Teachers' Convention. A journal has the duty of reflecting all shades of public opinion, especially respecting anything supported and maintained by the public. If "Teacher" had a bona-fide wish to correct a popular misconception, he might have addressed his correction to the source where the alleged misconception was expressed. Newspapers do not have antipositics, and, if in the discharge of a duty to the public, unwitting injustice is done to any person or class, it is always a pleasure to make amends. Especially in the case of grievance better founded than that of "Teacher," who assumed to speak as a distant teacher, and whose letter appeared on Monday in answer to a paragraph in a paper published on Saturday, which could not have reached a remote district before Monday, not to speak of writing and mailing a reply.

* * * * * *

THERE is no doubt that as "Teacher" says the members of his profession are not by any means, overpaid. This regrettable condition is perhaps due, to some extent, to the law of supply and demand. Abundance of a commodity or service tends to "bear" prices and salaries, and and trustees do not perhaps in all cases recognize, as should be done, the responsibility of teachers and the value of their services.

MR. ARTHUR S. But perhaps we can't expect a Peterborough boy to go further in doing credit to this district's piscatorial pre-eminence than he has done.

* * * * * *

THE man who advocates the setting up of the whipping post in Toronto is not a practical man. Any Hamilton journalist can tell him that the skin of a pachyderm is so tough that Toronto criminals would only feel a titillation from the play of even a Russian knout.

* * * * * *

NOW is the time of the year when we get on our storm windows and doors, and begin to shovel a big slice of the year's income into the furnace; and now is the time when the aspiring local politician begins to lay pipes to connect with the aldermanic chair. Of course the ratepayer will listen respectfully to the veiled candidate's siren song, but if he is wise he will commit himself rashly to nothing by way of promise. A promising elector may make a promising candidate, but that does not necessarily make a promising, or, rather, performing, alderman.

* * * * * *

ONE half a dozen streets in Toronto, pavement laying has been delayed by the refusal of the Bell Telephone and Electric Light Companies to remove their poles. It is all right to give street franchises to corporations on proper conditions, but the line should be drawn at giving the corporations the streets themselves. Some Peterborough citizens feel that our past civic representatives have given too liberal street franchises, and sometimes the error is on the other side — possibly a street franchise is given, and then a high assessment rate takes the graciousness, as well as considerable cold cash, out of the favour.

* * * * * *

SPECIFICALLY, and not generally speaking, it may be remarked that the placing of our electric lights is sometimes done without due consideration of the surroundings. In different parts of the town lights are so placed that when the trees are in full leaf, the portions of the streets at a little distance from the lights, are plunged into darkness as dense, almost, as if there were no light at all.

* * * * * *

APROPOS of trees, there seems to be a local mania this fall for cutting down shade trees. In Hamilton, they are advocating the cutting of trees to relieve the fuel strain. Poor, benighted, Hamilton may do that, but not we in Peterborough. But it is easily possible when a man is bringing himself to the heart-breaking point of cutting down a shade tree he has seen grow from a twig, and possibly planted the year his boy was born, he may have the point decided, perhaps unconsciously, by the feeling that berides shading the house too much, the tree will yield a considerable quantity of good fuel.

WHOSO says that ladies are spiteful errs therein. She sweetly comes to the defence of a society sister accused of retailing gossip—and says that she does not retail it; she wholesales it.

* * * * * *

THE City Fathers have decided to dispense with the reading of the minutes at future sessions of the Town Council. Town Clerk Armstrong will supply them with a type-written copy of the proceedings, and by dint of spelling this out between sessions, the Aldermen will be able to take the minutes "as read," and plunge at once into the congenial work of spending the people's money, which they do, as a rule, in a reasonably economical way.

RE the Chinese lad, Hop Sing, who was fined for assault in the Police Court a day or two ago. Without the least idea of traversing the correctness of the decision of the court, or considering the circumstances, this case suggests many known instances in which Chinamen have been subjected to annoyances and teasing which would exhaust the patience of a saint, not to speak of a Celestial sinner with nothing but joss-house jugglery as a moral counterpoise. Under these circumstances resort to the lex talionis is excusable, if not justifiable, and any Christian man domiciled in China and harried as Chinamen are here would knock the head off his tormentors. While the Mongolian may not be a desirable citizen, he is living under the shelter of the flag, and is entitled to its protection, especially as long as he minds his own business, pays his way, though in his own way, and earns his living, which is more than can be said of many of the hoodlums that tease him, who live idle, loafing lives and "sponge on the hard earnings of their parents.

PETERBOROUGH has reason to be proud of a former citizen. Yesterday the British, or perhaps more correctly, the Canadian Pacific Cable—7,900 miles in length—which completes the all-British telegraphic span of the globe, was officially opened. The construction of this cable, which is regarded as an accomplishment of very large Imperial importance, is very greatly due to the persistent and energetic advocacy and promotion of Sir Sanford Fleming, a former resident of Peterborough, and brother-in-law of Mr. Sheriff Hall. The completion of this cable brings the most widely separated units of the Empire within, so to say, speaking distance of each other.

THE G. T. R. has "got a gate on" at last. This one is at the Charlotta street crossing. This is all the more important since in the matter of traffic this solid old line is decidely in the swim and takes not only headers but double headers several times a day. Let the C.P.R. take example, and not "flag" in their enterprise much longer.

ICHABOD is written on the portals of the private bank. It takes the world a long time to learn that the right way is the right way. There is a tendency in the human heart to kick against orthodoxy in religious as well as secular matters. The most absurd religious cult, the most sharky speculative enterprise will find followers and patrons. We have chartered banks with millions of capital behind them, yet a private bank business established on the wrecks of hundreds of others, gets its patrons the same as hay-fork schemes, gold brick games, and allied fakes. We have qualified physicians yet thousands will rush to quack-salvers and gorge themselves with every new patent medicine that comes out. We have reputable newspapers, and otherwise level-headed business men will prefer as advertising media, all sorts of schemes, presented by plausible outsiders. Some private banks are sound and solvent, but the numerous examples we have had, of the disastrous wrecks they have caused, should lead to universal preference for chartered banks, with their millions of capital as security.

* * * * * *

THIS leads to an emphasis of some of the dangers of stock speculation. It is said that the Lakefield collapse was indirectly, if not directly, due to disastrous dabbling in stocks. While speculation in stocks may be all right for those with money of their own, or with money they can raise on their own credit, without imperilling the claims of creditors, yet it is dangerous to the last degree for those entrusted with the money of others. There may be no dishonest intention, but when the frisky mutations of stocks demands money to protect previous ventures, the temptation is too strong, the money of others is used, of course to be replaced when the rosy dream of big profits is realized. But the market drops, as recently occurred; the money is swept away and of course disaster follows, and hundreds are defrauded, if not in intention, then in fact, which is quite as bad, for the victims.

A SUNDAY NIGHT BURGLARY.

The Residence of Mr. Syer Entered and Ransacked.

This afternoon Mrs. Syer reported the robbery of Mr. Syers' residence, 212 Barnardo avenue, on Sunday night last, while all the family were at church. By advice of the police department the matter was kept quiet in the hope of obtaining a clue but as no results in this direction have up to to-day followed, Mrs. Syer thought it was well to report the case and put others on their guard. The burglars, who from the manner of operations, seem to have been amateurs, probably boys, used a ladder to reach a hall window, which they raised and left supported by a pocket knife, which was handed to the police to be used in cutting the Gordian knot of the robbers' identity. Once in the house the thieves ransacked every possible place, or article of deposit, or concealment of valuables. The ground floor was treated similarly. The pockets of Mr. Syers' clothing were turned out, and in a drawer was found Mrs. Syers' purse, containing $7, and her daughter's with some small change in it.

TO LIGHT THE VILLAGE.

Havelock Citizens are Moving in the Matter.

The Havelock Standard says: On Friday night last a special meeting of the town council was held in the council chamber at the request of Mr. Scott, representing the Canadian Carbon Company, of Toronto. Mr. Scott addressed the council in reference to the street lamps manufactured by the firm in question, samples of which he had placed on the streets for a few nights last week. The lights will cost about $600, and it will take from $12 to $18 per year to maintain each light. After considerable discussion on the matter, Councillor Knox moved that a public meeting of the ratepayers be called to take place in the town hall on Wednesday evening next, Nov. 5th, in order to ascertain the views of the citizens in regard to the matter. This was unanimously carried, and the meeting adjourned.

WINTER READING.

Some Literature for Canadians Written of Canada by Canadians.

In the Canadian Magazine for October Mr. A. H. U. Colquhoun has an article on winter reading, in which he reminds us that Canada has quite a literature of her own, and that our reading public should not neglect it—not that people should read the books because they are produced here, but because they may be useful to us. Mr. Colquhoun thinks it quite as absurd to underrate as to overrate the native literature, and he mentions a number of works in history, biography, autobiography, and fiction that a Canadian ought to read. If one cannot indulge in the splendid treat of reading Parkman, he can at least read Prof. Pelham Edgar's "The Romance of Canadian History," made up of selections from Parkman, and it may be added that he who reads selected chapters from the writings of that fascinating historian will thirst for more. There are several books, among those mentioned by Mr. Colquhoun, that are probably not read by Canadians generally, and the fact cannot be considered other than a regrettable one. It may be that the biographies of our public men are political, or even partizan, and yet if these works were widely read it cannot be doubted that they would spread a useful knowledge of the country's affairs. To what extent are the biographies of Sir John Macdonald and Alexander Mackenzie read by the young men of this country? In the city they find comparatively few readers, but out in the country, where no book is wasted, these books have had some circulation. The city youth acquires much of his acquaintance with public affairs and political history through the medium of [illegible]tion, very often grotesque and [illegible]able, and so it follows th[illegible]erature, politics and ever[illegible]taining to us as a people is taken more seriously by those who are country-bred. Viewing the past with more seriousness, they approach the future with stauncher intention, and often accomplish larger results. In the cities especially there should be a wider reading of Canadian history and biography, even though similar works dealing with other nations and times must be left unread.

SAVE THH BABY.

A Mother Tells how Many a Threatened Life may be Preserved.

To the loving mother no expense is too great, no labour too severe, if it will preserve the health of her little ones. Childish ills are generally simple, but so light is baby's hold on life that it is often a knowledge of the right thing to do that turns the tide at a crisis. And in baby's illness every crisis is a critical one. "I think the timely use of Baby's Own Tablets would save many a dear little life," writes Mrs. P. B. Bickford, of Glen Sutton, Que. "I take pleasure in certifying to the merits of these Tablets, as I have found them a sure and reliable remedy. My baby was troubled with indigestion at teething time and was cross and restless. The use of Baby's Own Tablets made a wonderful change and I am glad to recommend them to others." Mothers who use these Tablets never afterwards resort to harsh purgatives that gripe and torture baby, nor to the so-called "soothing" preparations that often contain poisonous opiates. Baby's Own Tablets are pleasant to take, and guaranteed to be harmless. Send 25c. for a full sized box to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., if your druggist does not sell them.

BOND TREATY SATISFACTORY.

Premier Submits It to Colleagues on Return From Washington.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 1.—Premier Bond has returned here from Washington. In an interview yesterday, the Premier said he had succeeded in negotiating a convention with the Washington authorities; that, on Oct. 18, the British Foreign Office instructed Ambassador Herbert to sign this convention, and that he then started for home, his work in Washington being completed. The Premier added that he had submitted the terms of this treaty to his colleagues in the Cabinet here and that they regard it as eminently satisfactory. The terms of the treaty will be published as soon as possible, he said.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

The Remarkable and Happy Result of Timely Advice in the Case of a Hamilton Young Lady.

It is a wise friend indeed, that gives us the right advice in our extremity.

Miss Lizzie Watling, dressmaker, at 177 King William street, Hamilton, Ont., has good reason to be thankful to a friend of hers for some good advice given in an hour of need.

Miss Watling was for several years a great sufferer with Dyspepsia. The pain she had to endure was very trying.

She got at least so that she could eat nothing that would digest without giving her much distress. She says:

"I could not get anything to relieve me of my trouble till a friend of mine advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I will always be grateful to her for this advice for they not only relieved me but in a short time completely cured me.

"This was five years ago and since then I am happy to say that I have not had any stomach trouble whatever, and of course, I am satisfied that my cure was a perfect and permanent one.

"I can and will always heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to anyone who may be suffering from stomach trouble, for I am sure from my own experience that they are the very best medicine for that sort of thing. Indeed, I found them to be the only medicine and they therefore have my heartiest recommendation."

There are medicines that relieve stomach troubles, but Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do more, they not only relieve but absolutely and forever cure the most chronic cases.

Miss Watling's case is ample proof of this statement.

Hers was not a trifling case, but a very serious one. She had suffered for years and had got to the point when everything that entered her stomach brought with it pain and distress.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured her five years ago and her statement positively proves that she has stayed cured.

CANADA'S COAL FIELDS.

Our Deposits of Black Diamonds Are in the Far East and the Far West —Area of Production.

Canada's coal deposits are in the far East and the far West. That is why we in Ontario are dependent upon the United States for our supply

In the year 1900 the output of the British Columbia coal mines amounted to 1,590,179 tons. Of this quantity 1,383,375 tons came from the Vancouver Island fields, the remainder being yielded by the mines of the Crow's Nest Pass. By far the larger part of the British Columbia coal is sold outside of Canada, to purchasers in California, the Hawaiian Islands, and Alaska. The China and Australian steamships are also large consumers. In 1900 California took 766,917 tons, which was somewhat more than half the yield of the British Columbia mines for that year. The Nanaimo, the Wellington, the Union, and the Alexandria are the great collieries of Vancouver Island. The coal produced on the island is of a hard bituminous variety, more closely resembling the Welsh coal than that of Ohio. It is of a high grade, both for steam and coking purposes, and is largely used for house heating. At Nanaimo the principal mine is directly on the shore and the galleries are pushed out far under the water, so that as at Cape Breton, vessels may load with coal that is extracted immediately beneath them. The producing mines are in the hands of private companies.

Mr. J. McEvoy, an official of the Geological Survey, made a report on the Crow's Nest coal field in the Rocky Mountains, which he explored for the purpose in 1900. He estimates the extent of the coal area there at 230 square miles, or 147,200 acres. He calculates that the yield per acre should be 153,480 tons of 2,240 pounds, and the total yield 22,595,200,000 tons. Of this area 50,000 acres is owned by the Dominion, the remainder belonging to the Crow's Nest Pass Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. In 1900 the Crow's Nest Pass Company raised 206,803 tons, of which 47,353 tons were for coke-making purposes. There were exported to the United States 7,968 tons of coal and 38,958 tons of coke, the remainder of the output being sold in Canada. Geologists report upwards of 50 workable seams of coal in the Crow's Nest region. These seams vary in thickness from 4 to 30 feet, and about one-third of them are cannel, the remainder bituminous. Some years ago Dr. Selwyn, at that time director of the Geological Survey, estimated the coal there at 75,000,000,000 tons, more than three times the quantity Mr. McEvoy places it at. Mr. McEvoy's figures are considered very conservative. Analysis of coals from the pass have been made by the Geological Survey. They show from 67 per cent to 69 per cent. of fixed carbon. Other analysis are said to have shown as much as 78 to 80 per cent. of carbon present. A coke containing 93 per cent. of carbon has been obtained from Crow's Nest coal. A portion of the Crow's Nest deposit extends into Alberta district. Upon this extension the British America Coal Company has done a great deal of prospecting.

Besides the spur from the Crow's Nest coal fields, there are other deposits in the Northwest Territories. In Alberta there are mines at Lethbridge, Anthracite, Canmore, and Edmonton. Farther to the east are the Souris mines. About half the total production is taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It has not yet reached half a million tons in one year. The anthracite coal near Banff is quite equal to that of Pennsylvania, and is used for car heating and for domestic consumption. An almost smokeless coal is that produced at Canmore. The Galt coal mines at Lethbridge yield a good bituminous coal, well adapted for railway uses. It was estimated by Dr. Dawson that the coal measures stretching from Lethbridge, eastward, along the American border to Manitoba, cover 15,000 square miles. In the Yukon district there are numerous lignite areas, from which coal, yielding 40 per cent. of fixed carbon, is mined.

In 1901 the Dominion Coal Company raised 2,561,783 tons from its Cape Breton mines. Of this quantity 863,683 tons were delivered at St. Lawrence ports, and about 600,000 tons was exported to the United States. Altogether, in 1901, there was produced in Nova Scotia 3,800,000 tons. The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company is a large producer. Its chief property is at Sydney mines, Cape Breton. In Inverness County considerable progress has been made in development. Pictou County mines and those of Cumberland County are productive. Ten or twelve companies are raising coal in Nova Scotia.

The mines held by the Dominion Coal Company are under a lease from the Provincial Government, to which the company pays a royalty. In a statement, made under examination, by Dr. F. L. Slocum, of the Pittsburg Gas Engineering Company, before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, the coal of the International mine of Nova Scotia was ranked about equal in value to the best product of Pennsylvania mines.

From the Duke of York, to whom the coal lands of Nova Scotia were granted by King William IV., under an Act of the Royal prerogative, they passed by lease to the General Mining Association in 1826. The lease called for the payment to the Duke of a royalty of 1s. a ton. For a time the General Mining Association had a monopoly of coal production in Nova Scotia. Active mining was begun in 1830. In 1857 the Duke of York's lease was surrendered, and the mines now operated by the Dominion Coal Company became the property of the Province. By the Province they were leased to the Dominion Coal Company. But the General Mining Association—a British corporation—retained the coal fields at Sydney mines—an extremely valuable property—until a few years ago, when they were purchased by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company.

An Obstinate Case of Eczema.

Mr. W. D. Johnson, Tilsonburg, Ont., writes that his father was entirely cured of a long standing and obstinate case of Eczema by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. His leg and foot was a mass of sores that refused to heal and he suffered terribly from the itching and stinging. Though he used a great many remedies and was treated by first-class doctors no permanent relief was obtained until he used Dr. Chase's Ointment.

A TRENTON LADY'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Mrs. W. H. Alexander, of that town, suffered from a serious attack of catarrh of the bladder, had swelling of the hands and feet, pain in the back, dizzy spells, and general weakness.

Patent medicines and local doctors' treatment didn't do much good—Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets worked wonders, making a complete cure.

MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Alexander, of Trenton, Ont., are much pleased to see her around and well again, after suffering greatly for two or three years from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles, which ordinary patent medicines and treatments failed to benefit.

Mrs. Alexander, when spoken to about the means of her recovery, unhesitatingly gave all the praise to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, the new, scientific treatment for kidney troubles, which is making so many remarkable cures in all parts of the country.

MRS. ALEXANDER'S STATEMENT.

"Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I consider a great boon to sufferers from kidney trouble. For two or three years I was greatly troubled with pain in my back. At times it became so severe that I was hardly able to get around and do my work, in fact, some months I could not do it at all. I used several preparations which were highly recommended by friends, but found very little relief from them, and afterwards became worse than before until I seemed to be afflicted with all kinds of ailments—a distressing pain in the stomach, sick headache, and occasionally swelling of the hands and feet. The headache became so persistent and severe, I concluded I had neuralgia. Then came the bladder trouble and complications. I called in my doctor, and he diagnosed the case as catarrh of the bladder. He treated me and helped me some at first, but the benefit was not lasting. I would at times have dizzy spells, dark specks floated before my eyes, tired feeling, and a dragging steady pain in the loins. I again started using patent medicines, and this time made up my mind to give them a thorough trial. I took ten boxes of one well-known kidney pill, but they did not touch my case. One day a little boy threw a book in my door advertising Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

"I read the book carefully, and took a bottle of the Tablets according to directions. It seemed strange, realizing the condition I was in, but before that bottle was finished, I was a changed woman. I went to Mr. Shurie's drug store and purchased another bottle, and after taking this second one, I happened to call on a friend, who expressed surprise at the change in my appearance. Formerly I had a pained, weary expression, but now, as I felt well, I could not help showing it. Although not completely cured. I felt that Dr. Pitcher's Tablets were working wonders for me. I continued their use for some time, taking in all ten bottles, but I did not begrudge the cost in the slightest, for had they only succeeded in giving me temporary relief I would have been grateful, but they have done more—they have completely and permanently cured me.

"My son, a young man of about 16 years of age, who works in the paint shop, and is subject to severe headaches at times on account of the absorption into the system of the lead and turpentine, says that the Tablets just suit him and he always keeps them in the house now.

"I have recommended the Tablets to several of my friends, among whom was Mrs. Geo. Huyck, of Dundas street, who told me they were the best remedy she has ever taken.

'I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets to all those who may be suffering as I was, and you are at liberty to use my name and testimonial in any way you choose.

(Signed) "MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER."

WHAT MR. SHURIE, Druggist, says:

When Mr. Jas. Shurie, the well-known Trenton druggist, was spoken to about Mrs. Alexander's case, he readily confirmed what she said, and gladly gave the following statement for publication:

"I know Mrs. William Alexander, of Francis street, and can endorse what she says of her cure by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. She purchased the Tablets from me, and I have frequently heard her speak of the great benefit she derived from their use.

(Signed) "JAS. SHURIE."

The many well authenticated cases we are publishing of cures of severe kidney trouble, put doubt out of the question as to the efficacy of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, for backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the hands and feet, specks or mist before the eyes, dizziness, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding or irritation, frequent calls during the day or night, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid in the blood, rheumatism, unnatural drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, dragging pains in the loins, weakness of the kidneys in children and old people, and all forms of kidney, bladder and urinary diseases. Women who suffer from the effects of kidney derangement can find no remedy that will do them so much good as these Tablets. They are chocolate-coated, small in size, easy to take, and never fail to give prompt relief.

Fifty Tablets in a bottle. Price 50 cents, or three bottles for $1.25, at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont

THE MISSION OF DOROTHY

By EMILY S. WINDSOR

Copyright, 1901, by E. S. Windsor

Cyril Moore, lawyer, was not noted for the suavity of his manner nor the mildness of his glance. Both were unusually severe this morning, and he was not inclined to deal gently with his disturber. He had been interrupted in the consideration of an important matter, but Dorothy Dale's brown eyes never flinched before his deep set gray ones.

"Please, may I talk to you a few minutes?" she asked in her soft little voice.

"I am very busy," he returned, "and gave orders that I was not to be disturbed."

"The elevator boy showed me your office, and there was no one in the other room, and so I came in," said Dorothy.

The lawyer made an impatient movement, mentally resolving upon the censure which Wilson should receive for leaving the entrance to the office unguarded.

Two little red spots had crept into Dorothy's face, but she went on bravely:

"You see," she began, "I"—

The lawyer again moved impatiently and frowned, but his small visitor persisted.

"It is so important, you see." There was a keen note of anxiety in her voice, but the brown eyes never wavered. And what was there in their depths which brought to the lawyer's mind a vague memory and made him look at his visitor with a stirring of interest, then hesitate and finally push aside the papers over which he had been absorbed and say shortly:

"What is it? I can give you a few minutes."

"Oh, thank you," said Dorothy politely. "It is about that position in the Hilton school."

Cyril stared in surprise. What could this little, old fashioned girl have to say about that? It would be interesting to know. He pushed his papers farther away and leaned back in his seat.

"Sit down," he said, pointing to a chair. Dorothy obeyed with a grave "Thank you," settling herself comfortably in the chair which was so high that her feet were quite a distance from the ground. Her blue felt sailor hat was pushed back on her head, and several soft brown rings of her hair had found their way to her forehead. She lifted her clear eyes to the lawyer, and again their depths vaguely stirred his heart.

"You see, auntie lost all her money in Boston, and so we had to come here to live. Auntie owns a little house here, and she says that is better than nothing. And yesterday Mrs. Pruden told her they wanted a teacher in that school and that auntie must try to get it right away."

"Oh, indeed," ejaculated Cyril.

"You see," she went on in a confidential tone, "auntie knows a lot of things. She belonged to ever so many clubs in Boston. Every one says that she is so clever."

Dorothy paused to see if the lawyer was properly impressed with the importance of her aunt's acquirements.

"Yes," said Cyril politely.

"Mrs. Pruden told auntie that you could let her teach that school, but last evening a letter came from Mr. White in Boston to say auntie must come to see him right off. You see, he attends to all of her business. So she had to go on the early train this morning." Here Dorothy stopped, out of breath.

Cyril uttered an interrogative "Yes."

Dorothy smiled up at him. "And I was afraid she might be too late when she came back, and then it will be such a nice surprise for her when she does come back for me to tell her I came to see you about it."

"Then she doesn't know what you are doing?" queried Cyril.

"Oh, no. I waited till she was gone."

"Where do you live?" questioned Cyril.

"Over on Rose Crescent."

The lawyer did not recognise the locality, but there had been many changes in the old town during those years in which he had been absent from it.

"Auntie will be a splendid teacher. You see, she's so sweet. Won't you please try her?"

In her eagerness Dorothy arose and stood beside Cyril, placing her hand in its woolen mitten on his arm.

The little action thrilled him. A sudden realization of the loneliness of his life smote him, and again the child's brown eyes awoke that memory.

"Please, won't you?" urged Dorothy, with an unconscious pressure of his arm.

Cyril looked down into the eager face with an expression in his own that few had seen there during later years.

"I'll see what I can do. I must know more of her qualifications. I mean," he explained kindly, "if she knows all the things that the person who teaches in that school must know I'll do my best."

"Oh, thank you. I'll go now." Dorothy slipped off the mitten and gravely tendered her hand to the lawyer. He rose and bowed over it with more ceremony than he had for many years shown any other member of her sex.

Dorothy flashed a confiding smile at him and tripped jauntily away through the outer office, much to the surprise of Wilson, who was now at his post.

Wilson was still more surprised that afternoon when on going into the lawyer's private room he found him putting his desk in order and was waved away with: "Don't bother me with that now. It's such a fine afternoon I think I'll take a walk and look at that Dorren property."

Wilson went back to his desk. He furtively watched the lawyer as the latter put on overcoat, hat and gloves. It was the first time within his knowledge that Cyril had set aside an important matter. What had happened?

The lawyer walked on with rapid stride. There was in the air a suggestion of the spring which was not yet near.

On the corner an organ grinder was playing popular airs. A little farther on a flower vender was offering bouquets of violets for sale. The scent of the flowers floated up to him, and the memories awakened earlier in the day by a pair of childish eyes were again stirred. Cyril bought one of the fragrant purple clusters, fastening it in the lapel of his coat with a smile. When had he done such a thing?

As he walked along his glance fell upon a lamppost bearing the name "Rose Crescent."

A sudden remembrance came to him of his little visitor of the morning. That was where she had said she lived. He recalled his promise to do what he could for her aunt. Why not call upon her and find out her fitness for the position? He paused to glance up and down the street.

But the child had not told him her aunt's name or their number. Then it was useless to consider it further. Still he would like to please that child.

He was walking on when he heard a flying of small feet behind him and his name called. He turned around to see his little visitor of the morning.

"Oh," she exclaimed. "I was at the window and saw you passing. I thought perhaps you were coming to see us."

"Well," said Cyril, smiling, "you did not tell me your number."

"I forgot," she laughed. "It's in here." They had been walking back, and now she stopped in front of a modest house standing back from the street.

"Come in," she said. "Auntie's just got home. I didn't tell her about it yet."

Cyril followed her up the garden path and into the house. She led him into a room opening off a small hall. A lady seated before an open fire rose at his entrance. She was not very young, and she was very sweet looking, with great brown eyes.

"Madam," began Cyril, "I"—

He broke off abruptly, looked bewildered, then ejaculated, "Rebecca Powers—you"—

"Cyril! Why"—

"You see, auntie, I went to see Mr. Moore about that school. I was afraid you'd be too late, and"— began Dorothy.

But neither her aunt nor the lawyer seemed to hear her. The latter was saying, "She has eyes like yours."

"You see, auntie," began Dorothy once more, but stopped as Cyril spoke again. "To find you here!" His face was flushed, and his eyes were shining. There was a bright color in the cheeks of Dorothy's aunt too. Dorothy was looking at her in surprise. Why, she knew Mr. Moore. Then she would surely get that school.

"Are you still Rebecca Powers? When I saw you last, I thought that you were going to marry"—

Miss Powers interrupted him quietly.

"You were mistaken, but I remember you had a bad habit in those days of jumping at conclusions."

"That one has cost me dear—all these lonely years," he said.

He took the bunch of violets from his coat. "I remember you were always fond of violets, Rebecca. Are you still?" He held the fragrant blossoms toward her, and Miss Powers, after a glance into his face, took them from his hand. She held them to her lips a moment, then fastened them carefully in her bosom.

Dorothy was becoming impatient, but to her great amazement just then Cyril stooped down and kissed her aunt.

Then he turned to Dorothy. "I am going to ask your aunt to take charge of one pupil," he said—"one who needs her very much."

"One pupil!" exclaimed Dorothy. "Why, I"—

But again neither her aunt nor the lawyer seemed to hear her.

WHY?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? A Thing of the Past.

The town crier is a thing of the past, but medical methods as old and as obsolete as the town crier are still practiced in many a country town. Women suffering from womanly diseases shrink from the offensive examinations, indelicate questionings, and obnoxious local treatments, still in vogue with some local practitioners. Any sick woman is invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free, and so avoid methods which are offensive to her modesty. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is peculiarly and particularly a medicine for the cure of womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"You have my heart-felt thanks for the kind advice you sent me," writes Mrs. Florence Archer, of Esseo, Macon Co., Texas. "Words fail to express what I endured for about eight years with female trouble. The awful pain that I had to endure each month, no tongue can express. These bearing-down pains, backache, headache, distress in my stomach and sores in my breast, cramp in limbs—they have all left me and health has taken the place of these distressing troubles. What caused them to leave? It was the best medicine on earth—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In one week's time I began to feel better. After taking six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and using the local treatment you advised I felt like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should always be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

WOLSEY'S FAREWELL.

By William Shakespeare.

Nay, then, farewell!
I have touched the highest point of all my greatness,
And from that full meridian of my glory,
I haste now to my setting. I shall fall
Like a bright exhalation in the evening,
And no man shall see me more.

So, farewell to the little good you bear me.
Farewell, a long farewell, to all my greatness!
This is the state of man; to-day he puts forth
The tender leaves of hopes, to-morrow blossoms,
And bears his blushing honors thick upon him;
The third day comes a frost, a killing frost:
And, when he thinks—good, easy man—full surely
His greatness is a-ripening, nips his root,
And then he falls, as I do. I have ventured
Like little wanton boys that swim on bladders.
This many summers in a sea of glory;
But far beyond my depth: by high-blown pride
At length broke under me; and now has left me,
Weary and old with service, to the mercy
Of a rude stream, that must for ever hide me.
Vain pomp and glory of this world, I hate ye;
I feel my heart new opened. Oh, how wretched
Is that poor man that hangs on princes' favors!
There is, betwixt that smile we would aspire to,
That sweet aspect of princes, and their ruin,
More pangs and fears than wars or women have;
And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer,
Never to hope again.

Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition;
By that sin fell the angels; how can man then,
The image of his maker, hope to win by it?
Love thyself last; cherish those hearts that hate thee;
Corruption wins not more than honesty.
Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,
To silence envious tongues. Be just, and fear not;
Let all the ends thou aimest at be thy country's,
Thy God's, and earth's! then, if thou fall'st, O Cromwell,
Thou fall'st a blessed martyr! Serve the King;
And—— Prithee, lead me in:
There, take an inventory of all I have,
To the last penny; 'tis the king's: my robe
And my integrity to heaven, is all
I dare now call my own. O Cromwell, Cromwell,
Had I but served my God with half the zeal
I served my king, he would not in mine age
Have left me naked to mine enemies.

—From Henry VIII.

Half a Million More Scotchmen.

Details of the seventh decennial census of the population of Scotland were issued in blue-book form recently, together with the report made by the Registrar-General and Dr. Blair Cunynghame to the Secretary for Scotland. The statistical information is conveyed by means of a series of tables covering over four hundred pages.

In June last a preliminary report was issued giving the population of Scotland as 4,472,000. After a revisal of the lists it has been settled that this fell short of the realities by 103 persons. The males numbered 2,178,755, the females 2,293,348. At the date of the previous taking of the census, the population was 4,025,647—the males, 1,942,717; the females, 2,082,930; thus giving a total increase of 446,456 persons, 231,038 being of the male sex, and 215,418 of the female. The rate of increase is, for the sexes combined, 11.09 per cent.; that for the males alone being 11.89 per cent. and for the females 10.84 per cent. This rate of increase, as shown in an appendix is greater by 3.32 per cent. than was the rate at last census, when it was 7.77 per cent.; the male rate of increase at that date being 7.96 per cent. The rate of increase at the present census is higher than any since 1831, when it was 13.04 per cent.

As is always the case, the increase of a population during any period is determined by two factors, the excess of births over deaths and the number of emigrants. From the reports of the Registrar-General it is shown that in Scotland during the intercensal period, 1891-1901, there were registered 1,270,498 births and 780,703 deaths, which leaves an excess of births over deaths of 489,795 persons. The real increase of the population as enumerated, however, is 446,456 persons.—London News.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Nov. 1st, 10.00 a.m.—Brokers report last night that while there was decidedly better class of buying, and much better feeling generally on the political outlook, there was a great deal of manipulation, particularly in the last hour by the Western clique, with the view of a drive in shorts to help advance. It was notable that the foreign exchange here was easier, and higher at Paris, and this was regarded as a somewhat further check of any immediate report of gold exports. We look for a quiet but steady market today. There is probably less interest taken in the bank statement than for some time, owing to coming elections. In some quarters a good statement was expected, but it looks to-day as though this did not prove to be the case. Returns vary from a gain of $300,000 to $639,000 net loss in cash, and much depends on what the loan account will show. Liverpool grain, wheat close 1-8 lower. Corn 1-4 lower. Car lots wheat 128; corn 274; oats 276.

M. & M.

New York, Nov. 1st, 10.00 a.m.—London closed to-day. B.R.T. insiders report earnings steadily increasing. P.A. dividend regular rate. Penna. expected to spend five million on improvements in 1903. Competition in U. S. steel increasing. Industrial outputs hampered by car shortage. Forty-two roads for September show average net for Dec. 3.61 per cent. Fifty-one roads third week in October show average gross increase 7.39 per cent. U. P. report will show ten per cent. on common, with earning capacity 13 per cent. Insiders bullish on Man. on steadily increase in earnings. Rumor of peace between conflicting interests in C. F. I. Car Foundry surplus August 31st, $7,203,000. Increase, $2,231,000. Dunn Review says legitimate business not disturbed by elections.

Dow, Jones & Co.

Cotton.—Prices barely supported mid. 444, unchanged receipts 53,000, amounts 46,300. Futures opened quiet, unchanged, to one point higher than yesterday, and closed quiet at about one decline.

M. & M.

New York, Nov. 1st, 1 p.m.—The relapse of speculation in the stock market to-day to inactivity showed the doubt and hesitation of generality of operators over the position of market and uncertainty of probable immediate future course of prices. Yesterday's advance proved largely a sentimental one and was helped by a movement against shorts. There is a great deal of manipulation on optimistic reports from Republican canvass of state. To-day almost complete stagnation prevailed up to 11.30, less than 100,000 shares being dealt in by that time, with prices showing only fractional changes. After the banks' publication, showing an increase in surplus of $3,755,000 and increase in loans of $7,853,000, $607,000 increase in cash and $11,165,000 increase in deposits. The trading element sold the general list. As all the preliminary estimates on the week's movement of currency showed the banks had practically gained nothing through the regular sources. The increase in cash was attributed wholly due to the accumulation of fund which had come from the Government bonds purchases of ten days ago. The increase in loans was the worst feature of the statement. The banks now hold a surplus of $31,290,600 on the old system calculations, including the full 25 per cent. reserve of cash on all classes of deposits, as against $31,419,525 under the treasury department's ruling, and $10,472,800 last year and $5,960,400 two years ago. Evening up of speculative accounts over Sunday and profit-taking ensued and the market closed irregular and unsettled at general declines. We expect to see some further irregularity in the general market on Monday owing to the uncertainty regarding the result of the elections and also to the probability of gold export commencing early next week and probably soon after election day. Thus far the banking interests have successfully delayed these shipments, but it looks as if they could be no longer deferred. It is known that several commission houses would have shipped some gold this week but for the general criticism which they felt they would be subjected to for starting the movement at this particular time.

M. & M.

New York, Oct. 31st.—After an extensive market movement in either direction it is usually followed by a most spirited turn in the opposite direction, as was the rise of ten points week before last. In accordance with this idea we then advised our friends in these letters, for the time being, to hang on to some of their bargain purchases, and after the week's steady rise on the Friday of that week, advised letting go of your holdings, as in all human probability they could be re-purchased somewhat cheaper. To follow ordinary precedent in such markets, it was fair to assume that such stocks would again decline in some instances to nearly bottom figures of the preceding decline, while on the average they should fall from 1-3 to 2-3 of the way to preceding low prices. Then they should again be a purchase. The present range of prices is now in sequence with the axiom and present market indications are that the market will conform with the customary rule. Consequently, we quite strongly urge purchasing now. Of course, rules for speculation are usually of very little account, but precedent, in instances like the present market, are valuable, and therefore good to look into. Since a week ago Friday, when we advised selling long stocks as you can see in our letter of that date, stocks have declined from two to nine points. They should now be bought again. Had you followed the advice of these letters the past month, during the unsettled and active market that existed, you could well afford to buy now, even if stocks declined two or three points more. We have and do steadily maintain, despite the many for sale tip letters, that no man can always buy right on bottom prices and sell right at top prices. The man who can be deluded into believing such arguments is pretty certain to lose money in Wall street. Successful operaters are those who can buy within two or three points of an upward turning point in the market, disposing of their holdings at any price, showing a profit, say, within two or three points of the prices from which a turn comes in the opposite direction. Students of the market can more readily discern such points than the men playing for actual tape and bottoms. They will be the successful operators.

Summary.—To-day's market was stronger, as foreshadowed in these letters. A strategetic movement was carried out in L.N., running stock down rapidly from 138 to 133 1-2, prior to an advance in which the stock crossed 137. Splendid buying developed in U.P., B.O., Manh. and C.O. Investment demand was discernible in such stocks as N.Y.C., Penna. and St. Paul. Industrials were strong. The market should close the week comparatively strong, and be more lively after election in the event Republican success adds to buy be greater in volume and better range of prices. Money closed at five per cent. Sales 416,000. To-morrow's letter, "Some Telling Figures."

MISS YENNEY WRITES AGAIN.

An Interesting Letter From South Africa.

The Camp had Been in a Somewhat Excited State all Week—Lord Milner's Presence.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Yenney have received the following letter from their daughter, Miss Mabel, who is now in South Africa:

Klerksdorp, Sept. 29th, 1902.

The camp has been in a somewhat excited state all week, for on Tuesday word came that His Excellency Lord Milner intended paying us a visit. As you doubtless know, he is making a sort of unofficial tour through the country, to observe for himself its needs and its possibilities.

He arrived in town about ten o'clock this morning. He came from Lichtenburg—about sixty miles from here—and rode in, an unimposing, unpretentious figure in civilian clothes. And nobody recognized him! After generals in gorgeous uniform, surrounded by a staff in equally resplendent attire, this quietly dressed man—though the greatest in South Africa—attracted no attention. The authorities, however, welcomed him with all respect and honour. He was presented with an address, to which he replied with his usual tact and suavity. Baden-Powell was there as his military escort, and he too was accorded a cordial welcome.

At three, Lord Milner was to arrive at camp, and, punctual to the minute, the carriages drove through the camp gate. Baden-Powell accompanied him to the gate, where the guard demanded his pass. He had none, but informed the burgher in his most imposing manner that he was "Gen. Baden-Powell, Chief of the S. A. C.!" "It doesn't matter to me who you are," replied the guard, "if you haven't a permit, you don't go in." And he didn't, either.

His Excellency was to be received at the office of the camp Superintendent, and a large number of burghers were gathered there, men of all ages, and women in their best attire and stiff, clean kapjes. All the spaces in the crowd were filled by the ubiquitous small boy, who is as much to the fore on such occasions as his Canadian cousin generally is.

The foremost carriage contained Lord Milner, and the Chief Magistrate of the district; in the second were Mr. Symington, the camp Superintendent, and his Lordship's aide-de-camp. When Lord Milner descended, the burghers raised their hats and cheered very loyally. But I must say it wasn't much of a shout. Not that they did not intend it to be hearty, but they've only four months—hardly time to learn how to give a real British cheer!

Mr. Symington read an address — how tired His Excellency must be of them!—and our distinguished visitor replied in English, the Magistrate translating into Dutch for the benefit of the Boers. His speech was quite short. He complimented Mr. Symington on the state of the camp, (it is a model!) and went on to speak of the condition of the country as he found it during his journey. He deplored the general desolation, but expressed a confident hope that things would soon be vastly improved. The burghers seemed very favourably impressed by his words, who was on horseback at the edge of the crowd.

EVEN GEN. CRONJE

The Boers then dispersed, and the matron of the hospital and we five teachers were presented. Miss Wilkinson and I were specially mentioned as Canadians. The Magistrate (whom we know very well) told us afterwards that he had for the moment forgotten which was which, so he had to "introduce us territorially!" After a short talk, the party went to visit the Repatriation quarters, in which His Lordship is naturally very much interested.

We had a very dusty walk back to our marquees, but who minded that? My only regret was that I hadn't had a camera.

MABEL YENNEY.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT.

RUGBY.

The sporting editor at ten o'clock this morning received the following despatch from Ottawa:

Ottawa, Nov. 1, 10.30 a.m. — President Nebraska University says football and the Devil go hand in hand. We are up against it.

A. J. McCLELLAN.

Then fifteen minutes later the following was received:

Ottawa, Nov. 1, 10.45 a.m. — The President of Nebraska University is dead pro tempore; requiescat in pace. We are out to win.

A. J. McCLELLAN.

* * * *

The Peterborough Rugby Club left last night for Ottawa. They were accompanied by Messrs. H. R. H. Kenner, "Jim" McCabe, "Mac" McClellan, and "Christy" Graham.

* * * *

The officers of the Canadian Rugby Union have decided on the date for the match for the Canadian championship. It will be on Nov. 15th. The officers of the C.R.U. are J. McD. Mowat, Kingston; Herbert Molson, Montreal; J. D. McMurrich, Toronto. They settled the date by correspondence. They also decided that if Ottawa College wins out in the O.R.F.U., which is almost a dead certainty, the match will be played in Ottawa.

* * * *

Copies of the snap-back rules are to be struck off and forwarded to the different clubs, so that when the O.R.F.U. annual meeting comes around on December 13th, the delegates will be in a position to discuss the proposed changes. There does not seem to be a doubt but that the scrimmage must go and the numbers of players reduced to twelve.

* * * *

Of course the Rough Riders will object; they will even jump to the Quebec Union if they get a chance. But if the proposed changes in the rules go through all right Torontos stand ready to jump into the senior ranks. This will give the O. R. F. U. enough senior clubs to form two districts. For instance, Argonauts, Peterborough and Kingston could play together, while Torontos, Hamilton and London did likewise. Thus with smaller teams and shorter jumps to keep down expenses, and a more open game to attract better gates, the clubs all around would soon be feeling better financially. That would be a good start towards better times in Rugby football. — Toronto Telegram.

* * * *

Give me my ear. Pick up my teeth and then
Set me beside the centre "scrim." once more.
Tie my left ear up now. Great Scott!
How goes the play? What on earth's the score?
Are those my vertebrae beside the goal?
Here—put some splints around my jaw—I think
My scalp is on the 10-yard line. Say Cap.,
Send Slugsby through the "scrim."
He'll make 'em blink!
Who's got my nose? Be careful, doctor, please—
Don't mix my fragments with some other guy—
"Our ball in 'scrim,' there!" Now, go through!
We'll cross that mark, or know the reason why!

GOLF.

There will be no more Sunday golf on the links of the Woodland club, of Boston, the members deciding to reconsider their decision to defy the ultimatum of Chief of Police Tarbox and take a case into court. The police were called off Sunday and the club members were stationed on the links to warn members of the new rule.

CURLING.

Speaking of the ladies' curling club at Quebec, the Telegram says: — There is a ladies' curling club in Quebec, and it must be real interesting to sit in the gallery and hear the skip yell, "Soop, Jean, soop wumman, bring it forrit every foot it'll come;" "Aye, Maggie, that's a gran' ane! Come up, and look at it, yer-sel', wumman," "Elbo out noo, Janet, and come at it rinnin." But won't it make an awful discord if some of the players happen to be christened "Maud" or "Evangeline."

LACROSSE.

Paddy Brennan of the Shamrocks has notified the executive that he's done with the game, and in the future the Irishmen will be without one of the best and most pugnacious of their home players. Paddy will be missed as he was a pretty fair inside home man, and men who can do good work in close to the flags are scarce. Bert Henry of Brantford, is the greatest of them all, Johnny Powers, of Ottawa, is a good second, Paddy comes third, and that's all there are of them.

Canada a Land of Sunshine, Lovely Flowers and Golden Crops—An Indian's Strange Experience Re-related.

The correspondent of The London Daily News with the party that traveled through Canada writes:

Canada is a land of sunshine, lovely wild flowers and singing birds, with entire landscapes of golden crops. I have visited the great cities of the east, revelling in ice-water at every meal, and such seductive foods as soft-shell crabs, broiled squab, corn cob, and huckleberry pie. I have voyaged through the beautiful lakes of Huron and Superior—great inland seas—where for hours the steamer holds you out of sight of land. Thus I passed from the settled East and entered the developing West, or "North-West," as it is called—that region rendered famous by innumerable after-dinner speeches, newspaper paragraphs, and magazine articles.

Passing Sault Ste. Marie, where canoes were careering over the rapids, we had our first glimpse of a city totally different from staid and established Quebec, Montreal and Toronto. Sault Ste. Marie is a substantial city that has rushed suddenly into prosperous being, as though an oak should grow at the rate of a mushroom. Our second experience of quick town development was suhplied by Fort William, where we landed. It has shot several tap roots deep into industrial wealth. First, like a mouse running round a windmill, I circumnavigated the huge steel grain elevators now in course of erection, and which resemble a cluster of London gasometers, save that they are larger and uglier. They will hold a matter of one million and a half bushels of wheat. Within a stone's throw we found another group of these metal monsters, and this second eyesore, which has a similar capacity, is associated with a dramatic story. Last April the sky was illumined by a great column of flame which made a brilliant spectacle to onlookers on the distant mountains. In less than thirty minutes the fire had consumed the railway siding and the machinery for hoisting the grain. But the one hundred thousand dollars' worth of foodstuffs contained within the scorched tanks remained unhurt.

Across the river we saw the settlement where some five hundred Indians and half-breeds live in the society of Roman Catholic priests and sisters. The war paint and feathers, even the blankets and moccasins, have given place to wideawake hats and lounge suits. Leaning over the gate of little front garden I saw a stout, broad-shouldered Indian with a look of pensive resignation on his face. He, I learnt, was none other than old Ambrose Cyrette, who a while ago had the luck to discover a silver mine, for which he received sixty thousand dollars in hard cash. Away he went with the money, bent on seeing the world and having a high old time. He engaged a private secretary, and conducted himself in so kingly a style that when the whim took him to journey from New York to Chicago, he engaged a special train for the purpose. So that it was not long before Ambrose Cyrette returned with empty pockets to the bosom of his family; and to-day, like his neighbors, he traps the beaver, nets pickerel, trout and pike, makes birch bark canoes, shoots partridges and prairie chickens, and hunts the bear, the moose, and the caribou. All of this occurs to-day on the banks of the Kaministiquia River, whose deep, placid waters pass between beautiful banks of luxuriant vegetation. The children of the settlement, I learnt with a shudder, are very apt to die, consumption being the principal scourge of the community. Under the soft influence of civilization—I was assured by the bustling commercial white man—the Indians are slowly but surely perishing. Others have told me the same sad story, but influential testimony to a contrary purpose has since reached me, and I will merely add that before leaving this continent I propose to seek the truth of this matter.

Three other interesting things were shown me at Fort William and the contiguous town of Port Arthur. One was a steamer unloading rails made at Sault Ste. Marie, these being the fruits of a new Canadian industry, from which great things are expected. Another was a sawmill. As the Alberta drew up at the quay, we had all been impressed by the forty acres of floating tree-trunks that lay like a mighty raft upon the lake. Inside the mill we saw those tree-trunks reduced to planks and laths by elaborate machinery that seemed alive and fiendish. The dripping logs were automatically carried up a slope, at the top of which two iron arms hauled them upon a traveling platform, which, holding them immovable, swiftly carried them, in constantly altered positions, within the range of a relentless saw. Afterwards the bark and the planks were removed on traveling floors. It was all very wonderful, though calculated to make timid persons dream of being cut into wet slices. My third impressive experience of Fort William was to see the noble view from the back of the town—a wide sweep of lake bordered beyond by mountains, and notably by the Sleeping Giant, as the Indians named one of the ranges.

Selling Canadian Food.

The Earl of Aberdeen and Lord Balfour of Burleigh become trustees for the debenture-holders, and Lord Stanmore, ex-Governor of New Brunswick, becomes chairman of the London Board of Directors of the association formed to open depots in London for the sale of Canadian food manufactures. The Canadian four-pound loaf costs 2½d., against 5d for the English. Other items of the Englishman's food bill will be correspondingly reduced. The association's capital will be £200,000, of which £100,000 will be raised in Canada. Walter Nursey, former Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Manitoba, is the chief promoter. Other directors include the late general manager of the Midland Railway and the late assistant general manager of Whitelay's.

Fallacies About Plants.

For lovers of flowers and plant life the monthly meeting and display made by the Toronto Horticultural Society in St. George's Hall is both interesting and instructive. The feature of special interest at the October meeting was a paper by the president, Mr. E. Tyrrell, on "The History and Lore of Plants." This rather formidable subject was handled in a particular happy and entertaining style, and invested with a vivid interest such as only an expert could give it.

The history of gardening from the earliest times was briefly outlined, after which some of the popular beliefs and superstitions concerning the more common plants were referred to, together with their origin. The history of the introduction of the primrose to Australia, when that country was a penal colony, was particularly interesting. Other plants of which special mention was made were the iris, chrysanthemums, lilies, hydrangeas, narcissus, house leaks, violets, and pansies.

The display of plants included dahlias, begonias, rubber plants, and ferns.

Jack Cade's House Sold.

The other day there was sold at Heathfield a freehold farm on which still stands the remains of an old stone house that is said to once have been the house of the notorious Jack Cade. Whether or not Jack Cade ever lived there can never be accurately determined, but there can be no disputing the fact that he was killed in that neighborhood.

"Old Grog."

The sailor's word "grog" got its origin from Admiral Vernon of the British navy, who was known as "Old Grog" because his favorite clothing was of grogram, a fabric of silk and mohair. The old sea dog punished his sailors for dereliction of duty by diluting their daily ration of liquor with much water.

NEW PACIFIC CABLE.

Practical and Successful Test of Its Utility.

AROUND WORLD IN TEN HOURS

Sir Sandford Fleming's Message Makes the Circuit—Messages of Congratulation Exchanged by Canada With Australia, New Zealand and Fiji—Gov.-General's Messages and Mr. Chamberlain's Reply.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The following cable despatches have been received by the Governor-General regarding the opening of the Pacific cable:

Mr. Chamberlain, to the Earl of Minto: London, Oct. 31.—His Majesty's government send cordial congratulations to your government on the completion of the Pacific cable and the new facilities for inter-imperial communication which it will afford. They feel confident that the spirit of co-operation between the Mother Country and the colonies which initiated the enterprise will gather additional strength from its successful accomplishment.

(Sgd.) Chamberlain.

The Earl of Minto, to Mr. Chamberlain: Ottawa, Nov. 1.—On behalf of my government, I thank His Majesty's government for their congratulations on the occasion of the completion of the Pacific cable, which are heartily reciprocated. Canada rejoices in the new link binding the Mother Country and her colonies in one great empire.

(Sgd.) Minto.

Acting Governor-General of Australia, to Governor-General: Melbourne, Nov. 1.—On behalf of myself and Australia, I beg to congratulate you upon the completion of the Pacific cable, which is another bond of unity between Canada and Australia.

(Sgd.) Tennyson.

The Earl of Minto to Lord Tennyson: Ottawa, Nov. 1.—In thanking you for your kindly expressed cable, Canada hails with heartfelt satisfaction the completion of the Pacific cable, bringing her in closer touch with her great sister colony Australia.

(Sgd.) Minto.

Governor of Fiji, to the Governor-General: Suva, Nov. 1.—People of Fiji rejoice that their colony forms link in the great all-British line thru Dominion, and fervently hope that closer intercourse may strengthen ties already formed by community of interests and our common allegiance to the throne and empire.

(Sgd.) Gov. Fiji.

The Governor-General, to Goyernor of Fiji: Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Canada reciprocates warmly sentiments of people of Fiji expressed in your telegram, and trusts that the new cable may be the means of drawing still closer the relations between Fiji and Canada.

(Sgd.) Minto.

Sir Sandford Fleming, to the Governor-General: Ottawa, Nov. 1.—(Via Commercial, Eastern Australia and Pacific Cables).—Receive globe-encircling message via England, South Africa, Australia and Pacific Cable, congratulating Canada and the empire on completion of first segment state-controlled electric girdle, the harbinger of incalculable advantages, national and general.

(Sgd.) Sandford Fleming.

The Earl of Minto, to Mr. Chamberlain: Ottawa, Nov. 1.—I have this morning received cable from Sir Sandford Fleming, congratulating on completion of Pacific cable. His message sent from Ottawa to me at Ottawa, round the world, via England, South Africa, Australia and Pacific Cable, took 10 hours 24 minutes to complete circuit of globe.

(Sgd.) Minto.

Sir Sandford Fleming, to the Earl of Minto: Congratulations follow the sun around the globe, via Australia, South Africa and England, on completion of Pacific Cable, initiating new era of freest intercourse and cheap telegraph service thruout the empire.

(Sgd.) Sandford Fleming.

Not Open For Three Weeks.

The cable will not be open for business for three weeks.

The section between Bamfield Creek and Fanning Island, which is the longest in the world, has proved equal to expectations. The great question in the success of the cable was over this enormous stretch, but it was found by test to give a speed of over 100 words a minute with the Deerlove automatic transmitter.

The actual time occupied in the transmission of a message from Vancouver, B.C., to Sydney, Australia, will be less than five minutes.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Capt. McMillan, D.S.O., went to South Africa with the First Mounted Contingent. When he enlisted he was sergt.-major of the Royal Canadian Dragoons at Winnipeg. In Africa he became immensely popular with all ranks as a good soldier and a genial fellow. When his regiment was ordered home he joined the late "Gat" Howard's Canadian scouts and was given a commission in that crack corps, and soon afterwards earned further promotion. He is a clever soldier, and was instructor of the machine gun. A man who served with him said he did not know for what particular act the D.S.O. was awarded, but he was satisfied athat Capt. McMillan earned the honor on numerous occasions.

U.S. Apple Crop.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The largest apple crop on record was that of 1896, when the figures approximated 49,000,000 barrels. Advices received by Barnett Bros. from the apple producing sections of the United States show the output from the orchards this season to be near 43,000,000 barrels, the second largest production since statistics have been kept.

AT DOCTORS' SUGGESTION.

Ghoul Says That He Robbed Graves in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3. — Dr. Charles Riggs and Dr. James Kinkaid, young physicians, whose names have not been connected with the grave robbing cases, were arrested Saturday on affidavits made by McEndree, the white ghoul, and taken into custody, who charges that Riggs and Kinkaid bought two bodies from him at $25 each.

McEndree says that the physicians made the offer unsolicited, and that it was their suggestion that led him to rob the graves. He also confessed to having assisted in stealing the bodies of Franklin Crest, Julia Rogers, Frederick Hoenycut, a man named Kelley, Peter Hudson, John Whistler and an old soldier in uniform whose name he could not recall. None of these bodies were known to have been stolen till McEndree gave the names and the cemeteries from which they were taken.

SOUTH AFRICA CUSTOMS.

Sir Howard Vincent Wants a Preference For British Goods.

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Howard Vincent asked the Colonial Secretary in the House of Commons if, having regard to the expenditure due to the South African war, the fiscal regulations of the now colonies will provide for the preferential treatment of British goods compared to foreign goods.

Mr. Chamberlain answer: "I anticipate that the South African colonies will shortly hold a Customs Conference, and it would be premature to make any statement on the subject at the present time."

Probably Fatally Hurt.

Stony Mountain, Man., Nov. 3.—A very sad accident occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Williams' stone quarry, two miles east of here. While M. Williams, son of J. Williams, owner of the quarry, was digging out some new caps, which refused to go off by the fuse, the charge exploded, striking him badly, disfiguring and making his face unrecognizable. Reports have it that he cannot recover.

GREEDY GAULT.

There has been no kicking against the protection enjoyed by the cotton manufacturers, and it would have been good policy for them to keep mum. Once they began to growl, both sides of the story were bound to come out. The Moncton Transcript says:

President Gault, of the Dominion Cotton Mills Co., told Mr. Tarte the other day that it was only the hope of increased protection which kept the Magog Mills open. The product of the Magog mills has now 35 per cent. advantage in rates over kindred imports from the United States; how much more would he desire? What the case in Magog is, we do not know, but here in Moncton the company has the additional advantage of exemption from municipal taxation. Until this year the cotton companies have been paying 9 per cent. per annum on, in some cases, watered stock. How large dividends would they desire? This year it is notorious that because of the enormous outlay on capital account in increasing their plants on borrowed capital, the banks insisted that the companies pass their dividends for one year and reduce the liabilities. Thus the necessity of reducing the liabilities caused by outlay, justified through increasing business, is presented as an evidence of undue foreign competition, instead of being, which it really is, a proof of expanding output.

In Moncton Mr. Gault's mill has within a year increased considerably the plant, and it is run largely on orders given by American dealers, and its output stamped with American brands is shipped to China, sold there as American cottons in competition with the world. Yet Mr. Gault wishes us to believe that his firm cannot compete in Canada with a fairly high tariff. It looks as if Mr. Gault were imposing upon Mr. Tarte's credulity.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Our esteemed contemporary, the Star, must scent a general election. The day after the last election, in 1900, says the Montreal Herald, it dropped politics with a thud into the Abysmal Silence. Having caught its breath, it is again fighting the battle of the Conservatives, no doubt much to the dismay of Mr. Borden and his friends.

The Hamilton Spectator says the whole story of the bogus Conservative vote in North Perth was that the man who voted in the name of another man did so "supposing that he was entitled to vote." Let us grant, replies the Times, that the man was not a scoundrel—that was not charged—what follows? The illegal Tory vote was counted; the legitimate Liberal voter's vote was refused. Result, a Tory majority of two. Had the man without a right to vote not voted wrongfully and the man entitled to vote voted as was his right, there would have been a tie, and the vote of the returning officer would have given Brown the seat. Nothing is clearer than that by that one "plugged" ballot the Liberals were cheated out of North Perth.

Toronto seems determined to justify the character for selfishness which Hamilton journals imply when they call the Queen City, "Hogtown." The Mayor of Toronto, who by the large plurality he secured at his election, may reasonably be taken to represent the city, appealed on sentimental grounds to the Mayor of Cardiff, Wales, to see that Toronto's request for coal be given preference over other orders. And when the coal doesn't arrive to the minute the order is cancelled. To the ordinary mind this would seem like ingratitude as black as the coal itself, but His Mightiness Mayor Howland simply feels that it is but an assertion of Toronto's superiority to the claims of decency. It would not be much of a pity if the Cardiff people would go to law and put the city to a lot of costs. The people and not Mayor Howland would be put to the expense. But if the people like Mayor Howland enough to endorse his playing fast and loose with the honourable methods that prevail in business transactions, they are not much to be pitied. The Mayor may manage to make it hot for the citizens, if not with coal, then with law costs.

DOMINION COAL COMPANY.

A circular has been issued relating to the properties and output of the above Company, the operations of which have for some time past and are likely for a length of time to excite very widespread interest. The statement has been published by Messrs. A. E. Ames & Co., Toronto.

The property of the Company is near Sydney, Cape Breton, covering 140 square miles of coal areas. The seams are estimated to contain 15 hundred millions of tons. There are six collieries at work, with an output capacity of 450,000 tons monthly. The Company owns and works the Sydney and Louisberg Railway, which connects the mines with those ports; it has also a shipping pier at Montreal.

The circular reads: "The situation of the mines, and the facilities for handling the product, place the Company in the position of being able to supply the manufacturing centres of Canada, the New England States and the Old World at a minimum cost of transportation. The future extension and success of its operations, are assured.

Between March and August this year the output was 1,527,000 tons of coal, in September it was 313,947 tons. The coal mined will be placed on the market all the year round. It is estimated that the Company will show net earnings for the fiscal year to the end of February next, over and above interest on bonds, sinking fund charges and dividend on preferred stock of over $1,700,000.—Insurance and Finance Chronicle.

INSURANCE AGAINST HAIL.

Monetary Times.

A friend has sent us a modest slip of paper containing figures which we find of decided interest. It is a printed suggestion to Manitoba farmers to insure against hail storms in a company which the Government of that province chartered in 1891, and of which the officers and directors are farmers. Its achievements since that time are thus summarized in the little folder: The company "is managed by Manitoba farmers only; has paid nearly $150,000 to farmers for losses; insures to the extent of $8 per acre for total loss; $5.40 per acre is the average paid during past eleven years; 22c. per acre is the average cost during past eleven years; 25c. per acre is the maximum charge in any year; 18c. per acre insured $6 per acre in 1901; 3 per cent on the amount of insurance was the cost last year. There are no dividends paid to shareholders; the company gives back unrequired premium money to insurers, and has paid all legitimate claims to date."

In different years this company has paid to its patrons from $1,100 to $23,000 per annum. During those years when losses were heaviest the company assessed on its premium notes 50, 75 or 80 per cent., equal respectively to 12 1-2, 18 and 20 cents per acre, and in these years, 1894, 1899, 1891, and 1901, the amount it paid per acre was $6 and $7.50 per acre damaged, in all $124,500. The lowest rate of loss paid per acre was $3, and the highest $7.50, the average being $5.90 per acre for the eleven years.

GEORGE GUILLETT, EX-M.P., SHOT.

While Duck Shooting His Gun Exploded —Thumb Almost Severed.

Peterboro, Nov. 3.—George Guillett, ex-M.P., of Cobourg, was out duck shooting near his Stanley Lake residence, when the barrel of his gun exploded and his left hand was terribly lacerated, the thumb being almost severed. He paddled with one hand to Windsor's farm, near Burleigh, where a surgeon was procured. He will not lose the use of his hand.

Gloucester Fleet Lost 70 Men.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 3. — The fishing season for the year 1902 is practically at an end. There were seventy men drowned in the fisheries this year, who left seventeen widows and thirty-nine children. This is somewhat below the average of the last thirty years, due in a large measure to the change in the pursuit of the business and the marked reduction of the Georges fleet from more than 200 sail to about twenty, in which branch the greater part of the fatalities occurred.

Drowned in a Cistern.

Aylmer, Nov. 3.—Zilpha, the three-year-old daughter of Moses Leach, Harvey street, was drowned in the cistern at her home about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Her mother had been drawing water and had left the cover of the cistern off. It is supposed the little one attempted to draw water and fell in. The child was soon discovered in the water, but when taken out by the mother and some neighbors she was quite dead.

Boy's Fatal Drop of 65 Feet.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—James Ryan, a lad employed on the construction of the grain elevator on King Edward Pier, fell from a height of 65 feet, last Saturday morning, and in the descent struck numerous iron beams, and when his body reached the bottom it was practically reduced to a bleeding mass of pulp, about every bone being broken, while his head was unrecognizable.

RUGBYISTS HOME FROM OTTAWA.

They Tell of the Battle at the Capital.

REFEREE WAS INCOMPETENT.

The Game was the First of a Double Header—Cameron was Somewhat Used up.

The score four all, sums up in a few words the game with the Rough Riders, in Ottawa, on Saturday last. From the score here on Thanksgiving Day, many expected that the Peterborough team would increase their lead still further at Ottawa, and these people are now asking for an explanation. There are several good reasons why their hopes were not fulfilled, and these are, briefly, as follows:

1st.—The Ottawa team were playing on their own grounds, in sight of hundreds of friends, who encouraged them to the utmost.

2nd.—The officials expected were unable to act, and those secured were, to say the least, incompetent, and foul play by the Rough Riders was overlooked.

3rd.—Senior players, of greater weight and experience were put on and strengthened their team considerably; while the Peterborough team was wearied by an all-night journey by train.

To speak plainly, the Ottawa boys were determined not to be beaten, and used every artifice, even employing the means generally confined to pugilists. The game had hardly proceeded five minutes before one of the Ottawa man deliberately slugged the Peterborough quarter, in spite of the fact that the ball was yards away, and from this on the play was rough and ready, and of extremely questionable fairness. Before the end of the game nearly everyone had something owing in this line.

Peterborough—Lee, back; Morden, McPherson and Burnham, halfbacks; Bell, quarter-back; Dainard, Hurtubise, Thornton, scrimmage; Crowley, Asselstine, Dillon, Cameron, Noble, Meagher and Rickey, wings.

Rough Riders — McLaren, back; Baskerville, Roberts and Rankin, half-backs; Nolian, quarter-back; Cameron, Morgans, Sanderson, Lamothe, Hawkins, Facto, Jackson, Haydon, Fagan and McCuaig, wings.

Referee—F. O'Gara of Ottawa. Umpire—G. Brennan of Ottawa.

Ottawa won the toss, and at about two o'clock the game commenced. Throughout the first half the play was all in Ottawa territory, and only once did the play turn on Peterborough ground. Everyone worked hard in this half. The scrimmage had a hard proposition to tackle, but were quite able to do the needful. Dillon at inside wing made his "check" look like an infant, while Asselstine and Noble more than held their own. In vain did Crowley, Rickey, Meagher and Cameron work, for all their good play availed nothing against a team playing foul. At the end of half time the score was 0—0, with the play at centre field.

On the resumption of play the Rough Riders became aggressive, and forced the play to within two yards of the Peterborough line. Here a number of scrimmages occurred, but not once was the ball played fairly. At this time Thornton and an Ottawa player were ruled off for 5 minutes because they had left the game to express and illustrate their mutual admiration for each other. A number of times Ottawa went over the line, but the ball was brought back each time, till at last they succeeded in getting a touch without a try score, 4—0. Ottawa still succeeded to press, but good work by McPherson, Burnham and Lee relieved the pressure. A kick of Burnham's was muffled by one of the Ottawa half backs, and Crowley following down swiftly secured a touch, which was not converted. Score, 4—4.

Shortly after this time was called, with the play at centre field.

THE REFERENDUM CAMPAIGN.

Rev. Dr. Chown Delivered Three Addresses Yesterday.

An Interesting Discourse in George Street Methodist Church Last Night —The Murray Street Meeting.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, of Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto, and General Secretary of the Department of Temperance and Moral Reform, of the Methodist church of Canada, opened the Referendum crusade in Peterborough yesterday by three well attended temperance sermons. The first was preached in the morning at St. Andrew's church, and the second in the Murray street Baptist church in the afternoon, while the reverend doctor preached a vigorous sermon in the George street Methodist church last night.

The meeting in the Murray street church was well attended, and, besides an address by Rev. Dr. Chown, there were short addresses by Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. A. Wilson, of St. Paul's; Rev. J. P. Wilson, of the George street Methodist; Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, of the Charlotte street Methodist; Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's; and Rev. J. Bastow, of the Murray street Baptist.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

In George street church last evening the Rev. Dr. Chown, of Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto, preached a sermon on temperance from Joshua 4:6, "What Mean Ye by These Stones?" In his opening remarks the speaker referred to the children of Israel, and said that if we would be holy we must have the principles of our lives founded upon holiness. The law of God is holy, and therefore is a good foundation. Through this law we are taught to love one another, and to help those who are in need of help. The liquor traffic does not do this, and therefore is not a good foundation for a man's life. It brings a man to hunger and rags, and not only that, but heaps the horrors of its existence upon innocent heads. But a great pillar of reform was being built. Moral sunsion was part of the pillar, as was temperance education. The Duncan and Scott Acts had helped. The next stone to place on the pile was the Referendum. He had no ill-feeling towards any dealer in liquor, and if they could carry on their business without committing murder, or robbing innocent ones, in order to satisfy the palate of the moderate drinker, it was all right. The license law is no settlement—it is an agreement with hell. There was a time when temperance advocates were considered cranks, but public sentiment had changed. There was now a vast army of temperance men and women sowing the seed, and the time for reaping is near. The church was established to build up the Kingdom and in using its influence to crush out the liquor traffic it was fulfilling the law of Christ. He was a British subject, yet he was ashamed to think that it was his countrymen who had opened up the opium market of China to the world. Although England has been the foremost nation in sending the Scriptures to heathen lands, it has also sent out rum, and thus counteracted its best efforts. Nelson lives in the heart of every Britisher today because he loved his God and did his duty, but Napoleon is only remembered as an example of selfishness. And when the men of this land have enough faith in their Maker to abide by His law and do their duty, the greatest curse and scandal that Canada has ever known will step down and out.

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN HAMILTON.

McKinley, an Oil-Borer From Alaska, Shoots Fred. Braund.

Hamilton, Nov. 3.—About 8 o'clock Saturday night there was a shooting case in James street, near the Armories, the victim being Fred Braund, a German, who resides at 134 North McNab street. He was shot in the lower part of the groin by James McKinley, an oil-borer from Alaska. It appears McKinley was very drunk, and had sat on the curb. P. C. Campbell saw his condition and went into the Drill Hall and telephoned for the patrol wagon. While he was inside some young men and boys got around McKinley and teased him. McKinley whipped out his revolver and fired. The bullet struck Braund, who was standing near the other side of the street. A man named McGowan seized the weapon and ran away with it. He was caught by Officer Campbell. Braund was carried into Dr. Mullen's surgery, and later was taken to Dr. Cummings' operating room, where the X-rays were turned on him. An incision about an inch deep was made, and the bullet a 32-calibre, was removed. He will recover, it is thought.

McKinley, who is about 50 years of age, was placed under arrest. When searched over $500 was found on him. He has been here about a month visiting his sister, Mrs. O'Brien, West Jackson street.

An Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. W. S. Long, Oak avenue, attempted suicide yesterday morning, cutting her throat with an old table knife. The wound was not very deep, and Dr. Baugh, who was called in, had her removed to the General Hospital. She will recover. Mrs. Long is the mother of four children. She has been ill for a long time, and became despondent.

Jewelry Robbery.

The residence of William Armstrong, manager of the Mary street Cotton Mills, was broken into last night and about $125 worth of jewelry was stolen. Among the articles taken were a lady's gold watch and two chains. Twelve dollars in cash was also taken.

HALF A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

St. Pierre, Miquelon, For the Fourth Time Burned Down.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 3.—The town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, has been devastated by fire. A destructive conflagration started Saturday night and swept the main portion of the town.

The Governor's house, the Government Building, the Court House, the building occupied by the Ministry of Marine, the Roman Catholic Cathedral, the Presbytery, the schools, and a number of other buildings were destroyed.

It has not yet been learned how the fire originated. There was no wind Saturday night, else the entire town would probably have been completely obliterated. Even as it is the extent of the disaster is very far reaching, and the financial loss will probably reach half a million dollars.

There was no loss of life or serious accident. The rapid spread of the conflagration was due to the trifling water supply, and to the fact that St. Pierre has no adequate fire fighting appliances.

The town of St. Pierre has been partly burned down three times before—in 1865, 1867 and 1879.

St. Pierre is the capital of the French colony of St. Pierre and Miquelon on the southeast side of the Island of St. Pierre. It is compactly built of stone, has a convent, a newspaper, and a good harbor, and is an important fishing station. The population is about 5,000.

TRAIN COASTS 20 MILES.

200 Passengers Have Harrowing Ride Down a Grade.

Denver, Col., Nov. 3.—Two hundred persons aboard a runaway train were treated to a harrowing experience on the heavy grade of the Rio Grande tracks between Tennessee Pass and Eagle River Canyon. Disordered air brakes were the cause.

The limited California express was two hours late. Just after leaving Tennessee Pass station the engineer discovered that the air brakes did not respond, and he called for hand brakes. This started a panic, and fifty or more men and women hastened to the rear of the train, with the feeling that this was the safest place in case of a wreck.

The train ran for twenty minutes before it was controlled, and at a rate of considerably more than a mile a minute.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Hon. Clifford Sifton's Reply to Premier Roblin.

MANITOBA NOT OPEN TO DOUKS

Mr. Roblin Wants to Know the Intentions of the Government Regarding the Doukhobor Pilgrims Who Are Approaching Manitoba—Doukhobors Discarding Their Clothing and Heavy Footwear.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Minister of the Interior Saturday received this telegram from the Premier of Manitoba: "Doukhobors, whom we believe to be deranged, are rapidly approaching Manitoba boundaries. Will have to be dealt with either as lunatics or criminals. We do not want them to cross boundaries. We have no facilities for handling them. Immediate steps should be taken by you to prevent their entering Manitoba. With a change of weather serious fatality is sure to overtake them. please say if we will be relieved of all responsibility, financial and otherwise, should they reach Manitoba. (Signed.) R. P. Roblin."

Hon. Clifford Sifton replied in the following terms: "The officers of my department, with necessary police assistance are giving their best attention to the Doukhobors, I do not know of any reason to anticipate injury to anyone except themselves. Every precaution possible is being taken to prevent harm arising from the movement. I see no reason for giving any special guarantee to your Government. I have no opinion to offer as to any action you may take. If you should decide to interfere with the officers whom I have placed in charge of the work, such action will be taken on your own responsibility. (Signed.) Clifford Sifton."

The immigration officials are advised by Colonization Agent Speers at Yorkton that the Doukhobor trackers had passed through Saltcoats, having abandoned their clothing and heavy footwear on the journey. The women and children are in good spirits, but cannot be persuaded to return to their villages.

There are 1,100 aged and infirm under cover, but the accommodation is very limited. A plentiful stock of provisions is to be found in the Doukhobor village of Michalova, 20 miles from Swan River. The Doukhobor residents there are not affected, and intended to meet the women and assist them wherever possible. This would relieve the congested state of affairs at Yorkton and might allure the pilgrims.

The question of removing the women from Yorkton will, however, depend largely on their own willingness, as the authorities are determined to deal with them as kindly as possible, hoping that this will show them how anxious the Canadian authorities are for their welfare.

Yorkton, N.W.T., Nov. 3. — The Doukhobor outlook presents a decidedly better appearance yesterday. Several of the men who composed the pilgrimage have returned.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It Is Digested.

Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe outdoor manual labour can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutricious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People may make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestives; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

Fashion's Echoes.

Broad collars of lace and braid will play an important part in the autumn and winter costumes.

Plain dresses of blue and white shepherd's plaid in the "short waist suit" style are pretty for schoolgirls' earlier autumn wear.

Velvet, beaver and felts in many brilliant colors will figure in the winter hats.

Many fancy waists close in the back this season.

The vogue of green continues.

Corsages of the muslin gowns are every whit as much lace as muslin.

Shaped flounces bid fair to be demode.

COAL STRIKE COMMISSION.

Arrives at Wilkes-Barre on Its Tour of Investigation.

Wilkes-Barre, Nov. 3.—The members of the Coal Strike Commission arrived here from Scranton Saturday morning on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad. When the special train arrived here it was switched to the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and taken to North Wilkes-Barre. There the commissioners were escorted to the Prospect Mine, of the Lehigh Valley Company. The morning was spent going through the workings. In the afternoon the party where taken on a special trolley car to the mining towns of Ashley and Sugar Notch for inspection of the mine-workers houses. On their return to Wilkes-Barre, the commissioners boarded their train and went to Plymouth, on the Susquehanna River one of the largest mining towns in Luzerne County. After a tour of that place, the commissioners will return to Scranton over the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

Left For Hazelton.

Scranton, Nov. 3.—The Mine Strike Commission left for Hazelton at 11 o'clock last night to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining.

The Movement of Coal.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Tribune yesterday says: "Where the dealers are frankest, it seems to be conceded that there is no immediate prospect of complete relief from the scarcity of coal in this city. For the coming three weeks, the claims of the north are paramount. By Nov. 20 the waterways to the Canadian boundary coal depots begin to get frozen up. It is therefore essential that the winter supply be rushed up within the next few days. To meet this acute demand, coal will have to be diverted from the eastern depots.

"An excellent depot which will make large demands on Pennsylvania anthracite is Toronto. But the northern demand extends as far west as Duluth. The Lehigh Valley road is hauling much of this trade. The two principal centres from which coal is shipped north and west are Buffalo and Ogdensburg. The longest single carry for anthracite is to Buffalo. From this point a reshipment is necessary. The various depots are making every effort to lay in their winter supply before the waterways are frozen, because transportation rates are greatly increased when it becomes necessary to reship from Buffalo by railroad, instead of lake and river boats."

Admit That Coal Is Coming.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Toronto coal dealers, spoken to last night, admitted that the bulk of the new mined coal is being rushed this way to the distributing points on the lakes, This coal, they say, is for points that cannot be reached by rail, but as a matter of fact Toronto is as accessible as any point in New York State. The receipts of coal at Oswego for the lake carriers are about 40 per cent. of what they would be at this time if there had been no strike. The shortage of anthracite in Toronto to-day is about 150,000. tons.

Hard Coal For Canada.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 3.—Vessels from this port are preparing to rush coal to Montreal and the Canadian points before the canals freeze up. The steamer Avon passed down the river Friday night with 1,600 tons of hard coal from Oswego to Montreal. This is the first hard coal to go to Canada since the Pennsylvania anthracite coal strike began.

MARCONI AT WORK.

Will Be at Table Head For Two Weeks —Big Things May Happen.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 3.—William Marconi last night gave some information regarding his work on board the Italian cruiser Carlo Alberto and his plans for the future. He was seen at his station at Table Head, where for the next two weeks he will devote his time to installing new apparatus and in experimenting between this station and the Carlo Alberto, and, he hopes, between Table Head and Cornwall, England.

"I conducted experiments all the way across, he said, "and met with very good results, especially in transmitting and receiving messages between the cruiser and the Poldhu Station. We were in constant communication with the station for about 200 miles. Messages were received over a distance of 500 miles. Heavy gales did not affect the work."

He remains here two weeks and if apparatus is perfect will experiment with Poldhu. To a suggestion that a ship fitted with his apparatus be placed some 200 miles off Cape Race so that vessels might be reported to Table Head, Marconi gave instant acquiescence.

Edict For an Execution.

Pekin, Nov. 2.—The efforts made by Sir Ernest Satow, the British Minister here, have resulted in the publication of an edict ordering the decapitation of the Chinese military official who refused protection to the British missionaries Bruce and Lewis, who were killed at Chen Chow. Ho Nan Province, August 15, by a mob, and the punishment of other officials implicated in the crime.

Murder by Dynamite.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—A dynamite bomb, the weapon of a deranged assassin, blew up the home of Joseph Kordeck in Chicago Heights yesterday, killing two members of the family outright and injuring several others. The house was set on fire, and burned while that of a neighbor caught fire and was also destroyed.

An Obstinate Case of Eczema.

Mr. W. D. Johnson, Tilsonburg, Ont., writes that his father was entirely cured of a long standing and obstinate case of Eczema by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. His leg and foot was a mass of sores that refused to heal and he suffered terribly from the itching and stinging. Though he used a great many remedies and was treated by first-class doctors no permanent relief was obtained until he used Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved.

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Steamboat Traffic.

The steamers North Star, Water Lily and Rainbow were in port on Saturday. The boats all brought up a good sized list of passengers. The Star came up on Friday afternoon with a scow load of hogs and and had quite a time going down to Rice Lake on the return trip. There was a very heavy fog and notwithstanding the fact that the steamer left the Wolfe street wharf at nine o-clock it was after eleven when she reached the locks. She did not get to Harwood until early next morning when she turned around and returned to Peterborough with her regular market day cargo. The boats will be busy for some time yet drawing grain to Peterborough.

BY CARRIER PIGEONS.

Word Received From the Hunters in the North Country.

It is a decided bit of practical irony to mix up the meek and gentle dove with the gory game of the hunting field, and make the bird of peace the messenger of war.

The following despatches were received by carrier pigeon from the Fitzgerald-Milburn party at Gold Lake. The pigeon left at 3.04, and reached here at 4 o'clock. The distance is over forty miles, as the bird flies:

"Friend Noggie, — I thought I would drop you a few lines by pigeon. We are all well and the boys send their best regards. We got two yesterday; "biggest buck ever shot in the country; will weigh 300 pounds; Jack Fitz was the lucky one. Tell Jack Howden to get my nets, they are at Gibbs' or Fitz's barn; bring them up; also his own traps. Also bring some more heavy bacon, as much as we brought with us. . . . MacGreggor's bitch was on a buck when shot, and there are more dogs waiting to get out. Birds are scarce. West Hall shot a bear yesterday. This is all the news the pigeon will carry, so good bye. The bird left here at 3.04."

The Cottingham party pigeon arrived at ten a.m., just one hour after it had been released. The message stated:

"One large buck; very bad day; foggy. Lost four by bad shots."

"The bird is not responsible for this statement.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Twentieth Anniversary Celebrated at St. John's Yesterday.

Yesterday was the twentieth anniversary of the enlarging and dedication of St. John's church. The church was built during the years 1831-5 and, as enlarged, reopened on All Saint's Day, 1882. Everything throughout the day was in keeping with the occasion. In the morning a large number of the congregation partook of the Holy Communion. The evening service was the festival service and the church was filled to over-flowing. A full orchestra assisted the choir under the able direction of Mr. Glidden, and the effect was all that could be desired. Durilling the offertory Mr. H. Morphet sang "The Plains of Peace" to the accompaniment of the orchestra, whilst the evening anthem was excellently sung. In the sermon Mr. Davidson dealt with the mission of the church, which was, he said, to glorify God both by service of praise and by righteous living. While the church had its manward side it also strove to enable worshipers to praise God in glorious acts of holy worship. In conclusion the Rector showed how this worship could be carried into the world and beautiful lives lived to God's glory.

ANGLICANS OF OMEMEE.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Preached to His Old Parishioners.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's preached in Christ's church, Omemee, yesterday evening and Rev. J. H. Tency, of that parish, conducted the service at St. Luke's. Omemee and Emily is Rev. Mr. Langfeldt's old parish where he was for three years previous to coming to Peterborough. During his term as Rector of the congregations of St. James, Emily, and Christ's church, Omemee, he undertook an expenditure of $8,000 for the erection of two new churches and a rectory. There is now only $2,500 owing on this undertaking, which goes to show the energy with which the people of the parish enter into their work. Yesterday the offering amounted to $300.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Court of Revision meets to-morrow night.

—St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild meets to-morrow night.

—The Board of Education will meet to-morrow night.

—The regular meeting of the Peterborough Town Council will be held this evening.

—Hon. Senctor Geo. A. Cox has given $500 to the building fund of St. Michael's College, Toronto.

—Rev. Dr. Chown will speak on "Temperance" in George street Methodist church this evening.

—Every male choir singer in town is asked to meet at George street church to-night at 7.30 sharp. This is a personal invitation.

—The White Rose Club are holding another of their popular "At Homes" in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, on Friday, Nov. 14th. An orchestra of six pieces from the band will furnish music. Archie Moore will be director of ceremonies.

—Sunday was an ideal day and many points of interest were visited by the townspeople. Perhaps there proved to be no greater attraction than the new dam at the foot of London street. The work which is being pushed forward at a wonderful rate was inspected by hundreds of townspeople.

HUNTING NOTES.

The Ball Lake Party Left on Saturday for the North.

The following are the names of the gentlemen who compose the Ball Lake party, which went back on Saturday evening, leaving Lakefield per Mr. W. T. C. Boyd's steamer: Messrs. R. B. Rogers, J. E. Belcher, R. Fair, R. M. Roy, Arthur Stevenson and R. A. Morrow. They will be joined at Lakefield by a number of Lindsay gentlemen. They will occupy Mr. Rogers' house boat, "Lotus."

Messrs. W. Stalker, George Ford, and Adam McCabe, of Ops, left on Friday for Haliburton to scour the country in that district for deer.

The Orono Hunt Club, comprising R. Jarvis. Chief of Police, Dr. Colville, Bowmanville; O. Gamsby, H. Renwick and several other Orono gentlemen, passed through on Friday to Haliburton.—Lindsay Post.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE.

A League Composed of Six Teams Organized—Schedule Drafted.

There is every indication that basketball will still be very popular at the Y.M.C.A. this coming winter. On Saturday there were six organized teams of the senior class represented at a meeting called to organize and draft a scedule for the two months, which will end at New Years, when a schedule will be drafted with new teams, if they wish to enter. The teams comprise the Lilies, Pastimes, Maple Leafs, Harriers, Athletics and Colts.

The games will be held in the gymnasium every Saturday evening, starting at eight o'clock, with a second game at nine. Members of the teams are reminded that the games start sharp on time, whether all men are in their places or not, as the public do not appreciate long waits.

The Physical Committee of the Y.M.C.A. are offering a handsome trophy for the team winning the largest number of games, and this should be an incentive to work with a will. The games next Saturday will be between the Lilies and the Pastimes at 8; and the Harriers and the Colts at 9. The schedul is drawn up as follows, the first teams mentioned on each date to play at eight o'clock.

Nov. 8—Lilies vs. Pastimes; Harriers vs. Colts.
Nov. 15—Lilies vs. Maple Leafs; Athletics vs. Harriers.
Nov. 22—Colts vs. Pastimes; Athletics vs Colts.
Nov. 29—Colts vs. Pastimes; Lilies vs. Harriers.
Dec. 6—Lilies vs. Athletics; Harriers vs. Maple Leafs.
Dec. 13—Colts vs. Maple Leafs; Pastimes vs. Athletics.
Dec. 20—Colts vs. Lilies; Harriers vs. Pastimes.
Dec. 27—Athletics vs. Maple Leafs.

STRANGERS' FELLOWSHIP CLUB

Annual Meeting Held on Saturday Evening—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Strangers' Fellowship Club, of the Y.M.C.A., was largely attended on Saturday evening, and the interest shown promises well for the enlarged usefulness of this most important organization. The annual reports of the officers were held over until the annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. to be held shortly. It may be said however, that a larger number of strangers have been welcomed to town by the Club during the past year than during the two years preceding of the Club's history. The total number sice Oct. 1st, 1901, is 382.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. President—B. F. Ackerman.
Hon. Vice-Presidents — The Ministers of the town.
President—Samuel Taylor.
Vice-President—R. S. Merrill.
Secretary-Treasurer — Ross Cameron.

G. L. Galley, J. Gerrard, W. D. Campbell, H. McNellis—these to be chairman of the Reception, Invitation, Visiting and Membership Committees, respectively, and with the officers to compose the Executive

CHURCH CHIMES.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

At the George street Methodist church yesterday morning the anthem was "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." In the evening the choir sang as an anthem "Sun of My Soul." Mr. G. W. Mulligan and Mr John Miller, rendered a duet in an able manner.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The music at Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday was of a very fine class, especially that of the evening service. In the morning the choir rendered "Jesus Lover of My Soul" in which the duet was sung by Miss Pedlar and Mrs. Pearse and the solo by Mr. A. L. Davis. For the offertory "The Lord is My Shepherd" with alto obligato was given in a splendid manner.

The evening service partook of the nature of a song service, and the music was highly appreciated by all. In the anthem "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," by Stainer, Messrs. A. L. Davis and F. Skitch took the solo parts. Nevin's "Oh Love Divine" was well sung by Mrs. Pearce, and a duet "I Need Thee," by Fearis, was sung by Miss Bellaghem and Mr. Mitchell. Following this "Guard While I Sleep" was sung by Miss Pedlar and Mrs. Pearse and Messrs. Mitchell and Skitch.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

The attendance at the Gospel meeting held yesterday afternoon, was exceptionally good. The speaker, Miss Code, took as her subject, "The Visit of the Queen of Sheba to King Solomon." She dwelt especially on the following thoughts:

1st—She acted upon what she heard.
2nd.—She came to prove him with hard questions.
3rd.—She received much more than she asked.
4th.—When she heard and saw all the spirit was gone out of her.

Those present were urged to bring all hard questions to God, and when they were once solved so to live that the enemies of Christianity should lose all spirit upon seeing the proof of Christianity in their lives.

SATURDAY NIGHT'S FIRE.

A Blaze on George Street Destroys a Barn.

On Saturday evening fire broke out in a barn belonging to Mr. Geo. Carton, at 543 George street. Owing to delay on the part of the fire brigade the fire had gained considerable headway, but was put out after it had destroyed a small quantity of hay and burned the roof and rafters considerably. The cause it is stated, was the up-setting of a lantern in the hay-loft by the man careing for the horses. As to the delay of the fire brigade it was unavoidable.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. Stanley Burton, of the Bank of Montreal, Belleville, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Adam R. J. Hall, who has been on the North Shore, with the Turner Lumber Company, returned home on Saturday night.

Miss Robbie Macfarlane, who has been visiting with Miss Minnie Macfarlane, No. 29 Homewood avenue, left for Toronto this morning.

Miss Amy Porter, who has been visiting her uncle, Mr. Thos. Porter, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for the past three months, has returned home.

The friends of Mr. C. H. Allison, of Chicago have received formal announcement of his marriage on Saturday, Nov. 1st, to Miss Tobey, of Chicago. Mr. Allison's many old friends in Peterborough will extend their cordial congratulations.

"PETERBOROUGH DISTURBED."

This is the heading of an article in the literary columns of the Saturday's News, Toronto. It seems to be in reply to a letter to the News, written by Mr. J. W. Garvin, in which he resents in language more injurious than diplomatic, a criticism of a volume of verses published for a local poetess. As the matter is one of local interest to literary circles in Peterborough, the article is given below. The News says—

It was with some reluctance that I undertook the task, a couple of weeks ago, of reviewing a volume of verse by Miss Alma Frances McCollum, of Peterborough. There was no doubt about the merit of the book; it was utterly commonplace and conventional, without either technique or real poetic feeling—obviously the work of the young lady poetess. Canada is full of that sort, but fortunately they do not always publish their productions. But still when these nice Canadian girls do venture upon the troubled seas of literary publicity, one dislikes to play the part of wrecker.

So I said that Miss McCollum was a very pretty young lady, judging by the portrait which she has inserted as a frontispiece. I hoped that this would gild the bitter pill of criticism. But it didn't.

The literary folks of Peterborough are mad. We have received three letters from a gentleman who says he is the friend and business manager of Miss McCollum. His name is J. W. Garvin, B. A., and from his letter-head I infer that he works for the North American Life Assurance Company. Two of his epistles are marked "personal," but he wants the third published, and though it is lengthy, and gives Miss McCollum a good deal of free advertising, I have inserted it. It is rather too good to lose, and, anyway, this department is nothing if not impartial.

He says: "Will you do the literary circles of Peterborough the favour of letting them know the name of the ignorant and malicious person who wrote the squib on "Flower Legends and Other Poems," which appeared in The News Magazine of to-day?"

Right here I would interrupt Mr Garvin by remarking that the ignorant and malicious person's name was printed in fairly readable type at the head of the page, where he might have seen it if he had not allowed the vehemence of his wrath to carry him away.

"A more gifted young poetess (he continues) than Miss Alma Frances McCollum has not published for years a first volume on Canadian soil. Throughout the book her lines are characterized by original conception, delightful fancy, melodious measure and pure, expressive diction; and it is most regrettable that one so highly gifted, whose poems will cheer and bless the lives of thousands, should be so brutally attacked.

"If there is one characteristic more than another of Miss McCollum's poetry that charms the reader it is the rippling melody of most of the lines. Let me give a few illustrations:

Pearly bells, pearly bells, tinkle a melody,
Tell to the moonbeams as pure as yourselves;
Murmur it merrily, tell of the revelry,
Sing of the days of the fairies and elves.

As light-winged dancing butterflies
Oer flowers seek where honey lies,
So float her fingers o'er the keys
In search of sweetest melodies.

When you wander alone through the forest,
And list to its murmuring song,
If your heart is attuned to the music
The words will come floating along.

Mr. Garvin gives a great many more quotations, but I am reluctantly compelled to omit them for lack of space. I think the ones I have printed are the best. Then he goes on to say:

"These are but a few out of the hundreds of such stanzas which delight the ear of anyone who has a soul for rippling rhythm, and yet we are told by your squibbler that he could not find a single melodious stanza."

It is an undoubted fact that all of us do not possess such a soul as this for rippling rhythm, and we are not all attuned to the music of the Peterborough spheres. But it is evident that Mr. Garvin is so attuned; his own style is rich with rippling rhythm and apt alliteration, and when he waxes dithyrambic over his native muses it is like the morning stars singing together.

"Let me quote," he says—that is, from my unfortunate review. "It may perhaps be read in Peterborough." Yes, and it will not be long before the product of Miss Alma Frances McCollum's genius shall be read throughout all Canada and beyond. Like Burns, Moore, Wordsworth, Longfellow, and Tennyson, she knows how to reach the great pulsing human heart. She sings for the many, and not to entertain the disgruntled few whose brains have never been illumined by even a spark of genius."

It is clear that the great pulsing human heart of Peterborough is beating feverishly and with loud unhappy thumps.

In to-morrow's issue will appear the first criticism of the News, and the rejoinder of Mr. Garvin, in full.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT.

St. John's Choir Rugbyists Defeated the Grove--The Peterborough Hockey Club and the O. H. A.--Capt. McPherson in the Role of Referee.

In less than two months time the hockey season will be in full swing. Clubs are everywhere organizing throughout the country, and the indications are that Canada's popular winter game will have a greater boom this season than ever. The officers of the various leagues are beginning to size up the situation, and it will not be long before the annual meeting of the O.H.A., and other leagues, will be called. Notwithstanding the adverse criticism that has from time to time been poured forth upon the management of the O.H.A., it is unquestionably the most ably conducted governing body that has to do with athletics in Canada. Its constitution has been moulded as a result of careful study on the part of those who have been identified with the management of the association in years past, and the officers of the O.H.A. are gentlemen whose honesty and ability are such as to inspire confidence in the hockey-loving public of the province.

No organization can be run to suit everybody, and if London and Stratford, and a few other towns, think they have grievances, the general public is of the opinion that such grievances are entirely imaginary, and that the executive of the O.H.A. in giving decisions on delicate points, has always acted squarely and it is believed in the best interests of the game at large.

Of course one reason why some of the larger towns in Ontario talk loud against the O.H.A. at times, is that, its management is pretty well centralized in Toronto. As a matter of fact, the executive is composed of representatives from the various parts of the province, but the members of the sub-committee, which in reality has the greater part of the work to do, are residents of the Queen City, and London, Stratford, and a few other cities grow jealous at times, and become so blassed that they think they are being unjustly treated, and that Toronto teams are getting all kinds of favours.

Even some Peterborough people, in times of excitement, have gone so far as to insinuate this, but when one looks over the excellent management of the O.H.A. during the past number of years, one cannot help but feel that a debt of gratitude is owing to those who have sacrified not only their time and energies in the interests of a game we so much admire. Peterborough is one of the oldest clubs in the O.H.A. It has been a prominent factor in hockey circles for many years, and the indications are that the coming season will conclude, as last season did, with the glare of fireworks, the music of brass bands, and the joyous shouts of citizens. Peterborough's team will be stronger this year than last. It is not the intention to dwell here on the personnel of the team, but the public is assured of a championship seven, and the O.H.A. of that loyal support that has been given it in the past by the hub of the Midland District

RUGBY.

St. John's choir boys secured another victory on Saturday when they defeated the Grove fifteen from Lakefield by a score of 28—4. The game was played on the Nicholls Oval before a number of supporters of the two teams. The locals had slightly the advantage in weight, which, however, they did not use to the disadvantage of their opponents. For the locals Boucher, Hudson, Mulhern and Yokome showed up wonderfully well, whilst for the visitors Seagram and Hunter were easily the stars. The work of Seymour at quarter was particularly fine.

The teams were as follows:

The Grove — Back, Greenwood; halves, Hunter, Seagram and Hilliard; quarter, Young; scrimmage, Strickland, Greenwood and Anderson; wings, Smith, Pearce, Harman, Dela Fosse, VanAllan, Falls, Rickard and Plummer.

St. John's Choir—Back, Boucher; halves, Weller, Mulhern and Hodgson; quarter, Seymour; scrimmage, Yokome, Wood, H. Sawers; wings, Cumming, F. Sawers, Halpany, Campbell, Morphet, Ray and Smith.

The Peterborough club had an honour conferred upon them at Ottawa on Saturday. At the conclusion of the Peterborough-Rough Riders II match, McGill and Ottawa played an exhibition game. Captain McPherson was asked to referee the game and Mr. Hal. Burnham to act as umpire. Both gentlemen made very capable officers.

"From all accounts that Peterborough Intermediate Team is a dangerous candidate for championship honours. The Easterners are big, strong and fast, and know the game well. They are called to beat Ottawa to-day, and then they will play off with the winners of the Western series. They will have no easy picking, however, when they come to play the Westerners. The Torontos, who look like the winners of this district, have a splendidly balanced team, and do not lack for weight either. They are strong on the line and in scrimmage, and the back division is as strong as will be found in most senior teams. It will be a battle royal if Peterborough and Torontos come together."—Toronto News.

Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews has told the students of the University of Nebraska that he fears football enthusiasm and the devil sometimes go hand in hand. Such a condition apparently followed the celebration in Lincoln of Nebraska's victory over Minnesota, he said, when students captured a street car and partly dismantled it. That was the devil's work. The Chancellor declared it would have been far better if the team had been defeated than to have given such an exhibition.

GOLF.

An interesting game of golf was played on the local links Saturday afternoon between teams representing the ladies and gentlemen. The gentlemen were victorious by 8 holes up. The following were the scores:

Should the weather prove favourable it is the intention to play another game between the ladies and gentlemen on Saturday next.

BASKET-BALL.

The match on Saturday night between the Canadian General Electric Company and the William Hamilton Company resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 13—10. If the umpires at the matches were strict to the spirit of the rules, as was the case on Saturday night, the game will have no trouble in finding favour in the eyes of the spectators.

WHY ?

Why hunt in vain for cheap houses to rent when it is easier to buy? Why pay seven to ten per cent. in rent to be turned out, when five to six would pay interest on investment and own your house? Why look for farms to rent when we have lots of them for sale? Why run your own risk of fire when you should be insured? Why run all risks without protection when you should have an accident policy? Why trouble your friends when you can get a guarantee policy? Why leave your wife and family to scrub and beg when a life policy would prevent it? THE MINERS' IDOL.

Pen Picture of President of United Mine Workers of America.

John Mitchell, barely 35, is a small, spare man, with black eyes steady in a white, smooth face, which, with his habitual clerical garb and sober mien, gives him the appearance of a priest. The breaker boys find him kind; their elders approach him easily, but only on business, to which while they talk he listens coldly, giving answers that are soft, but short, cast in the form of advice or a direction, with the reason for it. He is never dictatorial, only patient and reasonable. He has no vanity, nor fear for his dignity. It is said he is brave. Once during a strike in Pana, Illinois, his men set out to attack some non-union men at work behind a stockade with guards who shot to kill. The strikers seized two of their employers, and putting them in front, made them lead the attack. Mitchell heard of it, and running to the scene rescued the "bosses." His men turned on him in wrath, but he explained, and led off the captives from the furious crowd.

"A little at a time," he says. "Anything is better than nothing. And the big thing is the main thing—honor. That is all a union has."

John A. Ewan, in The Globe, writes: "Involved in this fight," Mr. Mitchell wrote, "are questions mightier than any questions of dollars and cents. The present miner has had his day; he has been oppressed and ground down, but there is another generation coming up, a generation of little children prematurely doomed to the whirl of the mill and the noise and blackness of the breaker. It is for these little children we are fighting. We have not underestimated the strength of our opponents; we have not overestimated our own power of resistance—accustomed always to live upon little, a little less is no unendurable hardship. It was with a quaking of hearts that we called for a strike; it was with a quaking of hearts that we asked for our last pay envelopes; but in the grimy, bruised hand of the miner was the little white hand of a child, a child like the children of the rich, and in the heart of the miner was the soul-rooted determination to starve to the last crust of bread and fight out the long, dreary battle to win a life for the child and secure for it a place in the world in keeping with advancing civilization."

This is in reality an answer to those who point out that even if the miner gains the concessions he asks for, he would not be compensated in years for the five months of idleness that he has already put in. The temper of his manifestoes is well illustrated in this extract:—

"In closing this statement I desire to say that we have entered and are conducting this struggle without malice and without bitterness; we believe that our antagonists are acting upon misrepresentation rather than in bad faith; we regard them not as enemies, but as opponents, and we strike in patience until they shall accede to our demands or submit to impartial arbitration the differences between us. We are striking not to show our strength, but the justice of our cause, and we desire only the privilege of presenting our case to a fair tribunal. We ask not for favors, but for justice, and we appeal our case to the solemn judgment of the American people."

AN AWFUL MISTAKE.

Physician Prescribes Nuxvomica for a Kingston Lady With the Result That She is Paralyzed.

A Thrilling Experience Resulting From a Doctor's Blunder—Fortunately She Recovered and Tells the Story of the Whole Incident.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—That Mrs. E. Lake, of 112 Clarence street, this city, is alive to-day, is a matter for wonder. She says:

'My sickness was brought about by overdose of Strychnine prescribed by a physician. It brought on Paralysis affecting my left side, brain, arm and limbs.

"I was perfectly helpless and it was impossible for me to raise my left limb or open my fingers. I got no sleep and often when I closed my eyes remained open. I had not the power to close my eyelids.

"I suffered almost continually with headache.

"My brain felt as though it was too large for the skull. My appetite failed and I became very emaciated, indeed, I was nothing but skin and bones.

"I was three years under treatment, many physicians having me under their care, but without avail. At last I became discouraged and gave up all treatment.

"While reading a paper one day I noticed a testimony of one who was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My sister procured me a box of the pills and I started on three pills three times a day. I soon began to experience a change for the better which continued until I regained the use of my arm, hand and limb. My headache also ceased and my appetite returned.

"From this I soon picked up flesh and strength until I was as well as ever.

"I thank God and Dodd's Kidney Pills for my health for by prayer and this wonderful remedy, I was cured and have remained in good health ever since, although this was over five years ago."

Strength and Beauty.

Strength and beauty blend in all truly noble character. Strength alone is not always lovely; it may be stern, oppressive, unjust, cruel or selfish. Among animals, hugeness is not itself winning; it may be very uncomely, though strong. Beauty alone may not be pleasing, being weak, lacking in firmness and truth. There are plants that are lovely in their delicacy, but so frail as to be scarcely more than a dream, so fragile are they. But when the two qualities, strength and beauty, are united, we have a character which wins the approval of God and the commendation of men.

FRESH FASHIONS.

THE TIME OF THE COAT AND SKIRT HAS COME AGAIN.

Elaborate Three-quarter Length Jackets—Buttons Crop Up In Big Numbers—Favorite Fabrics—The Sheen of Silver Over All.

The jacket of three-quarter length here sketched as an example of some of the new fall fashions is of cream cloth, with silver buttons and ornaments made of white cords interwoven with silver threads. The skirt of this is made to match and is prettily finished at the hem with rows of buttons.

Buttons are used much in decoration and will be seen on the frocks of dark cloth this season. It is well also to know that the picturesque is to spread its influence largely over the styles, and the plaited sack coat, the full three-quarter basque and the hat with the drooping plumes are all to be included in the list of the desirable.

AN AUTUMN MODEL.

As for the fabrics, we are to have camel's hair cloth as well as face cloth and for the colors brown and blue for the dark shades and apricot for the light shade, and this last looks perfectly beautiful in combination with sable. White in the many shades now popular will still have its devotees.

Fashion is kind to all this season, and those who incline to the trim, the neat and the true tailor made may find it in such a costume as that of the second sketch, which is in soft gray, with silver buttons.

Silver, by the way, is returning to us in buttons, trimmings, silver threads introduced into fabrics and silver dots imprinted on the same as well as in jewelry.

The time of year has come when over hill and dale, at home and abroad, the coat and skirt hold their own again.

Black taffeta promises to establish itself firmly once more along with the cooler days.

Tomato Catchup.

With a damp cloth wipe half a bushel of ripe tomatoes and remove the cores if hard. Put in a preserving kettle over the fire with a pint and a half of boiling water, six medium sized onions, chopped, and a handful of peach leaves. Cook until the tomatoes are quite soft, then strain through a fine meshed colander or coarse sieve, pressing lightly. Return the liquor to the kettle, add a quart of strong cider vinegar and the following spices well blended: An ounce each of ground allspice, pepper, mustard cloves and a nutmeg, grated. Mix the spice with a pound of light brown sugar to which has been added half a pint of salt. Add this mixture to the contents of the kettle and boil, continually stirring, an hour or longer, until sufficiently thick to pour slowly. Bottle and seal the catchup.

BEDS AND PILLOWS.

Practical Hints For Nightly Comfort and Daintiness.

As almost one-third of the time is passed in bed it is desirable to have a comfortable one to lie on. This sage observation leads the New Idea Magazine to further remark as follows:

Old fashioned feather beds are still found in many country homes and are highly prized by their owners, but they have been entirely superseded in city houses by the hair mattress. No mattress filling is so comfortable and durable as horsehair, and none is so expensive. The wool mattress usually sold contains flyings, scraps and even rags torn up and packed in. They are usually quite comfortable at first, but soon become hard, and unless there are good springs underneath them they make a very poor bed. Mattresses that are made in two sections are preferable to the full sized ones for large double beds. Feather pillows that are in constant use should be aired at least once a month; pinned to a clothesline and beaten with a whip, then left exposed to the fresh air for several hours.

A shady place should be chosen, because sunshine is apt to draw the oil out of the feathers and give them a disagreeable smell.

An excellent plan for preserving bedticks from dust and dirt is to inclose them in a case of unbleached muslin. Make this slip a little larger each way than the tick and sew it up on both sides and at the top. Hem the lower edges, work five buttonholes at regular intervals on one side and put the buttons on the other side to correspond. This slip can be removed and washed when needed, thus keeping the bed clean.

Cover the pillows in the same way, put the white muslin slip over it, and the stripes of the ticking will not show through.

Pillows that are in constant use require a thorough cleaning every year. Empty the feathers out into an old tick or sack, tying them securely. If the ticking of the pillows is new, do not fade the colors by boiling it, but put it in a strong suds made by dissolving any sort of washing powder in hot water. Allow it to soak for fifteen minutes and then rub it on a washboard or in a washing machine and pass it through a wringer. Prepare a second suds and proceed in the same way, rinsing through two clear waters, turning it the wrong side out and hanging it out to dry.

The proper size for pillows is about 21 by 27 inches.

Demise of a Well-Known Pioneer.

Another of the early residents of Toronto, or of York rather, has joined the great majority by the death of Kenneth McLean Wishart, of West Flamboro. Mr. Wishart was born in 1820 at Toronto, being a son of Captain Alex. Wishart, of H. M. 42nd Regt., (Black Watch), who held a staff military appointment in York in connection with the militia. When a young man the deceased left Toronto, then no longer York, and settled in West Flamboro, where he resided for more than fifty years. He was an intense Conservative in his political views and as was to be expected an ardent supporter of British connection.

Eczema and Itching Skin

Defied Many Expensive Remedies but Were Thoroughly Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is a mistake to judge Dr. Chase's Ointment by the results obtained from the use of ordinary salves and ointments. It is not to be compared with any preparation on the market to-day.

Some of these remedies give temporary relief but they do not strike deep enough to eradicate disease. You need not be alarmed if Dr. Chase's Ointment causes a little irritation at first; this is necessary in order to root out the disease. When the cure is brought about the skin will be left smooth and clear, without scar and blemish.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

"My little girl, two years old, has also been cured of Eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we hand to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to us."

Miss Levina Diotte, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I suffered with eczema for over a year and a half and tried all the remedies I could hear of, some of them costing considerable money, and not doing me any good. I was enduring great torture when I read an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and resolved to give it a trial.

"I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has completely cured me. Though I do not need it any more I keep a box in the house in case of emergency. I hope that people who suffer as I did may read this testimonial and for this reason you have my permission to publish it. It is only just that such a good remedy for eczema and itching skin should be made known to those who suffer."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"THE QUIET PEOPLE"

HOW THEIR LAST RESTING PLACE SNUGGLES UP TO THE RAILWAYS.

An Obscure Philosopher, a Telegraph Operator, Talks Interestingly About God's Acres and Their Silent Inhabitants—A Gruesome Subject Treated in a Most Entertaining Manner.

Have you ever noticed—you must have if you look through a car window—how the burying grounds seek the companionship of the railroads? Travel north, south, east or west, through this broad Dominion and you cannot escape these silent admonishments. In every hamlet, town and city, the railroad skirts the cemetery. The white church with the steeple, the swelling mounds, the spectral tombstones, are inevitable features in the railroad landscape, and the nearer the railroad a cemetery can get the happier it seems to be. At one atom of place—no need to mention the name here—it is in the bleak, wind-bitten north country—the graveyard, a crowded one at that, is in the backyard of the station house. It is all the society the telegraph operator has, and imagination shivers at his thoughts on some wild, eldritch midnight when the sky is a mirk of snow and dark, and the unchecked wind screams at his casement and makes dirges in the telegraph wires. Still, better that company than none, and what does it matter, so long as a man has a roaring fire and a bright lamp? I talked to that particular operator, and asked him how he liked the mortally quiet set he was moving in. He was not a melancholy man, but he was sentimental. He said he didn't care, because the dead people only made him feel that much cosier. "I get a real pleasure out of it," he volunteered. "When I think of them lying out there still and cold, I thank God I'm alive and in a warm room."

It was something like that Lucretius reasoned some nineteen hundred years ago, says H. F. G. in Toronto Star. The great Roman philosopher and poet confessed that nothing was more delectable than a shipwreck seen from the shore, because it made the beholder congratulate himself on his own safety.

"They don't bother me," went on my friend the telegraph operator. "In the winter the snow covers 'em all up. It drifts and drifts until you can't tell where the snow ends and the tombstones begin. In summer it's the busiest, greenest, heartsomest place in a hundred miles. All the crickets and grasshoppers and chirping things seem to favor this spot, and the bees like the flowers that I plant to please the quiet people under the sod. A good brisk graveyard on a summer day, with the birds singing and the flowers blooming, is a mighty sight better than a sunbaked rock or a beetling hill savage with scrub, and that's what many a stationmaster has to put up with in these parts."

"And you never feel creepy? You're not afraid of ghosts?"

"Well," replied the obscure philosopher, "you see, the dead can't hurt me. It's the living I mistrust. If I could manage them as easily as I do my dead people I wouldn't be working out here for fifty dollars a month and free house. Still, I have an uncanny feeling sometimes. The ticker is great company, but sometimes in the middle of night the report of a murder trial comes over it. I listen, of course. It's better than a novel, because it's real people and real life you know. And the jury brings in its verdict—guilty. And the judge puts on the black cap. 'May God have mercy on your soul.' That's thirty—the end of the story, and the reporter's work is done. But that message sets me thinking of my friends in the back yard. Where have their souls gone? Did they need mercy? Did they get it? Will that condemned murderer, when he's strung up, come to visit my charges? Will he go round shaking hands with all the people who have gone before, like a Methodist parson at a tea meeting? There's about four trains a day, including freights, come through here, but the hardest one to handle is the train of thought that sidetracks here after twelve o'clock of a wild winter night."

Why do the graveyards snuggle up to the railroads? Nothing could be more incongruous. The peace, the stillness, the pervading solemnity of the one; the clamor, the strenuousness, the fervid hurry of the other. The railroads are not responsible, because they would hardly care to remind the passengers of the chances of sudden death to people who fare forward at fifty miles an hour. It isn't good business for them to have passengers clutching nervously at their accident insurance policies, taking them out once in a while to find out exactly how much they will be ahead by dying. The railroads are cutting down grades, straightening curves, double-tracking, doing everything, in fact, to increase speed and annihilate distance. It hardly profits them to plant a remainder by the wayside that we are all hurrying on to a sphere where time and space count for nothing. They have no immediate interest in that bourne whence no traveler ever returns, else they would never sell any return tickets. It's not the railways, then, that seek the cemeteries, but the cemeteries that seek the railroads. The dead people don't care, but the living do. The dead people's eyes have opened on fairer worlds, and their minds are probably occupied with some of that Infinite knowledge which they missed here. They have no need of company, having joined the great majority, from whom they may make selection of the choicest spirits. But their friends hate to think of them remote and lonely on the cold winter nights, and, out of sheer pity, they lay them down beside the railroad, which is the most stridently vital thing in sight, recognizing neither night nor day in its ceaseless activity.

This, no doubt, explains why God's acre is juxtaposed to man's greatest industry. It explains that solitary grave in the wheat field. The farmer's wife is resting there, perhaps, at her own request. The poor, tired soul was refreshed by the passing trains when she was alive. They brought suggestions of people pleasuring in gay cities; of beautiful buildings and happy faces; of grand pictures and gallant music; of all that variety of interest which her monotonous, work-a-day existence failed to touch. So the farmer's wife sleeps her long sleep under the oak tree in the wheat field. And maybe her dreams are sweetened by the shriek of the engine whistle and the rush and roar of the vestibuled train.

Bulk and Quality of Brains.

A very old and always popular topic is that which discusses the question whether there is any definite relationship to be discovered and formulated betwixt the size and shape of the head and the individual intelligence. While some great men have certainly had big heads, others have not surpassed the average, while, contrariwise, many large-headed individuals are by no means brilliant intellectually, but often rather the reverse. I have never ceased to wonder why the question of brain weight, or size should be considered at all in the matter. The vast bulk of a brain is composed of white matter—that is, of nerve fibres— which has nothing whatever to do with the real brain work, and which only carries messages. Again, if research is to be trusted, it is only the brain cells of a very limited (probably the frontal) region which have to do with the highest mental operations. When, therefore, we talk about the size of head and brain, and the weight of the brain, we should clearly understand that only an infinitesimal fraction of the three pounds' weight or so of an ordinary brain can be reckoned as representing brain cells, that are the agents of our nervous governance. Practically, the brain cells (of the cerebrum or great brain at least) bear no larger proportion to the brain's mass than the rind of a Dutch cheese does to the eatable portion.

Professor Carl Pearson, the distinguished statistician, whose attempts to test biological problems by mathematical means are familiar to all scientists, lately published the results of an investigation made into the question of the relation between size of head and intellectual preponderance. His paper was read before the Royal Society. If the working man has a smaller head on the average than the professional man, Professor Pearson points out that the difference is due to better nutrition. But apart from such a wide comparison, he arrived at stricter conclusions by the investigations of measurements made on Cambridge undergraduates whose careers were known. The results are given as showing that there is no marked correlation between ability as judged by entry for an honors examination and the size or the shape of the head. When schools were selected for testing the question, essentially similar results were obtained. A third series of researches on wider extent resulted in the conclusion that very brilliant men have a head slightly larger than the average, but Professor Pearson adds that the increase is so small that it cannot form any element in our judgment of ability.—London Chronicle.

The Law's Delays.

Have patience, and the law will see you righted even though you may have "lain for a century dead." An amused correspondent, according to The London Chronicle, found the other morning in his letter box a notice from the Bankruptcy Court inviting application for a "third and final dividend of 2½d. in the pound." The bankruptcy occurred in the reign of William IV., and the debt was owing to our correspondent's father, who had been dead for sixty years. How many of the other creditors can be traced to-day, we wonder? But think of the bulldog tenacity, heritage of our unrivalled race, that followed up that twopence farthing for five and sixty years and got it at last!

If the teacher could wipe away the blotches from her skin as easily as she does the caricature with its pimply face, she would be a happy woman.

Pimples and eruptions are more than a disfigurement to a woman,—they make her sensitive and unhappy. The way to cleanse the skin is to purify the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the clogging accumulations and poisons which corrupt it. When these are removed, pimples, boils, eruptions, sores, and other consequences of impure blood are entirely cured.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main St., Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

THE PHANTOM SHIP.

A legend of Cape Despair, and the fleet sent out by Queen Anne in 1711, which was lost in a storm in the Gulf. The Gaspe fisher-folk say that the ship in thus seen, on moonlight nights of April.

Off the Gaspe coast, when the sea lies calm,
And ne'er a breeze doth sigh,
And the Moon of Bright Nights shines fair,
Within a cloudless sky;
With a sudden surge the waters rise,
And the Phantom Ship doth bear
Down the towering waves, through the flying foam,
On the rocks of Cape Despair.

And o'er her bulwarks in silence grim,
A spectral host doth lean,
In the garb of old-time soldier-men,
When Anne was England's Queen;
While one stands forth on the plunging prow,
To front the soundless storm,
With one arm clasping to his breast
A woman's white-clad form;

Like the panther crouched to spring is he,
As his wild eye sweeps the shore,
While the woman's snowy garments stream
On a ghostly wind of yore;
And the watchers through the midnight hear
A woman's anguished cry,
As with lightning flight through waters white,
The Phantom Ship goes by!

The stars wane wan in the skies above,
And the moonlit sea grows dark,
As the seething surge of the hurricane
Sweeps o'er the fated barks
And the stars shine forth in the skies again,
O'er the rugged Gaspe coast;
But the Phantom Ship hath met her doom,
With all her gallant host! —S.

A Sure Cure for Constipation.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentry, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

The Mayor and the Stockings.

The Mayor of a certain English port is telling a good story against himself which we venture to say cannot be outdone by either the present or any past Mayor of Toronto. The good Mayor was, like every other Mayor in England, accorded a special invitation to take part in the great function, and departed for London on the eventful evening, leaving the Mayoress to discharge the duties of his position in the town on Coronation Saturday. On unpacking the bag which contained his official apparel on the Saturday morning at a London hotel, the Mayor discovered that no less important an item than the black silk stockings had not been packed. In his dilemma he appealed to fellow Mayors who were staying at the same hotel, but with no success other than a brilliant suggestion. Acting on that suggestion he interviewed the chambermaid. "Had she a pair of black stockings?" "Of course she had; was the gentleman making fun of her?" "You must let me have them," said the Mayor. "Oh, but I can't," stammered the maid. "Why?" "Well, because I am wearing the only pair that is presentable." Eventually, after some rather delicate negotiations, the Mayor received the stockings the maid had been wearing. And he wore them at the coronation of the King! The funniest thing about this particular story is that it is absolutely and literally true.—Saturday Night.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago :

New York, Nov. 3rd, 9.45 a.m.—Election forecasts conflicting, but all indicate close contest. Southern Railway voting trust formally dissolved and reconstituted. Bank statement considered favourable, but increase in loans larger than expected. Certain no changes in L. & N. dividend rate. Manhattan quarterly statement for period ending September 30th, will show gross increase 7.81 per cent. Terminal strike means additional production of 57,000 tons of coal monthly. Car and Foundry Co. will be merged with Standard Steel Car Co. People's Gas declared regular dividend 1 1-2 per cent., payable November 25th. Norfolk & Western September surplus, $532,000, increase of $14,000. C. & A. September net, $367,000, against $605,000 last year. Nashville, C., and St. Louis September surplus $80,000, against $42,000 last year

Dow, Jones & Co.

Liverpool opening wheat and corn, 1-4 lower. Cotton—spot moderate mid. 4.20, unchanged. Sales, 8,000. Rects., 5,000. American futures opened quiet, and at 12.30 were one to two points off from Saturday's close. Amns. 1-4 to 1-2 below parity. Home markets quiet and featureless. Consols steady, unchanged at 93 1-8.

M. & M.

New York, Nov. 3rd, 10.45 a.m.—Covering of shorts steadying the stock market, and it looks as if the activity had spent itself, and the market would be quieter, for Western contingent were credited with being the most active sellers.

M. & M.

Grain.—Market feels Patten's selling of Friday and Saturday, and for the time being buying power seems to be exhausted, and if price dips under 73 for May wheat, buy it.

DENISON.

Demand sterling has jumped practically to 487 on active demand for remittances for to-morrow's fast steamers, and it means gold exports. The market is quieter, with trading almost entirely professional.

M. & M.

New York, Nov. 1,—Gross earnings of the St. Paul Company for September have just been announced. They are splendid. The increase for the month over the same month for the preceding year amounted to $292,722. The net earnings increased $174,346. This road keeps up its marvellous statements of earnings, showing constantly increasing traffic on top of the enormous increases for the past two years. No wonder the stock is hovering near to the 200 mark, which these letters have predicted for it ever since it sold at 140. We expect to see St. Paul stock sell as high as does North-west within twelve months. Southern Railway earnings for September have been reported also, and are simply remarkable. The gain in gross for the month was $528,915. Just think of it. Net earnings increased $168,833, making a gain from July of $297,779. The company's traffic is simply enormous. The Southern's territory is steadily increasing in prosperity and industrial activity. Its earnings will increase materially for years to come. The company has spent out of its earnings in the past few years stupendious amounts of money, and, as a result, the physical condition of the road is simply magnificent, while heavier loads may now be carried at much diminished cost. Southern pfd. pays 5 per cent., yet sells below par. This is an increase of big intrinsic value, at a cheap market price. Eventually the issue should sell well above par, while the time should be near when the common stock will be salable well above 50 dollars per share. No mistake can be made in buying both the pfd. and com. stocks of the Southern Railway Company. The general heaviness of the market so far this week was due largely to the operations of what is known in Wall street circles as the "Waldorff Astoria crowd," which is a coterie of prominent floor traders of the New York Stock Exchange. They have been perniciously active in hammering each stock issue down as far as they possibly could. It is a mercurial and quick changing speculative party, and when they turn it will be done as quick as a flash, and their following will be the victims. The coming week is likely to see the activities of this speculative party switched to the bull side of the account.

Summary.—To-day's trading showed disposition to await the bank statement. Bulk of trading was concentrated in Manh., B. O., S. Pac. and Rdg. Comm. Manh. looks as if it were going higher. We believe it will come pretty close to reaching 145 on this movement. Good buying was discernible the past two days in Metropolitan also. The bank statement was a favourable one, showing about three and one-half million increase in reserves, eleven million increase in deposits. While specie increased over five million, circulation increased nearly two million. It was without material effect on prices. Manh., B. O., Un. Pac., shaded off somewhat in price just before the closing. Money closed at 4 per cent. Sales 161,100.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

A CLEVER CANADIAN.

Eve Brodlique Summers, One of the Best Known of Newspaper Women.

Many of Canada's clever children live outside her borders, but this does not dull our interest or lessen our pride in them. Among the number is Eve Brodlique Summers, one of the best known newspaper women on the continent. Before her marriage to Leland L. Summers, a wealthy southerner, Miss Brodlique was on the editorial staff of the Chicago Times-Herald, and a regular contributor to The Cosmopolitan, Frank Leslie's Weekly, and other prominent publications. After four years of resting from her labors she has again taken up the pen, and with such good result that her story, "According to Omar," has carried off the $300 prize offered by the Short Story Publishing Company of New York. There are some fine descriptive paragraphs in "According to Omar," which is the story of a woman's adventure during the Colprado carnival. For instance "She to held the red ball of the glowing Colorado sun dip behind the round-shouldered mountains, until only a faint aureole remained; then the great amphitheatre blazed forth in competitive crimson and gold, the whole of its glitter backed by the stately glory of the White Capitol, studded with lights, amber and ruby, and green, and topped by a blazing electric star. Through the wide, cool street ran the ribbons of light from gaily colored Japanese lanterns, and from each pole and overhead wire dangled the white and gold of carnival flags, mixed with line after line of rose-hued lamps. There had been three days of this—three days of sunshine yellow as gold-dust, crystal clear as no earthly gold ever was, three crisp nights under a blue velvet sky glowing with polished stars, and over the dark billows of the mountain range, the silver crescent of a young moon, pure, virginal, swung from a single, tremulous, exquisite jewel. It seemed as if nature herself had put on her choicest decorations to grace the carnival." The story gets its title from the fact that through it runs the philosophy of old Khayyam:

"Come, fill the cup, and in the fire of spring,
The winter garment of Repentance fling;
The bird of time has but a little way
To flutter—and the bird is on the wing.

"Oh! make the most of what we yet may spend
Before we, too, into the dust descend;
Dust unto dust, and under dust to lie,
Sans wine, sans song, sans singer, and sans end."

Protecting Rural Landscape.

It is the natural aspect of the common rural landscape, with its spacious solitude and soothing peace, that needs to be protected against the gruesome associations of pills and their advertisers. This, however, is perhaps as yet a counsel of perfection. We must begin by preserving places remarkable for their natural beauty, and possibly also place noteworthy for their historical associations; perhaps in time we shall come to feel that the common rural landscape, tenanted only by the rustic at his labor and the cattle at their pasture, by the birds of the air and the beasts of the field, is no place for an aggressive reminder of the ills of humanity and the pills warranted to cure them. Let us think of the opening of Gray's Elegy—

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way
And leaves the world to darkness and to me—and consider whether such lines could ever have been written if the poet, musing in Stoke Poges churchyard, had looked in one direction and seen the lowing herd winding past somebody's advertisement of a patent oilcake; in another, and seen the weary ploughman considering whether he should buy some gaudily flaunted nostrum warranted to ease his weariness; in a third, and spied some garish board offering him an oil to illuminate the glimmering landscape as it faded on his sight. Yet the scene immortalized by Gray should be sacred to every Englishman, not because it is singularly remarkable for natural beauty, not merely because it is immortalized in one of the noblest poems in the language, but because the sentiment it inspired is the common characteristic of every rural landscape in the country with any pretence to a charm of its own. The truth is that the advertisement boarding as such is utterly incompatible with the rural landscape as such. Their association at once strikes a discord, says The London Times, which no liberal mind can endure.

The Story of Morning Tiredness.

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigour, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. WOULD GIVE BOERS MORE MONEY.

And Make Kitchener Secretary of State For War.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 3.—Lord Rosebery, speaking at a crowded meeting here yesterday, welcomed the suggestion of a conference between the Liberal leaders. He said he was willing to promote to the utmost in his power the success of such a proposal. He, however, reiterated his abnegation of home rule; and said he did not see any prospect of the Liberals coming into power in the near future. He believed that, as a matter of policy, the Government might give the Boers more money, and, he declared that if he had been Premier, he would have made Lord Kitchener Secretary of State for War.

Sank a Spanish Steamer.

London, Nov. 3. — The British steamer St. Regulus, Captain McMullen, from Shields for Alexandria, has put in at Gravesend. She reports having collided with and sunk the Spanish steamer Enero, Captain Delgado, from Huelva, Spain, October 22. With the exception of three members the crew of the Enero were drowned. THE EMPIRE'S TRADE.

Official Report of the Colonial Conference Proceedings.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE QUESTION

The Resolution on This Subject Is the Most Interesting Part of the Report to America—What the Premiers of the Various Colonies Proposed to Do—Radical Canadian Request.

London, Nov. 4.—The blue book on the Colonial Conference does not add much to what is already known. The resolution on the subject of preferential trade is the most interesting part of the report to America.

In that resolution the conference recognizes that preferential trade between the United Kingdom and the colonies would stimulate and facilitate commerce and strengthen the Empire; that in the present circumstances of the colonies it would not be practicable to adopt a general system of free trade; that with a view, however, to promoting an increase of trade within the Empire, it is desirable that those colonies which have not already adopted such a policy should, as far as their circumstances permit, give substantial preferential treatment to the products and manufactures of the United Kingdom.

Four Premiers urge an Imperial grant to colonial products and manufactures, giving preferential treatment in the United Kingdom by exemption from or reduction of duties.

Five Premiers present at the conference undertake to submit to their respective governments at the earliest opportunity a request that such measures be taken as may be necessary to give effect to the principle of this resolution.

A memorandum from the president of the Board of Trade shows that the premiers were prepared to recommend preferential treatment on British goods, as follows:

Canada—The existing preference of 33 1-3 per cent., and an additional preference on selected articles, by reducing the duties in favor of the United Kingdom, raising duties on foreign imports and placing duties on certain foreign imports now free.

New Zealand—Ten per cent. all round, reduction on present duties on British goods.

Cape Colony and Natal—Twenty-five per cent. preference on British goods.

Australia was not in a position to define the extent of the preference to be given.

Another resolution emphasizes the desirability of considering the refusal of the privileges of the coasting trade, including trade between the United Kingdom and the Colonies, and between the colonies, to countries wherein corresponding trade is carried in ships of their own nationality.

The conference also adopted resolutions advocating the use of the metric system; the reservation by the Government in future agreements; of the right to purchase cables, and the insertion in the new shipping agreements of provisions to prevent excessive freight charges or any preference in favor of foreigners.

The blue book shows, also, that owing to differences of opinion among the different colonies no decision was reached on the question of Imperial military defences. Secretary for War Brodrick, in a speech in which he urged the colonies to perfect their military forces, insisted that it would never do, in any future war, to count on having an enemy likely to enable Great Britain to make up during hostilities the deficiencies found at the start.

The radical attitude of the Canadian Ministers in favor of preferential trade was shown throughout the conference. The Canadians definitely urged upon Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, that, in consideration of the substantial preferences given by Canada to the products of Great Britain, Canadian exports of food products ought to be exempted from the duties imposed this year by Great Britain.

Mr. Chamberlain did not agree to this proposal: he said he did not believe that there would follow any material result to the trade of the United Kingdom on account of the granting of preferential trade by Canada, great as the Canadian Ministers claimed this trade to be, and he declined to agree to such a departure from the fiscal policy of the Empire.

Act Will Stand.

London, Nov. 4.—In the House of Commons yesterday, in reply to a question from Sir John Long, member for Dundee, with regard to the removal of the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle, the Right Hon. W. R. Hanbury, president of the Board of Agriculture, said that the act of 1895 prohibited the importation of all cattle alike, and that he had no intention of proposing its repeal.

MORPHINE AND MURDER.

Walter Willis Puts a 32-Calibre Bullet Into Robert Adams' Vitals—Rossland, B.C., Shocked by the Event.

Rossland, B. C., Nov. 4.—The International Hotel was the scene of a serious shooting yesterday morning, when Walter Willis shot Robert Adams through the lungs and liver with a thirty-two calibre revolver.

The men had had trouble on various occasions, and the hard feeling engendered culminated yesterday morning when a dispute arose over a trifling sum of money.

Adams is in a critical condition, and Willis is under arrest, charged with attempting murder.

The prisoner is a morphine fiend in an advanced stage of the habit.

HAVE ENTERED MANITOBA.

The Main Body of the Marching Doukhobors at Binscarth.

Binscarth, Man., Nov. 4.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the Doukhobor wanderers were resting quietly one mile west of this point. They still keep up their custom of praying and chanting. They have no hesitation in accepting charity; in fact they are begging as they go along. Many were observed from the train picking over the stubble in search for stray ears of wheat. Last night was spent by the pilgrims a few miles east of Millwood. As they proceed they are becoming communicative, and are certainly bound for Winnipeg. Four mounted policemen are following closely in the rear.

To-day the women and children will be shipped on a special train of colonist coaches home from Yorkton to Swan River, thence to their villages. Agent Harley will accompany them. There may be some trouble in entraining them.

There was a very heavy snowfall throughout Manitoba last night, the first of the season. The snow will probably solve the Doukhobor problem, as the marching enthusiasts have predicted all along that sunny and bright weather would prevail until they reached Winnipeg.

The Man Insulted by Astor.

London, Nov. 4.—Sir Archibald Beckley Milne, the Scottish baronet, whom William Waldorf Astor ordered from his house when the former went there with the Countess of Oxford, has been appointed naval aide-de-camp to the King. This is a much envied distinction conferred as a mark of personal favor.

NO APPOINTMENT YET

No Announcement of a Successor to Hon. Mr. Tarte.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER SILENT.

Hon. James Sutherland May Take the Portfolio of Public Works—Mr. Raymond Prefontaine May Be Sworn of the Privy Council as Minister of Marine and Fisheries—New Clerk of the House.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—The Premier has not as yet given any intimation as to who is to be the new Cabinet Minister. When asked yesterday morning if he had any statement to give to the press, Sir Wilfrid replied in the negative. It would surprise no one, however, if Hon. James Sutherland were made Minister of Public Works, and Mr. Raymond Prefontaine, M.P., sworn of the Privy Council as Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

May Go to the Bench.

Mr. Brodeur, it would seem, does not want a place in the Cabinet. He prefers to remain Speaker of the House, for the present, at any rate, with the prospect ultimately of a position upon the bench. That Mr. Brodeur makes an ideal Speaker, all will admit. A high authority said this morning that the present Speaker was the best we had ever had in Canada. He is dignified, impartial and resolute, with a sweetness of temper which renders him irresistible. Of personal magnetism he has an abundance, and he is deservedly popular with both sides of the House. If it be true that Mr. Brodeur has no aspirations for the Cabinet, the Government will lose and the House of Commons will gain.

New Clerk of the House.

Mr. Brodeur's decision to remain Speaker, if he has so decided, is a fortunate occurrence, in view of the fact that the clerkship of the House is vacant, and an appointment will soon have to be made. With a Speaker and a clerk, both new to their duties; the coming session of Parliament might have witnessed some awkward blunders. With Mr. Brodeur still in the chair, Mr. Flint, member for Yarmouth, N. S., who is to succeed the late Sir John Bourinot as clerk of the House, will have a comparatively easy job before him.

The intention is to considerably enlarge the scope of the Marine and Fisheries Department, when Mr. Prefontaine takes hold, so that it will be nearly as important as Public Works.

BRITISH OUTPOST RAIDED.

Rumored That Mad Mullah Moves Again—Britons Advance Nov. 27.

Aden, Arabia, Nov. 4.—It is rumored in native quarters that the Mullah has raided an advance British outpost, in the vicinity of Bohotle, Somaliland, capturing a large camel transport.

Col. Swayne has been recalled to England temporarily, where he will act as adviser to the Foreign Office. Gen. Manning has assumed command of the British Somaliland expedition.

Three thousand men will begin to advance against the Mullah about Nov. 27. This delay is due to the fact that Gen. Manning is dispensing with the Indian troops in the belief that the native levies are more effective.

Nova Scotia Woman Killed.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—Miss Clara Morton, the laundress, employed at the McLean Asylum, who was assaulted on the grounds of the institution Saturday evening by an unknown person, is dead, and the police have no satisfactory clew by which to trace her assailant. She was unconscious from the time of the attack till she died. Miss Morton came from Nova Scotia, and had been employed at the hospital for three years.

Under the Charlton Act.

Windsor, Nov. 4.—At noon yesterday David Valandry was convicted before Judge Horne of having committed an offence under the Charlton Act, the victim being a little 8-year-old daughter of a Sandwich South farmer. Valandry was sentenced to ten years in Kingston penitentiary and to receive twenty-four lashes, twelve in two months from date and twelve in a year from that time. Valandry took his sentence stoically.

Arbitrators Brought Together.

Paris, Nov. 4. — The Government succeeded yesterday in bringing together arbitrators representing the strikers and the mine owners of the Pas de Calais District, one of the chief centres of disorder. Five arbitrators for each side arrived yesterday and held their first meeting at the Ministry of Public Works. The discussion chiefly was as to wages.

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, who witnessed her signature to the following letter, praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit, who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—MRS. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Reed, 2425 E. Cumberland St., Philadelphia, Pa., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you the good I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I have been a great sufferer with female trouble, trying different doctors and medicines with no benefit. Two years ago I went under an operation, and it left me in a very weak condition. I had stomach trouble, backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, and was very nervous; in fact, I ached all over. I find yours is the only medicine that reaches such troubles, and would cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass, as thousands do.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

OUR TARIFF AND PROSPERITY.

Here is another evidence that the present tariff does not hinder prosperity and good times. Never in the history of the country has there been such a general demand for labour, and at such high wages. Everybody who wants to work can get employment, and there is no record of a period in our history when the people were so generally prosperous, and had such abundant means. Even the scarcity of fuel will not be the tremendous calamity it would have been in the dark days of the high tariff in 1895-96. As to this year's industrial and economic conditions prevailing in Montreal, which are but a type of the general conditions throughout the country, the Montreal Herald says:

The industrial and labour situation in Montreal during the summer has shown exceptional activity, and the indications are that the close of navigation will not diminish the general prosperity to any appreciable extent. The manufacturing industries have been exceedingly active, and building operations have been conducted on an unprecedented scale.

All classes of labour, skilled and unskilled, have been in steady demand, and advances in wages have been obtained in many lines.

The officials of the Federated Trades and Labour Council estimate that since the first of May, the trade unionists of the city have secured, either in response to formal demands, or in the way of voluntary concessions, advances in wages aggregating $25,000 a month, or $300,000 a year. As others, besides trade unionists have obtained better conditions, owing to the great demand for labour, it is safe to say that the general advance in wages will approximate half a million dollars.

At the present time the most marked feature of the labour market is the abundance of employment assured unskilled labour at fair wages. Lumbering firms are offering $35 a month for men to go into the woods, though not long ago they could obtain all the men they needed for $15 and $20. It is said that never before in the history of the industry have lumber firms experienced greater difficulty in securing a sufficient number of men to cut and haul their products, and in consequence wages have reached an almost unprecedented high figure.

Another interesting feature is the marked improvement reported in the clothing industry — an industry usually associated with long hours of labour and low wages. At present operators and pressers receive wages ranging from $14 to $20 a month, while cutters earn a higher rate.

This is significant of the general improvement in labour conditions here, when it is remembered that five years ago the garment workers sent a petition to the Government to award clothing contracts for the militia, to Montreal, in order to relieve the distress prevailing among the workers in this trade.

A higher tariff in some lines would perhaps give the favoured beneficiaries larger dividends than the 10 or 15 per cent. some of them are now declaring, but the main question is, would the consumer and the wage earner be benefitted. A time of universal prosperity, high wages, and brisk demand for labour, is a most inopportune time to make any radical change.

Nutrition in Its Best Form.

Malt Breakfast Food

Promotes and Maintains Health and Strength.

Malt Breakfast Food is a true health food. No other cereal food gives such a scientific concentration of life-giving nutriment. It is the most delicious and appetizing food ever given to the public, and being partially predigested, the weakest stomach easily completes the process and appropriates every particle. Malt Breakfast Food is the only breakfast cereal that has received the approval of the best physicians and the most noted food specialists. Its delicate flavour and great nutritive properties make it a food of wonderful value for invalids and convalescents. Once used, it becomes a necessity in the home. All grocers sell it.

THE COUNCIL WILL PURCHASE AN AMBULANCE

Bylaws re Fixed Assessment Dealt With.

ALD. McGREGOR'S MOTION.

He Wants the Assessment Rolls Published—Accounts Passed and Correspondence Dealt With.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Town Council was held last night. The council rushed through the business in a surprisingly fast manner, and adjourned at 8.45. The new scheme of taking the minutes read as typewritten, proved to be of great value in expediating the business of the council.

There were present: His Worship Mayor T. H. G. Denne, and Aldermen H. Best, J. Corkery, Robert Clinkscale, Jos. Batten, R. McGregor, J. J. Turner, B. Shortly and H. Rush.

The minutes of the council were adopted as typewritten.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received and disposed of as follows:

From the Otonabee Power Company, re pole line on the east side of Water street to Sherbrooke, and and then along the river bank to the George Matthews Company's premises.—Granted.

From the Northern Electric Co., of Madison, Wis., re electric lighting.—Received.

From H. P. Timmerman, General Superintendent of the C. P. R., re railway gates.—Received.

From J. Foster, asking damages for injury alleged to have been received by his horse breaking through the bridge at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets. — Board of Works with power to act.

From C. W. Stringer of the Bell Telephone Co., asking that a portion of the following streets be opened for the erection of poles — Smith street, between Bethune and Aylmer. —Granted, subject to the inspection of the Town Engineer.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts were received and referred to the Finance Committee as follows:

Mr. McWilliams of Edinburgh street, was on motion of Ald. Best allowed to address the council, regarding a culvert on Edinburgh street, near the G. T. R. He explained that it merely meant the clearing out of the culvert.

Upon motion of Ald. Clinkscale, seconded by Mr. Batten the matter was referred to the Town Engineer.

The Committee of the Whole, reported as follows through Ald. Shortly:

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen, — Your committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the bylaw to grant aid to the Skelton Manufacturing Company, be submitted to the electors alone, as Mr. Skelton does not wish it submitted at the same time as others, providing the company pay the expenses for this purpose, and deposit with the Town Treasurer $175; and that the same proposition be made to the Colonial Weaving Company, and that these companies may have their bylaws voted upon at the same time, and thus lessen the expense.

2. We recommend that all applications from local manufacturers for exemption or fixed assessment, be submitted to the electors at the time of the annual election in January, if this is approved of by the manufacturers so applying.

3. We recommend that Ald. Rush be appointed acting chairman of the Finance Committee during the absence of Ald. Roger.

4. We recommend that the Town Solicitor be instructed to notify the contractors to repair the defect in the granolithic sidewalk on the south side of Charlotte street, near J. Dunn's grocery.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. SHORTLY,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee, through its chairman, Ald. Clinkscale, reported as follows:

Gentlemen, — Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the Peterborough Light and Power Co. be instructed to place an electric light on Hunter street between George and Aylmer streets.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. CLINKSCALE,
Chairman.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee, through Ald. Rush, reported as follows:

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

1. We recommend that the agreement requiring the Little Lake Cemetery Company to pay $5 a year towards a hydrant on Crescent street be cancelled, and that the treasurer write the charge off.

2. We received a report from the Town Solicitor that an item of arrears of taxes against A. R. Williams, Toronto, for 1901 could not be collected, and we therefore recommend that this item be written off.

3. A letter was received from Dr. T. J. Moher stating that a cheque issued on Feb. 8th, 1902, for $2.50 in favour of himself and Dr. Bradd, had been lost, and asking for a duplicate. We recommend that the Treasurer issue a duplicate cheque on Dr. Moher giving an agreement to protect the town in the matter approved of by the Town Solicitor.

4. In regard to the application from Volunteers, who had gone to South Africa, our decision is that when the men who have asked for the grant or others produce certificates from Col. Miller, that they went to South Africa with the Volunteers from Peterborough, and that they were citizens of the town, and also a certificate from the County Clerk or Treasurer that they have not received a grant from the County, they be paid $25 each, provided they have not previously received a grant from the Town.

5. We recommend that the electors of jurors be paid $30 in accordance with the certificate of the Clerk of the Peace.

6. That the account from the Times for $5 for posters for the Board of Registration of Manhood Sufferage Voters, and from Walter Stocker for $4 for posting them to be paid if the Town Solicitor reports that the Town should pay them.

7. That the following accounts be paid:—

The Allin Ice Co	$ 25 00
The Kingan Hardware Co	9 00

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. RUSH,
Chairman, pro. tem.

The report was adopted.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

The Committee on Appointments reported as follows:—

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report that they authorized the chairman to purchase suits for the members of the Police Court, and to order an extra pair of trousers with each suit.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. CORKERY,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

A bylaw providing for the purchase of an ambulance, to cost $800, in accordance with the wishes of the subscribers to the Dan Spence Memorial Fund, was introduced by Ald. Best, and passed its various stages and was duly signed by the Mayor.

Ald. McGregor introduced a motion, seconded by Ald. Turner, providing that the Clerk be instructed to have the assessment roll published.

Ald. Best asked what the object was in doing so.

Ald. McGregor said that it was in the interests of the public.

Finally Ald. Clinkscale moved, seconded by Ald. Batten, that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee.

The amendment was carried on the following division:

Yeas,—Aldermen Best, Corkery, Batten, Clinkscale, Rush and Shortly.

Nays,—Aldermen Turner and McGregor.

The original motion was lost on the same division.

Ald. J. J. Turner gave notice of a resolution that he intended introducing at the next meeting of the Council, providing that all bicyclists should carry lanterns after dark, and providing that they should not travel at a greater speed than that determined in the bylaw.

Ald. Best gave notice of motion providing for the construction of a sewer as a local improvement on Rubidge street from Rink to Charlotte street.

Council then adjourned.

Why Uncle Was Dismissed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 4.—The dismissal from the Russian army of the Grand Duke Alexandrovitch, uncle of the Czar, which was officially announced Sunday, was due to his recent marriage to the Baroness Pistolkoff, who got a divorce from her husband in order to marry the Grand Duke. It is said that the Grand Duke has also been banished from the Russian court for ten years. He will settle at Cannes, France.

Steamer Badly Damaged.

Quebec, Nov. 4.—The steamship Iberian, Leyland Line, which went ashore on Friday last at Red Island, is now in the basin and said to be badly damaged. It is necessary to keep the pumps in constant action. The Iberian was on her way to Quebec when she grounded, and was to be the first steamer to take grain from the new extension of the Great Northern Elevator.

In the Lehigh Valley.

Hazelton, Pa., Nov. 4.—The anthracite strike commission spent the entire day in the Lehigh Valley region, visiting one mine and several of the mining villages. While most of the commissioners were looking over the territory, Recorder Wright was kept busy on the train in attending to correspondence. Mr. Mitchell's statement was sent to all the companies.

Fell Exhausted and Unconscious.

Mrs. R. W. Edwards, 33 McMurray street, Brantford, Ont., suffered for five years with nervous exhaustion and headache and dyspepsia. "The pains in the head would almost drive me crazy. I could not sleep nights, but would walk the floor in agony until I fell exhausted and unconscious. For the past nine months I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and from a mere skeleton this medicine has built me up in flesh and weight until I am strong and well." It would be scarcely possible to produce stronger evidence of the wonderful powers of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

I Will Cure You of

Rheumatism

Else No Money is Wanted.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk.

I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47 Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

SPAIN'S KING A REFORMER.

Frenchman Predicts For Him Historic Career—Parliament Orderly.

Madrid, Nov. 4.—M. Paul Deroulede has been interviewed by a reporter of The Madrid Heraldo, to whom he declared that notwithstanding his republican ideas he entertains a great admiration for the young King of Spain, who, he thinks, will be known in history as "The Reformer."

The idea of a Republic in Spain appears to M. Deroulede altogether out of the question, as the Republican party is divided into factions. He has recently been present at several meetings of the Senate and Chamber, and he expressed profound admiration for the dignified calm which pervades the Spanish parliamentary deliberations, and which is in such contrast to the noisiness and excitability of his compatriots.

Paine's Celery Compound

Makes Permanent Cures in Chronic and Complicated Cases of Rheumatism.

IT GIVES NEW LIFE TO HELPLESS AND CRIPPLED MEN AND WOMEN.

Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL. D., has given to his profession a positive and permanent cure for all forms of rheumatism now so common in the autumn season. To the rheumatic, this truth should prove encouraging and comforting. Men and women suffering intense agonies from a disease that frequently stiffens the joints, cripples the limbs and renders its victims helpless, can be restored to activity, vigour and health if Paine's Celery Compound be used for a few weeks. There is every reason why sufferers should pin their faith to this best of medicines. Your friends and neighbours have used it with success; the honest physician is prescribing it every day in cases where all other means have failed, and they are delighted with the grand results. It is your only hope; your safety and life depend upon its use. Mrs. M. McKillop, Campbellford, Ont., writes about her cure as follows:

"I was a sufferer from rheumatism for a long time, and endured great pain. The cords in the palms of my hands were drawn up in knots, and I despaired of getting relief. After using Paine's Celery Compound, I have banished all my pains and troubles, and find myself strengthened in every way. I think Paine's Celery Compound is the best medicine in the world for rheumatism and all nervous complaints."

Dewet Praises King Edward.

London, Nov. 4.—General Dewet, before starting for South Africa yesterday, said that he had been highly pleased with his reception in England and on the Continent, and considered King Edward one of the pleasantest men he ever met. He gratefully appreciated the sympathy shown for the suffering Boers by the multitudes he had met, and would always remember the kindness shown him. He intended to make South Africa his home, to be faithful to British allegiance, and to do what he could to better the condition of those whom the war had left helpless and destitute.

C.P.R. Earnings.

Montreal, Nov. 4.—The C.P.R. traffic for week ending Oct. 31 was $1,347,000; for the same week last year $1,210,008; the mileage has been increased to 7,638.

Small Settlers Need Relief.

Melbourne, Nov. 4.—Australia's exports for 1903 will be $25,000,000 less in foodstuffs than last year. A relief fund has been opened to aid small settlers.

The Policeman's Evidence.

Policeman Peter Morris, of Toronto, says that for years he was troubled with habitual constipation, and though he spent much money for medicine was only disappointed with the results. He now recommends Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills to his friends because it cured him of his ailments. You can be cured of constipation by this treatment. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box.

MORE THAN SELF-SUSTAINING.

Postmaster-General's Address to the Mulock Club of Toronto—Sir William the Author of an Historic Surplus —A Gratifying Announcement of a Foretold Fact—The Question of Labor and Capital.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—When Parliament next meets Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-General, will report that his department for the first time in the history of Canada is self-sustaining. Sir William apprised the members of the Mulock Club of this fact in the course of an address before them in St. George's Hall last night.

Sir William, after reviewing the history of the present administration, went into figures to show what increase had been made during the past six years in railway mileage and postal accommodation, and, in the course of his remarks, said:

"In 1898, when applying for a reduction in postage, I prophesied a loss for the first year or two, but after that there would be a gain. During that time I have been the object of many criticisms. Sir Charles Tupper said I was guilty of wanton cruelty in making a reduction which would cause a deficit that would have to be made up by the farmers of the country. And now, to-night, gentlemen, I propose to give them an answer.

"Compare our financial results with those of 1896, when those financial geniuses of government were in command. In that year they had to ask the Government for $781,000 to pay the deficit of that year. When Parliament next meets I shall not have to ask for that amount, nor half of it, but, instead, I shall say to the representatives of the people in Parliament: Gentlemen, for the first time in the history of Canada, instead of having to report a deficit and asking Parliament to pay it, I will be glad to tell you that the Postoffice Department is on a self-sustaining basis We have a surplus, not very large, true, but a surplus of $5,000. (Applause.) Now, sir, is there any man here in this room who says I was not warranted in my policy? Never again will the Tory party ever attack the Governement for reducing the postage." (Applause.)

Sir William then spoke upon the question of labor. He stated that recent events in Pennsylvania had done much to make clearer the relations that exist between labor on the one hand and capital on the other.

Great as was the loss incident to that coal strike, it would not be without its good service in bringing out in bold relief the significance of at least some phases of the labor problem. One phase was harmonious relations between employer and employe, and the other the importance of the preservation of those harmonious relations. Not until all the awakening influences of that strike manifest themselves did public opinion arise and demand that there should be a settlement of the trouble. Why was not such a demand made before? Why was there any strike at all? Did violence settle anything? No, it was the public demand that did it.

In matters of strikes, the question came in as to whether the public should not have a say in the operation of any public franchises being stopped. His opinion was that the public had. (Applause.)

He would urge them to study the question, so that when Parliament next met they would have an idea of what general opinion was on the subject. They had asked opinions, but he regretted to say that, while they received many criticisms of the present labor law as it stood, yet they did not receive any suggestions of a constructive character. Just how far the Government should go in the way of enacting legislation preventing the close of any public franchise, especially any interfering with chise, especially any interfering Rith the supply of the necessities of life to the public was certainly a matter for the public to consider. In the case of a dispute he believed the parties should be called upon to arbitrate, and, failing a settlement, then the Government should be empowered to appoint an impartial Board of Arbitrators, whose decision would have to be accepted.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone Inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE

Symptoms of a Very Common Trouble?

There is no disease so common in the United States as Catarrh, because it appears in so many forms and attacks so many different organs.

It is a common mistake to suppose that catarrh is confined to the nose and throat. Any inflammation of the mucous membrane, wherever located accompanied by abnormal secretions, is catarrh. Catarrh of the stomach or bladder, or intestines, is nearly as common as nasal catarrh, and much more serious, although it is true that stomach catarrh and catarrh of other internal organs is the result of neglected nasal catarrh.

A new remedy has recently appeared, which, so far as tested, seems to be remarkably effective in promptly curing catarrh, wherever located. The preparation is sold by druggists generally under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and in addition to being very palatable and convenient, possesses extraordinary merit, in many cases giving immediate relief from the coughing, hawking and constant clearing of the throat and head those symptoms with which everyone is familiar who has ever suffered from colds in the head and throat.

Catarrh is simply a continuation of these symptoms until the trouble becomes chronic and grows gradually worse from year to year.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are composed of Hydrastin, Red Gum, and similar antiseptics and catarrh specifics, from which it will be seen that no secret is made of the ingredients and also that no mineral poisons are used, as is the case with many well-known catarrh medicines.

For catarrh of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, for catarrh of the stomach, intestines or bladder no preparation is so safe and gives such rapid and permanent results as Stuart's Catarrhy Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full sized package. You can use them with assurance that you will not contract the cocaine or morphine habit as the results from this catarrh cure are apparent from the first day's use.

Hit For a Target.

Belleville, Nov. 4. — While some boys of this city were out shooting on the bay shore Saturday afternoon a serious accident happened to a lad named Guryeau, who was setting up a target for a companion to shoot at. The rifle the lads were using went off accidentally, and the bullet struck young Guryeau in the mouth. His head was luckily turned at the time or he would have been killed. As it is, he lost a portion of his lip. Five teeth were shot away and the end of his tongue was badly lacerated. He at once received medical attendance, but will be marked for life.

Burned in His Cabin.

Camp McKinley, B. C., Nov. 4. — The charred body of William Edwards was found yesterday morning in the ashes of his burned cabin on Whisky Hill, and near it the remains of his dog. It appears that Edwards and several others had been on a protracted spree for days. Some of his fellow revelers left him between 6 and 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Later he obtained a bottle of whiskey from the hotel and the last seen of him he was making his way up the hill towards his cabin.

Wireless Preferred to Cable.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 4.—The Dominion Government cable steamer Tyrian left this port yesterday morning to lay a cable from Grosse Isle to Bryan Island, a distance of ten miles, and from Bryan Island to Anticosti, a distance of 110 miles. Government Engineer Keeley, who installed the wireless telegraphy station at Belle Isle, will have charge of laying the cable. He said yesterday that the Dominion Government's wireless station at Belle Isle was working perfectly and the system was so easy of operation that the operators used it in preference to the cable, which also connected the points linked by the Marconi system.

"I expect," said Mr. Keeley, "that all Government stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, thirty-five in number, will soon be equipped with the wireless telegraph system."

TWO MEN SENTENCED.

Latest Scandal in England Hits Those Prominent in Society.

London, Nov. 4.—The excitement Sunday over the reported flight of a peer to the Continent was heightened yesterday by the announcement that a well-known London society man, Bernard Fraser, had been sentenced at the Norwich assizes, to ten years penal servitude. With him was also sentenced Arthur Thorold, the son of a clergyman, connected, as is Fraser, with one of the oldest and proudest families in the United Kingdom. The prisoners were charged with having carried on a regular practice to deprave the morals of youths all over the country. An array of prominent King's counsellors appeared on both sides, but the prisoners pleaded guilty of misdemeanors, apparently with the idea of getting off with light sentences.

Sale of U. S. Lands.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—The annual report of Commissioner of the General Land Office, shows that the public land disposed of by the Government during the year aggregated 19,488,535 acres, an increase of 3,925,739 acres over the previous year.

Hit With Buckshot.

Kingston, Nov. 4.—While Abraham Potter, this city, was out shooting with his brother-in-law, William Connelly of Pittsburg Township, the gun was accidentally discharged, one of the buckshots lodging in his eye and several more in his chest.

Refreshment for the Mind.

How welcome would it often be to many a child of anxiety and toil, to be suddenly transferred from the heat and din of the city, the restlessness and worry of the mart, to the midnight garden or the mountain top! And like refreshment does a high faith, with its infinite prospects ever open to the heart, afford to the worn and weary. No laborious travels are needed for the devout mind, for it carries within it Alpine heights and starlit skies, which it may reach with a moment's thought and feel at once the loneliness of Nature and the magnificence of God.—James Martineau.

This Morning's Runaway.

There was an exciting runaway this morning along Aylmer and Charlotte streets. A hack belonging to Mr. Gibbs was coming from the C.P.R. station to that of the G.T.R. One of the horses was inclined to be restive when they line broke and the animal freed from control at once began to run. In his efforts to reach for the remainder of the line the driver fell between the horses and had a miraculous escape from injury. Meantime the team ran on, turning on Charlotte street at the Queen's Hotel, and only stopped when the hack struck the crossing at the Custom's Office. The crossing was carried away and the front spring of the hack broken, but beyond this little damage was done either to the horses or hack.

Men's Meeting.

Rev. P. K. Dayfoot gave a telling address at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday, his subject being the "Soul History of Saul of Tarsus." While in many ways he outdistanced the most of men, yet he had many elements in his life that appealed to all men. He thought he was very good because of his nationality his legal standing, his righteous life according to his own standard, and his zeal as a worker. The temptation of all men is to pride in their own lives. Yet Saul was really bad because he voted for Stephen's death, persecuted, slaughtered and in every way opposed the gospel. When he saw himself from God's standpoint, he confessed his wrong. This was when he met Christ. Many men tried to solve the problem of their salvation at the wrong time, when the only way was to begin with Christ. Saul found in Christ more than he had lost and so had all men who had come after him. During the meeting Mr. James Browne sang "Saved by Grace" in a most impressive manner. Mr. R. J. Colville, G. T. R. Y.M.C.A., Toronto, will be the speaker on Sunday next on "How are the Mighty Fallen."

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Peterborough Board of Education will meet this evening.

—The brickwork on the new hockey rink has been commenced.

—The report of the Town Council meeting will be found on page 2.

—Court Stanley, A.O.F., hold an "At Home" in their hall on Thursday, Nov. 20th.

—Two railway gates are now completed, even to the painting, and Peterborough is "it."

—The postponed meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Auxiliary will be held on Wednesday at 3.30 p.m.

—The police are investigating some Hallow-E'en depredations that took place in the northwest quarter of the town.

—Mr. Albert Talbot has recovered his shot gun which was lost in Rice Lake at the time Mr. Sam Courrier was drowned.

—Sergt.-Major Brittain's class will meet on Wednesday evening, and not on Tuesday, as intimated in these columns on Saturday.

—Farmers around Bensfort Bridge are shipping their grain to Peterborough via the various steamers. Most of it is going to the Central Milling Company.

—Dr. Johnston had a narrow escape from being run down by the runaway on Aylmer street this morning. It was necessary for him to run his horse to escape.

—Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, today, gave to the Dominion Express Company a cheque for the largest amount the Express Co. have received from any one firm in many months. The amount was for $915.18.

—The runaway this morning might almost be called a "double-header." Horses drawing a load of peas became frightened almost at the same time as those of Mr. Gibbs' and ran up the street almost with them.

—The bridge at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets is again being repaired. Other towns are substituting large permanent cement arch bridges for the wooden ones, with much better satisfaction.

—The Grand Trunk engine, running between Lakefield and Peterborough, received a rather bad smash this morning, which necessitated it being sent to Lindsay for repairs. At the time of the accident the engine was standing on a siding, and was struck on the tender and somewhat damaged, but will soon be on the Lakefield route again.

—The suggestion to do away with the Division Courts at Woodville, Omemee and Bobcaygeon, has not been carried out. A commission, consisting of His Honour Judge Dean, R. Dickie, Inspector of Legal Offices, Toronto; Sheriff McClellan, and Warden Austin, of Victoria, has reported favourably to the present system being continued.

—The Bradburn opera house was crowded to the doors last night to hear "An Exile of Erin," staged by Marks Bros. On the whole the entertainment is well worth the price of admission, and is deserving of patronage. The topical songs are rather clever hits, and are generally heartily received, and generally re-demanded. To-night's play is owned solely by Mr. Marks, and will be presented for the first time in Canada.

—With Indian summer which, it is said, is now here, the young men are a very busy lot. There is the new rink, which, by the way, is coming along famously, that must be watched and kept track of. Then it would be impossible for the trains to run, but for the efforts of the boys, and a hundred and one minor things that require their every care. No wonder it is that the "tired feeling" is so evident on these summer-like days.

ABSORBING PROBLEM

Of the Present Day.

The absorbing problem of to-day is, how to expend one's income so as to attain the best results; that is, get full value for one's money.

It may truthfully be said that this has been, is, and always will be an absorbing problem to those with limited means; but the fact remains that, with the price of living necessities constantly rising one must husband one's resources more carefully than ever before if he would live within his income. In saying that prices are rising, we except one article which has come to occupy a prominent place in the family medicine closet, and that is the specific for piles or hemorrhoids known as Pyramid Pile Cure; this remedy is still sold by druggists at the old prices of fifty cents, and one dollar, and these prices will remain unchanged. Those to whom this preparation has brought relief and a cure after years of suffering do not need to be told of its merits; others are advised that it is the greatest boon ever discovered, to all those afflicted with any form of piles; it is in suppository form, is easily applied, reaches the seat of the complaint, and gives immediate relief and a lasting cure.

The reader may have tried salves, ointments and lotions without benefit, and feeling that his money has been wasted, resolves to suffer on rather than experiment farther. The reason for the failure of these treatments is, that they do not reach the seat of the trouble, and hence do not remove the cause, as does Pyramid Pile Cure. A little book describing piles, their cause and cure, is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and anyone may procure a copy by sending name and address to above firm. As showing the estimation in which this remedy is held by the public it may interest the reader to know that its sales now exceed those of all other pile remedies combined.

THE REFERENDUM CAMPAIGN.

First Rally of the Temperance Party's Organized Forces.

Rev. Dr. Chown Addresses a Largely Attended Meeting—Claims of Prohibition Advanced—Liquor Traffic Denounced.

Last night's meeting at the George street church in connection with the coming referendum, was largely attended, and the remarks of the speaker of the occasion, Rev. Dr. Chown, of Toronto, were given the closest attention by all present.

The chairman of the evening was Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's church, town. After brief opening remarks he called upon Rev. J. A. Wilson to read the report of the meeting held in the afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. parlours for the purpose of forming the Peterborough Prohibitory Union. After this report which can be seen elsewhere in to-day's issue, the chairman introduced Dr. Chown.

In his opening remarks the speaker stated that he was very much encouraged with the outlook in Peterborough. We are passing, he went on to say, through the various steps in connection with prohibition, that all successful reforms have passed through. At first all agitations for reform were carried forward by persons who did not understand the underlying principles; afterwards men of thought discovered its principles were right and beneficial, and progress was made, until the convictions of the people were crystallized into law. We had reached the conclusion that the public has a right to protect itself against the liquor traffic. A great many old cries, that were raised a few years ago, that seemed to stand as giants in our paths, had been slain. There were the cries that prohibition would shut up stopping places; that the price of barley would be reduced. Those giants have all been laid low and now there are other things to be laid low. There was the cry of personal liberty, which is a most unmanly and unchristian cry. A British soldier thought nothing of personal liberty. He considered what was right for the majority of the people, and this was what gives England her greatness. The speaker said Canada should blush that a Christian civilization was disgraced by the scenes that were continually taking place in our police courts, and even on the streets of our towns and cities. And "you can search the province from one side to the other and you will find that those engaged in the liquor traffic, have not a single speaker to advocate their side, because," the speaker said, "they believed their business was too mean to be talked about, and yet they were spending their money to buy men to vote for the continuance of a traffic they would not discuss." We are standing before a great opportunity — an opportunity that did not involve very serious consequences except to a very few people. It was not a question of revenue. Tammany was hated because it makes money out of the vices of the people, and that was what the liquor traffic was doing every day. In this conflict, the question of compensation was not involved to any great extent. The question of license was the only one that was at issue. It was not a political issue. Some people said that the temperance people at the last election put the Liberal party in the hole. "If I were a Liberal," said the speaker, "I would do my utmost to support this act of the Liberal Government, and help the party back to its former strength."

Some people believed in repudiating the referendum. This was a suicidal policy, and would show to the Government that the liquor interests are stronger than those of temperance. We must stand closely together. The leaders of the temperance forces of the province had not divisions in their ranks. The opportunity before us was simply "to clear our skirts of the responsibility of carrying on the evil that is associated with this trade." The opinion of one hotel keeper was, "It's a damnable business but there's money in it." Another said, looking out over his bar, "If there's anything on earth like hell, it's this." Some said, "What is the use; you cannot get a majority?" There was a great deal of use. If the church was thoroughly aroused we could get it, and if we did not put up a strong fight we lost our standing. If we did, the result would be advanced temperance legislature, even if not exactly on the lines of the bill now before us. Some said we were going fast enough; but there was 12 per cent. larger consumption of liquor in our country today than there was twelve years ago. The votes of the past have not resulted in nothing. The present bill was the result of past agitation. The trouble with the Scott Act was that jurisdiction for the enforcement of the law was disputed. You might hury temperance enactment after temperance enactment, but the spirit would march on until we had glorious victory.

WEDDED AT DUNSFORD.

A Cavan Young Man Weds a Fenelon Young Lady.

An interesting event took place at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. J. McCarrell, concession 10, Fenelon Township, on the afternoon of October 29th, when his second daughter, Miss Marietta, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Wilbert McCall.

The bride was attired in a dark blue gown, trimmed with silk and applique, while her sister, Miss M. J. Carrell, who was bridesmaid, wore a suit of dove grey silk and cream lace trimmings.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Albert McCall, while the officiating minister was Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A., pastor of the Methodist church at Dunsford.

After the ceremony the wedding party sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper, and a pleasant evening was spent, in games, music, etc. The newly married couple were the recipients of many wedding presents of a handsome and costly variety. Mr. and Mrs. McCall will reside in Cavan.

Mr. Jonathan Sailsbury Buried Yesterday in His Native Town.

The funeral of Mr. Jonathan Sailsbury, an old and respected citizen of Cobourg, took place yesterday morning at that town upon the arrival of the Grand Trunk train from Toronto. Mr. Sailsbury died in the Toronto General Hospital, on Friday, and a funeral service was held on Sunday night at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Churchill Thompson, 27 Bright street, Rev. M. L. Pearson officiating. Deceased was for many years one of the most prominent business men of Cobourg, and was also connected with the cricket and curling clubs of that town. He was 73 years of age, and was the father of Mr. W. Sailsbury, of town.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss M. Harper, of Norwood, is visiting her brother, Mr. Jos. B. Harper, Stewart street.

Rev. W. L. Armitage of All Saint's was called home this morning owing to the serious illness of his father at Lucknow.

Mr. Allan, formerly solo obo player in the 48th Highlanders' Band, Toronto, has come to reside in Peterborough, and will be a decided acquisition to the 57th Regimental Band.

Mr. W. W. Daly has returned from a combined business and pleasure trip to Winnipeg and Manitoba. It was his first visit to the Patrie Province since 1870, and he was very much surprised at the great evidences of progress he saw. He was like others surprised also at the magnificent crops. Mr. Daly feels so much attracted by the country that he does not regard unfavourably the idea of becoming a resident.

PROHIBITIONISTS ORGANIZED

At a Well Attended Meeting in the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. J. G. Potter is President for the County—Rev. Dr. Chown was Present.

"The Peterborough Town and County Prohibition Union" is the name of an organization that came into existence yesterday afternoon at a meeting of temperance workers which was held in the Y.M.C.A. There was a very good attendance including about twenty ministers from various parts of the county. Rev. Dr. Chown, of Toronto, who was in attendance, gave some valuable assistance in the work of organization.

The chair was occupied by Rev. J. P. Wilson, whilst Rev. J. A. Wilson acted as secretary of the meeting. After devotional exercises the delegates got down to business.

OFFICERS

were elected as follows:

President—Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A.

Vice-Presidents—Rev. Robt. Taylor, Norwood; M. W. Matchett, Ashburnham.

Secretary—S. G. Cowan, Peterborough.

Treasurer—Wm. Faint, Peterborough.

The above officers will act as the Central Committee and will supervise the campaign in the county.

The officers for the various municipalities are as follows:

East Riding.

Belmont—Rev. W. Johnston, Havelock, chairman; Mr. A. C. Denike, secretary, Havelock.

Norwood and Asphodel—Rev. J. F. Somerville, chairman; Rev. Mr. Hawkings, secretary, Norwood.

Chandos, Anstruther, Burleigh and Methuen—Rev. Mr. Reddick, Apsley, chairman; Mr. W. Gallon, Apsley, secretary.

Douro—Wm. Leeson, chairman; G. W. Powell, secretary.

Dummer—Rev. Mr. McQuade, Warsaw, chairman; W. F. Payne, Hall's Glen, secretary.

West Riding.

(Including Ashburnham, and Otonabee Township.)

Otonabee—Rev. D. D. McDonald, Keene, chairman; Dr. Harrison, Keene, secretary.

Ashburnham—Rev. C. L. Thompson, chairman; Geo. Stewart, secretary.

Town of Peterborough—Rev. J. G. Potter, chairman; Rev. J. A. Wilson, secretary.

Ennismore—Mr. A. McGuire, chairman; Jos. Succee, secretary.

Smith—Rev. W. A. Gunton, chairman; Mr. A. Northey, secretary, Selwyn.

North and South Monaghan—Joseph Madill, Frazerville, chairman; Rev. Mr. Drew, Frazerville, secretary.

Harvey—Rev. Dr. Metzler, Selwyn, chairman; David Weir, Lakehurst, secretary.

Lakefield—Mr. Wm. Harper, chairman; Mr. Sherin, Jr., secretary.

The secretary was instructed to notify the chairman and secretary of the various municipalities of their appointment, and ask them to arrange for local meetings and complete organization.

Cavandish and Galway—Left in hands of the Central Executive.

This concluded the business, and the meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Torrance.

A "PIPPIN" OF AN APPLE.

Mr. Martin Leonard, of Ennismore, has left with the Examiner, a specimen of an apple, which the small boy would call a "pippin." It is not, however, a pippin, but a monster member of the sons of Anak among apples, known as the Wolf River. It's circumference is fifteen inches; its weight fourteen ounces. The apple is very productive, three of Mr. Leonard's trees yielding him twelve barrels of general quality similar to the specimen shown. This variety of apple keeps well, and is a first-class cooking apple.

THE BATTLE OF THE CRITICS.

By request the Examiner publishes the severe criticism of the Toronto News, (October 18th) on the book of poems published for Miss McCollum. It is as follows:

"FLOWER LEGENDS AND OTHER POEMS."

This rather pretty little volume is decorated with a frontispiece portrait of its author, who is of Irish descent, and lives in Peterborough. Since she has chosen to bring her personal appearance into publicity, I may say that she seems to be a remarkably pretty woman, with a soulful expression. I have no doubt that she has a tremendous local reputation in Peterborough. It is a pity that she could not have been content with it.

It is an unpleasant thing to have to damn the obviously first book of an obviously amateur poetess—especially when she happens to be a beautiful woman—and I read this one through carefully, hoping to find a single flash of inspiration, or at least a single melodious stanza. But it was no use! There is nothing unpardonably bad in it; there is nothing in any way good. It is simply a dead level of rather clumsy mediocrity, such as might be expected from a rather clever school girl.

There is a certain amount of fancy in the legends of the flowers. The lilies were bells used in the dances of the fairies; the sweet peas were Quaker maidens; dandelions are coins from a miser's hoard—and all this does not strike one as very lofty flights of the imagination. There is one startling conception in the book, however. It is in a poem called "The Kissing Gate," where, as she reminds her lover,

"You waited patiently
The precious toll to take from me."

This seems to have been highly satisfactory, for she goes on to rhapsodize of haven,—

"Has Heaven glowing jasper walls
And golden portals tall?"

She asks, and ends by exclaiming anxiously:

"Tell me there is a kissing gate,
Where you, O love, my love, will wait!"

I should like to find something in the book to praise, but there does not seem to be anything. Neither is there anything especially to be blamed. It is a book about which it is hard to say anything at all. It may, perhaps, be read in Peterborough, but it does not add much to our national literature. We have too much of that sort of thing already.

MR. GARVIN'S REPLY.

Subjoined is the answer by Mr. Garvin, to the above ungentlemanly criticism:

To the Editor of the News Magazine,

"Dear Sir,—Will you do the literary circles of Peterborough the favour of letting them know the name of the ignorant and malicious person who wrote the squib on 'Flower Legends and Other Poems,' which appeared in the News Magazine of to-day?

"A more gifted young poetess than Miss Alma Frances McCollum has not published for years a first volume on Canadian soil. Throughout the book her lines are characterized by original conception, delightful fancy, melodious measure and pure, expressive diction; and it is most regrettable that one so highly gifted, whose poems will cheer and bless the lives of thousands, should be so brutally attacked.

"If there is one characteristic more than another of Miss McCollum's poetry that charms the reader it is the rippling melody of most of the lines. Let me give a few illustrations:

Pearly bells, pearly bells, tinkle a melody,
Tell to the moonbeams as pure as yourselves;
Murmur it merrily, tell of the revelry,
Sing of the days of the fairies and elves.
(From the Legend of the Valley Lilies.)

As light-winged dancing butterflies
O'er flowers seek where honey lies,
So float her fingers o'er the keys
In search of sweetest melodies.
(From "Her Fingers White.")

When you wander alone through the forest,
And list to its murmuring song,
If your heart is attuned to the music
The words will come floating along.

I have listened so oft to the singing,
That when it is plaintive and low
I can hear through the melody's sobbing
A love tale of long, long ago;

"Senemoosha! Omemee! Omemee!"
The waterfalls purl as they flow;
And the echo sighs softly, "Omemee!"
The sweetheart, the maiden of woe.
(From a "Song of the Forest.")

"You, who so loved low laughter's trill,
And kindred souls' sweet company,
I feel such dear delights are still
Where you may be."
(From "Evangeline.")

"A picture of a scene so fair have I—
The grasses seem to wave in restful glee,
A cottage nestles 'neath a maple tree,
A little pebbled brook is rippling by,
And distant, dimmed by twilight shadows still,
Uplifts in gentle slope a lofty hill."
(From "Beyond the Hill.")

"These are but a few out of the hundreds of such stanzas which delight the ear of anyone who has a soul for rippling rhythm, and yet we are told by your squibbler that he could not find a single melodious stanza. He is the sort of a fellow who would revel in the sound of a discordant brass band.

"As for the 'Kissing Girl,' so offensively criticized, it is one of the most exquisite love songs in the language; and low indeed in imagination and tendency must be the person who can vulgarly ridicule it.

"Poor, benighted Peterborough! Let quote: 'I have no doubt that she has a tremendous local reputation in Peterborough.' Strange, is it not, that such a community should have given Canada one of her greatest poets—probably, the greatest—Isabella Valancy Crawford.

"Let me quote again: 'It will perhaps be read in Peterborough.' Yes, and it will not be long before the product of Miss Alma Frances McCollum's genius shall be read throughout all Canada and beyond. Like Burns, Moore, Wordsworth, Longfellow, and Tennyson, she knows how to reach the great pulsing human heart. She sings for the many, and not to entertain the disgruntled few whose brains have never been illumined by even a spark of genius.

"Yours truly,
"JOHN WILLIAM GARVIN."

THE ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

Full Attendance at Last Night's Meeting.

Brief Account of the Business Transacted in Their Council Chambers.

The Ashburnham Council met last evening with Reeve Smith in the chair, and the following members present: Councillors Adams, Pollock, Johnston and Sheridan.

ACCOUNTS.

A number of accounts were presented as follows:

Light and Power Co.	$ 60
Examiner Printing Co.	8 30
Charity	7 50
Dickson Co.	172 55
House of Providence	12 50
W. Higgins	2 90
Pay sheet No. 21	30 00
Pay sheet No. 22	32 50
	$266 65

The accounts were on motion ordered to be paid.

Owing to the approach of winter, the clerk was instructed, on motion of Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Sheridan, to advertise for tenders for clearing the streets of snow; tenders to be open until Nov. 17th.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Reeve read several communications which had been received:

From the Ultameter Company, asking for exemption from taxes until Dec. 31, 1903.—Laid over until the next meeting of the council.

An old lady near the school complained of the annoyance caused her by the scholars, and also asked for payment for several windows which had been broken by the boys. It was decided that the headmaster be instructed to look into the matter, and endeavour to stop the nuisance.

The Sister in charge of the House of Providence asked that the wood usually allowed to Mrs. McAuliffe, be sent to the House of Providence. After some discussion this was laid over until the next council meeting.

Mr. Sheridan read an application from Mr. Wheeler for a store in the town building, offering to lease it for five years. His request was granted, and the treasurer authorized to give the present tenant a month's notice.

The Reeve gave a short account of the meeting in reference to the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance, but as the ambulance will not be ready till next spring nothing definite was done.

Reeve Smith read a copy of a notification to be sent to R. B. Rogers to the effect that the dredge was working in dangerous proximity to the water main crossing the river, and that the village would hold him responsible for any delay or interruption of the water supply.

THE SIFTON TRIAL.

Gerald Sifton Again Arraigned at London For the Murder of His Father—Court Grants Crown's Request.

London, Nov. 4.—In the presence of a large crowd Gerald Sifton yesterday afternoon began his third fight for life. Many women were present, and the greatest interest was manifested in the man charged with deliberately beating his father to death in order to secure his small fortune. Judge Britton showed a disposition to hurry the case, and a jury was secured after 33 men had been called. Much progress was was made in spite of the fact that an adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock. The following are the jurymen: J. E. Thomas, Dougald Gillies, F. A. Ryan, Henry Rismele, W. J. Howlett, David Wood, George I. Stephenson, Robert Patterson, William Sutherland, Andrew Gardiner, William Ellwood, S. K. McRae.

This is a special term called for the purpose of disposing of this case.

The first mild clash came the moment the jury was sworn. The Crown representations desired to have an adjournment for the purpose of permitting the jury to visit the scene of the tragedy. The defense opposed the suggestions on the ground that the scene had changed much in two years and would not present the appearance that it did the day of the accident or murder. The court ordered the trial to proceed, and he would decide the motion later.

R. C. Clute, K.C., opened the case for the Crown. He reviewed the facts briefly and maintained that the Crown could establish a case of murder—a crime based upon Gerald Sifton's fear that his father was about to marry Mary McFarland, his servant, who would inherit the elder Sifton's property instead of Gerald. He went over the horrible details touching the sickening tragedy in which the old farmer lost his life, and concluded by explaining that the case was one both of circumstantial evidence and confession of one of the murderers.

The defence made no statement outlining the case.

Architect McBride, who drew plans of the scene of the murder, identified same. He was on the stand two hours explaining the dimensions of the barn in which Joseph Sifton met his death.

The trial previously required ten days. This time it is expected to consume seven days, or less.

The Crown has subpoenaed 51 witnesses, and the defence half as many The two previous trials cost this County $10,000 each. The present hearing will add another $10,000 to the bill.

The jury will visit the scene of the crime the first thing this morning.

AN AWFUL MISTAKE.

Physician Prescribes Nuxvomica for a Kingston Lady With the Result That She is Paralyzed.

A Thrilling Experience Resulting From a Doctor's Blunder—Fortunately She Recovered and Tells the Story of the Whole Incident.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—That Mrs. E. Lake, of 112 Clarence street, this city, is alive to-day, is a matter for wonder. She says:

"My sickness was brought about by overdose of Strychnine prescribed by a physician. It brought on Paralysis affecting my left side, brain, arm and limbs.

"I was perfectly helpless and it was impossible for me to raise my left limb or open my fingers. I got no sleep and often when I closed my eyes remained open. I had not the power to close my eyelids.

"I suffered almost continually with headache.

"My brain felt as though it was too large for the skull. My appetite failed and I became very emaciated, indeed, I was nothing but skin and bones.

"I was three years under treatment, many physicians having me under their care, but without avail. At last I became discouraged and gave up all treatment.

"While reading a paper one day I noticed a testimony of one who was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My sister procured me a box of the pills and I started on three pills three times a day. I soon began to experience a change for the better which continued until I regained the use of my arm, hand and limb. My headache also ceased and my appetite returned.

"From this I soon picked up flesh and strength until I was as well as ever.

"I thank God and Dodd's Kidney Pills for my health for by prayer and this wonderful remedy, I was cured and have remained in good health ever since, although this was over five years ago."

London, Nov. 4.—The auxiliary screw steamer Scotia left the Clyde yesterday for the Antarctic regions, with a number of members of the Scottish National Antarctic Association, under the leadership of William S. Bruce, of Edinburgh, on board.

A Sure Cure for Constipation.

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentry, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—There were about 500 head of butchers' cattle, 30 calves and 2000 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The butchers were out strong, and there was an improved demand and higher prices paid for anything moderately good in the beef line. A few of the better kinds sold at from 4c to a little over 4¼c per lb., but none of them were of extra quality. Medium beasts sold at from 3¼c to 4c, and the common stock at from 2c to 3c per lb., while the canners paid from 1½c to 2c per lb. for small bulls and lean cattle generally. Calves sold at from $2.50 to $8 each, or from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2½c to 3½c, and lambs at from 3½c to 4c per lb.; only one picked lot of 20 brought the latter price. Fat hogs sold at from 5½c to 6c per lb., weighed off the cars.

RAVING.

(With apologies.)

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I shivered cold and weary,
Under blankets insufficient for the cold the north wind bore;
While for summer breezes sighing, suddenly there came a prying,
As of someone gently trying, trying at my coal-bin door,
After coal, and nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember, it was in the bleak December,
And since early in November not a pound had I in store;
Eagerly I tried each morrow, and as vainly sought to borrow
Coal enough to sooth my sorrow—tried to borrow o'er and o'er
Half a scuttle, nothing more.

Presently the sound grew stronger, and with sleep I strove no longer;
Glaring round my room I noticed, just above my chamber door,
Hung a calendar of fuel, and with printed words how cruel,
"Coal and wood," it muttered o'er, as 't hung above my door,
Coal and wood of '94.

"Prophet," said I, "tell me truly, will this strike be settled duly;
Will the furnace o'er be going and your prices cease to soar?
When it comes in by the car lot, via Buffalo and Charlotte,
Tell me what will be your lowest, tell me truly, I implore."
"We shall quote at 24."

"Be that price our sign of parting, Calendar," I shrieked, upstarting.
And with freezing hands I tore it from its place above my door.
As the moonlight full was streaming through my window, I'd been dreaming,
Only this, and nothing more.

The Story of Morning Tiredness.

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you a sharp appetite, promote good digestion and sound sleep; it feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigour, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. Price 50c per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

Tailor's Laugh on Lord Kitchener.

Lord Kitchener does not often make mistakes, but he did perpetrate a ludicrous blunder shortly after General Dewet had fallen like an avalanche on Lord Roberts' communications. Lord Kitchener was down the line hastily fitting out mounted infantry columns. A large number of details had been gathered at Vredefort road station. Kitchener determined to equip them and send them into the field at once. He went to the waiting-room to look for officers and found there a man who was smart and well dressed and who pleased his lordship's critical eye. "You will command a corps of mounted infantry I have just raised," said the general. "Very good, sir. What will my duties be?" "Don't you know your duties?" "My own, yes sir." "Then don't argue. What is your regiment?" "Blankshires, sir." "What rank?" "Master tailor, sir." Lord Kitchener immediately had business elsewhere.

Sultan Settles With Britain.

Constantinople, Nov. 3.—The negotiations between Great Britain and Turkey with regard to the encroachments of Turkish troops on the Hinterland of Aden have resulted in a satisfactory settlement of the matter. The Porte has modified its note to Great Britain, and has ordered the evacuation of the Hinterland, which was formerly occupied by British troops.

Eczema and Itching Skin

Defied Many Expensive Remedies but Were Thoroughly Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is a mistake to judge Dr. Chase's Ointment by the results obtained from the use of ordinary salves and ointments. It is not to be compared with any preparation on the market to-day.

Some of these remedies give temporary relief but they do not strike deep enough to eradicate disease. You need not be alarmed if Dr. Chase's Ointment causes a little irritation at first; this is necessary in order to root out the disease. When the cure is brought about the skin will be left smooth and clear, without scar and blemish.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

"My little girl, two years old, has also been cured of Eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we hand to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to us."

Miss Levina Diotte, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I suffered with eczema for over a year and a half and tried all the remedies I could hear of, some of them costing considerable money, and not doing me any good. I was enduring great torture when I read an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and resolved to give it a trial.

"I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has completely cured me. Though I do not need it any more I keep a box in the house in case of emergency. I hope that people who suffer as I did may read this testimonial and for this reason you have my permission to publish it. It is only just that such a good remedy for eczema and itching skin should be made known to those who suffer."

TOM DAWSON, Private Secretary

By W. H. DURHAM

Copyright, 1901, by W. H. Durham

Thomas Dawson was private secretary to the head of a downtown wholesale house. Old Jackson used to say that the house could not get along without Dawson, yet that personage had been in the employ of the firm only a short year, was but twenty-four years old and knew nothing of the business when he entered. But he had been a reporter and a good one. That means, as everybody knows, that he knew a little of everything in the world and a great deal more. So when he applied for a position with one of the most unique letters old Jackson had ever received the old man, after struggling through a wilderness of bad writing, broke into a hearty laugh and sent for him.

"You think you can fill the position that is open, do you?" growled old Jackson at Dawson when that young gentleman appeared. "Do you know that this is a most confidential place and that, while knowledge of the business and lines we handle is not absolutely necessary, yet to a man of not more than average intellect who is inexperienced the position is impossible?"

"Why, of course I can hold it. Do you suppose I would come snooping around here if I didn't think you needed me?"

Jackson had been so used to having men quail before him, especially when seeking a position, that this breezy answer floored him. But he liked it.

"Well, young man, I will just give you ten minutes' trial."

It was nearly noon when Dawson had presented himself, and he now said:

"Very well. I will spend the ten minutes getting lunch and then return."

He was gone before the old man could stop him. He left the door open as he went out, a trick for which a man had been fired only the day before. Old Jackson seemed to shrink into himself until he was almost sitting on his back, staring out the open door at the stalwart back of his new secretary as it went down the long aisle and out the front door.

"Bang!" went the old man's fist on the bell. A huge negro, dressed like a comic valentine, sprang into the office.

"Dolefulness," roared the old man, "did you see that young fellow go out?"

"Yes, sah; I saw him," said the black.

"Well, when that fellow comes back kill him."

Dolefulness disappeared as rapidly as he had come, and the old gentleman went out to lunch. When he returned, Dawson was seated at a desk looking over the mail which had just arrived.

"What the dev— Where's that Dolefulness?"

"Who—the nigger?" said Dawson, continuing to sort the mail. "He's in the closet."

With a bang the door of the coat-room in the old man's private office hit the wall. Dolefulness, bound and gagged, tumbled on the floor.

"Well!" gasped Jackson, sinking into a chair and mopping his forehead. It was 10 degrees below zero outside, and he had been kicking at the firemen all day. "What does this mean?"

"Oh, nothing," said Dawson. "The nigger got kinder gay when I came from lunch, and I just put him on ice. Shall I release him?"

"Dolefulness," Jackson thundered when the negro got on his feet, "what does this mean? Didn't I tell you to kill this man if he came back again?"

"Yes, sah, yo' did, but he seed me fust just as I was goin' to hit him wid my billy."

"What did he do?"

"Jest grabbed me by de collah; he held me wid one hand and tied me wid the odder."

"Stand up," to Dawson. He saw that the negro was a foot and a half higher than his private secretary. "That'll do, Dolefulness. You may go."

"Now, sir," said Dawson, "if you will be so kind as to give me a word or two of advice I will proceed with business. I have stacked the letters marked personal on your desk and sent the others to the heads of the various departments. Is that right?"

"Say, you—you, who's boss here, you or me? How did you know who the heads of departments were?"

"That's easy. I noticed the names of them, together with their departments, emblazoned in box car letters on the doors of their offices in the hall."

"Do you mean to tell me that you have only passed down this aisle three times and know all the heads of departments by name?"

"Certainly. What else are my eyes for?"

Jackson didn't answer. He looked at his new employee a moment, took his seat and began to open his mail. Dawson picked up a paper and began to read. Directly he said:

"By the way, Thomas."

"Yes, sir," said the new secretary.

"I wish you would go and tell Miss Agnew, the stenographer I always have, to come here. You may spend the time looking over the store. Come back in an hour."

Dawson looked the store over from top to bottom in that hour. He introduced himself to every man in the place and brought a smile to the face of each. A thinly veiled compliment here, a well told bit of his newspaper experience there, made every man his friend.

When he reached the office, Mr. Jackson was gone, but on Dawson's desk reposed a note.

"Well," he said, "I guess it's up to me. I supposed from the way the old man acted that he was going to keep me, but he concluded that he could write better than he talked after all, and here is where—wow!"

Dawson had opened the envelope, and the last exclamation was caused by the following:

Mr. Dawson—You have intruded yourself into this office and shoved my nigger ("put that n-i-g-g-e-r," Mr. Jackson had said to the stenographer) into the closet. You have also made yourself familiar without any warrant or direction with my whole store. You are retained at a salary, to begin with, of $5,000 per year.

EBEN JACKSON.

All this had happened a year ago. Now the old man was furious. He arrived at the store fifteen minutes early and cursed every man in the place black and blue.

Dawson's first duty in the morning consisted of sorting and opening the mail, and he had so arranged matters with the postman as to meet him at the door, taking the mail to his desk himself. That caused him to be ready for business as soon as there was anything doing. He followed his plan this morning.

"Good morning, Mr. Jackson!" he said cheerily as he took his seat. "This is certainly a fine day."

There came a gurgle from the old man's throat, not unlike a column of water through a pipe too small. "For funerals," he at last managed to say.

Dawson was used to this and continued to sort the mail. Finally he took the personal ones across the room and laid them on Mr. Jackson's desk.

"Thomas," the boss said, "take a seat. I want to hold a heart to heart conversation with you."

"Here's where I get it," sighed the boy.

"My daughter"—Dawson started—"has told me that you have proposed marriage to her and that she has accepted you. Is that true?"

"I never dispute the word of a woman, sir."

Mr. Jackson had been holding in pretty well, but this was too much.

"Do you mean to tell me that you have dared"— Thus far he got and choked. Sput, sput, sputter came from his throat until Dawson said:

"Par-don me, sir, but some day that fit will kill you."

The proprietor of millions sank in his chair before this beardless boy.

"I want you to go, sir! This instant you leave my employ! Go!"

"Certainly, sir," was the reply. "But before I go"—here he reached behind his desk and produced the same rope with which he had tied Dolefulness—"just a minute."

He grasped Mr. Jackson by the collar, swiftly bound his hands, thrust a handkerchief into his mouth and anchored it with one abstracted from Mr. Jackson's pocket, thrust him into the closet which had proved so useful before, locked the door, and Mr. Jackson heard him whistle.

It was only an hour that the boss had to stay in his cooped up jail, but it seemed a year. He suddenly heard the whistle again and was ready to get down on his knees to his unruly employee when the door suddenly opened. He happened to be straining upon it at the time and as a consequence fell headlong into the room. He was quickly released by Dawson.

"That's all right, my boy," faltered the employer. "I won't fire you again—not until I get a corps of policemen."

"That's all right, sir. If you desire that I go now, I will do so; only"—and he poked his head out of the office door and brought in the girl who was at the bottom of the trouble—"allow me to introduce my wife."

The old man was too full for utterance. Finally he reached out and grasped them by the hand. Pulling one on each knee, he began to pat them on the back, while a smile of contentment stole over his face.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

Well Preserved

Women often astonish new acquaintances, who are introduced to a large family of strong boys and healthy girls, who call this young looking woman mother. It is popularly supposed that maternity is the foe of beauty, and the worn and faded face of many a mother seems to warrant the belief. But it is hard to believe that nature should compel a woman to sacrifice the rightful dower of her beauty in order to carry out a natural function of her being. And nature does not. The pains and sufferings incident to motherhood are, to a large extent, unnatural. This is proved by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which prevents and cures nausea, tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, induces refreshing sleep, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born in regard to what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I am now. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 lbs., and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any uterine trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

Females of All Ages

VELVET SETS THE PACE.

A Glimpse Through Fashion's Rich Fields For the Current Season.

Richness, both of color and material, marks the new fall fabrics. Velvets will set the pace. Velvets plain and fancy, velvets with metal printed effects, velvets with a dark pattern against a silvery background, velvets all powdered over with glittering pin points—these will be among the novelties. She who does not have a velvet gown will at least have velvet somewhere in her gown. The plainest coat will have a touch of velvet somewhere, while elaborate outer garments will be richly trimmed with velvet or panne overlaid with some of the elegant embroideries of which the season is so prolific. On trimmings or materials of lace, chiffon or crepe de chine will be seen geometrical designs of panne velvet.

Certain new French silks in plaids and stripes will be among the novelties. These silks show many novel and attractive ideas in weave and finish. They are moire and floconne, effects exceedingly pretty for fancy waists or for house gowns. Taffetas in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shade, will be worn even more than they have at any time during the last ten years.

Ribbons are to be used profusely. Underwear is to be trimmed with them more than ever. Smart bows and made ribbon lacings will be seen on low shoes. Millinery will consume quantities of ribbons, and they are coming in attractive novelties for this purpose. Long haired sibeline ribbons are among the latter.

All kinds of things are going to be appliqued upon other things—on the gown or on other trimmings.

For evening wear all over draperies of mousseline, metal trimmed, promise popularity. Some of these all overs in white are embroidered in pink, ciel or other light shades, the designs being hung with tiny metal spangles.

Birds are creeping downward from the head. Rows of small ones adorn some of the new dress boas. Red is an exceedingly prominent color in dress goods in Paris just now, but it is doubtful if it will ever be generally worn in New York. American women have never taken to it in any great numbers.

NEW FELT HATS.

Camel's hair materials, woven in ribbed effects or with white hairs on colored grounds, will be strong on the dress goods counter. Scotch checks are good, and materials with a slightly roughened face, resembling crepe de chine, will be in vogue. Clan plaids will be used for utility skirts.

Lightweight broadcloths are seen in such colors as light, beige, pearl gray, putty cream and ivory white. For petticoats to be worn under these broadcloth skirts, as well as under those of velling, shot taffetas in pastel shades will be needed. Moires and taffetas, with plaids for waists and trimmings, will be the silks of the season.

The New York Tribune, which presents the foregoing very practical summary of styles, also illustrates some hats—"sporting hats" by courtesy, but generally useful also. They come in a variety of colors.

The Leading Specialists of America. 25 Years in Detroit. Bank Security.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. We treat and cure: Varicocele, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Gleet, Emissions, Urinary Drains, Spermatorrhoea, Unnatural Discharges, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

them on account of small rinks, etc. They should be grateful for what they have learned in the Trent Valley League, and should that organization be merged into the O.H.A. this district could remain as it was, excepting that it would be under the control of the O.H.A. There is no reason why a satisfactory arrangement could be figured out. It would be beneficial to hockey at large, if the amalgamation could be effected and whilst it must not be inferred that the Trent Valley management is anxious to sell itself to the highest bidder, still, there is reason to believe that the O.H.A. will realize the advantage to be derived from having a sound phalanx from the Trent Valley District and will come forward with some reasonable proposal. Meanwhile the Trent Valley League will proceed with its annual meeting which will be held in the course of a few weeks.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club will be be held in the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 o'clock this evening. It is requested that there should be a full attendance at the meeting as arrangements will be made for the annual dance, and the finances of the Club will be considered.

The Ottawa Journal concerning the game in that city on Saturday says: "As a curtain raiser to the senior game, the strong Peterborough fifteen met the Rough Rider Intermediates in a championship O.R.F.U. affair. The local boys faced the issue with a disadvantage on the round of 28 points, and as many predicted it was too much to overcome. In fact as the game proved, the boys did well in getting a draw with a team whom many consider strong enough for senior company. The visitors were strong in every department, and in Burnham and McPherson they have a brace of half-backs fast enough for any society. The local team was considerably strengthened with the additions of Sandy Cameron, Dr. Sanderson, Lamothe, McCuaig and Hayden. Their scrimmage proved a tough proposition for Peterborough, and the wings held their checks better. As a consequence Nolan was enabled to get the ball out to the half-backs, who demonstrated that they know what to do with it when they got it. Captain Baskerville, Roberts and Rankin did great work, their frequent combination dashes being features of the game. Hayden played at full-back until Ralph was obliged to quit, when he went up in the line, McLaren taking his place. Cameron, Morgan and Sanderson formed a great scrimmage that always got the elusive out clean and fast. Nolan at quarter played an aggressive game and bucked the line frequently for gains. His passing to the halves was sure and accurate. On the line Lamothe, Fagan, McCuaig and Hayden were most prominent, breaking through frequently, following up fast, and seldom failing to bring down their man.

"It is behind the line that Peterborough looms up with the brilliancy that many senior teams possess. Lee is fast and reliable at full-back, while on the half-line Burnham and McPherson are stars. The former in particular handles himself well, his long passes to his outside halves being very much after Eddie Gleeson's style. He punts well and with good judgment. Bell at quarter is a good one and should be ready for a first team next year. The forwards are good and strong and render valuable assistance to their backs.

"The game bubbled over with fast work and was a much better demonstration of Rugby than many senior matches seen in this city this season. The backs of both teams had plenty of work to do and generally did it well. No scoring was done in the first half, and the play was even all the time. Ottawa had the better of the argument upon exchanging ends and had it not been for a very unfortunate muff of Roberts, Peterborough would not have scored. It was certainly a great piece of luck for the visitors, who became so excited at the sudden turn of affairs that they failed to come to for several minutes and at the call of time the ball had been scrimmaged in their territory for some time."

THE LATEST NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT.

The Position of the Trent Valley Hockey League—Ottawa Journal's View of Saturday's Game—Rugby Executive to Meet.

As the activity in hockey circles continues, those who take an interest in the game in and about Peterborough, may be anxious to know what the policy of the Trent Valley League will be this winter regarding the promotion of hockey in the Trent Valley district. This league has been in existance for upwards of four years. Its management has been centralized pretty much in Peterborough and it has done much to accomplish its original intention, namely.—the promotion of hockey in the small towns and villages in this district, which for various reasons preferred, and in some instances were obliged to stay out of the O.H.A. The reasons for their deciding on this course was due to no particular ill feeling towards the premier organization, but the expense incurred in being affiliated with the O.H.A., had a dampening effect upon the hockey enthusiasm in some towns, while the rink specifications left no alternative with others. In some of these places there was excellent material for hockey teams and the promoters of the league felt that this material should not remain unmatured, but that by the grouping together of such teams, at small expense to the various clubs, the drawing up of a simple schedule, and the freedom from such cast iron rules as are set forth in the constitution of the O.H.A. might tend to cultivate a healthy hockey spirit and if not train up these burley teams bodily, for O.H.A. membership and O.H.A. honours, it would at least develop individual players in each club who might be called into service at any time in the wider sphere of hockey.

That the league has been at least partially successful in this line, can scarcely be denied for those who have seen Fenelon Falls, Norwood, Lindsay, Campbellford and other teams fight out the schedule must admit that they are eligible for O.H.A. company. There has been a feeling amongst some of these clubs of late that they have passed the nursery stage and their blood has fairboiled for a chance to try their strength against some of the best O.H.A. intermediate sevens. It was not surprising then, when the Fenelon Falls team, the champions of the T.V.L., for the past two years, threw down the gauntlet to the Peterborough seniors, last year's champions of the O.H.A. intermediate series. Owing to the lateness of the season the game was not pulled off.

It must be conceded, then, that the existence of the Trent Valley League has been beneficial to hockey in this district, although it has in certain quarters, not very far off, had an up hill fight. Taking it for granted that Fenelon Falls, Campbellford, Norwood, Lakefield, Keene and the other centres have teams which could hold their own in the O.H.A. junior and in some instances intermediate series, it seems useless to continue the league if a satisfactory arrangement could be arrived at whereby the smaller might be merged into the larger organization. The O.H.A. should make some reasonable offer. The Trent Valley League should not be picked to pieces and the best of the clubs selected whilst the weaker ones might be left to perish by the wayside. Every club in the T.V.L. should be individualy considered and an adjustment arrived at which would be thoroughly satisfactory to all concerned. The best teams in the T.V.L. which have attained their present strength through a succession of engagements with the weaker teams should not jump to the premier organization without considering the position their old associates would be left in should the O.H.A. refuse to countenance

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD.

The Lot Cleared at 11 1-16c by Buyers Flavelle and Fitzgerald.

(Lindsay Post.)

The last meeting of the Victoria Cheese Board for 1902 was held yesterday in the council chamber. There were present fifteen salesmen, representing the same number of factories, and Buyers Flavelle and Fitzgerald.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese set opposite :

Star	120
Cameron	125
Dunsford	130
Mariposa	160
Janetville	48
Omemee	130
North Verulam	115
North Ops	69
Reaboro	93
Bobcaygeon	155
Maple Leaf	90
Palestine	60
Red Rock	135
	1420

After some little discussion as to prices, Mr. Flavelle said: — "I am wanting some cheese to-day, so will go 11 1-16, and will take Cameron, North Verulam, Bobcaygeon, Mariposa, Palestine, Janetville and Red Rock."

The offer was accepted by the above factories, and Mr. Fitzgerald secured the remaining ones at the same price.

On motion of Mr. Flavelle it was decided that the annual meeting be held the first Monday in February.

The meeting then adjourned.
